THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1935

Shelby County Democrat

"THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY"

Single Copy Five Cents

Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

LUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1935 — NUMBER THIRTY-EIGHT

Get Perfect Quilt With This Design

BOY SCOUTS

By WILLIE THOMASON, Editor, Siluria, Ala.

WHAT IS PATROL SPIRIT?

Patrol Spirit is not a thing you will find defined and analyzed in dictionaries and encyclopedias. It is not a thing that can be confined to the pages of a book. Patrol Spirit is a little like personality, something to be felt rather than defined; you recognize it when you meet it; you know when it is present; you miss it when it isn't there—but, you cannot easily tell in words what is is.

Patrol Spirit is what makes a Scout say to himself just before the fire making contest at the Council Rally, "I've simply got to win", the Patrol will be terribly disappointed if I don't."

It is what a Scout says to another boy, "Sorry, but I can't go to the movies with you tonight, it's Patrol Meeting Night."

When two scouts get their heads together to think out some way by which Bill, who hasn't much spending money, can earn his Camp Fee so that the patrol can go to camp full force, it is Patrol Spirit operating.

A Patrol leader turns to his Scout Master, who has asked for volunteers for a good turn and says: "I can promise for my fellows. I know they will be glad to help". There is a Patrol Spirit that can be depended on to meet the demand.

It is Patrol Spirit that puts enthusiasm and pep into whatever the patrol undertakes, whether it is building a totem pole, passing tests, or guarding a street crossing. It is what puts fun and interest into patrol meetings, real meaning into a patrol camp fire, loyalty and good comradeship into all patrol relationships.

It is Patrol Spirit that makes it seem more than worth while for its members to sacrifice their own comfort or wishes if need be for the good of the whole, that keeps out personal bickerings and jealousy, that makes every fellow feel the fineness and realness of standing together through thick and thin, rain or shine.

Patrol Spirit is a living thing. It goes on when you have, in years to come, forgotten the particular hikes and camps and tests and competitions and good turns—the ups and downs of Patrol life which seems so important now to all of you. You will remember the spirit of it all, how wonderful a thing it was to be together as a Patrol. It should mean most of all to you as a leader, because yuo had most to do with creating that inforgettable thing—Patrol Spirit.

UNCLE SAM SPENDS 3 BILLION DOLLARS FOR RELIEF IN 1934

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Uncle Sam looked back Monday on a 12-month period in which some $3 000,000,000 was poured out in the drive to aid the distressed by providing cash, goods or jobs.

About one out of every seven persons in the country looked to government for support in whole or in part. This did not count benefits paid to farmers.

A huge item in the expenditure was for relief. Federal emergency Relief administration figures show that in 1934's first nine months, $972,505,173 was spent, of which 69.5 per cent was contributed by the federal government. States and local governments put up 14 per cent and 16 per cent respectively. The year's total, assuming the December relief load to require no more than the $175,789,742 for November, was estimated at about $1,480,000,000.

The cost for the year of the Civilian Conservation Corps was set at $360,000,000. Some two billion dollars has been poured out on public works and civil works construction projects since they were started in 1933. Civil works, discontinued March 31, cost $814,000,000. Two-thirds of its life was during 1934.

Public works has laid out $1,250,000,000 on construction projects besides allocating money not yet spent and paying expenses of NRA and some other emergency agencies. During the height of its activity last Summer it estimated 2,000,000 persons had employment directly or indirectly from PWA projects. The greatest part of its "pump-priming drive" was exerted during 1934. Few projects got under way during 1933.

Relief officials have explained the still-rising number on relief as attributable to discontinuance of the civil works program and the gradual exhaustion of resources of unemployed, particularly "white collar" people.

There have been sings that the administration is swinging away from direct relief toward a 100 per rent work relief program. FERA is seeking to return some 4,000,000 "unemployables" to the care of the states.

U. S. MARINES TO TAKE 20 NEW RECRUITS SOON

MACON, Ga.—The U. S. Marine Corps district recruiting office, located in the Municipal Auditorium, Macon, Ga., will accept 20 high school graduates in January from Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky. Interested parties should write to Lieut. Col. H. W. Stone, officer in charge, for information and application blanks.

Reunion of Wildcat Veterans Will Be In Memphis, Jan. 6 - 7

The Wildcat Veterans Association Reunion will be held in Memphis, Tenn., on January 6th and 7th, 1935, according to information received from Judge Cage Head, who is a member of the committee on arrangements.

Headquarters will be at Hotel Peabody, and every "Wildcat" in Shelby County is cordially invited to attend.

On the program scheduled for this patriotic occasion is a Memorial Service on Sunday, January 6th, at 3:30 p. m. On Sunday evening a "smoker" will be held in one of the hotels. On Monday afternoon unusual places and things of interest in Memphis will be visited. Monday evening—"you know what"—and informal dancing will be enjoyed completing the two day reunion of the veterans from the famous "Wildcat Division" of the world war.

MILLION RAILROAD WORKERS RECEIVE RAISE JANUARY 1

CLEVELAND, Ohio—More than 1,000,000 employes of the United States railroads are beneficiaries of a payroll increase amounting to approximately $3,250,000 a month which went into effect last Tuesday.

It is the second one-fourth reduction of a pay cut imposed Febrlary 1, 1932, which since that time has cost these workers, members of the 21 railroad brotherhoods, a wage loss estimated at nearly $400,000,000.

The original cut, amounting to 10 per lent, was accepted by the brotherhoods only after a long controversy with the railroads' managements, which was renewed again last Spring, only to be settled by an agreement to reduce the amount of the slash in three stages.

Tuesday's payroll increase, under the terms of that agreement, comes six months after the first one-fourth redultion of the pay cut. The final 5 per cent will be restored April 1, 1935, at which time the brotherhood employes will again be back on a pre-depression wage basis.

The brotherhoods, however, do not intend to rest content upn this basis.

In line with the federal administration's policy of spreading employment by a shorter work-week, representatives of the brotherhoods say they are going to continue their fight for a six-hour day at the same wages now paid for eight hours.

At the same time they will press Congress for enactment of the "full crew" bill, which in some cases would inlrease the number of men required to operate a train.

A reduction of railroading hazards, both for employes and passengers is sought in addition to economic benefits through the full crew bill, which provides for inlreases in the average number of men required for operation of trains.

QUICK PASSAGE OF OLD AGE PENSION BILL IS ADVOCATED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A demand for immediate enactment of old age pension legislation echoed last Friday from the administration's announcement that the job of caring for old and unemployable persons would be returned to the state by the federal government.

The call came as President Roosevelt shaped with his cabinet plans for a broad scale work relief unit, designed to set the "employables" now on relief rolls to doing jobs that would result in permanent public improvements.

Senator Borah (R., Idaho), was the first to raise the argument that the return of the care of "unemployables" to the states would make necessary the prompt passage of old age pension legislation.

Meanwhile, a plan to more than double the size of the Civilian Conservation Corps was under serious consideration by President Roosevelt as part of a broad Winter work relief program.

The Civilian Conservation Corps proposal was described by officials in non-quotable fashion as likely of adoption by the President. The extent of the increase in the corps was said to have been not yet fully decided upon, but a figure of 1,000,000 men was the one mentioned most frequently. The CCC now has upward of 350,000 enrolled.

Several other changes also were described as likely in the corps, such as changing the ages of enrollment to allow a broader range of relief benefits to flow from it. Under the present law, the corps would expire March 1st, 1935.

Robert Rechner, director of the corps, has estimated that there is enough work of the nature done by the corps to keep a million men busy for 50 years. Fechner and other CCC officials refused to discuss in any way future plans for the organization.

Unemployment Insurance

Pension advocates have been contending for such a measure with renewed vigor during the last few weeks. The President already has promised to recommend passage of unemployment insurance measures and has set his economic security council to studying whether this was the proper time for old age pensions.

The council recommended three optional old age pension plans, either one or all of which might be employed. Under two of them, to which both employer and employ would contribute, the federal government would give grants to states whose pension plans conformed to standards laid down by Congress. The council's recommendations were turned over to a cabinet committee which has not yet reported to the President.

Borah contended that the taking of 4,000,000 "unemployables," most of them old persons, from the federal relief rolls made the enactment of old age pension legislation the first and most immediate concern of Congress.

States Not Prepared

"The states are not prepared to take care of these old people," Borah said. "The small allowances to the states are not sufficient and the funds in the states have been exhausted in large measure."

There was little comment during the early part of day from administration quarters on the announcement by Harry Hopkins, the relief administrator, that this action would be taken by February 1st if possible.

Little doubt existed that a definite plan for the Winter's relief program had been virtually completed in the series of talks that the President has been conducting during the last several weeks with Hopkins, Secretaries Perkins, Ickes and Morgenthau and Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture.

In the minds of some officials, who declined to be quoted, the opinion was firmly held that the plan would call for giving work to all of the employables on the relief rolls. Various indications have pointed recently to the creation of an agency, or the consolidation into one of the several existing agencies, of all the work activities that have been set up to fill the unemployment emergency.

250 Thousand Young Trees Now Available For Planting In State

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Approximately a quarter of a million tree seedlings are still available for reforestation purposes in Alabama, according to a statement issued by the State Commission of Forestry. The species on hand comprise Black Locust, Osage Orange, Bald Cypress, White Ash, Black Walnut, Long-leaf Pine, Short-leaf Pine, Overcup Oak, White Oak, Persimmon and Cow Oak. Practically all of these seedlings were produced during 1934. All of these plants may be distributed to tree planters interested in reforestation for timber production.

The seedlings can be secured by landowners at $1.50 per thousand f. o. b. Livingston. The trees will be shipped at intervals during the present planting season which extends to March 15th.

FARMERS TO GET OVER 10 MILLION DOLLARS SOON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Immediate payment of $10,140,000 to cotton producers who sold Bankhead act certificates to the national pool was promised Friday by the AAA.

The sum, to be paid at the rate of $10 per bale on the certificates, will represent a partial payment with the remainder to be distributed following closing of the pool after demand for the tax-exemption certificates has ceased.

E. L. Deal, manager of the pool, said:

"There still is a considerable demand for certificates and we do not want to close the pool for sales at this time. However, we are anxious to pay producers a portion of their interest in the pool without delay and have decided on the partial payment plan as the best means of of expediting the movement of this money to interested producers."

Under the pool arrangements, cotton growers holding tax-exemption certificates which they were unable to use because their production of cotton was not as high as their Bankhead act allotments, were allowed to submit them to the AAA. Other producers who raised cotton in excess of quotas were sold the certificates at about $20 each.

In liquidating the pool the farmers selling certificates will receive their prorata share of money obtained in the disposal arrangement and will receive a prorata share of all unsold certificates for use next year. Operating expenses, estimated at 1 per cent, will be deducted from the total funds.

Up to the present time $12,164,695 has been received in Washington from sale of certificates with some yet to be sold. The $10,140,000 share of this total will be distributed to about 500,000 farmers in 17 of the -8cotton gowing states .

BLACK WILL ASK FOR MEDICAL AID FOR POOR IN BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A health insurance bill to provide medical attention for the indigent will be introduced by Senator Black (D., Ala.) when Congress convenes.

Black is drafting the bill as a supplement to the administration's program for social legislation which is expected to include unemployment insurance and possibly old age pensions. Assurance is reported to have been given by Democratic leaders that such legislation will be given serious consideration.

While he has not worked out details of the bill, Black said he would propose a system under which the medical service would be financed by contributions from all wage and salary earners and be available to anyone needing attention.

The Alabama senator is modeling his plan along the lines of systems now in effect in some private companies where workers obtain whatever medical attention is required by paying a regular monthly percentage from their salaries.

"Millions of people are not receiving adequate medical and hospital treatment," Black said. "In many cases it is because they are too proud to call the doctor when they have nothing to pay him.

"I don't believe doctors as a whole are opposed to the idea of legislation to make medical attention available to those who need it and are not receiving it now. Many doctors are themselves suffering because they spend all their time treating patients who cannot pay them.

"Also, many trained nurses are on relief rolls despite the need for their services because those who need them cannot pay them."

Black said that his proposal and other social legislation were only necessary because the nation had not been able to readjust its distribution of income properly.

$2,604,320 IN ROAD AID IS GIVEN ALABAMA

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary Wallace Friday apportioned $125,000,000 of federal funds to aid states in highway construction during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The funds, made available this fiscal year, will be used under the Hayden-Cartwright act for joint cooperation by states and the federal government.

States must match federal funds with an identical amount. The federal government pays its share when given proof of completed work.

COL. BIBB GRAVES SEES REVENUE TO RUN STATE SCHOOLS WITHOUT ASKING FOR A SALES TAX

Colonel Bibb Graves, who will be inaugurated as governor on January 4th, has gone to work on plans to raise enough additional revenue to run Alabama schools without resorting to a general sales tax.

The governor-elect, as was announced last week, went to Washington and prevailed on the federal relief administration to prevent the schools from closing after repeated efforts by many others had failed, but the government expects the state to do its part and Colonel Graves is making arrangements to do so.

The colonel has announced that he will not make any more appointments until after the first of the year, so that he can devote his full time durthe next few days to conferences with his advisors on the state's financial problems.

He is holding daily meetings with Henry Long, Lawrence Lee, his legal advisors; Frontis Moore, assistant attorney general; Henry Knight of the tax commission; W. W. Brooks, of the treasurer's office, and others, to work out a new revenue bill.

The governor-elect and his advisors expect to increase the annual revenue at least $2,500,000 by plugging loopholes in the present revenue law. They expect to increase tobacco tax receipts more than $500,000 a year by breaking up bootlegging. They expect to get a large sum by adjusting tax assessments on property owned by utility corporations and other large interests whose assessments were cut down to very low levels by the present tax commission, headed by S. R. Butler.

There is much talk of a plan to raise the utility assessments to the amount of the valuations upon which the public service commission bases their rates.

Governor B. M. Miller is preparing to ask the legislature in his closing message to increase the income tax rates, and Colonel Graves' lieutenants are giving consideration to this matter.

Mr. Long is said to be of the opinion that the present income tax law should produce at least $500,000 a year more than it is producing by catching the escapes and rigidly enforcing the law.

The Graves advisors expect to get in $1,000,000 a year from foreign commercial credit companies operating in Alabama. These companies handle the installment plan notes of automobile purchasers. Their business runs into enormous figures every year, and they pay very little tax to the state.

Insurance companies which have been foreclosing mortgages on property throughout the state and assessing it for much less than the amount of the insurance they carry on it, are erpected to be required to make more substantial contributions to the schools and other government functions.

There will be a general tightening up of the present revenue law, and the state's tax collection machinery will be made more efficient.

Colonel Graves and his aids will not be in position to announce their revenue plans until the legislature meets, but they are making steady progress and will devise ways and means to run the government and keep the schools open without asking the legislature to levy a sales tax.

Colonel Graves attended a meeting of the present budget commission last week and obtained first hand information about the state's financial condition. He has assembled information on every phase of the state's affairs, and will use it to cut expenses to the bone everywhere possible. However, he will not hesitate to put enough agents in the field to insure the proper enforcement of the revenue laws and get into the treasury the money needed to make the government function in all of its branches.

FARMERS OF ALABAMA SHOW DOUBLED INCOME FOR YEAR 1934

WASHINGTON, D. C.—For every dollar the average Alabama farmer scraped up during the dark days of 1932 he now jingles in his jeans $2.30, thanks to higher prices and the best crop year among all states.

The Department of Agriculture reported the value of Alabama's leading crops this year at $142,975,000, compared to only $62.051 000 two years ago.

Outdoing all other states, Alabama was given a combined yield per acre rating for 1934 of 121.9 per cent of the 10-year (1921-1930) average. Neighboring South Carolina and Georgia had the next best crops with respective percentages of 121.5 and 120. The national average was 81.2 per cent.

Cotton Leads List

These bolnteous harvests were topped as usual by Old King Cotton, which turned over in rewards to Alabamians for tilling the soil $58,865,000 for lint, exclusive of benefit payments, against $27,000,000 in 1932. Seed added another $15 444,000 this year.

The state ranked fourth in cotton production, behind Texas, with a $148,490,000 value, Mississippi with $72,708,000 and Georgia with $61,192,000. Alabama's 1934 production was given at 956 000 bales, whilh compared with 969,000 in 1933 and 947,000 bales two years ago.

Corn ranked second in value among Alabama's crops, 47,950,000 bushels being worth $35,962,000. The 1932 crop of 37,076,000 brought only $13,718,000.

The peanut was the state's third most important crop, returning the planters $7,974,000 on 265,800,000 pounds. Only Georgia and North Carolina outdid Alabama in this yield, the latter doubling its production this year to step into second place held by Alabama in 1933.

Sweet Potatoes Rise

Sweet potatoes, an up-and-coming crop down South due to the potential manufacture of root starch, added a $4,568 000 value to farm production of the state which ranked second in that harvest. North Carolina was first with $5,314,000. Alabama produced 7,614,000 bushels.

In production of sargo syrup and sugar cane. Alabama led all the states. The sargo was worth $1,688,000 on 3,750,000 gallons. Sugar cane, to be distinguished from Louisiana cane used to make sugar, brought $2,112,000.

The state ranked second to Georgia in value of the velvet bean harvest, which was $2,784,000. Early potatoes returned Alabamians $2,331,000 and the state was third in planting of legume hay with 465,000 acres. Numerous other crops contributed to the total value harvested from the 686,000 acres in cultivation.

Chronology of the Year 1934

Compiled by E. W. PICKARD

DOMESTIC

Jan. 1—President Roosevelt accepted the resignation of Secretary of the Treasury W. H. Woodin and appointed Henry Morgenthau, Jr., to succeed him.

Jan. 3—Congress opened regular session and heard President Roosevelt's message declaring the New Deal must be made permanent.

Jan. 4—Congress revived President Roosevelt's budget message calling for 16¼ billion dollars.

Jan. 5—House passed $470,000,000 national liquor tax bill.

Jan. 8—Supreme court upheld moratorium on mortgages.

Jan. 10—President Roosevelt asked the senate to ratify the St. Lawrence waterway treaty.

Senate passed national liquor tax bill.

Jan. 12—Gen. Blanton Winship was appointed governor of Porto Rico vice R. H. Gore, resigned.

Willis G. Gregg was appointed chief of the weather bureau.

Jan. 15—President Roosevelt asked congress for additional authority to seize federal bank gold reserve and fix dollar between 50 and 60 cents.

Jan. 19—President Roosevelt modified his economy regulations to increase annual payments to disabled veterans by 21 million dollars.

Jan. 20—House of representatives passed the President's money bill, 360 to 40.

Jan. 24—Naval supply bill of 284 millions passed by house.

Jan. 27—Senate passed President's money bill.

Jan. 30—Nation celebrated President Roosevelt's fifty-second birthday.

House passed the Vinson navy bill.

Jan. 31—President established a 59.06 cent dollar.

Feb. 5—United States Supreme court quashed all pending federal dry cases.

Feb. 9—President and postmaster general cancelled all air mail contracts and the army was called on to carry the air mail.

Feb. 14—William P. MacCracken and L. H. Brittin sentenced by senate to ten days in jail for contempt in connection with air mail investigation.

Feb. 19—Army air corps began flying the air mail.

Feb. 21—House passed tax revision bill.

Feb. 22—Roger Touhy and two members of his gang convicted in Chicago of kidnaping John Factor and given 99 years in prison.

Feb. 26—President asked congress to create federal commission on wire and radio communications.

Feb. 27—Senate voted to restore 350 millions in veterans' benefits and federal salaries.

Feb. 28—House voted against federal furniture factory.

March 2—President asked congress for power to negotiate tariffs.

March 3—John Dillinger, bank robber and desperado, escaped from jail at Crown Point, Ind.

March 5—Supreme court upheld government price fixing.

President Roosevelt asked industry to raise wages and shorten hours.

March 6—Senate passed full strength navy construction bill.

President appointed Judge Florence Allen of Ohio as federal circuit court of appeals judge.

March 10—President ordered army air mail service halted.

Attorney General Cummings ordered criminal action against Andrew Mellon, James J. Walker and others for alleged income tax evasion.

March 12—House passed bill for immediate payment of veterans' bonus in greenbacks.

March 13—Arthur Cutts Willard elected president of University of Illinois.

March 14—St. Lawrence waterway treaty rejected by the senate.

March 19—Army resumed flying air mail.

March 23—President urged passage of job insurance bill.

March 24—President signed Philippine independence bill.

March 25—President settled threatened strike in automobile industry.

March 26—President vetoed economy bill.

March 27—President left for Florida cruise.

House overrode veto of economy bill.

March 28—Senate overrode economy bill veto.

March 31—Johnson imposes 5-day, 35-hour week on soft coal industry.

April 2—Florence E. Allen took oath in Cleveland as first woman federal judge.

Trial of Bishop Cannon and Miss Ada Burroughs for violation of corrupt practices act began in Washington.

April 10—House committee began investigation of charges made by Dr. William A. Wirt that members of "grain trust" were plotting to overthrow the government.

April 11—Senate voted for 10 per cent increase in income tax.

April 13—Senate passed its $480,000,000 tax bill with income tax publicity provision.

President Roosevelt returned to Washington from fishing trip.

April 16—Gov. Langer of North Dakota and eight others indicted by United States for forced collections from relief workers.

April 18—Wirt investigation ended by Democrats after his story was denied.

April 23—Milk control plan dropped by the AAA.

April 24—American fleet of 111 warships made record transit of Panama canal.

April 27—Bishop Cannon and Miss Burroughs acuitted of violation of corrupt practices act.

April 28—Senate passed air mail bill.

May 3—Postmaster General Farley awarded 15 air mail contracts.

New revenue bill enacted by congress.

May 4—House passed stock exchange control bill.

May 8—Federal grand jury in Pittsburgh refused to indict A. W. Mellon for tax evasion.

May 12—Senate passed Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange bill.

May 15—Senator David A. Reed defeated Gov. Gifford Pinchot in Pennsylvania Republican primaries; Democrats nominated Joseph F. Guffey for senate.

Senate passed bill for federal control of radio and wire communications.

May 18—President Roosevelt, in message to congress, called for domestic and international control over arms and munitions.

Seven bills to aid federal war on crime were signed by the President.

Dr. George F. Zook resigned as commissioner of education, effective July 1, and John W. Studebaker of Des Moines was selected to succeed him.

May 22—President Roosevelt asked congress to pass bill partly remonetizing silver.

May 26—Chicago's Century of Progress exposition reopened.

May 27—President ordered modification of service industries codes.

May 30—President Roosevelt delivered Memorial Day address at Gettysburg.

Cotton textile workers called general strike.

May 31—President Roosevelt reviewed the United States fleet off New York.

House passed administration's silver bill.

June 1—Congress completed enactment of stock exchange control bill.

President sent message to congress saying America expected payment of war debts unless satisfactory excuse were offered.

June 2—Cotton textile strike called off by compromise.

House passed communications control bill.

June 4—Senate passed the tariff bill.

June 5—Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania elected chairman of Republican national committee.

June 8—President Roosevelt in special message set forth his future plans for betterment of living.

June 11—Silver bill passed by the senate.

June 14—Senate confirmed R. G. Tugwell as undersecretary of agriculture.

June 15—Steel workers decided to postpone strike indefinitely.

June 16—Governor Langer of North Dakota and four others convicted of defrauding United States government.

June 18—Seventy-third congress adjourned.

June 20—President Roosevelt given degree of doctor of laws at Yale.

Cleaners scrapped their NRA code.

June 24—President Roosevelt ordered spending of $150,000,000 in middle west drouth areas.

June 26—United States milk code held illegal by Federal Judge Barnes in Chicago.

June 28—Board of three named by President to mediate steel industry troubles.

July 1—President Roosevelt sailed on cruiser Houston for vacation cruise to Hawaii.

July 4—Rev. John F. O'Hara elected president of Notre Dame university.

July 6—Eightieth birthday of Republican party celebrated at Jackson, Mich.

July 9—Senate's jail sentence of W. P. McCracken for contempt upset by D. C. court of appeals.

July 10—Mississippi voted to remain dry.

July 14—Unions in San Francisco area voted for general strike.

July 16—General strike in effect in San Francisco.

James J. Dooling elected head of Tammany.

July 17—Gov. William Langer of North Dakota ousted by state supreme court decision.

July 19—General strike at San Francisco called off.

July 20—Serious strike riots in Minneapolis and Seattle.

Blue Eagle restored to Harriman hosiery mills in Tennessee.

July 21—President Roosevelt ordered the beginning of vast reforestation project in midwest plains region.

July 22—John Dillinger, notorious desperado, shot to death by federal agents in Chicago.

July 24—President reached Hawaiian waters.

July 25—Pacific coast longshoremen voted to accept mediation.

July 26—Minneapolis put under martial law by Governor Olson because of teamsters' strike.

July 29—Longshoremen's strike on Pacific coast ended in compromise.

Aug. 3—President Roosevelt landed at Portland, Ore.

Aug. 9—Nationalization of silver ordered by the President.

Aug. 10—Secretary Wallace announced virtual abandonment of crop reduction program for 1935.

Strike of 15,000 employees of Aluminum Company of America started.

Aug. 15—Eugene R. Black resigned as governor of federal reserve board.

Aug. 16—United Textile Workers voted for general strike in cotton textile industry.

Aug. 17—Wool, silk and rayon unions voted to join in textile strike.

Aug. 18—Louisiana legislature passed laws making Senator Long and Governor Allen dictators of the state.

Aug. 21—Twelve bandits took $427,000 from armored money truck in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Truck drivers' strike in Minneapolis ended in compromise.

Aug. 24—Reciprocal trade treaty with Cuba proclaimed by President Roosevelt.

Sept. 1—Director of the Budget Lewis Douglas resigned.

Sept. 3—Retail coal code authority resigned in protest against NRA methods.

Sept. 4—Strike of textile workers began; declared 50 per cent effective.

Sept. 6—Aluminum workers' strike ended by compromise.

Sept. 10—Maine re-elected Governor Brann, Democratic, and Senator Hale, Republican; and voted repeal of state prohibition law.

Sept. 11—Senator Huey Long's faction won in Louisiana election.

Sept. 15—Government renewed its tax evasion charges against Andrew Mellon.

Sept. 20—Solution of Lindbergh baby kidnaping begun with arrest in New York of Bruno R. Hauptmann with part of the ransom money.

President's special board offered plan for ending of textile strike.

Sept. 22—Textile union officials ordered end of the strike.

Sept. 24—Packers raised pay of 100,000 employees 8 per cent.

Sept. 25—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson resigned as NRA administrator, effective October 15.

Sept. 27—President announced appointment of boards to conduct the NRA.

Sept. 30—President Roosevelt declared in radio address that he would seek a labor-industrial truce to end strikes.

Oct. 2—Trial of Samuel Insull and former associates begun in Chicago.

Oct. 8—American Federation of Labor convention in San Francisco voted for 5 day, 30 hour work week.

Oct. 12—President ordered 36 hour week for cotton garment industry.

Oct. 22—American Legion convention opened in Miami, Fla.

"Pretty Boy" Floyd, notorious Oklahoma outlaw, killed by federal officers near East Liverpool, Ohio.

Oct. 25—American Legion demanded immediate bonus payment and elected Frank Belgrano, Jr., of San Francisco, national commander.

Rayon and silk dyers went on strike.

Oct. 31—Chicago's World's Fair closed.

Nov. 6—Elections resulted generally in decided Democratic victories, with senate gain of 10 seats and loss of 10 seats in house.

Nov. 9—Marriner S. Eccles of Utah made governor of federal reserve board.

Nov. 10—President Roosevelt appointed advisory council for social reforms, headed by Frank P. Graham.

Martial law declared in Arizona in state's fight against California project.

Nov. 14—Unemployment insurance program outlined by President Roosevelt before conference on economic security.

Nov. 15—President Roosevelt left Washington for Warm Springs via the Tennessee valley projects.

Nov. 26—Gen. Smedley D. Butler told congressional committee of alleged Fascist plot to seize the government.

Nov. 24—Samuel Insull and 16 co-defendants acuitted of fraud in Chicago.

Nov. 27—"Baby Face" Nelson, public enemy No. 1, killed two government agents near Barrington, Ill., and was himself shot to death.

Dec. 1—Katherine Lenroot appointed chief of the children's bureau, Department of Labor.

Dec. 3—United States Supreme court upheld right of land grant colleges to make military training compulsory.

Dec. 6—President Roosevelt returned to Washington.

Dec. 10—National conference on crime prevention opened in Washington.

Dec. 12—President named committee to draft legislation to end war profits.

Dec. 15—President's advisory council reported unemployment insurance system.

Dec. 16—National resources board outlines 1.05 billion dollar public works program for 20 to 30 years.

INTERNATIONAL

Jan. 7—Paraguay and Bolivia resumed war in the Chaco Boreal, the truce having expired.

Jan. 8—France quadrupled United States import quotas.

France and Russia signed new commercial treaty.

Jan. 23—Government of President Mendieta of Cuba recognized by United States.

Jan. 26—Germany and Poland signed a ten year peace treaty.

Feb. 5—Austrian cabinet decided to appeal to League of Nations against German Nazi aggression.

Feb. 17—Great Britain, France and Italy agreed to maintain Austria's independence and integrity.

March 2—China refused to recognize Manchukuo.

March 23—France charged Germany had violated Versailles treaty.

April 17—Japan protested against the giving of aid to China by other nations.

June 22—Bolivians and Paraguayans fought great battle in the Chaco.

July 13—Great Britain and Italy announced approval of eastern European security pact fostered by France.

August 15—Evacuation of Haiti by American marines completed.

Aug. 18—Manchukuo severed all relations with Russia.

Aug. 21—World Jewish conference at Geneva declared redoubled boycott of Nazi Germany.

Sept. 3—Evangeline Booth elected general of the Salvation Army.

Sept. 10—Richard Sandler, Sweden, elected president of League of Nations.

Sept. 15—Russia accepted invitation to join League of Nations.

Sept. 18—Russia became a member of the League of Nations.

Sept. 23—Russia agreed to sell half interest in Chinese Eastern railway to Manchukuo for $50,000,000.

Sept. 27—Great Britain, France and Italy signed agreement to guard independence of Austria.

Oct. 9—King Alexander of Jugoslavia and Foreign Minister Barthou of France assassinated in Marseilles by Macedonian terrorist.

Oct. 23—Japan demanded naval equality with United States and Great Britain.

Oct. 25—Nobel prize in medicine awarded to Drs. George Minot, G. H. Whipple and W. P. Murphy of United States.

Nov 8—Luigi Pirandelli, Italian novelist and playwright, awarded Nobel prize for literature.

Nov. 15—Dr. Harold C. Urey of Columbia university, New York, awarded the Nobel prize in chemistry for his discovery of "heavy water."

Nov 22—Jugoslavia accused Hungary of complicity in assassination of King Alexander.

Nov. 26—Italy refused French request for extradition of Dr. Ante Pavelich, alleged leader of band that killed King Alexander of Jugoslavia.

Dec. 1—France refused to join Japan in denouncing Washington naval treaty.

Dec. 3—Germany promised France to pay for the Saar coal mines and grant political equality to citizens of the region.

Dec. 5—League of Nations decided to send international police force into the Saar, French being excluded, and Germany agreed to plan.

Dec. 6—Jugoslavia deported 27,000 Hungarian residents of that country.

Dec. 7—United States notified League of Nations it would help in negotiating peace between Paraguay and Bolivia.

Dec. 10—Jugoslavia and Hungary accepted League of Nations peace proposal, averting danger of war in Balkans.

FOREIGN

Jan. 3—George Tatarescu, anti-Nazi, became premier of Rumania.

Jan. 10—Marinus Van der Lubbe, who burned the reichstag building, beheaded in Leipsig.

Jan. 15—Ramon Grau San Martin resigned as president of Cuba and Carlos Hevia was selected to succeed him.

Jan. 16—Chancellor Hitler made himself dictator over all German industry.

Jan 17—Hevia resigned presidency of Cuba and Carlos Mendieta was named to succeed him. Col. Fulxencio Batista, head of the army.

Jan. 27—Chautemps' French cabinet resigned.

Jan. 30—Daladier formed new French government.

German reichstag made Chancellor Hitler sovereign of all the states.

Feb. 5—Serious riots in Paris against the Daladier government.

Feb. 7—Premier Daladier of France resigned and Gaston Doumergue undertook formation of new government.

Feb. 9—Doumergue announced his cabinet for France; Communists rioted in Paris.

Feb. 12—Civil war broke out in Austria between the government and the Socialists and hundreds were killed.

Feb. 14—Socialists revolt in Austria suppressed; dead estimated at 1,000 to 2,000.

Feb. 17—Albert I, king of the Belgians, killed by fall while climbing small peak near Namur.

Feb. 22—Gen. Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan patriot and rebel leader, murdered by national guardsmen at Managua.

March 1—Henry Pu-yi enthroned as Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo.

Lerroux cabinet in Spain resigned.

March 2—Lerroux again made premier of Spain.

March 20—Hitler launched program to give jobs to idle.

March 28—Gen. Johan Laidoner becomes dictator of Estonia.

April 7—High army officers of Rumania arrested for plot to kill the king.

April 22—Serious revolutionary riots in Spain.

April 25—Spanish cabinet resigned.

April 28—Ricardo Ibanes formed new Spanish cabinet.

April 30—Austrian parliament adopted new constitution.

May 3—King Ibn Saud of Arabia began war on the kingdom of Yemen.

May 9—Premier Mussolini set up rule of country by guilds.

May 13—Armistice declared in war in Arabia.

May 19—Bulgarian army established a dictatorship by bloodless coup.

Pope Pius canonized Conrad of Parzham.

May 24—Thomas Masaryk re-elected president of Czechoslovakia.

May 25—Irish dail abolished the senate.

June 4—Italian scientist announced discovery of new element, artificially created from uranium.

June 15—President Mendieta of Cuba wounded and two navy officers killed by a terrorist's bomb.

June 17—Cuban terrorists attacked ABC paraders; fifteen killed and many wounded.

June 30—Revolt of radicals in the Nazi party smashed by Chancellor Hitler; Gen. Kurt von Schleicher and many other leaders shot to death and scores arrested.

July 1—Gen. Lazaro Cardenas elected president of Mexico.

July 2—Japanese cabinet resigned.

July 4—Admiral Keisuke Okada made premier of Japan.

July 12—Chancellor Dollfuss reorganized Austrian cabinet and declared war on Nazis and bomb throwers.

July 17—Vargas elected constitutional president of Brazil.

July 25—Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria assassinated by group of Nazis.

July 29—Kurt Schuschnigg appointed chancellor of Austria.

Aug. 2—President von Hindenburg of Germany died and Chancellor Hitler assumed the presidential powers.

Aug. 19—Germany by 10 to 1 vote accepted Hitler's assumption of supreme power.

Sept. 3—Strikes and riots throughout Cuba; martial law proclaimed; cabinet resigned.

Sept. 26—Queen Mary of England launched the Cunarder Queen Mary, world's largest ship.

Oct. 5—Radical revolt broke out in Catalonia and other parts of Spain. Hundreds killed in fights with troops.

Oct. 7—Spanish revolution suppressed by government troops.

Oct. 9—King Alexander I of Jugo-Slavia assassinated.

Oct. 10—Crown Prince Peter, 11 years old, proclaimed king of Jugo-Slavia under a regency.

International Eucharistic Congress opened in Buenos Aires.

Oct. 17—Chancellor Hitler of Germany proclaimed fuehrer for life.

Nov. 8—Doumergue resigned as premier of France and Pierre Flandin formed new government.

Nov. 10—Premier Mussolini formally installed his system of industrial self-government in Italy.

Nov. 28—President Salamanca of Bolivia forced to resign by military coup.

Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece married in London.

Nov. 30—Gen. Lazaro Cardenas inaugurated president of Mexico.

Dec. 1—Sergei Kirov, soviet leader, assassinated in Leningrad.

Dec. 2—Plot to kill all soviet leaders in Russia uncovered; ten army officers executed and many others arrested.

Dec. 3—Russia restored death penalty to crush "White Russian" terrorist plot.

Dec. 5—Sixty-six terrorists executed in Russia.

Dec. 6—Two hundred more Russians, including GPU officials, summarily shot.

Dec. 17—Western Australia's petition for secession from the commonwealth presented in parliament.

AERONAUTICS

Jan. 4—French seaplane Southern Cross completed flight from Senegal, Africa, to Natal, Brazil.

Jan. 11—Six American navy planes make nonstop flight from San Francisco to Honolulu.

Jan. 30—Three Russian balloonists ascended to record height of 13.67 miles and then were killed by fall of their gondola.

April 11—Renato Donati, Italy, set new airplane altitude record of 47,560 feet.

May 9—French air liner fell in English channel, six perishing.

May 14—George R. Pond and Cesare Sabelli started from New York on nonstop flight to Rome.

May 15—Pond and Sabelli landed in Ireland because of engine trouble.

May 27—Rossi and Codos began flight from Paris to California.

May 28—Wing trouble forced Rossi and Codos to land at New York.

June 28—B. and J. Adamowics started flight from New York to Warsaw, via Harbor Grace, N. F.

June 30—Gas shortage forced Adamowics brothers to land in Normandy.

July 24—Ten United States army bombing planes completed flight from Washington to Fairbanks, Alaska.

July 28—Stratosphere balloon started from near Rapid City, N. D., but fabric ripped at 60,000 feet; three occupants of gondola came down safely with parachutes.

Aug. 8—James Ayling and Leonard Reed began nonstop flight from Wasaga Beach, Ont., to Bagdad.

Aug. 9—Ayling and Reed forced to land near London by lack of fuel.

Aug. 19—Pond and Sabelli, flying back from Rome, crashed in Wales.

Sept. 3—Col. Roscoe Turner won Thompson trophy at national air races in Cleveland; Douglas Davis, noted pilot, killed during the race.

Sept. 26—Poland won international balloon race.

Oct. 19—Twenty airplanes left England on race to Melbourne, Australia.

Oct. 23—C. W. A. Scott and Campbell Black of England won air race to Melbourne in 2 days, 23 hours and 25 minutes.

Lieut. Francesco Agello of Italy set new seaplane speed mark of 440.29 miles an hour.

Prof. Jean Piccard and his wife made stratosphere balloon ascent of ten miles.

Nov. 4—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and Capt. P. G. Taylor completed three-stop flight from Brisbane, Australia, to Oakland, Calif.

Nov. 8—Transport plane commanded by Eddie Rickenbacker flew from Burbank, Calif., to Newark, N. J., in 13 hours 3 minutes 50 seconds.

Dec. 3—Flight Lieut. C. T. P. Ulm of Australia and two companions started from Oakland, Calif., on flight to Honolulu, were forced down at sea and lost.

DISASTERS

Jan. 1—Floods in Los Angeles area resulted in about 75 deaths.

Jan. 4—Explosion and fire in mine at Dux, Czechoslovakia, killed 140 men.

Jan. 8—Eighty perished in a panic at Kyoto, Japan.

Jan. 15—Earthquake shook all India, killing 500.

French tri-motor plane crashed, killing ten including prominent officials.

Feb. 20—Ten aged widows and daughters of Civil war veterans burned to death at home in Brookville, Pa.

Feb. 23—Eight persons killed by crash of air liner near Salt Lake City.

Feb. 25—Tornado in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi killed 23.

March 12—New Japanese torpedo boat capsized, about 100 men drowning.

March 14—La Liberated, Salvador, almost destroyed by dynamite explosion and fire; 150 lives lost.

March 21—One thousand dead, 3,000 injured in fire at Hakodate, Japan.

April 4—25 lives lost in Oklahoma floods.

April 7—Fifty Norwegians killed when huge cliff fell into a fjord.

April 21—Mine explosion in Jugoslavia killed 160.

May 7—Eighty-seven men killed in mine disaster at Buggingen, Germany.

May 15—Liner Olympic rammed and sank Nantucket lightship; seven drowned.

Mine blast in Belgium killed 43.

Lake steamer in Finland sank; 21 drowned.

May 19—Chicago Union Stockyards partly destroyed by $8,000,000 fire.

May 25—Landslide in Kwantung province, China, killed 250.

June 1—Forty children killed by hurricane near Nanching, China.

June 7—Two thousand killed by hurricane in Salvador.

June 9—Air liner crashed and burned in the Catskills; seven persons killed.

June 11—Floods destroyed Honduras town; 1,000 lives lost.

July 17—Disastrous earthquake at David, Panama.

July 18—Floods in southern Poland took scores of lives.

Aug. 4—Three hundred die in floods in Persia.

Sept. 8—Ward liner Morro Castle burned off New Jersey coast; 134 persons perished.

Sept. 17—Nome, Alaska, destroyed by fire; loss $2,000,000.

Sept. 21—Japan swept by destructive typhoon; more than 2,000 killed.

Mine explosion at Wrexham, Wales, killed 261 men.

Oct. 21—Disastrous storm along northwest coast of United States.

Nov. 15—Scores killed by typhoon in Philippines.

Dec. 5—Earthquakes in Honduras destroyed three towns.

Dec. 11—Hotel in Lansing, Mich., burned; about 40 lives lost.

SPORTS

Jan. 1—Columbia defeated Stanford in Pasadena Rose Bowl game, 7 to 0.

Jan. 21—Casper Oimen won national ski title at Cary, Ill.

Jan. 23—Kinrey Matsuyama of New York won national three-cushion billiards title.

Jan. 28—Ed. Schroeder, Chicago, won American skating championship at Oconomowoc, Wis.

Feb. 7—Barney Ross retained junior welterweight title by defeating Pete Nebo in Kansas City.

Feb. 23—Johnny Layton won world's three-cushion billiard championship.

Feb. 26—Purdue won Big Ten basketball championship.

March 1—Primo Carnera defeated Tommy Loughran at Miami, Fla., retaining the heavyweight title.

March 10—Michigan won Big Ten indoor track championship.

April 6—Cochran beat Hagenlacher for world's 18.2 billiard title.

April 10—Chicago Black Hawks won Stanley cup and world's hocky championship.

April 27—Jack Torrence, Louisiana State university, set new world's record in shot put at 55 feet 1⅛ inches.

May 5—Cavalcade, the favorite, won the Kentucky derby.

May 12—American golfers defeated British team, retaining Walker cup.

May 19—University of Illinois won Big Ten track and field championship.

May 22—John Kocsis, University of Michigan, won Big Ten golf title.

University of Illinois won Western Conference baseball championship.

May 23—Chicago boxers defeated Polish team, 7 to 1, in golden gloves tourney.

May 26—W. Lawson Little, San Francisco, won British amateur golf championship.

May 28—Barney Ross of Chicago won world's welterweight title from Jimmy McLarnin.

May 30—Bill Cunningham of Indianapolis won Speedway 500-mile auto race in record time.

June 2—Cavalcade won the American derby at Chicago.

June 6—Windsor Lad won the English derby.

June 9—Olin Dutra won National Open golf championship.

June 14—Max Baer of California won world's heavyweight championship from Primo Carnera of Italy in New York.

June 16—Cunningham of Kansas set new world sprint record of 4:06.7 for mile.

American tennis team of women defeated British for Wightman cup.

June 18—Harry Cooper won Western Open golf title.

June 22—Yale defeated Harvard in annual boat races.

June 23—Stanford won the N. C. A. A. track championship.

June 29—Henry Cotton of England won British open golf title.

July 10—American league beat National league 9 to 7 in all-star game in New York.

July 15—Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City, won western amateur golf title.

July 29—Paul Runyan won the Professional golf championship.

July 31—British tennis team defeated Americans, retaining the Davis cup.

Aug. 4—Tommy Armour won Canadian open golf title.

Aug. 19—Helen Jacobs won women's tennis title.

Aug. 26—Hans Nussiein won national professional tennis title at Chicago.

Sept. 12—Fred Perry, England, won American singles tennis title.

Sept. 17—[illegible] championship.

First America's cup race [illegible] test" for lack of wind.

Sept. 17—British challenger [illegible] defeated Rainbow in first [illegible] cup race.

Jimmy McLarnin defeated Barney Ross, regaining welterweight title.

Sept. 18—Endeavor won second race.

Sept. 20—Rainbow won third America's cup race.

Jim Londos defeated Strangler Lewis in Chicago, retaining world's heavyweight wrestling title.

Sept. 22—Rainbow won fourth race; Sopwith's protest not allowed.

Sept. 24—Rainbow won fifth cup race.

Detroit Tigers won American league pennant.

Sept. 25—Rainbow won sixth race and retained the America's cup.

Sept. 26—United States accepted invitation to Olympic games of 1936 in Berlin.

Sept. 30—St. Louis Cardinals won National league pennant.

Oct. 3—St. Louis won first game in world's series.

Oct. 4—Detroit won second game.

Oct. 5—St. Louis won third game.

Oct. 6—Detroit won fourth game.

Virginia Van Wie again won national women's golf title.

Oct. 7—Detroit won fifth game.

Oct. 8—St. Louis won the sixth game.

Oct. 9—St. Louis Cardinals won seventh game and world's championship.

Nov. 2—John Heydler resigned as president of National baseball league.

Nov. 8—Ford C. Frick elected president of National league.

Nov. 16—Bob Olin won light heavyweight title from Maxie Rosenbloom in New York.

Nov. 24—University of Minnesota won western conference football title.

Yale defeated Harvard at football.

Stanford won coast football title.

Dec. 1—Navy defeated the army in football.

Dec. 9—New York Giants defeated Chicago Bears, winning professional football championship.

J. T. Mahoney of New York elected president of Amateur Athletic union.

Dec. 10—Barney Ross defeated Bobby Pacho, retaining junior welterweight title.

Dec. 12—National league approved night games with reservations.

NECROLOGY

Jan. 1—Jacob Wassermann, German novelist.

Jan. 4—Prof. H. C. Warren, Princeton university psychologist.

Jan. 7—Robert Simpson, American novelist and editor.

Jan. 9—Miss Alice French (Octave Thanet), American novelist.

Jan. 10—Frank P. Glass of Alabama, editor and publisher.

Jan. 12—Aimaro Sato, Japanese diplomat.

Jan. 14—Walker D. Hines, former director general of American railroads.

Gen. Jean Marchand of France, center figure of Fashoda fort incident.

Jan. 16—John Sherwin, Cleveland banker.

Jan. 18—Joseph Devlin, Irish nationalist leader.

Jan. 19—Harrison Fisher, American artist.

Jan. 20—Edward J. Brundage, Republican leader, in Lake Forest, Ill.

Dr. Lincoln Hulley, president Stetson university, Deland, Fla.

Jan. 21—John H. McCooey, Tammany leader of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Amelia Summerville, former stage star.

Jan. 22—Dr. Mary L. H. Black, southern educator.

Jan. 30—Frank N. Doubleday, New York publisher.

Jan. 31—Walter Wellman, pioneer aeronaut and veteran journalist.

Feb. 2—Gilbert M. Hitchcock, former senator from Nebraska.

Feb. 3—Montague Glass, American writer.

Eleanora de Cisneros, operatic star, in New York.

Feb. 13—August Anheuser Busch of St. Louis, brewery magnate.

William Travers Jerome of New York.

Charles R. Flint, shipowner and financier.

Feb. 14—Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker.

March 17—Albert, king of the Belgians.

Feb. 18—John R. Rogers, co-inventor of the Mergenthaler linotype machine, in New York.

Feb. 22—Representative Joseph L. Hooper of Michigan.

Feb. 23—Sir Edward Elgar, British composer.

Corse Peyton, veteran American actor.

Feb. 25—Dr. Daniel W. Protheroe of Chicago, composer and director.

John McGraw, veteran baseball manager.

Feb. 27—Dr. Henry O. King, educator, in Oberlin, Ohio.

March 4—John Alden, poet and editor, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

William Astor Chanler, explorer and soldier, in Mentone, France.

March 11—Margaret Illington Bowes, former stage star.

March 14—Mrs. Fannie Osborn Porteous, first "Topsy" of stage, at Watertown, S. D.

March 15—John A. Simpson, Oklahoma City, president of the National Farmers' union.

March 21—Lilyan Tashman, movie actress, in New York.

March 23—John M. Harlan, lawyer, in New York.

March 25—Maj. Gen. George O. Squier in Washington.

March 29—Otto Kahn, banker, in New York.

April 1—Edward W. Pou, congressman, in Washington.

April 9—William Wallace McDowell, American minister to Irish Free State.

Mother Hyacinth, founder of Passionate order in United States.

April 10—Theodore Douglas Robinson at Little Falls, N. Y.

April 11—Alfredo Zayas, ex-president of Cuba.

Sir Gerald Du Maurier, British actor.

John Collier, English painter.

April 14—Justice W. C. Owen of Wisconsin supreme court.

April 16—John J. Blaine, former governor of Wisconsin and United States senator.

Edwin V. Morgan, former diplomat.

April 18—Alfred Juergens of Chicago, artist.

April 20—C. H. Allen, former governor of Puerto Rico.

April 21—Federal Judge W. B. Sheppard at Jacksonville, Fla.

April 23—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., in New York.

William Thaw, veteran of Lafayette Escadrille.

April 24—Dr. Paul Shorey, Greek scholar, in Chicago.

Fay Hempstead, poet laureate of Free Masonry, in Little Rock, Ark.

April 30—Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, noted Indian fighter.

Dr. W. H. Welch, pathologist, at Baltimore.

May 3—William C. Proctor of Cincinnati, manufacturer.

May 3—William H. Woodin, ex-secretary of the treasury.

May 7—William Gardner, naval architect, in Bayhead, N. J.

May 9—Joy Morton of Chicago, salt company head.

May 11—William E. Corey, former head of United States Steel corporation.

May 14—Charles De Garmo, ex-president of Swarthmore college.

May 17—Cass Gilbert, American architect.

May 19—Willis J. Abbott, veteran editor, in Brookline, Mass.

Dr. William Hoskins, famous chemist, in Chicago.

May 22—Joseph M. Dixon, ex-governor of Montana.

May 24—Brand Whitlock, former ambassador to Belgium.

May 25—William B. Wilson, first secretary of labor.

Frank Lascelles, English sculptor and painter.

Archbishop Neil McNeil of Toronto.

May 28—J. F. J. Archibald, war correspondent, in Hollywood, Calif.

Samuel T. Clover, journalist, in Los Angeles.

Prof. F. J. Pyre of University of Wisconsin.

May 29—Jackson Barnett, wealthiest Indian, in Los Angeles.

Admiral Togo, Japanese war hero.

May 31—Lew Cody, screen actor.

June 2—James Rolph, Jr., governor of California.

Maj. Gen. James Parker, retired.

June 4—Rev. C. L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame university.

June 6—Dr. C. A. Hedblom of Chicago, surgeon.

June 20—Thorne Smith, author.

June 22—M. E. Greenebaum, veteran Chicago banker.

June 24—Charles S. Thomas of Colorado, former governor and senator.

June 25—R. E. Christie, president Investment Bankers' association.

June 27—Eugene M. Rhodes, historian of the west.

Milton C. Work, bridge expert.

June 28—Zaro Agha, 160 years old, in Istanbul.

Clifford G. Roe of Chicago, noted crusader against white slavery.

June 30—The duke of Marlborough.

July 1—Chester I. Long, former senator from Kansas.

July 3—Prince Consort Henry of the Netherlands.

July 4—Mme. Marie Curie, co-discoverer of radium, in France.

Chaim Bialik of Vienna, Hebrew poet.

July 6—Franklin MacVeagh of Chicago, former secretary of the treasury.

Mrs. Maud Radford Warren, American author.

July 8—Joseph Keating, British novelist.

July 9—Col. William H. Walker, chemist.

July 13—Hugh Frayne, prominent union labor leader.

July 14—Julian Hawthorne, author, only son of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

July 16—Louis Ferdinand Gottschalk, veteran composer and conductor of light opera.

July 21—Col. J. T. Axton, former chief of chaplains of United States army.

July 24—Bishop John W. Hamilton, dean of Methodist board of bishops.

July 25—Engelbert Dollfuss, chancellor of Austria.

Francois Coty of Paris, perfumer.

July 27—Marshal L. H. Lyautey, French soldier.

July 28—Marie Dressler, actress.

Henry Irving Dodge, author and playwright.

July 29—J. L. McLaurin, former senator from South Carolina.

July 30—Paul May, Belgian ambassador to United States.

Aug. 2—Paul von Hindenburg, president of Germany.

Aug. 6—Ida Mulle, veteran light opera actress.

Aug. 7—William E. Vare, veteran Republican leader of Philadelphia.

Aug. 12—Augustus Thomas, American playwright.

Aug. 13—Mary Austin, American novelist.

Aug. 14—Raymond Hood, architect.

Aug. 15—Albert B. Dick, Chicago inventor and manufacturer.

Prof. F. E. Seagrave, astronomer, at Providence, R. I.

G. A. Kingsbury of Chicago, veteran theatrical manager.

Aug. 19—Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, speaker of the house.

Sir Nigel Playfair, English actor and manager.

Aug. 25—Hugo Victor Felix, composer, in Hollywood, Calif.

Aug. 30—Charles B. Dillingham, veteran theatrical producer, in New York.

Aug. 31—Maj. Gen. H. G. Bishop, United States army.

Sept. 2—Russ Columbo, screen actor and radio crooner, in Los Angeles.

Sept. 3—Dr. G. C. Brandenburg of Purdue university.

Arthur A. Fowler of New York, sportsman and author.

Sept. 4—Arthur Jordan of Indianapolis, philanthropist and industrialist.

Sept. 6—Gen. Theodore Bingham of New York.

Sept. 10—Count Joseph Karolyi, Hungarian legitimist leader.

Sept. 12—Catherine Breshkovskaya, Russian revolutionist, in Prague.

Sept. 13—William Lorimer, former senator from Illinois.

Dr. Berthold Laufer of Chicago, anthropologist.

Sept. 16—C. B. McNaught, Canadian financier.

Sept. 18—Ruth Hale of New York, writer and feminist.

Sept. 20—Porter Emerson Browne, American playwright.

Duke of St. Albans, descendant of Charles II.

Sept. 21—Robert Fulton Cutting, New York financier and philanthropist.

Sept. 23—Anthony Ivins, prominent Mormon, in Salt Lake City.

Lucien Gaudin of France, champion fencer.

Sept. 24—Alfred Rustem Bey, Turkish diplomat.

Sept. 25—Percy A. Rockefeller, New York financier.

Marquess of Beresford, Irish peer.

Edwin Le Mare, American organist and composer.

Sept. 28—Maj. Gen. G. H. Harries, war time commander at Brest.

Sept. 30—Harry Askin, veteran theatrical manager.

John K. Shields, former senator from Tennessee.

Oct. 5—Frank L. Coombs of California, former congressman and ambassador to Japan.

Oct. 8—Maj. Gen. W. A. Mann, United States army, retired.

Oct. 9—Louis Barthou, French foreign minister.

King Alexander of Jugoslavia.

Oct. 12—Lord Cushendun of Ulster, Ireland.

Oct. 13—Sir Arthur Schuster, British physicist.

Oct. 14—Raymond Poincare, French statesman.

Oct. 15—Charles E. Coffin of Indianapolis, philanthropist and business leader.

President E. B. Bryan of Ohio university, Athens, Ohio.

Oct. 18—Hal G. Evarts, American author.

Oct.

Get Perfect Quilt With This Design

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The quilting on a patchwork quilt may make or ruin the entire work, if the design and work is not done neatly. Beauty in the design is necessary, but the needlework and evenness of the stitches bring out the design, and if done right the result will be perfect and always admired. Needleworkers know the best way to transfer a design to cloth is through a perforated pattern. The design is perfectly drawn and perforated so that each stamping is alike and requires very little time. The stamping powder can be brushed off when work is finished, leaving no lines or marks.

Package No. 33B shown above contains seven actual size patterns, perforated on bond paper, also blue powder for stamping and full instructions just how to do it.

Pattern D 12—10 inch Spider Web is suitable for the center of the Wedding Ring Quilt. The outer lines may be omitted if a smaller size is wanted. D 11 is a 4 inch Butterfly Motif suitable for corners. D 10 is a 1½ inch Tulip Border. D 13—5 inch Feather Circle. C 7 a 2½ inch Floral border and corner. C 8—7½ inch Feather Circle. C 9—6½ by 8 inch Pineapple motif. These patterns can be used singly or in combination, and can be used many times. If they interest you, send 15c to our Quilting department, and these seven patterns will be sent you by return mail.

Address—Home Craft Company—Department D—Nineteenth and St. Louis Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Enclose a stamped addressed envelope when writing for any information.

Week's Supply of Postum Free

Read the offer made by the Postum Company in another part of this paper. They will send a full week's supply of health giving Postum free to anyone who writes for it.—Adv.

Point to Remember

Law is made for liberty, not liberty for law.

CREOMULSION
Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.
COUGHS

HELP KIDNEYS

IF your kidneys function badly and you have a lame, aching back, with attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains . . . use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

"INSIDE INFORMATION"

For Indigestion or CONSTIPATION CLEANSE INTERNALLY the tea-cup way. Garfield Tea acts promptly, pleasantly, MILDLY. Not a cure-all, but certainly effective in relieving constipation. At drug-stores—25c and 10c.

FREE SAMPLE
Write to:
Garfield Tea Co.
Dept. 12
Brooklyn, N. Y.
GARFIELD TEA

FROM GIRLHOOD UP

Mrs. J. L. Broswell of 1003 Oak St., Mobile, Ala., said: "My daughter (picture left) became thin and very pale, had dizzy headaches, and was so nervous she was not able to attend school. She took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and looked and felt like a different girl. She developed naturally and is now enjoying the best of health." Sold by druggists everywhere. New size—tablets 50c, liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid. $1.35. "We Do Our Part."

WNU—8 1—35

PIMPLY SKIN
from clogged, irritated pores, can be relieved, improved, and healing aided with Resinol

Golden Dawn

By
Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, which he names "Penelope," in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin retires from business, wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for his daughter when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—8—

For a moment she considered telephoning Dan McNamara, then decided the worthy fellow might prove an embarrassment. So she got a pistol from her bureau drawer—because she was a practical soul and dwelt alone. She had purchased the pistol as a precaution—and went to the door. She cocked the pistol, took a long breath, threw open the door suddenly and raised her weapon.

"Put 'em up," she commanded harshly.

"Don't be silly, Lanny dear," a soft voice entreated her wearily. "It's only me."

"Nancy Belden—you little devil," Lanny almost shouted. "Come in here this instant."

Nance Belden reeled in and Lanny closed the door behind her, turned the bolt, switched on the hall light—and screamed.

"Pipe down," Nance commanded, in that queer, faint, weary voice. "I'm not a corpse, but I'll tell the world I came mighty close to being one just before lock-up time this afternoon. Lanny, dear, I crashed the gate."

"Well, you'll crash out of here in a split second, you little hellion," Lanny cried sharply. "Wet as a dishrag and your hair like a witch's, and covered with blood. Where are you hurt?"

"Bullet through my left arm, high up near the shoulder. That guard could shoot, and he did! If my boy friend hadn't shot back at him and made him hunt his hole I'd be fishbait this minute."

"You've got to get out of here, Nance," Lanny was terrified. "How many visitors have you had since you've been in San Quentin?"

"Just you, Lanny."

"The authorities will look me up and they'll come here. Understand? They'll come here—there, they're on the telephone now. Oh, my good lord, what have I done to deserve this?"

She dashed into her kitchen and took down the telephone receiver. And again a masculine voice said:

"Miss Rebecca Lanning?"

Lanny controlled herself. "Yes," she said calmly. "Who's speaking?"

"Dan McNamara."

"Oh, hello, Dan. How are you?"

"Fine, Lanny. How's yourself?"

"Well, I might be dead for all the interest you've taken in me since you swallowed that good highball you grafted off me the day you came to Doctor Burt's office with that Nance Belden girl." She added archly—"you egg!"

Dan McNamara laughed. "Can I come out now?"

"The very idea. Of course not. It's almost ten o'clock and I'm just about to retire!"

"This is business, Lanny. I've got to see you at once."

"I didn't know the police were after me."

"The police aren't, but the chief is. Lanny, that Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin late this afternoon. She got to San Francisco all right. We know that because we found the speedboat she crossed the bay in tied up in the yacht harbor at the Marina. There was blood all over the cockpit and bullet holes in the hull."

"All of which proves, Dan, that God's in his heaven and all's well with the world. Are you seriously trying to recover the girl and send her back to the penitentiary?"

"I'm not. I'd give two of my big buck teeth to see her make a clean getaway. You know that. But the warden—naturally. It seems you visited Nance two weeks ago and smuggled a letter out for her and mailed it.

"Dan, I give you my word of honor I neither mailed a letter for her nor passed it to somebody else to mail. Nor did the girl discuss with me any plans for escape. If she had I would have told the warden, in order to prevent her escape. It wouldn't have been kind not to do so. The girl is mentally irresponsible and it would have occurred to me that, in any mad attempt to escape, a guard might shoot at her."

"Well a guard did, and he hit her, too. But he didn't stop her. Her outside gang opened on him with a Tommy gun from a speedboat off the point, and made him hunt his hole. Nance swam out to the boat under cover of their protective fire; they hauled her in and beat it forty-five miles an hour across San Pablo bay and headed up toward Carquinez straits, while daylight lasted. After dark they doused their lights and sneaked back. The warden telephoned Central office here and gave the alarm. I wasn't on hand, but of course the captain on duty had the water front covered at once. He had two men at the St. Francis Yacht club and they saw a speed-boat sneak in and across the little harbor to a vacant berth on the Marina side. Before the cops could hurry across, the people in the boat jumped out and to a waiting car. The cops followed in a police car as soon as they could, but one of Nance's friends riddled their front tires with machine-gun bullets and the trail was lost."

"How exciting, Dan!"

"Yes, and it will be more exciting for you, Lanny. I got home about two minutes ago and my phone was ringing. It was central office trying to report to me. They're just starting a couple of dicks out in a cruiser to watch and see if Nance tries to make your house. You're a trained nurse. The warden's found out that much—matter of looking you up in the San Francisco directory. So he thinks that she'll head for your house to receive medical attention. She got hit, you know. And you must be a friend of hers—otherwise why did you call upon her?"

"Dan," said Lanny desperately, "she's here now!"

"Into your car with her, Lanny, and beat it out to my house with her." He gave her the address. "That's the last place on earth the devil himself would hunt for an escaped convict."

"I've just heard a thump and a crash in my living room, Dan. I think she's fainted. Telephone Doctor Burt to come to your home—that he will have to probe a bullet wound and dress it. Tell him to bring some whisky and two or three hot-water bags, and be on hand yourself to let me in. I can't leave here until I've mopped up any bloodstains she may have left on the sidewalk and my front steps. Good-by."

Lanny was right. Nance Belden lay on the floor of the living room in a faint. She picked the girl up in her strong arms and carried her down a short flight of stairs that led from her kitchen to the garage below. She heaved her into the car, ran back upstairs, got a wet mop, and by the light of the electric lamp over the front entrance searched for drops of blood. She found a few and followed them to the sidewalk, eradicating them with vigorous swees of the mop, then dashed back into the house, jammed on her hat and coat, ran outside again, threw open the garage door and backed her car out. She paused again, to shut it, then swung up the street as the half-red lamps of a police cruising car turned the corner. She swung wide to give it a clear berth, turned the first corner and spurted. She followed a zig-zag course until she felt sure she had thrown the police car off her trail—provided they had become suspicious and started to follow her; she turned up a residence street that she felt reasonably certain would not be patrolled by traffic officers at that hour of the night, and speeded up.

Dan McNamara was standing on the sidewalk in front of his house when she drew up. He reached into her car, lifted Nance Belden out and ran with her down an alley alongside the house to the basement entrance, which he kicked open. Lanny followed. Up the stairs to the kitchen the big chief ran, through the kitchen and on to a rear bedroom. Lanny jerked a small rug off the floor and threw it on the bed. "Let her bleed on that for a while," she commanded. "No sense in messing the nice clean bed all up. There must be blood in my car, Dan. Take a wet towel and go out and clean it thoroughly, please, while I'm undressing this poor lamb. Get me one of your wife's clean nightgowns."

"Ain't got no wife, Lanny. Use one of mine."

"Just as good as any. Get it. Who takes care of you here?"

"My mother."

"Can she be trusted?"

"I've sent her to the country for a month," he evaded. "I'm sleeping here and eating downtown.

"God bless our home, Dan. Clear out—and watch for Stevie and let him in."

She ran to the kitchen, turned on the hot water and set an enameled skillet under the faucet; then returned, undressed the girl. In an adjoining bathroom she found clean towels and placed a cold one on her head. When she returned to the kitchen, the enameled skillet was sitting in the midst of a cloud of steam, so she knew it had been thoroughly disinfected; she filled it with warm water, carried it into the room and with a wet towel mopped the two holes in Nance's arm and examined the wound.

"Missed the bone," she decided. "Bled like a stuck pig, of course, piece of her dress probably carried into the wound."

In the medicine closet, Lanny discovered a small bottle of iodine. So she doused the wound with it, wrapped a cold towel around the girl's shoulder and tucked her into bed.

In the living room she found a brass box with cigarettes in it, so she lit one and sat down beside Nance, with her capable fingers on the girl's pulse. Evidently the count was satisfactory, for Lanny scowled at the girl and growled: "You little devil! And 'I crashed the gate,' says she proudly. Well, if you aren't the little hell-bender! You've got the nerve of a lion-tamer!"

She found a comb and brush in Dan McNamara's bureau and combed and smoothed the dank, straggly black bob, and when that was done she unbent long enough to implant a kiss on the white brow. "Poor lamb!" she murmured. "Nobody's poor lost darling!"

The girl's eyelids flickered.

"Is that you, Lanny?" the girl murmured faintly.

"Yes dearie. And you're all right, so dont worry. Nobody's going to take you back to San Quentin."

"The cops chased us at the boat landing, Lanny. Are you sure we shook them off?"

"Of course you did—the big boobs! Now, listen, dearie. I'm going to tell you something, but don't let it disturb you. Take my word for it you're safe. Do you remember Dan McNamara, the chief of police?"

"Of course. Old Daniel's my boy friend."

"Well, you're in his bed. The cops were on your trail, dearie. They suspected you might come to my house, so Dan tipped me off they were coming and to beat it with you out to his house."

Terror shone in the girl's dark eyes. "I'd never trust a cop that far," she wailed. "Oh, Lanny, you've let him make a sucker out of you." She began to weep hysterically.

"If you don't stop that," Lanny promised, "I'll bat you over the head with this skillet," and she picked that homely utensil up and shook it at Nance. "Dan McNamara's your friend."

"Yes, and chief of police, too. Lanny, I'll die if they take me back. They'll put me in the dungeon—I'm afraid of the dark."

"Shut up. You're not afraid of anything. You've got your little red badge of courage, you scaramouche! You afraid? My foot! Didn't you crash the gate and swim for that speedboat under fire?"

"Machine-gun fire, at that," Dan McNamara supplemented, from the doorway. "They opened on her and the boat from the towers." He came to the side of the bed and grinned down at the terrified girl. "Don't you worry, Nance. You're safe. I'm a cop, but I'm not without some sporting blood—your getaway earns three rousing cheers from old Dan McNamara." His big hand strayed over her face.

"You're a good old hunk of cheese," she assured him.

She turned her head toward Lanny. "Am I going to die, Lanny?" she asked.

"Not unless I kill you—which I'm liable to do if you don't buck up and believe what I tell you. You've been shot but it doesn't amount to much. You'll be all right in a week or two."

"Then I'll be good, Lanny." The tired eyes closed and while Lanny stood by, wondering what to say next, Nance sank into a sleep of profound exhaustion.

"Let her alone until Stevie comes," Lanny suggested. "The wound has stopped bleeding. Come out into the living room and if you're as crooked a cop as you ought to be you've got liquor in the house and I've got to have a drink of it." Her middle-aged face was very serious.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Dan McNamara Reached Into the Car, Lifted Nance Belden Out, Ran Up the Stairs and On to a Rear Bedroom. Lanny Jerked a Small Rug Off the Floor and Threw It on the Bed.

White Is Reflector

Flat white paint will reflect more light than any other color.

BRISBANE
THIS WEEK

A Pretty Good Christmas
Germs Travel High
We Are Coughing Better
Prairie Dogs, Catacombs

It was a satisfactory Christmas, the best since the depression began. The nation at least knows that the depression is here and that attending to it, instead of talking about things "just around the corner," is the program.

The government knows that money was made to be spent in emergencies and that helping the people is cheaper than revolution. The government is spending and helping.

Colonel Lindbergh proves, after transatlantic flights, that bacteria can travel across the ocean by air. The winds of the north Atlantic carry microscopic germs of life through the upper air. Disease germs might travel, thus, across either ocean.

That interests anybody planning to make war more interesting by adding disease germs to poison gas and high explosives.

Scientists already believed that, since life cannot be created on the earth, except supernaturally, life began on this planet probably with germs that had traveled millions, perhaps billions, of miles through space at absolute zero. They started life on the earth when it had sufficiently cooled off, and may have been brought in the wake of flying meteors.

Heat destroys microscopic life, cold does not.

Cheerful optimists, telling you that conditions are getting better, remind you of Meyer Hecht's benevolent friend who told each tuberculosis patient, "You are coughing better this morning."

We all are "coughing" a little better. It has been the best, most freely spending Christmas season since the depression began. Merchants testify to that. The season of grand opera opened in New York with every seat sold and a demand for seats nonexistent.

Mr. Hull, able secretary of state, wants freer trade with foreign countries. Those that shut their markets to the outside world are like "animals which burrow in the ground," says Mr. Hull. That might be true, without proving that protection is unwise.

Animals burrowing in the ground—prairie dogs, etc.—would regret it if they came to the surface and sat around inviting coyotes to eat them. Early Christians burrowing in the catacombs were better off than they would have been on the surface, thrown to the lions.

It is better for this country to burrow under protection than be thrown to the lions of free competition of labor and manufacturing.

Occasionally you hear what Mr. Field called "a sour note" in the hopeful chorus of "Happy Days Are Here Again." Senator Dickinson of Iowa—Republican, of course—says NRA plans have collapsed. He finds that "monopoly" is being encouraged, private initiative is being depressed and the small business man driven to the wall—"The rich are becoming richer and the poor poorer."

That will be news for some of the rich—they had not heard it. You may hear many of them say now, "If I can get together and keep enough to take care of my family, that is all I ask," and they mean it.

Projects thus far proposed by congressmen and executives in Washington would cost Uncle Sam, in addition to money already spent, $30,000,000,000, and would double the national debt. If the money were wisely created, wisely spent, the country would be better off, with many employed in useful work. But if it is found necessary to inflate with interest-bearing bonds, instead of simply printing the money and later retiring it as bonds would be retired, the $30,000,000,000 would cost the country $60,000,000,000.

Is it really necessary to force on taxpayers that extra load of $30,000,000,000 for interest, when interest bonds are just so much "inflation money," in no respect different from greenbacks?

According to dispatches from Nanking, China's killing methods make the efforts of Stalin or Hitler seem feeble. Gen. Kiang Kai-Shek gives proof in Kiangsi province. Six million people have been driven from their homes and 1,000,000 killed in cold blood by "Red Communist" troops.

The killing championship is now with China, naturally one of the most peaceful countries on earth.

Mr. Irenee du Pont, munitions manufacturer, who knows about war, since he produces "the goods," tells the munitions committee "the only way to wage a war is to have an absolute monarch at the head of the government"; also "we shall have a h—l of a time in case of war."

No question about the last statement.

Mr. Baruch, entering whole-heartedly into the President's campaign to prevent profits for munitions makers in wartime, wisely urges preparation, says the country should buy and store thousands of tons of tin for use in the event of war. "I think we ought to buy tin just as we would invest in a battleship, and keep it in storage."

© King Features Syndicate, Inc. WNU Service.

Housewife's Idea Box

More Juice From Lemons

Lemon juice is a splendid flavoring for cakes as well as for beverages. Of course you want to get all the juice from them that you possibly can. You will find that you can extract a great deal more juice from a lemon if you place it in a fairly hot oven for five minutes before using.

THE HOUSEWIFE.

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc. WNU Service.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills put up 60 years ago. They regulate liver and bowels.—Adv.

Boat That Made History

The war vessel Monitor, built in 1861, was designed by Capt. John Ericsson, one of the inventors of the screw propeller. Its sides were protected by armor plate five inches thick and its turret by armor eight inches thick. Its queer appearance gave it the name, "the Yankee cheese box on a raft."

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES
Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust
At All Drug Stores
Write Murine Co., Dpt. W, Chicago, for Free Book

Really Simple

Economy begins in not wanting something one can't afford.

CHAPPED SKIN
To quickly relieve chapping and roughness, apply soothing, cooling Mentholatum.
MENTHOLATUM
Gives COMFORT Daily

Female Help Wanted

SPECIAL EMPLOYMENT for married women, $15 weekly and your own dresses FREE representing nationally known Fashion Frocks. No canvassing. No investment. Send dress size. Fashion Frocks. Dept. A-385, Cincinnati, O.

Those Fish Stories

Fisherman—I tell you it was that long. I never saw such a fish!

Friend—I believe you.

Help Kidneys
If poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Smarting, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Sis-tex)—Must fix you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.
Cystex

Little Girl's Face Inflamed by Psoriasis
Healed by Cuticura

"My little girl's face was so inflamed that her eyes were swollen almost shut. The trouble was diagnosed as psoriasis. She scratched night and day and was not able to obtain rest. The scratching aggravated the trouble and each finger tip was red and swollen with infection. She became so emaciated that she was very pathetic looking.

"After three months' suffering I recalled the Cuticura treatment used by my mother. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and used them according to directions. The first treatment brought relief and she is now healed." (Signed) Mrs. Marie I. Johnson, 4720 Ames Ave., Omaha, Neb., March 14, 1934.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold Everywhere. One sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. R, Malden, Mass."—Adv.

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION
ENCLOSE STAMP
JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KAN.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published Every Thursday Morning At Columbiana, Alabama. Entered As Second Class Matter At The Post Office In Columbiana, Alabama, Under Act Of Congress, March 3, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

Did Solomon Say It?

The Pickens County Herald declares "And the six-hour day, five days a week could not be made to fit into any farming system that we know anything about." And it would not, and really does not in any other industry that wants to contribute its just share to the common welfare. Old King Solomon set it forth when he assigned eight hours for work, eight hours for recreation and the service of our fellow man, and eight hours for sleep. The plan is good to this day. The short hours may be allotted to some of the industries, but the allotment is entirely at the expense of the former and others who are situated as he is.—The Demopolis Times.

While we are always disposed to tread softly in the matter of "quoting Scripture," we are persuaded that Brother Cornish is confusing Old King Sol with some other Wise Man of less remote antiquity when he speaks of the subdivision of the day into 8 hours for work and 8 hours for sleep and 8 hours for recreation and service. In Solomon's time the ideas of recreation and service to our fellow man had hardly been introduced into our economic system. Besides this magnificent Son of David is reputed to have had seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines, besides the Queen of Sheba to entertain. Eight hours for recreation would not have met the requirements of those leisurely times.—The Selma Times-Journal, Selma, Alabama.

Clarifying The Bonus

Mr. Roosevelt's letter to the Texas legionnaire on the bonus question puts with the greatest force and simplicity the reasons why those who are veterans are at odds with their own interest when they insist on the immediate payment of this long-term obligation. The President is of the opinion that most of those clamoring for prompt liquidation do not understand what it is all about, that they are not keeping before themselves the terms and conditions of the adjusted payment plan and that they are not considering the burden they would heap upon the country through the cashing of bonus certificates.

The President, moreover, punctures the pretext that payment of the bonus would promote recovery. No one is more eager than he is to put in operation every device for forwarding recovery. But he knows what happened when not so long ago a vast sum of money was distributed among certificate holders. He knows that this release of funds did not alter the situation generally and did not greatly improve the status of those who were supposed to benefit from it. In the light of that experience, Mr. Roosevelt dismisses an argument which has no basis save the wishful think of bonus supporters.—The Birmingham Age-Herald.

20 Per Cent For Taxes

An illuminating article on the heavy burden of taxation borne by the American people appeared in a recent issue of the United States News, which shows that 20 per cent, or one-fifth, of the entire national income is swallowed up by federal, state and local taxation.

This is more than is spent for food, and much more than is spent for clothing and rent on homes combined. Careful estimates indicate that the average citizen's dollar of income is spent as follows:

Taxes, 20c; food, 17c; clothing, 9c; rent, 9c; automobile, 6c; fuel and light, 5c; household furnishings, 4c; insurance, 3c; medical attention, travel and recreation and the movies, about 2c each; tobacco and laundry, 1c each. This leaves about 19c for miscellaneous expenses and savings. These figures are averages, and vary greatly according to individual incomes and spending habits.

Persons who own little or no property may imagine that they do not contribute much in the way of taxes, but it should be borne in mind that all taxes are finally passed on to the ultimate consumer of goods or services.

The nation's tax bill is now more than nine billion dollars a year, and the federal government, as well as many state and local governments, are still going farther and farther in debt. What the tax bill will be a little later can only be guessed, but it is sure to be much higher than at present if government spending on its present lavish scale continues.—Bastrop (La.) Enterprise.

Alabama's Relief Load Is Reduced By Half

The relief load in Alabama has been reduced from 103,916 families on August 31 to approximately 56,000 as of November 30, according to Thad Holt, state relief administrator. This is a reduction by almost half. The expectation is that it will be reduced by more than half, or to not more than 50,000 families, by February 1, when all unemployables will have been taken from the relief rolls and turned over to the counties as local responsibilities.

Much of the reduction has been brought about through the placing of farm families on rehabilitation instead of relief. All farm families that were on relief were placed on rehabilitation on September 1, which meant that the federal government lent them money with which to grow crops, instead of continuing to give them direct relief. The load was further cut by the removal from the rolls of persons found to be undeserving of relief.

Thus the relief situation in Alabama has been greatly improved, from the federal government's standpoint. Local responsibilities however, have been increased, although not in proportion to the decrease in the federal burden.—The Birmingham News.

What Alabama Needs?

Mr. Harry Hopkins tells Governor Miller that the "primary responsibility" rests on the state to keep the schools open and running. It is a timely retort and hard to refute, but the propensity of going to Uncle Sam with one's palm extended for alms and gratuities has become such a fixed habit, we have lost the power to resist it. Alabama has two sources of revenue which it lacks the political stamina to invoke, one is a "sales tax" and the other is the outsing of prohibition. Both of these reserves would afford a way out and provide the means to run the schools. But we prefer to sit back and play the role of "cry-baby" and stand around the corridors of the relief offices in Washington waiting for a chance to beg for a handout.

Even if we should succeed in getting an answer to our prayers and receive a check for immediate needs, it would only be a "stop-gap," and after it was expended, we should find ourselves in the same melancholy plight we are now in. The problem of paying for the education of our own children would be down on the agenda and still unsolved.

What Alabama needs is leadership with a constructive program and statesmanship that takes a realistic view of its problem of education. If it lacks these fundamental requisites, it will hang onto the relief rolls as long as it can, "play politics" with its vital needs and then sink to a lower level of economic life and take its place among the hopelessly backward states. We have only a small moiety of the mettle and daring self-reliance of our forefathers left. Will this vital spark slowly flicker to extinction?—The Selma Times-Journal.

See!

The captain of a steamer took on two hands—one a Kircaldy man without a written character, and the other from Dundee possessed of abundant documentary evidence as to his honesty. They had not been long at sea when they encountered rough weather, and the Dundee man, when crossing the deck with a bucket in his hand, was swept overboard.

The Kircaldy man saw what happened and sought out the captain. "Dae ye mind yon mon from Dundee," he said, "that ye engaged wi' the fine character?"

"Yes," said the captain. "What of it?"

"He's awa' wi' yer bucket," was the reply.—The Bystander.

THIS AND THAT

By W. J. BALDWIN

God needed an annex to Heaven, so He made Alabama.

306 shopping days until Christmas. Shop early!

MONTGOMERY—A mammy rocking a cradle.

When a man fills a public office for years, runs for re-election and nobody dares oppose him, it's a safe bet that man knows his job. When election years roll around, the electorate of Alabama say to themselves, "We have a good man in that office, so why elect another?" They refer, of course, to that venerable trustworthy official, State Auditor C. E. McCall, than whom there is none better, none more popular, none more efficient.

A city, a state, a church, a home and a profession suffered an irreparable loss in the recent death of General James B. Stanley, who established The Greenville Advocate in 1865 and edited it uninterruptedly up to the day of his passing. No other newspaper publisher enjoys such an enviable distinction. Gen. Stanley endeared himself to all who knew him and literally thousands knew him. His going away left a lot of vacancies, few of any of which can be filled.

FOR SALE—A tie that's too green, a pair of socks that don't fit, and a box of cigars that don't smell right.

The New Year was greeted with inspired enthusiasm by millions who didn't fare so well during the old year. The old year was not so bad; the trouble, to a large extent, was with us. The man who buckled down, held his chin up, smiled and went at his troubles in the right spirit and with the right punch didn't suffer so much. The pessimist who thinks the world owes him a living and should settle the account without any persuasion on the part of the debtor, is the one who grumbles about the times and who will grumble again when another year passes on.

And there were two Doras so dumb, one thought Yuletide had something to do with the sea; the other thought Eli Whitney patented a drink.

Another hash season opened Wednesday morning December 26th.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS TO PROBATE WILL.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
PROBATE COURT
December 14th, 1934.

This day came Annie L. O'Neal and filed her application in writing and under oath therewith producing and filing in this Court an instrument of writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Charles L. O'Neal, deceased, and praying for such orders, decrees and proceedings as will duly and legally effect the Probate and record of said instrument as such will.

And the 10th day of January, 1935, having been set as a day for hearing said petition and the proof to be submitted in support of same and it further appearing that the following next of kin of said deceased are non-residents of the State of Alabama, viz.;

Carrie O'Neal, William O'Neal, Sherman O'Neal, Russell O'Neal and Mildred O'Neal, all of whom reside in the State of Washington, and whose post office addresses are unknown; Logan O'Neal, who resides at and whose post office address is Mt. Vernon, in the State of Washington; Mark O'Neal, who resides in the State of New Jersey, and whose post office address is unknown; Frank Johnson, who resides at and whose post office address is Xenia, in the State of Ohio, and Charles Johnson, who resides in the State of Ohio and whose post office address is unknown, all of whom are over twenty-one years of age.

It is therefore ordered that notice of the filing of said application and of the day set for hearing same be given by publication once a week for three successive weeks in the Shelby County Democrat, a newspaper published in Shelby County, Alabama. Notice is hereby given in said named non-residents, and all other persons in interest, to be and appear in this Court on said 10th day of January, 1935, to contest said application if they think proper so to do.

CAGE HEAD,
Judge of Probate.
12-20-3t.

Seven Eclipses Of Sun And Moon To Be Visible In 1935

PASADENA, Calif.—The sun in 1935 will present its greatest show of eclipses witnessed on the earth in 130 years.

Prof. Alfred H. Joy, secretary of the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson Observatory, said Sunday the sun and moon together will offer seven eclipses, the largest number possible in any one year.

The moon will pass between the sun and the earth five times and the moon will be in the earth's shadow twice.

Not since 1805 have the sun's rays been partly blotted from the earth so many times. It will be the second series of five solar eclipses in one year since 1255 and there will not be another such number until 2485. And here is the rub for the 1935 show: only two eclipses will be visible in the United States.

Prof. Joy said a partial eclipse of the sun will be visible over the United States next February 3rd. The sun will rise eclipsed for the Pacific Coast region.

A total eclipse of the moon will be visible over the entire United States July 16th.

The last total eclipse of the sun visible in the United States was August 31, 1932, and there will not be another seen in this country until 1945.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes
Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

—Complete—
FUNERAL PROTECTION
—No Age Limit—
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama
A. N. Vail,
Montevallo, Alabama
R. L. Veazy,
Siluria, Alabama

To Our Friends and Customers:

The old year with all its trials and uncertainties has gone, and with its going a ray of light has been shed in the fact that it brought us more than we expected. The New Year is here, and with it a promise of better days to come. It is now up to each of us to do our part in making this promise come true.

Withfull hearts we want to thank our friends and customers for their support during 1934, and for the years to come we pledge our earnest efforts to serve you better.

Remember we carry a full line of all kinds of seasonable merchandise at attractive prices. We also have a good run of mules, horses, cows, hogs and feed.

We want you to come to see us!

Wishing you all the good things in this life, and happiness in the Beyond, we remain

Sincerely yours,

Big Bud McGraw Brothers Little Bud
Vincent, Alabama

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

JANUS. 1935!

The Romans worshipped a god called JANUS, and the calendar month January, is named for him because it is the beginning of a new year. Old God Janus was fashioned by the Roman sculptors with two faces, one looking over the old year, and one looking forward to the daws of a New Year—hence the idea of taking an inventory of yourself and making resolutions "never again" to be guilty of "this and that", is possibly built around this symbol.

However, the more modern Cheerful Cherub has a wiser philosophy according to my way of thinking and he says:

"It's such an awful loss of life
To do a thing and then regret it—
Why waste the future on the past?
It's wiser simply to—FORGET IT!"

So, here's to the future—It is pretty apt to take care of itself anyway. There are lots of little inconsequential things which we regarded entirely too important in the structure of things last year. We are discarding a few of these "WORRIES" —during 1935!

As for RESOLUTIONS—Personally, I have been too busy turning the camera of memory on the past year's happenings, and reproducing pictures of former happy times, I do not want to forget—and trying to obliterate from the panorama some of the scenes I want to forget, that I have not had time to decide just what I will NOT do during 1935. However, there are a few things I am going to promise you I won't ever forget and among these Holiday souvenirs are Memory pictures of blazing logs upon the friendly hearth. The sweet companionship of friends who came to share it. Frost upon the window panes. The laugh and radiant light in the kiddies eyes—those whom Santa Claus remembered. The Christmas joy that shone from the eyes of a cherished elderly friend, still young, though adorned with silvering hair. The disappointed look in a child's eyes who told me that Santa Claus did not leave a "single toy or anything at our house". There are four children in the family and they live within the shadow of a Church in this very town. How on earth this child-tragedy got by ALL of us, I am at a loss to know. There is nothing sadder to me than the genuine disappointment of a child at Christmas time. Life at best is not one long holiday. The disappointing episodes we encountered in "Jack and Jill" days, may be mellowed by Time's kindly fingers, and in a measure forgotten in the sterner struggle and joys of later accomplishment, but never are they wholly obliterated from our recollections of child hood happenings. Surely, at this season, this heart ache could have been spared this little one, had we ALL been on our jobs and carrying out the Christmas spirit. Personally, I feel terribly negligent.

The morning mail brings in about the best definition of Personal Mention I have yet received. It is written by a co-SOCIAL ITEMIST, and I reprint it so you can see what I am or what I am supposed to be.

THE SOCIAL ITEM.

"I am the Social Item.
I am the echo of clothesline gossip.
I am the grapevine telegraph in print.
I record the minor and publishable doings of important people.
I tell where Mrs. Jones went on Tuesday.
I tell what she ate on Friday.
I am the quintessence of the inconsequential.
I am the epitome of piffle.
I am the bunk."

BUT

"I proclaim the importance of the unimportant.
I proclaim the consequence of the inconsequent.
I announce that the little things are the greatest.
I assert that a wedding is of more significance than a lawsuit.
And that a Sunday dinner has more weight than a national election as an institution.
I deal with the last which is first.
I mock the press of servile lands, which reports only the doings of the nobility for the edification of the flunkies.
I proclaim that Mrs. O'Grady is probably as good as the Colonel's Lady
And maybe—a deal better.
To me one side of the railroad track is no better than the other.
And Mayme Smith's birthday party rates as much space and position as Miss Vere de Vere's debut.
For I am the evidence of an ideal of social democracy which has taken on form and flesh.
I am the realization of old Tom Jefferson's prophecies.
I am the symbol of a great achievement.
I am the token of things to come.
I am a dream come true.
I am the SOCIAL ITEM"——

Heard in Columbiana Drug Store:

Stranger to Howard Whittaker—Are you a Doctor?

"Naw", replied Howard behind the counter, "I'm just the FIZZICIAN".

One of the delightful social courtesies extended to Mrs. Alice Carlisle of Lexington, Kentucky, while she was visiting old friends in Columbiana, during the holidays, was a beautiful dinner party staged in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Merrell, who were hosts on this happy occasion.

Christmas decorations were arranged throughout the house, and added their gay and festive color note to the unusually joyous occasion. A four course dinner was served to the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. James Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Christian, Mrs. Pinkie Jordan and Mrs. Alice Carlisle.

Make 1935 Your Most Enjoyable Year By Always Getting The B-E-S-T——And That Is What You Get Here—

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

Heart Drifts

"WHAT DOES LOVE RENDER ME"?

What does love render me?
Heartaches and pain,
And dim disillusionment
Again and again.

What else does love give me?
A deep dull despair,
That resigns me to helplessness
And engulfs me in care.

But ONCE IN A LIFETIME
One's dreams will come true—
Some day I'll be happy
With someone like YOU.

—(Contributed)

TREACHEROUS SHADOWS.

I once looked in a woman's dreaming,
Through its fragile exquisite crown
All studded with wonder jewels,
The angels wafted down.

Then I looked away forever,
From lingering sorrow, tears,
To remember only the glory,
Of beautiful promised years.

—(Contributed)

BY FAITH ALONE.

Could I be sure of God and of your love,
There would be peace in living. But torment
Jabs at life's elbow, till my discontent
Rises like smoke to sail the sky above.
Is there, beyond this world of storm and strife,
Another world of immortality?
Or is this being our reality?
And will you love me, dearest all my life?
Questions - questions - and no way of knowing
Answers to any. I but grope ahead,
Nor guess whence I have come nor whither going,
Nor what the unknown answer when I'm dead.
By faith alone may mortals stay despair;
We can but HOPE love lasts—that GOD is there.

—(Contributed)

PROBLEMS.

"If a thing puzzles you too much, child",
My mother used to say,
"Put it away.
Forget it awhile
And run out doors and play."

TODAY.

Tired and worn with a problem too great for my heart,
I shall lay it aside,
I shall go out into a world that is wide;
I shall forget
The intricate task—the fret—
The clamor of it to be done;
I shall drink it in the winey wind, and the sun;
I shall lie down on a green gold slope awhile;
I shall look into the blue above me, mile on mile,
I shall look long—
And then, going back,
I shall laugh aloud to see
How simple is the problem waiting me.

—(Crowell)

Kiddies' Kolumn

Dear Kiddies:-

As the New Year comes in, I invite you to return to our columns with your own little plans and specifications for Mr. 1935. This feature edited by you was one of the most popular ones we have ever tried. Both old and young enjoyed it. We have been asked many times about it, and I, personally, have missed receiving your letters each week. So, get out your pens and pencils and by the time this reaches you, you will have returned to your studies and everything will be running along smoothly, and you must tell us about all the things you are interested in.

Joyce Jackson, Hazel Ruth Swann and Louise Lovelady, I appoint you a committee of three to help me with this little "Happy Corner", and for your trouble I will send to each of you the Democrat for one year. You may start a Scrap Book, and some day have a good time running through its pages and "remembering" school days and the "Kiddies Kolumn".

Will be looking foryou—next week. Don't disappoint me.

Devotedly yours,
Mildred White Wallace.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bishop, of Louisville, Ky., are visiting their sisters, Misses Gertrude and Irene Bishop.

Wonder who the Democrat's New Year Baby subscriber will be? Let us have the name of the first baby born since 1935, and he or she will immediately go on our list for this year as our "youngest subscriber". Charlie Swann, Jr., was our first little subscriber for 1933—a little Miss Wyatt copped the prize for 1934—and we are awaiting the name of Mr. or Miss 1935. We would also like a letter from Mr. Swann and Miss Wyatt for next weeks issue—The first series of Kiddies letters will appear at that time.

By the way, no better RESOLUTION could be made by some delinquent subscribers than to "PAY UP" today and be assured of getting your paper 52 weeks this year. Many of you have failed to do this, but have asked that we continue to send the paper until "after Christmas" when the rush and expense was not so great. We have been delighted to do this, but we will be disappointed if we do not hear from you soon. Here's hoping that there will be no vacant chairs in our large circle of readers this year, on account of only one little American eaglet.

Mrs. John Curlee and John, Jr., have returned from a visit to Mrs. A. A. Acker in Birmingham.

Circuit Court will convene on January 21st.

W. A. Parker, of Birmingham, is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Tol Parker.

Mrs. Grace Carter entertained with a Dinner Party in Curlee's Cafe on Friday night honoring the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Niven. Included in this congenial gathering were noted Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Veazy, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Miss Earnestine Veazy, of Monroeville, honorees; Miss Sara Nell Carter, Rux Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Niven, Jeanette Niven and the hostess, Mrs. Grace Carter.

The many friends of Miss Grace Rowland are delighted to see her out again after a seige with Old Man Flu. That old fellow has been playing havoc with a number of our friends during the past week. He has played tag with me for the past few days, but so far, I have out run him.

A lovely party given by Mr. and Mrs. John Curlee, honoring their attractive sisters, Misses Myra and Avis Acker, of Birmingham, intrigued the younger set on last Thursday night, when the Curlee Cafe was again the scene of merriment.

Gay and colorful decorations transformed this popular cafe into a beautifully arranged hall. The game of Hearts was enjoyed after which dancing and other contests followed.

The Misses Acker are very popular with the Columbiana social set who regretted their leaving on Friday morning for their home in Birmingham.

On December 23rd, Mrs. Emma Miles, beloved by all in Columbiana, received hearty and sincere expressions of love and all good wishes from her many friends, as she celebrated the passing of her 83rd birthday anniversary.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Snow, of Helena, and by far the handsomest child we know of in Shelby County, J. W., Jr.. were seen lunching together in Curlee's on Saturday. This youngster could go any where and walk off with any prize he decided to go after. Good looks plus a personality that will win for him friends no matter what comes or goes, equipps him well for whatever life may have in store for him.

I want to especially call your attention to the Boy Scout column this week. Willie Thomason has written a wonderful article and I offer my heartiest congratulations to this enthusiastic leader of Boy Scouts in the Siluria community, and I pat myself on the back for obtaining him as Editor of this feature for the Democrat. Watch out for this up and coming American boy. We shall all hear from him—later!

Harold Harlin, Court Reporter for the 18th Judicial Circuit, will arrive in Columbiana on January 9th.

The High School contingent gave J. B. Turner, Jr., a surprise party on Monday night when they learned he was chalking up number 17 years to his credit. Watching the Old Year out and welcoming the New Year in proved about as exciting as celebrating the occasion of wishing their good looking host "many happy returns of the day". However, J. B. is one of the most popular members of the football squad as well as a coveted "beau brummel" with the feminine element, so this particular birthday celebration was well attended and will not soon be forgotten.

Here is a letter just in "Wishing For You Contentment". Shucks! Contentment is not Happiness. An oyster may be Contented—and who wants to be an—Oyster?

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Collins, Jr., have returned to their home in Poplar Bluff, Mo., after spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Collins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tinney have returned to their home in Ensley after spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tinney and family.

Mr. Earl Gill, of Lagrange, Ga., spent the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Gill in Columbiana. He was accompanied home by one of his friends, Mr. J. H. Bird, of Summerville, S. C.

Mr. Fonzy Gill, of Harpersville, spent the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Gill.

Now, here is one I like better—"I wish for you a year filled with Activity. Action may not always bring Happiness, but there is no Happiness without action". So, here's to the New Year filled with activity—toiling, feeling, thinking, hoping, wishing, living, with just enough time for Dreaming to make it all come true. What do you say? Let's turn over a new leaf and get going!

MOSTELLER

We have had lots of visitors for Christmas—so many that we can not tell you about them all.

The treasurer of our church reports that we paid out during the past four months $95.20, of which $65.67 was used for local expense and $29.53 for missions.

Miss Ruth McNeill returned from Montgomery and is back teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessee Merrell and daughter, Jesse Mae, spent Christmas here with Mrs. F. J. Merrell and family.

Mrs. Antha Conville, of Sylacauga, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Quila Hand.

We hope that 1935 will bring you much joy and happiness. And we wish you Mr. Head, Mrs. Wallace and Mr. Richardson, also all the readers of our Shelby County Democrat a prosperous year.

Come to church Sunday and hear our Pastor's best sermon.

WANTED—Old U. S. Stamps on or off envelopes before 1880, Confederate States Stamps and Envelopes, Old Books about Alabama, Indians, the South. Write Graymont School, Birmingham, Alabama. 1-3-1t.

WHY USE A SUBSTITUTE WHEN THE ORIGINAL COSTS NO MORE?

CRAZY CRYSTALS NOW 60c AND $1.00.

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

COME TO SEE US!

Fewer Aches and Pains More Health and Pleasure

PAIN drags you down—physically, mentally, morally.

Why continue to endure it? Try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic, and Periodic Pains. They seldom fail.

Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills are pleasant to take and prompt to act. They do not upset the stomach, cause constipation or leave you with a dull, depressed feeling.

Ask your druggist or any of the hundreds of thousands enthusiastic users. Probably you too can find relief.

Mrs. Blankenship

Phil Goller

Mrs. Tidabach

Maggie Dudley

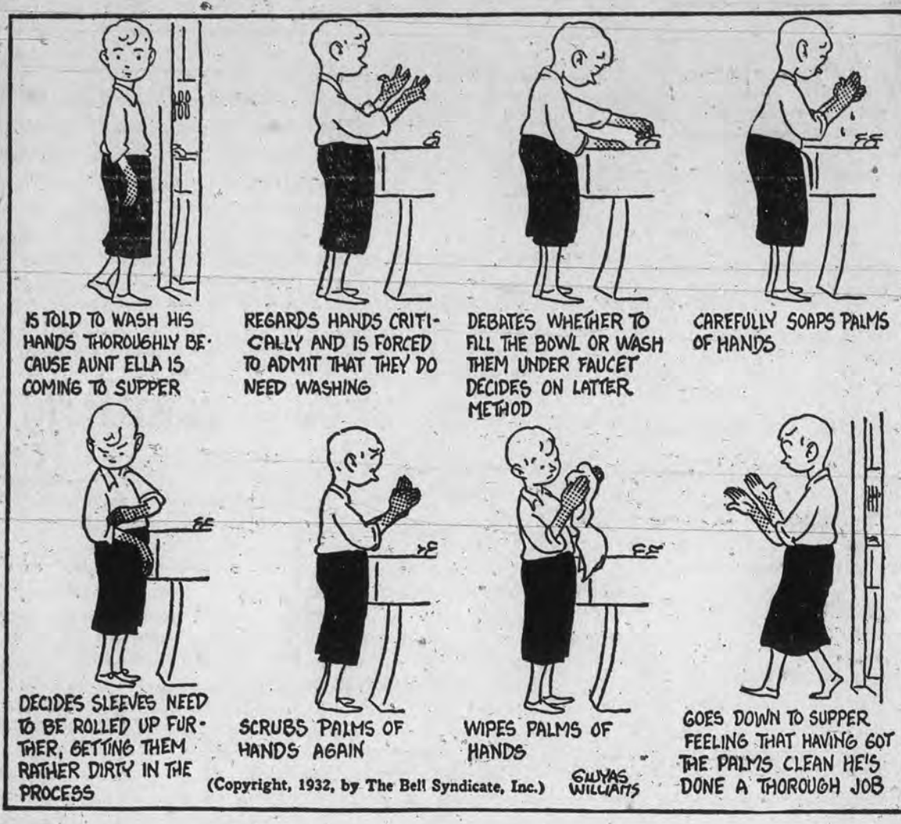
I think all Dr. Miles medicines are wonderful, but Anti-Pain Pills are my favorite.
Mrs. Doc Blankenship, Stamford, Texas

I have used your Anti-Pain Pills only a short time, but they have given me prompt relief. They did for me in a week more than any other medicine I had taken for a year. Phil Goller,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin

I am never without Anti-Pain Pills. I think they are much better than anything else I have ever used. Sometimes when I am tired and nervous, and feel like I would go under, I take two Anti-Pain Pills and in a sort time I feel like a different person. Mrs. S. Tidabach,
Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania

Your Anti-Pain Pills have been used in my home with wonderful results. I recommend them.
Maggie Belle Dudley, Vanceboro, N. C.

Your Anti-Pain Pills helped me a great deal. I have used them for years. I carry them everywhere in my purse and always keep them in the house. They have saved me a great many sick headaches.
Mrs. Jennie Neill,
Coronado, Calif.



DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

OUR COMIC SECTION

SNAPSHOTS OF A BOY WASHING HIS HANDS

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

(Copyright, 1932, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne

© Western Newspaper Union

"Letter" Ride

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin

© By Western Newspaper Union

The "Write" Track

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—The most important pending political question in Washington, in the judgment of at least three important figures, is whether Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor takes the $20,000 job as federal agent at the Federal Reserve bank at San Francisco, which Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has kept dangling before him for the last month.

The three men who think so are members of the Federal Reserve board, who made that simple statement to the writer, Mr. Morgenthau, and, though, this, of course, is an assumption based on the human tendency not to underestimate one's own importance in the scheme of things, Mr. O'Connor himself.

If O'Connor takes the job, thus permitting the naming of a new comptroller who will be utterly subservient to Morgenthau, absolute domination of the reserve board and comptroller's office—which means absolute domination of the banks of the country—will pass into Morgenthau's hands.

If he sticks, there will be a fight, in which O'Connor will have some powerful support on Capitol Hill among the conservatives, especially those who like the original plan for an independent reserve board, which would run the banks without regard to politics or political tendencies.

The present battle, of course, is not with regard to "political" tendencies in the ordinary sense of the word. It has nothing to do with patronage, or whether those involved are members of this party or that. "Political" in this sense merely means control of the banking system by an administration, which would like to have the banks of the country spring into action whenever the administration wanted a particular line pursued.

Japan's Bad Luck

Japan seems to have bad luck in retaining the services of its diplomats who acquire an appreciation and understanding of Americans. The tragic death of former Ambassador Hanihara, who died, according to friends, of a broken heart, is a case in point. When he was a young secretary at his embassy in Washington, Hanihara was a great friend of Richard V. Culahan, then correspondent for the New York Times. Samuel G. Blythe, a great friend of Culahan, mentioned him in a Saturday Evening Post article, but slyly called him "O'Houlahan."

Whereupon Hanihara, who was visiting with his wife down in Texas, sent a postcard to Dick with the words: "The Hani O'Haras send their regards to the O'Houlahans."

It was Hanihara's desperate effort to convince Secretary of State Hughes of the seriousness of the immigration restrictions that cut short his political career. Hughes transmitted Hanihara's note to congress to prove that he was not understating the case. Members of a congressional committee, with quite normal disregard of consequences, made it public. Since then he has been Japan's forgotten man. And he died in his early fifties.

Another Japanese diplomat who had learned to understand Americans, Sadao Saburi, feared that he had let his foreign office down in a subsequent assignment to China. He killed himself in his early forties. These Japanese take their mistakes, or their misfortunes, very seriously indeed, though it is difficult to understand their feeling that their honor is so compromised by failure.

May Cut Dollar Again

Further devaluation of the gold value of the dollar to the full one-half authorized by congress is being seriously considered by the administration. At the moment it seems very likely, reluctant as the President is to take a step, which the gold bloc countries of Europe insist would force them to further gold devaluation of their currencies. If it is decided to take the step, it may come before congress gets down to consideration of related subjects, though it may be delayed so as to be a trading point in soldier bonus compromises.

Administration leaders now believe that they can obtain a bonus compromise, which will cost the government $1,200,000,000. Raising the price of gold to $41.34 an ounce from the present $35 would yield the government a profit of approximately $1,000,000,000. The size of this amount is due to large purchases of gold in addition to nationalization of domestic gold at the old price of $20.67. So that, if the administration is right in its hopes for a bonus compromise, only $200,000,000 additional would be needed. And obviously devaluation would shave actual payments on the bonus by nearly 17 per cent.

Japan's attitude on gold plays a part in the considerations. It has been holding gold at approximately $65 an ounce, thus depreciating its currency so far as to play havoc with American exports to South America and other markets.

Another element, which has played an important part in the situation leading up to this further devaluation of the dollar being given serious consideration, is the fact that the government has not been able to buy anything like the quantity of silver it had hoped. Despite skillful maneuvering, such as the government's suddenly withdrawing its bid for silver on the London market, as though it had abandoned its campaign, and then rushing in with purchases next day seeking to take advantage of the temporary lowering of price, the silver purchases have been very disappointing.

Need Further Inflation

For naturally the government, pleased over the tremendous profit made in devaluing gold, had been hoping to buy all the silver it wanted at low prices, and repeat the profit. Unfortunately for this hope, China's protests that the American government was ruining her with the silver buying policy, and this government's reply that it was sorry but would have to keep on, served official notice on the world of this government's intention to buy a lot of silver. So holders of the white metal held on, hoping for higher prices.

Entirely aside from this, however, President Roosevelt is convinced that a little further inflation is necessary. He had thought to obtain it by silver purchases. Also to make a big profit out of silver. The conferences now going on look to at least deferring this program, and getting both the inflation and the profit by further devaluing gold.

Several knotty problems are involved. Not the least is the situation of the gold bloc countries. They have informed the President that if there is any further marking down of the gold value of the dollar, every one of them will be forced to devalue. Italy, France and Belgium of course devalued drastically. Italy 75 per cent, France 80 per cent and Belgium slightly more, when they returned to gold after the war. Holland and Switzerland are practically alone in having maintained the gold value of their currencies unchanged since before the war.

One other point being duly considered is that no matter what this government does, Britain is expected to follow suit. Apparently her effort is to maintain the pound at about $5. It is thought she would continue to keep it pegged at $5, or a little lower if possible, no matter how much the value of the dollar should be reduced. In fact, it is the virtual certainty of this, rather than what may be done to the dollar, that has caused so much agitation among the gold bloc countries.

Cheaper Electricity

Electric rates are going to be forced down all over the United States, if President Roosevelt can do it, despite all the recent talk about a "truce" between the President and the utilities. And there is no doubt whatever in the President's mind that he can do it.

This idea of a rapprochement between these two bitter enemies, dating back to the preconvention campaign, in which the utilities, frightened by many of the actions of Roosevelt as governor of New York, fought his nomination, has been considerably exaggerated.

Reporters mistook the President's smile of triumph for a smile of compromise and good feeling. It was good humor, all right, but there was only the good feeling that a victor feels when his adversary has both shoulders to the ground.

What had happened was simple. The President had scared the electric companies to death with his suggestion, made in his Southern speech, of new TVA's all over the country. Immediately various utility magnates began to run to the White House.

Then, when the President was questioned about it, he threw out what appeared at first glance a new and rather benevolent theory about the fixing of rates. The yardstick to determine return on investment, or rather on the investment on which a return should be permitted, was to be "prudent investment" rather than reproduction value. As was explained at the time, reproduction value presented too many difficulties. And applied only—so far as the utilities were concerned—when their properties had enhanced rather than diminished in value.

But actually a more accurate interpretation of the President's mind would be had if instead of "prudent investment" were substituted "prudent investment, or reproduction value, which ever is lower."

For the President and his advisers have no idea whatever of allowing a capitalization on which a fair return can be made if that capitalization is in excess of what the plant could be reproduced for, no matter how "prudent" the original investment may have been.

Fixing the Scale

Actually, the scale of electric rates will be determined pretty much by what an outfit similar to TVA could enter the field and provide service for. If such rates should prove so low that fair returns cannot be earned on a "prudent investment" it will be just too bad for the prudent investors. They will be in just as bad shape as though they had a lot of water in their stock.

For in such a situation, argue the New Dealers, obviously there has been a stupid dissipation of the aforesaid prudent investment, and why should the public be expected to pay for that?

The President meantime has been trying with some success to drive a wedge in between the holding companies and the operating companies. Some of the operating company officials, quick to sense which way the Presidential wind was blowing, were eager to win favor for themselves by arguing that the management charges the holding companies imposed on them were far too high, and that they could make lower rates if these charges were lightened. In short, if they could throw off the yoke of the holding companies.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

BUTTONS BESTOW SMARTNESS HERE

PATTERN 9176

Buttons emphasize every smart detail of this unusual dress with such slender lines. See the way they follow the surplice from the right shoulder, close it at the side, and strut half the way up the forearm of the sleeve. Tiny vertical tucks are used to mold the waistline at the back, giving extra ease to the bodice. Then, too, stitched seaming down the front of the skirt seems to take away inches from the hips. The irregular neckline is softened by a most becoming scarf. This design would be charming in black satin with a scarf of the queerly named, but very lovely, dirty pink color, or metal cloth.

Pattern 9176 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 39 inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

SMILES

COURTEOUS REBUKE

A disgruntled shareholder rose from his seat at a company meeting and shook an angry finger at the chairman.

"Sir," he said fiercely, "I regard you as a liar and a scoundrel and the biggest rascal unhung."

The chairman looked at him scornfully. "Sir," he said with dignity, "you forget yourself."—Vancouver Province.

His Ears In on It

A small negro boy went to a physician to be treated for a pain in one of his ears. The doctor found his ear to be full of water.

"How did it happen?" he was asked, after his ear had been drained. "Been going in swimming?"

"Naw, suh," said the little fellow, "been eatin' water-melon."—Capper's Weekly.

His Dream Girl

"It's tough to be goofy. There's only been one girl who ever really cared for me."

"Who was she?"

"The nurse I had when I was sick."

Fur, Flowers and Velvet for Winter

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TAKE velvet for the coat, top it with one of the swanky fur capes such as every woman listed in the blue book of fashion is wearing this winter, give it a glamorous touch via a cluster of hot-house orchids—for the answer see the costume centered in the group of high-style costumes here pictured. Which goes to show that fashion is indulging in habiliment of the most luxurious type this season. Who said "depression"? Well, anyway, sumptuous furs and magnificent coats (rich cloaking velvet a favorite) with boutonniere or corsage of exotic flowers (preferably orchids) is the new deal which fashion's followers are having dealt to them.

By the way this vogue for flower adornment is increasingly apparent. For tailored daytime clothes, one lady-slipper orchid in gold and silver tube pin on the lapel of one's coat (see thumb-nail sketch in the left lower corner) is in excellent form. Jewels and orchids form a regal alliance for evening. With the new low-front necklines it is smart to wear a necklace, with orchids in the center instead of on the shoulder, as sketched in the right hand corner below. Recently at a debutante party a dress of white billowy tulle with nosegays of wax-white camellias snuggled here and there was the loveliest sight evening lights ere shone upon. The flower vogue also extends to dinner gowns, the flowers in this instance are usually hand made to match or contrast the color of the velvet or other material which fashions the dress.

Returning to a style analysis of the handsome models in the picture, it is plain to be seen, judging from the perfectly stunning outfit shown to the right, that fashion has recognized Russia in no uncertain manner. Cossack turban, high collar, belted waistline, deep cuffs and an abundance of fur, each speaks eloquently in terms a la Russe. It is a stunning ensemble. To our way of thinking you couldn't find anything smarter in the way of a winter outfit. The fur is nutria, which is of outstanding favor this season. The cloth, which combines with the fur, is a diagonal ribbed beige wool. This model would be very effective in black suede cloth made up with seal or black caracul, or in gray or brown-dyed kidskin with a color-matched velvety wool weave.

The black seal bolero to the left might easily be taken for one of the new separate fur pieces which are so smartly in fashion this winter. In reality it is made as an actual part of the coat. The fur merely tops the cloth sleeves. It would, however, be a most practical idea and thoroughly in keeping with present style trends if this bolero had been one of the detachable sort.

This idea of separate fur capes and stole collars and gilets which look almost like sleeveless jackets with their two long stole ends belted in at the waistline, has much to commend it. With accessory fur novelties including perhaps a high-turban hat and a muff-bag to match, any cloth suit or coat takes on an air of distinction. Many women of a practical turn of mind are taking advantage of this new vogue in that they are having their out-of-style fur coats of past seasons remodeled into stylish boleros or capes or gilets which impart any amount of chic to their appearance without an extravagant outlay of money. However, unless the fur you have is of real value, it is almost as thrifty to invest in ready-mades, for the shops and departments are showing intriguing fur pieces of voguish peltry which are not at all beyond the average budget.

The vogue for big flat fur pockets on cloth coats is also worthy of note. Just to give their cloth coats a "new" look quite a few women are ordering their fur cuffs made into huge pockets which are ornamental as well as useful.

©. Western Newspaper Union.

SHINING BLOUSE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

For restaurant or theater wear, this shining lame blouse in pale gold with a dropped shoulder treatment is ideal. The full sleeves are styled according to the latest. The tie-collar is new, too, and very flattering. It is worn with a floor-length skirt of black crepe. For evening with glittering blouse or tunic floor length, the slightly trailing black crepe skirts are latest.

FINE FURS USED AS LINING FOR COATS

Some of the finest furs this winter have taken to cover. Time was when the cheapest, ugliest furs were underneath cloth coats for linings. It made them cost less, of course, even though we were a bit ashamed to let the hems flap out so that the lining could be seen.

All that is past now and we are proud now if the fur lining of a coat displays itself to the most critical gaze. Instead of rabbit under a nice broadcloth coat, there is real ermine, mink, even sable. Some of these fur-lined coats are reversible.

Practically all lavish fur collars are detachable. This permits a change of effect that seems to meet with the approval of smart society, as well as of the thrifty minded.

Evening Gown Has Pockets Like Miniature Panniers

The evening gown with pockets! It was Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli who first concocted this idea. Now, however, Mme. Georgette Renal has elaborated on the pocket situation for evening and produced a most remarkable and practical result.

The Renal evening pocket is a delight to the woman's heart who always is wishing she had her hands free to wrap her coat closely about her without having to clutch a handbag. The evening pocket also routs the nightmare of a purse clattering to the floor amid a shower of lipstick, powder and small change.

Renal pockets are stitched and cut so they stand out like miniature panniers.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©. Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for January 6

PETER'S CONVERSION AND CALL

LESSON TEXT—John 1:35-42; Mark 1:14-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Peter Went With Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Enrolls in Jesus' School.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Accepting a Great Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ways of Winning Men to Christ.

For the next three months the lesions center around the apostle Peter.

The aim of the lesson committee was to acquaint the members of the Sunday school with the life and writings of Peter.

I. The Conversion of Peter (John 1:35-42).

1. John pointing his disciples to Jesus (vv. 20-34). Through the testimony of John the Baptist his disciples were brought to Jesus.

2. Two of John's disciples follow Jesus (vv. 35-37). As a result of the Baptist's testimony, two of his disciples left him and followed Jesus. One of these disciples was Andrew (v. 40), and presumably the other was John. When the Baptist pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God, the long-expected Messiah, these disciples sought further acquaintance with Jesus. When they looked upon Jesus, they were induced to follow him.

3. The two disciples abiding with Jesus (vv. 38, 39).

a. Jesus' question (v. 38). When Jesus saw the disciples following, he kindly inquired as to their business.

b. The disciples' reply (v. 39). They answered his question by inquiring as to his dwelling place. Their reply showed their desire to go apart privately where they could open their hearts unto him. He invited them to his place of abode, where they enjoyed sweet fellowship with their Master.

4. Andrew bringing Peter to Jesus (vv. 40-42). The very genius of Christianity is self-propagation. The usual method is to begin with those nearest us, home folks and relatives, and pass out to ever-widening circles. The disciples who enjoyed fellowship with Jesus went at once to tell others of the priceless treasure they had found. This is always true of the real disciple. Andrew bringing his brother Peter is a beautiful example of brotherly affection, expressing itself in bringing him to Christ. When Andrew had witnessed to Peter about Christ he brought him to Jesus where he could enjoy personal intercourse. This was a great piece of work for Andrew, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church.

II. The Call of Peter (Mark 1:14-18).

1. Jesus preaching in Galilee (vv. 14, 15). The growing opposition to Jesus moved him to change from Judaea to Galilee. He accepted the fate of John the Baptist as foreshadowing his own death. Observe—

a. What he preached (v. 14). The Gospel of the Kingdom of God, which meant the good news of the near approach of the rule of God as predicted by the prophets.

b. How he preached it (v. 15).

(1) The time is fulfilled and the Kingdom of God is at hand.

This meant that the time had now come for the appearance of the Messiah and the establishment of his Kingdom.

(2) Repent. This meant that the people should turn around, change their minds and attitude toward Christ, and accept him as their king.

(3) Believe the Gospel. Then, as now, men needed to believe the Gospel of Christ.

2. Jesus called Peter and Andrew to become fishers of men (vv. 16-18). Jesus called this pair of brothers for service in his kingdom. It is to be noted that these men had previously been called to be disciples of Christ (John 1:36-42). They are now called to service. Jesus first calls men to him for salvation; those who accept that call have an additional call to service. Note—

a. From what they were called (v. 16). They were called from positions of definite service; they were fishers.

b. To what they were called (v.17). To be fishers of men. They no doubt had been successful fishers. The qualities which made them good fishermen, namely patience, bravery to face the storm and darkness of the night, and perseverance which led them to toil all night, though no fish were caught, would make them good fishers of men.

c. Their obedience (v. 18). Straightway they forsook their nets and followed him. Obedience meant sacrifice, painful separation, the giving up of all business interests, and the leaving of their father behind.

Short Cut to Happiness

If anyone would tell you the shortest, surest way to all happiness and all perfection, he must tell you to make it a rule to yourself to thank and praise God for everything that happens to you.

Prayer

Perhaps we do not think enough what an effective service prayer is, especially intercessory prayer. We do not believe as we should how it might help those we so fain would serve.

Many Ways of Winning Sought-For Popularity

A girl is popular for some one of many reasons, or by a combination of them. For example, a girl who is good at sports will find herself popular with those of similar tastes. She must be expert in some field. It may be tennis, golf, water sports, sailing a boat, skiing, etc., and she should be above the average in some of the other sports. It is worth while for a girl who enjoys out-of-door exercise to practice and perfect herself in her favorite sports so that she will be sought as a partner for games or a companion in sports. Her very ability at winning gives her prestige which makes her agreeably noticeable. If to this ability she adds a pleasant manner and is a good sport in losing, when she does, as every one must at times, she has gone a long way on the road to popularity.

Some girls are popular in their set because they have an accomplishment which makes them an addition to any gathering. Playing a musical instrument, singing, impersonating, being able to interest a group in an account of some event or in telling stories amusingly, in short, being a good raconteur—any of these things, when done in a way above the average, lends a certain enviable distinction to the person, and supplies them with popularity. It is assumed that there is also a polish of manner which gives a gracious and agreeable personality, without which few can expect to become favorites or be popular, whatever their field.

Being a good dancer is one of the drawing room accomplishments which makes a girl sought as a partner, and cut in for when already dancing. A help to this popularity is to have a happy expression. The one with whom the girl is dancing may get only brief glimpses of this, but those watching get full view and are apt to make mental note of expression. Another drawing room accomplishment is playing a good game of cards plus taking a beating without arguments. To haggle over cards played, to criticize your partner's leads or the way he failed to follow yours, is fatal to popularity.

Girls who are unpopular are apt to think harshly or even speak disparagingly of those who are popular. It is distressing to find one's self in the background, but one is wise to analyze the situation and find out why one loses out, before being too downcast or derogatory.

Learn to be good at something which makes for attraction. To be good looking isn't everything. To be made up too much is no help. To have a winning expression is a great aid. To be a good listener is another. This does not mean merely being silent and letting the other person talk. It means listening so that whatever comments you do make are to the point, revealing an understanding of the conversation. Try to make yourself popular in some field and in some way. If you do this with sincerity and not superficially you are in a fair way to win success.

©, Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Entomologists Tell Us Things About Mosquito

Fishermen have long known when fish bite best. Now the periods when mosquitoes bite best, or worst, have been revealed by entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

There are mosquitoes that bite only at night, others that bite only during the day, some bite best at sunrise and some best at sundown.

There is one grain of comfort for the mosquito-ridden citizen. Only the female mosquito bites. The male feeds on nectar and similar substances.

Here are some mosquito "schedules:"

The "rain barrel" or common mosquito bites only at night and can find her victims no matter how dark it is. When flying it makes that irritating singing noise which is familiar to every one.

The yellow fever mosquito usually bites close to the ground or attacks from behind, and often crawls under clothing to bite. It bites only in the daytime and is busiest early in the morning and late in the afternoon. It flies quietly. It will bite indoors all day.

The fresh-water marsh mosquito known under the scientific name Mansonia, a severe biter, is busiest just at dusk. It spends the day in the grass and will bite during the day if disturbed.

Malarial mosquitoes will bite all night long and sometimes, too, in the daytime, especially on dark days.

Artificial Chlorophyl

Within a year scientists expect to be able artificially to create chlorophyl, the substance used by plants for transforming solar into chemical energy. Dr. Paul Rothemund, research fellow of Kettering Foundation of Antioch college, recently reported to the Academy of Sciences that synthetic production of this substance, the basis of plant life, appears to be only a matter of months.

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (for Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO. Chattanooga, Tenn.

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA

direct from its N. Y. Stage

Broadcast by

LISTERINE

announced by

Geraldine Farrar

Every Saturday · all NBC stations · 12:45 P. M.

To a Customer's Credit

"ISN'T IT amazing how coffee can affect a man like Jack?"

"Why, no . . . the caffein in coffee affects lots of grown-ups just as it does all children. It can give 'em indigestion, upset their nerves and keep 'em awake."

• • •

If you suspect that coffee disagrees with you . . . try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. Easy to make, and costs less than ½ cent a cup. It's a delicious drink, too...and may prove of real value in helping your system throw off the ill effects of caffein. A product of General Foods.

FREE—Let us send you your first week's supply of POSTUM...Free! Simply mail the coupon.

GENERAL FOODS, Battle Creek, Mich. W.N.U. 1-3-35

Please send me, without cost or obligation, a week's supply of Postum.

Name_____

Street_____

City_____ State_____

Fill in completely—print name and address.

This offer expires December 31, 1935

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE ANNOUNCED TODAY

Standard Oil Company introduces last word in motor fuel

Announcement is made here today that there is now available at all Standard Oil Company dealers and service stations, Aerotype Crown Ethyl, the last word in motor gasoline. This is a new gasoline, a great improvement on the well known Crown Ethyl gasoline, but will be sold at the regular Ethyl price.

In his announcement of the introduction of Aerotype Crown Ethyl, President W. E. Smith, of the Standard Oil Company, at Louisville, writes:

"Through our thousands of dealers and service stations in this state, we are offering Aerotype Crown Ethyl, the very last word in gasoline.

"It will be sold at the regular Ethyl price. Aerotype Crown Ethyl has been perfected for the express purpose of starting more quickly, warming up the motor more rapidly, vaporizing more completely, and with the absolute elimination of all knocking, and with an increase of 30% in potential power.

"For the first time, in Aerotype Crown Ethyl, a true aviation gasoline has been converted into automobile use.

"The Standard Oil Company is proud to offer, with its best wishes for the New Year, a new product—Aerotype Crown Ethyl."

CALERA NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., announce the arrival of a son, R. E. III, December 22, 1934.

The Calera Quartette will sing at the Pike Avenue Church, January 6, 1935. I am sure Calera is proud of these young boys. Those who take parte are: Buddy Maynard, Chester Crim, Jack Harris, Frank Denson, accompanied by Miss Fannie Pearl Seale.

Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Curtis motored through and spent last week with their daughter in Mississippi.

Mrs. C. Thurman and son Thomas, of Chattanooga, spent the holidays here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Offie Blankenship have moved to Boulder Dam, Nevada.

Those home for the holidays were: Miss Ada Holcomb, of Clanton; Geo. Holcomb, of University; Jimmie Gunn and Zollie Cowart, of Auburn; Miss Iva Mae Miller and Katherine, of Athens.

Mr. G. C. Long, Jr., left Wednesday, December 26, for Rose Bowl.

Miss Laura Garrett spent last week with relatives in Birmingham.

Miss Lois Ervin entertained her friends with a party Thursday night. Quite a crowd enjoyed the event.

Miss Fannie Pearl Seale and Mary Lou Pilgreen spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. R. L. Cook and children, of Birmingham, visited relatives here last week.

Mr. Audis Lucas and Miss Louise Anderson, of Dry Valley, married December 25, 1034.

Miss Larine Coker spent last week with relatives in Birmingham.

Mrs. H. C. Bice, of Birmingham, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Joe Ross —Little Jackie being real sick with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Busby and son, of Marvel, visited relatives here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Pilgreen and Geneva, of Atlanta, motored through and spent the holidays with relatives. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Crowson returning with them for several weeks visit.

Mrs. Phronie Robinson died December 25, 1934 and Mrs. Carrie Guin died December 27. Both were old residents of Calera. They were buried at New Salem Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Edwards announce the arrival of a son December 24th, 1934.

Friends of Mr. H. T. Brown regret to learn he is in South Highland Infirmary seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boley, of Boothton, spent Wednesday with his parents.

Mildred Jones, of Dargin, spent the week-end with Nina Mae Seale.

Mrs. A. F. Seale spent Saturday in Columbiana.

Mr. Raymond Scott, of Birmingham, visited friends here this week-end.

Mr. Erice Elliott who is working at Talladega, spent the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Meadie Elliott.

Miss Bessie Gunn, of Shelby, is visiting friends here this week.

Miss Mary and Margaret Culver, of Childersburg, spent last week here with their sister, Mrs. Pete Hill. Margaret Hill returned home with them for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Holcomb, of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holcomb and children, of Columbiana, were guests of Mrs. Sallie Holcomb, Sunday.

Miss Lucy Bailey Bowdon, who has been working in Auburn for several months, is home for some time.

COUNTY P.-T. A. AND TEACHERS WILL MEET HERE JANUARY 12

A county-wide P.-T. A. and Teachers' meeting will be held at the High School in Columbiana, Saturday, January 12th, beginning at 9 o'clock. Since this is the first joint meeting planned, we hope to have a large representation from every community.

Mrs. James Fitz Hill and Miss England, of Montgomery, will be with us on this occasion.

Mrs. Homer Walton, Elem. Sup.
Mrs. P. Hendrick, Co. Chm.

UNCLE BUD AND HIS BOLL WEEVILS WILL APPEAR IN COLUMBIANA, JANUARY 5

Uncle Bud and His Boll Weevils will appear in the high school auditorium in Columbiana, Ala., on Saturday night, January 5th, under the auspices of the P.-T. A. and the American Legion. Everyone is urged to be present.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
PROBATE COURT.

In the matter of Agnes Parker, Johnnie Parker, Thomas J. Parker, and Daisy E. Parker, minors.

This day came J. I. Crane, guardian of the above named minors and filed in Court his account and vouchers for a final settlement of his guardianship; and the 3rd day of January, 1935, having been appointed by the Court for examining, auditing, and stating the same. Notice is hereby given to all parties interested to appear on said day and contest the same, if they think proper.

This 17th day of December, 1934.

CAGE HEAD,
12-20-3t. Probate Judge.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS TO PROBATE WILL.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
PROBATE COURT
December 17th, 1934.

Walter O. Freeman having filed in this Court his application in writing and under oath therewith producing and filing in this Court an instrument of writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Willie Ramsey, deceased, and praying for such orders, decrees and proceedings as will duly and legally effect the probate and record of said instrument as such will.

And the 7th day of January, 1935, having been set as a day for hearing said petition and the proof to be submitted in support of same, and it further appearing that the following next of kin of said deceased are either non-residents of the State of Alabama, or their place of residence is unknown, viz:

A. O. Freeman, whose place of residence is unknown, Mrs. Eugenia Anderson, who resides in Atlanta, in the State of Georgia, and Mrs. Myrtie Milton who resides in Chicago, in the State of Illinois, a more particular or better address being unknown; all of whom are over twenty-one years of age.

It is therefore ordered that notice of the filing of said application and of the day set for hearing same be given by publication once a week for three successive weeks in the Shelby County Democrat, a newspaper published in Shelby County, Alabama. Notice is hereby given said non-residents, and all other persons interested, to be and appear in this Court on the 7th day of January, 1935, to contest said application if they think proper to do so.

CAGE HEAD,
12-20-3t. Judge of Probate.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
PROBATE COURT.
December 17th, 1934.

In the matter of the guardianship of the First National Bank of Birmingham, Alabama, over the estates of Jack Carrol and Cecil, minors.

The First National Bank of Birmingham, Alabama, having filed in Court its accounts and vouchers covering its guardianship of the estates of the above named minors, Jack Carroll and Cecil Carroll, together with its petition showing that said minors are now over the age of twenty-one years, and praying for a final settlement of its guardianship.

It is, therefore, ordered, adjudged and decreed that the 7th day of January, 1935, be and the same is hereby named as the date for the hearing of said petition, and the passing of final settlement. Notice is hereby given to said wards and all other persons in interest to appear in Court on said date and contest said final settlement if they think proper so to do.

CAGE HEAD,
12-20-3t. Judge of Probate.

KINGDOM NEWS

The marriage of Miss Lois Lovett and Herman Smith took place on Thursday, December 20th, with the Rev. E. E. Wells officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lovett and has many friends in this community where she is active in social and religious circles. The groom, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Smith, is a progressive young farmer and is well known, having made his home here since early childhood. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have taken an apartment at the home of Henry Templin.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Crumpton (Louise Riley), and daughter, Mona Floye, of Clarksdale, Miss., have arrived for a visit of several weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Riley and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Crumpton.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Perry, of Detroit, are here for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Perry.

Miss Geraldine Anderson has returned to her classes at Berry School after spending the holidays here with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lovett had as guests during the holiday season: Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Rylant, of Boston and Mrs. Tyler, of Birmingham.

W. R. Riley has returned to Scottsboro to resume his school duties after spending the holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Riley.

Mrs. Thomas Pullen (Dora Perry) and daughter, Thomasine, of Vicksburg, Miss., are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Perry.

Mrs. J. M. Templin had as guests on Christmas Day, her brothers, Austin and Warner Wingard, of Clanton, Alabama.

Miss Ollie Sue Crumpton has returned to her home here after spending several months in Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Lucas and children, of Montevallo, spent Thursday of last week here with Mrs. Lucas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Riley.

Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Blackerby and children, of Bessemer, were guests last week of Mrs. Blackerby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Crumpton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beard and Mr. and Mrs. Buford Beard have returned home after spending the holidays in Birmingham with Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller.

THE NEW YEAR

A New Year has dawned and a New Year means a new opportunity. Many have already asked themselves what the New Year holds for them and so we hear on all sides the question—I WONDER?

I wonder, O year, what you have in store?
Will my heart be light—or heavy and sore?
In my desire to do much that is good,
Will I succeed—or be misunderstood?

I wonder, O year, as the seconds fly
Will I use them wisely, as they speed by?
In a seconds time I can give a smile
Or a loving glance; they are both worth while.

I wonder, O year, what will fill the hours,
Will I cheer the faint with fragrant flowers?
Or will I forgetful be—day by day,
And squander your hours in a selfish way?

I wonder, O year, what the months will prove,
With His help, will I be able to soothe
Some sin-sick soul that is needing the light,
Of one who is walking life's road aright?

The road is before me—its prayer clean;
What I write thereon remains to be seen.
Still this is my prayer "Lord, let me live
And of time and talent to others gve."

—(T. L. M.)

UNDERWOOD

Miss Mary Kate Harrison spent the Christmas holidays with her sister, Mrs. Bill Ash in Selma.

Mrs. Virgial Horton spent the holidays in Lineville.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Moore and baby returned Sunday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Moore in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost spent Christmas Day with Mrs. Doc Johnson in Ebenezer.

Misses Lucile and Lee Esther Daviston, were guests of Miss Elinor Peters, Wednesday.

Miss Fannie Mae Harrison, of Birmingham, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Harrison, Christmas.

Rev. Lester Fitts will preach at the Underwood Baptist Church, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harris spent Tuesday in Boothton with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Greene.

Grover Peters has returned to the CCC camp after spending the holidays with his parents.

We regret very much to report that Emmett Henson is seriously ill with pneumonia. We sincerely hope he will soon recover.

Miss Margie Lovelady visited in Birmingham during the holidays and Miss Mildred Smith returned with her for a visit.

Miss Cora Lee Harris is visiting her mother, Mrs. Nellie Harris, but will return to school in Northport next week.

Several parties were given during the holidays for the young people.

E. B. Copeland is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Johns.

There was a large Christmas tree at the Dogwood Grove Baptist church Christmas Eve night and every child under twelve years of age was given a sock of fruit, candy and nuts. The Miners Union made this possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Harper in glliottsville.

We have a singing every Wednesday night at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church. We give all singers an invitation to attend.

Lets start the New Year off by going to Sunday School and church.

NOTICE OF SALE.

Estate of Sam C. Bain.

Under and by virtue of an order of sale made on the 31st day of December, 1934, by the Probate Court of Shelby County, Alabama, I, Lucy J. Johnson, as administratrix of the estate of said decedent, will sell at public outcry, for cash, to the highest bidder, within the legal hours of sale, at Sam Bain's place, 300 yards from Cahaba River on Montgomery-Birmingham Highway, in Shelby County, State of Alabama, on Thursday the 11th day of January, 1935, the following described personal property belonging to the estate of said decedent, towit:

One Gray Mare Mule named Kate, about 12 years old.

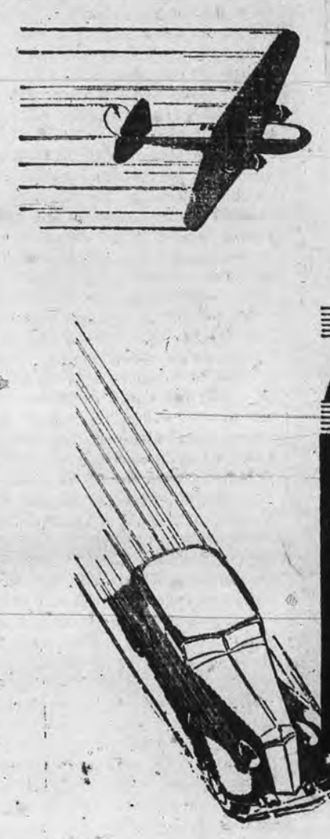
One Fordson Tractor.

One Two-Horse McCormack Moleboard Plow.

One Tractor Disk Harrow.

LUCY J. JOHNSON,
1-3-1t. Administratrix.

FARM NOTES



While the planting of forest tree seedlings may be done successfully as late as March 15th, it is better in most cases to do the work much earlier. December, January and February are the best months and most landowners will find it convenient to do their forest planting during this period.

STRAYED

ONE LEWELLEN BIRD DOG SETTER—NAMED "MUTT"—ABOUT NINE YEARS OLD.

Last seen on Wilsonville Highway near Cates Dairy, Monday night, December 31, 1934. Blue ticked, black ears and head, bobbed tail. Name plate on collar—Arthur Harper, Ashby, Alabama. Reasonable reward for information leading to its recovery.

KNOX WOOLEY, Columbiana, Ala.

The Last Word in Gasoline-

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL

FOR YOUR MOTOR

Out-Starts ➡ Vaporizes at lowest temperature—quick warm-up—minimum choking.

Out-Climbs ➡ Highest anti-knock rating ever offered for land service—no carbon knocks.

Out-Powers ➡ Complete vaporization produces all power—no dragging—less crank-case dilution.

Out-Classes ➡ Has the highest specifications ever applied to motor gasoline.

Out-Ahead ➡ Virtually gum-free—no gummy or sticking valves to cause loss of power.

Outstanding ➡ Positively a NEW fuel—unlike and amazingly superior to any gasoline heretofore sold.

Judge it only when unmixed with other fuel
No increase in price—sells for only 2c a gallon more than Crown Gasoline

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
INCORPORATED IN KENTUCKY

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 10, 1935 — NUMBER THIRTY-NINE

OLD AGE PENSION PLANS CALL FOR $200 PER MONTH

WASHINGTON, D. C.—F. E. Townsend, a soft-spoken country doctor from the West, last Friday, January 4th, prescribed his $200-a-month Federal pension proposal as a remedy for many of the nation's ills.

At an open house meeting for congressmen, the Long Beach, Cal., physician proposed giving every person over 60 years of age a pension of $200 a month as a means of ending hard times, stamping out crime and routing bootleggers.

"Twenty million people are demanding that Congress adopt my plan," Dr. Townsend said. "Heed their cry before a whirlwind revolution takes the country and bloodshed follows."

Rep. John Stevens McGroarty (D., Los Angeles), announced he would circulate a petition seeking 218 signatures necessary to force the bill embodying Dr. Townsend's "old age revolving pension plan" to a vote in the House. He had been informed, he said, that the Administration opposes it.

'Solution Is Simple'

Dr. Townsend estimated there are 8,000,000 persons over 60 who could use $200 a month. The annual $18,000,000,000 bill the government would have to foot would be financed through a tax on all commercial transactions.

"The depression was caused by only one thing, failure of the country's purchasing power," Dr. Townsend told the congressman. "The solution is simple.

"Give all aged a pension and the task of spending it every month before they could receive more. Purchasing power will be restored. Business will boom.

"Prices will go up, of course. But what's the difference? Everyone will have plenty of money. There will be no more poverty. Everyone will be working."

'Would End Crime'

His plan would stamp out crime, he claimed, "because almost all crime comes from poverty." Bootleggers could not operate under his system, he asserted, because all business business would be licensed by the Government as a means of collecting the sales tax revenue.

Dr. Townsend estimated "the Government spent $20,000,000,000 on charity, crime and alphabetical soup" during the last six months. His plan he said, "could have achieved the same result on $9,600,000,000.

Skeptical congressmen pointed out Dr. Townsend's new tax would add to the tax burden. With the national incme figured at about $83,000,000,000 in the boom days of 1929, they said, the levy would have to be about 20 per cent.

FARMERS ASSURED GRAVES SUPPORT

Governor-Elect Bibb Graves will give rural development first consideration during his administration, he assures organized farmers in the state.

Speaking to more than 100 farmers, including the executive committee of every county farm bureau in the state, Governor-Elect Graves declared he will support a seven-month rural school term, facilities for improving rural health conditions, rural electrification, and the general advancement of agriculture.

FERA HELPS MANY U. S. FARMERS TO START LIFE ANEW

WASHINGTON, D. C.—FERA estimated last Thursday that sufficient supplies and stock to start life anew are being furnished 125,000 farm families throughout the country.

To this end the Relief Administration is spending $7,000,000 a month on its rural rehabilitation program.

Farming implements, fertilizer, clothing are furnished—but no cash—in return for work on relief projects, or home canned fruits and vegetables are accepted in exchange for the supplies. In turn the fruits and vegetables go to city folk on relief rolls.

One of the fundamental needs is livestock. More than 31,000 families have received stock of one kind or another.

To some the animals are loaned; other families buy them on money borrowed from the Relief Administration, paying back on the installment plan.

The choice of animals for Alabama is unique. Oxen must do for that state's needy farmers this year, if things improve maybe there'll be mules next year, its relief administrator promises.

But elsewhere in the South, from Missouri to Tennessee mules remain the favorite of the farmer and are being furnished by the Relief Administration.

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN, Calera, Alabama

The first week of 1935, as well as bringing back prosperity, brought one of the busiest weeks in basket ball we've had this season. The Calera teams got back on their victorious band wagons after the holidays with several more wins last week. Other teams started on their season's schedule early this week.

The Calera Independents barely nosed out Columbiana, January 4, 23-21. This was the first in the night's wo-game series. The Calera team easily took the 44-7 victory in the second game. Jack Harris did some wonderful foul shooting making 4 goals out of 5 trys. He was also high-score man in both games.

The line-up and summaries:

Calera (23)—Harris, Milstead, forwards; Warren, center; Findley and Martin as guards; Long, B. Findley, and Parker as substitutes. Columbiana (21)—L. Crumpton and Rayfield, forwards; Edwards, center; Lyons and N. Crumpton as guards; Davis, substitute.

Calera (44)—Harris (19), Parker (6), forwards; Warren (6), center; Martin (7), B. Findley, guards; Long (2) and J. Findley (2), subs. Columbiana (7)—L. Templin, M. Lyon (5), forwards; Pearson West, center; L. Crumpton, Bunk Martin, guards; P. Davis, B. Morris, H. Crumpton and Rayfield (2), as substitutes.

The Calera Junior team was slightly overworked last week with two games Friday and one Saturday. They now have a list of seven victories and no defeats.

Line-ups and summaries of the three games:

Calera (20)—Lucas (8), Blankenship (2) forwards; Cook (4) center; Hill, Comer (6) guards; George and Samples as substitutes. Helena (13)—Russo (9), Harris (2) forwards; Jowers (2) center; Lorence, Welder guards; Davis as a sub.

Calera (19)—Lucas (14), Blankenship (3) forwards; Finley center; Cook (2), Comer guards; Pilgreen, George, Hill, and Samples as substitutes. Helena (6)—Russo (2), Harris (1) forwards; Jowers (2) center; Davis and Wilder guards.

Calera (27)—Lucas (10), Blankenship forwards; Finley (4) center; Cook (5), Comer (8) guards; Sample as a sub. Jemison High School subs. (10)—Littleton (8), Littlefield (2), forwards; Cost, center; Smith and Atkinson guards; Beasley as a sub.

Calera Independents	33
Jemison High School	15

On Friday afternoon, January 4th, Montevallo High School defeated Thompson High School 14-9. The whole second half was purely defensive, Siluria making 3 points and Montevallo making only 2 points. This was Montevallo's first official game.

The summary:

Montevallo High School (14)—William Eddins (8), Joe Wood (4), Charles Findley (2). Tompson High School (9)—Lee (4), Mullins (3) and Payne (2).

IT'S BITTER STUFF, NOT SUGAR, THAT MAKES YOUR GIRL SWEET

ALBANY, N. Y.—When Albany Medical College students conducted a survey to find out what girls are made of, someone asked a professor to translate the findings into everyday terms.

The resulting report showed that the female of the species contains:

1. Chlorine enough to sanitize five swimming pools.
2. Oxygen enough to fill 1,400 cubic feet.
3. Thirty teaspoons of salt, enough to season 25 chickens.
4. Ten gallons of water.
5. Five pounds of lime, enough to whitewash a chicken coop.
6. Thirty-one pounds of carbon.
7. Glycerine enough for bursting charge of a heavy navy shell.
8. Enough glutin to make five pounds of glue.
9. Magnesium enough for 10 flashlight photos.
10. Fat enough for 10 bars of soap.
11. Enough iron to make a six penny nail.
12. Sulphur enough to rid a dog of fleas.
13. "And believe it or not boys, only one-quarter of a pound of sugar."

C. M. Gardner To Succeed Claude H. Fore In Montevallo

Clyde M. Gardner, of Columbiana, has been elected to fill the combined offices of city marshal, clerk and treasurer of Montevallo, succeeding Claude H. Fore, sheriff-elect.

Mr. Gardner is an experienced officer, having served as deputy sheriff and chief deputy under Sheriff J. J. Falkner, and with the state law enforcement department. He is also an accountant, having served in that capacity with the J. B. Turner Construction Company, of Birmingham.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR RELIEF WORK

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Thad Holt, state relief administrator, has notified all counties that sufficient federal funds will be available through January 15th to allow the ARA to aid in terracing and construction projects undertaken by counties and cities.

Under the terracing and construction program plans offered by the Alabama Relief Administration, money spent for labor taken off the relief rolls for construction projects will be matched by the ARA for the purchase of materials.

The ARA will purchase a $4 000 terracing machine for counties which agree to spend an equal amount in the employment of labor from the relief rolls.

Holt said cities could do paving under the construction provision of the agreement, getting the new streets for practically the cost of the labor.

P.-T. A. & Teachers of County Will Meet Here, Sat., Jan. 12th

Saturday, January 12th, a county-wide P.-T. A. and Teachers meeting will be held at the High School in Columbiana. Mrs. James Fitts Hill, of Montgomery, will be the main speaker on this occasion. Mrs. Hill is the State P.-T. A. President and has a National reputation as a P.-T. A. worker.

Miss Mary England of the State Department of Education will also be on the program.

Invitations have been sent to every P.-T. A. in the county and a large attendance is indicated. The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting which begins at 9 o'clock a. m.

J. L. APPLETON,
County Superintendent.

RADIO ARTISTS WILL BE IN CALERA, JANUARY 17

CALERA, Ala.—The Democrat has been asked to announce that "Brack Phillips and His Pioneers", famous radio artists, will be in Calera at the Junior High School on Thursday, January 17th, 1935, at 7:45 p. m. Admission will be 10 and 25c. Plan now to enjoy this entertainment.

Music Recital To Be At Vincent, Friday Night, January 11th

VINCENT, Ala.—Miss Maxine Dupuy, Director of Music in the Vincent High School, will present her pupils in Recital on Friday night, January 11th, in the auditorium of the Vincent High School.

The program will be well balanced and with enough variety to offer one of the most attractive entertainments this school has yet presented. The piano numbers will be interspersed by vocal selections rendered by Hattie Wallace Bullard and Arthur Horton.

The public is cordially invited.

"Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick" Will be Presented Jan.11

WILSONVILLE, Ala.—The play, "Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick" will be presented at the Wilsonville School Auditorium on Friday night, January 11th, at 7:30 p. m.

Added attraction will be music by the Wilsonville String Band, tap dancing, singing and jokes by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

Proceeds will be given to the Independent Basket Ball Team. Admission will be 10 and 15 cents.

LEADING COTTON VARIETIES NAMED FOR STATE FARMS

AUBURN, Ala.—Leading varieties of cotton for the different sections of Alabama have been announced by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute following 17 tests conducted over a period of three years, 1932-34, inclusive.

Stating that the Experiment Station does not recommend varieties that produce staple less than 7-8 (or 28-32) inch, H. B. Tisdale, plant breeder, named the varieties with the average yield of lint in pounds per acre and the length of staple in 1-32 inches for the three-year period as follows:

North Alabama—D. P. L. 10, 533, 31.1; D. P. L. 11, 527, 32.2; Half-and-Half, 524, 26.1; Stoneville 3, 430, 31.6; Stoneville 2, 413, 32.8.

Black Belt—Half-and-Half, 233, 26.5; Stoneville 3, 231, 31.7; Cleveland 884, 220, 33.2; Cook 1010, 218, 28.2; Cook 144 (Smith) 216, 32.3.

Wilt Infested Area—Cook 1022, 391, 30.3; Cook 307-92 (Smith) 386, 28.2; Clevewilt (C. Rhyne) 383, 31.8; Cook 307 (B. Rhyne) 375, 28.1; Cook 27-54 374, 29.5.

The tests were conducted at Auburn and in different sections of Alabama on the sub-stations and experimental fields.

The Alabama Experiment Station has no cotton seed for sale.

HELENA CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED, JAN. 13

HELENA, Ala. — The Baptist Church will be dedicated in Helena on next Sunday morning, January 13, at 11 a. m. All members and friends are cordially urged to be present.

Rev. W. H. Haddock.

RELIEF LOAD WILL BE SHIFTED BY ARA

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Thad Holt, state relief director, announced last Thursday that 3,274 adults and 2,533 children will be turned over to the counties for support February 1st under the federal order ruling out assistance for unemployables by the Alabama Relief Administration.

The ARA, Holt said, will render every possible assistance to facilitate the transfer.

Those who must look to the counties for aid February 1st are those persons mentally or physically unable to work. The number, Holt said, will be an absolute minimum, and includes 2,972 adults physically unable to work and 302 mentally incapacitated. Fifty-one per cent of the adults are white.

During November the cost of caring for these unemployables was $21,000, and Holt said the savings expected to result from the transfer would be applied to the work program.

ALABAMA STA... NAMES BEST CORN FOR STATE FARMS

AUBURN, Ala.—Results of corn variety tests conducted by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for the three-year period, 1932-34, inclusive, are announced by H. B. Tisdale, plant breeder, who supervised the tests.

The tests, seven in all, were conducted on the sub-stations and experimental fields of the different sections of Alabama, and the report names the five leading varieties for north, central, and south Alabama in bushels of grain per acre as they showed up in the tests.

For north Alabama the five leading varieties in the tests were Mosby (Graham), 41.9 bushels; Douthit (Douthit), 41.5; Indian Chief (Kiker), 40.7; Locker's Yellow, 40.6; Neal's Paymaster, 39.9.

For central Alabama the five leading varieties were: Mosby (Graham), 35.8; Whatley (Hudson), 35.5; Hastings, 34.5; Cock's Prolific, 34.5; Douthit (Douthit), 34.2.

For south Alabama the five leading varieties showed up as follows: Douthit (Douthit), 37.2; Douthit (Marrott), 36.0; Whatley (Hudson), 35.8; Hastings, 35.8; Whatley (Whatley Bros.), 35.4.

Telephone Lines In State Forests Aid In Fire Control Plans

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The President's forestry program in Alabama has included the building of many miles of forest telephone lines by the CCC under the direction of the State Commission of Forestry. To date 271 miles of line have been constructed, and some 41 miles additional are partly completed. These telephone lines enable landowners to summon each other's assistance when fires break out and also permit forestry agents, patrolmen and observers to communicate with each other, thus permitting of prompt arrival at the fire front. Fires detected and reached in their early stages are quite easy to suppress.

FARMERS OF STATE ...PARE PROGRAM FOR LEGISLATURE

AUBURN, Ala.—Alabama's organized farmers have a definite agricultural program they are asking the state legislature to pass during the session this year. The program includes:

(1) Seven-month terms for rural schools.

(2) Restoration of vocational education to its original basis.

(3) Reasonable and adequate provisions for the operation of the University of Alabama, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and the Alabama College and for paying the full amount of existing appropriations to the teachers' colleges.

(4) That agricultural research and extension work done by the Alabama Experiment Station and Extension Service, Auburn, "be not considered as a part of the general unified educational program, but that this type of work and the agencies performing these services be considered separate and apart on their own merits."

(5) Provisions for a well-rounded research program in agriculture.

(6) Adequate legislation in order to stabilize and make permanent and secure the county farm and home demonstration agency work in each county and to make a plan for reasonable and certain county financial support.

(7) Support to the Governor and Legislature in working out a reasonable and fair revenue program for the operation of the necessary and vital functions of the state.

The agricultural program was formulated by the executive committee of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and about 100 farmers throughout the state who are chairman of legislature committees of county farm bureaus.

Heart Drifts

ALWAYS LAUGHING.

Always laughing, just as though
You were at a picture show,
Everything we say or do
Brings a chuckle out of you.
When I serious try to be
You just laugh it out of me.
Teachers sadly tell of you
That you think them funny, too.
When the preacher comes to call
You sit laughing at us all
Wondering as we talk to him
Why we try to be so prim.
Twelve years old this very year
You have yet to shed a tear
Passing minutes couldn't dry!
Always joy is standing by.
Pain and heartache and regret
Haven't come your way as yet.
Glad am I to have it told
I am funny when I scold.
Glad am I that you still see
Life as I would have it be
And can find upon the earth
Only merriment and mirth.
This my hope that you will stay
Always laughing, just this way.

—(Contributed)

THE TWILIGHT HOUR.

Comes to me an hour which I call my own
Tis the Twilight Hour, e'er the night is born,
There's a sudden stillness seems to hover near,
While in our little trysting place,
I seem to feel you near.

Across the span of Heaven's blue fields,
I see the stars come through,
And I know just as surely—you'll be coming too.
As the swallows wait for summer and the roses for the dew,
So, I in sweet contentment, wait silently for you.

—(Miller)

OCTAVE.

Never the low strung tones of deepening fall
Sound on the wind but I remember all.
The loveliness of Springs beyond recall.
Timbrel and flute and thin reechoing bell
Ring in the wind wherever Spring rains fell
Repeating the old seasonal they tell
Viols intone for Autumn. Yet I hear
The treble voice of Spring rise faint and clear.

—(Gallagher)

BEYOND THE FARTHEST STAR.

The eagle was not made for eath, but heights!
The splendor of blue crags amid the stars
Break trail for him; and dawning's rainbow bars
Reflect his wing in gold, unbroken flights!
Familiar with the mystery of wind
He floats, unscathed by atmospheric fire,
Beyond the farthest star, and even higher!
He's free from cowering fear of human kind.

How then, shall I attain the stratosphere
Of your domain, so far above my scope,
When my poor sparrow wings can only clear
My native trees? Why, then arouse the hope—
That better were unstirred—that I might rise
And share with you dominion of the skies.

—(Contributed)

REMEMBRANCE.

In a Garden of Remembrance
Grow flowers of every hue,
And each blossom has a message
Of Hope and LOVE for you.
Together the Trail let's follow,
While softly the Twilight gleams—
And deep in our hearts steal MEMORIES,
But—DON'T LEAVE ME ALONE WITH MY DREAMS.

—(Contributed)

News Review of Current Events the World Over

President Roosevelt Tells Congress of his Great Work Relief Plan—Designed to Supplant the Downright Dole.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT in his message to congress, delivered in person at a joint session, offered the law-makers a "new and greatly enlarged plan" of work relief. He did not estimate its cost, but asserted that the system of outright doles should be dropped and the government should undertake projects of slum clearance, grade crossing elimination and other public works that would give employment to about 3,500,000 persons now without jobs. The figures to be proposed for this were reserved for his budget message, but he assured congress that they would be "within the sound credit of the government."

President Roosevelt

Mr. Roosevelt declared the gains made in the year 1934 were greater than the losses and expressed "a strong hope in the coming year." He reasserted his belief in the "profit motive" but uttered a warning against wealth "which, through excessive profits, creates undue private power over private affairs, and, to our misfortune, over public affairs as well." This, naturally, was taken as applying especially to the public service interests, which have been so apprehensive of the administration's intentions.

As for a legislative program, the President made no attempt to outline one, but he did promise that definite legislation soon would be proposed covering old age and unemployment insurance, benefits for children and mothers, and other features of his social security plans.

He declared the nation was making headway toward the "new order," but under the framework of the Constitution, and he spoke of the increased industrial activity, benefits to agriculture and profits to merchants that have been realized. Then came this stern warning:

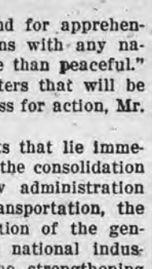
"Let him who, for speculative profit or partisan purpose, without just warrant would seek to disturb or dispel this assurance, take heed before he assumes responsibility for any act which slows our onward steps."

The President reported an unsettled condition in the foreign field, with the resurrection of old jealousies and passions and new strivings for armament and power in more than one land, adding:

"There is no ground for apprehension that our relations with any nation will be otherwise than peaceful."

Discussing the matters that will be brought before congress for action, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Among the subjects that lie immediately before us are the consolidation of federal regulatory administration over all forms of transportation, the renewal and clarification of the general purposes of the national industrial recovery act, the strengthening of our facilities for the prevention, detection and treatment of crime and criminals, the restoration of sound conditions in the public utilities field through abolition of the evil features of holding companies, the gradual tapering off of the emergency credit activities of government, and improvement in our taxation forms and methods.



"We have already begun to feel the bracing effect upon our economic system of a restored agriculture.

"The hundreds of millions of additional income that farmers are receiving is finding its way into the channels of trade.

"The farmers' share of the national income is slowly rising. The economic facts justify the widespread opinion of those engaged in agriculture that our provision for maintaining a balanced production gave at this time the most adequate remedy for an old and vexing problem.

"For the present and especially in view of abnormal world conditions, agricultural adjustment with certain necessary improvements in methods should continue."

THE Seventy-fourth congress, elected on the sole issue of support of the New Deal, began its first session on the dot and devoted its first day to the organization of the two houses and the swearing in of new members. The lawmakers assembled in the Capitol were a serious looking lot, and with reason, for they have on their hands a big job, that of making the New Deal permanent; and in the doing of it they must solve some of the most perplexing problems that our national legislators ever have faced. It would seem that the Democrats will have no trouble in passing any legislation they wish, for they have an overpowering majority. In the senate are 69 Democrats and only 25 Republicans, plus one Progressive—Robert M. LaFollette—and one Farmer-Laborite—Henrik Shipstead. The house is comprised of 322 Democrats, 102 Republicans, seven Progressives and three Farmer-Laborites. The administration Democrats do not anticipate any trouble from the Republicans; it is from the radical members of their own party that their woes are likely to come, and the help of the Republicans may be necessary to curb those left wingers. The majority leaders in both houses can be counted on to hold the radicals under a tight rein if that is possible.

Speaker Byrns

In the speaker's chair sits Joseph T. Byrns, chosen unanimously by his fellow Democrats. He is too much of a compromiser to suit many of them, but is now tied to the administration, which declined to oppose his election. John H. Bankhead of Alabama, like Byrns one of the old school, won the leadership of the house after a brief struggle. Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas was re-elected majority leader of the senate, and Senator Lewis of Illinois continues as whip.

In their pre-session caucus the Democrats voted to reduce materially the Republican representation on house committees, and decided to abrogate the 145 rule for discharging a committee and bringing a bill to vote within a week. The number now required for this action is 218. This latter action will provide another restriction on the radicals.

TWO thousand eight hundred bills were introduced and referred to committees on the first day of the new congress. Number 1, handed in by Representative Wright Patman of Texas, provides for the payment of the adjusted service certificates of veterans immediately in cash, through the issuance of greenbacks. Patman and other supporters of this plan call it "controlled inflation."

Lemke of North Dakota, Republican, introduced a measure for the liquidation and re-financing of agricultural indebtedness. The liquidation would be carried out at a reduced rate of interest, according to the bill, by establishing an efficient credit system, through the use of the federal farm loan and federal reserve banking systems. Lemke also provided for the creation of a board of agriculture to supervise the program.

Continuance of the HOLC was proposed by several congressmen. The bond issue of this agency would be increased anywhere from one billion to four and a half billion dollars in the various bills introduced on the subject.

A 100 per cent payoff for depositors whose funds are tied up in trust companies was sought in two bills written by Representative Clarence J. McLeod of Michigan.

Many bills were introduced providing unemployment and old age insurance.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT did not wait for the opening of congress to start his fight against immediate payment of the veterans' bonus. The commander of a Legion post in Texas wrote him for information on the matter and Mr. Roosevelt replied at length, detailing his reasons for opposing the payment. He argued that the obligation is not immediately due; that of 3,500'000 certificates outstanding, 3,038,500 veterans have borrowed $1,690,000,000, or "more than the present worth of their bonus certificates," and that when the veterans borrowed 50 per cent of the face value of the certificates in 1931 they used the funds to discharge their debts.

This last point, according to National Commander Belgrano of the American Legion, is one of the strongest arguments for immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates.

"The foundation of good business is good credit," said Commander Belgrano. "The money due veterans would be used to satisfy bills at the corner grocery, would help pay rents that are long past due and would go to hard pressed merchants to discharge the accounts of harder pressed veterans."

Speaker Byrns admitted that the cash bonus bill would pass the house "because there is no opposition to it there," but he added that if the measure is finally enacted the administration will insist on some additional taxation to meet the estimated $2,000,000,000 expenditure. It is believed the senate also will pass the bill, but leaders doubt its passage by congress over the Presidential veto.

IF LOUISIANA wants any more public works money from the administration, it must "clarify" some of the new laws which its legislature has passed at the behest of Senator Huey P. Long. This is the gist of a letter sent to Gov. O. K. Allen by President Roosevelt, and the "kingfish" is not pleased by it. He told the reporters he would make his reply on the floor of the senate at the first opportunity. The President's warning applied especially to the Louisiana moratorium law passed in November. Since its enactment the PWA has held up payments on about 60 Louisiana projects.

SENATOR VANDENBERG of Michigan, liberal Republican, says he will introduce in the senate a bill designed to take the Post Office department out of politics. The measure he has drafted would put all postmasters and postal officials, except the postmaster general, under the civil service, and in the giving out of jobs the post office employees would have the preference. Senator Vandenberg has been persistently demanding that Postmaster General Farley either resign from the cabinet or give up his chairmanship of the Democratic national committee. In line with this his bill would prohibit the postmaster general from holding any political office.

Senator Vandenberg

By taking politics out of the department and establishing a career service, Vandenberg said, "the pavement-pounding letter carriers may look forward to ultimate graduation to the high post of first assistant postmaster general."

"Under this bill," he added, "politics and postal affairs at last are separated as far as is possible in a democracy. All local postmasters are put squarely under civil service with emphatic and effective priorities given to the 'postal grays' themselves.

"Existing postmasters are permitted to serve out their present commissions. Thereupon the vacancies are filled by promotion from the service ranks. Only in the event that no such person is available—and we anticipate that this contingency would not arise other than in some of the smallest offices—can the vacancy be filled otherwise than by promotion."

ONE of the most serious issues that will confront congress is the battle between business and industry on one side and organized labor on the other, especially over the thirty-hour work week. The American Federation of Labor is committed to this proposition, and to the retention of the collective bargaining provisions of the NRA act. Big business, as represented by the Chamber of Comerce of the United States and the National Manufacturers' association, is opposed to the thirty-hour week, and now has the support from the Brookings institution. It also seeks the separation of labor bargaining and practice codes in the reorganization of the NRA. The opening shot in this battle is the introduction by Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama of his thirty-hour work week bill, which at present has not the support of the administration.

DEMOCRATS of Rhode Island surprised themselves and everyone else by gaining control of both houses of the state general assembly when a senate committee recounted the ballots from Portsmouth and South Kingston and declared two Democrats had been elected to the senate instead of the two Republicans who had been certified as winners by the state returning board. The Democratic legislators immediately organized the assembly, ousted the supreme court members, abolished the state appointed board of public safety and passed a reorganization bill to consolidate more than 80 agencies into 11 state departments.

FOREIGN MINISTER PIERRE LAVAL is carrying out successfully the work begun by his murdered predecessor, Barthou, to bring France and Italy into friendly accord for the settlement of all the conflicts that have arisen between those nations since the World war. The agreement, it is believed, will also insure peace in the Balkans. After a week of lively negotiations it was announced that M. Laval would go to Rome "to have important conversations with Premier Mussolini on questions which interest the two countries and on international politics and to conclude conversations which have been going on between the two countries."

WITH remarkable celerity the jury in the Hauptmann trial was selected, consisting of eight men and four women, and Attorney General Wilentz set forth the state's case against the Bronx carpenter who is accused of kidnaping and murdering the baby son of Colonel Lindbergh. The colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were present, and they and Betty Gow, the child's nurse, were among the early witnesses. On behalf of the state the attorney general demanded the penalty of first degree murder.

IN 1933 the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy, awarded to the athlete contributing the most to the cause of amateur athletics during the year, was missed by Bill Bonthron of Princeton by just one vote and was given to Glenn Cunningham. Now it is in Bill's possession as the result of his great foot-racing campaign during 1934, in the course of which he established a world record for 1,500 meters and beat Cunningham in three out of five races.

In the nationwide ballot, conducted by A. A. U., Bonthron led in the preliminary voting and then piled up 1,072 votes in the final test after the field had been cut to seven. Benjamin B. Eastman, former Stanford track star, ran second with 929 and then came Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette university's negro sprinter, with 413, and Glen Hardin, Louisiana State university, with 285.

Three swimmers trailed the trackmen. Lenore Kight of Homestead, Pa., received 262 votes; Jack Medica of Seattle, 169, and Katherine Rawls, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 154.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—Cotton is admittedly one of the most serious problems in the whole New Deal set-up. High officials will admit it confidentially, though their public utterances are very different, indeed.

The whole question, of course, is whether the United States can go on exporting enough cotton to keep the cotton acreage now being farmed busy, and yet maintain the world price of American cotton at high enough levels to make raising the cotton profitable.

Enthusiasts about the AAA program talk vociferously about the natural advantages of America with regard to cotton. They refuse to see any cloud on the horizon. They insist that there is no other locality in the world where cotton as good as that raised in America can be produced except at costs exceeding American costs.

As a general proposition, this is correct. Most countries that can produce cotton at lower costs than the United States have a product which compares most unfavorably with that grown in America. The few places that can produce equally good cotton have very high costs.

But—the whole world is looking for a cheaper substitute for high grade cotton, and generally, where such a quest persists long enough, the goal is found. The Germans have been experimenting with wood pulp. They do not claim to have gotten very far. At present they are in about the stage of American production of rubber from goldenrod. It can be done successfully, but there is no particular point in doing it. The costs actually exceed the cost of good imported rubber.

The search for a substitute is by no means over. Incidentally, the Germans have had fair success in the last few months, producing a substitute for rubber from rye flour. They buy the rye flour from Poland.

As long as America produced cotton without restrictions, there was not much point to looking for a substitute, because any given year there might be a big cotton crop, the price would fall off, and anyone financially interested in the substitute would take a terrible beating that year.

Keep Price Up

Now, however, the definite aim of AAA is to keep the price of cotton up all the time, regardless of weather and other crop conditions, by the simple expedient of restricting acreage and governing the carry over each year. Which sets up a real prize for the discoverer of a good substitute.

So actually the cotton program is in the same position as a company making a patented article, which it is selling at a nice profit. Always there is the fear that some inventor will come along with something either just as good or better, which will destroy the market for the patented article.

A second and entirely different problem concerns the people who earned their living by working in cotton fields up to the time of AAA restrictions, but now have no work. At the moment the federal government is taking care of them on relief. They are part of the 20,000,000 now estimated to be supported thus. They are also, of course, part of the explanation of the fact that the number of people on relief is not diminishing, despite the fact that business is getting better.

While the same problem applies to other crops than cotton, the situation with respect to the others is not nearly so serious. Cotton is the big export crop, and always has been. Moreover, there has not been much change in that situation as the country grew bigger in population. Exports of wheat and other farm products have slowly declined as the population of the cities in America consumed larger and larger percentages of the total crop. But cotton maintained about the same ratio as between domestic consumption and export right up to the time when AAA restrictions began to operate. About 60 per cent of the total crop was exported. Which explains some of the gray hairs in the Department of Agriculture.

Tax Increases Seen

Not only are there to be no tax reductions by congress, even on levies which there is very good reason for removing or lowering, but tax increases are almost certain before adjournment.

This will not appear early in the session, as the administration is counting on a lot of maneuvering about taxes in its fight to hold down the soldier bonus disbursements. But before the final taps of the gavels of the Vice President in the senate and the speaker in the house new taxes will have been levied, or old ones boosted. Because the treasury needs the money, and needs it badly.

There has been a vigorous checking over of told income tax returns, as many citizens have discovered, some to their sorrow. But the total amount of money realized by the treasury in this endeavor has been very disappointing. Official figures are not yet available, but there is no doubt as to the accuracy of this statement. For strangely enough, much as most people would love to dodge and evade income taxes, when it comes to writing down the figures on the return blanks they have a wave of honesty, or fear, whichever you prefer to believe.

So, with the prospect of larger appropriations than ever, there must be new taxes, while the fight for lower tobacco and liquor taxes, has been lost before the convening of congress—lost in Secretary Morgenthau's office.

The trouble is that even figuring on an extraordinary budget, in addition to the regular budget of normal governmental expenditures, will not justify the administration in not raising taxes. For while it is an easy bookkeeping method to say that this or that item, say of public works or relief, is extraordinary, and therefore should be financed by the sale of bonds instead of by taxes, there are other complications.

In the rule laid down by President Roosevelt, when he sent his first budget message, interest and sinking fund must be counted in the regular budget, though the sum on which they are calculated may be regarded as belonging in the extraordinary budget.

Total Is Mounting

Although there has been considerable saving in interest charges, due to the low rate of interest the government has had to pay, the total is mounting, and it will be recalled that up to now the budgets of this administration have eliminated sinking fund. This was done on the theory that during an emergency there was no point in saving up to pay off debt.

But it is obvious now that the appropriations for public works, to prime the pump of business recovery, and of relief to keep people from starving and freezing, are not going to decrease in the coming session. In all human probability they must be increased. And while they are still regarded as emergency appropriations, and therefore to be financed by bonds instead of taxes, there is a growing belief that the relief appropriations are never going to shrink to any figure which was thought normal a few years back—even two years back.

For it is now clear that relief is to be with the federal government always, the effort to make the local political units, states, counties and cities, take over their own problems to the contrary notwithstanding.

And it is plain to the experts who have been working on budget figures under Morgenthau's direction that the present flow of receipts from taxes is not sufficient to carry what cannot much longer be regarded as an emergency load, but which must soon be classified as a normal load.

In addition, there is fast approaching a time when sinking fund requirements can no longer be deferred. It has been hoped that a sufficient revival of business would result in boosting tax receipts to a sufficient extent to take care of this. But hardly to take care of the increased normal load.

About Public Lands

The old public lands question has been completely reversed apparently since the dawn of the New Deal. In former administrations senators from the western states complained bitterly and often about the fact that the federal government owned vast tracts of their land, which as a result were undeveloped, produced no taxes, and therefore added to the burden of the state government. The net result, they insisted, was that their taxpayers were unjustly assessed.

Now it is a southern state which protests—not against federal government land now held, but against the acquisition of government land, which will thereupon pass out of the taxing base of the state.

In a recent telegram to Forestry News Digest, Governor Talmadge of Georgia says:

"The federal government, according to reports, is optioning large areas of land in Georgia for purchase, the area reaching into hundreds of thousands of acres. If any of the agencies of the state are consulted about much of this federal land acquisition program, it is not known to me. From such information as drifts in, it seems that options are being taken on submarginal lands, largely forest land and abandoned farms that are now in condition to use only for growing trees. If this land goes to federal government ownership it is removed from state taxation, removed without the state being consulted.

"I certainly do not want land owners of Georgia to have to compete with the federal government in growing timber or in producing naval stores, with the federal government using tax-free and subsidized lands and not obliged to make a profit. Georgia has been getting a lot of wealth from its forests and it looks as if a lot more is coming from our woods. Georgians, and not the federal government, should get it. It seems to me that the federal government should at least coordinate its land purchase activities with some consideration for the rights of the state."

Which, incidentally, is an entirely new idea of "co-ordination" to many New Dealers.

The Real Answer

Apparently Governor Talmadge, in whose state lies what has actually been the winter home of Franklin D. Roosevelt since his illness, has some backing for his opposition to this federal development. The real answer, of course, is that in Georgia the forest is not just a supply of wood, which can be cut only at something approaching maturity, but a constant source of revenue because of resin, turpentine, etc., which are tapped from the trees very much as maple sirup is in northern states.

So that the idea of putting into forests land, which has been abandoned so far as agriculture is concerned, or on which farm families have starved in their efforts to eke out a living from a too impoverished soil, does not appeal.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

Meeting with Gov. Miller members of the executive committee of the board of administration at Alabama Polytechnic Institute announced they would enter into a co-operative terracing, soil erosion and farm experimentation program with Tennessee Valley Authority in 10 upstate counties.

Col. J. Sanford Mullins, of Alexander City, campaign manager of the League For Prohibition Repeal In Alabama, announced that he would open state headquarters in Montgomery for the liquor referenda which the 1935 Legislature is expected to submit.

Meeting on Jan. 13, at Montgomery, eve of the governor's inaugural ceremonies, the annual post commanders' and adjutants' conference is expected to attract hundreds of American Legionaires from every county in the state.

Legislation to establish a definite cotton grading system will be sought in the next Congress by W. P. Gordon, instructor in the Alabama Cotton Grading School, who conferred with Sen. John H. Bankhead recently in Washington.

Enactment of uniform firearms laws to keep track of lethal weapons in Alabama by requiring registration of all sales is recommended in a report filed with Gov. B. M. Miller by Henry Upsom Sims, Birmingham attorney.

Approximately 1,000 automobile owners of Walker County faced attachments of their vehicles when License Inspector T. V. Griffith began a drive to collect 1935 licenses. About 2,000 tags have been sold in the county.

A statewide survey of possibilities of rural electrification in Alabama, to be undertaken immediately in cooperation with the Alabama Relief Administration, is announced by the Alabama Public Service Commission.

An election contest against Probate Judge Homer F. Mitchell, Cullman County Republican, who won the November election by four votes, has been dropped by J. M. Kilpatrick, defeated Democratic candidate.

Two nursery schools, established in Walker County by the Alabama Relief Administration, have opened in Jasper and Cordova to care for 55 underprivileged white children, two to five years of age.

A temporary roadway has been completed to the site of Pickwick Dam, marking the first step in the preliminary work on this new development of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Attorney General Thomas E. Knight, Jr., ruled that former state convicts—now restored to citizenship—must pay poll tax for the years they spent in prison before hey can be qualified to vote.

"The Governor's Guards," otherwise Company "C" of the Alabama National Guard, Selma's unit, will be given a place of honor at the inaugural parade for Gov.-Elect Bibb Graves.

Thomas E. Knight, Jr., attorney general, has ruled that Alabama jurors are entitled to pay only for the number of days actually served, and to mileage for only one round trip from home.

Alabama relief rolls have been reduced in the past four months by nearly 25,000 families, exclusive of about 23,000 families transferred from direct relief to "rural rehabilitation."

Madison County cotton growers are expecting checks on parity cotton payments from the Government. The total is expected to be $103,087.90, divided among 3,407 individuals.

Born three seconds after midnight, thus smashing all Birmingham records for promptness, Carlton Thiery, held undisputed claim to the title of the city's 1935 New Year Baby.

Organization of a one-variety cotton community improvement association in the Mineola community of Monroe County is announced by County Agent A. V. Culpepper.

Gov. Miller has been notified that Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator, had approved a grant of $2,447,235 to be used for relief in Alabama during January.

Despite the holidays, the home meat canning establishment at Selma did almost as much work in December as in the first month, 1,846 containers having been put up.

Approximately $140,000,000 in Federal funds may be spent in Alabama during the fiscal year, 1934-35, a survey of Federal agencies operating in the state revealed.

Justice William A. Sawtelle, member of the Ninth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, died of a fall down the stairs of his home in Tuscumbia. He was 66.

Wilber B. Nolen, of Ashland, has been appointed associate state director for the Federal Housing Administration of Alabama.

Idle for the last three years, the Holly Grove mine of the Galloway Coal Company at Townley resumed operations, returning nearly 100 men to their jobs.

The Gadsden plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. has stepped up its production to capacity operation, running four six-hour shifts, six days a week.

Troy took the aspect of a holiday as 800 Pike County farmers came to town to collect $20,000 in cotton parity checks from W. A. Ruffin, county agent.

GOLDEN DAWN

By PETER B. KYNE

Copyright by Bell Syndicate
WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, which he names "Penelope," in a final effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin retires from business, wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for his daughter when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, by swimming to a speed-boat manned by friends, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—9—

"Those cops at your house will stick around, Lanny, and when you return they'll want to know where you've been. What are you going to tell them?"

"Tell them nothing. Let those two cops sit in their car in front of my house all night and watch it. What do I care? At least they'll keep burglars away. And when finally they do round me up and waltz me down to central station to be questioned, you'll do the questioning, will you not?"

"Lanny," said Dan McNamara, "if you were a man and on the force I'd make you a detective sergeant. You're a bear-cat, that's what you are. But you smuggled that letter out of San Quentin for Nance and turned it over to Sapphire Susie!"

"Indeed! Well, let me tell you, Dan McNamara, that I'm a respectable woman and I never associate, if I know it, with ladies known to the police by such names."

"Maybe you didn't know it, but you gave Sapphire Susie a lift in your car from the main gate at San Quentin down to Greenbrae. The guard remembers seeing her hanging around the main gate, as if she was waiting for somebody; later she got into a coupe with a middle-aged lady, who looked so respectable he took another look at the pass she had just surrendered to him and remembers that the name on the pass was yours. The pass entitled you to visit Nance Belden. Guards may not remember such incidents until something happens. Then they're fast on their feet, Lanny."

"And who, if you please, is Sapphire Susie?"

"She's did a stretch at San Quentin for blackmail. She was discharged a week before you visited Nance, and before Susie left the Big House, Nance fixed it with her to lend a helping hand. Apparently Nance didn't want to confide the minute details of her plan of escape to Susie. Susie's a swell looker but a little bit dumb—she levied blackmail through the mail, understand, and signed her name, instead of hiring a smart shyster lawyer. So Nance decided to send her written instructions out by you, and Susie agreed to pick you up, pinch the letter and deliver it."

"Dan, I assure you I wasn't in any plot to effect a prison delivery. If I'd thought for an instant I was doing anything wrong—why, Nance told me to read her letter and if I disapproved of its contents to destroy it. I didn't see any harm in that."

"You violated the rules of the prison and you could be punished for it by a term in that same prison."

"I'm a respectable woman—"

"That gets you nowhere. I was a respectable chief of police once—and now look at me. If your part in this leaks out you can only be punished—and you can't be convicted unless you talk in your sleep. If my part in this should leak out I'll be punished and disgraced and thrown out of the best job I've ever had. However—" he raised his glass to her—"mud in your eye, Lanny."

"Happy days, Dan, you gorgeous softy."

The doorbell rang, Dan opened it and Doctor Burt stepped in. He paused in amazement at sight of Lanny, glass in hand; she motioned him with it down the hall. "First door at the end, Stevie. You'll find your patient there."

"That girl with the dissociated personality, Nance Belden, escaped from San Quentin late this afternoon, Chief," Stephen began, and handed the latter a newspaper. "Big story. First woman to escape from San Quentin." He gazed severely upon Lanny. "What are you doing here, Lanny?"

"All h—l to pay, Stevie dear, and no pitch hot. That Belden girl is here with a bullet hole in her shoulder; she's suffering from shock and submersion and chill and loss of blood and she's cold as a penguin's tail. I've given her a stiff noggin of Dan's terrible booze and a fortieth of a grain of strychnin and an alcohol rub. She's sleeping. Did you bring those hot-water bottles?"

"Yes," he said humbly, indicating a bag he carried. Lanny fell upon the bag, and retired to the kitchen to fill the hotwater bottles and tuck them in alongside her child patient. "Lucky if she doesn't develop pneumonia, Stevie."

Doctor Burt stood looking down at the sleeping Nance. "Out of the warden's arms and straight into yours. You guessed she'd call on Lanny, eh. Dan, you're an old fox."

"No, Doc, I'm not. A fox has brains."

"He's a lamb, Stevie, just a big ram lamb."

While Lanny was assisting Doctor Burt in dressing Nance Belden's wound, Dan McNamara sat in his plain little living room and read the story of her escape from San Quentin. It appeared that throughout all of Sunday afternoon two men, in a motor boat, had been anchored in the cove off San Quentin apparently fishing for striped bass, which abound at this particular point in San Francisco bay. There were other boats anchored there also—eight in all. The guard at the entrance to the women's quarters had observed them, until, about four-thirty p. m., just before locking-up time a guard in one of the lookout towers on the hill had telephoned him that a boat had approached close to the shore.

The guard had thereupon stepped out of his kiosk and around to the rear of it, which faced toward the beach, less than thirty feet distant. He had shouted at the men in the boat and warned them to be off, that they were not permitted to approach that close, that they were within the deadline. To this the men replied that they couldn't help it; that their motor had gone dead and that the tide had set them in; that they were trying to make repairs and would be off as soon as they could.

While the guard was in the rear of his station, engaged in this conversation, Nance Belden had approached the gate, kicked off her shoes and, digging her toes into the quarter-inch wire mesh of the sixteen-foot gate, had scrambled to the top with incredible rapidity. She was just climbing down the outside of the gate when the guard in the tower on the hill saw her and immediately telephoned to the guard at the main gate; also to the guard arguing with the men in the motor-boat. Upon hearing the telephone bell ringing in his station, that guard had walked back into it; at the same time, keeping the kiosk between her and the approaching guard, Nance Belden had dashed down to the beach and commence swimming rapidly toward the motor-boat, the motor of which instantly started, and the boat commenced edging in to pick her up.

"I Never Picked Him Up, Doc."

When the guard in the kiosk, apprised of what was taking place, ran out with a rifle in his hand and shouted to Nance Belden to come back or he would shoot her, a machine-gun in the motor-boat promptly came into action against him. He had not been hit, but a shower of bullets had spattered the ground around and in front of him and another burst had gone over his head and through the sentry box. The guard had fired once at the Belden woman and hit her, but immediately thereafter, fearful of being killed, he had thrown himself flat on the ground.

The guard in the watch-tower on the hill had then brought his machine-gun into action. His first burst had been short, and drew answering fire from the machine gunner in the boat. Although the range was four hundred yards, the first burst from the motor-boat tore through the wooden watch-tower, which rather distracted the aim of the guard there; nevertheless, the latter stuck to his gun and continued to fire, spattering bullets around the swimming girl and into the boat.

The men in the boat did not hesitate, but came on through the hail of bullets; the escaping prisoner had in the meanwhile either sunk or dived; at any rate a widening tinge of red appeared on the water. She was down about thirty seconds, then her head emerged close to the boat, and she swam with one arm to the side of it; a man reached over and grasped her under both arms and jerked her into the boat, which instantly turned, put on full speed and raced away close past two other boats. Fearful of killing innocent people, the guard in the watch-tower held his fire until the escaping boat was in the clear; then he and the guard in another tower came into action again. But a target moving at a speed of forty-five miles an hour is not easily hit; the fire was either over or short and the boat did not stop. When it was out of range, it turned, and in the rapidly fading light of the winter day, headed up into San Pablo bay, running close to the south shore to avoid the chop of the waves in this shallow expanse of water. They ran without lights.

While the course they had taken would seem to indicate a desire to run up Carquinez straits to the Sacramento or the San Joaquin rivers, land and escape in a waiting automobile into central California, the warden realized that his quarry was not lacking in intelligence; that, fast as they fled, they would realize that the telephone is faster; that the roar of their motor must betray them a mile away. He had, therefore, taken the precaution to notify the chiefs of police of Pittsburg, Martinez, Sausalito, Richmond, Berkeley, Oakland and San Francisco, leaving to these the task of notifying intermediate points. The warden had a suspicion the fugitives would double back to San Francisco—particularly since the girl was wounded and must be hidden in order to receive medical attention.

"And here she is," Dan McNamara muttered. "Cripes, what a woman! Lord, how I love a woman with brains and courage. Just a little simple matter of taking pains and taking risks. She didn't go in to the dining hall for dinner with the other prisoners. Smart! Knew she couldn't make a fast swim on a full stomach. Smart enough to notice the warden's oversight in failing to fill in with barbed wire topping that eighteen-inch space at the top of his gate. Of course they figured they needn't bother with that, because no woman could climb a sixteen-foot wire mesh fence anyhow, and if she did she'd only drop down into the waiting arms of the guard, who is never absent, night or day. But Nance Belden knew she could climb that fence barefoot; she knew she had thirty seconds to do it and a drop on the other side from the top of the gate. Her job was to induce the guard to turn his back—and her friends in the boat did that!

"She knew she'd been seen from the watch-tower on the hill and the guard at the gates notified by telephone; as he returned from the edge of the beach, around the south side of his kiosk, Nance slipped by him on the north side and was in the water as the guard took up the 'phone. Smart! She knew no guard will stick under machine-gun fire at fifty yards, merely to stop a woman convict escaping from prison. Smart! Sank and swam under water—and then the zigzag course between the boats of the other fishermen, after they picked her up. Fine psychology—she engineered it all—and I know she's a nut! And then straight to Lanny for medical attention—straight to the one human being she knew she could trust—no, I'll not send her back. And I don't particularly want to catch her friends either. I'll say they're friends! Wish I had a couple of friends that'd come on through machine-gun fire for me! I had thought the world was selfish and cruel and thieving and lying—but there's nobility left in it after all."

Stephen Burt came out of the bedroom and sat down and stared at the chief of police with grave interest. "Well, my good Javert," he said presently.

"Your good what?"

"I called you Javert. Don't you know who Javert was?"

Dan McNamara shook his head. "I never picked him up, Doc."

"You wouldn't. He was a character in 'Les Miserables,' a novel by Victor Hugo. He was a fly-cop in Paris, and he pursued an ex-convict named Jean Valjean for twenty years, because he believed the man was a crook. Once a crook, always a crook, was Javert's philosophy. And when he discovered at last he had the goods on Jean Valjean and it was his duty to arrest him, he discovered simultaneously that Jean Valjean was also a good and noble man, which proved extremely embarrassing to Javert."

"I understand how that could be, all right, Doc. What did Javert do then?"

"He climbed up on the railing of a bridge over the Seine, unpinned his shield, threw it into the river and jumped in after it."

"He committed suicide in order to give his man the breaks."

"Exactly."

"Well," Dan McNamara decided after pondering this a half minute, "I wouldn't be boob enough to do that. He should have made a stool pigeon out of Jean Valjean and maybe he'd have gotten somewhere in his job."

Stephen smiled. He liked this heavy man, with the Celtic face as inscrutable as a Chinaman's. As a specialist in mental diseases he knew the part heredity plays in the formation of character, and one did not have to look at the chief twice to know that he came of courageous ancestry. No vague fears or anxieties in this fellow, Stephen thought. Courageous men are usually honest men; even when they are not honest they are sufficiently courageous to pay the price, no matter how high, for the things they do with their eyes open—to pay it cheerfully and refrain thereafter from whimpering.

"So you're going to protect this girl, are you, Chief?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

Needs the Muscle

The average housewife, in washing dishes, handles 340 tons of china a year.

TRUE GHOST STORIES

By Famous People

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc.
WNU Service.

By RITA WEIMAN
Author.

"RITA WEIMAN is too strong-minded to have a ghost story," cautioned her husband.

"Beg your pardon," he added, "Come to think of it she does have a ghost story, a very real one. She has a knack of foreseeing things. Tell about your 'voltage story,' Rita."

Simultaneously, the author, her husband and I drew our chairs closer to the fireplace, above which burned dim lights from Chinese furniture, which she favors.

"Seven years ago," she began, "I read an obscure notice in the newspaper, about John Hulbert, of Auburn, N. Y., an electrician, resigning as executioner at Sing Sing, because he was being ostracized from society. At the same time he justified his job, saying he was only fulfilling his work as a servant of the state.

"I thought this was a grand idea for a story. I wrote a story about an electrician, who was ostracized by his family and friends, because they found out he was serving as an executioner and who eventually killed himself because of their actions, by seizing a high-voltage electric wire. I sold the story to a magazine.

"A few months later the editor called me to say that the owner of the magazine felt that my story was a plea against capital punishment and that he did not feel that his magazine should take issue on the subject. I should keep my cheek, but the story would not be published by them; I could resell it if I wished.

"I let the matter drift, although I felt that I wanted to see the story published.

"One morning, two years later, my secretary handed me a paper."

"Look," she cried, with amazement in her voice.

"'Joins in death the 140 men he slew,' said the headlines. 'John Hulbert, by suicide, answers the question all who knew him asked.'

"How I rejoiced that my story had not been published! I would always have been haunted by the thought that Hulbert had read my story and brooded over it, and had eventually committed suicide.

"In view of the strange finale of events, the magazine then published the story, and I rejoiced that I have been saved from that ghost."

* * *

By PERCY CROSBY
Cartoonist.

"I WAS born in a haunted house," related the comic artist, Percy Crosby.

"The first gleam of consciousness which I can remember in my life was seeing a colored mammy under the kitchen table, and hearing my mother say that the mammy was a ghost. All through my childhood I can remember my mother complaining to my father that our house was haunted, until, when I was three, we had to move from it.

"I can remember vividly that first experience—the only time I ever saw the ghost. It left an indelible impression on my mind.

"I had gone into the kitchen to get a cooky. Under the kitchen table I saw a negro mammy; a red bandanna was tied tightly around her head, her two hands were on the floor. She seemed to be backing away from me. I screamed in fright at the strange sight and ran to my mother.

"Mother grasped my hand, and took me back to the scene. The woman was still crouching there.

"I saw my mother slap at her, and her hand went right through her head and struck the wall; and the mammy disappeared.

"'Ghost, ghost!' screamed my mother. I screamed also, not knowing what the word meant.

"Mother called witnesses who agreed that there was no sign or hide or hair of the mammy in the room. I was with her to testify that she had been there, and that when mother struck her she disappeared.

"After that experience my mother grew more nervous and timid; but, like all small boys, the experience only gave me more courage, and more ideas for adventure. But I have never found a ghost since that time. No doubt since I was born in a haunted house, I'll probably die in one."

Farmers War on Lark

Even if Shelley wrote an ode about it and Schubert was inspired by it to compose a beautiful melody, the lark is just a bird that damages wheat and other crops. So declare the farmers in the vicinity of Norfolk, England, and they have started a war on the songster. The Norfolk Agricultural committee has excluded the bird from the new order under the wild birds protection act.

Collapse Reveals Secret Tunnel

Not known previously to exist, a brick-lined tunnel six feet high, ten feet wide and about ten feet below the surface of the road and believed to be over one hundred years old, collapsed at Sheffield, England, while workmen were preparing foundations for a garage.

Paris Acclaims t...

By CHERIE NI...

The ...
Published ...
Alabama ...
Post Of...

FRA... MIL...

FOR sheer loveliness whenever, wherever, if ever has eye beheld a more entrancing array of lace evening gowns than those which are now gracing the midwinter social scene! When we say sheer loveliness we mean just that—sheer and lovely as the smart new laces and nets, chiffons and marquisettes can make the party frocks and evening formals now so voguish.

The importance of lace and net and various beauteous sheers of similar character cannot be over emphasized. Reports pour in from Paris in regard to the enthusiasm shown for gowns that are that thin and fluttery and diaphanous they needs must be made over foundational slips of silk, or satin, crepe or lame.

In describing the group of distinguished lace fashions pictured, we are so enthusiastic about the superbly lovely lace frock to the right in the trio we are going to tell about it first. It is a wedding gown which is real style news, gives it an added touch of glamor and romance, too. More and more brides are intrigued with the idea of lace for the all-important nuptial event. One of the reasons, perhaps, is that lace is so luxurious and beautiful in itself, it needs no furbelows and intricate cutting to enhance it. Silver lace is particularly sumptuous and it makes a really thrilling wedding gown. Ardanse of Paris, whose creations are ever strikingly original, creates this exquisite bridal costume of this silver lace. It has a square court train which may be draped as a wrap, as here shown, which makes it practical for the bride to wear as an evening gown later. A white satin godet is inserted at the side-front. The same satin borders the train, also the long sleeves.

In the charming black lace dress centered in the picture, Patou has very ingeniously contrived to coax a youthful little peplum to circle the hips and go ruffling down the back. From the picture one might easily fancy that net of large open mesh fashioned this dress instead of lace. However, it is really a rather heavy lace, smartly patterned in a conventional design which is younger looking than the more formal and ornate orals. There is just enough sophistication about this dainty frock to appeal to the bud "just out" in society who aspires to poise and dignity.

Speaking of the new net frocks, likewise the now-so-voguish marquisettes, they are going in for color for all they are worth, unusual tones such as raspberry, violet (said to be the coming big color), Marina blue, rust and dark red.

In regard to the gown illustrated to the left in the group, color adds to the enchantment of the lace which fashions it. For this gown of classic simplicity Callot uses a gorgeous copper-colored lame lace, posing it over a white crepy silk slip. The collar of white coq feathers is a grand climax.

A word should be spoken in regard to the tendency this season to employ laces of a filmy texture both in colors and black. The newer black lace dresses hold one almost spellbound in their fragile beauty. Then, too, among recent showings are stunning lace modes which display a riot of fine knife pleatings which form wide ounces and bertha off-shoulder decollettes and shoulder capes and other captivating details.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

CONTRAST SLEEVES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The idea of sleeves contrasting the rest of the dress is holding good in midseason styling. Advance spring fashions and resort modes also emphasize this feature. Not only are sleeves in direct contrast but the matter of cutting sleeves and yoke in one is important, according to reports in regard to advance fashions. The dinner dress pictured is of dull black velvet with cut-in-one sleeves and yoke of sheer ribbed velvet which makes this dress practical for late-into-the-spring wear. A delicate rhinestone necklace, just the right length for the neckline, adds formality. The wide rhinestone bracelet also sounds the glittering note which fashion demands for evening. In reality this dress is part of a suit, having a simple, fitted hiplength jacket fastened at the small turnover collar with two handsome silver fox tails.

Feathers on Gowns

Evening gowns trimmed with pheasant feathers are seen in London.

NEW WRINKLES IN SPRING SHOWINGS

Peplums and pleats are the new wrinkles in advance style showings for spring, and in last-word touches for mid-winter costumes.

Pleats are cropping out all over the place—in evening gowns and daytime frocks, used to give skirt fullness in back or front, or to add character to a peplum flare.

They are showing up even in hat-brims and in scarfs, in bustle effects on evening gowns and in whole skirts for formal costumes of the naughty nineties school.

The tiered cape in starched net gains distinction if the net is pleated.

Sheer evening gowns are knockouts with voluminous skirts knife-pleated from waist to floor, with an additional pleated peplum flare on the fitted waist-length jacket.

Wide Belts and Princess Lines Are Now Emphasized

Two fashion specifications—wide belts and princess lines—are emphasized to a degree that makes it seem certain that there's to be no fooling about women keeping their waistlines well corseted and smooth.

In either case, it must be carefully and thoroughly digested that it is not a pulled-in or nipped waistline. Wide belts are now shaped so that they have a curved profile to coincide with the natural waistline, and thus putting a stop once and for all to the abrupt cut at top and bottom that has been the big drawback in wide belts in the past.

Turtle Neck Collar

The turtle neck collar is a feature of many sweaters and a novelty is the posing of this collar in a dark color on a light sweater, such as wine red on a creamy off-white.

Tucked Gloves

This season gloves entirely streaked with parallel lines of pin tucking will be worn by the Parisienne with her pin-tucked kidskin shoes.

News Shelby County Democrat

Every Thursday Morning At Columbiana, Entered As Second Class Matter At The fice In Columbiana, Alabama, Under Act Of Congress, March 3, 1879.

Preside K HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
DRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

Why Isn't This Done More Often?

The ease with which public opinion can be aroused by propaganda against a foreign country is one of the favorite arguments of those who think war making is an ineradicable trait of human nature. Seldom considered is the fact that it is at least as easy to cultivate friendliness between nations.

Poland and Germany are now engaged in a demonstration of this. Since Versailles and the establishment of the Polish corridor, no efforts have been spared in either country to arouse popular antagonism toward the rival. Up to last January, there was probably more open shaking of fists between these nations than across any other European frontier.

But a 10-year non-aggression pact was signed January 26, 1934, whereupon the two nations planned an active "moral disarmament" propaganda campaign to adjust public opinion to the changed situation. With close government control over the press, radio, theaters, textbooks and the like, it was comparatively simple to give effect to the official desire for substitution of friendly propaganda.

Even in a few short months, the campaign has brought about a complete change at least in the surface attitude of the two peoples toward each other. A second conference of propaganda officials, held in Warsaw the other day, was the occasion for mutual felicitations over the success of the program in both countries.

If eight months can accomplish such results between two natural enemies and historical rivals, what is the sense in building $1,000,000,000 navies and fortifications?—Des Moines Register, Des Moines Iowa.

The Referendum

A referendum on the question of legalizing the sale of wine, liquor and beer in this state is practically an assured fact and apparently is more welcome by the drys than by the ultra wets. However, it is plain that both sides are willing for the question to be put to the voters for final settlement.

Under the proposed plan the people will vote on whether they wish to keep the present dry laws, on whether they wish to legalize the sale of beer and wines and also on the question of whether hard liquors shall be legally sold.

Ever since the federal amendment was repealed, the Democrat has been convinced that this referendum should be held in Alabama. It lets the people themselves settle the question. —The Limestone Democrat.

The Bankhead Bill Victory

From the many letters published in the papers against the Bankhead Bill and the many who were so active in cussing and discussing it we were really afraid it might not poll the necessary two-thirds majority. It was therefore a surprise when the Saturday papers came out saying it passed by a 10 to 1 majority. Possibly this may yet be reduced a bit but it does show that when the weekly press as a unit support a measure it is likely to go over. However, in this case we believe the daily papers gave it support also.

When daily and weekly papers both unanimously unite on a measure it is apt to win. When they oppose each other, in a state election, we would rather have the weeklies on our side. When, as it happens, that they are mixed in their support they merely nullify each other and it is anybody's fight.—The Advertiser-Journal, Haleyville, Alabama.

AND EXCHANGE IT AFTER THREE DAYS

He—And so you think women have great strength of mind? Do you believe that any woman would do as Caesar did and refuse a crown?

She—I think so. Of course, she might try it on to see how it looked.—Exchange.

Job-Hunting Builds Character

The recent depression, with all of its devastating qualities, has also been commended for its character-building elements.

I have found in the last three years that this is true of the depression, and not only of the depression in general, but also that one of the greatest character building agencies of the depression has been that of seeking a position.

I have found in my own experience that my determination has been strengthened, my patience has been increased, I have developed a keen sympathy for those who are job-hunting like myself, and I have learned to employ the fine courtesy that is so desirable on occasions when many are applying for the same position.

There is real education in job-hunting. It teaches not only courtesy, but good sportsmanship. It not only strengthens the determination, but is also develops a keen sense of humor that is invaluable on some occasions.—Elizabeth Lee, Ga., in Andalusia Star.

Babson Optimistic For 1935

Human beings are, as a rule, optimists. They put their best foot forward. They are always looking for something better in the future, and that is their attitude toward the New Year, 1935. Let us hope that this optimism is not without cause.

Roger W. Babson, considered by many to be the best authority on business conditions in America, forecasts that general business will show a moderate gain in the first six months of 1935 over the first half of 1934. He looks for a 5 per cent gain at least.

After making the foregoing modest prediction for the first half of 1935. Mr. Babson becomes more bullish for the balance of the galance of the year, "providing," he says, "the capital goods industries, represented by building, show some life during the early months of 1935. The latter industry is the big 'if' in 1935. Sharply rising building totals will set the 'green light' for prosperity by 1936." Mr. Babson says business has been slowly creeping upward since September and is 9 per cent above last December's level.—The Mountain Eagle, Jasper, Alabama.

Confidence Comes First

The most potent force for recovery is confidence—confidence on the part of industry, property owners, investors. By the same token, lack of such confidence creates and perpetuates depression.

The San Francisco Call-Bulletin recently observed there are now some ten billion dollars ready to be loaned to business for improvement and expansion—where there is sufficient confidence to justify the risk. The money is now in the banks, but bankers would obviously be unfaithful to their trust if they loaned money without feeling strongly that they can do so in safety.

There are now signs that confidence is returning—that problems are being ironed out, that industrial leaders and public officials are reaching a common ground. If that is true, it will be a blessing for all the people.—Exchange.

COURTESY, EH?

The London fog was so bad that he thought it would be safer to go home in a taxi. The driver frankly admitted he did not know the way, and, in a thick fog, that he had no hope of finding it.

"That's all right," said his fare. "I will walk in front of the taxi and show you the way."

Which he did. Arrived at home, he paid the taxi driver, gave him a good tip and that's that.—Bystander.

LIFE IN THE U. S. A.

Sally Rand does her balloon dance behind a specially constructed screen. That's to prevent playful firemen from Paducah trying to get a lighted cigar near the balloon, which is her principal garment. That makes Sally Rand the first act to work behind a screen since the Cherry Sisters.—As reflected in a New York note in Variety.

Columbiana Savings Bank

Columbiana, Alabama

■

CONDENSED STATEMENT

December 31, 1934.

■

Resources:

Cash and due from Banks	$179,449.62
United States Bonds and Certificates	41,021.88
Loans secured by cotton and Commodity Credit Corporation agreement to purchase	60,163.24	$280.634.74
Loans and Discounts		77,573.45
Other Bonds and Stocks		18,538.68
Banking House Furniture and Fixtures		6,360.25
Other Real Estate		6,209.28
Outside checks and cash items		203.90
Other Assets		483.15
Total		390,003.45

■

Liabilities:

Capital Stock	$35,000.00
Surplus	7,000.00
Undevided Profits	336.36
Reserved for interest	1,000.00	43,336.36
Cashiers Checks outstanding		2,028.29
Demand Deposits		238,765.04
Time Deposits		105,873.76
Total		390,003.45

SPECIALS

--at--

Taylor's Cash Stores

COLUMBIANA CASH STORE
SILURIA CASH STORE
BUCK CREEK CASH STORE
MONTEVALLO CASH STORE
UNDERWOOD CASH STORE
CALERA CASH STORE

FLOUR, Warterfall, guaranteed or money refunded, 24 lb. sack	$1.10
SUGAR, 10 pound paper bag	48c
SOAP, Octagon, 5 giant size	21c
SALMON, Alaska Pink, 2 for	25c
CORN FLAKES, Kelloggs, 2 for	15c
BAKING POWDER, Clabba Girl, 2 lb. can	20c
RAISINS, seeded or seedless, per package	10c
BLACK BERRIES, fine for making pies	10c
ASPARAGUS TIPS, one square can	25c
TOMATOES, hand packed, 3 for	25c
CARROTTS (Stokely) (Dice) no. 2 can	10c
LIMA BEANS, Green, Stokely, no. 2 can	15c
MILK, Northfield, 3 for	10c
COCOA, Mothers, 2 pound box	25c
COFFEE, Satisfaction, A Maxwell House Product	20c
TOMATO JUICE, Phillips, per can	5c
PEANUT BUTTER, 2 pound jar	25c
SOAP, Palmolive or Camay bar	5c
POTATOES, Irish, 5 pounds	9c
CABBAGE, hard head, per pound	2½c

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

JANUARY 10TH, 1935.

Holidays are over! Retrospection time is past! We are about down to normal again, and it is now time to hit the "high spots" of a very busy week.

First and foremost in the chatter on Main Street and in every home in Alabama, is the signal triumph of the Crimson Tide over Stanford University on the pacific coast on New Years Day! The result is too well known to dwell upon, but it will be a long time before the Southland forgets what always happens when the Crimson Tide flows—WEST!

We shall only briefly mention this victory here for the benefit of anyone who happens to peruse these columns 25 years from now!

Alabama won with the most brilliant, spectacular exhibition of Football ever staged on the Pacific Coast! Long will Dixie Howell, Don Hutson and Captain Bill Lee's names be synonomous terms with superlative football playing! Long will each stalwart member of this great team be remembered! And, last but not least, long will that little silent looking dingus known as MIKE, be remembered! Never has radio broadcast a happier message to the waiting Southland than when the announcer stated: "Alabama 29—Stanford 13!"

Alabama's football record during the four trips taken to the Rose Bowl is as follows: In 1926, Stanfard tied Alabama; the other three games were sensational victories for the Crimson Tide over Washington. Washington State and Stanford.

The story now is an old one, just mentioned it in passing as we should like to record this victory in the annals of our historical records here in the office. Our whole hearted congratulations have already been offered, and we take renewed pride in the fact that we were "born and bred in old Alabama".

Never has a day started off in a happier vein than on Monday morning of this week, when Charles Swann, Jr., who, in 1933 held the record for being the youngest subscriber to the Democrat, walked in the office looking for all the world like a real live Bluebird in his little leggins, cap, and lumber jack of this shade of blue, and handed me the loveliest remembrance a little gentleman has ever thought about giving me, and with a merry twinkle in his eye, threw me a kiss as he toddled off—stating he had "enjoyed the Democrat" each week and of course will continue to read its columns. Who knows, some day—perhaps 25 years from now, this same brilliant little youngster may be editing this very paper. You never can tell! I refer you to his letter in the Kiddies Kolumn, and if you don't think he knows a thing or two, read it and find out.

Thanks my little man, and please come to see me in my new office in the Democrat building whenever you are in town.

A mighty rustle of chairs is next heard, and some where in the neighborhood of 2000 weekly readers of the Democrat, stand to salute the newest citizen we have heard about, and who will be the youngest subscriber for 1935, unless Mr. Stork has broken this record somewhere else. So far, our files show that Dr. J. M. Crawford has in his office a record of a "blessed event" which took place on January 2nd. at 4:26 a. m., and the "sweetest li'l fellow" is now reigning over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jackson Walton of Columbiana RFD No. 1. We presume his name will be Andrew Jackson Walton, Jr. However, we should like to hear from this little family and from our New Year Baby now on our list. Congratulations, and all good wishes for a wonderful New Year.

The Exchange Club of Columbiana held its regular dinner engagement on last Thursday night at Curlee's Cafe. Combining business and pleasure this progressive group of men are mapping out an attractive program for 1935.

The termination of the 2 cent check tax on December 31st brought a sigh of relief from some of us who have never been able to get a book balanced correctly since it started. It is so hard to remember every little 2 cents on each little check we write. After all, we are—just "average" when it comes to figuring "cents" where they — "ain't".

And here is a definition of a Pedestrian which was handed me by "one who walks"—Small Boy: "What is a pedestrian, Daddy?"

Daddy: "It's a man who has a wife, a daughter, two sons, and a car".

Heard in Birmingham during the Christmas rush in the L. & N. depot:

Old Lady (on cement tunnel): "Which track for the Boston train?"

Porter: "Turn to the left and you'll be right".

Old Lady: "Don't be impertinent young man".

Porter: "All right, then turn to your right and you'll be left".

Ho Hum—What a jam there was that day!

A recent victim of the Flu tells me this one on a local physician: Patient—Doctor I feel like killing myself, what shall I do? Doctor—Just leave it to me.

Why not come in and let us print you some new stationary for 1935? We are fully equipped to give you the latest type and set-ups. Consult "George" and let him make you an individual design for "distinctive" stationery. We shall be happy to serve you—both for business requirements and for social affairs.

County Court convened on Monday with Probate Judge Cage Head, presiding. Many prominent visitors from over the County were noted under the Courthouse Dome, among them were L. C. Walker, Tom Lee and Tom Naish, of Siluria; Solon E. McGraw, J. A. Wade, Ex-Mayer Joe Cunningham, of Vincent; Frank Miller, of Helena; Attorney White E. Gibson and Bill Denson, of Birmingham and others.

Beth Wallace, after spending the holidays in Columbiana, returned to Vincent to resume her teaching in the Elementary School at this place.

Misses Ruth Luck, Margaret Ellis, Jane Fowler and Charlie Verne Tinney, have returned to Alabama College. A. D. Gordon and Harris Milton Gordon returned to University of Alabama, and Jack McGhee returned to Auburn. The town seems deserted without these "peppy" collegians.

Miss Frances Spivey, of Luverne, after a delightful visit with relatives and friends in Columbiana, returned home, Saturday.

News from Miss Elizabeth Davis, of Columbus, Ohio, reveals the fact that this popular little high school product of the North states "there is no place like Alabama". We deeply regretted that circumstances prevented her remaining longer with us. Miss Davis made many friends while attending school in Columbiana, and she has been greatly missed since leaving. Here's hoping she will return again during the Summer—at least for a visit.

Mrs. George, of Fairhope, after spending two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Head in Columbiana, returned to her home, Sunday.

Karl Harrison, of Birmingham, recently admitted to the Bar of Alabama, has left for New Orleans, where he will represent the First National Bank in a debating contest, having won this signal honor recently in a competitive debate held in Birmingham.

Supt. J. L. Appleton spent Tuesday in Montgomery in an endeavor to obtain Federal aid for the schools in Shelby County.

Make 1935 Your Most Enjoyable Year By Always Getting The B-E-S-T——And That Is What You Get Here—

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

Kiddies' Kolumn

"Ah! What would the world be to us
If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
Worse than the dark before"——

So, do we happily welcome the KIDDIES back to the columns of the Democrat.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 6th, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

Well, behold 1935! I am glad to see it, cause in a few more months I will be 2 years old—big enough to climb over this gate Mother has put across the porch to keep me in, and big enough to slip off to come to see you. You, Dear Lady, made 1934 much happier by sending me the Democrat each week. I enjoyed it so much! I liked the Christmas issue which had a big picture of Santa Claus on it.

I wish you would come up to see my little Sister sometime. I get peeved at her when she will not play ball with me and throw it at her. Guess she is just a teeny weeny little old sissy girl though, and never can play ball with me.

Thank you so much for the paper, and before closing, I want to say HELLO to the youngest 1935 subscriber, and I hope he or she will enjoy the Democrat as much as I have.

A happy and a prosperous New Year for everybody.

Charles Swann, Jr.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 7, 1935.

Dear Mrs. Wallace:-

I have had the flu and a bad case of it too. I have had so much tar and musterole on me till I feel like a tar and musterole baby.

Gee I thank you for appointing me on the committee and I will do all I can to serve "you" and the "Kiddies Kolumn". And I doubly thank you for sending me the paper.

School has started again. Books, books, books. I have missed all my mid-term tests. Thank you Mr. Flu.

I rode on the train by myself for the first time. You would think I stayed a long time for I went down in 1934 and come back in 1935. But I had a good time.

Looking for the Kolumn.
Joyce Jackson.

Harpersville, Ala.,
January 7, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I want to tell you how much I have enjoyed being Mascot for the Democrat during 1934. When I am older and can start a Scrap Book, clippings from the Democrat will fill its first pages. Mother is saving all of them for me.

Perhaps I had better tell you something about myself. I am a blonde with very blue eyes. I am not very tall, but am fairly plump. I have been walking for three months. I laugh very easily and pride myself on having many friends.

I do not care a great deal about playing with my dolls and other toys—I had rather sit on the piano bench and play the piano. Most people would call my playing by some other name, but to me it is "sweet music". I hope some day to play and sing like you. I can say "daddy" and do lots of cute little things, or so my family thinks.

I want to see my letter printed in the Kiddies Kolumn, every year—will you do this for me?

I wish you a Happy New Year and I hope the new 1935 Mascot enjoys his or her place of honor in the Democrat circle of readers as much as I have during the past year.

Sincerely yours,
Helen Ruth Wyatt (age 1 year)
(By Mrs. Ernest G. Wyatt)

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 8, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I was delighted last week when I found you had started printing a Kiddies Kolumn again and had selected a committee to help you. School has just been started a few days. Almost everybody is studying pretty hard—or at least I am.

This is my first time to write to you. I hope my letter escapes the waste basket and gets into the—Democrat. Your friend,
Vivian Nolen.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 8, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

The 6th grade has been working up a big project on Italy. The pupils bring in anything they can find about Italy.

Miss Irene Bishop is my teacher. She is very good to me.

I will be in High School next year. I am sorry this is my last year in grammar school.

I do hope to see my letter in your paper. Yours sincerely,
Billie Jean Young.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 8, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I surely am glad you have started a Kiddies Kolumn, because it is so nice for boys and girls to read.

I am a little girl 12 years old, and in the 6th grade. Miss Irene Bishop is my teacher, and I like her very much. I enjoy going to school more when I have a nice teacher to go to.

My favorite subjects in school are history, arithmetic, and spelling. When I first started to school I did not like history, but after I got to studying and trying to get something out of it, I liked it better than any of my other subjects.

My play mates are Sara Neal Stinson, Maxine Bradley and Ruth Biddle.

With love,
Juanita Glover.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 8, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I am very glad that you have started the Kiddies Kolumn. I always enjoyed reading it so much.

I hope Santa was good to you. He was certainly great to me. He brought me a Mickey Mouse watch and lots of other nice things.

I am in the 6th grade and my teacher is Miss Irene Bishop. I like her very much. The subjects I like best are arithmetic and history. My playmates are Juanita Glover and Maxine Bradley. Love,
Sara Neal Stinson.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—
Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

PERSONAL MENTION

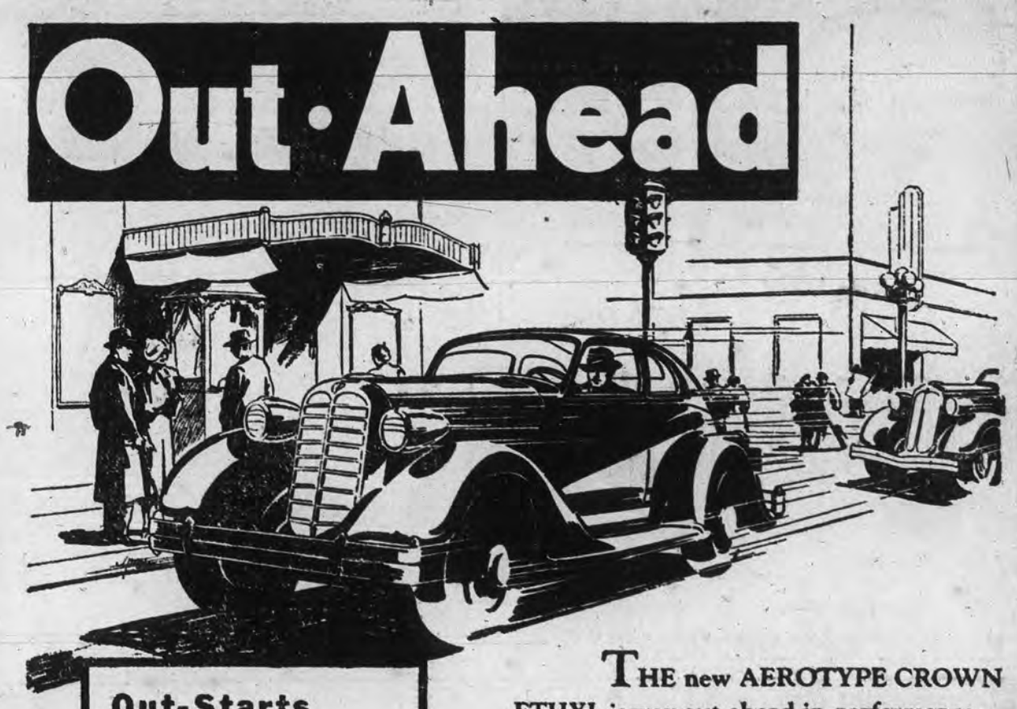
The Culture Club held the first meeting of the New Year on January 3rd, at the Wingard Apartments with Mrs. Luther Curlee as hostess.

Mrs. Yeager Horn. President, read letters from Federation officers. The Social Welfare Committee reported the baskets of fruit and vegetables donated by Club members and which were distributed to needy families at Christmas time.

Mrs. Wayne Blackburne had charge of the program, and read an interesting paper on art, life and the paintings of Rafael and his contemporaries.

During the social hour, the book, "Human Bondage" was presented to the Club Library. The hostess then served a tempting salad plate with coffee to the sixteen members and the two honoree guests, Mrs. Percy Miles and Mrs. Wailes Carter.

MILCH COWS FOR SALE, TRADE, OR RENT—WALTER E. LESTER, ROUTE NO. 1, COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA.



WHY USE A SUBSTITUTE WHEN THE ORIGINAL COSTS NO MORE?

CRAZY CRYSTALS NOW 60c AND $1.00.

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

COME TO SEE US!

Out-Ahead

Out-Starts
Vaporizes at lowest temperature—quick warm-up—minimum choking.

Out-Climbs
Highest anti-knock rating ever offered for land service—no carbon knocks.

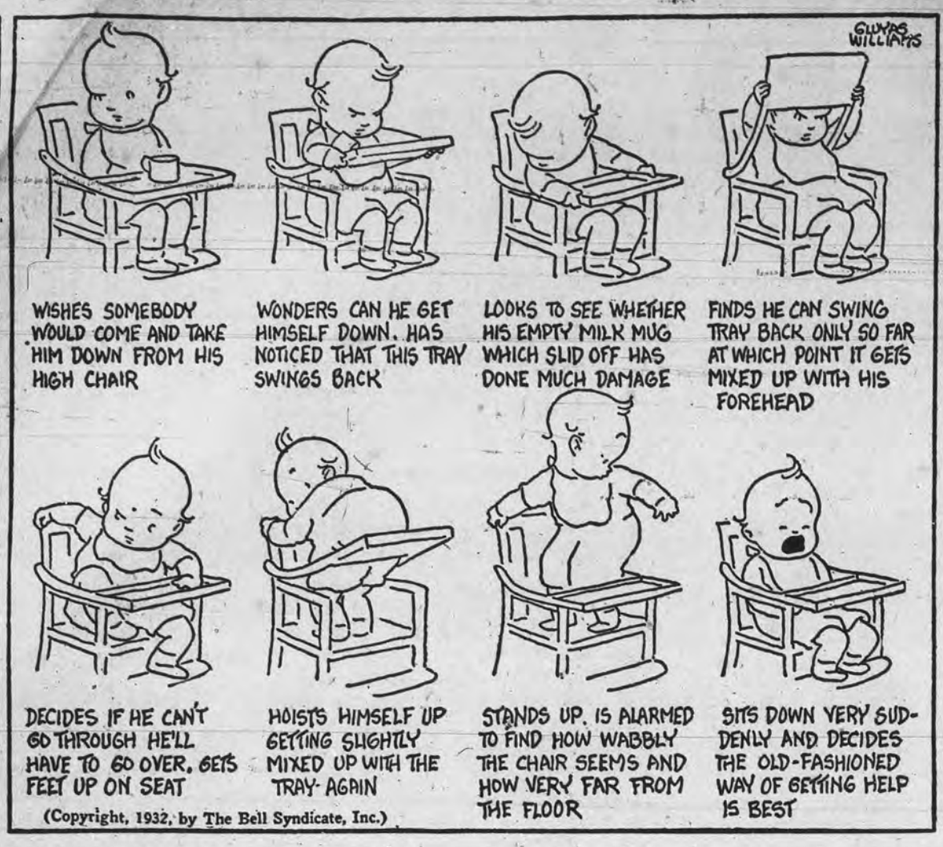
Out-Powers
Complete vaporization produces all power—no dragging—less crank-case dilution.

Out-Classes
Has the highest specifications ever applied to motor gasoline.

Out-Ahead
Virtually gum-free—no gummy or sticking valves to cause loss of power.

THE new AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL is way out ahead in performance... Positively a new fuel—unlike and amazingly superior to any gasoline heretofore sold... One tankful, unmixed with any other fuel, will prove that it outclasses any gasoline you have ever used. A mixture will not produce the best results. You be the judge...No increase in price—sells for only two cents a gallon more than Crown Gasoline.

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL



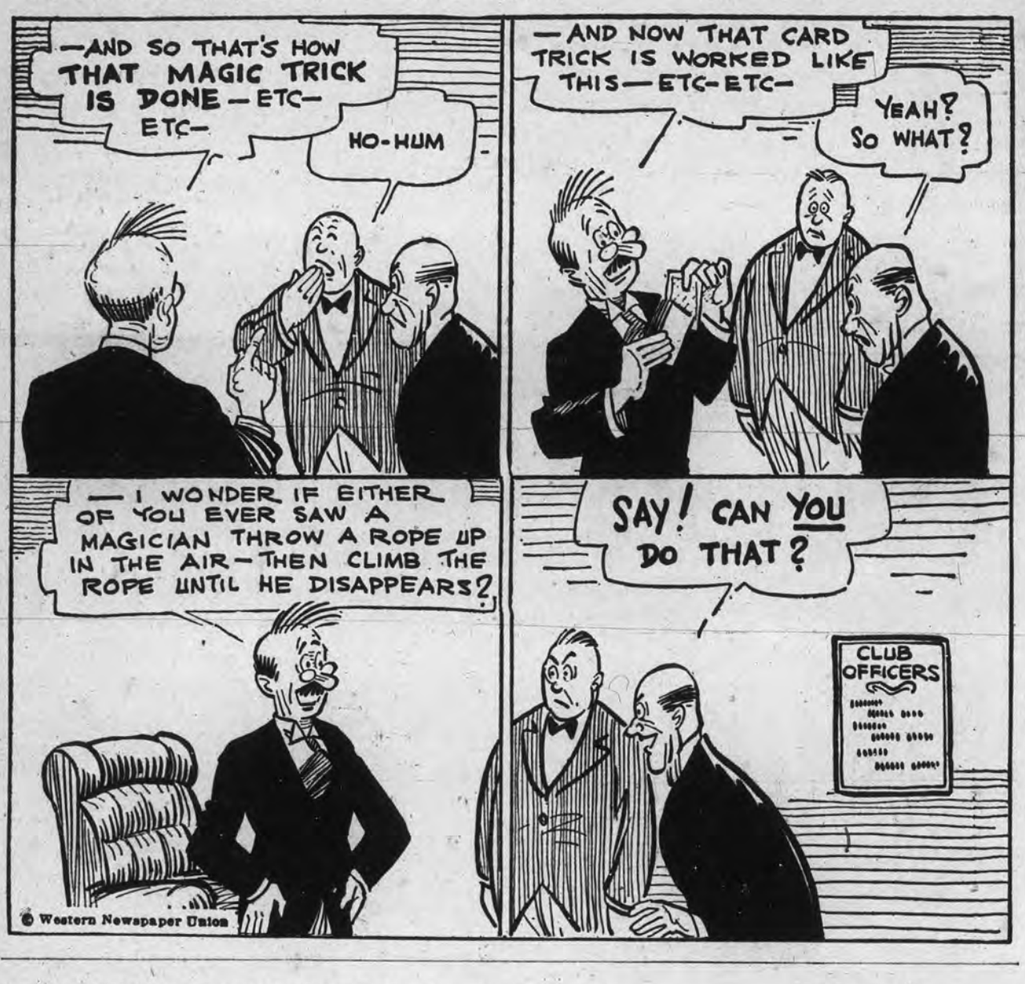
FOR YOUR MOTOR

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
INCORPORATED IN KENTUCKY

OUR COMIC SECTION

GETTING DOWN FROM THE HIGH CHAIR

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS



(Copyright, 1932, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

The End of the Rope

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Safety First

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

A Long Swim
Money Flows West
$5 for $3.39
Not So Barren

The new year, 1935, latest contribution of Father Time to the long chain of beads called "eternity," is here, and we are in it.

We shall continue to read opinions and rumors, plans and criticism of plans, in our slow progress to prosperity's shore. It is a long swim when you are thrown overboard in the middle of Lake Superior. This country was thrown overboard in another lake of superior prosperity and unlimited expectations back in 1929.

Farmers, newspapers devoted to the farmers' interest, big bankers of the East, are interested in the fact that the money tide that for so long flowed from producers in the West to accumulators in the East, is now flowing in the other direction.

The money tide goes out toward the farms of wheat raisers and stock, in the West and Middle West, and to the cotton farmers in the South. It is as though the Great Lakes had been tilted upward at the eastern end, and the waters sent rushing toward the Rocky mountains.

The tide will not flow long in that western direction, probably. Men that have the mortgages and collect the interest accumulate the money, in the long run.

Long ago, a man wagered that he would stand on London bridge offering genuine gold sovereigns for a shilling each and find few takers. The gold sovereigns were genuine, but nobody would buy. Mel Smith, a circus official called "Lucky" Smith, bet that Los Angeles citizens would refuse to buy genuine $5 bills for $3.39. Hundreds walked by, looked at the genuine bills. Some cried "Fake!" Only two purchased. "Lucky" Smith won a $100 wager.

Many Americans wish they had been as skeptical about certain stock back in 1929.

The distinguished George W. Russell of Ireland, who signs his writings "AE," says, "I am always struck by the terrible barrenness of rural life in America." He thinks we must "find some way to enrich it," and if we don't, "then the disease which destroyed ancient Italy will eat into America. You will no longer feed yourselves, and you will be struck with palsy of bread and circuses."

Mr. Russell may find greater richness in Irish farmhouses, but it is a richness of the character and of the mind, not of surroundings. There is little barrenness about, other than intellectual, in our rural life with its automobile, radio, moving pictures within easy reach, rural delivery, porcelain bath tubs, mail order catalogues, prayer meetings, revivals, annual circus, the public library, soon reached by automobile.

Next summer our ships of war, "venturing almost to Oriental waters," will engage in far-flung war games covering more than 5,000,000 square miles of the Pacific ocean.

How interesting that will be, and how rapidly those ships would come running home to hide away in port if a few large bombing planes should sail out from Asia, from Tokyo or Russia's Vladivostok, over those 5,000,000 square miles of the Pacific, and drop explosive bombs and poison gas bombs on the battleships!

Geological explorers from the Byrd expedition, near the South pole, report important veins of mineral quartz, discovered in mountains along the coast of Marie Byrd Land.

If the geologists should bring back actual samples rich in gold, how quickly men would find a way to reach those mountains, how indifferent to death they would be in the effort to get there!

We have piled up in Washington already $8,000,000,000 worth of gold. What would happen if Byrd should discover a mountain containing $1,000,000,000,000 in gold? That would be overdoing it, for instantly our $8,000,000,000 in gold would shrink in value to almost nothing, and the gold metal would be only metal, not precious.

In Kansas a terrific dust storm, hiding the sun, suggests that the Agricultural department help farmers by developing some temporary covercrop that could be sown on wheat and corn fields when the crops come off, a nitrogen-fixing plant if possible. It would protect dusty surfaces from high winds and be plowed under, contributing humus, before the next planting.

In the Northwest, farmers have used the "duckfoot" cultivator, which cuts a path 60 feet wide, going through the roots of weeds and not destroying the protection of the stubble from wind and the washing of heavy rains.

A wise motto of earlier days was: "When in doubt, refrain."

In Russia and other countries where the will of one takes the place of slow decisions by the majority, the maxim reads:

"When in doubt, shoot."

Moscow reports 14 more executed to avenge the killing of Sergei Kirov, making 117 lives taken to expiate that one murder.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D.
Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for January 13

PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-28; I Peter 2:5, 6.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matthew 16:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Peter Pleased Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter's Great Answer.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Confess Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Think Ye of Christ?

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard his wonderful words and witnessed his mighty works. Various opinions were extant about him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross, it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of him. In order to help them into the right conception he provoked this confession from Peter, as the spokesman of the group of disciples.

I. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16).

1. How provoked (v. 13). Two questions put to the disciples called forth this great confession.

a. Who do men say that the Son of Man is? (v. 13). He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning him. It is not enough to think that he was a great teacher. Had he been content with this, he would not have been molested at Jerusalem, for this the Jews willingly acknowledged. It was his persistent claim to be the God-Man, the Messiah, the Son of God, that sent him to the cross.

b. Who say ye that I am? (v. 15). This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough; there must be definite, correct, and personal belief in him. Belief and character are inseparably united.

2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16). It was his Messiahship and Deity. The burning question of the hour is, "What think ye of Christ?" It is a question that must be answered by every one.

3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17). He pronounced him blessed. He was truly blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ. His confession showed his touch with the Heavenly Father.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vv. 18-20).

At this juncture Christ declared his intention of bringing into existence a new body. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. He declared that Peter should be a foundation stone in his Church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the Church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter, and on this rock, the truth confessed, is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). He further declared that association in this new body could not be broken by death, for the gates of Hades should not prevail against it.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-23).

From that time Jesus began to show unto his disciples that he must go unto Jerusalem, to suffer many things, to be killed and raised again the third day. This, indeed, startled the disciples. They did not as yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the sufferings of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter said, "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory of the hill tops. A new hope then filled his breast (I Pet. 1:3, 4). Christ's victory through death is yet a stumbling block to many. Many are stumbling over the doctrine of salvation through the sufferings of the cross. Salvation by blood is hated by the devil.

IV. The Grand Objective of the Members of the Church (I Pet. 2:5, 6).

It is the highest ambition of every Christian to become a working part of Christ's glorious Church, which has as its supreme design the showing forth of the glory of God. It is this that beckons the believer on to the highest and best in life. No higher motive can actuate anyone than to make manifest the glory of God. The Church, God's spiritual house, has the living Christ as its chief corner stone and head. Because of their relationship to him, the believers are living stones, deriving their preciousness from him. While the world saw no beauty or comeliness in Christ, God esteemed him precious and esteems every believer precious because of his vital union with Christ.

Belief in Christ

The condition of salvation is that kind of belief in Jesus Christ which authenticates itself in repentance for the past and an amendment of life for the future.—L. L. Noble.

The Soul's Aspirations

The immortality of this life makes men yearn for a better country. The soul of man, the mark of the Creator upon his creature, should make him long for that heavenly city. The soul is too big to be satisfied away from God.

Believe in Yourself Too

Soberly and with clear eyes believe ... your own time and place. There is not, and there never has been, a better time or a better place to live in.

Smartness This Pajama Keynote

PATTERN 2045

There is no reason why pajamas should not be as smart as anything else a woman wears—and every reason why they should. Here are some that are as carefully designed as a suit. Look at the way that girdle business mounts in a becoming V in the front and ties in a clever bow in the back, emphasizing the slender lines of the waist. Those tiny revers are exactly the finish it needs at the neck, and the well-cut trousers are both comfortable and good looking. It is, of course, a two-piece model, nice to make in a neatly patterned cotton or a plain or figured flannel or challis.

Pattern 2045 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 4⅜ yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

SMILES

THE ONLY DRAWBACK

Blinks—Did you take an extensive tour on your vacation?

Jinks—No, but if I'd had a vacation and owned a car and had money to have financed one, I would have.

History Class

Teacher—Who discovered America, Robert?

Robert—Ohio.

Teacher—No; Columbus did it.

Robert—Yes'm. Columbus was his first name.

Greatness

"During his boyhood everybody said he would achieve greatness in some line."

"He did," answered Miss Cayenne. "He became a great nuisance."

Good Explanation

Little Mae—Mother, I know why people laugh up their sleeves.

Mother—Why, dear?

Little Mae—Because that's where their funnybone is.

WNU—8 2—35

CAN BECOME TIRESOME

Being what one's friends call a good scout is sometimes very tiring.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

COUGHS

DO YOU NEED A TONIC?

Mr. W. B. Seymour of 604 So. College St., Dothan, Ala., said: "I have depended upon Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for years as a tonic and builder. I find it very beneficial whenever my appetite becomes poor and nerves bad. As a spring tonic the 'Discovery' cannot be equalled to tone up a weakened body."

Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y. New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. "We Do Our Part."

FEEL TIRED, ACHY—"ALL WORN OUT?"

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

Is a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

Beautiful SKIN..

—needs more than cosmetics

Beauty of skin comes from within. When constipation clogs the pores with intestinal wastes, CLEANSE INTERNALLY with Garfield Tea. Helps relieve the clogged system promptly, mildly, effectively. At your drug store 25c & 10c

FREE SAMPLE Write to GARFIELD TEA CO. Dept. 19 Brooklyn, N.Y.

GARFIELD TEA

CUTICURA Relieves Skin Troubles

Bathe the affected parts freely with Cuticura Soap and hot water, dry gently, and anoint with Cuticura Ointment. Pure and healing, these super-creamy emollients bring quick relief and soon heal itching, burning, scaly skin affections, eczema, pimples, rashes and all forms of skin troubles.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Sample each free.
Address: "Cuticura," Dept. 20S, Malden, Mass.

Do you lack PEP?

Are you all in, tired and run down?

WINTERSMITH'S TONIC

Will rid you of

MALARIA

and build you up. Used for 65 years for Chills, Fever, Malaria and

A General Tonic

50c and $1.00 At All Druggists

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO — Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION
ENCLOSE STAMP
JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KANS.

NOVELTY MIDGET BIBLE 10c
Package Gold Eye Needles Free.
W. DRAIN
5315 Walton Ave. - Philadelphia, Pa.

Sober-Up Remedy. Quickly, safely sobers intoxicated persons. No disagreeable effects. Complete formula $1. R. Plumb, Ilion, N.Y.

The Conscientious Candidate

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Sitting by himself in a hotel room I found an old friend of earlier days, chewing a toothpick, and gloomily regarding a cheering crowd outside the open window where a man was standing in an automobile and addressing an obviously approving crowd.

"Is that your candidate?" I inquired.

"Not any more," was the surly reply.

"I thought you were one of his managers."

"Listen. That lad hasn't got any managers. I was one, but I ain't any more, and moreover, I won't be. I'm waiting for the next train that will take me back home."

"What was the trouble?"

"It would take more than between now and train time to tell you. That fellow hasn't got any political brains. I was up all night last week, writing him a speech—the regular speech that used to go big in all the campaigns I've been in. When I showed it to him, he read it, believe it or not, read every line of it, and then he said:

"'But you've made a lot of promises here that I can't carry out. Nobody could carry them out. Don't you realize that I'd be expected to carry them out if I was elected?'

"'Listen,' I said, 'you're new in this game, but you're smart, or any way I think you are, and you can learn. Nobody pays any attention to campaign promises except a few cranks, and they won't bother you after election day. You'll have a secretary to keep them from bothering you.

"'What you've got to do is to let us old hands tell you what kind of promises will get votes, and then go and make them, and take the bows. You just attend to the talking—you're good at that—and we'll get somebody up from headquarters to hand you the speeches. The ones you've been writing ain't sound. You keep talking about not being able to perform impossibilities. That won't make you any votes. Now, don't worry, it will be all right; you just leave that speech with me and I'll leave in it anything that ought to be there, and let one of the bright lads I've brought along fix the rest of it for you.'

"'But,' he says, 'I wouldn't make a speech that somebody else wrote for me.'

"'You wouldn't, hey,' I says. 'Well, smarter guys than you has made 'em and grabbed off big jobs by makin' 'em, and after they was elected they managed to squirm out of 'em, like they all do.'

"'But that wouldn't be honest,' he says.

"'It wouldn't be stealin', or burglarin', would it?'

"'Pretty much the same thing, yes.'

"Now, what could you do with a bird like that?"

"There wasn't nothing to do, of course, but just let him take the bit in his mouth. And a terrible mess he's made of it.

"Why, do you know the very next day he told a crowd out in front of the hotel that when he was elected he wanted 'em to come down to the Capitol and tell him if there was anything wrong with the way things was going, and if they had any complaints, and so forth. What do you think of that? After he was elected mind you. He'd listen to 'em after he had the job and didn't need to listen to 'em.

"I sat down then and tried to have a serious talk with him, and explain that nobody ever took campaigns seriously, and that he was to leave what happened after he was elected to older and wiser heads that had grown gray in politics.

"He was a little huffy at that, but I thought he could take his medicine, even if it didn't taste good, and set to work tellin' him, as I would tell a little child, what it was all about. And what does he do but turn on his heel and walk off!

"The next morning I went up to his room, where he was makin' a lot of party leaders—poor old boys past fifty—chuck one of them medicine balls at each other just because he liked to get exercise that way.

"He was all smiles when he see me, and chucked the ball at me, meanin' to be playful, and it hit me on the ear and hurt. But I was so pleased to think he'd come around to my way of thinking that I didn't say anything till the other boys had gone.

"Then I said: 'Well, I see you ain't mad any more, so I suppose it's all right.'

"'You suppose what's all right?' says he.

"'Why, the quarrel between you and me. I knew you wouldn't take that serious.'

"'No,' he says, 'I didn't take it serious. Here's another speech I wrote this morning.' He handed it to me, and I put on my spectacles to read it, and found he'd said again that when he was elected he was going to be the people's man, and that the first professional politician who came to him to give advice or offer instructions would be chucked out of the window.

"Well, I just turned on my heel and walked away. Here am I, an' out there is he, givin' a talk to the people about the danger of trick politicians comin' into the offices an' tryin' to influence elected officials, and how, if he was elected, the first thing he'd do would be to try to get to ask for a law makin' attempts to influence an official a felony. A felony! Think of that!"

"What are you going to do about it?" I inquired, as he paused to catch his breath.

"Well, the trouble is, we can't do nothing about it. We ain't got nothing on him like we have with a good many of the men we nominate. He ain't made us no promises, which mebbe was our fault, for we thought he'd be so glad to have us tell him what to do that he'd come in askin' for advice every day.

"It's too late to head him off now, and the worst thing about it is, he's makin' headway, and maybe will get elected in spite of all we can do to stop him, an' that'll be a lot, believe me.

"Look at him, out there, tellin' 'em he won't make no promises unless he knows he can carry them out, he won't have no boss directin' him in the discharge of his duty to the people, an' he thinks the mandate of the people is more important than the orders of all the political bosses that ever put their heads together in a back room.

"I suppose we got it comin' to us. We nominated him, because we took it for granted that he'd be a good boy and do what was right. But we have learned our lesson. He'll probably be elected, for he goes good with the crowd, an' he may get renominated—such fellers do, sometimes. But when he quits, an' we put in another man, that man is goin' to be our man, an' he's goin' to admit it in writin' before he gets his name so much as mentioned in the convention hall."

A sound of loud cheers came through the open window. The old politician grinned. "He's bad business for us," he said. "But I can't help admirin' his nerve, at that."

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong. No alcohol. Sold by druggists in tablets or liquid.—Adv.

In Retrospect

Many of one's "good times" are only so in remembrance.

Almost No Limit to Entre Dishes

Many Substantial Enough to Be Served as Chief on Menu Bill.

The French word entre has become almost Americanized from its constant use on formal menus, and on hotel bills of fare. It signifies side dishes that belong to a hearty group. They are not main dishes, such as roasts, joints, etc., but comprise such dishes as chicken a la king, broiled mushrooms, croquettes, escalloped sweetbreads and other escalloped dishes of meat, fish, fowl, vegetables, etc. In fact, many entrees are substantial enough for main dishes, although they would not be listed as such on menus. However, at hotels, clubs, etc., they are served on a la carte orders at patrons' wishes, instead of the heavier meats, fish, fowl, and bird orders. In the United States entres include an amazing assortment of foods, even broiled lamb chops, and veal cutlets.

However, it is the preparation of the foods which relegates them to the entre class, almost as much as the foods themselves. Sauces are of great importance, and fancy preparations of dishes. An unusual and yet a simple entre is sauted filet of fish with cabbage tartare.

Sole, flounder, or any filets, or even slices of fish such as halibut, salmon or cod, are lightly fried in a little butter or bacon fat. These are arranged around the outside of the platter or serving dish, which has in the center the cabbage tartare.

This is made by scooping out the heart of a young cabbage, chopping the heart fine, mixing it with tartare sauce and returning the cabbage preparation to the cabbage shell. This container is cut even around the top, making it closely resemble a delicate green bowl.

The foundation for tartare sauce is mayonnaise. To 1 cupful is added 2 tablespoonfuls each of chopped olives and gherkins, 1 tablespoonful chopped sweet pepper, ½ teaspoonful chopped onion, 1 tablespoonful capers and 1 tablespoonful minced parsley.

A more delicate cabbage tartare is made by using ¼ chopped celery to ¾ chopped cabbage, and the other ingredients as given. Should the homemaker not have all the other ingredients, some may be omitted. For instance, olives, sweet pepper, or gherkins, any one of which can be left out, but there must be diversity enough to change the mayonnaise into a tartare. Zest is necessary. Lemon slices should dress the fish about the platter, and it is attractive to have radishes interspersed.

Farm Without Live Stock

No horses, cows or sheep are permitted on a 1,000-acre farm in Norfolk, England, all the work being done by machinery, including one plant which can, by using nothing but hot air, dry at least two tons of wheat an hour.

Nugget of Wisdom

Nothing is more despicable than malice that seeks to hide itself under the name of zeal.

FOOD AND EVOLUTION

Ease in securing food is the greatest factor in the development of a species, declares Dr. C. M. Young of England. Securing food is absolutely necessary to life, and many of the lower forms of life, consisting of only a few cells have scarcely changed in eons because their whole life had to be spent in obtaining food, digesting and eliminating it. Higher forms of life, which digest food outside the body cells, take much less time for feeding and have time to develop.—Pathfinder Magazine.

NASAL IRRITATION due to colds

Relieve the dryness and irritation by applying Mentholatum night and morning.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

Scientists Find Fast Way to Relieve a Cold

Ache and Discomfort Eased Almost Instantly Now

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

NOTE "DIRECTIONS PICTURES"

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

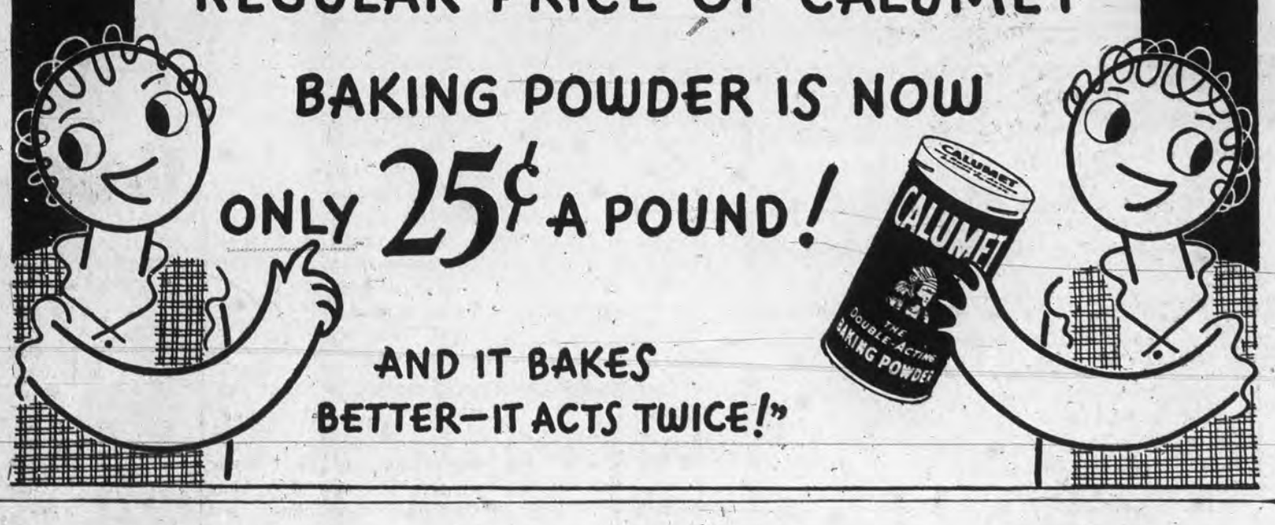
BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.



How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA

direct from its New York Stage
3-Hour Broadcast by
LISTERINE
announced by
Geraldine Farrar
Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P. M.

"HEARD THE NEWS! THE REGULAR PRICE OF CALUMET BAKING POWDER IS NOW ONLY 25¢ A POUND!

AND IT BAKES BETTER—IT ACTS TWICE!"

ARM & HAMMER AND COW BRAND BAKING SODA ARE PURE BICARBONATE OF SODA U.S.P. STANDARD

To make your glassware thoroughly clean and bright wash it in a solution of our Baking Soda ... A Soda solution effectively cleans beverage bottles, jelly glasses, preserve jars and keeps the baby's nursing bottles safely clean ... Our Soda sprinkled on a damp cloth cleans bathtubs, washstands, porcelain fixtures ... Keep an extra package in the bathroom cabinet ... your grocer has it for just a few cents ... Mail the coupon today.

CHURCH & DWIGHT CO., INC.
BB-17
PLEASE SEND ME FREE BOOK DESCRIBING USES OF BAKING SODA ALSO A SET OF COLORED BIRD CARDS
(PLEASE PRINT NAME AND ADDRESS)
NAME
STREET
CITY
STATE
70 CEDAR ST. NEW YORK

Business established in the year 1846

OBITUARY OF LEWIS NAPOLEON BOWDON

When we come to review the life of Lewis Napoleon Bowdon, we look back over the sixty-eight years of his life and see that his entire time was spent in serving his fellow man and his God. Those who came in contact with him in his daily life knew him to be a good Christian man, a true citizen and a loyal friend. Perhaps no phrase could best describe him than to say that to know him was to love him.

Some of the brief historical facts of his life are as follows: His father was the Hon. Sam F. Bowdon, a brother of the illustrious Hon. Frank Bowdon, who at one time served in the U. S. Congress. His mother's maiden name was Miss Margaret Francis Cunningham. She was the daughter of Joseph Cunningham, who imigrated to Alabama from the State of Tennessee and settled upon a 1600 acre tract of land in Shelby County. Joseph Cunningham was a man of prominence in his community and a highly successful planter.

From this marriage there were five boys and four girls born, Lewis being the second born. Of that number there are living now Messrs. Robert E. and William P. Bowdon and Mrs. Lula Lanham. Early in life Mrs. Bowdon taught Lewis to love mankind and to serve his God. With such a beginning, it is not surprising that he grew in the graces of purity and nobility of character.

On November 15th, 1899, Lewis married Miss Emma Wilson, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Wilson, who was a pastor of the Methodist Church, serving a number of years in the North Alabama Conference.

From this marriage there was born one son and two daughters, Wilson C. Bowdon, Mrs. Cecil I. Shields and Mrs. Erskine P. Lindsey, all three surviving.

Mr. Lewis Bowdon was enjoying perfect health when he was seized with a cold while in Tuscaloosa, where he was Manager of Arnold Clothing Co. His illness rapidly developed into pneumonia. He was rushed to the Druid City Hospital but did not survive the illness, passing away on December 7, 1934. His body was brought to Birmingham, where he had lived for the past twenty years, and was laid to rest in the beautiful Elmwood Cemetery.

The most outstanding characteristic of his life was his goodness. He always saw the bright side of life, because it was his nature to do so. Another outstanding fact of his life was his courage and his conviction to live by it. He was not quick to jump at conclusions, but studied his problems. Once he was convinced of the rightness of a proposition, he was well nigh unchangeable. He had strong convictions, but he was tolerant of the convictions of others.

His sacrificial love and service for his family portrays his goodness. There was no sacrifice too great for him, or his good wife, to make for the children. The noble lives they now live reflect the grandeur of the lives of their parents.

This memoir is not complete. How impossible it would be to complete it. Additional words might add to its length, but they would not complete it. No words can tell the life story of a good man. Only one word is of consequence when we speak of a man who has been called to the Great Beyond. That word is good; only goodness counts when we are called to face our Maker. To say that he was good, and that this goodness found expression in righteousness, usefulness and faithfulness—that tells the essential life story of Lewis Bowdon, if not the entire one.

And thus we bring to a close the story of a man whose body we buried, but whose influence and whose works live on, and will live on throughout eternity.

By Wilbur M. Wilson.

HARPERSVILLE

Christmas has come and gone and everyone seemed to enjoy the turkey dinners and Christmas trees. So let us enter into the New Year resolving to do greater things this year than last.

Among those who spent tne holidays at home with their parents were: Misses Lockie Posey and Myrtle Baker, of Birmingham; Miss May Darby, of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Stone and children; Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stone and daughter; Marylin; Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tinker and little son, Miss Nettie Bell Darby, all of Birmingham; Virginia Kidd and Mrs. Snow and son of Helena. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baker, of Moody's Cross Roads and others.

Miss Eva Ruth and Jack Brumbaugh spent the holidays in Birmingham.

Mrs. Smith had as her dinner guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Lehman Roll, Misses Helen Smith and Catherine Minega, Mr. Ben Paden, of Bessemer, and Sam Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Mastin and daughter, Mary, of Gadsden, are spending this week with Prof. and Mrs. Williams.

Misses Annie Lee Borum and Bernice Glaze, spent Wednesday and Thursday in Birmingham .

Mrs. Ralph Darby and son, Ralph Jr., and L. E. Darby, motored to Birmingham, Thursday.

UNDERWOOD

Miss LaNelle Lovelady, of Pea Ridge, was the attractive guest of Miss Mary Kate Harrison this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, Miss Lee Esther Daviston, were visitors in Elliottsville, Sunday.

Rev. J. Dudley Hughs, of Columbiana, was a visitor here Thursday.

Little Billie Ruth Frost spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Frank Frost.

Mr. Frank Frost motored to Birmingham, Tuesday.

We are glad to report that Emmett Henon is improving. He has been seriously ill with pneumonia.

Rev. Lester Fitts preached at the Underwood Baptist Church Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Woolley and H. C. Jr., spent Sunday with Mr. Woolley's mother.

Rev. Sam Henderson will preach at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Saturday night and Sunday.

Rev. I. T. Carlton will fill the pulpit at the Methodist Church the third Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

Mr. J. B. King spent the week-end at home.

EBENEZER NEWS

Miss Sallie Lee had as her guest Sunday, Miss Sarah Dye, of Birmingham, Alabama.

Mr. J. L. Lovelady and family, of Dogwood, visited Mr. Lovelady here Sunday.

Mr. Milton Bridges made a business trip to Birmingham, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrett had as their guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Garrett and children, of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. Otha Garrett, of Siluria.

Misses Mary Sue and Hazel Holcombe gave the young people a party at Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Saturday night. Everyone reported a nice time.

Mrs. P. E. Sullivan and children returned to their home in Birmingham after a few days visit with home folks.

Those on the sick list this week are: Mr. Lovelady, Charlie Demmittie, Mrs. J. C. Rogers. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

The Senior Epworth League met Sunday p. m. at 2:30 p. m.

BLUE SPRINGS

Mrs. Lottie Adams, of Wilsonville, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carter and children, recently visited Mrs. Mary Stone and family in Columbiana.

Mrs. J. M. Whorton recently visited relatives in Wetumpka.

Mrs. Billie Whorton and children, spent last week with relatives at Alexander City.

Rudolph Miner spent last week-end with his sister, Mrs. D. H. Holcombe at Chelsea.

Mrs. E. Stinson, of Columbiana, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roper and family, last week.

Mrs. Alma Reynolds and Miss Irene Reynolds spent Thursday in Birmingham with Misses Minnie and Mary Ellen Carver.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hughes are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vick at Childersburg.

Mrs. C. C. Cross and Mrs. Willard Cross, of Fourmile, spent Friday with relatives in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis, of Deatsville, have moved into our community.

George Edwards, of Jacksonville, recently visited his sister, Mrs. C. C. Jones.

Alanzo Tague, of Kingdom Community, spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Richard.

Rev. Doyce Mitchell will fill his regular appointment here next Sunday.

VANDIVER

The P.-T. A. of Vandiver met Friday at 2:00 p. m. in the school auditorium for the purpose of electing new officers and making arrangements to attend the joint P.-T. A. and teachers meeting to be held in Columbiana on January 12th.

Plans also were discussed for a spelling bee to be given in the near future for the benefit of the school.

The newly elected officers were as follows: President, Mrs. G. Buckelew; Vice-President, Mrs. W. E. Howard; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Fowler; Program Committee, Mrs. L. D. Riggins, Mrs. L. F. Stracener and Mrs. H. V. Miller; Welfare and Finance Committee, Mrs. W. R. Shoop, Mrs. J. R. Weldon and Mrs. E. B. Brasher.

Silas Adams, of Birmingham, spent the week-end in our community visiting his sister, Mrs. J. L. Bush.

Mrs. A. M. Girten, who is taking treatment in Birmingham, is reported to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Whitfield had as their dinner guests Sunday: Mrs. Mrs. Whitfields parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Buckelew.

Mrs. Frankie Howard and daughter, Dorothy, have returned from Lovick, where they were called to the bedside of Mrs. Howard's daughter, Mrs. Jack Taylor, who was critically ill with pneumonia. Latest reports are that Mrs. Taylor is improving.

Mrs. S. O. Perry is visiting relatives and friends in Tupelo, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn.

The many friends of J. R. Weldon are very glad to see him much improved and able to be out some since oeing injured in a motor accident several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fowler, of Talladega, and Mrs. W. B. Hall, have been visiting Mrs. Hale's daughter of this community, Mrs. J. N. Fowler.

CALERA NEWS

On Thursday afternoon, from 2:30 to 5:00 o'clock, Mrs. Cecil Cowart and Mrs. Dick Martin entertained the Unique Club at the home of Mrs. Cowart. After the business session, a social hour was enjoyed. Cake and coffee was served to 15 members--2 new members and two guests.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE NOTICE.

Default having been made in the terms of a mortgage executed to the undersigned by J. R. Vanderslice and Carrie Lee Vanderslice on the 8th day of January, 1932, which said mortgage is recorded in the office of the Probate Judge of Shelby County, Alabama, and said default continuing, I, the undersigned W. H. Hope will sell at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, in front of the courthouse door of said County, between the legal hours of sale, on Saturday, the 19th day of January, 1935, the following described property, to-wit:

Lots numbered 3, 4, and 5, in Block sixty-two (62) in Shelby, Alabama, according to the plat of E. S. Safford, made in the year 1890, all in the NW1-4 of Section nineteen (19) township twenty-two (22) Range one (1) East, and lying in Shelby County, Alabama.

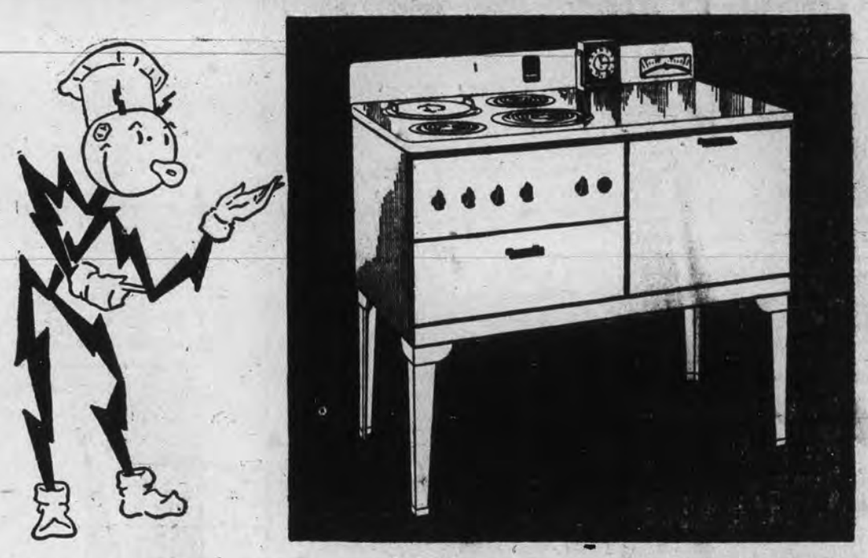
Said sale is made for the purpose of paying the mortgage debt and costs and expenses of foreclosure.

1-10-2t. W. H. HOPE.

CHELSEA NEWS

We wish to heartily thank Mrs. Letha Vick for the splendid play given at Chelsea School Auditorium under her direction. It was indeed an evening of fine entertainment in many respects. We feel sure that a play with better morals could not be found and the cast was up-to-the-minute in their portrayal. "Closed Lips" will be presented in other communities and may we, who have already enjoyed this play, urge you to attend the next performance for an evening of delightful fun.

Try Advertising what you have for sale in the Democrat—it will sell.



—Complete—
FUNERAL PROTECTION
—No Age Limit—
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama
A. N. Vail,
Montevallo, Alabama
R. L. Veazy,
Siluria, Alabama

BABY CHICKS
"AAA" HOLLYWOOD LEGHORNS
"AAA" TANCRED LEGHORNS
From High Egg Records.
YEARLY HENS, TESTED FOR B. W. D.
The Males used to head these matings are individually pedigreed out of dams with Trap Nest Egg Records from 280 —312 eggs in one year. Write for Low Prices—
Alabama Poultry Farms,
ROUTE NO. 1—BOX 90,
CALERA, ALABAMA.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the
MOLTON HOTEL
FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET
THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.
RATES AS LOW AS $1.50
J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.
The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

Nerves Do they torture you by day? Keep you awake at night?
What is it that keeps hospitals open and doctors busy? NERVES.
What is it that makes your face wrinkled and makes you feel old? NERVES
Nine times out of ten it's NERVES that make you restless, worried, haggard.
Nerves Do they make you Cranky, Blue--give you Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache?
When nerves are over-taxed, you worry over trifles, find it hard to concentrate, can't sit still.
Nerve Strain brings on Headache.
Nervous people often suffer from Indigestion. There may be absolutely nothing wrong with the organs of digestion, but the Nerves are not on the job to make the organs do their work properly.
Nerves Do they interefere with your work; ruin your pleasure; drive away your friends?
You're cheating yourself and the man who pays you if you work when your NERVES are not normal.
You can't have a good time when you are nervous. You can't make or keep friends when you are keyed up and irritable. You may excuse yourself, but to others you are just a plain crank.
Quiet your nerves with
DR. MILES NERVINE
Liquid and Effervescent Tablets

666
Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops
checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Resolve . . . to start the New Year With a
Hotpoint ELECTRIC RANGE

SOME families make New Year resolutions. Others do not. But every family—regardless of New Year philosophy—eats three times a day. And this means 1,095 meals for somebody in your home to cook during 1935! ¶ If you prepare your own meals, you will like the ease-of-operation and time-saving features of a Hotpoint Range. If you employ a cook, you will soon realize the dependability and economy which Hotpoint cookery brings. In either case, it will pay you to install a Hotpoint Range in your kitchen. The cost is small—and convenient terms may be arranged. See the 1935 models this week!

IT will cost you less than $10.00 to have a Hotpoint installed in your kitchen. Balance payable in 24 months.

Electric Rates are LOW in Alabama!
SEE YOUR DEALER, OR
REDDY KILOWATT YOUR ELECTRICAL SERVANT
ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
USE MORE ELECTRICITY—IT COSTS LESS!

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY

50,000 PRESENT FOR INAUGURATION OF GOV. BIBB GRAVES

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—One of the most colorful and spectacular parades ever staged in Montgomery on historic old Dexter Avenue occurred on Monday, January 14th, when Governor Bibb Graves was inaugurated for the second time, as Governor of the State of Alabama.

Flying flags, bands, and approximately 50,000 people were on hand to welcome the "little Colonel" back in the gubernatorial capacity. Gov. Graves rode with Ex-Gov. Miller to th ecapitol, and Millard Howell, recent star of the Crimson Tide, and All-American half-back, piloted them through the traffic.

The inaugural parade is reported to be the largest ever staged in Alabama. Thirteen bands, two drum and bugle corps, 1100 National Guardsmen, and many American Legion units and delegations from each county were in the long line of march toward the capitol.

After the inaugural address, Chief Justice John C. Anderson administered the oath of office. While taking the oath, Gov. Graves clasped the same bible which was used when Jefferson Davis took the oath of office as First President of the new Confederacy.

The Legislature now in session, stands ready to cooperate with the Governor, and to transact speedily the business now pending, in an honest endeavor to further the progress of the program previously outlined.

Harlin Is New Court Reporter For The 18th Judicial Circuit

Harold Harlin, former Court Reporter for the 8th Judicial Circuit, serving Judge Horton, in Athens, Alabama, arrived in Columbiana this week to assume his official duties as Court Reporter for the 18th Judicial Circuit. Mr. Harlin received the appointment from Judge W. W. Wallace who assumed this Circuit Judgeship on January 14th.

Mr. Harlin is rated as one of the speediest and most efficient Court Reporters in the State, and comes to the Circuit thoroughly equipped to render competent service in his chosen profession.

Columbiana citizens happily welcome Mr. and Mrs. Harlin to the town. They have taken an apartment in the home of Mrs. Dixie B. Shealy.

"Closed Lips" Will Be Presented Next Saturday, Jan. 19th

LESTER'S CHAPEL, Ala.—The play, "Closed Lips", directed by Letha Minor Vick, has proven to be one of the most successful entertainments ever presented in the county. By special request, Mrs. Vick and the excellent cast will repeat the play at Lester's Chapel, on next Saturday night, January 19th. The proceeds will be donated to the piano fund. Admission will be 5 and 10 cents. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

REV. E. M. JOHNSON IS NOW JEMISON PASTOR

JEMISON, Ala.—Rev. E. M. Johnson, of the M. E. Church, who has been pastor of the Ashland charge for the past year, has been appointed pastor of the Jemison charge.

FARMERS FACE TWO SERIOUS PROBLEMS

AUBURN, Ala.—Two serious crop production problems which Alabama farmers should not overlook during 1935 are soil improvement and food production.

It is estimated by agricultural leaders here that "the state of Alabama is failing more than 25,000,000 bushels of corn, 18 000,000 bushels of oats, 1,900,000 tons of hay and a considerable volume of food crops to produce an ample supply required for a "live-at-home" program.

"Most farmers of the state need more milk cows, chickens, and hogs to produce feeds for home use," they say.

Box Supper Will Be Siluria High School, Friday, January 18

SILURIA, Ala.—The Senior III Class is sponsoring a Box Supper to be given at Thompson High School, Siluria, Alabama, at 7:30 Friday evening, January 18th. After the selling of boxes, there will be other entertainment, such as games, refreshments and music. Everybody come and bring a box or a pocket full of money.

MANY ALABAMA SCHOOLS UNABLE TO GET U.S. FUNDS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Teachers in only five Alabama counties will be able to receive Federal relief during January, under a recommendation of Federal emergency relief regional examiners.

After examining the applications of 10 counties and four cities, the examiners said only Bibb, Chambers, Choctaw, Clarke and Escambia Counties would be eligible for funds. They held that other applicants had not borrowed to the legal limit to keep their schools from closing.

Other applicants were Butler, Cherokee, Conecuh, Winston and Pickens Counties, and the cities of Albertville, Attalla, Fort Payne and Tuscumbia.

Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintendent of education, declined to comment on whether the refused applicants would close their schools. He said as he was leaving office Tuesday he would bequeath the problem to his successor.

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN, Calera, Alabama

The Piper-Colenor basketball team invaded the courts of Calera Thursday night, January 10, for the first time this season. The Calera Independent team defeated them 15-9. At the end of the first quarter the score was only 5-0 in favor of Calera. The second quarter was hard fought by both teams with no scoring done. More scoring was done in the fourth quarter than in any other.

The Calera Independent's energetic manager, G. T. Murphee, is bringing to the Shelby County basketball fans during the latter part of this month two of the State's best teams to play his team. These teams are namely the Mignon Mills and the Avondale Mills. Large crowds are expected at both these games and the spectators are in for a good sight of a hard fought game both nights. It is hard to tell whether the Calera team will come out victorious in either game but if their present streak of good playing continues it is very likely.

The Independent's partial schedule follows:

January 21—Piper at Piper.

January 29—Avondale Mills at Sycamore.

January 30—Mignon Mills at Calera.

January 31—Avondale Mills at Calera.

February 12—Mignon Mills at Sylacauga.

The Calera Junior basketball team increased their victories to 8 on January 11 by defeating the Thompson High School second team.

The line-up and summary:

Calera (19)—Lucas (9) and Blankenship (4), forwards; Findley (3), center; Comer and Cook (2), guards.

Thompson Second Team (3)—Davidson (1) and Casey, forwards; Roach (1), center; Lacy (1) and Dennis, guards.

Something very unusual about this game was the number of fouls made by both teams. The Calera team made 11fouls and the Thompson made 18.

The Calera Independent team played the Thompson High School team January 11th, and defeated them 26 to 12.

The line-up and summary:

Calera Independents (26)—Harris (4) and Martin (10), forwards; Warren (4), center; Findley (4) and Parker (4), guards.

Thompson High (12)—Lee (1) and Mullins (4), forwards; Kirkland, center; R. E. Lee (7) and Oldham, guards.

U. S. JOB AGENCY SEEKS TO PLACE 80,000 IN STATE

A tested employment agency in Alabama stood ready today for an expected Presidential order speeding re-employment of approximately 80,000 persons now on relief lists.

A. J. Speer, director of the National Re-employment Service for Alabama, said the agency has 56 branch offices over the state now and this number could be increased to one for each of the 67 counties.

Since the state organization was established 17 months ago, jobs have been found for 216 437 persons, Mr. Speer said. Approximately 112,000 active applications are pending.

The NRS, authorized by Congress in 1933, registered more than 13 million applications for work in the 14 months ending last September 1, including the Civil Works Administration period. In this time it made seven and one-half million placements, of which two million were for CWA jobs.

Legislation creating the Public Works Administration stipulated that all persons hired from NRS lists. Many states require that all employable persons on relief register with NRS, giving detailed accounts of their pre-depression occupations.

GOVERNMENT JOBS OPEN; EXAM DATE CLOSES, JAN. 28TH

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examination as follows:

Elevator conductor, $1,080 a year, Departmental Service, Washington, D. C. Experience in operation of electric elevators required.

Junior telephone operator, $1,260 a year, Departmental Service, Washington, D. C. Specified experience required.

The closing date for receipt of applications for these examinations is January 28th, 1935.

The salaries named are subject to a deduction of not to exceed 5 percent during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, as a measure of economy, and also to a deduction of 3 1-2 percent toward a retirement annuity.

All states except South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

JOHN THOMPSON WINS A FREE TRIP

John Thompson, local Manager for the Alabama Power Company and General Electric Refrigeration Products, has received notice that he won a trip in a state-wide contest extending to Havana,Cuba, and other points of interest.

Mr. Thompson's commercial sales had to average the same as Birmingham and other large cities, and making this enviable sales record, won for him the ten-day trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will likely leave in the near future for a vacation, and will be accompanied by a school mate of Mr. Thompson's, Upshaw Gibson of Leeds, Alabama, who also made the grade and won the same trip.

The Democrat joins a host of friends and well-wishers of this popular Alabama Power Company official, and congratulates Mr. Thompson on his successful record.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS IN SESSION MONDAY

The Board of Registrars for Shelby County will be in session beginning next Monday for five days in Columbiana. All persons eligible for registration will please report at the Courthouse.

UNDER THE COURTHOUSE DOME

M. W. W.

Monday morning the lobby and offices of the courthouse presented a scene of activity. Old friends were "checking out" for new! A spirit of cooperation, good sportsmanship and much merry-making between the retiring officials and the newly elected officials marked the occasion portraying genuine fellowship and prompted the toast proposed and drunk heartily:"

"To the fellow who'll take my place"—A wonderfully fine bunch of retiring officers, and the new ones are entering into their routine of duties with enthusiasm and an honest effort to merit the confidence reposed in them, evidenced by your vote in the last election.

Tuesday morning, J. M. Lyon, President of the Board of Revenue, called the newly-elected officials to meet with the Board of Revenue for the purpose of discussing ways and means of saving all the money possible for Shelby County in the operation of all the courts and the various offices of the County without destroying EFFICIENCY.

Mr. Lyon in assuming the responsible position of President of the Board of Revenue, has the full cooperation of the other members of this important group of officials who will endeavor to help him carry out his progressive program for the county. However, they will also insist, under his direction, on a financial budget within the income of the county's resources.

Charles Sparks received his appointment as Register in Chancery from Judge W. W. Wallace, on Monday, and has assumed his new official duties in the courthouse. He succeeds J. M. Leonard, Jr., who has held this position for the past six years.

Circuit Court will be held in Columbiana, on January 21. 1935. Judge Lamar Field, of Anniston, will preside over the Civil week, as Judge W. W. Wallace is dis-qualified on account of his previous interests in many of the cases set down for trial.

The Board of Revenue was in session on Monday, busily engaged in winding up pending matters, and approving bonds for new officials.

"Bun" White has been chosen Chief Deputy Sheriff by Claude Fore, recently elected Sheriff of Shelby County. J. M. Leonard, Jr., will be Clerk in the Sheriff's Office, and Weston Lee will retain his position as jailer.

Mrs. Gertrude Taylor has been selected by Calvin Weldon to be his chief clerk in the Circuit Clerks office. Mrs. Taylor is very efficient and knows the duties incumbent on this official and will fill them creditably.

The many friends of Mrs. Edna Roberts throughout the County, are delighted to learn that Judge L. C. Walker will retain Mrs. Roberts as Head Clerk in the Probate Office.

Henry Naish has "taken his seat" behind the Treasurer's desk in this important office and is ready to "pay off" when ordered by the Board of Revenhe.

The first session of the new Board of Devenue for Shelby County was held on Tuesday afternoon, President J. M. Lyon, presiding. S. M. Tatum, of Siluria, was the only newly elected member. Solon E. McGraw had the distinction of again being chosen from his District to represent them. The other members present, were: C. R. Tinney, of Columbiana, and Tom Naish, of Helena.

Society Will Meet In Montevallo, On Thursday, Jan. 24

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The Shelby Zone of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet in Montevallo, Thursday January 24th, 1935 at 10 o'clock. All auxiliaries of the W. M. S. in Shelby County are expected to attend this meeting.

Poultry Better Says Funchess, Homegrown Ration

Registered In Chancery 7-8-35

AUBURN, Ala. — Experiments prove that Alabama poultry raisers can save $2,250,000 by feeding their hens a simple ration of homegrown feeds rather than a "standard complex" feed.

Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, reports that hens fed a simple ration of corn meal, minerals, and skimmilk produced as much as 27 eggs more than those fed a "standard complex" ration over a nine months test.

By valuing the home produced feed at market prices, this gave the simplified ration a 3.6 cents a dozen greater return. From that, Dena Funchess figured that the State's annual output of 42,000,000 dozen eggs could be produced at a total saving of $2,250 000 and also make use of homegrown feeds in the form of eggs.

300 ATTEND P.-T. A. & TEACHERS' RALLY HERE, JANUARY 12

The county-wide P.-T. A. and Teachers' meeting held in Columbiana, Saturday, January 12th, was a decided success. The P.-T. A. meeting opened by singing "America". The devotional exercises were led by Bro. H. M. Hurst, and the audience joined in singing "Sweet and Low", led by Mrs. Peacock. Mrs. Homer Walton then gave some facts concerning the P.-T. A. organizations in Shelby County, and reviewed the excellent work that had been done. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Purnie Hendrick, who is the county council chairman. Other officers elected, included: Mrs. Baxley, of Calera, 1st Vice-President; Mrs. Robert Holcombe, associate Vice-President; Mrs. Tom Taylor, Columbiana, Secretary, and Mrs. G. E. Weldon, Wilsonville, Treasurer. The By-Laws were read by Mrs. Homer Walton and adopted by the council. Supt. J. L. Appleton gave out a mimeographed sheet showing the average daily attendance of 1930-31 and 1933-34, also explained the attendance problem in our county showing the per cent of loss in average daily attendance from November to April.

Mr. Anderson, of Alabama College, had charge of the High School teachers at this time and Miss Boyd, of Montevallo, conducted the primary and elementary group with Mrs. Peterson teaching a demonstration lesson in english.

At this time the teachers joined the parents and Mr. Meadows, of the State Department of Education, gave many interesting facts on attendance in Shelby County. The joint organizations were happy to have present, the district P.-T. A. Chairman, Mrs. Meridith, of Tuscaloosa, and several of her co-workers.

The audience also enjoyed having Miss England and Mrs. Hill, of the State Department in Montgomery. They gave a very instructive program in organization of community singing.

Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served cafeteria style in the Home Economics Rooms. Everyone enjoyed the short social hour and left with the determination to make our county 100 percent, that is, every home a member of the P.-T. A.

ALABAMA'S 1935 DAIRY PROGRAM

(1) More purebred bulls from high-producing dams.

(2) Weed out the "boarder" cows from the herd by keeping records and testing.

(3) Raise the best calves from purebred bulls and high-producing cows.

(4) Feed cows more liberally on home-grown feeds.

(5) Produce dairy products of the best quality in order to secure the highest prices.

CHAIRMAN COSPER WRITES A LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Mr. Editor:

I want to ask space in your paper to thank each and every farmer throughout the county for the splendid vote on December 14th, for continuing the Bankhead Cotton Control Act.

And to you, my friends who saw proper to vote against us, you and the non-contractors are going to be given an opportunity to join with us. It is my advice to you to do this. Failing to do so, you might come up like the "marriage feast" in the book of books. They who were ready went in and the door was shut.

It was reported throughout the county, and especially on the western side, that our county agent in putting on the 10 per cent reduction last Spring robbed the farmers of 10 per cent of their cotton. There is nothing further from the truth.

The county agent's office is used only as a clearing house for the program. This entire program is administered by the farmers and the local and county committees in charge. If any stealing was done, your county committee is responsible, who is, S. M. Tatum, J. F. Wyatt and myself.

In tabulating the contracts we found that Shelby county had 2,500 acres more cotton land on peper than we had in actual land; therefore there was nothing else to do than what we did, cut every man to bring the county into line.

Another fact, my friends, I would like to present to you. In other counties the farmers themselves receive the benefits of a Farm Agent and his office. His office is well equipped and supported by the county government, while Shelby county farmers and the Farm Bureau have to go down into their own pockets and furnish their Farm Agent an office. This matter should be given rightful consideration by our county government, for the farmers are themselves tax payers, as well as the men in other business.

I ask you, is this just? Is it fair? Is it right? The answer is, no. We the farmers of Shelby county are entitled to receive the same benefits from our county government as do the farmers of other counties.

It is my intention as a member of the Farm Bureau and as Chairman of the Cotton Control Association to go before the Board of Revenue, in the near future, representing all the farmers and see if we can gain more consideration; and I wish to ask each business and professional interest in our county to join with us in this move.

I am asking that any who will, who have the farmers' interest and welfare at heart, speak a few words through the press on this subject.

L. H. COSPER, Chairman
Cotton Control Committee.
Vincent, Alabama.

Do You Know That—

Madison Square Garden is not open for any more prize fights?

Stanford University, Pacific Coast champions, is considering a gridiron invasion of the East to play either Columbia or Colgate in 1935?

AUBURN FAVORS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

AUBURN, Ala.—The supreme obligation upon the Governor, and the Legislature, is to make ample provision for at least a minimum term of seven months for our public schools, declares Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service and member of the administrative committee of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

He also states that the state department of education should be "maintained on the most adequate and efficient basis possible" and "that every reasonable and proper provision should be made for the training of efficient teachers" and that "our institutions of higher learning should be enabled to function properly."

"But if we are to build soundly and wisely we must build from the bottom up," Dr. Duncan declared, and then added:

"In these views I am sure that I represent the spirit and attitude of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute."

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Supreme Court Takes Up Gold Clause Abrogation Case—Senate Committee Favors World Court Adherence—Congress Gets the Budget.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

HAVING given the New Deal a slight swat by holding the petroleum control feature of the NIRA unconstitutional, the Supreme Court moved rapidly toward a judgment as to the legality of the abrogation of gold payments. Several cases challenging this act were lumped and oral arguments were heard. This being a matter of vast importance, involving $100,000,000,000, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings himself appeared to present the case for the government. Mr. Cummings is an excellent lawyer, but not much can be said in praise of the legal abilities of most of the men whom the exigencies of politics have shoved into his office in Washington. So probably he was wise to handle this matter himself.

Attorney General Cummings

Cummings defended the constitutional authority of the President and congress to adopt the present monetary policy as inherently the right of the government to preserve itself.

In an argument distinguished for oratorical display as well as for its legal aspects, Cummings said an adverse decision by the court would:

1. Increase the public and private debt of the nation by $69,000,000,000.
2. Create a special class that would be beyond the pale of the general financial structure, a class composed of those holding bonds demanding payment in gold.
3. Reduce the balance in the United States treasury $2,500,000,000.
4. Add $17,000,000,000 to the public debt and increase the interest charge on this debt alone by $2,500,000,000 a year.

The latter sum alone, Cummings said, is equal to twice the value of the 1934 wheat and cotton crop.

The attorney general referred to the troubled state of the country in the spring of 1933 and added, "I contend and shall show that the congress and the President of the United States acted reasonably in a period of very great difficulties and that their acts were not the product of caprice."

From the questions asked by the justices, observers gained the impression that there was a sharp division of opinion among them.

SENATOR JOSEPH T. ROBINSON, majority leader of the senate, being informed that the foreign relations committee had voted 14 to 7 in favor of the project for American adherence to the World court, said he would bring the resolution up on the floor of the senate as soon as possible. However he recognized the sentiment against it was strong and would not predict the outcome of the fight.

The new resolution as approved by the committee is slightly altered to meet the objections of other nations to what is known as reservation five. Mr. Robinson said:

"The legal import and effect of reservation five has been preserved in full. It is provided that discussions may take place under the Root protocol, but in the end the court may not entertain over the objection of the United States any request for an advisory opinion on any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

Of the Democrats on the committee Senators Lewis and Murray voted against the resolution; Republicans who favored it were Vandenberg and Capper.

PETROLEUM control provisions of the National Industrial Recovery act, specifically section 9 (c), are held by the Supreme Court of the United States to be invalid as unconstitutional abdication of legislative power to the President. Eight of the justices united in rendering this decision, Justice Cardozo alone dissenting, and the opinion was read by Chief Justice Hughes.

The section declared void authorized the President to ban interstate shipment of "hot" oil—that is, oil produced in excess of state quotas.

While the opinion did not deal with other phases of the recovery act, it aroused widespread speculation as to disposition of other cases. This was the first major "New Deal" case to come before the court.

Emergency legislation by congress to remedy the situation and to meet the objection of the court was reported to be an immediate likelihood.

THOSE Democrats and Republicans, eminent and otherwise, who are banded together as the American Liberty league are now really getting into action against what they deem the radical features of the administration's program, and their executive council has put out a ten-point platform. It declares the league's opposition to such practices as sweeping delegations of legislative authority to the President, lump sum appropriations to be doled out by the White House, socialization of industry and regimentation of American life.

In the first plank of its platform the league pledged itself "to preserve American institutions which safeguard to citizens in all walks of life the right to liberty and pursuit of happiness" and at the same time "to combat the growth of bureaucracy, the spread of monopoly, the socialization of industry, and the regimentation of American life."

Invasion of the law making and law interpreting functions by New Deal administrators was also rapped by the league in promising "to uphold the American principle that laws be made only by the direct representatives of the people in the congress, and that the laws be interpreted only by the courts."

Other points in the 10-point declaration of policy pledged the league to fight for government economy, a sound federal fiscal policy, a stable currency, protection for investors, and individual liberties.

BECAUSE work relief must be carried on the federal budget will not be balanced for the coming fiscal year, and probably not for several years thereafter. In presenting the budget to congress, President Roosevelt admitted this, but without qualms. He estimated $8,520,000,000 as the amount of money necessary to carry on the government's activities for the 1936 fiscal year beginning July 1 next. The expenses for the current year, partly estimated, are $8,581,000,000.

President Roosevelt

If one wishes to know who spends all these huge sums, an idea may be obtained from these figures showing the estimated expenditures for the fiscal year 1936:

1. Legislative, judicial and executive	36,595,000
2. Civil departments and agencies	788,057,169
3. National defense	792,484,265
4. Veterans' pensions and benefits	704,885,500
5. Debt charges:
Interest	875,000,000
Retirements	636,434,000
6. Refunds	64,946,200
7. Recovery and relief	4,582,011,475
8. Supplemental items (for above groups 1 to 4 inclusive)	40,000,000
Total expenditures	$8,520,413,608

Total receipts for the same period are put at $3,991,904,639, so the estimated deficit will be $4,528,508,970.

Of the recovery and relief fund the President asked that $4,000,000,000 be placed at his disposal to be allocated by him "principally for giving work to those unemployed on the relief rolls."

Here are some other vital things disclosed by the message:

The national debt will increase from $31,000,000,000 at the close of this fiscal year to $34,239,000,000.

No new taxes are requested. Congress is asked to continue the so-called nuisance taxes which expire soon and the 3-cent stamp rate.

A national defense appropriation of $899,948,065—the greatest in the history of the country—is requested.

A total of 137,134 federal workers are to be dismissed.

Veterans pensions in 1936 will reach the staggering total of $704,000,000.

The accumulated New Deal deficit for three years on June 30, 1936, will total $11,700,000,000.

While the trend of recovery and relief expenditures is downward, regular federal expenses will increase.

MARY PICKFORD went before Judge Ben Lindsey in Los Angeles and obtained a decree of divorce from Douglas Fairbanks; and thus came to an end the union of the "royal couple" of moviedom, who for ten years were regarded as the model wedded pair so far as happiness and worldly success went.

Mary's suit, filed more than a year ago, charged Doug with mental cruelty, indifference and neglect. She told Judge Lindsey the charges were true and that a fair and just property settlement had been made; and after Elizabeth Lewis, Miss Pickford's secretary, had testified the decree was granted and Mary left the courtroom almost in tears.

Fairbanks, in St. Moritz, Switzerland, was informed of the divorce but declined to comment.

EX-PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER has been elected a director of the New York Life Insurance company, at the instance of Alfred E. Smith. He was first offered the place two years ago when the death of Calvin Coolidge created a vacancy. Mr. Hoover said: "I have accepted in the hope of contributing something to the protection and advancement of the interests of millions of policy holders, for in these great insurance trusts lies one of the most vital of personal securities to the women and children of the country."

IN THE highly dramatized trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the kidnaping and murder of the Lindbergh baby the state continued to weave a strong net of circumstantial evidence around the defendant. Lindbergh first identified his voice as that of the man who received the ransom; next was Amandus Hochmuth, eighty-seven-year-old man who told of seeing Hauptmann driving a "dirty-green" car with a ladder in it into the Lindbergh lane March 1, 1932, the day of the kidnaping. Then John Perrone, Bronx taxi driver, identified him as the man who paid him $1 to deliver a ransom note to "Jafsie."

"Jafsie," otherwise Dr. John Condon, the aged Bronx educator who undertook the negotiations with the kidnaper, next went on the stand and in his garrulous way identified Bruno as the man with whom he dealt and to whom he handed the $50,000 ransom money. His long and somewhat rambling story was bitterly assailed in cross examination by E. J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel, but seemingly the great value of his evidence was not much shaken.

Detective Arthur Johnson of New York was on his way home from Europe bringing relatives of the late Isadore Fisch to testify for the state. Hauptmann claimed in his defense that the ransom money found in his possession was given to him by Fisch, a business associate in New York. Fisch later returned to his home in Germany, where he died.

AN APOLOGY to the Canadian government and payments of $50,666.50 damages is the penalty imposed on the United States for sinking the rum running schooner I'm Alone in the Gulf of Mexico in March of 1929. This decision was announced by Willis Van Devanter, associate justice of the United States Supreme court, and Sir Lyman Poore Duff, chief justice of Canada, who were the commissioners of arbitration under the ship liquor treaty of 1924 between the United States and Great Britain for controlling liquor smuggling.

Of the damages awarded, $25,000 is to be paid as compensation to the Canadian government and $25,666.50 to the master and members of the crew of the I'm Alone or their families. Included in the latter is $10.185 to the widow and children of Leon Mainguy, a French citizen of St. Pierre, Miquelon, who drowned when the schooner was sunk by the coastguard.

The commissioners found that the master and members of the crew were not parties to a liquor smuggling conspiracy.

THERE were huge sighs of relief in the chancelleries of Europe when the success of the conversations in Rome between Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France and Premier Mussolini was announced informally. For two days the two statesmen discussed the points at issue between their nations and conditions in general in central Europe. Emerging from the last of their meetings, Laval, smiling broadly, said to a group of French and Italian war veterans.

Pierre Laval

"I am glad to tell you that Premier Mussolini and I are now in complete accord."

Without waiting for an official communique, those best informed said Laval and il duce had reached a full agreement, the principal features of which are a joint declaration to preserve the independence of Austria, a five or six power pact of noninterference, and provisions for colonial concessions in Africa. The pact agreeing not to interfere with one another's internal affairs presumably will include Italy, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Austria, and Hungary; and later England, France and Rumania may be asked to adhere to it.

SENATOR HUEY P. LONG, after attacking the administration on the floor of the senate, betook himself to the radio and continued the assault. He declared the Roosevelt policies were hopeless, and summoned all the people to flock to his banner and help wipe out all fortunes above three or four millions, "making every man a king."

Meantime the revolt against the kingfish in Louisiana was growing. Citizens by the hundreds were joining the Square Deal association which is pledged to march on the capitol in Baton Rouge unless the legislature repeals certain of Huey's dictatorial laws.

PUBLIC WORKS ADMINISTRATOR ICKES has resumed his contest with Arizona over the building of the Parker dam in the Colorado river and wants the Supreme court to keep that state and its "navy," consisting of one scow, from interfering with the job. Solicitor General Biggs asked permission of the court to file suit for an injunction.

The governor of Arizona recently called out his militia and his navy to keep the public administration from completing the dam. He held that it would interfere with the distribution of irrigation water in his state.

PREMIER R. B. BENNETT of Canada, appealing for support for his administration, promises to give the Dominion a "New Deal" that bears a close resemblance to President Roosevelt's economic and social program. He outlined his proposals in a speech in which he demanded "an end to the reckless exploitation of human resources and the trafficking in the health and happiness of Canadian citizens."

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—A great deal of peering into the future as to effects in the years between 1936 and 1940 of the present heavy spending by the federal government is being done by President Roosevelt and his advisers. Incidentally, the recent message to congress and the budget message which followed give an inkling of this to one who reads between the lines.

What is bothering the President is that unless there is a very sharp and fairly speedy curtailment of the so-called extraordinary budget expenditures, such as public works and relief, it will not be possible to avoid putting on very much heavier taxes. The additional impositions, or at least any very burdensome additions, may be postponed for a few years. But they cannot, by any stretch of the imagination, be postponed until after the end of the second Roosevelt administration.

Which is not to say that Mr. Roosevelt is looking at the situation with a purely political eye. There is some politics in the lens, of course, but there is a good deal more. Roughly, the continued spending of amounts far in excess of revenues can quite easily turn on and wreck all the social reforms the President is very desirous of bringing about.

Imagine, for example, an electorate in 1940, which is sick and tired of high taxes—so annoyed that every time one of the reforms the New Deal has brought about is mentioned the taxpayers want to scream. Which, far from being a figment of some comedian's imagination is a very real danger in the mind of none other than Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The result of such a state of mind might easily be that some demagogue might be nominated on an opposition ticket who would promise to sweep the whole Roosevelt program off the books and out of the window. Or from the Roosevelt standpoint, to turn the clock back for twenty years. True, from the radical standpoint this sort of thing would bring on the revolution, and would actually get us ahead faster than if the Roosevelt program had stayed on the books.

Not Acceptable

But neither is acceptable to Roosevelt. He neither wants the clock turned back nor the revolution.

But how is he to curtail emergeny spending rapidly enough to prevent the danger of excessive taxation in the years just before 1940?

For it is imperative, in his view, to keep on spending fast enough to prime the business pump. Mr. Roosevelt believes that government emergency spending in various ways is directly and almost solely responsible for the revival in business that is now generally conceded.

He hopes that if this priming is continued just a little while business will get going on its own momentum, and that would mean such an increase in taxes without increasing the rates or the imports.

And it is also imperative to prevent starvation and freezing, whether or not the states and local communities take over the "unemployables" from the federal government. Or rather whether they are able to take care of them after they have been forced off the federal rolls.

In the meantime the mental attitude on Capitol Hill is not at all sympathetic with Presidential fears. Congress is positively drunk with the success of past and promised government spending, as demonstrated at the November election. Its fundamental attitude toward appropriations is way out of line with Roosevelt's viewpoint. It is not worrying about the place in history of the New Deal reforms. Roosevelt is.

New Liquor Order

A "boon to bootleggers" is what high officials in Federal Alcohol Control administration, and in the various liquor code authorities, say of the new order of the treasury requiring liquor to be sold only in bottles with blown in words forbidding their illegal use.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau imposed this ruling over the protests of the liquor code authorities and of the best judgment in FACA. The bottle making interests sold him the idea—which was that a very good check could be obtained, which would thwart the bootleggers if the government would license all plants producing bottles for the alcoholic beverage trade. Of course the thought was to deprive bootleggers of a source for their bottles.

"Of course," one high officer of a code authority said to the writer, holding up one of the new bottles, "when the bootlegger sees the words blown in the bottle forbidding him to use it, he is just going to drop dead! He wouldn't think of violating the law.

"What has already happened is that it puts a premium on the reuse of legal bottles. If there were any way of providing it, I would wager a fair sum that the very people who put this over with Morgenthau, the bottle makers, are going to suffer in the long run.

"Naturally they are coining money right now. Distillers assert that it will cost them something like $3,500,000 to discard bottles already purchased and substitute the legal bottles. But what is going to happen when there is a full supply out? The bottle makers will make no more profit on the new ones than on the old. Also, they will begin to be irked pretty quickly by the government licensing system they requested to have put on themselves.

What Will Happen?

"But aside from that, what will happen to these legal bottles? Your ordinary hotel bar will have a case of some special gin, say, in the new legal bottles. Will the fact that the bottles have these words blown into their glass stop that barkeep from refilling them when they run low? We know they are doing it now. What will be the difference?

"The bootlegger who refills the empties he obtains from trash collectors, etc., will have an additional point to convince his patrons that he is giving them genuine stuff. Bottles are very cheap. Most bootleggers would rather buy their bottles in quantities. But the glass bottle plants being licensed now, they cannot. So they will turn to the trashmen. Bottles will be used over and over again, not only by the bootleggers, but by all the bars willing to make a dishonest penny. Also by bartenders whose employers may be honest, but who wish to graft a little.

"So in the long run I think the bottle makers will sell less bottles, and the amount of bootlegging will not be decreased one iota.

"Of course, what the government ought to do, what it ought to have done long ago, is to put the taxes down to such a low point, for a time, and make the restrictions so mild, that the bootleggers and moonshiners would be driven out of business. Then taxes could be raised gradually."

Ready for Hatching

Looking ahead to possible work relief and construction activities this year, the recovery program has established several agencies, which might be called "breeder units." These are now sitting on a string of goose eggs in the form of plans which can be rapidly hatched if a figure and dollar mark is placed in front of them.

Federal Emergency Relief administration has rural-industrial housing plans on a potential scale beyond the federal housing which has gone before. Soil erosion service not only has been developing extensive plans but has trained 1,000 college men how to handle the work in the event the government goes into soil protection on a big scale. These men were trained last summer and fall, showing that certain New Dealers were looking further ahead and planning more practically than the brain trust is usually given credit for doing.

Citizens' Concentration camps, tying in with the forest service, park service, War department and others has a framework, which can be expanded by hundreds of thousands of workers virtually overnight. Plans for rural electrification, and the various phases of hydro development key into this system.

Almost any of several overlapping agencies is willing to spread its wings over any sort of nest-egg the new program provides—from humming-birds to ostriches.

Much of the guesswork which has been going on about what the government would do, had what those talking it thought was authentic information behind it. The only thing left out before the story had been told many times, in each instance, was that the scheme, though made by high officials of the administration, had not yet been approved by the President.

Some Surprises

And the President has been springing a lot of surprises. To cite a converse example, he cut the ground from under a group of admirals who had been working very quietly but effectively drumming up congressional sentiment to increase the navy by 5,000 men. They had begged for this addition back in the early fall. The President and the budget bureau had turned them down. They thought they could use the resentment based on Japan's denunciation of the naval treaty to put it over. Then suddenly the President decided that they could have 5,500 men—500 more than they had originally hoped for!

Old Hoover admirers—yes there are a few of them left around—are getting a big chuckle out of Secretary of Commerce Roper's plan to ask congress for a big increase in personnel so as to take care of foreign trade service, trade treaties, and the newly authorized free port zones. The Hoover men are laughing because right after the Roosevelt administration came in it fairly tore the clothes off the old bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

Would Oust Roper

But Jim Farley is not laughing. Nor Emil Hurja. Nor anyone of the patronage hounds. Because Roper has not been playing ball with them on appointments at all. In fact, they are saying around in certain quarters that Roper must go. If he does, whoever puts it over will know he has been in a fight. Roper is an old hand at such things. He has weathered many storms. And he generally emerges with most of his feathers, though there has been no loud squawking to attract attention to the battle.

Incidentally, no one has thought for a minute that Farley would be able to "get" Louis R. Glavis, who with another lieutenant of Public Works Administrator Ickes, has been interfering with the working of the patronage machine. Glavis is too dangerous. He proved that some time back, in the Taft administration. No such amenities as standing by one's chief stopped him from screaming then, to Secretary Ballinger's consternation.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

"COLONIAL GIRLS" FEATURE OF THIS APPLIQUED QUILT

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Here is a good idea for needleworkers who like to do applique work. A quilt made of a group of six different Colonial ladies dressed in beautiful colorful prints and each in a different position. The patches are stamped with lines for cutting. The eighteen inch block is stamped with lines for applique work and outline embroidery stitch.

Six of these eighteen inch blocks are used for a single bed quilt, and twelve blocks for double bed quilt.

If you will send 15c to our quilt department we will mail one complete stamped eighteen-inch block with material of the block pictured above, also a picture of a quilt showing the six different girls in this set.

A set of six blocks with applique material will be sent for 75c. A set of twelve blocks for $1.50. The beauty of this can really only be appreciated after you see a block worked in beautiful colors.

Send money to Department D.

Address—Home Craft company—Nineteenth and St. Louis Avenue—St. Louis, Mo.

Enclose stamped addressed envelope when writing for any information.

Sour Note

"Buy a nice aspidistra, lady?"

"No, go away. We're not musical."

—Tit-Bits Magazine.

COLDS Creomulsion

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

And the Unthinking

Folly is joy to him that is destitute of wisdom.

Head COLDS

Put Mentholatum in the nostrils to relieve irritation and promote clear breathing.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

ADVICE TO WOMEN

Mrs. Annie M. Cape of 922 B. St., Meridian, Miss., said: "My health failed and I was just about ready to give up. I was too weak to do my housework, suffered with pains in my back and sides and headaches were frequent. I could neither eat nor sleep and my weight went down to 120 pounds. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and was soon in the best of health." All druggists.

Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

It Seldom Does

The restless don't want love to run too smoothly.

Help Kidneys

If poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Smarting, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Siss-tex) Cystex —Must fix you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.

Constipation?

Rouge, creams and powders only hide complexion blemishes. They don't get at one of its frequent causes — constipation. Flush the bowels with Garfield Tea and rid yourself of the wastes that often clog pores and result in blotchy, erupted complexion. A week of this "internal beauty treatment" will astonish you. Begin tonight.

FREE SAMPLE Write to: GARFIELD TEA CO. Brooklyn, N. Y. Dept. 3-A

(At your drug store)

GARFIELD TEA 25c & 10c

ECZEMA ITCHING

Quickly soothe burning torment and promote healing of irritated skin with—

Resinol

WNU—8 8—35

MAKE MONEY WORKING FOR ME in your home. Particulars, supply of work 25c. MISER SERVICE Box 221 - - - - - Ansted, W. Va.

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment. Details of Nance's escape are made public.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

—10—

"Yeah!" A throaty growl. "Got to, Doc. Got to protect society. Stephen looked puzzled, so the chief continued. "If I let that girl graduate from San Quentin, she'll come out with a broader knowledge of crime and trickery and a greater contempt for society than when she went in. The only kind of criminal I fear is the smart one; I can always catch the boobs promptly, but sometimes it takes a long time to get acquainted with the artistic genius of a real craftsman. They're like writers, Doc. They have a style all their own and you've got to learn their style. And about the time you think you've learned it, you pick up some bird that's guilty and he isn't the man you thought he was. He's just stolen his master's stuff. Nance Belden is too brilliant to turn loose on the world, Doc. She's a leader—a leader of men. She'd make the balls, and her crew would fire them and always be covered up."

He ruffled his pompadour. "Well, Doc, I've gotten her away from her gang. She's lost them and they've lost her. And they must never get her back."

"Would you like to know who they are?"

"Of course. I'm normally curious."

"I can find out for you," said Stephen.

"How?" Dan McNamara looked doubtful.

"Nance will tell me."

"You're crazy, Doc. You don't know the code. They die, but they don't squeal. There is honor in their dishonor, and in their weakness there is a strength that amazes me."

"She wouldn't do it voluntarily, of course, but just now, in her weakened state, I'm sure I could hypnotize her. Get her to look fixedly into a mirror, you know, like this. Once I secure control of her subconscious mind, she'll answer my questions. And after I wake her up she'll have complete amnesia for the experience; she will never know she peached on her pals.

CHAPTER V

The chief smiled. "Of course I know that hypnotism is being used by advanced psychiatrists and particularly by Morton Prince and William McDougall. I've read their books. The modern chief of police isn't modern, Doc, if he isn't a pretty good lay psychologist and psychiatrist. I don't know what a criminologist is, but I suppose he's a bird that studies the criminal actions and tendencies of criminals and tries to reduce crime to its lowest common divisor. That's the bunk. The thing to do is to know their minds and why they act like they do; if you can cure what makes them go, criminology becomes a dead science.

"Yes, I know all about hypnotism and I know something you've forgotten. Your power of suggestion on a patient in the hypnotic state isn't powerful enough to make him steal or commit murder if he's an honest man. His acquired instincts of morality, which lie in his subconscious mind, are too strong for you. And the most powerful acquired instinct in the mind of a crook is that he mustn't squeal. That's his idea of immortality! You try it on Nance Belden and she'll tell you almost anything but who her friends are, where they live and how they make a living."

"Well, we shall see—at another time. Meanwhile, what are you going to do with this girl? You can't keep her here, because that's dangerous unless you have her watched. And whom can you trust to watch her?"

"How about Lanny?"

"Lanny is my office nurse and I cannot get along without her. She's under suspicion now and we've got to kill that. She'll be watched, will she not?"

"I suppose so. Even if I pass the word to lay off her, I can never be sure one of my men won't watch her independently. On a case where it would be a big feather in his cap and mean a lot of publicity to capture a celebrated criminal, lots of dicks prefer to work alone and in secret."

"Then Lanny must not come to your house again. And yet, this girl must be parked somewhere until her wound heals. She's suffering from the shock of this emotional experience now; she's lost considerable blood and suffered some pain, and for five hours she's suffered from exposure. Her garments are soaking wet."

"If she forgot to tell those men to bring some dry clothing for her to hop into, once she got aboard the boat, my heart will just about break. That would be one flaw in a perfect job—and I can't stand flaws."

And Dan McNamara strode into the room where Nance lay with her hand in Lanny's. "Why didn't you tell your friend to bring you some dry clothes?" he demanded.

Nance smiled up at Lanny. "He thinks I'm a nut, after all, Lanny. Why, of course I wouldn't overlook that detail. I changed my clothes, but when we crossed the bay it was rough and there was a police boat on our trail. He had to outrun them—and you do forty miles an hour through a mile of tide-rips and you'll all but drown in the spray!"

"Thank God for that," the chief murmured. "I'm proud of you and your friends, Nance. I hope neither of them was hit."

For the barest fraction of a second Nance hesitated, then answered. "No, they got through all right, but how they did is a mystery. The boat was riddled."

Dan McNamara came back into the living room and on his heavy face was the faintest, most cryptic of grins.

"I'm going to get one or both of Nance's friends, Doc," he exulted. "One of them was hit, and he'll have to have medical attention. Not that I want to land either one of them for this job, but because I want to give them the once-over. At that they might be somebody we're looking for."

The Chief Watched Stephen Put Up His Car.

"Did Nance tell you one of them had been hit?"

"No, but she hesitated half a second when she told me neither of them had been hit. She never hesitates ordinarily. Her co-ordination is lightning fast—well, you get so, Doc, that you know when they're lying. Go to the telephone, call up your home and ask if you've had any telephone calls within the past hour."

Stephen obeyed and was informed that a man, who refused to leave his name, had called up three times and had left word he would call again; that he had seemed very anxious to know when the doctor would return.

"I knew it—I knew it." Dan McNamara's pride in his own perspicacity was almost juvenile. "I figured Nance would tell them to go to you. And I'll make another prophecy. They'll admit they are friends of hers and that she sent them there. She's told them you're her friend and that you'll not turn them up to me. A wounded crook is always up against it, Doc, unless he knows a crooked doctor. The hospitals and ninety-nine and nine-tenths of the doctors will report to the police when they receive a call from a patient suffering from knife or gunshot wounds. And in this case the radios have broadcast the warning of two hundred and fifty dollars out for Nance too—standing state reward for recapturing an escaped convict.

"Come on, Doc. I'll go to your home with you and pick these birds up."

"No, you shall not. I wouldn't turn those two men over to you for ten thousand dollars. They're too—"

"Yes, they have guts. They can be trusted on a particular job I want to put through. Word of honor, Steve, I'll not pinch them. I just want to talk with them."

A block from Stephen's home Dan McNamara got out of the doctor's car. He had already received from Stephen Burt a description of the ground-floor plan of his house. And Stephen had agreed to leave his latchkey under the mat at the front door.

The chief watched Stephen put up his car and enter his home. A light was shining in the entrance hall, and this light Stephen, in accordance with the chief's instructions, switched off.

In about five minutes the chief saw this light switched on and off twice. That meant the doctor had received another telephone message. Then the light was switched on and off ten times. That meant the patient would arrive in about ten minutes, so Dan McNamara hid himself in the deep shadow of a tradesman's entrance at the side of a house across the street, and waited.

In ten minutes almost to the second, a car, with drawn curtains, drove up to the house and two men got out. The chief could see that one of them had to have assistance, so the driver got out and helped the other man half drag, half carry, the wounded man up the steps. Stephen opened the door and the three men entered; immediately McNamara ran across the street and up the front steps behind them, found the latchkey under the mat, opened the door and stepped inside. He could hear voices in Stephen's reception room, so he drew his pistol and stepped silently up to the entrance of it.

"Put 'em up, boys," he ordered cheerfully. He drew back his left lapel and revealed his blue and gold shield. "No necessity to argue in the smoke. This isn't a hanging matter."

He forced the two unwounded men to stand with their backs toward him while he ran his facile hands over their persons and relieved each of a pistol. He "broke" both guns and placed the cartridges in his pocket.

"I beg your pardon, Doctor, for entering your house unannounced, but you left your front door unlatched and I couldn't resist. I had a notion these men might call upon you. Just a hunch because the warden tipped us off to watch the home of your office nurse, Miss Lanning. So, while watching the home of the servant I concluded to watch that of the master, also. Sit down, boys. Never mind us, Doc. The man on the table needs all of your attention. Fix him up nicely and let him lie there until I come back. He can't run away, and if he tries, don't you let him. You other men come with me down to the central office till I see if we have anything on you. I don't appear to have the honor of your acquaintance, but we'll look the rogues' gallery over and compare fingerprints. While there's life, there's hope."

"You're all wet, Chief," the driver of the car replied pertly.

"Perhaps—but not as wet as your friends." And McNamara chuckled at his little joke. "You can't do forty an hour through the tide-rips off Alcatraz island without throwing some spray. You got an open fireplace in your house, Doctor?"

Stephen saw that McNamara was pretending they had not previously met. "Yes, Chief. In the drawing room. It's all set."

"I want to warm these boys up and dry them out. They did good work this afternoon and they deserve good treatment. Drop that wounded man long enough to dig up a couple of stiff jolts of spiritus frumenti for my lads, will you, Doc? I always warm a cold man from the outside in and from the inside out."

"Thank you, Chief," both men muttered.

The three retired to the drawing room and the chief tossed one of the men a box of matches. "Fire up," he commanded. "Then draw yourself up to the blaze and drink the grog the doctor will give you. Where's your pal hit?"

"Top of the right shoulder, calf of the left leg and biceps of the left arm."

"So he's the chap that dragged Nance out of the water, eh? He was in the rear cockpit, but you were up front driving the boat. There are forty bullet holes in the rear of that boat." He sighed. "These machine guns certainly spray things. You didn't drop your own machine gun overboard, either. They're too valuable and hard to get. A Thompson, I suppose. A Tommy gun and a Tommy man! Visiting brethren—from Chicago, I suppose. That's why we haven't met before. Pardon me a minute while I look for the Tommy gun in your car. And if you want to die in a hurry just try beating it out the back way while I'm gone."

He returned in less than a minute with the one-man machine gun in his hands. "We've got Nance Belden where you dropped her," he announced, "so while you're lapping up that whisky, tell me all about it."

"So Nance told you where to look for us, eh?" The man who had handled the motor boat spoke with withering contempt and hatred. Instantly Dan McNamara cuffed him viciously on the side of the head.

"Apologize for that," he roared. "You're so d—d crooked you think everybody else is, too."

The man mumbled an apology.

"No, Nance didn't tell me, you rat," McNamara went on, "and I didn't ask her, because I knew she wouldn't tell. But I did think she'd tip you off to call on this doctor. You dropped her at the home of his office nurse; I put two and two together and decided to investigate—all by myself. And here we are. Got any idea why I came alone?"

"No."

"Because I wanted to save you from the consequences of the job you pulled off this afternoon. I'm in sympathy with that, and as far as I'm concerned Nance Belden isn't going back to San Quentin. And she isn't going back to your gang, either. Now, you play the game with me and I'll play it with you. Double-cross me and I'll hang something hard on you, and you and your friends won't be heard of in public for a long time."

TO BE CONTINUED.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for January 20

PETER'S LESSON IN HUMBLE SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—John 13:1-17; I Peter 5:5.

GOLDEN TEXT—Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.—I Peter 5:5.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Jesus Washed Peter's Feet.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Learned a New Lesson.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Dignity of Lowly Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Serving Christ Through Serving Others.

I. Christ's Amazing Love for His Own (vv. 1-3).

Jesus was fully conscious of what was immediately before him. He knew that the cross, with all its shame and anguish, was upon him; he knew that his disciples would shamefully forsake him in a few hours; he knew that one of that number would be the instrument in the hands of the devil in his betrayal; he was fully conscious of his Deity; he knew that all things were in his hands. He did not withdraw his love from them because of their weakness and the shameful failure which he knew would soon be made manifest. He not only loved them to the end of his earthly ministry, but loved them unto the "uttermost." The word "end" means "uttermost." Love to the uttermost therefore means that he bestowed upon them his love, even to the extent of taking their place in death.

II. Christ Washing the Disciples' Feet (vv. 4-11).

He did not regard his hands too holy to do this menial service. The true Christian does not allow his rank in society to keep him from acts of lowly service.

1. Steps in this service (vv. 4-6).
   a. He rose from supper.
   b. Laid aside his garments.
   c. Took a towel and girded himself.
   d. Poured water into a basin.
   e. Washed his disciples' feet.
   f. Wiped them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

These steps symbolize Christ's entire work of redemption. His rising from supper represents his rising from his place of enjoyment in the heavenly glory. His laying aside his garments symbolized his putting aside his vesture of majesty (Phil. 2:7, 8). His girding himself symbolized his taking the form of a servant (Phil. 2:7). The water in the basin symbolized his cleansing blood; his washing of the disciples' feet, his actual cleansing of them through his word (John 15:3; Eph. 5:26); his taking his garments again, his returning to his place and position in glory.

2. Peter's impetuous ignorance (vv. 6-9). When he realized what the Lord was doing, he refused to have his feet washed; when he realized the peril of refusal, he desired to be fully washed.

3. The significance of this service to those participating in it (vv. 8-11).

a. It is a spiritual cleansing (v. 8). Fellowship with Jesus is possible only as we are continuously cleansed from our sins (v. 10). The cleansing here is not the washing of regeneration, but that of sanctification. He that is regenerated, that is, washed in the blood of Christ (symbolized by baptism) does not need a repetition of the act; he only needs the cleansing of sanctification, symbolized by the washing of the feet. After regeneration the believer is contaminated by its sins as he walks through this world. Christ's blood cleanses of all sins those who confess them.

b. A badge of brotherly affection (v. 14). This act showed Christ's abandonment to the service of his disciples. It is a lesson much needed today. We need more and more to practice brotherly love.

c. An expression of humility (v. 15). This was a lesson much needed by the disciples, and much needed by us today. They had just been disputing as to who should be the greatest in the kingdom. Thus their selfish ambition was expressing itself. On every hand we see manifestations of pride, vanity, and even arrogance, of those who are professed followers of the lowly Jesus.

d. Equalization (v. 16). The disciples thus stooping to serve each other in the name of Jesus Christ will have burned out of them the caste spirit.

III. An Example for Us (vv. 14-17).

The disciples of the Lord are under solemn obligation in the spirit of humility to serve each other, even as Christ served his disciples. This obligation rests upon his Lordship (v. 14). To refuse obedience to him is to set oneself above his Lord. The way to happiness is implicit obedience to the Lord.

Stop and Listen

Do we not sometimes feel, in trial or perplexity, that others might help us if they would only stop and listen? But they will not, and in their constant hurry we know it is little use to speak. Let us quote the lesson for ourselves, and give what we ask.

Your Wonderful Commission

Only God would dare to ask you to do that which is expected of you. No man would even expect of you that which God counts upon your doing.

TRUE GHOST STORIES

By Famous People

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc. WNU Service.

By GUY KIBBEE
Actor.

"ONE of the most gruesome experiences I ever had," related Guy Kibbee, motion-picture and stage star, "was when I was with the Alpine Stock company, then playing in Vermont.

"The leading lady, Evelyn Grey, then on her way to fame and success, was very ill. She had a very bad case of tuberculosis, yet was so ambitious and enjoyed her work so much that she would not stop long enough to get well. Many people in the theater are that way; they love their profession unto death.

"Every night, after the show, she would lie down in her dressing room for half an hour or so before going home.

"On this particular occasion we were playing 'East Lynne,' in which she was taking the lead. In the last scene she wore a long white garment. After the show was over we all left for our hotels, except Evelyn, who stayed alone, as was her wish, for her rest.

"We all got up to the hotel, talked for an hour or more, then decided to play a bit of poker. The cards were back at the theater, and as actors made little or no money in those days, we went back after them instead of buying new ones.

"We entered the theater and saw a figure in white walking slowly down the aisle. We got a look at her face, and it looked like Evelyn, yet it was too pale and awful to be she. It was way past time for her to have left the theater. The apparition gave us the jitters, so we left without the cards. Evelyn never walked about the theater. It all seemed so unreal and ghostly that we went home and to bed. If the figure had been Evelyn, we felt sure she would have spoken to us.

"Next morning we were all ready for rehearsal at ten o'clock. Evelyn did not appear. Some one went back to look in her dressing room and found her. She had on the same white gown, and was lying on her couch in the dressing room dead. She had died during the night, alone."

* * *

By JANE COWL
Actress.

"HEAVEN knows we mortals can't guess the elaborate workings of the subconscious mind, nor of mental telepathy nor of psychic forces!" exclaimed Jane Cowl, the brilliant actress. "Every now and then we see an obvious example of their powers, but most of the time we are in complete darkness about their intricacies.

"When I was a child, I was early impressed with an example of psychic warning," continued Miss Cowl, as she scanned the rows of books of mystery in the book store which she was visiting.

"One day, while my Grandmother Julia, my mother's mother, was ill, I visited her. She lay in her great carved walnut bed, an invalid, helpless, bedridden. For years she had not been able to move from that bed. Above her was a huge painting in a weighty carved frame, all part of the massive, ugly decorative scheme of the day.

"Suddenly, Grandmother Julia astonished us by jumping from her bed and rushing to the middle of the room.

"We asked what was the trouble, the cause for her unexpected act. 'My sister called to me, my sister called me!' she exclaimed.

"Just then the weighty picture fell from the wall upon her bed, and its glass shattered into hundreds of pieces.

"If grandmother had been in her bed the heavy thing would have doubtless killed her.

"It would seem that the spirit of her sister, who was in another city at the time, warned her of her danger, and sustained her with unexpected strength to jump from her bed. Perhaps not, but it is plausible the spirits of our friends and relatives can visit us in other forms than physical," concluded Miss Cowl, as she discovered a book on criminology which she wanted to read, and to which she turned her keen attention.

Odd Device Reproduces Music

Music with the tonal quality of that produced by famous musicians can be played by any pianist on a homemade organ constructed from a dishwasher motor, an old keyboard, tin cans, a loud speaker and other "gadgets." The organ contains a photo-electric cell on which a beam of light shines through revolving disks. A film sound track of tones rephotographed on the disks is converted into sound when the beam reaches the photo-cell, reproducing the original tone of the virtuoso.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Plenty of Sand Hazards

"And no use has ever been found for the Sahara desert?"

"No; but it is only a question of time when some enthusiast will come along and lay it out in golf links."

Not Necessarily

Mrs. Wilkins—One wife too many, eh? I suppose that's about some bigamist.

Mr. Wilkins—Not necessarily, my dear.

SHELLS UNCOVER TREASURE

Gunners bombarding the eastern front during the World war had no idea that they were bringing to light archeological treasures. In the shell holes in Jugoslavia, members of an expedition sent out by Harvard university have found treasures which go back to the Bronze age. Nearly two thousand sites have been marked out as a result of the studies of this expedition. In them, future digging will take place. Incidentally, by making a 3,500-mile survey of the territory, the scientists have uncovered Roman roads and fortifications which before were thought only to exist in local legends.—Pearson's Weekly.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR FIRST, MOTHER

Before You Give Your Child an Unknown Remedy to Take

Every day, unthinkingly, mothers take the advice of unqualified persons — instead of their doctors' — on remedies for their children.

If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take this chance.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the frequently-used "milk of magnesia," doctors, for over 50 years, have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia — the safe remedy for your child."

Remember this — And Always Say "Phillips'" When You Buy. Your child deserves it; for your own peace of mind, see that you get it — Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Also in Tablet Form:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Never Extinguished

Hope is the one guest of the heart that quickly departs and as quickly returns.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

A Few Drops Every Night and Morning Will Promote a Clean, Healthy Condition!

At All Drug Stores

Write Murine Co., Dpt. W, Chicago, for Free Book

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS!

IF your kidneys are not working right and you suffer backache, dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, swollen feet and ankles; feel lame, stiff, "all tired out" . . . use Doan's Pills.

Thousands rely upon Doan's. They are praised the country over. Get Doan's Pills today. For sale by all druggists.

DOAN'S PILLS

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (For Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO. Chattanooga, Tenn.

A weekly pay check for You

Mailing secretaries wanted! Experience unnecessary. Pay weekly, part advanced. Contract, details, ten cents and three cents stamp.

S. Y. MORSE
1009 Oak St. - - Elmira, N. Y.

The Democrat

Published Every Thursday Morning at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter At The Post Office In Columbiana, Alabama, Under Act Of Congress, March 3, 1879.

FRANK HEAD,
Editor and Publisher

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE,
Associate Editor.

VINCENT NEWS

Miss Billie Arthur has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Birmingham.

Miss Alza Harris spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Culver O'Neal spent the week-end here. Mrs. O'Neal will be remembered as Miss Ethel Thompson.

Mr. R. R. Hunt, Mattie and Robert Hunt, Frances Merrill and Frances Elliott, spent Saturday in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunt and family, were dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. Embry, Sunday.

Among those attending the associational B. Y. P. U. meeting in Columbiana Sunday afternoon, were: Misses Mattie Hunt, Pauline Self, Margaret Murphy, Margerein Blankenship, Frances Elliott and Bettye Florey.

The bonds have been signed for the Vincent Water Works and the work will begin immediately.

Carlton Franks, of Wilsonville, visited friends here during the week-end.

Quite a bit of interest is being shown by the members of the Vincent Chapter of F. F. A. in the offer of the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Company to give 400 pounds of nitrate of soda to some member of the chapter for demonstration purposes. The demonstration is to be fostered by the chapter under the supervision of Mr. Robert R. Hunt, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Vincent High School, in co-operation with the Educational Bureau of the Chilean Nitrate Corporation. The demonstration must be favorably situated on a highway and consist of two and a half acres.

Those offering to carry out the demonstration are Roland Bolton, Billy Cosper, and Guy Wyatt McCranie. The members of the chapter plan to make a tour to inspect each plot offered at an early date and then select the one which they think best suited for the purpose.

YES -you can

Are you one of these nervous people who lie awake half the night and get up feeling "all in"? Why don't you do as other light sleepers have been doing for more than two generations—take Dr. Miles Nervine?

One or two pleasant effervescent Nervine Tablets or two or three teaspoonfuls of liquid Nervine will generally assure a night of restful sleep. Perhaps you will have to take Nervine two or three times a day just at first.

Nervous people have been using Dr. Miles Nervine for Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Irritability, Restlessness, Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache, Travel Sickness, for more than fifty years.

Dr. Miles NERVINE
Liquid and Effervescent Tablets

VINCENT NEWS

(Too late for last week)

Jimmie Gorman has accepted a position in Dadeville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Darden visited Mrs. Darden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McGraw, Sunday.

Miss Dupuy, music teacher of Vincent High School, will present her pupils in a recital, Friday evening at 8 p. m.

Among the college students who have returned to their college after spending the holidays with relatives, were: Leona Sanders, Fannie Thompson, Anne Bell and Catherine Florey, Alabama College; Sara Florey, University; Clarence Gorman and James Davidson, Auburn; James Sharbutt, Howard and Estelle Phillips, business college.

Miss Ada Sue Gorman celebrated her 15th birthday by having as her dinner guests Misses Helen Sharbutt, Florine Green and her cousin, Miss Sue Terrell, of Foley, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Montgomery and son, Mays, Miss Elizabeth Mays and Renfroe Montgomery, visited in Decatur, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Florey are spending some time with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Florey.

Miss Alyce Harris visited friends in Birmingham during the week-end.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of Birmingham, and daughter, Katherine, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough.

The Twin-Oak Bridge Club met with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowdon, Friday evening at 7:30. Those present included: Mesdames Claud Bryant, Roscoe McDuffie, George Cogbill, Misses Camma and Edna Lee Holladay and Alice Nolen and Graves Bailey. High score was won by Graves Bailey. A delicious plate lunch was served by the hostess.

Miss Gertrude Conrad, of Sterrett, was the Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Blackerby.

At the Shelby County Parent-Teachers meeting in Columbiana last Saturday, our P.-T. A. was represented by the following: Mesdames E. D. Holladay, Mac Bailey, Claud Bryant, Roscoe McDuffie, John Green, President, and the teachers.

Miss Camma Holladay and E. D. Holladay spent last Wednesday in Birmingham.

We are sorry to hear of the continued illness of Mrs. Earnest Whitehead's father.

MOSTELLER

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Merrell, of Wilsonville, visited Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Atchison last Monday.

A party was given by Miss Ethel Merrell, Saturday night.

Rev. J. Dudley Hughs spent the week-end here.

A large number of gifts have been received on our new church building.

Mr. A. F. Rylant recently had his children visit him—Mr. John Rylant, of Washington, D. C. and Miss Vercie Rylant, of Lilly Brook, West, Va.

Come to church Sunday. The Pastors subject will be "Opportunities that come only once."

Kermitt Pearson spent Sunday in Leeds as the guest of Miss Lucy Moore.

"I Never Read The Advertisements"

YOU know this person. He thinks he is telling the truth. But quiz him and he will recite the make of his motorcar, his hat, his shirt, his shoes, his tooth paste, his towels, adinfinitum . . . with accent on the "ad." In other words, they are all advertised products.

Why, he could no more escape the presence and the power of the printed word than he could evade eating or sleeping. The advertisements are a definite part of contemporary American life. Their messages are vital to daily existence. They have a definite association with the pocketbook, than which there is nothing more intimate and personal.

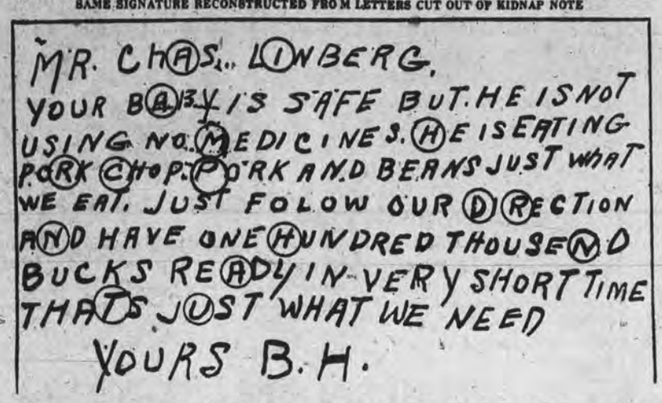
The important thing is not merely to "read the advertisements," but to read ALL of them. The one advertisement you "didn't see" may contain information you would have given a great deal to possess. Certainly, it is as important to you to know that the Smith's are having a sale of sheets or shirts, as to read that Congress will hold a special session!

"Friend, Guide, Counselor"----
The Advertisements In
The Shelby County Democrat

BABY CHICKS

"AAA" HOLLYWOOD LEGHORNS
"AAA" TANCRED LEGHORNS
From High Egg Records.
YEARLY HENS, TESTED FOR B. W. D.
The Males used to head these matings are individually pedigreed out of dams with Trap Nest Egg Records from 280—312 eggs in one year. Write for Low Prices—

Alabama Poultry Farms,
ROUTE NO. 1—BOX 90,
CALERA, ALABAMA.



Claim Similarity in Printing

HAUPTMANN'S OWN LETTERED SIGNATURE ON AUTO REGISTRATION CARD

SAME SIGNATURE RECONSTRUCTED FROM LETTERS CUT OUT OF KIDNAP NOTE

Documents in the Hauptmann case: at top is the signature "Richard Hauptmann" that was taken from automobile license application. Directly below is an enlarged reproduction of the same signature, and below that is another signature "Richard Hauptmann" that was pieced together from letters appearing in one of the Lindbergh ransom notes, which is shown at bottom.

WORLD WATCHES HAUPTMANN TRIAL

Millions Follow the Greatest Courtroom Drama of Modern History.

By W. C. WEBBER

Flemington, N. J.—This small American town holds the center of interest for the entire world as day by day the intense drama of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged with the murder of tiny Charles Lindbergh, son of the famous flyer, unfolds. Flemington, small New Jersey town of less than 3,000 population, is the focus of all eyes, as prosecution of the former German carpenter proceeds.

Batteries of brilliant opposing legal counsel, clicking telegraph instruments, flare of flashlights—all the accompaniments of a modern murder trial—have been unable to obscure the human element in this case and drag it down to the level of the usual sensational court case.

Mothers and fathers everywhere have followed with sympathetic interest each bit of testimony, the actions of the characters in this moving drama, and are weighing each scrap of evidence that is presented for and against this man who is charged with one of the most hideous crimes of modern times.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, presiding over the Hauptmann trial, has a reputation for sternness. His task is not easy as the state of New Jersey attempts to send an obscure little German carpenter to the electric chair for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. The interplay of human emotions often tends to make the administration of cold justice difficult.

Tells of Last Day.

Most pathetic figure of the drama is that of Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow. A slender figure in black, she told her story in a clear, small voice. Under the questioning of Attorney General David T. Wilentz, chief prosecutor, she told of the idyllic afternoon she spent with her son on the day he disappeared, of how she had gone for a walk and finally of the tragedy and the bewilderment of the kidnaping. She firmly identified the flannel shirt, the thumb guard, and the sleeping garment the child wore. At one point the tremendous emotional strain she was undergoing was indicated when she was unable to testify in answer to a question regarding the toys of her dead baby. She bowed her head silently, and the prosecutor passed on to another question.

Mrs. Lindbergh's eyes were filled with tears and her voice trembled with emotion. There were moments when she was obviously near the breaking point, but she went bravely on to relate the horrifying occurrence of that dramatic day, and concluded her testimony by identifying the clothing. What that ordeal must have cost her can only be conjectured.

Sees Hauptmann.

When she entered the courtroom it was the first time she had seen Hauptmann, the accused. Her eyes went to him repeatedly, but no expression crossed her face. Two chairs away from Mrs. Lindbergh sat Mrs. Hauptmann. Hauptmann's face disclosed no emotion, but was turned steadfastly toward the witness chair. He gave no indication of Mrs. Lindbergh's presence, but his wife became more nervous. She shifted in her chair and her head twitched as the mother told her story.

Colonel Lindbergh followed his wife on the stand. His testimony was direct and clearly given. He testified that he heard a noise "like the breaking of a crate"—supposedly when the kidnaper's ladder broke and killed the child as the criminal climbed down from the nursery. He did not realize at the time that it might have been a ladder breaking.

Near the close of his recital of the shocking crime came a sensational moment when Lindbergh identified Hauptmann as the man whom he believed to be guilty of kidnaping his son. He vigorously combated suggestions by the defense that members of his own household had been involved.

The fear and sorrow that swept over the house on Sourland mountain was revealed for the first time when Betty Gow, Scotch nurse, took the stand. She was the last person to see the child alive. In quick, staccato sentences she told how Colonel Lindbergh turned away from the empty nursery and looking into his wife's eyes said: "Anne, they've stolen our baby."

Nurse Collapses.

Sharp cross-examination which contained a hint that she was involved in the crime brought flashes of anger from the nursemaid. Most attempts on the part of the defense to pry into her private life were challenged by the prosecution and the court generally sustained the objection. She left the stand in a virtual collapse which at times caused her to sob hysterically.

This line of questioning was in line with statements of the defense counsel that the Lindbergh kidnaping was an inside job. Miss Gow's friendship with "Red" Johnson, since deported from this country for illegal entry, were referred to in the questioning. She admitted she told Johnson that the baby would be at Hopewell on the night of the kidnaping, but in answer to a direct question declared she had not told Hauptmann.

Miss Gow was accompanied in court the day she testified by Mrs. Elsie Whatley, widow of the Lindbergh butler, whose activities were mentioned several times during the testimony. The nurse said she had spent an hour in Mrs. Whatley's room the night of the kidnaping, and that during that time the baby was alone on the second floor of the house. When she discovered the baby was gone, she immediately notified the Lindberghs, she stated.

Defense Attorney Reilly's questioning has tended to show that police had not investigated actions of members of the Lindbergh establishment sufficiently to absolve them from suspicion. Two were particularly pointed out in the cross-examination: Betty Gow, and Oliver Whatley, butler, who later died in a hospital.

Trooper Testifies.

An important witness in establishing details of the discovery that the child was missing was Corporal Joseph Wolfe of the New Jersey state police. Wolfe testified that he found the ransom note on the south window sill of the east wall. Traces of mud on a suitcase near the window were also discovered, Wolfe said. He identified the state's ransom note exhibit as the one he saw in its envelope the night of the kidnaping, and declared that as soon as Trooper Kelly arrived, they checked the note for fingerprints and found none.

Indentations in the earth beneath the window, evidently made by the ladder used in the case, were described by the trooper. He also was the one who while searching the grounds found the discarded kidnap ladder sixty or seventy feet from the house.

The stoical attitude of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, accused murderer, is that of an intensely interested spectator. This man whose arrest was the culmination of one of the longest searches in the annals of crime, watches proceedings of the trial with a detachment that is amazing. His impassive face tells nothing. He rarely stirs in court, rarely speaks. He might be simply one of the audience, for all the emotion he displays. He enters the courtroom as calmly as if he were paying a social call, instead of being on trial for his life.

Identifies Prisoner.

His composure was broken, however, when he was identified by two witnesses as having to do with the case. Joseph Perrone, New York taxi-driver, testified that Hauptmann was the man who had given him a note to be delivered to Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie), intermediary in the negotiations with the kidnaper.

When Perrone stepped down from the witness stand, walked across the thirty feet that separated the witness chair from Hauptmann, and putting his hand on Hauptmann's shoulder, identified him as the man whose actions he had described, the prisoner gave his first sign of emotion.

"You're a liar," Hauptmann muttered in so low a tone that only those sitting close to him could hear.

His identification as a man whom he had seen in an automobile near the Lindbergh home on the day of the kidnaping by Amandus Hochmuth, eighty-seven-year-old Prussian army veteran, just previous to this, caused Hauptmann to only shake his head. The testimony of both Lindbergh and his wife had also failed to shake the composure of the accused man.

Testimony of Dr. J. F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the ransom notes, another important figure in the case, is expected to have considerable weight with the jury. The retired educator conducted the ransom negotiations which resulted in payment of $50,000 which he alleges were made to Hauptmann. Condon is accompanied wherever he goes by Al Reich, a former pugilist who acts as a bodyguard. Reich was also with Condon on the night when they went to the Woodlawn cemetery where "Jafsie" established his contact with the extortioner, sitting in conversation with him for an hour on a park bench.

Marked Contrast.

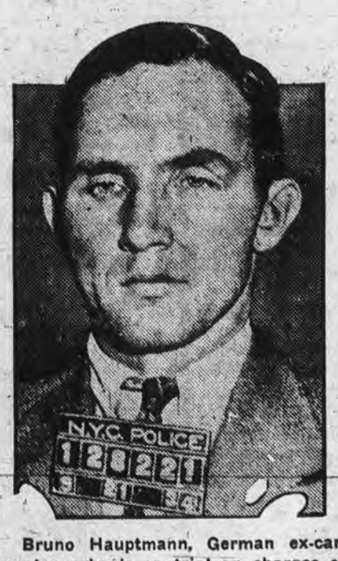
Condon positively identified Hauptmann as the person to whom he paid the ransom money. Attorney Reilly in cross-examining Condon, implied that the witness himself was one of the kidnap gang. Condon vigorously denied any such part, declaring that his only purpose was "to get back Colonel Lindbergh's baby."

Opposing counsel in this most interesting criminal case of modern times present a marked difference. David T. Wilentz, attorney general of New Jersey, who is directing the fight to send Hauptmann to the electric chair, is wiry, dapper, dark-eyed, olive skinned. He has not handled many criminal cases in his career and he has never before been prosecutor in a capital case. He has been thrust into a glare of publicity as brilliant as any lawyer could ask for, and appears calm and confident as to the final outcome of his efforts to convict the prisoner.

He has the support of five assistant attorney generals, of a former judge, George K. Large, and Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., present prosecutor of Hunterdon county.

In direct contrast to Wilentz is Edward Jay Reilly, chief of defense counsel. In his thirty years of practice he has tried, according to his own estimate, 2,000 murder cases, among them some of the most spectacular acquittals ever recorded in New York. His methods have become almost a legend among criminal lawyers. Florid, weighing 200 pounds, and a former army captain, he is entirely the opposite of his opponent. Reilly admits that he will receive no pay for his efforts on behalf of Hauptmann.

Associated with Reilly are C. Lloyd Fisher, a native of Flemington and defender of John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk (Va.) shipbuilder who was convicted in 1932 of obstructing justice in the Lindbergh case; Egbert Rosecrans, defender twelve years ago in the "cat and swamp murder" cases, and Frederick A. Pope.



Meanwhile, millions watch the drama that is being played daily in the little town of Flemington, the little New Jersey town where the most sensational trial of modern times is being held.

CHILD'S NURSE

Betty Gow, Scotch nurse, last person to see the Lindbergh infant before he disappeared.

FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Bruno Hauptmann, German ex-carpenter, who is on trial on charges of murdering the Lindbergh baby. His stolid actions have amazed spectators.

Emotion and Law Never in Accord

Civilized Procedure Calls for Abstract, Swift Justice.

One of our readers writes to the column about the case of Bruno Hauptmann, the accused kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby.

"It makes my hair stand on end," she says, "to hear talk about whether the state really has a strong enough case to convict him, if there is enough evidence to get the death penalty, and so on. This man was found with the money gouged from the distraught parents of the poor baby who was murdered. Isn't that enough? I'd like to know if any of your other readers cares if he did it alone or had an accomplice, if he actually shot the baby dead, or if its death was an accident. I can't imagine any right-thinking person, any normal human being, quibbling as to the details of his part in the hideous crime. He was living on the fruits of it, and that's enough for me. As far as I'm concerned, I wouldn't waste the people's money on a trial for such fiends. It is just that farcical technicality and red tape in our courts that encourages criminals in their confidence they can beat justice. Tell me, is there any shred or ghost of a chance of a technicality saving this man from his just deserts?"

Pointing out inconsistencies in this emotional outburst, the newspaper writer to whom it was addressed answers as follows:

"I don't think that we need worry about Bruno Hauptmann cheating justice in his trial in New Jersey. But, while many of us will have the same emotional reaction to this case, we must remember the fundamental postulate upon which our law is founded; that is, that it is better to let ten guilty men escape than to punish one who is innocent. That is the reason for the legal technicalities in our courts—to give a man every possible protection until he is proved guilty. And we cannot deny that it is the humane and civilized procedure, and that but for it many innocent people might have been unjustly punished. However, innocent or guilty, our reader's suggestion to dispense with this man's trial is nothing more nor less than meeting lawlessness with lawlessness. And it requires very little thought to realize where that would lead us.

"The mention of red tape in our courts encouraging criminals brings up an interesting point with which our best criminologists have long concerned themselves. They tell us that offenders are not afraid of severe penalties—that is, in communities where more crimes have been made punishable by execution, the crimes have not decreased. It is the certainty of punishment, though this is less severe in nature, that deters criminals. As an example we are given Canada, where there is so much less serious crime than in our own country. Canadian law is no less just than ours, in fact it is upon the English common law that both are based. They are no less eager than we to protect the innocent. But in Canada there is more certainty of punishment—because they do not countenance our cumbersome processes and delays. It is not uncommon there to have a criminal arrested, tried, and on his way to prison within a few days.

"We must fairly and justly and openly try those accused of crime. But it would certainly be an improvement on our present methods if we could take a leaf from the book of Canada and make justice more direct and swift without possibility of interference with the certainty of punishment once guilt is established."

©, Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Genuineness

There is nothing so delightful as the hearing or the speaking of truth. For this reason there is no conversation so agreeable as that of the man of integrity, who hears without any intention to betray and speaks without any intention to deceive.—From the sayings of Plato.

To keep clean and healthy take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate liver, bowels and stomach.—Adv.

Classy Mystery

"Miss Passeigh says there is a secret connected with her birth."

"That's true—it's the date."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

GOOD ADVICE

General Booth once gave this advice to young men who were just starting out on the journey of life. His advice was short, sharp, and to the point, and easy to remember. "Be full of go, grit, and grace," said he. It was just like the old general. These are three "G's" to carry one through life.—London Telegraph.

PLEASANT THOUGHTS

All men are glad to have pleasant memories, but not all are providing the material for such memories. If you would look back by and by to something that you will be glad you said or did, now is the time to do or say something which will give you food for gladness.—Henry Clay Trumbull.

A Doctor Knows!

And doctors use a liquid laxative

"Leave the rest to nature"

There's a very good reason why doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives! You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a family doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe and effective for family use.

If you are seeking something that will relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity.

At all drugstores

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Odd, but True

The best way to raise children is to keep them on the level.

On the Contrary!

Chin music is exercise, but it removes no double chins.

Now Relieve Your Cold "Quick as You Caught It"

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

For Amazingly Fast Results Remember Directions in These Simple Pictures

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA
direct from its New York Stage
3-Hour Broadcast by
LISTERINE
announced by
Geraldine Farrar
Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P. M.

PENSIONERS OF SHELBY COUNTY, ALA., JAN., 1935

CLASS A.

J. Y. Davis, Sterrett, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 2.

Peter Juzan, Columbiana, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1.

R. L. Killough, Calera, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1.

W. G. Parker, Columbiana, Alabama.

E. Townsend, Westover, Alabama.

CLASS 1.

Charlotte Barnett, Harpersville, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1.

M. E. Bradford, Vincent, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 30.

N. L. Brasher, Wilsonville, Alabama.

S. F. Carden, Wilsonville, Alabama.

S. E. Davis, Harpersville, Alabama.

M. E. Glass, Siluria, Alabama.

O. A. Gorman, Vincent, Alabama.

Mary Gour, Vincent, Alabama.

S. E. Harris, Calera, Alabama.

M. A. E. Harmon, Bessemer, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 3.

W. H. Howard, Sterrett, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 2.

Josephine E. Miles, Columbiana, Alabama.

M. A. Minor, Wilsonville, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 2.

N. C. McKinnon, Wilsonville, Alabama.

Sarah S. Nivens, Chelsea, Alabama.

Lucretia Row, Vincent, Alabama,

M. A. Strickland, Columbiana, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1.

M. R. Tucker, Helena, Alabama.

A. V. Weaver, Columbiana, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 3.

CLASS 2.

F. Carden, Shelby, Alabama.

A. V. Carroll, Maylene, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1.

M. A. Espey, Maylene, Alabama.

J. A. Gunn, Calera, Alabama.

Fannie B. Holman, Vincent, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 2.

Mollie Hubbard, Aldrich, Alabama, Box 22.

M. A. Kimble, Siluria, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 62.

S. A. Kimble, Columbiana, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 3.

M. E. King, Helena, Alabama.

Phoeba Lacey, Maylene, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 1.

W. M. Reynolds, Montevallo, Alabama.

M. C. Stinson, Columbiana, Alabama.

Sarah Thomas, Saginaw, Alabama.

CLASS 3.

Edna Heath, Montevallo, Alabama.

Lula Penn, Vincent, Alabama.

Emma Roy, Helena, Alabama.

E. Weaver, Wilsonville, Alabama, R. F. D. No. 2.

January 12th, 1935.

CAGE HEAD,
Judge of Probate.

1-17-1t.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Isbell are giving a birthday party for their son, Christopher Columbus Isbell, the 15th of January. He will be 18 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dement spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Isbell.

Miss Ruby Irene Isbell spent the night with Miss Leola Curtin.

Mr. Carl Rasberry spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Miss Leola Curtin and Miss Ruby Irene Isbell, spent the day with Miss Alton Mae Isbell.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE NOTICE.

Default having been made in the terms of a mortgage executed to the undersigned by J. R. Vanderslice and Carrie Lee Vanderslice on the 8th day of January, 1932, which said mortgage is recorded in the office of the Probate Judge of Shelby County, Alabama, and said default continuing, I, the undersigned W. H. Hope will sell at public outcry for cash to the highest bidder, in front of the courthouse door of said County, between the legal hours of sale, on Saturday, the 19th day of January, 1935, the following described property, to-wit:

Lots numbered 3, 4, and 5, in Block sixty-two (62) in Shelby, Alabama, according to the plat of E. S. Safford, made in the year 1890, all in the NW1-4 of Section nineteen (19) township twenty-two (22) Range one (1) East, and lying in Shelby County, Alabama.

Said sale is made for the purpose of paying the mortgage debt and costs and expenses of foreclosure.

1-10-2t. W. H. HOPE.

PERSONAL MENTION

There is, among other things I like about Columbiana, a comaradie, a genuine interest in each other, a friendliness that is not heard of in other places. For instance, my good friend Leo Friedberger, with his "Hi Sister" greeting always cheerfully given, came by my newly equipped office with many knick-knacks, useless little gadgets I can't seem to get along without, and showed me the best looking suit of clothes I have seen this Fall—plus a new overcoat—plus another suit at home he told me about. Tell me times are not getting better when this man about town—connisseur of cotton et catera, knocks a $100.00 winding at the end of the season too? It made me believe all over again that just around the corner lies HAPPINESS ahead. New clothes! Spring! Violets! Don't you just love even thinking about 'em?

The Columbiana Savings Bank will observe Robert E. Lee's birthday anniversary on next Saturday, January 19th! Something else to be glad about—They can't turn a check down with the doors closed, surely! That means more than a birthday anniversary to ME!

Speaking of the Columbiana Savings Bank, I should like to join in the chorus of congratulations now being tendered President Davis, and Cashier Christian, which I have heard recently expressed by all depositors. The manner in which these conservative business men have handled the affairs of this bank during the past three years, stemming the tide of depression and piloting it safely through the turbulent times now merits the recognition it receives by the State of Alabama Banking Department as one of the most dependable banks in the entire state. Pretty safe feeling to KNOW that your little "nickels", "dimes", dollars, etc., are in the hands of these efficient officers. It is rightfully known as the Bank of Strength and Stability. A meeting of all the stockholders has been called for Thursday, January 17th.

Miss Annie Lee Borum and Mrs. Frank Borum, of Harpersville, Alabama, were welcome visitors to the Democrat offices on Tuesday.

J. R. McGraw and "Sonny Boy" McGraw, as this charming and attractive manikin is affectionately called, were noted lunching together at Curlee's Cafe on Monday. They motored back to their home in Vincent, Alabama, and "Sonny Boy" promised to bring his little sister with him next time and let me meet her.

Harold Harlin, spent Sunday in Athens, Alabama. Mr. Harlin is becoming Columbiana-ized, and states he feels very much at home here even though he has been a resident for only one short week. Little old Main Street is just naturally "funny that way"! Don't you love its friendliness?

Clayton Wallace, owner and proprietor of the Dixie Lunch Room, has opened one of the most attractive eating places in Columbiana. Go by today and welcome him to the business district in Columbiana. The menus offered and prepared are under the supervision of Lilly Martin, formerly of Calera, who has many friends in Columbiana, who were her patrons in Calera, and who will be delighted to know she will be in charge of this important part of the Dixie Lunch Room.

Mrs. A. C. Carter and Mrs. Dick Holcombe gave a beautiful informal tea on last Thursday afternoon honoring Mrs. Wailes Carter, one of the most charming little brides ever seen in Columbiana. Pouring tea and assisting the hostesses throughout the afternoon, were Mrs. Henry Nichols and Miss Mary Moore Hurst. About 75 guests called between the hours of 3 and 5 p. m.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

PELHAM NEWS

There will be an old-fashioned spelling match at the Pelham School House, Saturday. night, January 19, Come and enjoy the occasion. Hot Dogs, Sandwiches, coffee, cakes and candies will be sold for the benefit of the school—also a pair of pillow cases will be given to the person holding the lucky ticket.

Miss Willie Mae Lee entertained at a Birthday Party Saturday, January 12th, to a large number of friends. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served to Jaunita Maddox, Louella Lee, Mary Nell Lee, Virginia Scott, Doris Butler, Catherine Butler, Lois Carrol, Mary Frances Carrol, Doris Dean Prickett, Helen Grubbs, Bonnie Brasher, Willie Mae Lee, Dollie Lee, Ollie Lee, Clyde Tennyson, Clyde Butler, Archie Sutterer, Guy Sutterer, Junior Grubbs, Billie Scott, James Brasher, Marvis Brasher, Stene Worthy, John Lee and Jimmie Lee.

Mrs. Nettie Brasher and family visited Mrs. Brasher's mother, Mrs. James Bramblett, in Helena last week-end.

Mr. J. P. Lee and Mr. J. E. Cooper attended the dedication of the new Baptist church at Helena, Sunday.

We are sorry to report Mr. Tennyson on the sick list. We hope him a speedy recovery.

The town boys are all smiles over the new basketball court. If you want to play ball, get a game with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Simpson are the proud parents of a boy born on December 23, 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cooper are the proud parents of a girl born on December 29, 1934. They have named it Charles Jaunette.

The next P.-T. A. meeting will be Thursday, January 17th. Come and help make it a successful meeting. Be there at 2:30 p. m.

UNDERWOOD

Rev. Sam Henderson preached at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Sunday.

Rev. I. T. Carlton will preach at the Methodist Church, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Henrietta Daviston was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Kate Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Moore motored to Bessemer Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler spent Sunday in Elliottsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost spent Sunday afternoon in Ebenezer.

A large number of Red men from here attended the oyster and fish supper in Siluria, Saturday night.

Mrs. Pauline Horton and Miss Lulu Smith attended the Teachers Institute in Columbiana, Saturday.

Emmett Henson is rapidly improving. We hope he will soon be out again.

Mrs. Wyatt and Miss Holcomb, of Ebenezer, were guests of Mrs. J. G. Vernon, Saturday.

Mrs. Carl Oglesby has been real sick with flu, but is much better. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Bean, of Clanton, was here Saturday.

HARPERSVILLE

Rev. Pate, of Birmingham, filled his regular appointment at the Baptist Church, Sunday, delivering two impressive sermons.

Miss Helen Smith spent Saturday in Bessemer.

Miss Lillie Mae Heaselett visited relatives in Jacksonville, last week.

Mrs. R. W. Darby, Misses Lillie Mae Heaselett, Eva Prince and Annie Lee Borum attended the B. Y. P. U. meeting in Columbiana, Sunday.

We are very glad to state that Mrs. L. M. Spruvell, who underwent an operation in Birmingham, is doing nicely. We hope she will soon be home again.

Miss Annetta Borum, of Bessemer, visited relatives here, Sunday.

The Woman's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Bird, Monday. The meeting was opened by singing "God Will Take Care of You". Miss Eva Prince gave the devotional, after which several talks were made by Mrs. L. N. Wyatt, Mrs. F. B. Williams, Mrs. Cal Harris and Miss Annie Lee Borum. As this was the beginning of a new year we resolved to do greater work. We were dismissed by sentence prayers by several members.

Mrs. Bird served sandwiches and coffee to 13 members. The next weeting will be with Mrs. Strickland.

Miss Gladys Bird who is working in Sylacauga, spent the week-end with her parents.

VANDIVER

Funeral services for W. O. Andrews, were conducted Wednesday, January 9th, at 2 p. m. from the Free Will Baptist Church, by the Rev. E. L. Isbell, interment followed in the Union Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Andrews death came in a Birmingham infirmary as the result of an illness of more than two years.

He is survived by the wife and seven children.

Mrs. D. L. Baker was called to the bedside of her little granddaughter, Helen Wyte, in Sylacauga, who is critically ill with pneumonia.

Mr. A. M. Girten has had as his guest for several days, his daughter, Mrs. Charles C. Buck, of Birmingham.

Mrs. S. O. Perry has returned from Tupelo, Miss., where she spent some time visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Joe Owen and little daughter, Virginia, are in Birmingham where Virginia is undergoing treatment from a child specialist for a throat disorder.

The P.-T. A., of Vandiver, wants to thank the County Board of Education, especially Supt. J. L. Appleton, for the repair work being done to our school building.

An event of much interest to our community last week, was the joint P.-T. A. and Teachers' meeting held in Columbiana, Saturday. A meeting was held and plans made for a 100 percent attendance of our local P.-T. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Thearon Runyan and children, attended the funeral of Mrs. Columbus Runyan, in Leeds, Monday, January 7th.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets

Salve-Nose Drops

—Complete—

FUNERAL PROTECTION

—No Age Limit—

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.

Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

A. N. Vail,
Montevallo, Alabama

R. L. Veazy,
Siluria, Alabama

Do You Want A Real Old-Fashioned

HICKORY SMOKED BAR-B-Q SANDWICH?

Come To

JIM FULTON'S

QUICK LUNCH STAND

And Try One!

We will be delighted to serve you promptly! We also have Beef Sandwiches, Hamburgers, Egg, Ham etc. Hot Coffee! Come In To See Us When In Columbiana.

out-starts

THE new AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL vaporizes (turns to gas), at low temperatures, giving instant starting with continuous maximum power... Judge AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL only when unmixed with other fuel... No increase in price—sells for only two cents a gallon more than Crown Gasoline.

Out-Climbs
Highest anti-knock rating ever offered for land service—no carbon knocks.

Out-Powers
Complete vaporization produces all power—no dragging—less crank-case dilution.

Out-Classes
Has the highest specifications ever applied to motor gasoline.

Out-Ahead
Virtually gum-free—no gummy or sticking valves to cause loss of power.

Outstanding
Positively a NEW fuel—unlike and amazingly superior to any gasoline heretofore sold.

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL

FOR YOUR MOTOR

STANDARD OIL COMPANY

INCORPORATED IN KENTUCKY

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-ONE

JAMES SPEAKS TO LEGIONAIRES AT MEETING, JAN. 13

Dr. H. W. James, of Alabama College, and Education Chairman of the State Department of the American Legion, addressed the Commanders' and Adjutants' Conference in Montgomery on January 13, 1935.

The Democrat reprints some interesting information revealed in this excellent address regarding the program for Education advancement which the American Legion organization is sponsoring, and which is successfully being carried forward under his leadership.

Among the objectives set up by the State Department of the American Legion of Alabama, you will notice that Education is listed first. While all the state objectives are important, due to the crisis which Education has been in in the last few years and the fact that the Legislature is in session at present, this particular problem is one of the most urgent facing the State of Alabama.

The Education Committee is your committee. The general committee is composed of 10 members; there is a special committee of 5 members; making a total of 15 members. It is not these 15 men speaking when we request the Legislature of the State of Alabama to do something, it is the American Legion as a whole that is speaking through the voice of your committee. We are only carrying out the mandate you have set up as a goal. Your committee has faced three objectives so far.

The first objective has been Education Week. At the request of your committee, the Governor of Alabama issued a proclamation setting apart Education Week. The American Legion is particularly interested in Education Week inasmuch as it was a commission from this organization that first started Education Week, in 1921. The Legion, in sponsoring Education Week, does so with the cooperation of the National Education Association and the United States Office of Education. Your committee was active this year in organizing meetings. Every county superintendent and each Legion Post was contacted by the Chairman of the Committee. The members of the committee each took the responsibility of contacting the schools in the counties in their Congressional District. From reports, it seems that over half the counties in Alabama participated 100 percent, that is, every school in the county put on a special program.

The second objective was meeting the present Educational crisis and the continuance of the public schools for seven months during the current year. It seemed that the only way of doing this was to get federal aid. The Chairman of your ommittee contacted all Congressman, Presidents of the A. E. A. and P.-T. A., former Governor Miller, and Governor Graves, concerning the Legion stand on this matter. Letters were received from practically all the Congressmen stating that they would do everything in their power to assist. A few days later one of the Congressmen, who had written at length concerning his desire to do all possible, was responsible for wiring Governor Miller to make the request that was made to the Federal Relief Commission. The members of the committee also contacted the representative from their District and held special community meetings. This objective has not been entirely maintained. Your committee is still taking action.

The third objective is that of placing education on a legal parity with other state services. There is a story of a young man who, in writing to his girl, told her how much he loved her and that he would go through fire and other things for her. He added a postscript to the letter as follows: "P. S. I will be over tonight if it doesn't rain." Education has been getting lots of promises. The practice has been that of making appropriations for Education which sound as if the schools had been taken care of. Unfortunately, little provision has been made for raising money to meet these appropriations. This condition has brought about the deplorable status we have at present. For the past two or three years we have been faced with the closing down of our public schools. You have set as a mandate to your committee that an amendment could be made to the Constitution of Alabama providing that Education should be placed on an equal basis with other state services. Our capable Commander, W. L. Pritchard, the Legislative Committee with the leadership of Dick Rives, is assisting us in this. Your committee is going to do everything possible to carry out this mandate.

Farmers May Sign Peanut Contracts Until January 25th

The final day for Alabama peanut growers to join in the government's 1935 peanut production control program is January 25, according to Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension service representative, who is helping farmers and county agents with the peanut sign-up work.

Any grower, regardless of the county in which he lives, is eligible to sign a contract, he said. The producer who signs a contract will receive benefit payments of not less than $8.00 per ton on all the peanuts harvested in 1934 on the farm covered by the contract, or $2.00 per acre on the 1935 allotted acres, whichever is the greater.

Producers wishing to take advantage of the peanut program are advised to see their county agents as there will be no canvassing, the program being entirely voluntary.

JANUARY TERM OF COURT OPENS HERE

Judge Lamar Field, of Anniston, Alabama, opened the January term of the Circuit Court in Columbiana on Monday morning, recently elected Judge W. W. Wallace being disqualified on account of former interest in all the cases set for trial during the Civil week.

Judge Field, some years ago, served the state of Alabama in the capacity of Attorney General, later moving to Anniston, Alabama, where he engaged in the practice of his legal profession until the last election, when his district elevated him to the position of Judge of the 7th Judicial Circuit.

Judge Wallace will hold the Criminal week of the court, which begins on January 28th.

Many Brier Patches Would Make Good Pastures — Lowery

AUBURN, Ala. — Thousands of acres of Alabama land now covered with bushes and briers would make profitable pastures, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, who says that "a good pasture furnishes cheaper feed than any other crop on the farm."

"Fortility and moisture are the two chief requirements of a pasture soil. Dry, poor upland soils are not suitable for pasture," he warns.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL MEET FRIDAY, JAN. 25TH

The Democrat has been asked to announce that the American Legion Auxiliary will meet Friday afternoon at 3:00 p. m., in the courthouse.

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN, Calera, Alabama

For the first time in the history of the school, Thompson High is sponsoring a track team. The boys began training early for the coming State Track Meet to be held sometime during the early spring. So far only a few boys have responded to the call for team candidates, but a larger crew is expected to be out after the basketball season is over. The boys that have already reported include Steele Hodges, R. E. Lee, Edward Roy and Willie Thomason for the 1-2 mile run; Bobby Lacy and Eldridge Siddon for the 100 yard dash; Earl Williams, Hillman Davidson, and Roland Kirkland for the broad jump. The other positions of the team have not yet been filled but are expected to be in full force during the coming weeks.

Thompson High School basketball team invaded the courts of Jemison High School, Thursday night for their first game with the Jemison boys. The Jemison boys started a rally in the first quarter and continued thru a good portion of the game. T. Cobb played an outstanding game for Jemison while the Lee brothers, R. E. and Pat, starred for Siluria.

Summary and line-up:

Jemison (30)—T. Cobb (10) and J. Cobb (5), forwards; R. Ellison (1), center; C. Ellison (6) and J. Busby (4), guards; Davenport (2), Littleton (2) and Davis, substitutes.

Thompson (7)—Pat Lee (3) and Hines, forwards; R. E. Lee (3) and Oldham, guards; Kirkland (1), center; Davidson and Garrett, subs.

Calera (23)—Harris (6) and Milstead (2), forwards; Aldridge (1), center; Parker (5) and Findley (9), guards; Lucas as a sub.

Thompson (11)—Mullins (6) and Pat Lee, forwards; Kirkland, center; R. E. Lee (1) and Oldham, guards; Hodges (4), substitute.

State Farmers Need More Homegrown Fruits, Says Brown

Among nature's greatest foods are fresh fruits, a good assortment of which can be grown on every farm in Alabama, declares Julian Brown, extension horticulturist.

"Many farms are not producing sufficient fruits for home use because the trees and plants are not given the necessary attention," he advises. "This is particularly true of such fruits as peaches, apples, and pears."

Mr. Brown says there are a number of so-called "small fruits" which can be grown in the home garden and round the farm home with practically no cost and with a minimum of effort. "Of the small fruits the dewberries, strawberries, muscadine grapes and figs will prove most productive and can be most easily grown. The berries may well be grown in the garden, while the scuppernongs and figs should be planted around the farm buildings if arrangements will permit."

M. F. JACKSON SAYS STATE CONSUMERS NEED BETTER CORN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—"Thousands of bushels of corn are shipped into Birmingham each year from the West, due to the fact that the Birmingham mills are unable to procure their requirements of graded corn from Alabama," reports Dr. M. F. Jackson, farm produce agent, Birmingham, Alabama.

"If the farmers of Alabama will exercise more care in selecting their seed, growing either yellow or white corn and not allowing the varieties to become mixed, they will realize a better price for their product," he says.

"I hope that every farmer who contemplates growing corn for the market this year will consult his county agent as to the best variety to grow. The agent will also give instructions as to the prevention of weevil infestation."

Dr. Jackson also advises that "there is also a splendid market in our larger cities for California blackeye peas, provided they are free of weevils. Many thousands of bushels are shipped into our larger consuming centers each year from far distant states that could be grown on our farms in Alabama."

POLL TAX MUST BE PAID BY FEB. 1ST

Only a few more days remain for voters of Shelby County, subject to poll tax, to pay the current year's tax of $1.50. The deadline for this expenditure is February 1st.

The writer understands that the Prohibition Referendum, is causing heavy payment of poll tax. The date for this has been tentatively set for February 26th.

Revenue received from the payment of poll tax goes to the support of the schools in the county. It is doubly important that you attend to this matter promptly.

UNDER THE COURTHOUSE DOME

M. W. W.

Circuit Court opened on Monday morning at ten o'clock with Judge Lamar Field presiding. The Rev. H. M. Hurst offered invocation, after which Judge Field was introduced by P. O. Luck. Quickly organizing the Grand Jury, the guest-Judge from the 7th Judicial Circuit began the routine for Civil Week.

Among the new officials who made their initial appearances in their respective capacities, were: Calvin Weldon, Clerk of the Circuit Court; Charles R. Sparks, Register; Claude Fore, Sheriff; Henry Naish, Treasurer; L. C. Walker, Probate Judge; President J. M. Lyon, of the Board of Revenue. All were noted circulating Under The Dome.

February 1st is the last day you will have to pay your Poll Tax!

Prominent among the visitors to Columbiana this week were: Dr. J. W. Snow, of Helena; Tom Lee, of Pelham; Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hines, of Siluria; Sam Elliott, of Harpersville; G. A. Stewart, Mayor, of Wilsonville; J. A. Spearman, of Wilsonville; Cecil Cowart, of Calera; W. B. Blevins, of Calera; J. F. McGraw, of Vincent; Melvin Snow, of Boothton; Guy L. Chamberlain, of Boothton; J. W. Naish, of Helena; Alonza Brasher, of Chelsea; L. P. Godwin, of Shelby and Charlie Hines, of Helena.

The Board of Registrars are in session this week, and will be here for the purpose of registering voters-to-be, through Friday.

The Grand Jury is in session, Circuit Solicitor Arthur L. Hardegree in charge. Ed Holliday, of Dunnavant, is Foreman and J. P. Pearson, Bailiff.

RAILROAD SAFETY RALLY AT CALERA SET FOR JAN. 25TH

CALERA, Ala.—Railroad employes of Calera, Alabama, and vicinity, will hold a safety rally at the Junior High School Auditorium, starting at 8:00 p. m., Friday evening, January 25, according to R. N. Griffin, Agent, who is chairman for the occasion. An outstanding feature of the meeting will be the reception by radio of addresses by two railroad presidents, James B. Hill, of the Louisville & Nashville, and Fitzgerald Hall, of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis. The addresses which are to be broadcast at 8:00 p. m., will be interspersed with musical numbers.

The two railroad presidents will make their addresses from the War Memorial building in Nashville thru the facilities of Radio Station WSM. Prior to the broadcast a one-act safety drama will be presented on the stage of the Nashville War Memorial for several thousand employes of the L. & N. and N. C. & St. L. Railroads and their friends.

Local meetings similar to the one in Calera, Alabama, are to be held at more than a hundred places on the two railroads. Each meeting will be provided with a radio set by local representatives of the National Life and Accident Insurance Company, through whose radio facilities the broadcast is being made.

Last year a similar broadcast was made and letters were received from listeners in all parts of the United States and Canada, voicing approval of the program. The railroaders are inviting their families and friends to tune in on WSM (650 kilocycles) at 8:00 p. m., January 25, to enjoy this year's program with them.

Reduction of injuries to railroad employes is the primary purpose of the broadcast. Last year, Mr. Hill, then president of the N. C. & St. L. Railway, challenged the Louisville & Nashville to a contest in 1934 to determine which road could reduce employe injuries by the greater percentage. The N. C. St. L. Railway won the contest by having reduced injuries to employes by 51.4 per cent.

Dr. T. Fred Cooper Will Preach Here, Sunday, January 27

The Methodist pulpit will be occupied Sunday morning by Dr. T. Fred Cooper, Presiding Elder of the Anniston District. The First Quarterly Conference will be held at the conclusion of the service.

The Pastor will preach at seven o'clock.

SUMMER HILL CHURCH TO HOLD "CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN", JAN. 30TH

SUMMER HILL, Ala.—The members of the Summer Hill Church are requested to meet on the grounds on January 30th, for the purpose of a "Clean-Up Campaign". Services will be held in the church during the day, and there will be "dinner on the ground" if the weather permits. At any rate, ladies are asked to bring lunch-baskets well filled. (Signed) Committee.

COMMUNITY SINGING SET FOR SATURDAY NITE AT WILSONVILLE

WILSONVILLE, Ala.—The Democrat has been asked to announce that there will be a Community Singing at the City Hall in Wilsonville, on Saturday night, January 26th. Come and bring your books every body.

Marshall Wolf, Chairman.

J. R. McGRAW APPOINTED POSTMASTER OF VINCENT

VINCENT, Ala.—J. R. McGraw, prominent merchant of Shelby County, received the appointment Saturday, January 19, as Postmaster for Vincent, Alabama. Mr. McGraw succeeds G. T. Harris, who was appointed Acting Postmaster several months ago.

Bill Tilden has played tennis for more than 20 years?

Heart Drifts

"RITUAL FOR DREAMERS".

Guard well the dream. Let no conspiring day,
No hour of triumph quench the hesitant spark
Of beauty within the mind that seeks its way
Like a slow flame that struggles out of dark.
Cherish the dream. Hold to that name less joy
That children capture on a sunlit hill.
A thousand hands are striving to destroy;
Defend each door with all your strength and will.
Remember, all the glory, all the power,
Someday shall be as chaff within the hand;
Guard well the vision. Then, some distant hour,
When fools bewildered, empty-hearted, stand,
You shall walk down the morning streets of time,
Clad in your princely robes of song and rime.

—(Contributed)

PENITENCE.

I beg you to forget the unruly tongue
That stabbed you keenly as a ruthless sword.
Forget the delirious, unhallowed word
That pain from out of dark defeat had wrung.
Cherish the filament of hours strung
Across a day like meadows pinafored
With daisies, reckless that their golden hoard
Is early spilled, their brief hosanna sung.
My love is far too mellow now to chide you,
Or judge your errant ways. If punishment
Must be your portion, let the gods deride you.
I only ask to stand uncensured beside you,
A fertile field—a heart grown penitent—
To sow a star when all the tears are spent.

—(Contributed)

WHENEVER YOU WELCOME THE HOUR.

Farewell! But whenever you welcome the hour
That awakens the night song of mirth in your bower,
Then think of the friend who once welcomed it too,
And forgot his own griefs to be happy with you.
His griefs may return, not a hope remain,
Of the few that have brightened his pathway of pain,
But he ne'er will forget the short vision that threw
Its enchantment around him, while lingering with YOU.

—(Contributed)

LITTLE THINGS.

A cup of water timely brought,
An offered easy chair.
A turning of the window blind
That all may feel the air.

An early violet unasked bestowed,
A light and cautious tread,
A voice to softest whispers hushed
To spare an aching head.

Oh, these are things—though little things,
The purest love disclose.
As fragrant atoms of the air
Reveal the hidden rose.

—(Unknown)

"FORGET THEE"?

"Forget thee?", if to dream by night,
and muse on thee by day,
If all the worship deep and wild a poet's heart can pay,
If prayers in absence breathed for thee to Heaven's protecting power,
If winged thoughts that flit to thee, a thousand in an hour,
If busy fancy blending thee with all my future lot,
If this thou call'st "FORGETTING", thou, indeed, shalt be forgot"!

Kiddies' Kolumn

Hi—Kiddies make way for the New Year Baby's greeting:

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 15, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I am writing you to tell you that I am proud to have the honor of being the New Year Baby for 1935, because I will get the Democrat for one year, and I think it is the best paper printed.

You made a mistake about my name last week. I did not get here in time to be named Andrew Jackson Walton, Jr., and I am glad of it, because I think I have a much prettier name.

Your friend through all the years to come, Frederic Moore Walton.

(I agree with you little one about your name. It is beautiful and I hope to meet you one day soon. I'll bet you are just as handsome as a picture, and the "sweetest li'l fellow anybody knows).

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 14, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I am a little boy from the Kingdom School. I am 8 years old and in the 3rd grade. My teacher's name is Miss Reba Bentley. I am named for my grand-daddy Crumpton, almost everyone calls him "Uncle Lank".

When I am grown, I am going to be a rock-ribbed DEMOCRAT just like him so watch me grow.

Your friend, Ingram.

Now thats the kind of letter I like—the kind of a boy I like and the kind of a DEMOCRAT I love! A rock-ribbed one—nothing like 'em! Keep a growin' Ingram—I'll meet you at the polls! Thanks for your letter. M. W. W.

(Many features had to be cut short this week on account of last minute advertising matter. We regret this Kiddies and "grown-ups", but we will be right here—next week. M. W. W.)

News Review of Current Events the World Over

World Court Adherence Proposal Sidetracked in Senate—President's Social Security Plan Arouses Storm of Discussion.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

RATIFICATION of the world court protocols received a setback when Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican, California, bitterly denounced such action as a "back door entry" to the League of Nations, and senate leaders rather than risk an immediate vote, delayed definite action.

Sen. Hiram Johnson

Senator Johnson's attack came on the heels of a special message to the senate from President Roosevelt who asked for early ratification of the protocols. It was the most determined movement yet made to put the United States into the court.

Other senators, it is said, were ready to follow Johnson's lead, particularly Senator Borah, long time foe of the court.

Johnson supported his opening attack on the court by offering four embarrassing reservations to the resolution of ratification:

1. Prohibit the court from entertaining jurisdication on any question relating wholly or in part to its internal affairs.

2. Permit recourse to the court only by agreement through general or special treaties between the parties in dispute.

3. Prohibit the court and the league of nations from trying to assume jurisdiction on any question which depends upon or relates to the Monroe Doctrine.

4. Declare the United States, by joining the court, assumes no obligations.

Through Johnson's action, these questions must be voted upon before a final vote can be reached on the resolution of adherence.

Although the question has been sidetracked for a time, it will be brought up soon, it is said, and Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, has stated that he was confident of ratification when the final test comes.

THE third phase of testimony presented by the state in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged with the murder of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's son, has begun. Eight handwriting experts called by the prosecution have completed their testimony, each declaring that in his opinion, the dour ex-carpenter was author of the ransom notes, and the state now moves on to the story of finding the tiny corpse in a shallow grave in the woods near Hopewell, N. J., two months and twelve days after the kidnaping on the night of March 1, 1932. Following this, the story of how Hauptmann was captured last September through identification of one of the gold certificates which made up the ransom, will be told.

Eight men, who have qualified with the court as experts, have declared that Hauptmann penned the ransom notes. Photographic enlargements of the notes and of Hauptmann's admitted writings have been shown in the court, and each peculiarity of each character has been carefully gone over.

Defense lawyers have fought each scrap of testimony bit by bit. An attempt has been made to show that some one might have forged Hauptmann's handwriting in an effort to throw suspicion on him, but this has been vigorously refuted by witnesses who have been firm in their assertions that only the prisoner could have been the author.

An attempt to forestall efforts of the defense to pin the crime on Isador Fisch, furrier, who died in Germany, is being made by New Jersey officials. Pinkus Fisch, brother of Isador, his wife, Czerna; his sister, Hannah, and Fisch's nurse, Minne Steingnitz, have been brought from Germany to testify. Pinkus has asserted his belief that his brother is not guilty.

THE Saar will be returned to Germany on March 1, a special committee of the League of Nations has decided. The proposal will be submitted to Berlin at once. Opposition to this proposal is expected, since the reich originally demanded the basin's return formally on or before February 15.

Another difficulty arises over France's demand that Article 42 of the Versailles treaty establishing a demilitarized zone should be applied to the Saarland. This would ban Nazi storm troops and Brown Shirts from the territory after its return. Compliance of this demand would be an admission from Germany that the Brown Shirts are a semi-military organization, and this Berlin has long denied in computing her military strength.

Germany won an overwhelming victory in the plebiscite held to determine the wishes of the inhabitants of the rich Saar basin as to the future status of that territory. The complete vote as announced by the commission was: for return to Germany 477,119, for annexation to France 2,124, and to return to present status under League of Nations control 46,513. Their margin of victory exceeded the hopes of even the most optimistic Nazi leaders.

Love of the fatherland won over antipathy to Hitler principles in influencing the voters. The Saarlanders in voting to return to reich rule exchange their personal and political liberties for the regimentation of a dictatorship with its curb on the press, free speech and individualism.

GENERAL REVISION of air mail rates to prevent possible destruction of commercial aviation has been recommended by the bureau of air mail of the Interstate Commerce commission. An investigation conducted by the bureau discloses that most of the routes are being operated at substantial losses, and rate increases were recommended on 19 routes. Rates on one route would remain unchanged, and 11 others would be decreased, if the recommendations are carried out.

The proposed new increases range up from nine cents per mile for poundage not to exceed 300 pounds per mile, while the reductions ranged as high as 13.5 cents per mile. Operation losses of $1,757, 993.39 were shown in tables submitted by the 31 existing operating companies, and it was pointed out that the industry would be endangered if the contractors were forced to continue operating at tremendous losses.

THE most far-flung innovation the New Deal has proposed thus far—the "social security plan" proposed by President Roosevelt—has aroused a storm of discussion. Administration adherents greeted the scheme with wild enthusiasm, while the opposition, led by Senator Borah, Idaho, has voiced vigorous criticisms.

President Roosevelt

All business in congress has been sidetracked to permit immediate action on the proposed measure. Public hearings have already been started in the senate finance committee, and the house ways and means committee has postponed consideration of the bonus bill to work on the security plan. This is being done at the President's behest. The plan provides:

Flexible, but compulsory unemployment insurance under a federal-state system restricted to workers and financed by a 3 per cent tax on pay rolls after January 1, 1938. The government will aid in bearing administration costs, and the treasury will handle the fund. Ninety per cent of the pay roll tax is to be refunded to employers who contributed to state unemployment plans. A maximum of $15 a week of compensation to begin four weeks after the worker loses his job and to last for not more than sixteen weeks is contemplated.

The second part of the plan provides for old-age pensions. The government is to co-operate with the states and pay a maximum of $30 a month to persons over sixty-five. The national government is also to aid states in formulating a plan for persons under sixty-five which will be financed jointly by employer and employee through a pay roll tax; the funds to be handled by the federal government; the amount of pensions to be a percentage of the employee's wage; with non-manual employees receiving more than $250 a month to be exempt from the plan.

The third section of the scheme provides for appropriations to give better facilities to caring for mothers, and dependent and crippled children, and the fourth section would furnish larger appropriations for public health aid, investigation and research.

Cost of the entire program to the federal government will be $100,000,000 next year and $200,000,000 in succeeding years. The cost to the states will be $75,000,000 next year and $150,000,000 in succeeding years. Some idea of the size of the plan may be gained from the report of the President's cabinet which said reserves for old-age pensions must be maintained after some years at $15,250,000,000.

ONE of the most spectacular prison breaks in history was effected when four convicts in the San Quentin (Calif.) state prison overpowered two guards, slugged the warden unconscious, kidnaped six hostages including four members of the state prison board, and fled in a state owned automobile. The felons were captured two hours later 54 miles from the prison after a running gun fight wth prison guards and posses. One of the convicts was wounded, as were two of the hostages.

Trouble has been expected at San Quentin, where some 6,000 prisoners are housed in space designed for only 3,000. Unrest has been evident for some time, especially since it became necessary to put more than one man in each cell. Only 190 guards have been regularly employed.

EXTENSION of life of the Reconstruction Finance corporation for two years will be asked, informed congressmen assert. The RFC's authority to make loans expires on January 31. It is rumored that the extension will include a proviso permitting the President to put the organization out of business by proclaiming the emergency ended at the conclusion of one year.

The extension plan may also carry a section doubling the length of time for maturity of loans the RFC may make. The present limit is five years. It is also said that the RFC may be permitted to extend instead of renew existing loans providing value of security is unchanged.

THE final fate of NRA seems to be up to the President. Reports from the capital say the National Industrial Recovery board, successor to Gen. Hugh Johnson, who asserts NRA is "as extinct as the dodo," has avoided a direct recommendation that the institution be made permanent. Since this was evidently done with the approval of the President, the future of the Blue Eagle seems to be somewhat clouded.

Donald Richberg

The board, of which Donald Richberg is chairman, pointed out three possible courses which the President can follow. The first course would be to make NRA permanent, but in simplified form. Under this plan, every industry would have to go under a code fixing wage and hour limits and prohibiting child labor. Trade practice provisions would be entirely voluntary. In rare cases where price fixing is employed, the government, not the industry, would fix the price.

The second course would be to extend the NRA as it now stands, but for a limited period. Unless legislation of this kind is enacted, the act will expire automatically on June 16. The third course would amend and extend the NRA.

Most members of the board, it is said, prefer the "permanent" plan which would broaden the government's regulation of business. No industry would escape the wage and hour codes. Today many industries, among them the telephone, telegraph, and tobacco industries, are not under trade codes, since these have not been able to agree on terms. The present law permits the President to impose a code only when an industry refuses to submit voluntarily, such as in the case of the cotton garment industry.

Observers are not at all sure the President wants a permanent code. Several uncertainties have made it difficult for the President to decide, one of which is the status of section 7a, the collective bargaining clause.

A NUMBER of important issues await the League of Nations as it convenes at Geneva on its fifteenth birthday. Five major disputes will come before the body, of which the Saar plebiscite, involving as it does the disposition of the future national allegiance of that rich territory, holds most immediate interest.

Other decisions which await action of the league include: the dispute between Iraq and Persia over alleged border violations by the latter; the border conflict between Italy and Ethiopia; the Greek complaint that Greek minorities in Albania are being deprived of their guaranteed rights; and the long war in the Chaco Boreal between Bolivia and Paraguay.

FIRST legislation to be put through the house of representatives was completed as the $779,916,000 independent offices appropriation bill was passed in virtually the same form as recommended by the appropriations committee. The amount for the securities and exchange commission was increased to $2,000,000. Efforts of Representative Blanton of Texas to reduce the $264,043 for the home loan bank board and of Representative Taber, New York, to cut down the appropriation for the federal communications commission were defeated.

Signs of gathering storms were seen, however, as Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, chairman of the house interstate commerce committee, declared on the floor that he would not support a bill to place production of oil under government control. Emergency legislation to supplant control measures invalidated by the recent decision of the United States Supreme court will undoubtedly be proposed, and Rayburn's declaration is seen as an indication that opposition may develop.

SWEDEN, apparently, has found a way to beat the depression. King Gustave in his annual message to parliament, reported that solution of the problem of unemployment appears near, the budget is balanced without new taxes having been imposed or new loans floated, and the national debt will be reduced this year. Only 60,000,000 kroner (about $15,000,000) has been asked for unemployment relief, as compared to 160,000,000 kroner last year.

IMPROVED conditions among corn belt farmers are indicated by a federal report which shows a gain of $82,989,592, or more than 30 cents a bushel for each borrower, has been realized by farmers in 10 states who availed themselves of the government 45-cent corn loans. Only slightly more than $500,000 of the $120,492,259 remains unpaid. About 18,000,000 bushels are under seal under the new 55-cent price, report states.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—A drive against "rackets" in so-called protective committees of stock or bondholders of corporations, especially those in receiverships, is about to begin as an altogether unexpected development of the securities and exchange commission activities.

Every investor has realized for some time that there were grave abuses in these committees, that they ran up fees and charges even when they were legitimate, and that all too often their main purpose was to be bought off by those really trying to revamp the corporation in the interest of the stockholders.

So far there is no indication that the commission is going any further, but its reports to congress, which will be made in a few months, will, according to very reliable sources, at least start a move—whether it gets very far or not—at doing something about the high cost of receiverships.

For the present the commission is aiming chiefly at men who have made practically a business of getting unthinking stock and bondholders, already faced with the prospect of losing part of their investments, to go into moves which benefitted the operators, but in the long run only increased the loss of the investors.

The next logical step, senators familiar with the plan declare, is to go after the perfectly exorbitant legal and other fees being charged for administering financially crippled organizations.

One senator cited a case where a hotel property is being administered by three lawyers, no one of whom ever had any experience in the hotel business, but who are being paid $10,000 a year each for their services in directing this property's operations. Actually, of course, no one of the three devotes very much time to the actual operation of the hotel.

Hits Bondholder

The point this senator emphasized is: what chance does a stock or bondholder have of getting anything when a property, already crippled or it would not be in receivership, has this additional load put upon it?

More to the point is the case of an office building where two lawyers, after performing a very minor legal service for one of the bondholders' protective committees, sent bills for $15,000 each! It so happens that if this particular office building had possessed $30,000 at the time—just the total of this lawyers' bill—it would not have had to go into receivership at all! And it so happens that there are several other "protective" committees operating at the moment in behalf, allegedly, of the bondholders of this particular enterprise.

"The trouble about anything permanent being done," the senator remarked, "is that there are too many lawyers in congress. I happen to be one myself, but the fact is—and if you quote me by name I will deny I even had such a thought—the boys do stick together. And the judges who appoint receivers and who pass on the fees of attorneys for protective committees, are all lawyers. I do not know just what ought to be done about it, but certainly it has approached the stage of a scandal. And beyond the shadow of a doubt the property of investors who are unfortunate enough to have put their money in enterprises which get into receiverships, is actually looted by the present system. I hope that what the securities commission starts will bear fruit."

New Dealers Fussed

New Dealers are torn between pride and alarm over the action of New York state electric companies in proposing a substantial reduction in rates. They are proud that President Roosevelt's policy of doing everything possible to lessen the cost of electricity to consumers is meeting with such success. They are a little alarmed as to what these particular cuts in this particular territory may do to the fight approaching in the senate over ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty.

Not that the votes of the New York senators are involved. Both of them are strongly against the treaty, and are expected to stand firmly against it regardless of the power question. Their concern is with the port of New York, and the railroads leading through New York state to it, and with the Erie canal. The question of cheaper power is very mild in importance indeed to them in contrast with the threat to the prosperity of their big port and the communication lines leading to it.

But this cut in power rates in New York state, presupposing further cuts later on, hits a very serious blow at the project as a whole, so to speak. It makes far more difficult the problem of convincing other parts of the United States that the whole scheme is economically sound.

At present there are two sections of the country arrayed against each other on this treaty, for local reasons. All of the Atlantic and Gulf seaboards are against it for the same reason that New York is against it. Most of the Central and Northwestern states are for it on the theory that it would provide cheaper freight rates for their export products by letting ocean going ships come into the Great Lakes.

Illinois is an exception. Its geographic position would naturally make it for the treaty just as Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota are for it. The canal would make Chicago virtually an ocean port. But this is complicated by the fact that Illinois and Chicago want to take more water out of Lake Michigan. And President Roosevelt has not the slightest intention of giving in to Illinois on this.

Might Be Liability

This leaves the Southwest and the Pacific coast not directly interested one way or the other except as the project may tend to prove an additional burden on their taxpayers. And there is where the possibilities of these rate cuts already planned, and those obviously in prospect, come into the picture.

For they mean that the current produced by the St. Lawrence seaway project may actually turn from what has been regarded as an asset, in consideration of the project as an economic whole, into a liability. It is even conceivable that the President may lose some of his keen interest in the project, though he has said nothing to indicate this.

But if the proposed cuts of electric rate are followed shortly by such a program of future cuts as has been suggested, actually the chief reason for his being so strong for the treaty will have disappeared. He has never said so—publicly—but all his close friends know that since the beginning of his interest in the project his chief concern was not the seaway to make cheaper freight rates to Europe for the Middle and Northwest, but the power. It was part and parcel of his plan for forcing down electric rates all over the country.

He never said so for the simple reason that the St. Lawrence seaway has been a very popular issue—as a seaway, not a hydroelectric scheme—in the Middle and Northwest for many years. But the fact stands out that unless he pulls wires with really extraordinary success, the treaty will be defeated again this year. And he may just content himself with a strong public appeal, perhaps a vigorous message, favoring the treaty, instead of turning on the heat in private, which is the only way the thing can possibly be gotten through the senate.

President Optimistic

President Roosevelt is much more optimistic about the financial future of this government, providing he can hold the bonus compromise down to a reasonable figure, than either his budget message or his explanations of it to newspaper men, senators and members of the house indicate.

To begin with, there is a $4,000,000,000 "kitty," to use his own word in conversations about it. Only he does not speak of $4,000,000,000—he speaks of $2,000,000,000. Which is another indication of how his mind is working. For it will be recalled that in each of his budget messages he has gone out of his way to put the worst foot forward, the aim always being to be able to make the picture look better—by contrast—at some future date.

As a matter of fact, had his strategy been of a different variety—had he been trying to make the financial picture look rosy instead of dark with doubt—he could have painted a rather optimistic picture. Instance: He could have made a fair calculation, say somewhere from 50 cents to 90 cents on the dollar, of the debts owed the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Actually the corporation expects a net profit when it finally winds up. This would have deducted a few billions from the total apparent debt to be reduced by the government by the end of the fiscal year 1936—or July 1, 1937.

He could have used the $4,000,000,000 "kitty" as another offset. This "kitty" consists of $2,000,000,000 profit made on the revaluation of gold, and $2,000,000,000 additional in the equalization fund, which was voted by congress, and is being administered in absolute secrecy by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Profit in Silver

Experts who have tried to figure, without inside information which is not obtainable, all agree that there is a considerable profit already. On the silver purchase, for example. Some estimate it as being more than half a billion dollars profit right now, without calculating any further advance in the price of silver.

But the President did not want to make the budget statement any more optimistic than he could help. He wanted as blue a picture as possible for two reasons.

One is that the more rosy the budget outlook, the greater difficulty he would have restraining the bonus seekers. That is fairly obvious. It fits in with his direct threat that if congress boosts the expenditures proposed in the budget in any substantial particular, congress must provide the money by imposing additional taxation.

The other, and in a way the more important, is for the effect at some time in the future. There will be another budget message one year from now, which will be in the year of a Presidential election. If things should not be so rosy for the administration at that time as they are now, it might be very helpful to present a more optimistic picture to the country.

This is not, however, a part of the present strategy. Roosevelt is looking further ahead than that. He is concerned, not about the election of 1936, for in the judgment of Republicans as well as Democrats as far as can be told now, there is nothing to concern him in that, but with the future. He does not want to jeopardize the reforms the New Deal is working. He wants it to look as bright as possible on the eve of 1940, when a new administration will be elected. He wants the country to be thoroughly won to the New Deal then.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

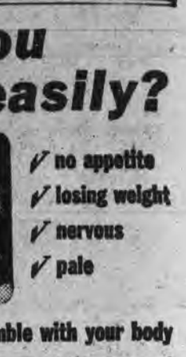
OH, WAITER!

Customer—"Will the spaghetti I ordered be long?" Waitress—"We never measure it, sir."

Do you tire easily?

✓ no appetite
✓ losing weight
✓ nervous
✓ pale

then don't gamble with your body



Why not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." That's not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low ... and this, perhaps, is what makes you feel weak.

If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference S.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

S.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary in blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin up-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition. © S.S.S. Co.

You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

S.S.S. TONIC

TEN QUARTS VICHY WATER made with Dupre' Powders, 50 cents any part United States. Address to DUMAR CORP., 1439 ST. NICHOLAS AVE., NEW YORK.

Time for Open Heart

When a friend asks, let there be no tomorrow.

STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS due to colds.

Use Mentholatum to help open the nostrils and permit freer breathing.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

NEED BUILDING-UP?

Mrs. T. E. Adams of 1205 No. Franklin St., Plant City, Fla., said: "I was in such a weakened state of health I could scarcely stand on my feet. I suffered from loss of appetite, and I was as miserable as could be—did not feel like lifting my hand to do anything. But Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery soon had me feeling fine—my appetite returned, I gained in weight and strength and was able to attend to my household duties without feeling all worn-out." All druggists.

Start the day feeling FIT and ACTIVE!

Don't let a sluggish overcrowded system hold you back. CLEANSE INTERNALLY WITH GARFIELD TEA. Get rid of the wastes that slow you up and keep you feeling run-down and inactive. Usually works within 8 to 10 hrs. MILD but prompt! At drug stores 25c & 10c.

FREE SAMPLE! Write to GARFIELD TEA CO. Dept. 14 Brooklyn, N. Y.

GARFIELD TEA

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering impurities from the blood stream. But kidneys get functionally disturbed—lag in their work—fail to remove the poisonous body wastes.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains; feel "all worn out."

Don't delay! For the quicker you get rid of these poisons, the better your chances of good health.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They tend to promote normal functioning of the kidneys; should help them pass off the irritating poisons. Doan's are recommended by users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

WNU—8 4—35

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION ENCLOSE STAMP JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KANS.

GOLDEN DAWN

By PETER B. KYNE

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment. Details of Nance's escape are made public.

CHAPTER V—Continued

—11—

"Nance had no right to be there," the man protested to McNamara. "The poor kid's queer." He tapped his forehead. "But she framed a sweet getaway, if it would work, and we figured it might. So we thought we'd give the girl a hand. She's all right. I've got a blind brother that would have starved to death if it hadn't been for Nance Belden; as for the man the doctor's working over now, Nance took care of his wife while he was in the stir. Helped her when she had a baby. Chief, that girl's a saint. The only trouble with her is that she's a devil, too. You never know how to figure her."

"You've figured her right. She's queer. And what's your wounded friend been doing since he got out of stir? What did he get in for?"

"He got in for bootlegging and he's been bodyguard for a boss bootlegger since he got out."

"H-m-m-m! And what's your specialty?"

"I don't know what line I'll take up, Chief. I've only been out of the United States army disciplinary barracks on Alcatraz island a month. I was a soldier—and I poked an officer."

"Oh, you're the machine-gunner, eh? Learned to shoot in the army, I suppose?"

"If I hadn't, I'd have killed that guard. I could have gotten him if I cared to, but instead I scared him with overs and shorts. Did I sweep the roof of that lookout tower?"

"You certainly did—and rattled the man at the Browning gun there. Well, you're quite a fellow! What does your friend, the chauffeur, do?"

"Delivers bootleg. He took a chance for a friend."

"You may go," said Dan McNamara to the chauffeur. "Take your car and beat it. But I'll remember you and if you pull any rough stuff in this city I'll land you out in the grass. On your way."

The man fled promptly, and Dan turned to the ex-soldier. "I've got Nance out at my house," he explained. "Doctor Burt has fixed her up and I'm not going to turn her in. Neither am I going to turn her out, because she wouldn't be out two hours before she'd be picked up. That saddle nose of hers is a dead-give-away."

The man nodded lugubriously.

"We've got to find a quiet spot for your friend, too," the chief went on meditatively. "A man with three bullet holes in him is in an embarrassing fix—when he's wanted. So we'll take him out to my house, too. That's the only safe place I can think of."

"How about me?"

"You've been a soldier, so I suppose you can carry out orders?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, your orders are to come out to my house, too, and take care of your friends. The doctor will call every day and tell you what to do. And you'll have to do the cooking."

"I can do that, too. Not fancy, but they can eat it."

"All right, you've got a job and a holing-up place as well. I'll go home now and get my car and come back for you and your friend. Meanwhile don't you get cold feet and disappear. I want to talk to you some more. I want to find out all about Nance Belden, and you and your friend might be able to give a line on her."

"I don't know anything about her, Chief, except that her real name is Penelope Gatlin."

Dan McNamara clasped his corrugated brow in both hands and pondered. "Gatlin! Gatlin! Penelope Gatlin! Now, where have I run across that name in my business? I don't usually forget names, and I seem to remember I had a call once for somebody by that name or else somebody by that name called on me. It was a long time ago. I'll have to look that up—I wonder if there's anything in the files at headquarters."

It was midnight before Nance Belden's two friends were installed with her in Dan McNamara's house. Lanny looked both men over carefully and confided to the chief that she wouldn't trust either one of them as far as she could throw a bear by its tail, to which Mr. McNamara replied that one of them couldn't raise any deviltry if he wanted to, while the other dared not. Moreover, this latter was the only practical nurse he could secure. A trained nurse might talk; on the other hand this friend of Nance's had been educated to keep his mouth shut. "And a very great virtue," McNamara added. "His freedom is in my keeping and my honor is in his, so we have to trust each other. Besides, it's high time you got home."

"How about those two cops waiting for me?"

"Greet them kindly, ask them their business and invite them to talk it over before they can tell you what it is. When they tell you permit them to search your home, and be cheerful about it."

The phone rang and Dan answered it. When he rejoined Lanny he was smiling broadly. "You're a bum mopper-up," he accused. "That was Flynn, one of the detective sergeants on watch at your house. He found two drops of blood you overlooked, so he thinks you and Nance are in the house but refuse to answer the bell, and he wants permission to break in, in the name of the law. He says he can slide the latch on your front door lock like nobody's business. I told him to wait another hour and then try it, but to be careful."

Lanny's independent and belligerent nature was instantly aroused. "If I couldn't give a snooper like that cards and spades, the four aces, big and little casino, and beat him to death on the sweeps, I'd kiss a cow," she declared. "Guess I'll go home and make those big boobs feel ashamed of themselves for disturbing a lady."

"Whatever you do, be nice to them," he warned earnestly. "If you get snooty with them, Lanny, they'll just waltz you down to central station and stow you away for the night—with the excuse that the chief wants to see you. And I've decided I don't know you. If I did I'd go home with you."

He escorted Lanny out to her car enough to open your garage door, Miss Lanning, we will go out, come up your front stairs, ring the bell like gentlemen, and ask if we can't come in and have a little chat with you. Is that satisfactory?"

"Eminently so." Lanny was as polite as the speaker now. She felt for the bolt in back of her, slid it back and kicked the door open without taking her eyes or her pistol off the pair. They went out, closed both doors behind her and held them closed until she had shot the bolt home again. Then she went upstairs and let herself in just as her doorbell rang; so she switched on the lights, removed her hat and coat, went to the door and opened it. Instantly two large hands thrust two cards at her; whereupon she was aware that she was about to entertain Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and Detective Sergeant A. Angelloti.

"Good evening, gentlemen," Lanny hailed them cordially. "Come in and rest your big flat feet."

P. Flynn nodded wisely to A. Angelloti. "She resents us, Amadeo," said he.

"Oh, I hope not, Pat. Let us hope it is not us she resents but our honorable profession." The wretch bowed again. "Thank you, Miss Lanning." And both gentlemen entered.

Lanny led them down the hall to her tiny drawing room. Angelloti, like a hound, followed close behind her, but Flynn was in no hurry. He swept the runner in the hall with a flashlight first, then followed his partner into the drawing room, and sat down heavily on a divan.

"Is this to be a long interview?" Lanny asked cheerfully.

P. Flynn shook his head. "A minute or two."

"Then I'll not bother giving you anything to drink."

"Well, it might take ten minutes, at that," Flynn countered.

"At least that," Angelloti agreed. "Besides, Pat, she works for a doctor and with a flashlight examined it very carefully again for signs of blood. He found two dried splotches and wiped them away before permitting her to depart.

Then Lanny Almost Screamed. Instantly She Switched Off the Light, Got Her Little Pistol Out of Her Bag and Switched the Light on Again.

As Lanny entered the driveway and paused in front of her garage, there were no detectives in sight, although there might have been had she deemed it the part of wisdom to glance carefully about her. She unlocked the garage door, climbed back in her car, drove in, stopped the motor and switched off the lights. Then she got out, closed and locked the garage door and turned on an electric light switch on the doorpost to light her way upstairs to her kitchen.

Then she almost screamed. Two big fellows wearing soft hats were standing behind her car, gazing at her owlishly. Instantly Lanny switched off the light, got her little pistol out of her bag and switched the light on again.

"Now what do you two handsome devils want?" she demanded.

Like automatons the pair threw back their lapels and disclosed their shields. "Cops or no cops," Lanny announced, "my garage is my castle, and you can't come into it uninvited without a search warrant."

The two detectives looked at each other and Lanny realized that they appreciated her very much indeed. "She's a lawyer," said one of them.

"Not a very good one, though," the other replied. "However, Pat, let her have her own way. A woman"—the outrageous fellow bowed low—"and particularly a young and beautiful woman—with a pistol—always makes me nervous. If you will be good and her stuff is probably good old prescription goods."

"We been hours out in the cold," Flynn added sadly.

Lanny mixed her guests each a highball. P. Flynn drank half of his at a gulp, set down his glass and said: "Well, where's Nance Belden?"

"I see by the papers she escaped from San Quentin about six hours ago."

"She came here," Flynn charged.

"Prove it," Lanny challenged tartly; whereupon Flynn went out into the entrance hall and returned, dragging the end of the hall runner with him. He turned it over and revealed a large dark red spot. "Blood!" he announced.

Angelloti touched the spot. "Fresh blood!"

"Human blood," Flynn went on. "Quite a clot of it. She must have fainted after Miss Lanning let her in. Undoubtedly she lay several minutes in the hall bleeding while Miss Lanning was fixing a bed for her."

"We know she came here," Angelloti charged. "We found two spots of blood on the sidewalk."

"That settles it," Flynn declared with ponderous finality. "Miss Lanning, you have this female convict secreted in your house and I advise you to give her up. Come now, give her up," he wheedled, "and we'll just give it out that we caught her trying to get into your house during your absence. We'll protect you."

"Search my house," Lanny offered in a queer, choked voice. She loathed herself for having overlooked that large blood stain on her hall runner.

TO BE CONTINUED

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY

by Vance Wynn © Public Ledger

The Man Who Cut the Wires

SOME years ago Pittsburgh was much wrought up over the robbery of a safe belonging to the Union Express company.

One hundred thousand dollars was taken from the receptacle, and no one knew how it had been done.

The safe came into the Union station in the usual manner, locked and guarded, and was conveyed to the office of the company in the custody of armed men.

But the messenger, who was supposed to be in charge of the valuable property, could not be found.

That fact, however, gave a clew upon which the authorities were able to start an investigation.

Thomas Furlong, one of the ablest railroad detectives in the United States, was put upon the case, and the first question he asked was the name of the messenger who had charge of the safe when it left the other end of the line.

That was easily answered. The man was J. J. Bingham, not only a reliable employee, but a brother of the superintendent of the express company.

"Find Bingham," said Furlong, curtly.

He was found very readily at his home and was just as much astonished to hear of the robbery as the officials had been.

But he was able to give Furlong some significant information.

He said that he had received a telegram the day before from his brother, George Bingham, which directed him to look out for the new messenger, "J. C. Brooks."

The telegram added:

"Meet him at Templeton, en route. Turn over cash and valuables to him and take receipt for same. Then report to superintendent at Parkesburg, who will give you further orders."

Obedience to orders was ingrained in J. J. Bingham, and he did exactly what he was told to do in the telegram.

The suspicion that anything was wrong never occurred to him.

The men in the service were used to being shifted at short notice.

He did not find the superintendent at Parkesburg in his office, and had gone home to change his clothes.

The telegram was a forgery.

Detective Furlong made his decision quickly. He determined to go to Templeton to get the lay of the land.

While he was walking around the station he came across a little girl, sitting on a log.

He got into conversation with the child and she remarked that he was not the first stranger that had been in town in the last two days.

Questioned further, she said another man had been there and had torn a sheet of paper into little bits and thrown them behind the station.

By rare good fortune Furlong found the scraps of paper. He got down on his hands and knees and gathered them, and after that he went into the station, and, by the use of mucilage and a fresh sheet, managed to paste them together.

The result was a blank check on a bank at Carlisle.

But that was not all. While Furlong was doing his Sherlock Holmes act he found a little pocket telegraph instrument.

In itself it meant nothing.

In connection with other things it meant everything.

The detective hastened to Carlisle, where he continued his inquiries.

He talked to the station agent and wanted to know if there was a telegraph operator in town.

There was one by the name of Macauley and only a few days before he had been inquiring where he was likely to obtain a small instrument.

In less than a week Furlong had reconstructed the whole affair.

Macauley, a shiftless character, needed money.

He conceived the idea of robbing the express company.

Getting his telegraph instrument and ascertaining the name of the messenger who would be on duty with the safe of valuables, he had gone to a lonely spot in the wood near Kittanning.

He cut the wire and connected it with his pocket instrument.

He sent the telegram to Bingham, met him at the appointed place and then proceeded with the safe to Pittsburgh.

Having been given the keys, he opened the safe en route and rifled it of the valuables.

Then he locked it and accompanied it to the Smoky city and saw it loaded on the express wagon and started on its destination, duly guarded.

Before reaching the office he slipped away and disappeared with the loot.

The search for him went almost around the world, and he died before being brought to trial.

WNU Service.

The Bob-White

The bob-white is an American partridge bird, especially the common quail of the northern United States or the partridge of the southern section. They are about ten inches long, the lower breast and abdomen are white or buff, barred with black; the males have white throats and a white band over the eyes as well as a black crown, and bands on the upper breast and under the eyes.

LUXURY BATHING HELD AS WISE BEAUTY COURSE

In the hope of acquiring or retaining beauty, the fair sex indulges in much that is mere speculation. A luxury bath, however, is a wise investment for any woman.

"There is a healing quality about water and an inspiriting effect from exquisite physical care," writes Jeanette Eaton in The Parents' Magazine. "Work these benefits into your feeling centers before going to sleep or plunging into the maelstrom of practical existence."

The health of the skin and refreshment for all nerves are so essential to good looks and contentment that whatever else she does without, it should never be the bath crystals, powders and oils, delicately perfumed, that induce the pleasurable sensations in the bath that re-create her. All of these may be obtained at reasonable prices, one at a time, possibly, if the purse is not too bulging. In the opinion of the writer the well-ordered bath equipment includes brushes with which every bit of dirt can be scrubbed from the pores, huge towels for the rub-down and a soft bath-mat on which to stand while "polishing off."

The writer reminds her readers that faces prefer patting to any other method of treatment, and suggests that it is well to apply cold cream to special areas, as ankles, elbows and knees before taking the tub or the "daily dozen" which may precede it.

The Busy Day

Nature Teacher—"When do leaves begin to turn?" Willie—"The day before examination."

Week's Supply of Postum Free

Read the offer made by the Postum Company in another part of this paper. They will send a full week's supply of health giving Postum free to anyone who writes for it.—Adv.

Paradoxical, but True

When a bank's assets are liquid, that's when the bank's solid.

THE FIRST OF MANY

Adam was the first man to be dispossessed of his homestead.

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

(Use what Doctors do)

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for—

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Exception to Rule

A soft answer may encourage the other fellow to go on bully ragging.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

THESE PICTURES SHOW

Modern Three-Minute Way to Ease Sore Throat

1. Crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third glass of water.

2. Gargle Thoroughly — throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat. Do this twice. Do not rinse mouth.

3. If you have a cold, take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Drink full glass of water. Repeat if necessary, following directions in package.

Ease Pain, Rawness, Soreness Almost Instantly

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it.

All you do is crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in ½ glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

CUTICURA

A Pure Medicinal Soap for every member of the family

Protect your skin, as well as the tender skins of your children, by regular every-day use of a soap that does more than cleanse. Containing the soothing, healing Cuticura properties, Cuticura Soap safeguards the skin, protecting it from redness, roughness and disfiguring irritations. Best for you and baby too.

Price 25c.

Proprietors: Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Malden, Mass.

Do you lack PEP?

Are you all in, tired and run down?

WINTERSMITH'S TONIC

Will rid you of MALARIA

and build you up. Used for 65 years for Chills, Fever, Malaria and

A General Tonic

50c and $1.00 At All Druggists

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling

Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists.

Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO — Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

We have some real bargains in good used pianos, organs and radios in different counties of Alabama and will sell them cheap and on easy terms, rather than have to ship them back to Birmingham. If you need one, write us which you want, and we might have one near you and be able to save you some money. E. E. FORBES & SONS PIANO CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

G. T. ELLIOTT MERCANTILE COMPANY

In Montevallo. They have assisted in raising the standard of living among the county people by saving them many dollars on purchases made from this store. This money saved has been invested in pleasure, education and recreation that heretofore has been beyond the reach of many members of this community.

Here there are no high selling costs, no large dealers' profits, no salesmen's commissions. Due to the tremendous buying power special concessions by the manufacturer make it possible for them to put before you values that you cannot afford to overlook.

Rural residents find it particularly convenient to shop here since their stock embraces such a large number of complete lines. On shopping trips to the city one usually finds every article wanted right in this one store.

The heads of the store are business people who realize that large profits are to be made from a rapid turnover. They offer goods at low prices because they buy in immense quantities at the lowest market prices. In some instances they buy entire factory outputs. Their large sales make it possible for them to sell at a small profit.

HAYES CHEVROLET, INC.
Chevrolet Sales and Service

In Montevallo. They now offer a complete line of new cars which afford even greater quality than ever before. The public has recognized that Chevrolet represents a high standard of quality at low cost. As a result Chevrolet has become the world's largest producers of automobiles. The Chevrolet models embody quality features such as you would expect to find on cars of much higher price.

Chevrolet now offers a new automobile so sensational as to electrify the nation!

Marvelous new Fisher bodies! Performance that is a revalation to owners of even higher priced cars!

The engine of this great new car is of improved valve-in-head design Imperial six-cylinder engine; silent Syncro-Mesh shift; 80 horsepower; 75 to 85 miles an hour. Faster quieter get-away; smarter Fisher bodies; greater comfort and vision; unequalled economy. Low delivery prices and easy G. M. A. C. terms.

All Chevrolet models are finished in Duco the finish that retains its color and lustre almost indefinitely and withstands very much harder usage. Here, again, is a quality feature hitherto not found in other low-priced cars. Truly it combines beauty and comfort with the Chevrolet standard of economical transportation.

MONTEVALLO DRUG COMPANY,
Dr. Z. S. Cowart, Mgr.

This well known establishment is a very modern and thoroughly equipped drug store.

Since this well known firm has been engaged in this business its popularity has grown until it is known by practically everybody in this section and has won for itself a well merited reputation for honest and fair dealings with all its fast increasing list of names.

The first requisite of any successful business must be courtesy then quality at the right price must be offered. This has been this establishment's policy in conducting business. They have directed their efforts to the end that this store must be headquarters for anything in the apothecary line.

For the convenience of patrons they have taken on famous lines of products that are known the world over and recognized by every one as being without peer for excellence. These famous lines embrace toilet articles of every kind and household remedies that have found their way into homes of so many persons of this section.

In the prescription department only the purest drugs are used and the prices are very reasonable.

Every department of this store is most complete and the wants of the people are taken care of in a manner that is commended by all who have had business dealings with them.

MONTEVALLO GROCERY COMPANY,
Krcell Building J. A. Brown, Mgr.

Take your basket here when you wish to have it completely filled with the best grades of food. They keep the grocery well stocked with staple and fancy groceries as well as fresh fruits and vegetables in season.

At this popular grocery and food store you will find only the most wholesome and nationally known lines of provisions.

Buy it at this grocery, is a fitting slogan for all people who wish to keep their food bill at the lowest possible figure. At this day and age the modern grocery store is more than just a grocery store. It is a store where you get good groceries and the very best of foods at all times, their slogan is, we spend with those who spend with us. When you buy it at this grocery you save money and why? For the well-known fact that a grocery is operated on a smaller margin of profit than any other line of business. And for this reason they must turn their stock five or more times a year, thus insuring fresh goods at all times of the year.

This local grocery is one of the vital elements in the health and prosperity of this section. Their motto is Service and Quality First, so the next time you are tempted to send to distant cities for your supplies, just stop to think, when you spend your money that far away it is used to develop the distant cities and makes your own property less valuable. Money spent at home tends to create the community spirit, and a percentage of this dollar thusly spent will actually come back to you in some form or another.

Hectic Days Sleepless Nights

Miss Currier relieved of nervous days and sleepless nights.

IF YOU are nervous today, you probably will not sleep well tonight. If you don't sleep well tonight, you will probably be nervous tomorrow.

Don't allow yourself to become nervous. Take Dr. Miles Nervine. It will relax your tense nerves and let you get a good night's sleep.

Irritability, Restlessness, Sleeplessness, often lead to Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion, Hysteria—sometimes to a nervous breakdown and organic trouble.

Some of the people, whose letters are printed below, were as nervous as you are—possibly more so—yet they have found relief.

Christene Lanier finds Nervine best nerve medicine she ever used.

Three years ago I was so nervous I could not bear to go out in company and could not sleep nights. A friend recommended Dr. Miles Nervine. I now enjoy myself thoroughly and sleep every night. Miss Juliette Currier, New Market, N. H.

I have used Dr. Miles Nervine in liquid form and find it the best medicine for the nerves I have ever used. Christene Lanier, Middleton, Tennessee

Miss Redman takes Dr. Miles Nervine whenever she feels restless.

Whenever I have over-indulged and feel restless I take one or two Nervine Tablets just before I retire. In the morning when I awake I feel like a new person and can go about my work as usual. Dr. Miles Nervine Tablets quiet your nerves, brace you up and are the simplest, most convenient tablets to take I have ever found. Miss Grace Redmann, St. James, Minn.

Mr. Redding His family appreciate his improved disposition.

Before using your Nervine I was very nervous and irritable. Since I have started to take it I feel so much better that my family notice the difference. I still take it from time to time and the good result is wonderful. J. H. Redding, 1027 18th Ave., Rock Island, Ill.

Dr. Miles Nervine
Liquid and Effervescent Tablets

The Democrat

Published Every Thursday Morning at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter At The Post Office In Columbiana, Alabama, Under Act Of Congress, March 3, 1879.

FRANK HEAD,
Editor and Publisher

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE,
Associate Editor.

CALERA NEWS

Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Sr., an dMrs. S. C. Sloan entertained the members of the Unique Club at the home of Mrs. Bowdon, Thursday afternoon, January 17, from 2:30 to 4:30. Mrs. Richard Parker was in charge of the social program. An interesting contest was enjoyed, Mrs. G. E. Gunn, winning the prize. Next presented was a singing class of 3 groups—7 in a group. First group singing: "Maggie" Mrs. A. E. Norwood winning the honors as the best singer. The second group sang "Old Black Joe", Mrs. Cecil Cowart was selected the best singer. The third group sang "America", Mrs. Miller being the winner. Miss Margaret Kate Bowdon assisted the hostess in serving fruit cake and coffee to 14 members and 8 new members.

Mrs. T. C. McDonald, who has been with her husband in the Veterans hospital in Tuscaloosa, is visiting her mother this week.

Miss Ada Holcomb, of Clanton, spent the week-end with her parents.

Miss Fannie Pearl Seale and Mary Lou Pilgreen spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. John Boley in Boothton.

Mrs. Annie Wood died January 17 at her home near Calera after a few days illness. Surviving are one daughter, two sons, one brother and one sister.

Several of the League members attended the Union at Siluria, Friday evening.

The Oak Grove B. Y. P. U. put on an interesting program here, Sunday evening.

Mrs. A. G. Dykes spent Friday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cook motored through last Friday enroute to Clanton to see sick relatives, also Mrs. W. Garrett.

The Woman's Missionary Society, of Calera Methodist Church, met Monday, January 14, at the church. The President, Mrs. A. E. Norwood, being absent, the Vice-President, Mrs. R. L. Holcombe, presided. New officers were elected and appointed for 1935. President, Mrs. Frank Denson; Vice-President, Mrs. Dick Martin; Recording Secretary, Mrs. H. C. Baker; Treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Armstrong; Supt. of Social Relations, Mrs. Z. S. Cowart; Supt. of Children's Department, Mrs. B. F. Miller; Supt. of Publicity, Mrs. Arthur F. Seale; Supt. of Study, Mrs. Leon Busby; Supt. of Supplies, Mrs. A. E. Norwood.

Mr. and Msr. Leon Busby are the proud parents of a 8 1-2 pound boy, born January 14, 1935.

HARPERSVILLE

Rev. Davidson filled his appointment at the Methodist Church, Sunday, delivering a fine sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gill and daughter, Maxine attended the Sunday School Convention in Anniston last week.

Mrs. Strickland and Miss Rogers spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mrs. R. W. Darby, Misses Lillie Mae Heaselett and Annie Lee Borum motored to Birmingham, Monday.

Mrs. J. C. Brumbaugh is confined to her bed with the "flu". We are glad to state that she is improving.

Dr. and Mrs. Snow and little son, were the dinner guests of Mrs. D. G. Kidd, Sunday.

Mrs. Wilma Crosby, of Fourmile, was in our community, Sunday.

Miss Doris Abbott, is visiting relatives in Alexander City.

Little Virginia Kidd, of Helena, spent the week-end with her father, J. C. Kidd.

ITS BETTER TO SEE US THAN WISH YOU HAD.

CRAZY CRYSTALS
NOW 60c AND $1.00.

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.
"A Good Drug Store"

HELENA NEWS

Rev. Haddock filled his regular appointment here Sunday. Services were held in the new Baptist church, which was attended by a very nice crowd.

Mrs. Bennett, of Birmingham, is spending a few days here with her daughter, Mrs. Jean Roy.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, of Bamford, spent Sunday afternoon in Helena with his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shaw and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Stone, of Birmingham, are spending a few days with his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. John Stone.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ruffin, of Birmingham, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Nash and family, Sunday.

Mr. Lee Bonner, and "little" Sonny Bonner, of Helena, spent the week-end in Tuscaloosa with relatives.

Mr. John Johnson, of Inglenook, was buried in Helena Cemetery, Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

We are glad to state that Mrs. F. F. Mullins is recovering from a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Miller and son, of Birmingham, were the guests of their parents here, Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller.

Mrs. F. F. Bohannan, of Birmingham, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

The Methodist Ladies Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Clay Espy, Monday afternoon, January 21st, at 3:00 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Harless are the proud parents of a fine baby girl.

Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Kibler, Mrs. Bonner and Mrs. Webster, of Helena, motored to Birmingham, Monday.

Mrs. Bill McLendon, who underwent an operation recently, is slowly recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Postelle and family, of Birmingham, spent Sunday here with friends.

Miss Oma Golden, of Helena, made a business trip to Birmingham, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Nunnally and family, of Alabaster, spent Sunday here with their daughter, Mrs. Neal McClanahan.

Mr. Escas' grandchild, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. McKenny, of Berry, Alabama, was buried here last Saturday at 3 o'clock in Helena Cemetery.

Mrs. Gus McKennsy, of Birmingham, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shaw, of this place.

The Baptist W. M. U. Society met in their new church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Dr. Ryan and Mr. Charlie Hines returned last week from California, where they attended the Rose Bowl football game.

CARPENTER BROTHERS GARAGE

In Montevallo. This is one of the most complete and efficient shops in this section of the state, it enjoys a large patronage on account of the fact that they turn out work of class, get it done when promised and that their charges are very reasonable.

If this modern establishment will be found the latest methods and expert men for this firm is one of the best concerns in this part of the state, and is known throughout the country for efficiency and promptness of service.

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS BANK,

A most worthy Montevallo institution, is a financial pillar of unsurpassed strength in this section of the state.

Its methods are up-to-date and efficient. Its management is able and fully competent to cope with every financial problem that may come to it for solution. An important factor in the development of this section.

As a factor in the upbuilding of this section it has played a prominent and honorable part. It is known as a bank of superlative integrity and one that can be counted on always to carry its share of the load in any forward looking and progressive movement. It's influence on the home life of the community has been marked, indeed, for through its willing assistance and able advice any who would otherwise never have known the satisfaction of owning their homes are now substantial citizens and homeowners and are aiding in the progress of their various communities.

The policy of this well-known institution is of accommodation and convenience to customers. Liberal without being careless, conservative without being hide-bound.

The best interests of its customers are always consulted and they determine the course it shall follow in every instance, except where those interests would conflict with or prove a menance to the welfare of the community at large. Their policy has drawn to this institution a large clientele, every one of which is a real friend to all whom it serves.

This bank of course conducts a general banking business. Its service and advice are sought by the largest corporations as well as by the humblest individual, and in every instance the same courteous treatment is extended and the same careful attention given to the problems presented. Open or checking accounts are carried as a part of the bank's regular business, certificates of deposits are issued as well as drafts on domestic and all foreign points. Collections are promptly made and every assistance in the way of loans to deserving enterprises is rendered.

A noteworthy feature of this bank is its safety deposit department, those desiring that service may secure the use of a strong box at a very reasonable rental.

They have always adhered to the soundest principles of banking and well deserving of the magnificent patronage that has been extended to their ably managed institution. The Merchants and Planters Bank is one of the most valued of community's many valuable assets.

Spring Has Arrived ... At The Leader

Springtime is almost here, and as usual we have anticipated your wants with NEW SPRING MERCHANDISE.

Dresses
Our first shipment of New Spring Dresses has just arrived. Be one of the first to wear one of these lovely silk prints.
$3.95 and $4.95

Hats
Beautiful New Turbans and Brims. All the leading Spring colors in fabric and straw.
$1.00 up

Hose
The New Spring Shades in Humming Bird Hose are here. Ask to see them.
89c and $1.00

New Bright Spring Prints

Thousands of yards of New Spring Prints and Solids guaranteed not to fade. If you have not already seen the New Materials, don't wait any longer. Come in and ask to see them.

Pepperell Prints, per yard 20c

Johnson's Chintz Prints, Per Yard 15c

The Columbiana Leader
.....Max Lefkovits.....

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

"SOMEONE SAID"

"Lord, let it not be I who send the sting
Of cruel hurt into some innocent
And trusting heart, by my lax-unthinking
And light repeated phrase of mean intent,
Let me with foresight weigh the things I HEAR
In scales of personal application.
Let me first bear the unrepeated weight of all I SAY.
Set thou upon my careless lips a seal
That therefrom may not pass the slightest word
That would bring sorrow. Let my ears conceal
In kind forgetfulness unkindness HEARD.
May I NEVER lightly whisper—"SOMEONE SAID"—

The power of the spoken word—and the influence of Dame Rumor are far reaching influences in our everyday rambles. "SOMEONE" tells someone else SOMETHING—and SOMEONE else carries it on a bit farther—and the first thing you know it has gained momentum until half the town is BELIEVING it. The opinion is FIXED with such an intensity that no amount of denials can shake it.

One writer draws a striking example of these erroneous beliefs in "SOMEONE SAID" chatter: Curators in the National Library in Paris had plenty of trouble with credulous folk who insisted on having a look at the mummy of Cleopatra.

The Library had never possessed such a specimen. As far as anyone knows no mummy of the famous Egyptian queen is in existence. For the past 50 years the Library has been issuing public denials on having any such mummy in their archives.

However, this makes little difference—Dame Rumor states "there is"—and people, curious, morbid people, continue to demand a "squint at it"—and become indignant when "powers that be" refuse.

So, do these idle rumors about "this and that"—"these and those"—"him and her"—right here in our town become the hardiest growing plants in the garden of IDLE SOWERS.

Better take this little tip and strike another foundation with a bit of intellectual understanding for a back-ground before repeating someone SAID. Columbiana can be kind, it can also be CRUEL!

Since chatting with Judge Lamar Field, recently elected Judge of the 7th Judicial Circuit, I am convinced that the people comprising this District have made an exceptionally wise choice. Judge Field arrived in Columbiana rather late on Sunday evening, walked in the cafe for supper, and before many minutes had passed, his genial friendliness had won for him a genuine welcome from Columbianians who dropped by to meet the distinguished guest-Judge of this district. His striking personality plus famed legal ability will probably land this gentleman on any BENCH he decides he wants.

You have often heard the phrase, "born and bred in Alabama and proud of it"—but I'll wager you have not often heard of one who claims the distinction of being "born and bred in Columbiana and lived here 81 years and proud of it". None other than H. W. Nelson has attained this exclusive triumph—and a round of cheers and hearty congratulations from our 2000 weekly readers greet us as we pass on this bit of news. Move back the chairs now, and make room for this old-time southern gentleman and DEMOCRAT of the old school—possibly, we can prevail on him to give us some interesting facts and figures about little old Columbiana—"from away back when days", and if so, we shall recount them for you in a future issue.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of "Little Miss Thompson" in their home on Saturday, January 19. If this winsome "blessed event" can command as many friends as her "Mother" and "Dad" have merited since moving to Columbiana several years ago, she need not worry about anything. It will be "Happy Landing" time everywhere she goes. I know one thing, nothing but the propeller of Lindbergh's air ship could catch that DADDY! I am rather "fleet on foot", but all I have been able to even see of him, are a pair of seven league boots rounding the corner—toward home, or the tail light on the Alabama Power truck, not even observing the STOP sign on Main Street—as the motor speeds up College Street to find out if "Her Majesty" is demanding anything that is not brought her—pronto!

So, we take this method of extending our personal congratulations and best wishes to the newest little citizen of our town. Maybe, by Thursday, "Dad Thompson" will take "time out" to read about it, and let me know what her name is.

Idly playing on the typewriter keys, and talking to a high school product on the side I noted Coach Peacock pass the office window—"By the way", I asked this young chap—"How do you like that fellow"? "Aw, Mrs. Mildred, he is SWELL". Now, everybody who knows high school boys, knows that SWELL is the superlative degree in their enthusiastic vernacular.

I have not had the pleasure of being closely associated with the Peacock's since they moved to Columbiana, but I have met the charming and talented Lady Peacock, and have heard many favorable comments on her lovely voice. On one occasion, I indulged in a casual confab with the Coach—so, I am prepared, from these two brief crossing of paths with this popular couple, to agree with all persons who have intimately known the Mrs.—and to add my "me too" to the young Americano's verdict of the Coach.

Columbiana has been fortunate to have had them with us during the past year, and we sincerely hope they like us well enough to cast their lot permanently among us.

Hi—wait a minute folks! (Right here I had to stop—for I could not believe what actually came in to brighten the day—However, here it is). Sure, I'll tell you about it. Remember the debate about a "rose by any other name might smell as sweet"——Well, as long as the PUNCH BOARD works, and a certain good looking bachelor in this man's town wins more candy than his girls can eat—I am prepared to state that CANDY, by any other name, will be just as "sweet" to me. This five pound box of candy tastes just grand! Second best is good as anything, after you have been married forever and ever AMEN—and after all, a box of CANDY is a box of CANDY—and thanks Mister—Come back to see u ssome time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Macon Batchelor, and their adorable little daughter, of Wetumpka, were noted at luncheon Sunday, in Curlee's Cafe, the guests of Mrs. Purnie Hendrick.

Rux Carter, Barney Isbell, Wales W. Wallace, Jr., Beth Wallace and Frank Gorman were among the spectators at the Alabama Theatre on Sunday, when Husk O'Hara with his orchestra played to a crowded house.

Have you paid your poll tax? February 1st is the dead line! February 26th seems to be the date on which we shall make up our minds whether we want tee-total prohibition, or do not want it. Prohibition has been in existence in Alabama for 25 years—30 days remain in which to decide on your little "yes" or "no". If you want to have a voice in the February election, you have to pay $1.50 to the Tax Collector for the privilege.

Did you happen to hear the "rainbow clown" Huey Long, over radio one night last week? Ever hear such a tirade? He promised virtually a "new heaven and a new earth", if Mr. and Mrs. Public would only accept his program. Other highlights now in heated action, attracting many followers, include Dr. Townsend, of San Diego, and Father Coughlin, of Detroit. These gentlemen are about to put Upton Sinclair with his "End Poverty" campaign in an eclipse. You will recall, that Mr. Sinclair polled over 600,000 votes in California. Never can tell about the degree of susceptibility Old Man People will reach—before swinging back to sanity.

The above mentioned gentlemen hold out "sugar coated cookies". Better eat sparingly!

Cupid was on a sure-fire shot-archery expedition in Helena recently, which resulted in the staging of a double wedding in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Hurst on Wednesday afternoon, January 16, in Columbiana, Alabama.

The contracting parties were E. V. Speer of Helena, who married Miss Mary Nell Meek of Birmingham, and J. A. Blackwell of Helena, who married Miss Ira Leal Vincent of Birmingham. The ceremony was impressively spoken in the presence of a few close friends, and to the questions usually propounded on this occasion, a chorus of "I WILL" and "I DO" was heard as Mr. and Mrs. promised to "love, honor and obey"—from now on out!

Here's wishing a life filled with happiness for both young couples. The Rev. Hurst says he is "perfectly sure" they will "live happily ever after", if they are as devoted 50 years from now as they were on last Wednesday.

H. A. Brasher of Columbiana, R. F. D. No. 2, was the lucky winner of the silk hand-made quilt raffled off by Mrs. J. H. Robenstine on Saturday, January 19th, in Columbiana.

Mrs. Robenstine is an excellent seamstress, having had many years experience in the work rooms of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb in Birmingham. While working there she saved scraps from materials used, and from these materials, the quilt was made. The pattern was exquisitely wrought and Mr. Brasher was indeed lucky to have won so valuable a prize.

Beg Pardon Sonny Boy McGraw!

Last week it was my happy privilege to be introduced to "Sonny Boy McGraw". He was having luncheon in Curlee's Cafe. After finishing his meal, he sauntered over to my table with a Chesterfieldian manner, and in the course of conversation, I understood him to say he had a little "Sister" at home whom he would bring down to see me the next time he came. However, it seems that I am "all wrong on this proposition, Sonny Boy's "little sister" is a "little brother", and he came all the way from Vincent Saturday, walked up to my desk in the Democrat office and told me I had committed an "error". I most humbly apologize to you Sonny Boy, and not only to YOU do I offer sincere regrets for putting out this misinformation, but I also beg Little Brother's pardon for where on this earth is there a little boy or a big boy who wants to be called a—GIRL?—

From Alexander City comes a journalistic message which indeed brightens the day. It hails from none other than His Majesty "Cody" Hall, penpoint paragrapher, editor of note, and what have yu, and he states that the DEMOCRAT'S SOCIETY NEWS is the only social event he peruses each week, othan than "glancing over" the Montgomery Advertiser's brilliant pages—edited by his brother, the eminent Grover C. Hall.

Now, "aint that somethin' "—even the "little drooping feather in my cap" perked up and waved a bit more happily over this coveted information.

The Democrat fortunately has secured Miss Delilah Curry to represent it in Montevallo. A number of delinquent subscriptions are due over the County, and we will appreciate it if you will get in touch with our representatives and attend to this little matter at once. We have appointed someone in each community to look after this "materialistic" side of this business for us, and we feel it is more convenient for you to see them than to write or come to Columbiana—to PAY UP the little American eaglet necessary to keep the Old Press pointing his grimy finger at me each week. It took me a long time to get accustomed to this "sword of Damocles" hanging over me each Monday morning, when I entered the office, but NOW, I should feel lost

(Continued On Page Eight)

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

You will not find a better place to do your drug store buying! It is here you get THE BEST—!

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

BABY CHICKS

"AAA" HOLLYWOOD LEGHORNS
"AAA" TANCRED LEGHORNS
From High Egg Records.
YEARLY HENS, TESTED FOR B. W. D.
The Males used to head these matings are individually pedigreed out of dams with Trap Nest Egg Records from 280—312 eggs in one year. Write for Low Prices—

Alabama Poultry Farms,
ROUTE NO. 1—BOX 90,
CALERA, ALABAMA.

Annual . . . Clearance SALE

YELLOW FRONT STORES
Groceries Dry Goods
Where Quality Prevails at Low Prices

Starting Saturday, January 26, and Running Through Saturday, Feb. 2.

. . . See Our Full Page Colored Circular . . .

Clearance Sale of LADIES FELT HATS	50c
80 Square - Fast Color PRINTS, full 36 in. wide	15c
Men's Jewel OVERALLS, an honest 98c value	88c
Men's Good Quality Work SHIRTS, buy a supply at this price ..	49c
25 Percent Off On Sweaters ---- 25 Percent
Standard Granulated SUGAR, 10 pound paper bag	47c
Flakewhite LARD, 4 pound pail	51c
Flakewhite LARD, 8 pound pail	99c
1 Pound Our Mothers COCOA	10c
5c Size SARDINES, 4 boxes	15c

The Alabama State Legislature Convenes January 8th.

You will want to know who is chosen Speaker of the House.

Will the Legislature give the people a chance to express themselves on the matter of prohibition?

Will they appropriate enough funds to pay our school teachers, and keep the schools going for a full term?

Will they reduce our Automobile License tag fee? Will they exempt small homes of taxes?

Never in the history of Alabama has there been so many questions of vital importance to be settled in one session of the Legislature.

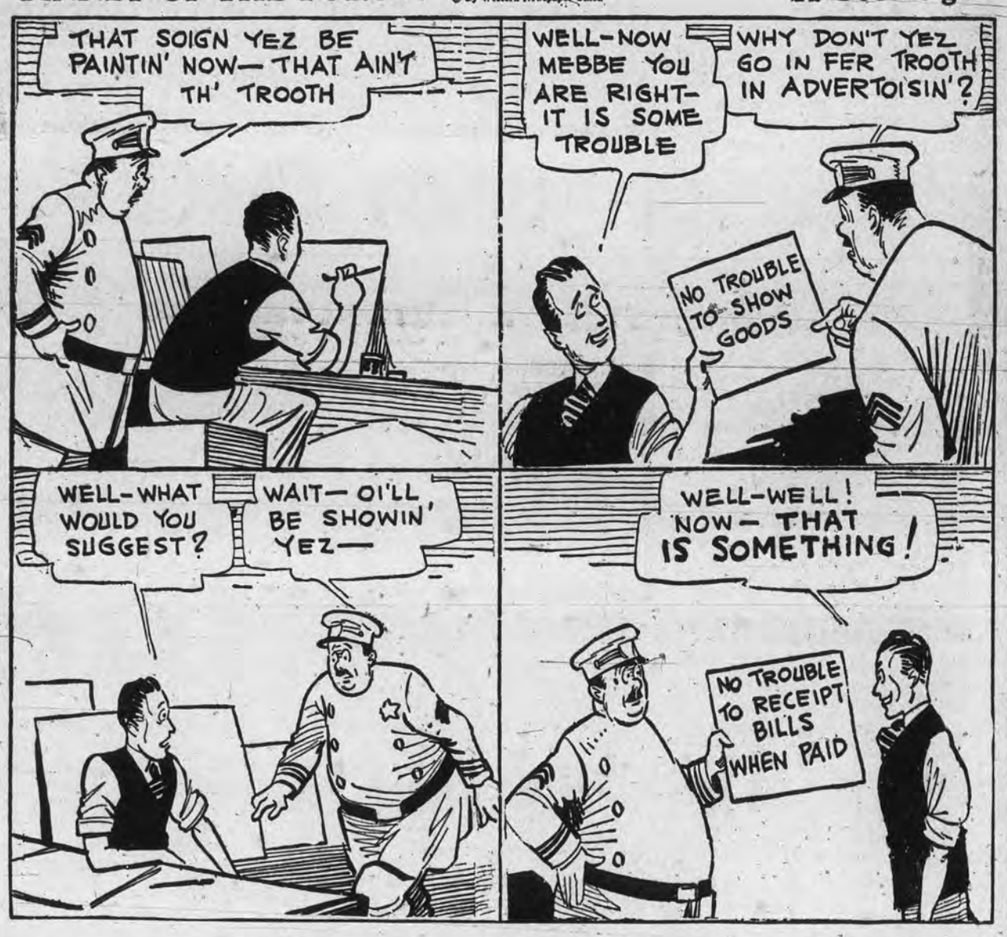
The Montgomery Advertiser with its staff writers of many years experience covering the Capitol news gives you all this as no other Alabama newspaper can.

YOU WILL WANT TO READ THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER "THE STATE CAPITAL NEWSPAPER."

Give your subscription to your local agent or send direct to—

THE MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER,
Circulation Department,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA.

OUR COMIC SECTION



Events in the Lives of Little Men

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

A Good Sign

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Heavy Stuff

BRISBANE
THIS WEEK

One Thing Important
Paid for Not Doing
$40 a Month
What Do We Want of Japan?

One piece of news in the world is important to the United States. If Washington doesn't know it, the governments of Europe and Asia do know it.

That news is Amelia Earhart's flight, nonstop in eighteen hours, across 2,400 miles of the Pacific ocean, from Hawaii to the United States. All American citizens, especially those on the Pacific coast, and elderly, out-of-date gentlemen who are supposed to provide for the defense of this country, should ask themselves:

If a young woman, entirely alone, without sleep, no assistant to help with navigation, can fly, unseen, across the Pacific ocean and land in California to receive a bunch of roses, eighteen hours from Hawaii, what do you think five or ten thousand powerful bombing and swift pursuit planes could do, coming from Asia or from Europe?

Pennsylvania is an important tobacco state. The government is paying farmers not to grow tobacco, just as it pays them elsewhere not to grow cotton or wheat and not to raise pigs.

After you have spent your whole life driven by necessity's lash to produce the utmost possible, this brings sweet peace to have the government pay you for not doing it, even if you can't quite understand it.

Nobody has yet arranged to pay newspaper publishers for not writing editorials, but that may come, in the glorious new era, and, here and there, it might be a great blessing.

Washington reports that President Roosevelt's message to congress about pensions for the old will suggest "only" $40 a month.

The Washington correspondent who says "only" does not know what $40 a month would mean to millions of old people whose lives are made bitter not by deprivation, not by poverty, hunger or cold, but by the fact that they depend upon the cold charity of others, particularly on the charity of relatives.

Give $40 a month to the old that are dependent and you will bring happiness into the last years of millions of lives, and that would be worthy of a great nation.

The honorable Japanese chief of information in the foreign office says the United States is planning an attack on Japan. Any Japanese who believes it lacks the usual intelligence for which you give all Japanese credit. Nations start wars because they want something. What does the United States want from Japan?

Uncle Sam, in a mild fit of idiocy, is now giving away the Philippines, Asiatic islands richer in resources than the Japanese islands.

We got those islands from the Spanish war. Should we start another war, spend billions, kill many of our Japanese friends and burn up their country by fire bombardment from airplanes merely to get more Asiatic islands, to be given away later?

The thirst of the people means profit to the government. Uncle Sam during 1934 collected an average of more than $1,000,000 a day in liquor taxes, a total amount of $374,506,232. Beer alone yielded $200,000,000; spirits distilled in America, $121,000,000; imported spirits, $15,000,000; imported wines, $6,000,000.

It is easy to understand why tens of millions follow the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the kidnaping and killing of the Lindbergh baby with such intense interest. The trial is a mystery in itself. Gradually unwound in court like the chapters in a detective story, it holds public attention, the horrible nature of the crime increasing the interest tenfold.

Eighty-nine Russian fishermen, living on the edge of the Caspian sea, ought to be grateful to the American Wright brothers that invented the airplane. With their boats they had drifted ten days on an ice floe and were starving.

Along came a big Russian plane, flying low, to drop tiny parachutes that brought food, tobacco and alcohol. Then the fishermen, hopelessly lost, out of sight of land, got in their boats and the airplane guided them to the shortest route to shore.

This reporter sat next to Amelia Earhart at a dinner recently, did not recognize her, thought she looked, as the French say, "like somebody," asked "Do you write, fly, or what do you do?" She said "I fly a little, and I write a little."

Europe continues "edging along" toward war. The Associated Press reports Italian troops being concentrated along the Austrian border. Italy fears that Germany may start an attack on Austria, aiming at absorption, now the Saar voting is over.

Italy calls this movement of troops along the Austrian border "Winter maneuvers," but Europe knows what it really is.

France probably will not be surprised. Mussolini for Italy and Laval for France recently had a very affectionate conversation, of which the substance was "Keep Germany under control."

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

The action of Circuit Judge A. M. Hawkins of DeKalb County, in jailing Sheriff S. W. Pope for contempt of court when he refused to obey a court order to count absentee ballots in the general election, was upheld when the Court of Appeals refused to review its first decision.

Forced down when the propeller on their plane came off, with the ship at an altitude of 1,300 feet, Lieut. Walter Wise and Sergt. Don Hilbun, National Guard fliers from Roberts Field, Birmingham, made a safe landing in a muddy cornfield near Cottondale.

Pledges of more than $800,000 for repairs and modernization in Birmingham have been obtained in the property survey being conducted as part of the Chamber of Commerce's assistance to the Federal Housing Administration.

For quick communication in the checking of forest fires, 271 miles of forest telephone lines have been constructed in Alabama by Civilian Conservation Corps workers under the direction of the State Commission of Forestry.

Jesse B. Hearin, president of the Production Credit Corp. of New Orleans, announces the addition of three additional counties—Walker, Fayette and Lamar—to the territory served by the Russellville Production Credit Assn.

The first case prosecuted by Still Hunter, new Walker County solicitor, resulted in a conviction for Fred Hollingsworth, 25-year-old Sumiton Negro who was charged with attempting to attack a white woman last October.

A bill proposing sweeping judiciary reforms in Alabama is expected to be introduced at the current session of the Legislature in a report prepared by Whitley P. McCoy, professor of law at the University of Alabama.

With 33 cases and three deaths of influenza reported in Birmingham, Dr. J. D. Dowling, city-county health officer, urged residents to avoid crowds as much as possible as a precaution against contracting the disease.

A collection of architectural books, clippings and pictures from the library of the late William Leslie Weldon has been given to the Birmingham Public Library by Mrs. Weldon in memory of her husband.

The State Department of Agriculture announced that under the 1935 agricultural adjustment program, cooperating cotton farmers may plant 25 per cent more cotton this year than they did in 1934.

With a shipment of fur valued at $7,500, Steve Keller, Stevenson, left for St. Louis. The shipment was reported to be the largest quantity of fur ever to be sent from Alabama at one time.

Governor Graves was seeking the co-operation of Alabama bankers in a move to refund approximately $80,000,000 of State bonds and take advantage of the low interest rates now prevailing.

Because stray mules and cattle are destroying graves in the Marion Cemetery, officers of the Cemetery Association planned to urge the City Council to build a fence around the property.

More than 125 women out of work two years have been given jobs, making 20,000 dozen—240,000 pairs—overall garments for families on the rolls of the Alabama Relief Administration.

Charged with circulating spurious money in Alabama, seven persons have been arrested by secret service agents in a series of raids in the southern part of the state.

A group of Alabama College students visited several wholesale distributing companies in Birmingham in connection with their study of institutional marketing.

Madison County will take over the Monto Sano Turnpike and convert it into a highway, beginning at Little Mountain and going north about three miles.

The 80-year-old home of Mrs. C. Kirkpatrick, Sr., a landmark of Huntsville section, along with its valuable antique furniture, was destroyed by fire.

Effective January 20, Eastern Air Lines, Inc., restored its daily air mail service to Birmingham after a suspension of approximately five months.

A bill to provide for the sterilization of the physically and mentally unfit was under consideration of the Senate health committee.

Roy Fay Parker, of Attalla, has been appointed clerk of the war claims committee of the House of Representatives, Washington.

The annual convention of the Southeastern Bakers Association will be held in Birmingham May 6-8.

The Etowah County Bar Assn. adopted by unanimous vote a resolution asking the State Legislature to make Etowah County a judicial district, with two judges and a solicitor.

Hundreds of persons crowded the Hollon's undertaking establishment at Athens to view a calf, born dead, with two well-developed bodies, eight legs and one head.

The final report of Comptroller J. H. Hard, Jr., revealed that the Miller administration left a cash balance of $5,095,556.47 in the state treasury as of Jan. 14.

Just the Thing for Little Lady

PATTERN 2065

It's no wonder this young lady looks puzzled—she probably doesn't know whether to stand the way she is and let us see the front of her snug wool bloomer dress, with its unusual closing and its inset of pleats for spirited striding, or to turn around so that we may admire that important "back interest" produced by the long smartly stitched pleat. Clever mothers will make up a plentiful supply of those trim little white collars and cuffs, for they know that nothing looks prettier on bright wool dresses. The bloomers, and long sleeves for those who prefer them, come with the pattern.

Pattern 2065 is available in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 6 takes 2½ yards 36-inch fabric and ⅜-yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

Smiles

IT'S AN EXPENSIVE WAY

"Has your son's education been of any value?"

"Oh, yes; it cured his mother of bragging about him."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Appearances

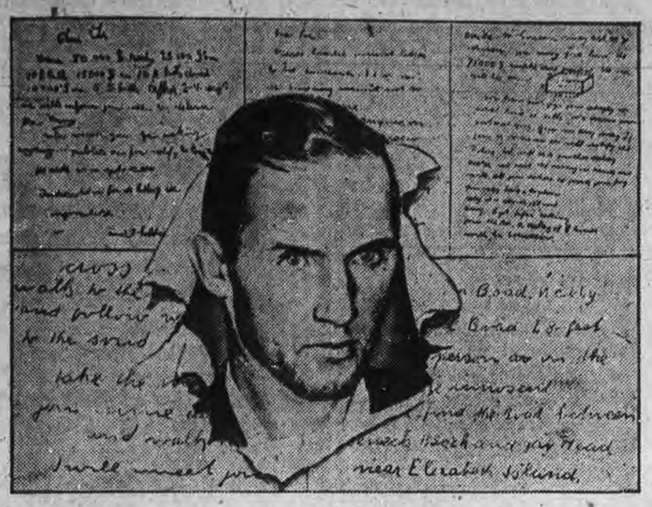
"You can't always judge by appearances," said the ready-made philosopher.

"No," said the tourist. "It's a great disappointment to see Russia so different from the way it looks and sounds in a Russian ballet."

Popular Golfer

Katherine—Why do all the boys like to play golf with Sylvia Anne?

Jerry—She always makes a wild drive deep into the woods at the fourteenth hole.—Chelsea Record.



End Far Off

"I suppose your wife always has the last word in the argument?"

"I dunno. We haven't gotten near enough to the end of it to figure on the last word."

Ransom Notes May Be Death Warrant

These ransom notes may prove the death warrant of Bruno Hauptmann, accused of the murder of Baby Charles Lindbergh. In the upper left-hand corner is one of the initial demands made on Colonel Lindbergh. In upper center is shown the first note to "Jafsie," while in the upper right is the note telling how the money was to be tied up. The lower left shows the note telling where to leave the money, and at the right is the false note declaring the baby was still alive.

EXPERTS ANALYZE KIDNAPER'S NOTES

Compare Handwriting With That of Hauptmann.

By W. C. WEBBER

FLEMINGTON, N. J.—Such seemingly innocent trivialities as failure to dot an "i," cross a "t," the slant of a letter, a hyphen, may prove a deciding factor in sending a man to the electric chair convicted of the crime of murdering little Charles Lindbergh, son of the famous aviator. Those tiny, individual characteristics, which handwriting experts assert are ineradicable in each person's writing, are being fought over point by point, curve by curve, as the state introduces what some observers claim is strong evidence that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Bronx ex-carpenter, was author of the notes which resulted in payment of the $50,000 ransom money by Dr. J. F. "Jafsie" Condon.

Huge photostatic enlargements of certain words and letters from the ransom letters and from Hauptmann's admitted writings have been hung in the courtroom for the information of the jury. The sheets, each 6 feet in height and 4 feet in width have been tacked to the wall behind the witness chair where the kidnaper's ladder had rested earlier in the trial. The admitted writings and the disputed writings are shown in parallel columns marked "Hauptmann writing" and "ransom notes.

Albert S. Osborn, seventy-six years old and silvery-haired, testified in a clear, resonant voice that it was his opinion the ransom notes were all written by the writer of the various papers signed by Richard Hauptmann, and that all fourteen of the ransom notes were written by the same writer.

Osborn was positive in his statement that Hauptmann penned the notes. The expert proved a good witness, despite his deafness which forced attorneys to speak very loudly when addressing him. He identified himself as an expert in 39 states and in Canada and England, and is the author of two books on the subject of handwriting. In several verbal exchanges with defense attorneys he proved himself more than a match.

In explaining his comparison, Osborn gave an exposition on the general basis for comparison of handwritings. Characteristics in handwriting, he said, are the same as the characteristics of anything else. There are many things by which handwriting might be identified exactly as a man, or an automobile or a horse is identified, by general description, and then by individual marks and scars and by characteristics which in combination make it apparent that they are not the result of accident, he continued.

When pupils learn the same system of writing, if they learn to write perfectly, one writing cannot be distinguished from another, but that does not occur, Osborn pointed out. Writing, he said, begins as an acquired qualification, it is an acquired habit first imitating the forms, and then the forms become more easily made, until finally writing becomes succession of habitual motions. Certain identical habitual motions were to be seen in both the writing on the ransom notes and the accepted writing done by Hauptmann, Osborn declared.

The letter "x" was pointed out at the start. Mr. Osborn showed that it was a clear, open "x," looking more like "ee," and that it wasn't an "x" at all. The "t," he testified, showed decided German characteristics; as did the letters "h" and "a." Hauptmann had a peculiar habit of finishing words in an awkward way with strokes that are too long, Osborn said, and also used a hyphen between the two words in "New York." In the ransom notes, he said, he found only three of the 391 "t's" were crossed, and the same was true of a "very large number" of the samples Hauptmann wrote for the police. Only seven of the small "i's" in the ransom notes were dotted, and the same proportion held true in Hauptmann's admitted writing, Osborn continued, and several sheets did not have a dotted "i" at all.

Another instance of similarity which Osborn pointed out to the jury was a hyphen used between the two words in "New York." A specimen taken from the writing that was on the sleeping suit wrapper was pointed out as having this characteristic. A photostatic copy of Hauptmann's writing on one of the automobile registrations was then shown by Osborn to have this same name hyphenated.

Other words pointed out by the expert as showing examples of broken English and German spellings in both sets of writings were: "auer" for "our," "aus" for "us," Wy" for "wy," "note" for "not," "gute" for "good," "ingore" for "ignore," "singature" for "signature" and "hte" for "the."

The expert testified that he had examined about a hundred samples of hand writing which had been brought to him by New Jersey police and federal agents. Among these, he said, were samples of writing by Isadore Fisch, German furrier, who, the state contends, was actually the abductor of the baby. Fisch died later in Germany.

Fisch continues to loom in the background as the defense's chief reliance. In suggesting that Fisch wrote the ransom notes, a spokesman for the prosecution declares that this line of defense will not avail, since it does not take the eye of an expert to see the utter dissimilarity between the neat, flourishing penmanship of Fisch and the scrawl of the ransom notes. It is understood from those who have samples of Fisch's handwriting in their possession that his hand was that of a man who took pride in his penmanship, forming his letters neatly and correctly and dotting all I's and crossing all T's.

The defense has maintained that Fisch is the actual receiver of the ransom money, that it was he who kidnaped the child, and Hauptmann was his wholly unconscious dupe. Hauptmann has declared that he was associated with Fisch in the fur trade and that he loaned Fisch $7,500 and that Fisch left with him a package which only a few weeks before his arrest, Hauptmann discovered to be the ransom money, the bulk of which was found in his garage. The state holds it can prove that ransom notes were circulated by him many months earlier than last summer, or even last spring.

Reilly attempted to show that too few handwriting exhibits had been brought into the courtroom, then opened up a line of questioning designed to force Osborn to admit that a Scandinavian could have written the ransom notes. The expert said there was an essential difference between German and Scandinavian script.

Some connection was seen between this line of questioning and that of Reilly when Betty Gow, the baby's nurse, was on the stand, with reference to "Red" Johnson, Norwegian sailor, whom she admitted having told of activities of the Lindbergh household on the day the kidnaping occurred.

Another handwriting expert whose testimony has been unshaken under questioning of Reilly is Elbridge W. Stein, who said he had testified in the recent Vanderbilt case in New York as well as the Wendel and Ridley cases. Stein said he had first studied the ransom notes and request writings of Hauptmann in July, 1932, and declared it was his opinion that the same man, Hauptmann, wrote both. He admitted there were differences, but insisted that there were similarities between the spelling in the two sets of writing. Charts and photographs of words taken from the ransom notes and the other writings done by Hauptmann were produced by Stein in support of his statements.

As the hearing progresses, Hauptmann appears to have lost much of the calmness which marked his first appearance in court. The stolidity of the ex-carpenter which was so remarkable when he was identified by both Colonel Lindbergh and Dr. J. F. Condon is not so apparent. Emotions show in his face, although even close watchers admit there has been no sign of fear or alarm among them. Occasionally he talks to his wife in a low voice.

The accused continues to follow each word of the trial with deep interest. He appeared especially interested in the handwriting testimony, craning his neck to see as the expert pointed out on the large chart the similarities between his own and the ransom writing. Colonel Lindbergh, who has been attending all the court sessions, was also absorbed as the experts gave their testimony.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for January 27

PETER'S DENIAL

LESSON TEXT—Mark 14:27-31, 54, 66-72.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. I Corinthians 10:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Peter Did Wrong and Was Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When Peter Failed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Be Prepared to Meet Temptation.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Jesus Is Denied Today.

A better statement of the subject would be "Peter's Downfall." From the height of fellowship with God which Peter enjoyed when he confessed that Jesus was the Messiah, in Matthew 16, to the depth of emphasizing a lie by means of foul oaths is a long way, but the steps were quickly taken, for the time was short. The presentation of this lesson should be done in such a way as to be a solemn warning to Christians today. In order that we may be saved from such a fall, let us study carefully the steps in Peter's backsliding.

I. Over-weening Self-confidence (vv. 29-31).

Jesus had issued a solemn warning, even a prophecy, of the backsliding of all the disciples. Peter's unwillingness to face the cross alienated him from Jesus, and when apprised of the fact that the disciples would all forsake Jesus, Peter declared that Jesus was mistaken, saying, "Although all shall be offended, yet will not I.' Our condition is most perilous when we are most sure of our safety.

II. Sleeping at the Post of Duty (vv. 32-37).

Peter and two others were privileged to be near to Jesus in the hour of his anguish. The favored three were commanded to watch, but in one short hour the very one who was so confident of his self-sufficiency had fallen asleep instead of watching. The only way to escape from backsliding is to watch. The one who overrates himself under-rates the power of the devil.

III. Neglect of Prayer (vv. 38).

The legitimate inference from the Lord's words, "Watch and pray," is that he had commanded them to pray as well as to watch. The reason there is so little prayer on the part of Christians is due to the fact that there is a lack of the sense of need of God's help.

IV. Service in the Energy of the Flesh (v. 47).

When they came to arrest Jesus, Peter took a sword and cut off an ear of the servant of the high priest (John 18:10). He was zealous for the Lord, but it was zeal without knowledge. Even in his outward zeal for his Lord he made a bungling job. If he had been in downright earnest he would have cut off the man's head instead of his ear. This is characteristic of much of the service rendered today by Christians.

V. Following Jesus Afar Off (v. 54).

Christ's rebuke for taking the sword and the awkward position in which Peter's act had placed him caused him to follow Jesus afar off. This rebuke widened the breach between Peter and his Lord. Following Jesus afar off got him into further trouble.

VI. Seeking Comfort Among the Lord's Enemies (v. 67).

This fire was built by those who had come unsympathetically to witness the crucifixion and even to mock in this tragic hour. For Christ's disciples to warm themselves at the enemies' fire, to get comfort from the things prepared for the satisfaction of his enemies is sinful. Peter not only tried to get comfort by using that which the enemy had prepared for themselves, but he engaged in conversation with the enemy and they that stood by declared that his speech betrayed him. Multitudes of professing Christians have grown cold while sitting around the enemies' fire. It would be infinitely better to freeze to death in Gethsemane than to keep warm around the enemies' fire.

VII. Open Denial (vv. 68-72).

Step by step Peter went downward until the words of a servant girl provoked open and blasphemous denial. Peter's trouble began when he shrank from the cross. It was that shrinking which separates him from contact with his Lord. Only the one who has been in touch with the Lord can backslide. Many of the so-called backsliders have never been born again; they have simply returned to their own way.

Conscience

The men who have done the most for any noble cause have been the men who have heard, and who have been prepared to listen to, the "still small voice."

Great and Good

Living unto him is caring with all your heart for the things that are great and good and broad and godlike.

Live Truly

If we live truly, we shall see truly. It is as easy for the strong man to be strong as it is for the weak to be weak.

Hope

Hope is the kindly instrument of God for rescuing mankind from inactivity, and inactivity is sister to stagnation.

Church Debt Financed Along Business Lines

Ten days after a plan for paying off its indebtedness was adopted by St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church at Northport, Long Island, half of the goal of $20,000 had been obtained in pledges. It is expected that the plan will enable the church to pay the entire debt in thirty-six months without asking for any contributions.

The plan was devised by the Church Financing Bureau of New York, which is conducting the campaign. Friends and members of the church are asked to lend small sums which are to be repaid twenty years hence to the lenders or their heirs. To guarantee payment, the church will take out a policy, on the twenty-year endowment plan, on the life of the lender, and the church will pay the premiums.

The loans thus obtained are used to pay off the church's interest-bearing debt. The life insurance premiums the church pays are said to amount to less each year than the former interest rate alone. The principal indebtedness is being wiped out at the same time.—Literary Digest.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are best for liver, bowels and stomach. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.—Adv.

Untouched by Progress

The Galapagos, tips of huge volcanoes peering above the surface of the Pacific, are probably the most primitive inhabited lands still existent.

ENMITY FORGOTTEN

One of the most remarkable Christmas trees was put on view in London last year, a the Scots Guard exhibition.

It was made by a German soldier and presented by him to a Scots Guard with whom he exchanged greetings in the No Man's land between the trenches on Christmas day, 1915.

"Now My Car Stays Beautiful!"

You, too, will find this to be true after you Simoniz your car. Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener not only make cars look just like new again, but keep the finish beautiful for years. So always insist on them for your car!

MOTORISTS WISE SIMONIZ

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA
direct from its New York Stage
3-Hour Broadcast by
LISTERINE
announced by
Geraldine Farrar
Every Saturday . all NBC stations 12:45 P. M.

THE REGULAR PRICE OF CALUMET BAKING POWDER IS NOW ONLY 25¢ A POUND

THERE'S A REAL BAKING POWDER BARGAIN!

Now he's called "Helpful Bob"!

"I KNEW children should never drink coffee, but was surprised to learn coffee could have such an effect on me!"

"Nothing surprising about that! The caffein in coffee affects lots of people. It can give 'em indigestion, upset their nerves and keep 'em awake nights."

If you suspect that coffee disagrees with you . . . try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's easy to make, and costs less than ½¢ a cup. Postum is a delicious drink . . . and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE! Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail the coupon.

GENERAL FOODS, Battle Creek, Mich. W. N. U. 1-24-35
Send me, without obligation, a week's supply of Postum.
Name _____
Street _____
City _____ State _____
Fill in completely—print name and address.
This offer expires December 31, 1935

CLANTON MOTORS

See the New Ford on display in their show rooms. Batteries, tires and accessories.

They are leading citizens and specialize in all phases of motor repair work.

Realizing that not the first cost but the service charges make a car an extravagance, this widely known garage has gained its popularity because it keeps the service charges for auto owners in the city and community at the lowest minimum. Let us keep your car in repair and it ceases to be an extravagance, is the slogan of this up-to-the-minute garage.

This garage has established a free examination department. Your car is looked over at any time free of charge and you are told if any repairs are needed. This may save you much trouble in the long run. This examination places you under no obligation to allow this garage to make your repairs.

TIFFIN-KLINER FURNITURE COMPANY

In Clanton. They sell Furniture on easy terms.

This is one of the most popular furniture stores which is equipped to render the public a complete and satisfactory home furnishing service. The many satisfied customers in this section are well merited rewards to the confidence reposed in the firm by the general public.

A visit to this store will convince you of the wonderful revelations offered to furnish the home complete. There will be found the newest and most attractive designs of the decorator's art. From the luxurious upholstered furniture to the wonderfully effective wicker for the living room or sunroom. Furniture in every style, price and design with beautiful new styles for any kind of room in the house, to suit every taste and every bank account.

PEOPLES SAVINGS BANK

Located in Clanton. This well known bank is an institution that has gained prestige at such a substantial rate since its organization that it has taken its place as one of the Gibraltars of Finance in this section, as it is conducted with a conservation that makes it a very reliable institution.

This strong financial institution has aided in the upbuilding of the community. A few dollars started in an account has placed many a man on the road to success. The possessor of a bank account soon becomes a home owner and then has money on deposit from which he draws interest. This is the road to success and this institution has been instrumental in starting many a man who has acquired habits of saving that have made him and his family happy in the possession of a comfortable home.

The history of this bank shows that it has adopted a policy of faithfulness and service. "Stand by and fight for those with whom you have placed your faith." This bank stands by its customers at all times, in peace and prosperity as in storm and stress.

REYNOLDS AND REYNOLDS, Attorneys.

In Clanton. To the layman, the life of a lawyer seems to be one of considerable ease, with right to walk in and out of the courts without having to tremble in the presence of judges and his ability to understand many things which are as Greek to the ordinary citizen. While it is undeniable that the followers of the legal profession are fortunate in some respects, they are nevertheless usually a hard working set of individuals as many lawyers will be more than willing to testify. For example these two may be pointed out as of the citys most learned and successful lawyers.

Their offices consequently present a scene of anything but blissful ease and their constantly increasing list of clients are forever making large demands upon their time and legal knowledge. Much has been said about this citys lawyers. They constitute a tower of strength in the community and by dint of actual performance and achievement, certainly won a place among their confreres that is comfortably near the top.

DE MABEL'S BEAUTY SHOPPE

Admirably located in Clanton, are permanent wave specialists who also feature marcelling, bobbing, tinting, facial work and everything in the line. Maintain a shop that is a center of beauty culture for ladies.

The profession of the permanent waver should be one of the utmost importance and we can not fail in this comprehensive review of our progress to devote some space to a well merited tribute to the excellent work performed by this beauty shop.

There is no frizz nor kink, but the marcel effect with ringlet ends. They feature the whole head for a moderate price.

Her licensed operators will put a wave in for you in the shortest time possible consistent with high quality of the work they will do. All you have to do is to phone for an appointment at this popular establishment, go there at the appointed time, and leave the rest to them. In a short time they with their skill will make you look and feel different and when you return home all your friends will compliment you because of your good looks and the becoming.

J. D. BROADHEAD Market

Located in Clanton, is headquarters for people from all the surrounding territory for meats of all kind, chickens, etc.

Featuring everything the best—have the latest refrigeration system and place is kept in the most sanitary manner—their meats are better.

The poultry department of this store is a feature of the home life of this part of the state as chickens and game can be secured here that are in the very best of condition and the housewives have found them of the best quality.

They have equipped the store with the very latest of scientific refrigeration devices and thus are prepared for the proper handling of all provisions so that when they arrive at your place they are in the very best of condition.

And no matter what you may desire you will find whether you go in person or call over the telephone that you will receive a courteous and intelligent answer to any questions you may ask.

They will gladly at this store make tasty suggestions for you so that your menu will be changed each day and thus your cooking will receive that well-merited praise that is due the intelligent housewife.

WATTS HAT SHOPPE

Located in Clanton. This very well known establishment can well be termed Style Headquarters for the most discriminating ladies of this community and has firmly established itself as one of the leading garment stores of the city.

The growth of its business has been phenomenally due to the fact that the garments are kept up to date at all times.

For anyone to assume the fashion responsibility of the community is rather a large undertaking, but this popular ladies' shop through its desire to present only the finest and best has assembled a selection of garments, which are fashion's leaders and has completely covered the fashion field.

At this popular ladies' store are coats in all the newest models of fashion, which have such popular demand in the style centers of the East today. Offered in all the varied lines and tones, which please the eye and charmingly adorn the women. Jaunty suits, the latest offerings of the designers Art, which suggest the very last word in chicness and smartness at prices that are right. Dresses of Parisian and models of French creations in all the glory of the season's modes and styles, that distinguish the well dressed patrons of this Ladies' Store. Nothing that Milady can use to adorn her person is lacking in this shop where all the skill of America, Europe and the Orient is gathered together for the comfort and delight of its many satisfied patrons at reasonable prices.

VINCENT NEWS

Misses Anne Bell, Leona Sanders and Fannye Lee Thompson, of Alabama College, spent the week-end at home.

Miss Fannye Lee Thompson had as her guest during the week-end, Miss Grace Edwards, of Childersburg.

We are very sorry that Miss Sara Elliott is ill and we wish for her a speedy recovery.

Miss Estelle Phillips, of Birmingham, visited her mother during the week-end.

Misses Naomi Baker, Odell Turner and Mary Lowe, spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Mr. Ed Bell is also on the sick list and we wish for him a speedy recovery.

Dramatic Club Reorganizes

The dramatic club, of Vincent, Alabama, met at the home of Miss Alyce Harris, Thursday evening, January 10th, for the purpose of reorganizing. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Ada Gorman; Vice-President, Mrs. Virginia McGraw; Secretary, Frances Elliott; Publicity Chairman, Mrs. R. R. Hunt; Program Committee, Mrs. R. T. McGraw, Mattie Hunt and Luther Taff; Director, Miss Alyce Harris.

The club met again for a regular meeting January 17, at the home of Miss Harris. There will be a regular meeting of the club every Thursday night. Three of these meetings will be at the home of Miss Harris, and at these meetings modern plays will be read and studied. At the last meeting Green Pastures was read and discussed. Miss Harris will also give lessons in Public Speaking, stage technique and other worthwhile and interesting things. A member of the club will be hostess to the club on the fourth meeting night. Special programs will be arranged for this meeting.

There are approximately 20 members enrolled in this class, and much interest is being shown. This club is sponsored by the FERA.

Miss Harris also conducts other classes. She teaches a Civic's class which meets Mondays and Thursdays, a Home Ec class which meets Tuesday afternoons, and an English Class which meets on Wednesdays and Fridays. These classes are very interesting as well as instructive. They are also sponsored by the FERA.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

Much interest is manifested toward the radio programs broadcasted each Tuesday afternoon over WAPI at 3:30, by Mrs. Pearl Brandon Crawford, of Alabama College. The P.-T. A., of Dunnavant considers it a privilege to have the advantage of listening to the splendid lectures on the home and the rearing of the child, and school problems. A large number of our organization are present at each broadcast.

We view with pride the improvements made upon our school building, the past week under the Federal Aid Plan.

The week-end was replete with socials. On Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. S. Raines entertained the young people with a social at their home, which was followed by another social given by Miss Lola Curtain on Saturday night. Many out of town guests were present at each affair.

Robert Dorough spent the past week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Hassell, of Columbus, Ga., visited Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowdon last week.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

PERSONAL MENTION

(Continued From Page Five)

without the authoritative "moving finger". In other words, he must continue to "WRITE" or we shall have to "MOVE ON".

C. I. Norris, prominent merchant of Vincent, spent Monday in Columbiana, transacting business, and while here, called by the office to renew his allegiance to the Democrat for another year and he "said it with CASH". Thanks, we enjoyed the chat, and the "dollars" helped us—heaps.

Representative R. A. Reid, of Montgomery, spent Monday in Columbiana. He states things are moving fast and furious down there—and the watchword seems to be—HURRY! He also thinks that HASTE is not always the wise thing to do. His pockets were filled with many important bills now up for consideration, and he is giving his attention to them while on vacation.

The Democrat is the best medium of advertising in the county! Why? Because it enjoys the largest circulation. Come in to see about any Job Printing you may want done. It will be speedily and correctly attended to.

Coosa County State Park Area Has Been Increased to 809 A.

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—With the recent acquisition of additional lands Weogufka State Park in Coosa County now includes 809 acres, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, State Forester, in charge of the State and Federal work of developing Alabama's forests and parks. The new areas occupy the summit of a ridge running southward from Weogufka Mountain for a distance of about two miles. It is expected that the road which now reaches the top of the mountain from the north will be continued down the south side through the newly acquired land to give better access to the park from the south and southwest.

Weogufka State Park is one of the most attractive areas in Alabama. With the completion of the developments now under way it undoubtedly will be one of the chief points of interest to tourists, campers and recreationists. Further additions to the park may result from the Federal acquisition of submarginal lands in that locality.

ALRED DRUG COMPANY

In Clanton. This is one of the most modern drug stores to be found in this section. Honest methods have built up a growing business from the city and surrounding territory.

Quality goods are sold at this establishment at reasonable prices.

Many lines of goods are handled at this store, all standard and of time-tried merit, and the store is so advertised that anything carried in a twentieth century drug store can be found here. Indeed in their list are toilet articles of every description as well as household remedies which have proven their worth to thousands of American homes.

The prescription department uses only the purest of drugs and each prescription is compounded by a registered pharmacist.

SOUTHERN SEED AND PLANT COMPANY

Located in Clanton. It is the duty of each and every man to see that he gets a maximum return from every acre of his land and to do this it is absolutely necessary that he use modern and scientific methods.

They have gathered together a line of the latest and best known seeds which they are now offering at prices so reasonable that they have caused an increase in the food production in this community.

Their large and varied stock is of a dependable quality and through their system of purchasing in enormous quantities and their experience they are enabled to offer astonishing values to the public. The unusual extent of their volume of business reimburses them and warrants a continuance of their policy of small profits on all sales.

They enjoy the fullest confidence of a large number of planters and farmers.

Only the best in nationally known and reliable brands will be found in their stock. It is always economy to buy the very best and seeds are no exception.

Words of commendation are strong in evidence among the producers of this section who have long been their patrons. The general results from the planting of their seeds has been very satisfactory. The large increase in the acreage planted with seeds from this firm has materially increased the production of food stuffs and as a consequence the firm has taken a prominent place in the development and progress of this section of the state.

—Complete—

FUNERAL PROTECTION

—No Age Limit—

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.

Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

A. N. Vail,
Montevallo, Alabama

R. L. Veazy,
Siluria, Alabama

Is there a CRYING NEED in your home for HOT WATER?

In the home served by a Hotpoint Electric Water Heater, no time is wasted waiting for water to heat. No extra expense is incurred heating emergency supplies on the kitchen range. No energy is lost running up and down stairs turning a heater on or off. The Hotpoint is 100% automatic—meeting every need for abundant, constant, dependable hot water service at low cost. You really should see the new Hotpoint Electric Heater—AT ONCE!

Electric Rates are LOW in Alabama!

Hotpoint
Automatic Electric Water Heater
$2.50 first payment; balance in 36 months.

SEE YOUR DEALER, OR

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

USE MORE ELECTRICITY—IT COSTS LESS!

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-TWO

COUNTY BIRTHS REPORTED DURING THE PAST MONTH

—BOYS—

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shoop, Vandiver Rt. No. 2, January 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. James Luther Shoemaker, Shelby, June 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hasty, Siluria Rt. No. 1, December 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Falkner, Leeds Rt. No. 1, December 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Milstead, Wilton, December 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lee, Gay, Sterrett, January 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thomas McGraw, Vincent, October 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Hayes Simms, Wilsonville, December 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Northcutt, December 29th, Siluria.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hutchison, Helena Rt. No. 1, November 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Simpson, Pelham, December 22nd.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Patton, Helena, December 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hartsfield, Columbiana Rt. No. 1, December 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bishop Collum, Calera Rt. No. 2, December 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Franklin Blackerby, December 31st.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vanderslice, Shelby, December 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Hughes, Columbiana Rt. No. 1, December 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Whitfield, Vandiver, November 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Compton, Calera Rt. No. 2, December 18th.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Goff, Siluria, November 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady O. Thomas, Siluria, August 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel William Parker, Sterrett, December 25th.

—GIRLS—

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Howell Yon, Siluria, December 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wilson, Siluria, December 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hicks, Montevallo, December 4, girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wagner, Columbiana Rt. No. 1, December 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gwin Sealgle, Boothton, December 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Albert Jones, Marvel Rt. No. 1, December 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parrish, Helena, December 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Whatley, Helena Rt. No. 1, December 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Brasher, November 15th, Helena Rt. No. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Edwards, Siluria, December 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Blankenship, Siluria, December 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cosin Vick, Wilsonville Rt. No. 2, December 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Isbell, Dunnavant, January 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harrington, Harpersville Rt. No. 1, December 25.

Graves Signs Bill For Vote On Dry Questions, Feb. 26

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Gov. Bibb Graves last Thursday signed the legislative bill calling for a referendum on the Alabama prohibition laws. The statewide election will be held February 26, according to the terms of the bill.

The ballot that will be submitted to the people will carry three questions:

1. Shall Alabama's prohibition laws be modified?

2. Shall beer and wine be legalized in Alabama?

3. Shall hard liquor be legalized in Alabama under strict state regulation and under any circumstances no saloons."

In signing the bill, Gov. Graves said: "If I had to call it anything, I would call it a referendum bill and not a liquor bill," he said, "because unless all deny the faith, there will be no saloons under this bill. The national Democratic platform and my platform are both opposed to saloons. There were a few changes in this bill from the original bills but the changes were not material. The bill gives every voter the right for a free and untrammeled choice at the polls on his views."

Dr. O. C. Carmichael and Miss Myrtle Brooke, of Alabama College, attended a meeting of the Board of Relief in Columbiana on Tuesday.

COTTONSEED MEAL GOOD FOR HORSES, MULES, OXEN, COWS

AUBURN, Ala.—Cottonseed meal, mixed with other ingredients, makes a good feed for horses, mules, oxen, and dairy cows, reports J. C. Grimes of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Experiment Station.

By feeding cottonseed meal, farmers of the state will not only make use of a home-grown product but will avoid paying the transportation costs on thousands of tons of feed shipped into the state each year, it is pointed out.

It has been generally known throughout the state for many years that cottonseed meal was a good feed for dairy cows but now Mr. Grimes announces that "cottonseed meal is a good feed for horses and mules" and that "money can be saved by feeding this class of animals the proper kind and the correct amount of feed to maintain the desired condition and to provide for the necessary power demanded during the different seasons of the year."

Suggested rations for feeding horses, mules, oxen, and dairy cows may be obtained free by seeing the county agent or by writing Mr. Grimes at the Experiment Station, Auburn, Alabama.

"As cottonseed meal is a very rich and concentrated feed, in starting the mules on feed, use one-fourth of a pound daily and increase the quantity of the meal gradually," he advises farmers.

COTTON CROP FOR '35 IS ANNOUNCED BY SEC. WALLACE

Cotton production for 1935 has been fixed by Secretary Wallace at 10,500,000 bales of 500 pounds each.

This was the figure set under provisions of the Bankhead cotton production control act.

An additional 700,000 bales not sold during 1934 was added to the 1935 figure.

The 1935 quota represented an increase of approximately 1,224,000 bales over 1934. The 1934 quota was 10,476,000 bales of 478 pounds net weight.

The quota in bales of 478 pounds net weight and last year's carry-over would bring the total to 11,700,000 bales.

Secretary Wallace also announced that under the voluntary cotton adjustment program producers would be allowed to make an additional cut in acreage up to 35 percent of their base acreage and receive additional benefit payments.

Under the adjustment program as originally announced farmers were asked to reduce acreage between 25 and 30 percent.

If cooperating producers take advantage of this offer and a majority of those who did not sign contracts heretofore come into the program approximately $130,000,000 in rental and benefit payments will be paid out under the voluntary program.

Wallace expressed the belief that not all of the 700,000 excess tax exemption certificates from 1934 would be used this year.

FARM INCOME IS OVER 6 BILLION

Farmers' cash income from marketings and benefit payments will be between $6,100,000,000 and $6,125,000,000 for the year 1934 or slightly higher than earlier estimates, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The increase over early forecasts is attributed to "unusually heavy marketings of corn in August and September and greater than expected increase in income from sales of tobacco."

FARM CONDITIONS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Farm conditions throughout Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana continue to show improvement, and farmers generally have a renewed feeling of optimism and hope for the future, declared J. M. Magruder, President of the New Orleans Federal Intermediate Credit Bank.

County School Work Is Progressing; Jobs Provided For 92 Men

The work on Shelby County Schools projects is progressing rapidly, states Supt. J. L. Appleton. The loan recently secured from P. W. A. funds has made possible the completion of nine of the school buildings on the repair program, and there are 19 different schools now in the process of being repaired.

Last week's pay roll revealed the fact that 92 workmen had been employed in these various projects which included 30 painters and 30 carpenters.

COUNTY DEATHS REPORTED DURING THE PAST MONTH

John Henry Steel, December 20th, Shelby.

Julian Radford, Calera, December 21st.

Nathan Richard Phillips, Montevallo, December 19th.

William Anderson Glass, Calera Rt. No. 1, November 5th.

Claude Ingram, Vincent, November 23rd.

Marcus Linholm, Marvel Rt. No. 1, December 11th.

Lloyd Franklin, infant of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Blackerby, Chelsea, January 2nd.

Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vanderslice, Shelby, December 15th.

Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hasty, Siluria Rt. No. 1, December 27.

Charles Wesley, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Morris, Calera, November 3rd.

Mrs. Eva Rebecca Zuiderhock, Siluria, December 6th.

Mrs. Safronia Roberson, Calera, December 25th.

Mrs. Martha T. Dennis, Helena, December 13th.

Mrs. Carrie Gewin, Calera Rt. No. 2, December 27th.

Ora Lee, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hester, Leeds Rt. No. 1, December 22nd.

PLANT YOUR IRISH POTATOES EARLY

The Irish potato, one of Alabama's leading food crops, should be planted early, advises L. H. Ware, of the Alabama Experiment Station.

"The two varieties most commonly grown in Alabama are the Cobbler and Triumph. If certified seed can be purchased, use them; they cost more but are worth more.

"Before planting, the land should be well prepared, the rows opened, and the fertilizer applied and well mixed with the soil. An application of a 4-10-7 (N-P-K) fertilizer used at the rate of 1500 pounds per acre (133 pounds for 1300 feet of row) will furnish the proper amounts of fertilizer ingredients in the right proportion. If this grade of fertilizer cannot be obtained from local dealers then 1800 pounds per acre (160 pounds for 1300 feet) of a cotton fertilizer analyzing 3-8-5 will furnish about the same ingredients. Should one prefer to mix his own fertilizer, then for each 100 pounds of fertilizer required mix 60 pounds of acid phosphate, 8 pounds of nitrate of soda, 6 pounds of ammonium sulphate, 20 pounds of cottonseed meal and 14 pounds of muriate of potash.

Potatoes should usually be planted 16 inches apart in 3-foot rows, and the seed cut into 1 ounce pieces. Should one wish to make very large yields, the size of seed may be increased to 1 1-2 ounce pieces and the space between pieces reduced to 12 inches.

COTTON IN STORAGE WORTH 61 MILLION

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, reports that cotton stored in Alabama warehouses the first of this year was worth approximately $61,200,000. There were 987,002 bales in storage in the state compared with 796,178 bales one year ago.

The value of the cotton in storage is worth over $19,000,000 more than at the same time last year.

South Awaits His Message

ACME NEWS SERVICE

DR. CHARLES H. HERTY

Although his topic will not be announced in advance, it is said that when Dr. Charles H. Herty addresses the meeting of Southern Agricultural Workers in Atlanta on January 31 he will have a message of utmost importance to the entire South.

Many notables plan to attend the banquet at which Dr. Herty will speak. In addition, several "radio dinners" have been arranged throughout the South for the purpose of hearing Dr. Herty's message.

HOUSING PLAN IS IMPORTANT FOR RECOVERY DRIVE

James A. Moffett, Federal Housing Administrator, says: The past year is likely to be remembered hereafter as the beginning of an authentic new era in the housing of the American people.

It also marks the inauguration of what may very well prove to be the most important financial reform in the history of our country through the National Housing Act.

Community campaigns are being conducted throughout Alabama thru the office of Robert Jemison, Jr., State Director.

For particulars, literature and any information available for persons interested in this important financial reform, call by the Democrat office in Columbiana. We shall be glad to assist you by putting you in contact with the persons representing this branch of service in Shelby County.

A complete list of officers in Columbiana, will be printed in this paper next week.

METHODIST NOTES

Sunday morning at the Methodist Church, the pastor, the Rev. Henry M. Hurst will discuss "Meeting the Wiles of the Eenmy." And at 7 o'clock the subject is "Striking Sin a Death Blow."

A "Go to Church" campaign is to be put on in the near future, but why not start in as a regular attendant before any high preasure is put on?

The District Missionary Institute meets at First Church, Talladega, next Thursday, February 7th. A large delegation is expecting to attend from Columbiana Church.

HOME - MIXED DOG RATION PREPARED

AUBURN, Ala.—A dog ration, known as the "Auburn Home-Mixed Dog Ration," has been developed by W. D. Salmon of the State Experiment Station. The ration follows:

Yellow corn meal, 350 pounds; wheat bran, 100 pounds; wheat middlings, 200 pounds; meat scraps (55 to 60 per cent protein), 100 pounds; fish meal (55 to 60 per cent protein), 100 pounds; skim milk powder or dried buttermilk, 100 pounds; alfalfa meal or alfalfa leaf meal, 20 pounds; bone meal, 20 pounds; salt, 10 pounds.

A leaflet, No. 13, "Dog-Feeding Suggestions," giving information on the palatability of the ration, together with the quantity, method and frequency of feeding, may be obtained without cost by writing the Experiment Station at Auburn.

FARMERS OFFERED FARM REPAIR AID BY GOVERNMENT

For several years past, farm homes and farm buildings all over America have been sta... down hill" for lack of normal ... and attention. Many farmers and farm owners have not provided for necessary alterations, repairs and improvements to their buildings because of hesitation to spend their own funds, or because the sources of farm credit were "frozen."

The Federal Government now comes to the aid of farmers to help them obtain funds for making the proper improvements. The plans have the approval of the Alabama Extension Service, the State Department of agriculture, the division of Vocational Education, and the Alabama Relief Administration.

1. Who may apply: Any farm owner.

2. To whom do I apply? To any National Bank, State Bank or Trust Company, Savings Bank, Industrial Bank, Building and Loan Association, Production Credit Association, or any financial institution approved by the Federal Housing Administration—or to a contractor or building supply dealer working with any of the above or with one of the many finance companies handling this type of business.

'DRYS' ORGANIZE FOR REPEAL FIGHT; RALLY DATES SET

A mass meeting of the citizens of Columbiana was called for Sunday afternoon, and was held in the court room. The object of the meeting was to perfect a county organization to fight Repeal of the Prohibition Laws in the State of Alabama.

Rev. D. Z. Wooley, introduced the Rev. H. M. Hurst, who made the opening remarks explaining the purpose of the meeting and called on representatives from various Precincts for short talks.

The following officers were elected: Luther Fowler, Chairman; J. M. Lyon, Vice Chairman; and W. J. Horsley, Secretary-Treasurer.

Dr. Mary Moore McCoy, of Alabama College, made a most impressive address, after which Precinct leaders met with the newly elected officials to plan for further organization.

A Young People's Rally is called for next Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock and a County-wide Rally for the last week in February is scheduled.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION WILL MEET AT ENON

The mid-term session of the Shelby County Baptist Association will be held at Enon Church the 2nd week in February. A program is now being arranged which will appear in this paper next week. (Signed)

Rev. D. Z. Wooley.

NEARLY ALL CORN-HOG PRODUCERS ARE ELIGIBLE

AUBURN, Ala. — Practically all producers of corn and hogs, whether or not they took part in the 1934 program, are eligible to sign a 1935 adjustment contract and receive benefit payments, says the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

TAX-EXEMPTION POOL WILL CLOSE, FEB. 9TH

AUBURN, Ala.—The National Surplus Cotton Tax-exemption Certificate Pool has announced that the sale of surplus cotton certificates will end at midnight, February 9th. Alabama farmers needing certificates are advised to obtain them immediately.

HOME-GROWN FEED IS AN ESSENTIAL

AUBURN, Ala.—"Successful livestock production depends on home-grown feeds. In your farming plans for 1935 you should attempt to produce the necessary feed for the livestock on your farm," writes F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, to Alabama livestock producers.

GOVERNMENT JOBS OPEN; EXAM DATE CLOSES, FEB. 18TH

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

... draftsman (highway), $1,800 ... Bureau of Public Roads.

Junior medical officer (interne), St. Elizabeths Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Associate supervisor of elementary education, $3,200 a year, Indian Field Service.

The closing date for receipt of applications for these examinations is February 18, 1935.

The salaries named are subject to a deduction of not to exceed 5 per cent during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, as a measure of economy, and also to a deduction of 3 1-2 percent toward a retirement annuity.

All states except Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C. Of the positions named, only engineering draftsman is affected by the State apportionment law.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

U. S. Civil Service Commission Warns Against Misleading Information.

The United States Civil Service Commission says that numerous letters received at its office from different parts of the country indicate that misleading information is being given to the public by agents of some of the correspondence schools which give instruction in preparation for civil-service examinations.

To guard against the loss of money paid for tuition of this kind the Civil Service Commission informs the public as follows:

No one can promise appointments to positions for which the United States Civil Service Commission holds examinations. The claim that such assurance can be given brands the person making it as a fraud.

Information regarding examinations for the United States Civil Service may be obtained from the boards of United States Civil Service Examiners. There is such a board in each community which has a post office of the first or the second class. In nearly all cities the civil service board is located at the post office.

Before paying money for tuition, or signing a contract, it is advisable to make inquiry concerning the prospect of examinations. There is reason to believe that agents of some schools deceive the public as to the probability of early examinations.

No school has advance information regarding the need for employees or the probability of examinations.

Simple Farm Seed Scarifier Developed By Dept. of Agric.

Many Alabama farmers with Crotalaria and Lespedeza seed to scarify are manifesting a great deal of interest in a homemade barrel seed scarifier, operated either by hand or mechanical power, developed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"If a small concrete mixer is available it will do the work well without requiring any alterations," says the department.

Leaflet No. 107, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, contains drawings of the scarifier and gives detailed instructions for its use. The leaflet may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at 5 cents a copy.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the recent illness and death of our daughter, Irene. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Pruett and children.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

President's Four Billion Dollar Relief Program Jammed Through House After Bitter Fight—Hauptmann Takes Stand in Own Defense.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

ADMINISTRATION forces using steam roller tactics crushed all opposition to jam the President's $4,800,000,000 relief program through the house. Efforts to fight the grant of such unprecedented authority to the President were unavailing as the White House cracked the whip over revolting representatives. Final vote on the measure was 328 to 78.

President Roosevelt

The vote climaxed a furious eight-hour debate on the measure. Members attempted to attach amendments which would protect private industry from government projects which might be launched under the relief plan. When this failed they endeavored to allocate the money for specific purposes.

When the debate had reached its height, the President sent a message to the house declaring it would be impossible to segregate items for which the money would be expended, but that the huge outlay of sums would be devoted to public projects and that after the immediate crisis of unemployment had passed it was his hope that the country could set aside $500,000,000 a year for the "national plan."

The White House message was the signal for the Democratic majority to push the message across with little change from its original form. On the final vote 26 Republicans voted for the bill. Seven Progressives and three Farmer-Laborites also registered affirmative votes. Ten Democrats, five from Georgia, three from Virginia, and two from Indiana, voted with the opposition.

Because of the gag rule adopted by the house, only amendments offered by the appropriations committee could be considered in vital sections of the measure. Such minor amendments as were decided upon went through without serious opposition.

One of the amendments striking out a list of projects that might be included in spending the $4,000,000,000 and left the vast sum to be used for "federal or nonfederal projects" actually broadened the powers of the President. The $800,000,000 will be used at the President's discretion for relief purposes while the program is being put into effect.

Another amendment struck out a subsection which gave the President authority to postpone the end of any existing government agency. This was a move to satisfy certain Democrats who were opposed to Secretary Ickes, and his PWA program which expires in June. Another clause granting authority to the President to acquire personal property by the power of eminent domain was also removed, as was the section granting the Chief Executive the power to impose two years' imprisonment on any violator. The only other amendment which succeeded in passage was one which provided that an accounting be made for all moneys spent.

Minority Leader Snell attacked the bill declaring that the money involved amounted to one-eighth of the national income, and that the house was entitled to know what the money was for. Later in conceding the minority's defeat he said that if the opposition was free to speak its mind, the bill would be defeated two to one, but that under the executive lash, there was no chance of defeating it.

NEW DEALERS sighed with relief as the Supreme court recessed until February 4 without handing down its decision in the gold cases, thus giving the administration more time in which to prepare legislation designed to handle the situation in the event the court renders an adverse decision.

At the same time the court promised to decide a case presenting a clear-cut test of the constitutionality of the national recovery act, and which will probably have considerable effect upon the ultimate fate of the already bedraggled Blue Eagle.

LEGISLATION which would permit the small investor to buy government securities and which provides for radical changes in government financing has been introduced in the house by Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee.

The bill, prepared by the Treasury department, places the administration squarely against inflation. It provides authority to raise money necessary for the public works, social security and similar measures, meet federal deficits, and might even be used to provide funds for payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Under provisions of the measure there would be ten-year bonds in amounts as small as $25, and as explained by the Treasury department, would be sold below par. There would be no interest, but each six months the bonds would appreciate in value at the rate of 2½ per cent, plus compounded earnings.

Huge sums are involved; first, the creation of a revolving bond authorization fund of $2,500,000,000; and second, the consolidation of the two present revolving funds of $10,000,000,000 each into a joint $20,000,000,000 fund for bills, certificates and notes.

A NEW lease of life for the Reconstruction Finance corporation was seen as a result of a favorable vote by the senate banking committee, after hearing Jesse Jones RFC chairman, and Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie of the interstate commerce commission.

The proposed bill permits the RFC to buy railroad obligations in reorganization proceedings with the approval of the ICC; to buy stock in mortgage loan companies and similar financial institutions; to purchase the assets of closed banks under certain conditions; to increase authorized investments in preferred stock and capital notes of insurance companies, and to continue the Commodity Credit corporation and the Export-Import bank.

WHITE-FACED, under the glare of the courtroom lights, but apparently cool, Bruno Richard Hauptmann took the stand to begin his fight for life. The little Flemington (N. J.) courthouse was packed as the man accused of the murder of the first-born son of Charles A. Lindbergh began his testimony which he appears confident will save him from the electric chair.

Bruno Hauptmann

Calmly, he told of his early life, of his war service, and admitted that he had once been convicted in Germany. His thick, guttural voice resounded through the room as he recounted how he had made three attempts to enter this country before he was successful.

Under the smooth questioning of Chief Defense Counsel Reilly he related the details of his life up until the time of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, and then proposed the alibi upon which he is apparently relying for acquittal.

Hauptmann declared that on the night of April 2, 1932, when $50,000 was paid to a man in St. Raymond's cemetery, New York, he, his wife and a man named Kloppenberg had been at home until about eleven o'clock and that he did not leave his home at all that evening. He also denied that he had been absent from work on the day the kidnaping took place.

Two witnesses introduced by the defense to establish Hauptmann's alibi were not entirely satisfactory. Christian Frederickson, Bronx baker, said Hauptmann's wife had been employed in his store as a waitress and counter girl and that the accused had called for her on the night of March 1. Upon cross-examination, however, he stated that he was not sure, but that it must have been so because it was Hauptmann's custom to call for his wife whenever she worked late.

Mrs. Frederickson also stated that Mrs. Hauptmann worked late on the night of March 1, but was unable to say whether Hauptmann had been at the bakery. She stated, however, that she had seen Isador Fisch, furrier friend of Hauptmann who died in Germany, on the eve of his sailing for Germany in November, 1932. She said Fisch displayed a large sum of money, but she was unable to say whether it was in greenbacks or gold certificates.

Throughout Hauptmann's testimony Colonel Lindbergh continued to stare at him. During the court session, Lindbergh reiterated his belief that Hauptmann's voice was the same as that of the mysterious "John" who had hoaxed him out of the ransom money nearly three years ago.

WAR flamed again in Manchukuo as Japanese troops struck suddenly at three points in Chahar province in northern China. Three fortified cities were shelled, and there were indications that the drive had only begun.

The Japanese attack came as a surprise since it was reported that negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the dispute over Chahar province had been nearing a successful conclusion. Japan had asserted that Chinese troops in Chahar had invaded Jehol.

Military authorities declined to announce the real objective of the drive. The district which the Japanese troops occupied is about 150 miles long by 50 miles wide, and is said to contain valuable gold mines.

Japan's action is seen by Chinese leaders as a determined gesture to intimidate Mongolian princes of Inner Mongolia and to cut the overland route connecting Peiping with Urga, capital of Soviet controlled Outer Mongolia.

The situation is viewed with considerable apprehension by Soviet Russia. The drive will bring Japanese military operations into direct contact with the borders of Outer Mongolia, and practically all high officials of the territory who have been attending the Soviet anniversary celebrations in Moscow have hurried back to their provinces.

JAPAN'S foreign minister, Koki Hirota, warned Soviet Russia that she should stop fortifying the Siberian frontier north of Manchukuo if friendly relations are to be continued between the two countries. His remarks, made in an address before the imperial diet, had special significance in view of reports that Japanese troops are invading Chahar province to prevent Sovietization of that region.

Russian fortifications in the Far East, particularly of the strategic crossings of the Amur river, are becoming increasingly irksome to the Japanese army in Manchukuo. Other projects to which Japan is objecting are double-tracking of the Trans-Siberian railway to Vladivostock and remodeling of the strong fortifications of that Pacific port.

Government officials in Washington were said to be favorably impressed with part of Hirota's address which referred to Japan's desire to avoid further expansion of armament. It is hoped that negotiations will be resumed soon for another agreement to replace the renounced Washington treaty which established the 5-5-3 ratio for the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

RECOMMENDATIONS that America's air defense facilities be greatly increased will be made by President Roosevelt in a special message soon to be sent to congress, it has been indicated by those close to the administration. Construction of a series of air bases for the United States, the addition of 4,000 planes to the service, and building a huge dirigible will be among the projects which the President approves.

The proposed construction is in accord with a report just made by the special aviation commission. It is the purpose of the commission to lease the dirigible to a commercial firm as a sister ship to the Graf Zeppelin which will start regular transatlantic service within a few weeks.

The series of bases along the Pacific and Atlantic coasts will make America impregnable to air attack, the commission believes, while the addition of 4,000 planes to the army and navy service will bring it up to far more than the existing fighting strength.

The commission has also recommended creation of a special five-man aviation commission to regulate civil aeronautics.

THE death toll continued to mount as reports seeped in from northwest Mississippi and southwest Tennessee where the turbulent Coldwater river was a raging torrent, threatening the lives and property of thousands in its march to the Tallahatchie basin.

Freezing weather added to the suffering of thousands driven from their homes. Workers toiled to rescue as many as possible of those who had been marooned on roof tops and in trees. A number of communities have been evacuated because it is feared the waters will continue to spread. Appeals for additional help in caring for the homeless have been made by public officials, and Red Cross aid has been rushed to the stricken areas.

POSSIBILITY of a move by the Italian government to make a protectorate out of Ethiopia was seen by European statesmen. Exploitation of the announcement of the slaying of a French Somaliland administrator and 96 French Somaliland adployees and Somalis was said to indicate that a movement was on for Italy to take over the mountainous African kingdom to restore order. The consent of France and Great Britain to the plan has been obtained, it was reported.

Premier Mussolini

A number of recent developments point toward some action by the Italian government. Premier Mussolini recently took over the office of minister of colonies; Gen. Emilio de Bono, former minister of colonies, was named high commissioner of Italian East Africa; military roads have been constructed through Italian Somaliland to the Ethiopian frontier; and the Italians have recently taken over a bigger share in the operation of the Djibouti and Addis Abbaba railway.

Recent history affords a number of precedents for the Italian government to follow. Japanese intervention in Manchuria was "to restore order and reduce Chinese banditry," and Italy might use the excuse of reducing Ethiopian banditry as a reason for invasion. The British action in Egypt and the Sudan, and the French subjugation of Tunis also offer parallel cases.

EUROPEAN statesmen anxiously watched developments in the cantons of Eupen and Malmedy on the Belgian frontier as gendarmerie re-enforcements were rushed to arrest Nazi agitators who have been advocating annexation of that territory with the German reich. Loyalists report a campaign of terrorism has been carried on against those who have refused to join an organization directed by the Brown Shirts. The Belgian government is expected to lodge a complaint with the League of Nations.

The cantons which were taken from Germany under the Versailles treaty have considerable commercial importance. Formerly a part of Rhenish Prussia, they have an area of about 400 square miles and a population in excess of 60,000 people. Eupen boasts spinning mills and other establishments connected with the textile industry, iron foundries, machine shops and tanneries.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—Probability that congress will enact legislation forcing every state bank (except mutual savings banks) to take out a federal charter increased considerably with endorsement of the plan by Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts. McCormack is a member of the house ways and means committee, which does not deal with banking legislation, but the importance of his view on this subject is due not to his committee connection, but to his own influence in the houses, plus the fact that he is very obviously carrying the flag for the Treasury department.

No one in the treasury, from Secretary Morgenthau down, and including Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, is talking on this subject at all. It is not a subject which lends itself to much open talking, for to advocate such a change is to antagonize not only the stockholders, officers and directors of all the state banking institutions, but the 48 state banking offices. The latter see in any move to end state banks a threat at their jobs. And some of them are quite important politically.

But down underneath the administration is strong for a unified banking system, for much the same reasons as voiced by McCormack. And if treasury officials see a chance to get the desired legislation enacted they will come out for it strongly. They have several influential members of the house and senate talking their arguments—without official authority—and trying to find out what the chances are.

For in the nature of things the administration would much rather this particular move originate in congress than to demand it. And it is not vital enough to President Roosevelt's program for him to turn the heat on members whose connections back home would make it politic for them to oppose the change.

"The present depression has shown the weakness of the present banking structure," Mr. McCormack told the writer. "The conflict of laws and of supervision is responsible for much of our banking troubles. The idea of having 49 authorities granting charters to banks is absurd. The idea of 49 agencies examining banks to see if they are solvent, and are complying with 49 sets of banking laws, is ridiculous.

Require Federal Charter

"I would force every bank doing a commercial business to take out a federal charter. In fact, I would permit no bank save mutual savings banks to do what is normally regarded as a banking business. Then all the banks that loan money commercially would have similar charters, granted under the same laws and by the same agency of the government, and all would be examined by the same agency. It is not just a question of economy. That is important enough, but the benefits of the change far transcend that.

"I am not discussing the central bank idea, nor the authority of the Federal Reserve board over the 12 regional banks. I am considering simply the question of granting charters, and of examining the banks which loan money to our citizens.

"I am strongly in favor of our dual system of government, national and state, and I would resist strongly the encroachment of the federal government on the rights, functions and prerogatives of the states. But times and conditions change. It is no longer the case that what happens to our banks in Boston is confined, in its effects, within the state lines of Massachusetts.

"Any ten-year-old child knows that if a group of banks, or perhaps only one big bank, should close in Chicago, the reverberations would affect business harmfully from Maine to California. The people of Oregon have a right to have their national government protect them from harm, which may come to them through reckless banking in Florida.

"I meet men who oppose this change. In defending state rights they ask me if I would have the federal government take over conduct of the schools also. It seems to me that the line of demarkation is very clear. Of course I would not want to have the federal government take over the conduct of the schools.

Would Affect All

"Suppose anything imaginable that might happen in the schools of my city of Boston—a strike of the pupils, or the inclusion of some debatable subject in the curriculum, or whatnot. How could that possibly affect the people of Kentucky? Or Texas?

"But if two or three big banks in Boston failed, every bank in those states, and every other state, would be affected, seriously, and at once. And those failures might be due entirely to perfunctory, careless, or even crooked examination of those banks by the state banking examiners, or perhaps by some oversight in drafting the state banking laws, or any one of a dozen things about the set-up with which no one outside Massachusetts had anything to do whatever.

"Many of us remember the so-called panic of 1907. It was started by the collapse of the Knickerbocker Trust company in New York city. There was no excuse for a depression at that time. It was simply a money panic produced by a very local situation. We learned our lesson from that. As a result, we had first the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency bill, and later the federal reserve system.

"Now the time has come to take the next step, and make impossible for the future nation-wide troubles due to preventable local disturbances. Banking is not a local function any more. It is national, if not international. So it must be controlled, in toto and not just in part, by the strong arm of the federal government."

Extend Authority

Not only does the administration want to force all commercial banks to become national banks, as told in a recent dispatch, but it desires to have the authority of the Federal Reserve board over the 12 regional banks made a great deal stronger.

The fact is the aim of the administration is not very different from the purpose of the late Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, whose central bank studies were actually the basis of the federal reserve system.

When the Democrats came into power in 1913 they rewrote the Aldrich bill, giving him as little credit as possible. They did not change the fundamental features very much, but in several spectacular details they varied it. One of the most important details, in the minds of the Democratic framers, including Senator Carter Glass, then chairman of the house banking and currency committee, and Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, then chairman of the senate committee of the same name, was that instead of one central reserve bank they made 12.

Carrying their idea of decentralization as far as possible, they gave a degree of independence to these 12 regional reserve banks, which has often irked the federal board since, and, for that matter, various Presidents, who found themselves unable to control the policies of the individual reserve banks as much as they would have liked.

Bearing in mind that one of the objects of the new system was to get the financial control of the country away from New York, and down to Washington, it is rather curious that the reserve bank which has given Washington the most trouble ever since has been the New York bank. Headed by strong-minded gentlemen who knew what they wanted, and had firmly fixed notions of what was best, the New York bank again and again disregarded the pleadings, even, of the federal reserve authorities.

Irks Reserve Board

Reserve board members still remember with anger the stubbornness of the New York bank in the early days of 1929, when the reserve board was doing its utmost to stop the sensational rise in prices on the stock exchange. This effort, backed by President Hoover, proved futile. What would have happened, if the New York bank had been under the control of the reserve board, no one is sure. But as good an illustration as any other is that the federal board began trying to hold down speculation when American Telephone was around 225. Whereas the boom gayly continued until this stock touched 310.

Many contend that anything done at that time would have been futile so far as heading off the crash is concerned, but the present administration wants to be able to control the reserve banks—to be able to give them orders.

This is not the same as the central bank idea about which so much has been heard, and which Secretary Morgenthau has advocated. So far there is no indication that President Roosevelt has been convinced of the necessity of this. On the contrary, all indications are that he is not for it.

But there is no doubt that he does want more control of the reserve banks vested in the Federal Reserve board. Various plans are being advocated, one of them being to give the reserve board the right to appoint the governors of the 12 reserve banks. For the most part the governors have been the "strong men" of the reserve bank boards, generally overshadowing the federal agents who generally acted as chairmen of the boards.

This is just another step in the march of the administration to complete domination by the federal government of the banking structure of the United States, federal control of credit in the interest of recovery, maintenance of prosperity, retarding of speculation, or whatever may be at the moment the policy of the federal government.

Soldier Bonus

The very top figure on which the administration is willing to compromise on the soldier bonus is $1,200,000,000. So that the fight is to save something like $1,000,000,000 more. Friends of President Roosevelt say the sky is pretty nearly the limit to which he is willing to go in fighting to hold the bonus figure at $1,200,000,000.

If the bill which should pass congress exceeds that amount, the President will veto it, beyond any doubt.

The next step is not much in dispute among those who have canvassed the situation. The house will pass the bonus bill, in whatever form it may be by that time, by more than the necessary two-thirds majority to enact a measure over the veto.

The only doubt is as to the senate. Friends of the White House are confident that they will be able to prevent a two-thirds majority for a bonus bill larger than $1,200,000,000. Bonus advocates think they are fairly sure they can muster the necessary vote.

Any opinion based on the canvasses is only an opinion. It cannot be anything else for the simple reason that there is a small number of senators who do not themselves know at the moment what they will do in such an emergency.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

BRITAIN PLANTING TREES

About 50,000,000 trees are to be planted in the United Kingdom by the forestry commissioners this winter, providing employment for about 3,500 men.

The total area is 21,000 acres, of which 13,000 are in England and Wales and 8,000 in Scotland. About 750 acres are to be added to the New forest, called "New" because it was planted by William the Conqueror in the Eleventh century, and 600 acres to the forest of Dean. The largest forests, totaling 3,400 acres, will be planted in the northeastern counties.

Doctors Know!

... and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset.

To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Eastern Wisdom

Choose a wife rather by the ear than the eye.—From the Chinese.

300 CANDLEPOWER LIGHT for 1¢ A NIGHT

WITH A Coleman LAMP

Priced As Low As $5.95 Complete

Light that floods the whole room with a clear mellow radiance! The nearest to daylight of any artificial light.

More light than 30 common kerosene lamps. It's light that protects your sight! Plenty of light for every home need. Easy to operate . . . easy to keep going. Only Coleman gives you so much light for so little cost. Beautiful new models with parchment shades.

See your hardware or housefurnishing dealer. If he doesn't handle, write us.

The Coleman Lamp & Stove Company
Dept. WU12S, Wichita, Kans.; Chicago, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Toronto, Ontario, Canada (6128)

And Unregretted

The miser dies that fools and lawyers may live.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

COUGHS

That's the Difference

The fool wanders, the wise man travels.

Help Kidneys

- If poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Smarting, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Sis-tex) —Must fix you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.

Cystex

PROSPECTIVE MOTHERS

Mrs. Elese Crenshaw of 1813 Ellis St., Augusta, Ga., said: "Before the birth of my first child I was in misery with my back, when I sat down it was hard for me to get up. I was weak and cramps in my limbs made me very restless at night. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and my whole system was strengthened by this tonic and I was able to sleep again."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

ITCHING TOES

Burning, sore, cracked, soon relieved and healing aided with safe, soothing—

Resinol

Broadway Columnist Articles, natural color pictures, news stories, photographs, etc. One month service 10c. MINTO CLIPPING SERVICE, 101 Madison St., New York City

WNU—8 5—35

IMPORTED PERFUMES. Excellent French extracts. Special offer, 30c ¼ oz. bottle. Postcard brings list of 13 exquisite odors. KAMEREN, Box 876, Terre Haute, Ind.

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter, which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin.

CHAPTER V—Continued

—12—

Flynn and Angelloti needed no second invitation. They searched the house thoroughly and returned to the little drawing room to finish their drinks.

"You've taken her away," Flynn charged. "Where did you take her?"

"If you're such good detectives, go find her." Lanny was getting her courage back again. "She did come here, but I wasn't fool enough to receive her. She came in a car with two men and she did faint in my hallway and lie there for a little while. Of course she expected—why, I can't imagine—that I'd hide her and nurse her. But she's neither a friend nor a relative of mine; she met me once in Doctor Burt's office where I am employed and took a liking to me—in her funny way. She's a psycho-neurotic personality. She wrote me, asking me to call upon her, and I did—like a fool—because I felt sorry for her. She should be in a sanitarium, not a jail."

"Who brought her to Doctor Burt's office?"

"Chief McNamara."

Messrs. Flynn and Angelloti sat up. They glanced slowly at each other. "The old man's been up to his old tricks again," said Flynn. "What became of Nance Belden after you refused to receive her?"

"She left in the automobile." Lanny was careful not to state which automobile or whose.

"You're an accessory to her escape. It was your duty, as a citizen, to hold her here, telephone police headquarters and have her taken down to the emergency hospital for treatment. You can go to the pen for this."

"Get out of my house," Lanny commanded fiercely.

"Sure, but you come with us." Thus Angelloti.

"You can't arrest me without a warrant."

"I said before, you ain't such a good lawyer. We can always pick up anybody that carries a gun without a permit. Into your hat and coat, Miss Lanning, and come with us."

"I'll telephone my lawyer and then go with you," said Lanny with dignity.

"Nothing doing," Flynn declared firmly.

"You two dare lay hands on me and I'll have you both broke, understand. Be careful. Call up Chief McNamara before you get fresh with me. The telephone is in the kitchen."

Flynn went into the kitchen and called up Dan McNamara. He was much subdued upon his return, and Lanny smiled. "We'll get you yet," he growled. "You must have a drag with the chief. He's pulled us off the case. Good night."

When they had gone, Lanny put out the hall light and watched them from behind the door curtain. They crossed the street to their car, climbed in and settled down for an all-night vigil—at least so Lanny decided.

So she dragged the hall runner into the kitchen, scrubbed the bloody spot thoroughly and dried it over the gas stove, reviling herself the while.

* * * * * * * *

To the surprise of the machine gunner, Chief Dan McNamara did not ask him a single personal question—not even his name. Nor did he question him regarding his wounded friend. He and the chief partook of a breakfast which the Tommy man prepared, and discussed marksmanship, wounds, battles and sudden death. As the chief was leaving, he gave the machine gunner a list of tradesmen who supplied his house, and told him to telephone his orders; when delivery was made, they were to be left on a table in the basement.

"And don't you answer the telephone and don't show yourself outside or near the front windows," he warned.

The fellow nodded. "By the way, Chief, what's going to become of that speed boat? It belongs to Nance. She bought it for forty-five hundred dollars."

McNamara sat down and looked his amazement. "She paid forty-five hundred dollars for that boat—and yet she was doing time for pinching silk stockings? I don't like to ask you any questions you might be embarrassed to answer, boy, but today will be a total loss to me unless I find out where she keeps her bank roll."

"That's Nance's business an' I'll not discuss it. She sent the check out in the letter outlinin' her plan of escape."

"Who received the letter?"

"A friend who showed it to us—and we decided to help Nance out. We both owed her a debt we couldn't see no other way of payin'."

"But didn't you figure out the risks?"

"Sure—an' discounted 'em. Machine-gun fire ain't no new thing to us. We figured them guards wasn't top-notch machine gunners anyhow—that is, at long ranges. They never expect to have to do anything but close-range work; they know how to handle their guns, but they don't have their regular periods of target practice on the range, like a soldier does. In our boat, headed straight away from the fire at forty-five miles an hour, it would take an expert to get on us. An' they wouldn't know for sure whether we were accomplices or not until Nance reached the boat and we started pullin' her in; then, of course, they'd let us have it. But their first bursts on the boat were just as liable to be overs and shorts and we'd have the girl aboard before they could correct.

"There were eight other boats in the cove. Six of 'em was in our pay an' they was strung along in a line, so close together that as we run down the line o' them the guards would hold their fire for fear o' riddlin' innocent parties.

"An' we had another advantage. That speed boat throws a wide white bow wave, an' the water for fifty feet behind her and twenty feet on each side is a smother of foam when she's doing her stuff—bullets couldn't throw up any water that could be seen from a distance in the big spray. When you're machine gunnin' a fast movin' target, you got to see where your shots are droppin' if you're goin' to correct your range fast an' accurately. Then we had another advantage. The guards are in a watch tower on a hill or a high wall an' the early ranges they'd be firin' down hill. Even the work of an expert gunner, firin' at a down angle, goes off considerable. The cockpit was lined with steel, so after the boy friend got Nance aboard, they flopped and were safe. The only trouble was that the edge of one burst got Cates before he could flop. The front cockpit was steel lined, too."

This Tag Bore the Initials "N. B."

The man grinned sheepishly. "I wouldn't take that chance again, Chief. Those gunners were better than we figured them."

"You're both men after my own heart. Well, take good care of your friends. I've got to be on the job till midnight tonight."

"How long you goin' to keep us here?"

"You can bet your sweet life it won't be very long. You're too dangerous to me."

In his official car, driven by a policeman chauffeur, McNamara motored down to central station, where he immediately sent upstairs for Nance Belden's record and photographs and proceeded to San Quentin.

"Did that Belden girl who escaped yesterday leave anything in her cell? Letters, photographs?" he asked the warden.

"I've been in such a stew over her escape I haven't thought of investigating that angle," the warden confessed

Ten minutes later he was in the cell, carefully looking over the clothing Nance Belden had left behind her. On a slip he found a small, cloth-covered metal tag, such as dry cleaners clamp on garments to identify them. This tag bore the initials "N. B." Inside and just below the collar of a worn tailored suit he found the silk tag which tailors sew into the garments they manufacture. This tag carried the name of "I. Abrahams, Ladies' Tailor, 314 San Fernando avenue, San Jose."

He snipped this tag out of the coat and rummaged through a suitcase under the bed. It contained a deck of playing cards, some clothing which yielded no clues and a blank check of the Security Trust company, of San Jose.

"Nothing of interest in the girl's abandoned effects," he reported to the warden. "By the way, I want to have a chin-chin with one of your prisoners—Benny Beetle, Number 41,322."

"Will you do me a favor, Benny?" the chief asked him when he came in.

"Only one, Dan? I owe you three."

"We'll forget the other two and collect on one. Do you know the good conduct prisoner who works in the identification bureau?"

The Beetle nodded.

"Know anybody whose time is up shortly?"

"My cell-mate."

"If he could bring me word that the photographs, fingerprints and Bertillon measurements of Nance Belden—remember that name?—have mysteriously disappeared, I'd be inclined to be his friend if he got into a jam later on and it wasn't too serious."

"I'll do what I can for you, Chief. I'll ask Bender. He's assistant to the file clerk."

"See him in the mess-hall at noon. And see somebody in the prison print shop. They're probably running off placards to send to all the postmasters in the state. That's where they advertise for escaped prisoners—in post office lobbies. Can't let those placards with the halftone photos and Bertillon measurements get out, you know. Good-by, Benny and thanks a lot."

From San Quentin Dan McNamara motored down to San Jose and called upon I. Abrahams, ladies' tailor.

"Mr. Abrahams, have you ever made a tailored suit for a girl with a nose that something has smashed flat in the middle?"

"Sure I have," Abrahams replied. "You mean Miss Penelope Gatlin, don't you?"

Abrahams looked in his card index cabinet, then opened a large book in which he kept his customers' measurements recorded, together with a sample of the cloth from which each order has been cut. Dan McNamara unhesitatingly placed his finger on one of these samples. "That was the cloth."

"Sure, that was the suit I made for Miss Gatlin two years ago,"

"Did Miss Gatlin live in this city? If so, I'd like to have her address."

Ten minutes later, McNamara was pressing the bell at the door of the house in South Mariposa street.

"Does Miss Gatlin live here?" he queried.

"Not any more. She used to live here with her mother, but she disappeared about two years ago, and her mother sold this house to the lady I work for."

"Where is Mrs. Gatlin now?"

"We don't know."

"Thank you," and McNamara directed his driver to go to the Security Trust company, where he sent his card in to the president. He was received promptly.

CHAPTER VI

"Do you happen to have an account in the name of Penelope Gatlin?" Chief McNamara asked the banker.

"Both a trust account and a checking account, Chief. We had her father's account for years before he was unfortunately killed in an automobile accident some eight years ago. We had the account of his divorced wife for quite a while, too, but she has closed that."

"Do you know where she lives at present?"

"I do not." He was interested. "But I remember her quite well—a very beautiful woman. Her first husband was a splendid chap—retail shoe dealer in this city, and very prosperous. He and his wife had a row and she divorced him and got the child. Gatlin was permitted by the court to have the child on two Sunday afternoons a month, and one day he took her to a ball game and they sat in the bleachers. A long hard ball flew into the bleachers and flattened the little girl's nose; Gatlin rushed the unconscious child to a hospital and his ex-wife came and took her home before anything but emergency treatment could be given. Gatlin suspected she was going to try to cure that ruined nose by prayer—so he kidnaped the child, was caught, arrested, and did sixty days in the county jail.

"While he was in jail Mrs. Gatlin fled to Europe with the little girl, and Gatlin was desolated. Subsequently Gatlin sold out his business, made most of his estate liquid and established a trust with us in favor of himself and his daughter. He had made a settlement with Mrs. Gatlin.

"When his wife fled to Europe with the child, Gatlin ceased to deposit the monthly check to her credit, in the belief that she'd write to know why. She didn't, but in some other manner he located her, and started for Europe with the intention of stealing the little girl from her. On the way to the station, an automobile hit the taxi he was in and Gatlin was killed."

"Did he leave a will?"

"He did. His daughter was his sole beneficiary. We were the executors and probated it. There was the ten thousand dollar letter of credit he had purchased just before starting on his fatal trip, and half a dozen pieces of city realty, which has since increased enormously in value. We advertised for the heir but received no answer, so the estate was closed and we handle it now, as trustee."

"How do you know Mrs. Gatlin has become Mrs. Merton?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

The Left-Handed Child

Many scientists feel that forcing a left-handed child to use its right hand for writing and other purposes will cause him to be slow-minded and irritated and may cause such nervous disorders as stuttering.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY

by Vance Wynn © Public Ledger

The Man With the Dark Lantern

WHO killed John Hayes in the old inn between London and Oxford? The facts can be stated very briefly. The gentleman in question was an English squire of great wealth.

On his way from the capital to the old university town he stopped at a tavern kept by Jonathan Bradford.

There were two other guests at the place and Mr. Hayes struck up an acquaintance with them.

They had supper together, and during the course of the meal the squire laughingly remarked that he had a large sum of money with him.

The two other guests—Brown and Harley—exchanged significant glances at this unexpected confidence.

Bradford, the landlord, was in the room at the time, and it was noticed he listened to this part of the conversation with eagerness, if not greediness.

Late that night each of the three guests was escorted to the room that had been assigned to him.

John Hayes was domiciled in a middle apartment on the second floor, and his valet was placed in a room on the same floor and in the rear of the house.

James Johnson, one of the permanent guests of the inn, sat up late that night reading.

He used a candle which stood in its socket on the table, and just when this began to sputter Johnson was aroused by sounds of a scuffle in the adjoining room.

This was the apartment to which John Hayes had been assigned.

Sounding the alarm, Johnson rushed to this room and, opening the door, rushed in.

To his horror he saw a man in the bed, covered with blood.

Standing over him, with a knife in his hand and a dark lantern fastened to his arm, was another man who averted his face.

Johnson was so petrified with astonishment that he was unable to speak.

Two other boarders came into the room, and they were so shocked that they were helpless.

In the meantime the man with the lantern slipped around the foot of the bed and out into the darkness of the night.

The police were summoned and they began the investigation to discover who killed John Hayes.

Suspicion pointed to the two men who had been the companions of the deceased at supper on the previous evening.

But when the inquest was held Mr. Johnson said that the man with the lantern and the knife who stood by the side of the bed was Jonathan Bradford, the keeper of the inn.

He was much confused at this charge, but positively denied that he was in any way responsible for the murder.

He said he had heard the groans of the dying man and had gone to the room to ascertain the cause of the trouble, and was thus found standing there by Johnson and the other boarders.

But the evidence was against him and he was convicted and duly executed according to law.

After it was all over one of the county detectives was curious enough to get a list of the property that had been stolen from the murdered man.

One of the articles was a gold snuff box which had engraved upon it the coat-of-arms of George I.

The investigator made a tour of the pawnshops of London and in one of them he found the gold snuff box.

With the assistance of the pawnbroker he managed to locate the man who had pledged the article.

And whom do you suppose it was, gentle reader?

None other than the valet of John Hayes, who had slept in the inn that night!

He was followed to a little room where he was living in London, but was found to be in a dying condition.

Before he passed away, however, he made a full confession, in which he admitted that he had gone into the room that night and murdered his master for his money.

It might be imagined that a cruel miscarriage of justice had occurred if another and even more startling revelation had not come to pass.

One of the men who accompanied Jonathan Bradford to the scaffold said that the inn keeper had told him that while he had not committed the murder, he was morally guilty.

He confessed that he had conceived the idea of killing the poor old man for his money and, securing a dark lantern and a knife, had slipped into his room for that purpose—only to find him dead by the hand of another.

WNU Service.

Sleep a Repair Period

Authorities agree that sleep is a repair period. According to the chemical theory, the body burns up cells during waking hours. This burning releases enegry. But, as when coal is burned, waste products form. These waste products act as poisons. They accumulate as the day wears on. They dull the mind and slow the body. During sleep another set of toxins is generated. In proper ratio these neutralize the toxins formed during waking hours. If a person gets too much sleep he has the same feeling as when he has had too little sleep.

POULTRY

POULTRY LEUCOSIS "CURES" UNCERTAIN

Money Spent on Remedies Is Not Good Judgment.

By Dr. Frank Thorp, Jr., Associate in Animal Pathology, University of Illinois.—WNU Service.

Buying so-called remedies to rid their flocks of leucosis disease, which includes such ailments as range paralysis, big liver disease, white eye, neuritis and leucemia, is likely to prove a waste of money for poultrymen. As yet there is no known cure for the malady.

Although comparatively new in this state, leucosis is apparently spreading throughout many flocks and threatens to become a serious poultry problem. All breeds of chickens appear to be susceptible to the disease. It affects both sexes alike and usually occurs between the ages of three and twelve months.

In spite of the fact that birds contracting leucosis cannot be cured, research investigations indicate that the disease can be controlled if poultrymen will carry out five more or less preventive measures, it is said. These include rigid culling to detect leucosis in the early stages of the disease, disposing of all diseased birds by killing and burning, buying hatching eggs, new breeding stock or baby chicks only from disease-free flocks and by following strict hygiene and sanitary practices. Should a poultryman believe that his flock may be infected with leucosis, immediate diagnosis can be made by a local veterinarian.

Symptoms of the disease are variable and depend largely upon the tissues affected. When the blood-forming organs are involved, general weakness and varying degrees of anemia and diarrhea are common symptoms The birds are likely to become poor in flesh.

Where the nerve type of disease is present, the chickens may become lame in one or both legs and the wings become droopy. These symptoms, too, will vary according to the location and degree of the tissue infection. When the brain is affected, odd head movements may be noted.

The eye type of infection is characterized by a loss of pigment in the iris, followed by a constriction of the pupil, and eventually impaired vision and blindness. Both eyes are involved as a rule, or become so during the early stages of the disease. Leucosis, however, should not be confused with tuberculosis, fowl typhoid, parasitism or chemical or bacterial poisoning.

Breeder Toms Should Be Selected With Much Care

Breeders of turkeys should buy toms for next spring's breeding pens early; for by so doing one has the benefit of first choice. To wait until breeding time means that a less desirable male will be the father of next year's turkey flock with a consequent increase in No. 2 birds, lower prices, and less profit from next year's operations.

If there is a flaw in the turkey breeder's make-up, says a writer in the Missouri Farmer, it is his fancy to fine feathers—rainbow tails and spots are common words in his vocabulary. And while it is true one might as well feed beautiful plumage as well as gray and chocolate colored tails, good color is much less important in breeding stock than vigor; for without vigor in the breeding stock the breeder is headed for the "rocks." One thing to bear in mind, however, is the fact that good color in a turkey is evidence that her ancestors have had the attention of a good breeder and that vigor is more likely to be present than in a bird of poor coloring.

Makeup of a Good Hen

A good hen should have a well developed heart girth, and the ribs should be well sprung and wide apart. She should be deep from the top to the back to the under side of the breast. The breast bone should be long, extending well to the front of the body and well to the rear. The back should be wide and long, and the hips wide apart. The head should be short and square, with prominent eyes. There should be good distance from the breast bones to the pubic bones. The shanks of a good hen are well bleached out.

Winter Sunshine Needed

We cannot ignore the need of poultry for winter sunshine. It is well known that ultra-violet rays are a powerful factor in increasing egg production, hatchability, and fertility, as well as in maintaining healthful conditions. Ultra-violet rays promote bone and body growth, and build vitamin D. During the winter months, when poultry is confined, reliable glass substitutes bring these rays indoors, whereas ordinary glass and soiled cloth curtains bar them.—Successful Farming.

Should Flock Be Housed?

Good housing is better for poultry than poor range (small lots, ground infected with disease and parasites); housed birds must have cod-liver oil or equivalent; range birds outlay confined birds; losses from epidemic diseases are about the same in both groups, although the range group is generally healthier; a cinder sun yard or wire sun porch is a good substitute for free range in the case of large flocks. Those are results of Ohio experiment station tests.

Housewife's Idea Box

When Molding Salads

Many salads such as chicken, crab, or tuna, look more appetizing if molded and placed on lettuce. You may use a custard cup to take the place of a regular mold. Wet the cup first, then press the salad into it. Hold the cup over the lettuce on the plate. The salad will come out easily and well molded.

THE HOUSEWIFE.

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc. WNU Service.

Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust — MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

The Goat

"Is your wife economical, old boy?"

"Oh, very. We do without practically everything I need."

CHAPPED LIPS

To quickly relieve chapping, roughness, cracking, apply soothing, cooling Mentholatum.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

Cuticura Talcum Powder

Protect your skin with a powder that is mildly antiseptic and at the same time fine, soft and smooth as silk. Fragrant, oriental balsamic essential oils comprise the medication of Cuticura Talcum. Instantly upon touching the skin these oils start their soothing, healing work and you are protected against irritation.

Price 25c.

Proprietors: Potter Drug & Chemical Corporation, Malden, Mass.

HELP KIDNEYS

IF your kidneys function badly and you have a lame, aching back, with attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains . . . use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (for Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO. Chattanooga, Tenn.

We have some real bargains in good used pianos, organs and radios in different counties of Alabama and will sell them cheap and on easy terms, rather than have to ship them back to Birmingham. If you need one, write us which you want, and we might have one near you and be able to save you some money. E. E. FORBES & SONS PIANO CO., BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

WANTED TO BUY CONFEDERATE and U. S. postage before 1870; preferably on envelopes; some worth dollars; write or send stamps; prompt pay. T. E. SPENCER, MOSS POINT, MISS.

SPECIAL SALE

Three pieces, women's hose, perfume and face powder, total value $2.50, sent postpaid for $1.00. Catalog of gifts, novelties, etc. for 10c. International Specialty Co., Dept. D, 844 Blue Island Ave., Chicago, Ill.

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION ENCLOSE STAMP JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KANS.

BE YOUR OWN BOSS. Have a business all your own. Write for particulars or send $1.00 for my "No Gamble Plan." "It's a Racer." H. E. WOOD, 6414 KIMBARK AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

UNDER THE COURTHOUSE DOME

M. W. W.

The Criminal week of the Circuit Court opened at 10 a. m. on Monday, Judge W. W. Wallace, presiding. The Rev. T. K. Roberts impressively spoke the invocation, after which the Jurymen summoned for duty this week were called, and the docket consisting of about 75 cases was begun.

On February 26th, the Prohibition Referendum Ballot will carry, in substance, the following questions:

1. Shall Alabama's prohibition laws be modified?
2. Shall beer and wine be legalized in Alabama?
3. Shall hard liquors be legalized in Alabama under strict state regulation and under any circumstances no saloons?

Today is the last day on which you may pay your poll tax!

Information obtained from the Federal Internal Revenue office, Birmingham, reveals the fact that 1640 licenses to sell liquor in Alabama have been issued since July 1, 1934.

Judge L. C. Walker will hold his initial term of the County Court on next Monday.

We learn from the Tax Collector that poll tax may be paid through Friday, February 1st.

Prominent visitors who attended court this week included: G. R. Rowland, Gadsden; Judge E. S. Lyman, Montevallo; D. C. Nickerson, Siluria; Morrell Montgomery, prominent attorney from Birmingham; Vance Cleveland, Tax Collector of Bibb County; R. Williams, attorney of Sylacauga; J. I. Mitchell, Calera; W. Ozley, Saginaw; D. Lackey, and John Thompson, of Vincent.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Rev. Sam Henderson preached at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost visited in Ebenezer, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eiland and children, are seriously ill with flu and pneumonia.

Mrs. Virgial Horton spent the week-end in Lineville.

Mr. J. B. King spent the week-end in Columbiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler were Sunday visitors in Elliottsville.

Tom Harper, of Elliottsville, spent a few days here this week.

Mrs. J. G. Vernon and baby, spent the week with her mother near Ebenezer.

Rev. Lester Fitts will preach at the Underwood Baptist Church, Sunday.

Mrs. T. A. Bradley was the guest of Mrs. J. D. Smith, Saturday.

Mrs. Alma Oglesby is out again after having the flu.

Mr. Bear, of Clanton, was in our community, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frost and little Betty Ann, were visitors here, Friday.

18 Members Make Jan. Honor Roll At Mosteller Church

MOSTELLER, Ala.—The Mosteller Baptist Sunday school reports 18 members making the honor roll for the month of January. A large number of members missed only one Sunday. Members making the honor roll were:

Primary Class—Houston Weldon, Joel Lee Lovett, Mary Hand, and Pauline Lovett.

Junior Class—Horace Lee Weldon and James Richmond Weldon.

Intermediate Class—Miss Delene Atchison, teacher.

Young Peoples Class No. 1—Miss Bernice Rylant, teacher; Miss Hazel Pearson, J. Z. Merrell, Edd Rylant and H. M. Merrell.

Young Peoples Class No. 2—T. H. Atchison, teacher; Mrs. Alster Atchison and Mr. Forest Lovett.

Adult Class—Quila Hand and Mrs. Quila Hand.

Miss Ethel Merrell, secretary.

Members of the Sunday school who contributed to the birthday club for the Orphan's home were: Forest Lovett, Mary Hand and Pauline Lovett.

The Sunday School also gave to the Co-operative program during the month.

If you live in or near Mosteller, attend our Sunday School and church—"The little church with a big welcome".

IN MEMORY

In memory of N. R. Coker who passed away, January 19, 1935.

Mrs. Bessie Seale,
Calera, Ala.

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN,
Calera, Alabama

On the Pacific Coast an entire basketball league is playing its games without use of the center-taps except at the start of each half. After each basket is scored, the team scored upon takes the ball out of bounds beneath its opponent's basket?

At another college several games have been played using the revolving tap? In this development the center, guards and forwards each take their turn at the center-jump, rotating after each basket.

Agitation to raise the baskets from 10 to 12 feet from the floor, to curb the tall man's advantage in tapping the ball through the hoop, has spread among basketball officials. Nat Holman, member and captain of Champion Celtics, objects:

"Let's not take the punch out of the game. Raising the baskets would make shooting much more difficult and cut down scoring.

"The ever-present threat of a two-pointer is what makes basketball the growing popular favorite it is today. It supplies the drama, and you can't improve a game by taming it.

"And what's this about curbing the big man? I didn't know the little fellow needed protection, not after years of watching small men who were the smartest things on the court.

"If I have anything to say, the officials are not going to tamper with sound rules."

Congress Is Asked To Aid In Finding Cotton Stalk Use

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congress has been asked to come to the aid of experimenters in the South who seek a profitable way to use cotton stalks in making cellulose.

Representative Fulmer, of South Carolina, is asking a $150,000 appropriation for research work, and has expressed belief if success is achieved cotton stalks may replace spruce as the base for valuable cellulose, from which many products, including rayon, are made.

For some time Nicholas W. Dockery, of Rockingham, N. C., has been experimenting in a private laboratory, assisted by the University of North Carolina and a donation from the North Carolina Cotton Cooperative Association.

He has a plan to use the entire cotton plant—boll, lint and all—for cellulose. Only the best cotton would be picked for lint with the balance mowed down like wheat and processed into cellulose.

Fulmer has expressed the belief Dockery's plan, if successful, would go far toward relieving overproduction of cotton for lint.

Under his appropriation, the government would set up research laboratories of its own not only to work out plans for utilizing cotton stalks, but waste farm products as well.

Sterretts To Present Play At Vincent On Saturday, February 2

There will be a comedy, "Bound To Marry", presented at the High School Auditorium at Vincent, Saturday evening, February 2nd, at 8:00 o'clock.

The cast includes: Betty Jane Dove, Nell Moore, Augustus G. Baker, R. E. Cosper, Jr., Hilda M. Slater, Laurena Ferrell, Samuel Boyer, Gray Johnson, June Violet Ray, Martha R. Layton, Billie Pounder, Alger Brasher, Evelyn Grace, Inez Layton, Mose Lincoln Hall, Buford Spradley, Mandy Snook and Ola Goodwin.

Admission 15 and 25 cents.

MR. AND MRS. C. C. RAY IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Ray were in a serious accident while traveling in their wagon from Calera, when they were struck by a truck driven by Louie Vershot.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray and Charlie were all knocked unconscious. We wish them a speedy recovery.

PLAY TO BE PRESENTED BY COLLEGE THEATRE

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The College Theatre presents "Snow White and The Seven Dwarfs", a fairy play, on Saturday, February 2, 1935, at 7:15 p. m. Tickets 35c. To high school students 25c.

Kiddies' Kolumn

Columbiana, Ala.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

We are glad to have the opportunity to write to you. We are making an Eskimo booklet. Dorothy Bush has come back from Florida. I got a pair of skates for Christmas. Mrs. Walton let us have some new books, and we sure are enjoying them. Please come to see us sometime.

We have been taking test for almost a week. I like them, too. I am a little bit behind in arithmetic, but I will soon catch up. Jacqueline is a little new girl. My Mother is in Birmingham. I went up there Saturday. Miss Nix is going to come after a while. Love,

Peggy.

Columbiana, Ala.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I went to St. Petersburg, Florida, and stayed for 4 months. I had a great time. I saw six orange groves and four grape fruit groves. I went to a dance Halloween Night. My Mother works at the French Village in Florida. Yours truly, Dorothy Louise Bush.

Columbiana, Ala.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

We are making an Eskimo booklet. Last Christmas Daddy made me a wagon and I have a little pony too. Daddy said he might get me another pony, then I would have a good time. My Grandmother has a new Chicken house, and a new chicken yard too. I am going to get me an air rifle, Saturday. Raymond Lyons had a birthday. I am eight years old.

Sincerely, Jack Baker.

Columbiana, Ala.
Jan. 22, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I have blue eyes. You are very wise. Reading is pleasant. Writing is fun. I like to go to school, So I can run—run—run. James Walton.

Columbiana, Ala.,
Jan. 22, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

You are very nice to let the second grade write you in the Kiddies Kolumn. We are writing at our writing period. We brought our toys to school and played store after Christmas. Now we have learned to make change. This week we are making clocks and learning how to tell time.

Your little friend, Harold Glass.

Columbiana, Ala.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

We are glad you gave us the opportunity to write. We are going to make an Eskimo booklet. I like the new books Mrs. Walton let us have. I have read 13 books. We had a test today. Love,

Carl Crawford.

Siluria, Ala.,
Jan. 25, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I am a little girl 8 years old and I am in the 1st grade. I go to Mt. Era school. My teacher's name is Mrs. Barnes. I love her very much. I have a little brother 4 years old and his name is Donald. I like to hear the Kiddies Kolumn read to me each week. Love from,

Evelyn Epperson.

SEE US FOR

JOB PRINTING

Prompt
Efficient
Inexpensive

GOOD printing service consists of more than delivering a certain amount of ink and paper in the form ordered. Good printing consists of careful consideration as to form in which the idea is to be presented, thoughtful selection of type faces, the right grade, weight and color of the paper, accurate composition and skillful printing . . . That is the kind of printing service you may expect from our shop . . . and it costs no more than inferior printing.

No matter what your printing job may be or in what quantities, we are confident you will find our estimate of cost most interesting, workmanship most efficient and promptness in delivery most gratifying. If you find it inconvenient to visit our office, phone and we will call . . . You are under no obligation in asking for an estimate.

The Shelby County Democrat

Printers---Publishers Telephone No. 9

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

My Dear Readers:-

I do not feel that I can begin "Personal Mention" on a happier note this week, than by attempting to express to you my sincere gratitude for your generous answer to our call for renewal subscriptions to the Democrat. You have been wonderfully responsive, and those of you who attended court in Columbiana, who came by and helped us bring our long list of subscribers up to date, we want to especially thank. We enjoyed meeting you and renewing, in several instances, old friendships. Some of you have written us your appreciation for our efforts, and we wish we had space to publish many of your encouraging letters—but, at any rate, on behalf of every member of our staff of writers and workers, I want to say we are indeed grateful for your loyalty, your cooperative spirit, your interest and your friendship. These "inspirations" so cheerfully given us make possible our continuing to bring to you the best features we can obtain for you in the nation, in the state, and in the county. We are here to serve your communities and to foster their best interests. We want you to make these columns, your columns. We want you to visit our offices when in Columbiana. Phone Number 9, when you cannot come in to see us, if, in any way we can serve you.

Again do we offer our thanks and appreciation for you.

Miss Marguerite Thornton, of New Orleans, Louisana, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mims Roberts in Columbiana. Miss Thornton will be happily remembered as a former resident of Columbiana, and an Alabama College student. While in Columbiana, she dropped by the little print shop and renewed her subscription to the Democrat. We enjoy going down New Orleans way each week, where we understand we receive a cordial welcome in her home. We deeply appreciate this "inter-state" loyalty, and wish for Miss Thornton success in her new business career which she is beginning.

Jasper Holcombe, prominent merchant of Calera, spent several hours in Columbiana on Friday, and came by the Democrat office for an interesting chat about "this and that". These little old friendly chats by this big old stove go good these cold mornings. Come back again friend o' mine.

E. L. Ray, of Wilsonville, and A. M. Word, of Pelham, were noted in Columbiana, Friday..

Tomorrow, February 1st, is the last day you will have to pay your poll tax.

Knox E. Woolley, Ex Sheriff, and now prominent gentleman of leisure, is another fellow whom we always enjoy seeing. He dropped by the office one day last week, and told us of a successful hunt he and his brother, Bill Woolley, had enjoyed, and proved his excellent marksmanship by sending us some of the "kill". That too, is the kind of a "hunt" we enjoy. However, we used to be a pretty good shot—especially if Mr. and Mrs. Bob White would not "flutter" too quick, and wait until my nerves could be calmed enough to "count three before shooting".

Eleanor Annette Thompson, is the name of the "lovely little lady" now making her permanent home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson.

William Andrew Parker, formerly of Columbiana, now residing in Birmingham, was married to Carribelle Stewart on Wednesday, January 2nd, 1935, according to the attractive announcement just received.

The Democrat joins a host of friends in extending hearty congratulations and best wishes.

W. L. Longshore, prominent attorney of Birmingham, spent Monday in Columbiana, attending the opening week of Criminal Court.

Are you interested in BETTER HOUSING? If so, call by the Democrat office and receive literature and explanations of the plan for bringing about better housing for the American People.

Beth Lokey, former popular student of Shelby County High School, thoughtfully sent us a copy of The Crow's Nest—which is Athens College's official newspaper. We felt quite flattered that our "Social Item" was copied, and noted with a great deal of pride, Miss Lokey's write up in "Can You Imagine" column?

This month's Shelby County Spotlight, from the High School in Columbiana, is one of the most attractive editions I have seen from this journalistic center of learning. It was edited by the 6th grade—and these youthful writers did a creditable job. Thanks for sending it. I thoroughly enjoyed reading it.

Mark Twain's 100th birthday anniversary is being celebrated this month. One of my favorite authors. He looked at the world in a rose colored humorous vein—yet so humanly understanding. However, his chronicles of boyhood—Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn etc., were not his favorite among his writings. He preferred his fictionized version of Joan of Arc, in which he idealized the French heroine.

A party was given at the home of Miss Nora Riley on last Wednesday night in the Kingdom Community which was greatly enjoyed by those fortunate enough to attend.

Games and contests were enjoyed until a late hour. Myra Nell Templin and Newton Riley were selected as the best looking couple. Hubert Kirkland and Tank Walden won the prize for the biggest eaters.

Mrs. J. M. Lawson entertained members of the Culture Club on Thursday afternoon at her home in Columbiana.

A short business session was held, after which Mrs. R. W. Peacock gave an interesting book review.

The social hour followed and guests were invited into the attractively arranged dining room where Mrs. Yeager Horn served coffee with a tempting salad course.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Joe Stone.

A wedding announcement of interest to friends in Shelby County was the marriage of Henry M. Fulton to Miss Elizabeth Phillips, which occurred last week in Oxford, Alabama.

The groom is the son of Mr. H. C. Fulton, popular salesman who frequently comes back to Columbiana on his weekly rounds. Henry Fulton will also be happily remembered by former friends here where he has frequently visited his uncle, J. H. Fulton.

Horace Davis received serious injuries to his eyes while attempting to weld a pipe in a frigidaire last week. Mr. Davis was rushed to a hospital and given treatment which we hope will be successful.

Friends of Mr. W. E. Merrell regret to learn that he is ill in an infirmary in Birmingham.

Sam Lefkovits, of Bessemer, spent Monday in Columbiana with his brother, Max Lefkovits.

The Methodist Choir under the able direction of Mrs. J. L. Davis is receiving unanimous praise. One of the best balanced groups of Sopranos, Altos, Tenors and Basses, are now singing each Sunday in this church. We are personally prepared to state that a more able and tactful Director could not have been obtained than Mrs. Davis, who has the happy faculty of getting along with people and who knows MUSIC. So, we offer our congratulations to the wise choice for this important position and we are also looking forward to hearing the choir.

Have you seen the new Spring dresses just received at the Columbiana Leader? If not, better chase down and look them over. Lovely prints and solid combinations await your inspection. Also a complete new line of piece goods which will make the niftiest little dresses you could wish for in beginning your Spring wardrobe.

For any kind of Job Printing—Call Number 9—The Shelby County Democrat.

If you live in Montevallo or Wilton, call Miss Delilah Curry to renew your subscription to the Democrat. If in Vincent, Miss Frances Elliott, will be glad to take your little eaglets for us. If you happen to live in Wilsonville, please hand in your news and subscriptions to Mrs. Calvin Weldon. If in Dunnavant, our former correspondent, Miss Alice Nolen or Miss Hollidaye will answer to your newspaper requirements. If

(Continued On Page Eight)

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——

TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

Heart Drifts

"TO A JUDGE"

"You want to shine in politics,
A bag of wind and parlor tricks—
Why this should be your lofty aim—
A bid for desultory fame.

When you have potent qualities,
Far beyond what the ballot sees
That could be put to better use
Than party squabbling, plus abuse.

I cannot lightly comprehend.
Why do you want to sit and bend
Your nobleness until it cracks
And leaves your life with empty tracks?"

ANALYSIS.

The HEART is too engrossed with small affairs;
The MIND is more astute—
It pauses to compute,
And measures, and compares
It counts the cost, and weighs opposing shares,
Exact, and absolute.
The HEART is quite oblivious of perspective—
She turns her lovely face
To the immediate grace,
Serene, and unselective.
Not so, the MIND, considering the case,
Most anxious, most dissective.
Behold the MIND'S adherents to its rule,
An admirable feature—
Attending cosmic school,
It does enormous credit to its teacher,
The HEART? I dare not say, she's a charming creature—
But such a—FOOL!

—(Hay)

ETERNAL VALUES.

Whatever else be lost among the years,
God still abides, and love remains the same,
And bravery will glimmer through men's tears,
And TRUTH will keep its clean and up-right name.
As long as life lasts there will ever be
Kindness and justice and high LOYALTY.

In a bewildered world these things will hold
The human heart from darkness and despair.
Old as the sun and the moon and stars are old,
Remaining constant, they are ever there,
Lodestars for men to steer their courses by.
The eternal things of life can never die.

—(Crowell)

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG.

I saw him sitting in his door
Mumbling as old men do;
His house was old, his barn was old,
And yet his eyes seemed new.

His eyes had seen three times my years,
And kept a twinkle still,
Though they had looked at birth and death
And three graves on a hill.

"I will sit down with you," I said,
"And you will make me wise;
Tell me how you have kept the joy
Still burning in your eyes".

Then like an old time orator,
Impressively he rose;
"I make the most of all that comes
And the least of all that goes".

The jingling rhythm of his words
Echoed as old songs do,
Yet this had kept his eyes alight
Till he was ninety-two.

—(Teasdale)

DREAMS.

One broken dream is not the end of dreaming,
One shattered hope is not the end of all,
Beyond the storm and tempest stars are gleaming,
Still build your castles, though your castles fall.

Though many dreams come tumbling in disaster
And pain and heartache meet us down the years,
Still keep your FAITH, your dreams and hopes to master
And seek to find the lesson of your tears.

Not all is as it should be! See how littered
With sorry wreckage is life's restless stream
Some dreams are vain, but be you not embittered
And never cry that you have ceased to DREAM.

666

Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

BABY CHICKS

"AAA" HOLLYWOOD LEGHORNS
"AAA" TANCRED LEGHORNS
From High Egg Records.
YEARLY HENS, TESTED FOR B. W. D.
The Males used to head these matings are individually pedigreed out of dams with Trap Nest Egg Records from 280—312 eggs in one year. Write for Low Prices—

Alabama Poultry Farms

ROUTE NO. 1—BOX 90,
CALERA, ALABAMA.

Alabama Power News

(An Advertisement of Alabama Power Company)

January, 1935

Eleven Years Of Rural Service

36,750 Rural Customers Now On Company Lines

December 31st, 1934 your company completed the eleventh year of its rural electrification program, initiated for the purpose of making the conveniences of electric service more generally available to residents of rural areas in Alabama and to further the development of our state's agriculture.

In 1934 when your company began this work, the only facts available were that rural people wanted electric lights in their homes and that the company wanted to make the service available. However, it was found that use of lights alone would not make the service economical either to customers or to the company.

Therefore the first problem was to obtain information as to what farm uses electricity could be adapted satisfactorily and economically. This was done through co-operative experimental and research work with the State Agricultural Experiment station, State Agricultural Extension Service, Farm Bureau Federation and farmers throughout Alabama.

Information was obtained with reference to more than 100 different uses of electricity in rural homes and on farms. With this at hand the program was begun and carried on aggressively.

As a result of this work, electric service has been extended to more than 24,000 customers in small rural communities and along more than 2,000 miles of state highways. These customers were entirely without electric service prior to the extension of our lines. They would still be lacking in electrical conveniences except for the company's activity in behalf of rural electrification.

Today your company is servicing rural customers in 64 of Alabama's 67 counties. There is no community of 500 or more in this area which does not enjoy the conveniences of electricity. Outside of urban areas, as defined by the Federal Bureau of Census, your company is now serving 36,750 customers.

At the outset of the rural program average use of electricity by rural customers was 400 KWH a year. Despite the fact that many of the best rural lines have been transferred from the rural rate classification, present average use on the remaining lines is 973 KWH a year, or two and one half times the use in 1924.

Although expansion has been continuously to a lower density of customers per mile of line and the company has borne the entire investment of the lines, there has been a continuous reduction in rural rates. At present rural lines are serving less than 4 customers per mile of line. In November 1934, the average rate per KWH paid by the 8,329 customers was less than 5 cents per KWH.

Many Improved Appliances To See Service During 1935

Children Need More Light In February

February, the shortest month of the year, often proves to be the darkest too. Twilight falls early. Many days are cold and rainy; long evenings must be spent indoors.

As any mother knows, such close confinement is very difficult for children. They must be amused. They must be kept busy. And this means playing with toys on the floor, looking at picture books, drawing, coloring, and the like.

What a tax on little eyes—if the lighting is not ample for easy, restful seeing!

In many homes children play in the "danger zone" of poorly lighted living rooms—try to read or look at books far from a lighting fixture — strain their eyes needlessly in many other ways.

Children do not know this danger. But you, as a mother or father, should take immediate steps to prevent it.

A few extra lamps in the living room, a new outlet or so in the nursery, another table lamp — these things means so much to your children.

Let us tell you how little they cost.

245 New Industries

During the past decade, under the leadership of Thomas W. Martin, the Alabama Power Company has aided directly and indirectly in the location of 245 new industries in this state, manufacturing 105 different products with approximate capital investments of $73,000,000; a total of 27,819 employees, receiving over $23,000,000 in salaries and wages annually.

Attractive Stock Of Modern Merchandise Available For New Year

More labor saving electric appliances will be used in Alabama homes during 1935 than during any year in Alabama history. This is strongly indicated by the substantially improved demand which has marked the first month of the New Year.

Anticipating far more widespread use of all kinds of electric equipment, your company has made arrangements to assemble an unusually attractive stock of the most modern merchandise. Ranges, refrigerators, water heaters, washing machines, embodying the latest innovations and improvements together with a wide selection of small appliances, will be available to our customers.

With electric appliance prices far below peak levels, with easy financing terms, and record low rates, the time has come when almost any family in Alabama can afford these conveniences.

Appliance sales in 1934 exceeded those of 1933 by $492,192. Refrigerators sold in 1934 numbered 4,254 compared with 2,385 the preceding year. Range sales were 1,269 compared with 318, water heaters 629 compared with 86 and washing machines 659 compared with 52.

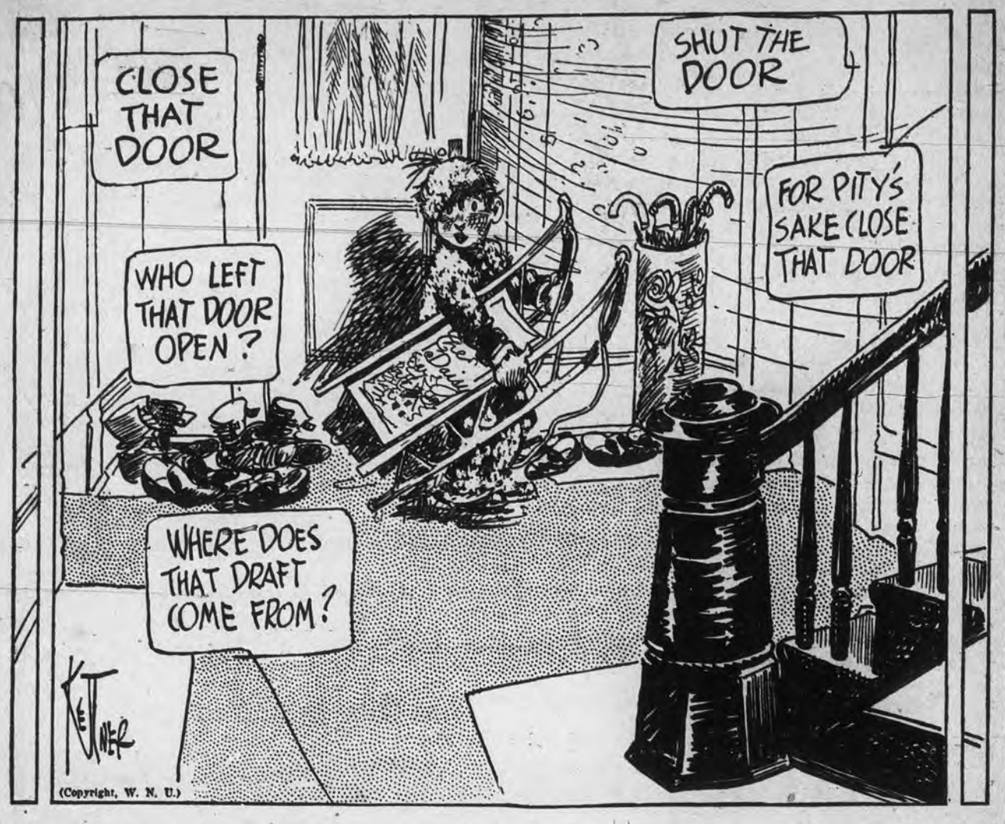
New Use For Southern Pine

Added to the recent discovery that a first class quality of newsprint can be made from Southern pine, comes the announcement that a synthetic silken yarn can be produced from the same source, and it, like the newsprint, comes from the experimental laboratory of Dr. Charles H. Herty, at Savannah. With great newsprint and rayon industries based on Southern pine and furnishing a new source of income for this section, in the future when the South recounts its benefactors, Dr. Herty will stand out prominently among those who lead the list.

Highlights Of 1934

Taxes of Alabama Power Company amounted to over $2,000,000.

Salaries and wages paid totaled approximately $2,900,000.



Persons employed numbered about 1,900.

Customers served numbered 105,000.

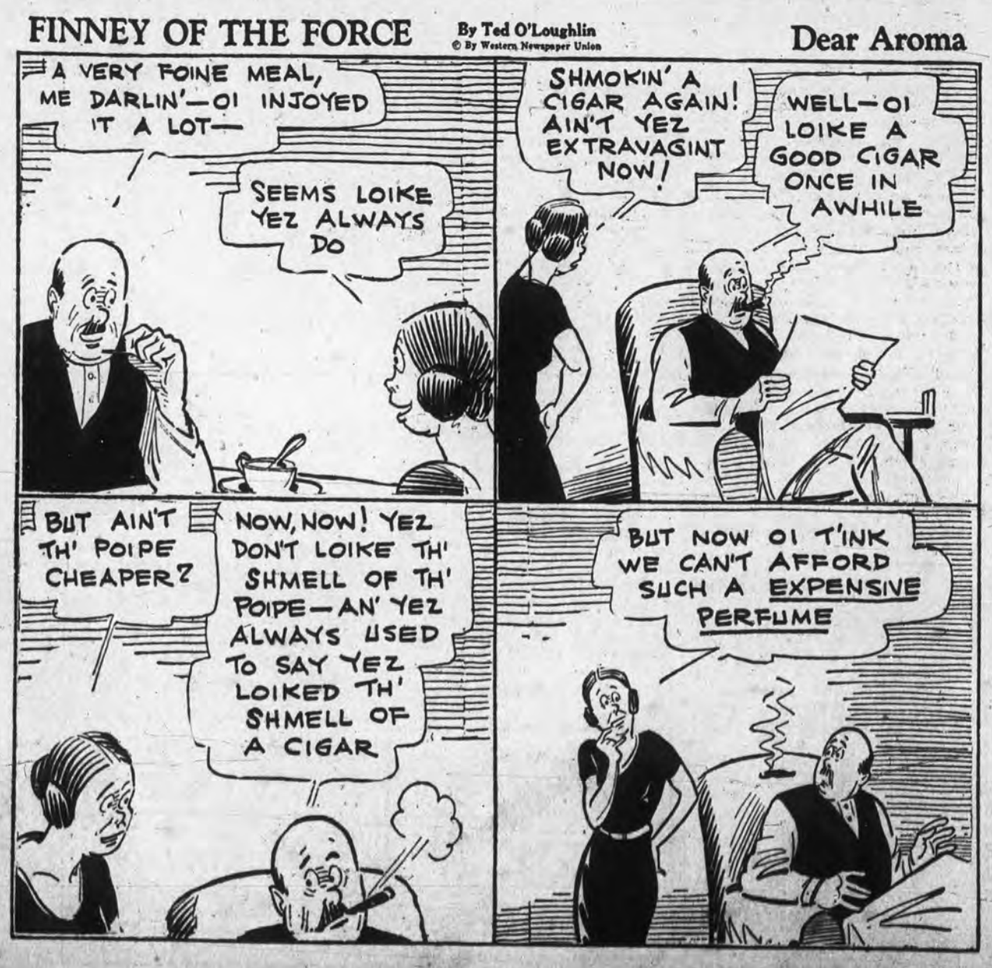
Supplies and materials bought, chiefly from Alabama industries and firms, cost approximately $1,500,000.

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union



No Slip Up

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Dear Aroma

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

Old Age Pensions
Does Lashing Do Good?
Those Cosmic Rays
6,000-Year-Old Graves

Financial conservatism is agitated because old-age pensions as planned, moderately, by the President, would cost one billion dollars a year. Conservatism might better worry about Doctor Townsend's plan to give two hundred dollars a month to everybody past sixty years of age, and cost at least twenty-four thousand millions a year.

Conservatism might also worry about billions spent uselessly in state, national or local government costs, and taxes that run above thirteen thousand million dollars a year.

At Wilmington, Del., three young men, eighteen, twenty and twenty-three years old, were lashed in public, a crowd of one hundred looking on.

After the lashing, on the bare back, the youths began ten-year prison sentences for burglary. The lash frightens criminals more than imprisonment, as was proved in London, where an epidemic of "garrotting" ended as soon as the lash was used. But what will be the mental state of those young men when they leave prison after long association with experienced criminals, and constant brooding on the humiliation and pain of the lashing?

Can it be hoped that they will be reformed, or be anything except confirmed criminals, and enemies of society?

A learned German says he has discovered the source of "cosmic rays" that bombard all space, constantly passing through your body, although you don't know it, driven by the terrific energy of billions of volts. The professor suggests that the bombardment may occasionally break down a few of the atoms in the human body, thus slowly changing heredity.

That sounds like a great deal of trouble, to change heredity, which depends, really, on the right girl choosing the right kind of father for her children.

Doctor Sukenik, professor of archeology in the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, has discovered graves six thousand years old, that go far back of Moses and Job and others well known.

These graves were dug, and filled, long before the Jewish nation had made Jerusalem their principal city, when other, earlier races inhabited the site of "old Jerusalem."

Talking into a telephone in the White House, with amplifiers at the other end, the President greeted six hundred members of the Holland society, at dinner in New York. He felt pride in contributions made to this country by the men of Holland through three hundred years. The Roosevelts are of Dutch origin, but unlike his distant cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, the President did not recite any childish Dutch poems about cows in "the kopjes." To know what the old Hollanders really were, as fighters and "stayers," read Motley.

Names that sound strange to Western ears figure in the case of Tony Fon Lew, "Chinese doll bride." She and her alleged father, Mr. Gin Lem, are accused of arranging marriages, taking money, and then not marrying.

Mr. Kack Lew Gee, angry Chinese merchant, says he paid $1,800 to marry the toy bride, but got no bride. Other interesting names figure in a discussion that almost caused war between the Los Angeles Hop Sing Tong and the Four Families Association.

Chinese names sound strange to our ears, but Jones or Robinson would sound ridiculous to the Chinese. Fon Lew and her pretended father ran away to China, but will be brought back and Gin Lem will be tried for violating the Mann act. An accusation that will always puzzle him.

The Saar plebiscite, as was certain in advance, proves to be superficially a victory for Hitler. In reality, it proves the devotion of Germans to Germany under any conditions.

With the population of the Saar more than 95 per cent German, voters were asked whether they wished once more to resume German citizenship, throw in their lot with France, or remain suspended in the air as wards of the League of Nations. It was certain that Germans would vote for Germany.

Our national defense authorities are delighted because a great American navy plane labeled XP2H-1 flew nonstop to the Canal Zone from Norfolk, 2,000 miles, in 25 hours. Amelia Earhart recently flew 2,400 miles in 19 hours, alone, without sleep.

And a Russian plane has flown 7,500 miles nonstop.

Uncle Sam, to equal Russia, need only multiply that 2,000-mile nonstop flight by three, and add 1,500 miles to the total.

California has horse racing with gambling. Great crowds attend the track, and the total betting in the pari-mutuel system is heavy. The state will get part of the money, not a great deal, citizens will lose their money, and the gentlemen of the race track will walk away after each season with large sums supplied by citizens of California.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

A large-scale pine pulp paper industry for Alabama approached a step nearer realization as Gov. Bibb Graves and sponsors of the industry reacned substantial agreement on a proposal to exempt new plants from taxation for a number of years.

Gov. Bibb Graves has issued requisition papers for the return of Gid Harris, Joe Bob Lollar and Armon C. Davis, held in Columbus, Miss., and wanted in Pickens County on a charge of burglary and grand larceny.

The first meeting of rural electrification committee of the Lauderdale County Farmers Federation was held to plan immediate construction of 75 miles of rural lines to enable more farmers to use cheap power.

Found guilty of a charge of robbery in the pay roll holdup July 28 of C. H. Morrow, Red Diamond Coal Company employe, Dan Howell received a sentence of 10 years in Jefferson County Circuit Court.

Declaring that deaths by poisoning are increasing rapidly, Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, urged the creation of a state toxicological service to study foods, beverages and drugs that may contain poison.

At the annual meeting of the Dallas County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations held at Plantersville, Mrs. Lyle H. Smith, of Minter, was elected president, and Miss Lilian Carter, secretary-treasurer.

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, announced that there were 190,829 more bales of cotton in warehouses of the state than one year ago, with increased value exceeding $19,000,000.

Mobile's tung oil industry received verbal encouragement when J. C. Adderley, Pittsburgh paint manufacturer, declared the Mobile tung nut was superior to the Chinese product.

The Morgan County Board of Revenue has appropriated $300 monthly as its contribution to the operation of the $50,000 Morgan County Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Flint.

The field staff of the State Department of Game and Fisheries secured convictions in 2,764 cases during the quadrennium beginning Oct. 1, 1930, and ending Sept. 30, 1934.

Albert B. Roberson, of Montgomery, was elected president of the Associated Master and Journeymen Barbers of Alabama at the organization meeting in Birmingham.

Bemis Bros. Bag Co., Talladega, manufacturers of cotton fabric and bags, has acquired 30 acres of land, bringing its total holding to approximately 1,500 acres.

The War Department has approved plans submitted by the Tennessee Valley Authority for a bridge across Elk River near Oliver, Ala., on the Athens-Florence Highway.

For the convenience of Selma and Dallas County lawyers, Judge John Miller of the Fourth District circuit Court will hold a special session for pleading Feb. 7.

R. B. Carr of Anniston has been officially designated as presiding judge of the Seventh Circuit, which embraces Talladega, Calhoun and Cleburne Counties.

The meeting of the Tennessee Valley and Tombigbee Improvement Association will be held Feb. 21, under auspices of Colbert County Chamber of Commerce.

Capt. Harry H. Turner, director of the University of Alabama Band and widely known musician, died at a Tuscaloosa hospital following an illness of two months.

Lions Clubs of Alabama will be invited to hold their 1936 convention in Montgomery, it was decided at a recent meeting of the Capital City organization.

A picture of Harry Griffith of the Selma Glider Club, soaring above the Selma Airport in his machine, appears in the current issue of Popular Aviation.

More than 200 Florala residents have been employed in the new garment factory of the Riverside Underwear Corp. at Florala.

The Langdale High and Grammar School Buildings and a nearby auditorium were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin.

Dallas County Farm Bureau Headquarters announced a reorganization of the cotton control administration for next season.

Crop loans aggregating $9,000 have been applied for in Talladega County through the Anniston Production Credit Assn.

The Jefferson County Commission appointed Ernest Matthews as county attorney, succeeding Jelks Cabaniss.

Ten new state banks opened for business in 1934, bringing the total to 149.

Parts of a saw which struck Charles Martin, of Mt. Hope, killing him, were found a quarter of a mile from the mill where the accident occurred.

Of the 640,989 accounts in 206 commercial banks in Alabama, 99.26 per cent are fully insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The Alabama Motor Sales, Inc. building and contents at Florence were destroyed by fire. Loss was between $15,000 and $20,000.

Carl Cramer, veteran Huntsville mail carrier, has been retired after 30 years of service.

Aprons That Are Chic and Useful

PATTERN 2060

The housewife who takes pride in her kitchen usually takes great interest in a goodly supply of chic aprons, and where could you find two lovelier models than those shown today. Both are included in the one pattern and both have slenderizing front panels and that fashionable half-belted waistline. The upper design gives fine opportunty for using rick-rack braid to set off the lines of its smart V neck and spacious pockets. The lower sketch boasts a youthfully rounded neckline and jaunty capelike shoulders, and would be as pretty as can be made up in a dainty dotted swiss, edged with embroidery.

Pattern 2060 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Medium size, each apron takes one and a half yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

READ CAREFULLY

"The time-table says that this train will arrive at nine-ten and it's half an hour late now," complained the traveler at the small-town railroad station.

"Well, 'taint ten yet is it?" the agent countered.—Portland Express.

Score One for Maid

Mistress (dismissing maid)—And you said when you came you had only been in better class houses!

Maid—Yes, but I cannot say that now.—Lustige Kolner Zeitung.

Putting Her Wise

Cora Coolngton—My fiance, bless his soul, has confessed all his past love affairs to me.

Polly Pickles—He wasn't confessing. He was boasting.

Only Ones

Jones—So you don't advise me to go there for my vacation. They advertise good meals.

Smith—Yeh! You are them—for the mosquitoes around there.

Rare Intelligence

"I'll bet your wife is a woman of rare intelligence."

"That's right. She rarely shows any of it."—Film Fun.

Lace, an Ideal Choice for the Matron

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

YES, the fashions paraded in style shows and pictured in newspapers and magazines are attractive enough, but they are only for slim and svelte young creatures, why don't they ever consider the needs of women who have reached forty and plus! It's a complaint, and only too often a just one, which those older are continually voicing.

Just to prove to mothers and matrons that they are not left out in the scheme of things, look what's here in the picture—two of the loveliest flattering lace gowns imaginable, for women of stately grace be they young or not so young. In spite of all the frenzied excitement over sumptuous gowns for the budding debutante, when it comes to beautiful appearance, smoothly groomed self-confident and slim-of-silhouette, daughters better look to their laurels when it comes to competing with mothers and matrons in the art of dress these days.

The fact that lace is scheduled to play so important a part in fashions coming and here, is a good omen for matrons who appreciate the magic which flattering apparel yields in erasing the years, and as every woman knows, there is nothing more flattering, more exquisitely feminizing than beautiful lace. The stately matron to the left in the picture is wearing a lace gown of high distinction. It is particularly ideal for the woman who has a limited wardrobe, for it is a rich black lace, which will give grand service the year round, winter and summer. With an eye to being practical, the designer has created a short matching jacket, making the gown as happily apropos for informal dining as for formal dancing.

The other gracious lace gown which is here pictured is charmingly tuned to a very youthful matron's dress-up needs. Bands of green moire at the back enliven it. This lovely dress is a Lucille Paray model.

Lace is also being worked into chiffon dresses very cleverly, the lace and the chiffon going fifty-fifty. A very winsome gown has a deep flounce of the lace with the same lace intricately set into the bodice and sleeves.

There are legions of novelty laces being shown in the advance displays. Most interesting are the laces which have cellophane and metal accents. Beaded laces and embroidered laces of every imaginable type are also among the showings.

Interesting news about laces includes the shirtwaist dresses which are being fashioned for resort wear and which will be good for summer wear later on. Midseason afternoon frocks in dark or bright crepes or light woolens are also trimmed with lace dyed a perfect match.

Tailored lace is also being smartly featured for afternoon wear. The laces are of a somewhat sturdy character and the ensemble idea is carried out in that there is always an accompanying jacket.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

SMART SPORTWEAR

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

For fun and right smart jauntiness, look to the leather hiplength jacket. It is easy to slip into, comfy, free with action back, and inside it has a Johnny collar to keep out wintry blasts. The Scotch plaid skirt has as its predominating color, the same color of the jacket, as do the calfskin kiltie tongues that are excellent for walking. The beret adds yet another note of jauntiness.

A New Velvet

A new velvet with a pile of shiny cellophane on a silk back is recommended for making accessories, such as hats, bags, capes and evening jackets.

FASHIONS INSPIRED BY PEASANT THEMES

Peasant themes, with their lovely colorfulness and freshness, are inspiring the season's fashions. In virtually every branch of apparel there are innumerable details that bear the unmistakable imprint of peasant inspiration.

Materials, with the new fringed edges in rustic fabrics, the peasant print cottons in sports frocks, and the combinations of gay colors, like red and green, purple and pink, are distinct changes from the modern trends. Bloused bodices and gathered skirts, belts embroidered in peasant colors and motifs, raffia, cord-tied details and heavy linen and cotton laces in accessories further establish the pre-eminence of this influence.

Trains Are Short for the Evening, Gowns Are Slit

Most likely your new evening frock will have a slit skirt to show an alluring few inches of silk-clad leg, but if it has a train, the train will be short. And it is quite likely that it may have a tunic and it may be trimmed with fur. All these points mark a lovely gown which is of dull rose taffeta with slanting shoulder straps of brown kolinsky that continue down the back to the waist. Delightful for the more mature woman is a tunic dress of plum colored Chantilly type lace with a long slim tunic and a trained skirt. There is a sash of plum-colored satin. Another tunic dress has a tunic that is pointed at the back to form an overtrim. It is of red sequins over a dull red crepe skirt.

Patou Uses Moderate Slit in His New Dress Designs

Patou has surpassed himself with the simplicity and elegance of his "little season" collection. He probably never before has designed such completely lovely things.

The lines which were felt to be a bit over-severe in his August collection have been modified into the most graceful of curves and angles, and the slits have become shorter for daytime and smartly moderate for evening.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 3

PETER'S RESTORATION

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:17; Luke 24:34; John 20:1-10; John 21:11-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. John 21:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Helped Peter Try Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Peter Learned When He Failed.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Prove Our Love for Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Test of Loyalty.

As there were seven definite steps in Peter's downfall, so there are seven definite steps in his restoration. These steps in both his downfall and his restoration were most strikingly presented by G. Campbell Morgan at the Bible conference in Northfield in 1898.

I. Christ's Prayer for Peter (Luke 22:31, 32).

Little did Peter realize the testings through which he would be forced to pass. Christ revealed to him that Satan desired to have him to sift as wheat and informed him that he had already prayed for his abiding faith. We see thus that before Peter fell the Lord began the preparation for his reclamation. The Lord knew that soon he would have to announce to him that before the cock crew he would deny him thrice.

II. The Look of Jesus (Luke 22:61, 62).

This look was not one of contempt, but one, doubtless, filled with pity and pain. It revealed the heart of God. It brought to Peter the full consciousness of his cowardice and disloyalty and his blasphemous words of denial, while at the same time displaying Christ's love and pity.

III. Christ's Message Through the Women (Mark 16:7).

The Lord's message was "Go tell my disciples and Peter." Had the message merely been, "Go tell my disciples," Peter would have believed himself not included. The message indicated that Christ had particular consideration for him and loved him still. What new hope filled Peter's heart as he heard this message from the risen Lord is seen in his words: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1 Pet. 1-3).

IV. A Personal Interview With the Risen Lord (Luke 24:34).

The declaration is here made that the risen Lord had appeared to Simon. The nature of the conversation is hidden in mystery. It may be that the Lord reminded him of his boasting self-confidence, his warming himself at the enemies' fire and his blasphemy, but only to assure him of his unchanging love and that the Cross which he shunned was the very means of covering up his grievous sins (Luke 24:34; cf. John 20:1-10).

Peter's Open Confession of Love (John 21:11-17).

The disciples had gone back to their fishing. As they returned weary and hungry Christ invited them to breakfast. In connection with this ministry of providing food and warmth, Jesus, by skillful questions, induced Peter to confess him three times. A vital step in Peter's restoration was his professing anew his love for his Lord. What marvelous grace, that the one who had across the fire of the enemy denied his Lord should now across the fire prepared by the Lord thrice confess his love for his Lord.

VI. His Word Given Back (John 21:17, 18).

Instead of putting poor Peter on probation before giving him anything to do, he immediately brought him back into fellowship with his Lord in service. It was because Peter passed satisfactorily the examination and the Lord saw his real love for him that he permitted Peter to begin his work.

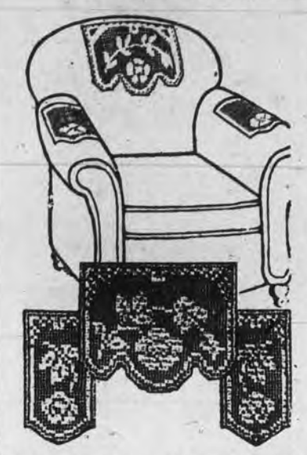
VII. Willingness to Suffer for Christ (John 21:18, 19).

While Peter had now openly confessed Christ and had received at the Lord's hands his work, he needed to be made willing to drink the bitter cup of suffering for his Lord. Jesus made it clear to him that he was to follow his Lord in crucifixion. He was now willing to suffer the shame of the cross for the glory of God. Peter, with the other disciples, later counted it joy that they were counted worthy to suffer (Acts 5:41). It was the Cross of Christ over which Peter blundered. After his restoration his greatest happiness was to suffer for Christ's sake.

Meekness

Meekness is more than the absence of self-assertion; it is the manifestation of the mighty power of God.

Noblest Friendship



One of the chief values of a noble friendship is that it keeps one living at his best.

Greatest Moment

The soul's discovery of God is the greatest moment in the life of any man!

HERE'S CHAIR SET EASY TO CROCHET

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Since crochet work is again interesting the art needleworkers, why not pick up your No. 8 or 9 steel crochet hook and thread about size 15 and crochet this attractive three-piece set for your living room chair, or for a gift? It will surely be appreciated and admired. Chair backs and arm rests are old decorations but now growing in popularity and are modern. This set is worked in the large filet stitch, works up rapidly and is simple work even for the inexperienced. The center piece measures 14x11 inches, the arm rests 6x11 inches, with about size 15 thread. By using a larger hook and crocheting looser, the finished pieces will be larger, if desired.

In the large filet an open mesh equals 1 triple crochet (thread twice over hook). Chain 3, skip 3. A solid mesh equals 5 triple crochet. Add 4 triple crochet for each additional solid mesh.

Send 10 cents to our Crochet department for directions and working diagram for this No. 805, or if you have no material you can get the entire outfit for 40c, namely, instructions, diagram, crochet hook, and sufficient cream color thread to complete the three pieces.

Address—Home Craft Co.—Dept. B—Nineteenth and St. Louis Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Inclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

Many Making Good Use of Enforced Leisure

"My son," said the old father sending his boy out into the world, "never get into an argument with a man who pronounces words the way they are spelled."

"Why not, father?" asked the youth.

"Because," replied the old man, "a fellow who pronounces words the way they are spelled has dug out his knowledge by himself. He really knows what he is saying."

There is tremendous attendance these days on extra classes. Men and women with much idle time on their hands are seeking to turn the hours to good account. And the home work given out to them is done with amazing faithfulness. Those who have been subjected to such discipline can reasonably expect success when jobs are to be had.

Quite as important are those who are struggling to master subjects by themselves. A young man who recently completed his course for a degree made up his mind that there were several subjects he would like to learn. He started on stenography, typewriting and accounting, on his own. Rising early, he devotes at least eight hours daily to such study. His example has stimulated others. Two have joined him. It is a homemade extension course. The graduate of such a school has no certificate, but he should have sufficient power to do without one—Boston Globe.

Do Not Cook Cheese

"Cheese should not be cooked," Doris W. McCray says in Hygeia Magazine, in discussing the acceptance of cheese by the American Medical association's committee on foods. "It may be melted in a sauce or may be added grated, after the food is removed from the fire. Too high temperature or too long cooking causes the fat to melt and drop out of cheese, leaving the toughened mass of protein, which is stringy and rubbery."

HUMANENESS TO LOWER ANIMALS GROWS IN ITALY

Cruelty to animals in Italy is far less apparent than it used to be, and the shooting of small birds is not quite so popular a sport, writes the Rome correspondent of the London Sunday Observer. The example given by Signor Mussolini in making a bird sanctuary of Capri had an effect on public opinion, and there was an attractive ceremony in the Giardino del Lago last year, when about 1,000 caged birds were given their liberty.

Animals in Italy were protected under the law of 1913, which stipulates severe penalties for maltreatment of animals. There are also restrictions with regard to vivisection, and steps are being taken to make the killing of animals in slaughter houses as humane as possible.

"There are 2,200 international societies for the protection of animals registered with the League of Nations," says Giuseppe Gregorac, president of the Federation of Italian and Rome Societies for the Protection of Animals. It is obviously a question that no longer only concerns hysterical old ladies. Young and old are combining in defense of animals.

The main difficulty, however, he said, was that among the eighteen Italian societies in Italy, only two or three were financially well provided for. The Rome society, for instance, only receives about £33 a year from the public in subscriptions. The Rome municipality, however, gives a subsidy, as it is realized that the society does good educative work, and also that the lack of care that has been taken in previous years with regard to animals in Italy has created a bad impression among British and other foreign visitors.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills put up 60 years ago. They regulate liver and bowels.—Adv.

Depression Frock?

First—There goes Mrs. Suburban-Ayres. They say every penny her husband gets goes on her back.

Second—Poor man! He must have been out of work when that gown was made.—Stray Stories Magazine.

CHILD CONVICTS

Although this country long ago accepted the principle that the child offender should be provided with educational and correctional advantages instead of being imprisoned with hardened criminals, many states still send youngsters under fifteen years of age to the penitentiary. A recent case in point was that of a boy of twelve sent to prison for life. —Freling Foster in Collier's Weekly.

If You Eat Starches Meats, Sweets Read This

They're All Necessary Foods — But All Acid-Forming. Hence Most of Us Have "Acid Stomach" At Times. Easy Now to Relieve.

Doctors say that much of the so-called "indigestion," from which so many of us suffer, is really acid indigestion . . . brought about by too many acid-forming foods in our modern diet. And that there is now a way to relieve this . . . often in minutes!

Simply take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals. Almost immediately this acts to neutralize the stomach acidity that brings on your trouble. You "forget you have a stomach!"

Try this just once! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'", or, now the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. But be sure you get Genuine "PHILLIPS'".

Also in Tablet Form:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Try Faster Way to Relieve Your Colds

Medical Discovery Bringing Almost Instant Relief to Millions

REMEMBER DIRECTIONS

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA

direct from its New York Stage

3-Hour Broadcast by

LISTERINE

announced by,

Geraldine Farrar

Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P.M.

PERSONAL MENTION

(Continued From Page Five)

in Calera, see Miss Mary McKibbon. Those of you who live in the Kingdom Community have one of the best correspondents we are associated with, Mrs. Thelma Miles. See her for your renewals. We hope to have tre entire County represented in your respective Beats, and we will appreciate your continued helpful suggestions.

L. B. (Judge) Riddle, Jr., is representing the Shelby County Democrat in Columbiana, and he reports quite a number of renewals. Kindly see him if you care to have us continue our weekly visits to your home. He is a live wire, and we are delighted with the line-up.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bird entertained the Bridge Club on Tuesday night.

The Football boys will entertain their friends with a Banquet on next Friday night at the High School.

A musical organization recently formed in the High School by Roy Mooney is attracting many devotees of this most fascinating art. Mr. Mooney also expects to organize an orchestra in the near future to be used as an accompaniment for his Chorus Class.

Eddie Watson, popular Manager of the Strand Theatre in Montevallo has a wonderfully attractive line-up for this week-end. "Anne of Green Gables" will be played on Thursday and Friday nights. The revision of this old classic should prove as popular as "Little Women". Don't fail to see it.

New Goods coming in daily at the Yellow Front Store! A complete stock of patterns has been received, and it is here you will find the latest designs for a new Spring costume.

Mrs. C. B. Armstrong, of Siluria, was a charming visitor to the Democrat office on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Armstrong also signed up with us to help put Siluria over the top on our subscription drive, and we shall be expecting to hear many favorable reports from this industrial center of the county.

Well, it is about time to snap the cover on the little machine and call it a day. It is Wednesday night—tomorrow is the last day of January. Perhaps the most outstanding birthday recorded in this month was President Roosevelt's. A chain of 6000 celebrations throughout the United States proclaimed his greatness. Several million guests heard his birthday message to the American people. The 53rd birthday anniversary of OUR President will not soon be forgotten.

February will usher in the birthday of other distinguished statesmen and Presidents—Abraham Lincoln and George Washington—to say nothing of St. Valentine!

So, until February, we shall have to say—Auf Weidersehn, and thanks for following through.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Estate of Julian Green Radford, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed administrator of the estate of the said decedent by the Honorable Cage Head, Judge of the Probate Court of Shelby County, Alabama, and all persons holding claims against said estate are required to present the same within the time required by law or that the same will be forever barred. T. N. RADFORD,
1-31-3t. Administrator.

—Complete—

FUNERAL PROTECTION

—No Age Limit—

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.

Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

A. N. Vail,
Montevallo, Alabama

R. L. Veazy,
Siluria, Alabama

Are YOU HAPPY After Meals

Or Do Gas on Stomach and Sour Stomach make you Miserable?

Too much food, or the wrong kind of food, too much smoking, too much beer, make your body over-acid. Then you have distress after eating, gas on stomach, heartburn, sour stomach.
ALKA - SELTZER relieves these troubles promptly, effectively, harmlessly.
Use Alka-Seltzer for Headache, Colds, Fatigue, "Morning After Feeling," Muscular, Sciatic and Rheumatic Pains.

For COLDS HEADACHE NEURALGIA FATIGUE Rheumatic Sciatic Neuritic Periodic PAINS

Alka-Seltzer makes a sparkling alkaline drink. As it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.
Alka-Seltzer tastes like carbonated mineral spring water—works like magic. Contains no dangerous drugs....does not depress the heart....is not laxative.

Get a drink at your Drug Store Soda Fountain. Keep a package in your home medicine cabinet.

HARPERSVILLE

Mrs. Lehman Roll, of Bessemer, was the recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith.

Mrs. R. W. Darby and son, Ralph, Jr., Alton Glaze and T. E. Darby, spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Miss Alma Wilky, of Birmingham, is visiting her cousin, Miss Hattie Tate.

M. E. Auxiliary will meet at the home of Mrs. S. E. Elliott, February 4th, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Bill Baker will have charge of the program. It is very urgent that all members be present.

The Woman's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Strickland, Monday, for their regular business meeting. The assembly was opened by singing "God Will Take Care of You". The devotional was the repeating of favorite bible verses by each member. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Strickland. We had reports from all the officers. Old business was disposed of and the new business discussed. The year book was discussed by Mrs. F. B. Williams and and Mrs. J. F. Wyatt. Mrs. F. B. Williams and Mrs. R. W. Darby favored us with a duet accompanied by Miss Annie Lee Borum at the piano. Chocolate and cake were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Miss Annie Lee Borum, February 11th.

Miss Carrie Kimbrough entertained the M. E. Auxiliary Friday evening at her home with a party. There were 25 members present. Games and contests were the feature of the evening. Mrs. F. B. Williams won the prize in contest. The hostess served a salad course. Everyone had a delightful time.

NOTICE OF SALE.

Rena Turner, et al., Complainants, vs. Frank Nivens, et al., Respondents.
In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity. No. 1616.

By virtue of a Decree in the above stated cause rendered at the January Term 1935, on the 26th day of January, 1935, of the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity, to satisfy said Decree, I will sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at public sale at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of eleven o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m. on Monday, the 4th day of March, 1935, for division among the joint owners or tenants in common, the following described real estate, to-wit:

The West half of the South west quarter, except 8 acres off the East side of Section 27, Township 19, Range 1 West, and the East half of the South west quarter, except 8 acres sold to the county for a road, in Section 28, Township 19, Range 1 West, and containing 144 acres, more or less.

Witness my hand, this 26th day of January, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
1-31-3t. Register.

PELHAM NEWS

The Siluria Basketball team played the Pelham team a hard game Saturday night at Pelham. The Pelham team was in the lead the first half, but the Siluria boys rung up a score of 22 to 11 by the end of the game. Come on boys, you have made a good start.

We are glad to hear that Mr. T. J. Cross, who has been seriously ill, is much improved.

Dr. Read, of Birmingham, a retired minister, delivered a splendid sermon on Missions, Sunday, at the Methodist Church.

Supt. J. L. Appleton, Dr. Lightcap and other members of the County Board of Education, with some state men, were here Monday looking over the old building and talking about a new building for our school.

The Ugly Four Quartette, of Westover, will present a musical program here Saturday night, February 2nd, at 7 o'clock. String Music, Spiritual Songs, Blackface Comedians. Admission 10 and 20 cents.

ITS BETTER TO SEE US THAN WISH YOU HAD.

CRAZY CRYSTALS NOW 60c AND $1.00.

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

"A Good Drug Store"

KINGDOM NEWS

Mrs. J. H. Farr, Mrs. H. A. Martin and Mrs. Walter Bennett were joint hostesses when they entertained at the home of Mrs. Bennett with a miscellaneous shower on Saturday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Herman Smith (Lois Lovett), a bride of December.

Various games and contests were enjoyed, prizes being awarded Mrs. Grady Payne, Mrs. Jack Lovett and Mrs. J. E. Perry. Guests were then carried to the dining room where the many lovely and useful gifts were displayed. A delicious sweet course was served to thirty guests and the honoree.

An urgent call is being sent out over the county for all young people to meet at the Courthouse next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when a mass meeting for young people will be held for the purpose of organizing a county-wide campaign against the sale of liquor being made legal in Alabama.

Dr. G. F. Cooper, presiding elder of the Anniston District held the Quarterly Conference at Good Hope Church on last Sunday.

Judge R. B. Carr spoke ably to a good congregation at the morning service.

Mrs. Maud Nolen had as her guest over the week-end her sister, Miss Ethel Edwards.

Guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Beard last week-end was their daughter, Mrs. Miller, of Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Beaty and little daughter, Kathryn Vonceil, were recent guests of Mrs. Beaty's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ingram. This was little Miss Beaty's first visit to her grandmother and grandfather.

HIGHER FARM INCOME EXPECTED DURING '35

AUBURN, Ala.—Indications are that farm income, which has been upward since the first of 1933, will show some increase in 1935, says the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. "The extent of the 1935 advance over 1934, however, depends upon the rate of further increase in industrial activities, a rise in national income, and recovery of foreign markets," the report asserts.

FARMERS IN 3 STATES ARE LOANED $7,600,000

During the past year production credit associations loaned $7,600,000 to farmers in Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana, enabling them to finance the production of their crops at reasonable rates of interest, and helping them to put their affairs on a sound business basis, reports Jesse B. Hearin, president of the Production Credit Corporation of New Orleans, Louisiana.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

The Twin Oak Bridge Club's members were entertained at the regular meeting Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Cogbill. Camma Holladay won high score.

Miss Florine Greene has come home to take up her studies at Leeds High School the second semester. She has been a member of the Vincent High School Alumni during the first semester.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Whitehead and daughter, Martha Belle, and Billy McDowell, of Birmingham, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Holladay, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Baker, and Edna and Robert Dorough, of Birmingham, were the week-end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Blackerby, Mrs. Alma McDuffie, Mrs. Claud Bryant, Mrs. George Cogbill, and Miss Alice Nolen shopped Saturday in Birmingham.

Camma and Edna Lee Holladay, Howard College Extension students, motored to Birmingham Thursday to do some laboratory work at the college.

We are sorry that many here are ill with the flu; however, everyone seems to be recuperating nicely.

You will not find a better place to do your drug store buying! It is here you get THE BEST—!

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

Out-Climbs

THE new AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL has the highest anti-knock rating ever offered for land service motor fuel . . . Gives full, smooth power on hills without a knock . . . Less vibration on straightaway . . . Judge it only when unmixed with other fuel . . . No increase in price—sells for only two cents a gallon more than Crown Gasoline.

Out-Starts
Vaporizes at lowest temperature—quick warm-up—minimum choking.

Out-Powers
Complete vaporization produces all power—no dragging—less crank-case dilution.

Out-Classes
Has the highest specifications ever applied to motor gasoline.

Out-Ahead
Virtually gum-free—no gummy or sticking valves to cause loss of power.

Outstanding
Positively a NEW fuel—unlike and amazingly superior to any gasoline heretofore sold.

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL FOR YOUR MOTOR

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
INCORPORATED IN KENTUCKY

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-THREE

5,100 PERMANENT PAROLES GRANTED BY GRAVES, FEB. 1

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Gov. Bibb Graves, in a general order last Friday, February 1, granted permanent paroles to more than 5,100 county convicts, convicted in misdemeanor cases who had been temporarily paroled by former Gov. B. M. Miller until February 15th.

The governor announced that there was no need for any of the convicts to return to their prison road camps on February 15, that they were definitely paroled without further official act. The order does not apply to convicts temporarily paroled in felony cases.

He said that individual parole papers would be prepared for those affected, but that this could not be done within the next month or two.

"Tell all of them they don't have to come back," the governor told newspaper men. "Tell them that all the county convicts who were serving sentences for misdemeanor cases that were temporarily paroled by Gov. Miller are now permanently paroled.

"I am taking this step in a general order under authority of the new law passed by the Legislature that permits the governor to parole in misdemeanor cases without payment of court costs."

The convicts were paroled temporarily by Gov. Miller to prevent congestion in road camps, to save the state thousands of dollars in housing and feeding the men, and to enable them to remain at home and help their families.

A conservative estimate of the saving to the state under the new law was $150,000 annually.

The governor said that his office and the members of the Legislature had been flooded with requests from individual convicts out on parole to make their paroles permanent, and that Friday's order answered all these requests.

New Wardens Named

The governor announced the appointment of Frank A. Boswell, Jr., as warden of Kilby Prison to succeed Warden George P. Walls; C. S. Kelly as warden at Atmore Prison to succeed J. W. Brown; Henry Jones as warden at Wetumpka Prison to succeed J. E. Brock; and Dr. S. T. Cousins, of Wetumpka, as prison physician for Speigner, Wetumpka and the State Tuberculosis Camp, succeeding Dr. J. F. Sewell, of Wetumpka.

Legumes Popular On Alabama Farms

AUBURN, Ala.—A total of 6,482,300 pounds of winter legume seeds was used by Alabama farmers in the fall of 1934, according to figures from county agents. This is an increase of 461,666 pounds over the record year 1933.

Of the seed used in the fall of 1934, hairy vetch constituted 2,006,684 pounds; Austrian winter peas, 4,200,300 pounds; crimson clover, 154,715 pounds; and Hungarian vetch, 53,700 pounds.

A total of 308,300 pounds of home-grown winter legume seed was used in the fall of 1934. Of this amount 123,450 pounds was Austrian peas; 120,100 pounds was crimson clover; and 64,750 pounds was hairy vetch. Crimson clover gives most promise as a winter legume, the seed of which can be saved on the farm. Of the 154,715 pounds of crimson clover used in the state 120,100 pounds was home-grown seed. Interest in saving seed of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas is still in an experimental stage and somewhat risky for most farmers. Those farmers interested in saving seed for these crops should first consult their county agent.

Puppet Show Will Be Presented At College

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The Sue Hastings Marionettes will be presented at Alabama College February 7th in Palmer Hall as an addition to the artist and lecture series. The cast includes more than 500 puppets, directed by Mrs. Sue Hastings, who has carried the performers on many successful tours.

14 Answers To Your Questions About Modernization Credits Furnished By Federal Housing Administration

1. Who May Apply?

Any property owner, individual, partnership, or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commissions, business, or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

2. To Whom Do I Apply?

To any financial institution approved by the Federal Housing Administration; or to a contractor, building supply dealer, equipment manufacturer or retailer.

3. How Much May I Apply For?

Up to $2,000, depending on your income, for improvements on any one property.

4. How Long May Notes Run?

For any number of months up to five years. However, the term of the notes depends entirely on the discretion of the financial institution which may at its option require loans to be repaid over such lesser periods as justified by the amount you can reasonably afford to pay each month.

5. What Security Is Required?

That you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community. Other security may be accepted if deemed necessary by the financial institution to facilitate extension of credit; or if required by the law governing certain institutions.

6. What Assurance Need I Give?

(a) That you own the property. (b) That the annual gross income of the signers of the note, at present or in prospect, is five times the annual payments to be made on the note. (c) That your mortgage, if any, is in such standing that the financial institution is justified in approving the loan. (d) That you will use the proceeds solely for property improvement.

7. What Signatures Are Required On The Note?

Signature of the property owner; and (except in special cases) if the owner is an individual and is married, also signature of wife or husband. No other co-signers or endorsers are required, unless necessary to facilitate a loan which could not be made otherwise.

8. What Is The Cost Of This Credit?

The financial institution may not collect as interest and—or discount and—or fee of any kind, a total

(Continued On Page Eight)

SHELBY CO. ADULT AND OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS TOTAL 18

Mrs. Frank Head, supervisor of Adult and Opportunity Schools in Shelby County, has eighteen schools in her charge. Three of these schools are for negroes.

There are 553 persons enrolled in these classes between the ages of 16 and 70. One hundred and thirty-seven are illiterate.

The schools were organized in the middle of September and will continue until June 30th.

There are classes in dramatics, general education, home economics, home-making and illiteracy. The pupils are also being instructed in health and sanitation.

The location of the schools for white students and their teachers, are as follows:

Columbiana, Mrs. Bruton Lyon; Columbiana Rt. 1, Mrs. Ruth C. Baker; Prospect, Mrs. Gladys Brasher; Straven, Miss Nellie Brown; Vincent, Miss Alice Harris; Dogwood, Mr. H. L. Hicks; Calera, Mrs. Evelyn Jones; Siluria, Keystone, Pelham, and Alabaster, Mrs. L. J. Kilpatrick; Shelby and Kewahatchee, Mrs. Thomas E. Lovett; Aldrich, Mrs. M. R. Lucas; Chelsea, Mrs. Lillian Moore; Farley Crossroads, Mrs. M. E. McLaughlin; Lester's Chapel, Mrs. Letha Minor Vick; Pleasant Valley, Mr. G. B. Wheeler; New Hope and Mid Way, Mrs. Olive Holman.

Negro Schools: Columbiana, Evangeline Brantley; Almont, Roswell C. DuBose; Vincent, Mattie A. Jones.

POTATO GROWERS DESIRE AAA AID

A potato advisory committee representing producers in 16 states has recommended to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration a number of principles it desires incorporated in a national program for potatoes. The committee has requested the Adjustment Administration to aid in drafting a tentative bill which the committee will submit to Congress.

The advisory committee which made its recommendations to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration represented growers from: Alabama, Maine, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, South Carolina, Ohio, Kansas, Michigan, Louisiana, Connecticut, New York, Florida, North Dakota, and Minnesota.

COTTON FARMERS GETTING CHECKS

AUBURN, Ala.—The first checks totaling $777,282.43 were issued on January 16 to 20,054 members of the 1933 cotton producers' poll upon applications for the 2-cent advance on their participation trust certificates under the 12-cent loan plan.

These are the first checks to be issued to poll members since arrangements were made to apply the 12 cent loan plan to equities held by members of the poll. Additional checks will be issued at the rate of approximately 20,000 a day until all applications now approved are taken care of.

Clothing Program Saves $193,097.50

AUBURN, Ala.—Alabama's home demonstration club women and girls saved approximately $193,097.50 by following a constructive clothing program during 1934, announces Miss Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent.

By making 182,727 garments, 12,083 women and girls report a saving of $91,313.50; 9,653 report that they remodeled 33,343 garments at a saving of $30,475; 11,643 report that they saved on dry cleaning, $21,284; and 1,744 report that they made $19,594 doing home industry work, Miss Johnston advises.

COUNTY BAPTIST ASSOCIATION WILL MEET FEBRUARY 14

The following is the program for the mid-year meeting of the Shelby County Baptist Association, to be held with the Enon Baptist Church, Thursday, February 14th, 1935:

10:00 A. M.—Devotional led by Rev. A. B. Canant. 10:20 A. M.—Enlistment in Christian Service by Rev. D. Z. Woolley. 10:40 A. M.—Temperance by Rev. B. F. Dykes. 11:15 A. M.—Our State Mission Challenge by Dr. F. M. Barnes of Montgomery. 12:00 A. M.—Lunch.

1:00 P. M.—Devotional led by Rev. Jesse Hughs. 1:15 P. M.—Missionary Message based on observations while abroad last summer, by Dr. F. B. Pearson. 2:00 P. M.—Our Young People's Work by Miss Eva Berry, of Montgomery. 2:25 P. M.—Perennial Evangelism by Rev. W. H. Haddock. 2:45 P. M.—Miscellaneous. 3:00 P. M.—Adjournment.

Records and Accounts Increase Farm Income

AUBURN, Ala.—The least expensive "tools" that the farmer can have are his records and accounts, declares B. F. Alvord, professor of agricultural economics of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "Like many tools his records and accounts return no profit unless used, but if used they prevent losses and increase returns" he writes.

"Farm records take very little time. The farmer has no need for the hired bookkeeper. He may obtain an account book free from his county agent. Thus his total cash investment in records and accounts need not be greater than the outlay for a good pencil or a pen and ink and perhaps a little extra paper".

R. E. BOWDON, JR. IS APPOINTED POSTMASTER

CALERA, Ala.—R. E. Bowdon, Jr., has received the appointment of Postmaster for Calera, Alabama. Mr. Bowdon succeeds Mrs. Jasper Holcombe, who has been serving in the capacity of Acting Postmaster for the past year. The appointment is effective the 1st of March, 1935.

MASTER MASONS ARE INVITED TO MEETING

All Master Masons are invited to attend the Shelby County Masonic Conference at Maylene on February 12th, 1935. (Signed)

J. B. KING, Secretary.

EXAMS TO BE HELD FOR SEVEN MORE GOVERNMENT JOBS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Pharmacologist, various grades, $2,600 to $5 600 a year, Food and Drug Administration.

Assistant microanalyst, $2,600 a year, junior microanalyst, $2,000 a year, Food and Drug Administration.

Principal editorial clerk, $2,300 a year, editorial clerk, $1,800 a year, departmental service, Washington, D. C.

Apprentice fish-culturist, $1,020 a year, Bureau of Fisheries.

Foreman of Inx-Making Plant, $3,200 a year, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

The salaries named are subject to a deduction of not to exceed 5 percent during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, as a measure of economy, and also to a deduction of 3 1-2 percent toward a retirement annuity.

All states except Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C. The positions of apprentice fish-culturist and foreman of ink-making plant are not affected by the State apportionment law.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

HONEY IS PLENTIFUL IN STATE ACCORDING TO PROF. ROBINSON

AUBURN, Ala.—There is a surplus of honey on Alabama farms, reports Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the entomology department of Auburn, who suggests that farm women use more honey in their cooking of custards, pies, and cookies.

VALENTINE PARTY AT WILSONVILLE, FRIDAY

WILSONVILLE, Ala.—There will be a Valentine Party given at the Wilsonville School on next Friday night, February 13th, to which the public is cordially invited.

FARMERS ADVISED TO SPRAY TREES

AUBURN, Ala.—To protect apple and peach trees from destruction by San Jose Scale, farmers should immediately spray them with a dormant spray, advises Prof. J. M. Robinson, entemologist of the Alabama Experiment Station.

Lubricating oil emulsion is now regarded as the most satisfactory insecticide for the control of San Jose Scale and is also the cheapest, says Prof. Robinson. The dosage recommended is three per cent oil.

For controlling scale and curl leaf at the same time, a concentrated lime sulphur solution should be used.

Information on preparing the sprays may be obtained free from county agents or from Prof. Robinson at Auburn, Alabama.

STATE FORESTRY COMMISSION SAYS PLANT MORE TREES

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The acreage cut in cotton has a direct antithesis in the public policy toward areas devoted to timber production, observes the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Instead of there being too much land growing forest trees, it has been demonstrated during recent decades that there is too little acreage used for this purpose; and efforts are being made by public and private agencies to increase materially the acreage of productive forest land.

Various procedures are being advocated and followed to bring about increased growth of forest trees. Among such proposed measures is the withdrawal from cultivation of numerous tracts of land which obviously are below the margin of arable character. These are generally referred to as submarginal lands. It is expected that discontinuance of farming on these areas will be followed by their reforestation. The most certain way of bringing the timber production of the country more nearly to the point where it will match the consumption is for landowners in general to accord better protection and management to their woodland areas. These procedures are not at all difficult, requiring in the main merely more intensive supervision and personal alertness and diligence on the part of the owners, tenants and employees.

UNDER THE COURTHOUSE DOME

M. W. W.

Judge L. C. Walker has been confined to his home in Siluria on account of influenza. County Court was postponed on this account on last Monday, and will open on Monday, February 11.

All 11 of the New Deal Bills have passed the Legislature.. The furtherance of the TVA and PWA programs in Alabama is thereby assured.

Housing Administrator James A. Moffett states that the Housing administration is laying the ground work for "such a revival of building construction as this country has rarely seen". If you are interested in this Government project, call by the Democrat office and get booklets and all information pertaining to the plan for Better Housing.

Claim has been made that the cost of text books for schools could be reduced from 20 to 25 per cent by eliminating the wholesale and retail handlers. Comparison in the cost of text books in other States with that paid in Alabama is very unfavorable.

The Shelby County Board of Revenue was in session on Tuesday, February 6th, with President J. M. Lyon in charge of the business on the calendar.

The Standard Oil Company, Dick Holcomb, local manager, was awarded the County contract for gasoline and oil for 1935.

The U. S. Treasury Department announces that it cost the United States just a little more than $41,000,000,000 to fight the World War. A rather expensive over-seas adventure! It seems to us if the War was worth 41 billions, RECOVERY should be worth a sixth of that sum—Provided the solution to the many problems can be found in dollars and cents.

1290 Poll Tax receipts have been issued in the Tax Collector's office since October 1, 1934. The largest number of "years" to be paid in full by one gentleman totaled 10—or $15.00! The Referendum to be voted on February 26th seems to have stimulated interest in exercising the right to vote.

The Shelby County Game and Fish Conservation Organization, held a meeting on Tuesday night in the Court House, with Vice-President A. A. Lauderdale, presiding.

The meeting was called for the purpose of re-organizing and planning the program for 1935.

The Shirley-Holloway Post of the American Legion met in the Court House on Monday night.

God's storehouse was not large enough to hold the bulk of his precious gifts, so he built Alabama.

KUDZU SERVES AS THREE-WAY CROP

AUBURN, Ala.—Farmers planning to set Kudzu crowns this year are advised to do so between February 15 and the middle of March.

In emphasizing the importance of farmers planting Kudzu. J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, says that the plant is a three-way crop, being good for hay production, livestock grazing and for soil erosion control. "Many farmers have found it valuable for setting along banks to stop land slides and serious washings", he asserts.

In obtaining crowns, farmers are advised to get those which are 3 years old or older as experience has proved they are best.

SINGING CONVENTION TO BE FEBRUARY 10

The Shelby County Singing Convention will meet February 10th, at Calera, in the school auditorium.

Everybody come and bring well-filled baskets. (Signed)

Ellen Ruth Isbell,
Secretary of Shelby County Convention.

GRAVES TO CONFER [illegible] ON RELIEF FUND SHARE

Register In Chancery 7-8-35

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Gov. Bibb Graves will leave Saturday night for Washington to confer with administration leaders over Alabama's share of the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill now before Congress, and will go to New York February 14 to open preliminary negotiations for refinancing the 1933 debt refunding bond issue.

"I will leave Saturday night for Washington," the governor said. "and on Thursday will go on to New York to discuss refinancing the 1933 debt refunding bond issue. I will be gone a little more than a week in all.

"Tuesday I will be busy all day digesting the New Deal bills and studying the changes that were made, in order to have any executive amendments that might be needed ready for the Legislature when it comes back Wednesday."

The governor said he did not plan to announce the personnel of the five-man state PWA board, that will control expenditures of the other commissions and boards created under the bills, until after his return.

Officials of the State Municipal Officers Association and the Alabama Association of County Commissioners and Probate Judges have been called by Gov. Bibb Graves, to confer with him Friday, prior to his departure for New York and Washington."

The governor said the meeting would begin at 2 p. m. and he would explain the recently passed Washington-sponsored New Deal bill, "telling them where to go, where to get on and what they must do to share in this money we expect to get."

County Conservation Association Meet

The Shelby County Conservation Association held a meeting in the Courthouse on Tuesday night for the purpose of reorganization.

Knox E. Wooley was elected Chairman, and Luther Fowler, Vice-Chairman.

Plans for the preservation of the forests and the conservation of fish and game in Shelby County will be the program for 1935.

TEACHERS ASSOCIATION WILL MEET SATURDAY

The Shelby County Teachers Association will be in session Saturday, February 16th. Dr. O. C. Carmichael will be the principal speaker of the day. We urge that each committee have a full report. (Signed)

FRED ALLEN, President.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Grand Jury Asked by Ickes to Investigate PWA Graft Charges—Future of NRA Hangs Upon Outcome of Suit Against Little Sawmill Operator.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
©, Western Newspaper Union.

"HONEST HAROLD" Ickes has been subjected to lots of abuse by congressmen and others, but he does not intend to let anything be put over on the Public Works administration, of which he is the administrator. At his request a special grand jury has been summoned to meet in Washington on February 6 to inquire into charges of graft in the PWA. Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly has the matter in hand for the government and will present first testimony concerning the $4,000,000 canal project in Texas. It was asserted that the contract for this project was withdrawn after Mr. Ickes' investigators had uncovered evidence that there was a huge conspiracy to defraud the United States. Eight or ten persons, including federal officials, are said to be involved. Mr. Ickes himself said:

Sec'y Ickes

"The Public Works administration investigation division has made a long and careful study of the Texas project upon the direction of the administrator (Ickes) and presented to the proper prosecuting officials of the government a full report for such action as they deem proper to take."

This Texas case may consume several weeks, and afterward the grand jury is expected to investigate some other projects and also charges of fraud in the War department.

ALMOST unnoticed among the spectacular issues of the day, yet of momentous importance, the case of the United States against Belcher will be set for hearing by the Supreme court within a few days. This case opens up discussion on the constitutionality of the heart of the entire NRA experiment—the power of the federal government to regulate wages and working hours through codes.

Upon this refusal of a small Alabama sawmill operator to comply with the code hangs the entire fate of the NRA, for if the government loses there will be nothing left of NRA except an empty statement of desirable business ethics. If the government cannot control wages and hours in the production of goods intended for interstate commerce, there is a strong likelihood that the course of legislation to extend the NRA beyond June 16 will be strongly affected. Other cases now pending before the court touch upon certain portions of the vital question, but this case goes straight to the basic power of the recovery act. It affords a clear-cut determination of the fundamental issues, because there is no dispute as to facts, no technicalities of law upon which the issue can be avoided. The case comes almost as an original case, since the attorney general took advantage of legal machinery permitting an appeal directly to the Supreme court from the decision of a federal District court without recourse to a Court of Appeals.

The defendant openly violated the lumber code. Instead of adhering to code provision requiring payment of 24 cents per hour for a 40-hour maximum week, he admitted paying his men 10 to 15 cents per hour and that he worked them as many hours as he saw fit.

What the government's line of defense will be is not known. The case involves all the constitutional objections which might be raised against the recovery act. Decisions of the court in the recent oil cases did not touch upon the constitutionality of the main body of the act, but involved only a special section.

WHEN the senate passes the $4,000,000,000 work relief measure, as it certainly will after all the orators get through, there need be no fussing as to who is to administer the huge fund. President Roosevelt himself, according in an authority high in administration circles, will undertake that job and will allocate the money to the various agencies as he sees fit. There will be no new set-up for this purpose, unless it may be a small group of advisors selected by Mr. Roosevelt. These may be members of the cabinet or technical experts—more likely the latter. This information was given the senate finance committee as it began consideration of the bill, and was designed to quiet some of the opposition and also to curb the ambition of certain gentlemen who had hoped to handle the $4,000,000,000. It did not, however, silence those senators of both parties who still contend that too much power is given the President when he is handed such a vast sum to dispose of as he pleases.

A strong possibility is seen that the bill may be split into two separate parts, so that the $80 million dollars needed for relief purposes may be passed without delay, and the senate can then take its time in considering the extraordinary measure which gives the President such unprecedented powers in spending the four billion dollars.

Part of the money may be used to put the government into the filling station business, Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem., Okla.) revealed. Gasoline stations may be erected along "self-liquidating" highways, he said. The government may also purchase land adjoining these highways and improve it with houses for rent or sale.

Little hope is seen in reporting the measure out before February 10 when the relief funds on hand will expire. The only hope of meeting this emergency, it is pointed out, is in the possible segregation of the $80 million dollar cash relief provision from the main bill.

One development which was of interest to many was that the measure was prepared under the supervision of Mr. Bell, the budget director, thus making him a candidate for the "physical hanging" advocated by Senator James Couzens of Michigan.

FEARING the anger of their aroused constituents more than the administration's whip, the senate kicked over the traces to defeat ratification of the world court protocols. The final count was seven votes short of the necessary two-thirds.

Frantic efforts to force the measure through were made by the administration. Several revolting senators were called to the White House, and the President even agreed to amendments to the resolution, but was unable to overcome the effects of thousands of protesting telegrams which had been pouring into Washington from citizens all over the country.

In private, many Democratic senators who face re-election in 1936 heaved sighs of relief as the measure was defeated. Administration forces accepted the verdict, apparently without rancor, although the long memory of the man in the White House is well known. Seemingly the issue is dead, for the present at least.

Senator William Borah, who with Senator Hiram Johnson, led the attack on ratification, was jubilant over the outcome, declaring that it was a great victory for the American people and for this country's traditional policy of keeping aloof from foreign entanglements.

Observers at the capital refused to view the world court vote as any indication of a spreading revolt against Roosevelt's policies, since the court controversy cut deeper than party lines. Several senators who opposed the tribunal will undoubtedly support the administration on other measures, although victory of the small band of irreconcilables who led the fight has undoubtedly added to their prestige.

THAT serio-comic "civil war" in Huey Long's domain is becoming more serious than comical and almost any day may develop into real warfare. It was centered for the present at the state capital. Two hundred armed men, directed by leaders of the Square Deal association, seized the parish court house in East Baton Rouge and held it until assured that one of their friends who had been arrested was released. They then dispersed with a warning from one John Appel to "be sure you have enough ammunition and be ready for the call at any time."

Huey Long

The Kingfish was in New Orleans at the time, but he hastened to Baton Rouge while Governor Allen called out some troops and proclaimed partial martial law in the capital. Huey immediately ordered the recently appointed Judge J. D. Womack to start an investigation of what he described as a plot to murder him, in which "four sheriffs and a district attorney" were involved. The senator declared:

"We picked up two men, one of them was going to drive the murder car. It was all fixed up. He was going to block my car on the highway between here and New Orleans, make it stop and force me in the ditch, and then 14 or 16 were going to come along in another car and kill me.

"We found all the stuff in the fellow's car. There was sheriff's equipment, and everything."

Maybe Huey was right, for one Sidney Songy testified at the inquiry that he had been given a gun, ammunition and gas bombs to kill the senator.

Long blamed the Standard Oil company for the armed assembly of his enemies in Baton Rouge and said that unless the company stopped the "violence" his compromise with it over the 5-cent oil refinery tax would be called off.

Despite this warning another armed group of Square Dealers gathered at the Baton Rouge air field; but someone betrayed them and a detachment of the National Guard advanced on them in battle array. The sight of machine guns was enough for the citizenry; they surrendered, and were disarmed.

THOSE who view Russia's growing military strength with alarm were not comforted by a statement made by the vice commissar for defense before the seventh All-Union congress of Soviets in Moscow that the Red army has grown from 600,000 to 940,000 men in four years.

Fortifications along the eastern and western frontiers have been strengthened, and all branches of the military service, particularly aviation, have been increased, the vice commissar stated, and more will be spent for defense in 1935 than was spent last year. The delegates, who were meeting to review Bolshevist progress since 1931, greeted the vice commissar's speech with roars of applause.

IN AN effort to build up an alibi for Bruno Richard Hauptmann his attorneys have called a strange collection of witnesses—a minor league bootlegger, a speakeasy operator of various names, a young Swede whose stories have been somewhat vague and conflicting, and a man who has admitted that he served several jail sentences—a not particularly impressive lot upon which to depend when you are fighting to escape death in the electric chair.

Bruno Hauptmann

One of the peculiarities of the trial is the number of persons who only saw Hauptmann for a few minutes or seconds, but who are able to identify him more than two years later. The man accused of killing the first Lindbergh child is not outstanding in appearance or one who would be likely to indelibly impress himself on a person's mind, but both the state and the defense have been able to produce persons who swear he was the man they saw the day the crime was committed.

The battle of handwriting experts has also begun, with the state producing experts to swear that the handwriting on the ransom notes does not resemble that on the admitted writing of Hauptmann. Their statements are just as positive as were those made by the defense witnesses, and it all proves just a little confusing to the jury.

Considerable comment was caused when one of the jurors, a woman, smiled broadly at Hauptmann as he left the stand following his examination, and some wagers have been made that a hung jury will be the outcome of the trial. Such predictions are hardly in order, since a single bit of testimony may yet change the entire course of the case.

DURING the debate in the house on an administration bill to increase by $9,000,000,000 the amount of long-term securities the treasury can issue, Representative Reed of New York quoted Secretary Morgenthau as saying that the treasury could not finance the work relief program unless congress broadened its bond-issuing authority. So the house passed the measure at once.

The bill, prepared by the Treasury department, places the administration squarely against inflation. It provides authority to raise money necessary for the public works, social security and similar measures, meet federal deficits, and might even be used to provide funds for payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Under provisions of the measure there would be ten-year bonds in amounts as small as $25, and as explained by the Treasury department, would be sold below par. There would be no interest, but each six months the bonds would appreciate in value at the rate of 2½ per cent, plus compounded earnings.

Huge sums are involved: first, the creation of a revolving bond authorization fund of $2,500,000,000; and second, the consolidation of the two present revolving funds of $10,000,000,000 each into a joint $20,000,000,000 fund for bills, certificates and notes.

JAPANESE forces continued to advance in their drive. Two towns were captured by troops operating in weather 34 degrees below zero, and the forces appear to be converging on an area of disputed territory which lies south of Manchuli and Hailar, where northwest Manchukou overlaps Outer Mongolia. The indefiniteness of the border is blamed for the contention.

Intimations that the Japanese garrison in Manchukou might be increased were made in the Japanese diet, based upon assertions that the Soviet government had continued to enlarge its army in the Far East, and that Soviet penetration into Outer Mongolia has resulted in virtual communization of that territory.

There has been no decided change in the attitude of Chinese leaders toward Japan. Recent interviews with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek were said to have brought about no accord between the two nations. Meanwhile the Far East continues to be one of the interesting news spots on the map today.

RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD, former ambassador to Italy, attorney, and author, died of pneumonia at his home in New York. He left a post as editor of Collier's Weekly in 1921 to take that of Ambassador to Italy, where he gained prominence as the chief representative of the United States at the Genoa and Lausanne conferences in 1922.

He was the author of several works and collaborated with Premier Benito Mussolini on the Italian leader's autobiography in 1927.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—The new plan for government aid for financially sick railroads, to be made possible by bills just introduced with the approval of the administration in both house and senate, is a combination of scaling down the capital structure and government guarantee of bond interest. Originally, as told in these dispatches last year, the plan was to have the government guarantee the interest and principal in return for a concession by the bondholders both as to amount of the principal and rate of interest.

The new plan is a variation of this, not actually in the fundamental question involved, but in the method of approach. As in the first place, it is intended to be applied only to railroads for which there is really some economic hope. It is admitted that there are quite a few which are simply beyond saving, economically.

All the proposed legislation does is to give the RFC the right to purchase railroad bonds, regardless of their maturity date, at the market price. Thereupon the RFC regards the amount paid for the bonds as a debt of the railroad to the RFC and charges the railroad the regular RFC rate. This rate is now 4 per cent.

This would not probably enable the RFC to get anywhere with the situation, were it not for another law already on the books, the new bankruptcy law. Under Section 77 of the bankruptcy act any federal court may direct a scaling down of all classes of security of any railroad if two-thirds of the holders of each class of bonds and preferred stocks approve.

Were it not for the bankruptcy act a small group of bondholders, by refusing to sell at what had been market prices, might either prevent anything from being done or force the government or the railroad company to buy them off.

Thus a 5 per cent railroad bond might be selling for 20, but the plan could not be applied because 5 per cent of the holders insisted on being paid par. Many a railroad merger in the past has been blocked by such attempted holdups, and many another has been overcapitalized because the promoters paid too much to minorities.

Hits Sharpshooters

The new proposal strikes hard at these would-be sharpshooters. It would work something like this: The New York Cripple Creek, to take an imaginary name, is a fairly sound railroad, except that it is overcapitalized. It cannot possibly pay the coupons on its general mortgage 7 per cent bonds, or its 5 per cent first mortgage bonds. So that for the time being the bondholders are getting nothing.

As a result, the first mortgage 5s sell down to 40, and the general mortgage bonds sell down to 20. If the railroad company could buy in all those bonds, at those prices, with money borrowed at 4 per cent, it could then emerge from receivership, and earn enough to pay the 4 per cent. Assuming a total of $100,000,000 on each bond issue, the interest on the general mortgage bonds would be $7,000,000 a year, and on the firsts $5,000,000 a year a total of $12,000,000 a year. Whereas, the interest at 4 per cent on the market value of the bonds would be only $2,400,000 a year.

So appeal is made to the bondholders to agree on this plan. If two-thirds of them will consent, the RFC will buy their bonds. They will get something instead of nothing in the way of interest, and from one-fifth to two-fifths of their principal at maturity instead of probably nothing. Not only that, but if they act promptly, they will get practically government bonds, so that actually they need not worry in the future about whether their railroad makes money or not. For another section of the bill authorizes the RFC to exchange its own bonds, which in effect are government bonds, for the securities so taken.

All of which is apt to induce the bondholders to approve, and as only two-thirds need approve to have a court order the plan in effect, the path to reorganization on a sound basis has at least been smoothed.

Cummings on Spot

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings has jumped from No. 10 to No. 1 in the list of most criticized cabinet members since he argued before the Supreme court the constitutionality of what the government had done about the gold clauses.

He is not only being criticized by lawyers outside the administration, but by New Deal insiders. The criticism, as usually is the case, comes from two extremes—those who think he did not make the case strong enough, and those who think he made it too strong.

Instancing the latter viewpoint, a very prominent diplomat, at a recent dinner party, was asked what he thought would be the effect if the Supreme court should rule against the government.

"I would rather ask that question than answer it," he began, in true diplomatic fashion, but then, suddenly, seeing a perfect "out," exclaimed: "but I am inclined to agree with your Attorney General Cummings—that it would mean chaos."

That is exactly the kind of talk the administration does not want going on. Especially as it does not believe the effect of an adverse decision would be anything like chaos.

A representative of important financial interests in Washington has just completed a canvass of a large number of prominent constitutional lawyers who have been practicing for years before the Supreme court as to their opinion of the outcome. A very large majority thought the court would uphold the government. What was appraised as a very intelligent minority did not.

But here is the interesting point about this minority view. It held that the court would probably uphold the right of the government to change the terms of private contracts, but not to change the terms of government bonds.

Just Supposing

Now assume for the moment that the court will rule this way, and consider the results. The government would have to pay gold for its gold clause bonds on maturity. But the Supreme court has upheld the right of the government to commandeer gold at the old price. So that anyone holding such a bond could demand the gold, receive it and then have it taken right away by the government at the old price. The net effect of which, so far as American holders of the bonds are concerned, would be precisely zero.

Foreign holders of such bonds, however, would not be subject to having their gold commandeered at the old price. So that the net effect, assuming all foreign holders demanded and received gold at the old rate for their bonds, would cost the government, it is estimated, less than $60,000,000. Not so good, but hardly chaos.

But there are other complications to minimize even this. For instance, the Hague court decision that the action of the American government had settled the matter!

What gives that worried look to the treasury tax experts, trying to figure out the next taxes to be advocated toward the end of this session, is not the difficulty of devising taxes which will raise the money in the least painful manner, but the idiosyncracies—as they see them—of senators and members of the house on this point. For instance, when the sales tax was proposed there was a hullaballoo about taxing the poor man's groceries. Whereupon food and clothing were promptly eliminated. But there has hardly been a peep about the processing taxes, designed to aid agriculture, though these touch the poor man's groceries, shirts and clothing, carefully skipping over most of the luxuries!

Reciprocity Treaties

Protracted delay in obtaining the reciprocity treaties that were to liven up American exports and permit entry into this country at lower tariff duties of goods, which would not do very much harm to American workers, is being widely criticized, especially in view of the high hopes with which George Peek and Secretary of State Hull embarked on the enterprise.

The chief, if not the whole, trouble has been the "most favored nation" clause existing in nearly all American treaties with other countries. Which means to say that if America reduces the tariff on brandy, as a concession to France, for example, America would also have to admit Italian, Spanish, Greek and South America brandies at the same reduced rates. Whereas, none of these other countries might be making appropriate concessions to take more American goods.

At the present moment negotiations with Spain have virtually bogged down. The whole trouble is that it has been found next to impossible to define sherry wine in such a way that only Spanish sherry would be meant. Merely to reduce the duty on sherry would not solve the problem.

The Spanish negotiators say, with some point, that cheap—they call them imitation—sherries are produced in many countries, notably Italy, Portugal and Australia, not to mention South America. They are willing to reduce duties on American goods, which would result in a very fair increase in our exports, indeed, according to experts, but only if this country makes a special concession to sherry produced in Spain only.

Which the "most favored nation" clause makes it impossible to do, as our Department of State views the situation.

Causes Mirth

All of which, however, is causing gales of laughter in most of the foreign chancelleries. They say, very privately, of course, that no nation in the world is so utterly squeamish about such things as the United States of America.

But they do not say that to the State department. It seems to be a sort of gentlemen's agreement among the other countries of the world that not even for the selfish advantage of any one of them may that one tip off Uncle Sam to what is going on, lest the effects of that tipping off recoil on them all.

But just as an illustration of what is being done. Britain has special trade agreements with both Spain and Portugal. In those agreements, curiously enough, sherry figures for Spain, and port for Portugal. The agreement with respect to sherry is so drawn that no sherry type wine from any other country is affected. It is done by the simple expedient of defining sherry, as far as the terms of that agreement are concerned, as wine produced in the Xeros district of Spain and exported to Britain from the port of Cadiz!

In the agreement with Portugal the same technique is followed, the district of Portugal being specified, and the port of Oporto.

And yet Britain has "most favored nation" clauses in her treaties. Nor has any nation gotten anywhere protesting against this discrimination against her in favor of Spain or Portugal.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

PATIENT CONVICT SHOWS INGENUITY IN PRISON BREAK

Spends Years in Preparation; Recaptured After Few Hours Freedom.

Jackson, Mich.—Day after day, week after week, and year after year, Stephen Kaleman was serving out a life sentence for murder in the Jackson penitentiary.

He was a skilled workman and was assigned to the arts and crafts department of the grim prison. Outside was the free air; inside was drab monotony.

To win that freedom Kaleman needed tools. Surreptitiously he began to take metals from the workshop; a bit of steel here, a bit of iron there. From them he fashioned crude but efficient drills and files, saws, and a hammer.

Needs a Gun—Makes Him One.

A weapon was needed. Kaleman slipped out of the arts and crafts department a short piece of tubular steel. Night after night he worked on it until it was rifled. Another piece he made into a firing chamber. With a knife he fashioned a wooden stock and assembled the gun by attaching the barrel to the stock with stolen set screws.

Copper tubing formed the shells. Bullets he molded from lead. Matchheads and cellulose, soaked from the back of playing cards and some other highly combustible material became his powder. A solder cap impregnated with fulminate became a detonator.

After months, Kaleman was ready with his first plans. He took one man into his confidence. It was John Schultz, also serving life for murder. Together, they gained entrance to the basement through steel trap doors in the floor, used for drainage. Through a labyrinth of pipes, conduits, and electric cables they made their way to a concrete air shaft which led to the roof. They chiseled their way into the shaft through two sets of steel sheeting and the concrete.

Fits Ladder of Steel.

Up the shaft at two foot intervals there were bolts holding the reinforcement for the concrete. Kaleman carefully fitted their threads to pieces of iron tubing he had stolen. Carefully he worked upward, screwing in the tubes as ladder "rungs" as he progressed at night and removing them each day to avoid discovery.

Forty "rungs" finally were ready. Schultz meanwhile was slipping twine out of the shop and weaving it into a rope.

Then all was ready. They wired the basement door shut, entered the airshaft, and climbed upward, slowly but steadily, Kaleman setting the bars on the way.

Schultz' rope was thrown over the edge of the roof and they slid down, outside the prison walls to freedom!

But an alarm had been sounded. Kaleman was recaptured by two guards who had trailed him eight miles through the snow. Schultz was seized after a few hours freedom in the home of a farmer whose wife had suspected him when he applied for food. She had telephoned the prison while he ate.

Beauty Sleeps 24 Years; Shocked at Lover's Death

Johannesburg, South Africa.—Sleep has robbed Anna Swanepoll of Lichtenburg of more than half her life.

She fell asleep 24 years ago, when she was twenty and beautiful, and is still sleeping.

A great sorrow was the cause.

She was engaged to a young farmer in Lichtenburg, in the western Transvaal. They were very much in love and saw each other daily.

One day, in 1910, while out shooting wild duck, the farmer was accidentally shot dead.

When the news was broken to Anna the shock was so great that she contracted hysterical catalepsy, and fell into a death-like sleep.

After a while she was moved to Johannesburg sanatorium. Doctors could not awaken her.

She looks little more than a living skeleton, but when she fell into her long sleep she was a girl of striking beauty, with long golden hair.

She is fed four or five times a day with a tube.

Once in every six months or so she awakens into semi-consciousness, but is never able to say a word.

Man Throws Lamp at Wife; Panic Costs Life

Cincinnati.—One woman leaped to her death and two children were injured, one seriously, when a man became angry at his wife and hurled a lamp at her, igniting a bed. Nine other tenants in the house were rescued from the blazing structure by firemen.

The dead woman was Mrs. Louise O'Neil, thirty-five, negro, who became panic-stricken and leaped from a third-floor window. She died of a skull fracture and internal injuries. Police sought the man they believed threw the lamp.

Silver Dollars in Bell

Powhatan, Ohio.—A 600-pound bell, one hundred years old, made partly of iron and of silver dollars, is owned by Aaron Ramsey.

At the time the bell was fabricated, the pioneer Ramsey family gathered up 100 silver dollars and had them added to the materials to give a "silver tone" to the bell.

GOLDEN DAWN

By PETER B. KYNE

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter, which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that Penelope Gatlin is heiress to $750,000.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

—13—

"She had leased the house Gatlin gave her in the divorce settlement, and about two years ago, when the lease expired and the old tenants departed, she come down here to have the place renovated and secure a new tenant. It was only then that she heard of Gatlin's death. She came to this bank, with her husband, making inquiries about Gatlin's estate, and tried hard to get control of it, but she was out of luck. That's how we located the heir."

"What were the conditions of the trust?"

"The income was to be permitted to accumulate and be reinvested and the child was to have two hundred and fifty dollars a month until her eighteenth birthday, when the total income from the trust was to be turned over to her. She can never touch the principal, however, although Gatlin did provide that she might have up to ten thousand dollars of it at any one time if, in the judgment of the trustee, the emergency requiring such withdrawal was deemed good and sufficient. Gatlin had faith that the real estate, if held long enough, would appreciate tremendously—and it has. The trust is now worth three-quarters of a million and the income is close to twenty thousand a year."

"You say Penelope Gatlin has a checking account also?"

"Yes. We deposit the income from the trust semi-annually, in her account."

"Has she ever asked for an emergency withdrawal of ten thousand dollars?"

"No."

"Is her checking account active?"

"Not very. The cashier was speaking to me about it less than two weeks ago. She draws checks sporadically. Her checking account has interested us considerably for the past two years, because her monthly statement and dead checks have all been returned by the post office. With the exception of about a dozen checks made out to local merchants and probably in payment of her bills, Miss Gatlin's checks have all been in favor of one Ella Cates, of San Francisco. We traced the Cates woman down through the indorsements on the checks, but she stated she didn't know Miss Gatlin's address; that Miss Gatlin visited her occasionally, wrote out checks and asked her to cash them for her at the local grocery store or drug store. These people stated that Ella Cates never received the money at once, but that they collected the checks for her and then gave her the money. I don't like the looks of this, Chief."

"I'll soon find out all about it," McNamara promised. "And I know where Penelope Gatlin is—only I'm not going to tell you now. Would you mind letting me look over her old bank statements and the dead checks?"

The banker readily granted him the privilege, and McNamara went through the checks carefully, noting those drawn in favor of Ella Cates. The last one drawn was in favor of a man named Hugh P. Taylor, in sum of five thousand dollars, and deposited by him to the credit of his account in the Federal Trust company of San Francisco.

"I have all the information I want, with this exception." He drew forth one of the rogue's gallery photographs made at the central station by the police photographer. "Is that Penelope Gatlin?"

"That's the girl, Chief. Is she in trouble with the police?"

Dan McNamara laughed. "Not at all. She's the sweetest little thing on earth. The only trouble she's been in is that she's been lost. Amnesia. Can't remember who she is or anything about her past life. Has several aliases she uses at will."

"How interesting—and how sad."

"Neither interesting nor sad—to me. We handle lots of cases like this. They're curable. You'll be good enough to regard this interview as strictly confidential, of course. It would be very embarrassing for the girl if news of her unfortunate predicament should leak out, for, of course, after her mind has been restored to its normal functions, she will have no memory of the period in which she has been lost. I know a doctor that will fix her up in jig time."

"And after he's done that," the banker suggested, "have a plastic surgeon fix up her nose. She used to be as lovely as a violet."

"Sorry about the nose," McNamara lied, "but I've had the best plastic surgeons in town examine it and there's no hope." He held out his hand. "Thanks for your courtesy. You've been a great help. Meanwhile, don't send out any more of those bank statements and dead checks. Mum's the word."

Back in San Francisco, McNamara went directly to the city prison and looked over the blotter to see what strange fish his men had brought in during his absence.

He found a woman, an old offender, booked for drunkenness, and ordered her sent to his office. When she arrived he locked the door, and fingerprinted her on the appropriate card, after which he lectured her on the error of her ways. Then he went upstairs to the identification bureau and asked the filing clerk to have pointed out to him the filing cabinets containing criminal records for the years 1914-15 and 1916.

He was searching for a face that was photographed on his remarkable memory, and at last he found it. It was that of a young woman, black-haired and with a "saddle" nose, but not quite so badly deformed as Nance Belden's nor did the contour of the face resemble Nance Belden's. However, since the original of that photograph had, to the chief's knowledge, been dead six months, he decided it would do. He slipped this record into his breast pocket and went back to his office. Here he carefully removed the three photographs from the card to which they were pasted in a row across the top. Below the row of photographs appeared the typewritten criminal history of the subject and in appropriate spaces on the reverse of the card appeared the subject's fingerprints.

McNamara picked up the fresh card, upon the reverse of which he had fingerprinted the woman who at times drank too much. He placed this card in the typewriter of his secretary, who had gone for the day, and carefully filled it in with Nance Belden's criminal record. Then he pasted over the top of this record the three photographs of the dead woman he had taken from the old files, carefully burned all the evidence of the substitution, went upstairs and handed the record to the clerk, who replaced it in the files.

"I'd Recognize That Dame Now If She Was Burned to Ashes." Thus Angelloti.

Promptly at six-thirty a knock sounded on his door, and to his hearty "come," Messrs. P. Flynn and A. Angelloti entered.

"I sent for you two boys to tell you in no uncertain terms to lay off Miss Rebecca Lanning," the chief began. "However, I owe it to you to tell you why. Miss Lanning is a friend of mine of long standing, and I know she is a worthy and dependable woman and absolutely truthful. She isn't interested in this girl, Nance Belden. It happened this way. I regarded that girl as a nut, see—and I haven't any confidence in the bone that does our medico-legal work. So I took Nance up to see Dr. Stephen Burt. Miss Lanning is his nurse. She was very kind to the girl—very understanding—and the Belden brat got stuck on her. She has an affection complex, understand."

Flynn and Angelloti had had to listen, many a time and oft, to Dan McNamara's dissertations on complexes in prisoners. They nodded languidly now.

"Apparently," the chief continued, "Nance hasn't any friends. The poor lonely kid remembered Miss Lanning, so she wrote and asked her to visit her in the pen—and now the warden swears she smuggled out of San Quentin a letter with Nance's plan of escape. Well, maybe she did, but if she did, Miss Lanning didn't know it.

"Now, when the Belden girl came to Miss Lanning's home she realized she couldn't harbor her. Within a minute after the girl entered, Miss Lanning had me on the phone.

"'I've just heard a thump out in the hall,' says she. 'I think the girl's fainted. Better let me put her to bed, Chief, and have Doctor Burt come over to bandage her wound; then the ambulance can call for her in the morning.'

"I thought that was a good idea. When she came back Nance was just going out of the door. Miss Lanning tried to stop her, but her boy friends were still waiting, and grabbed her and beat it. The trouble was that Miss Lanning thought the girl was unconscious but Nance heard her and beat it. Now it's up to you two to find her."

"How long have you known Miss Lanning?"

"Quite a while," McNamara lied.

"Well, even if she is a friend of yours, Chief, she's no clinging vine."

"Well, leave her alone from now on and don't waste your time watching her house. The Belden devil won't come back there again. Another thing. We have criminals loose in our midst who are more important than a poor nut of a girl that only swiped a mess of silk stockings, so don't get excited and waste much time. That will be all, boys."

Outside of Chief McNamara's office door, Detective Sergeants Flynn and Angelloti looked at each other meaningly.

"He's up to his old tricks, Amadeo."

"Always feeling sorry for the under dog, Pat. He makes me sick."

"I'll bet a month's salary he knows where the Belden girl is this minute."

"I'm not quitting such a hot scent, Pat."

"We'll just split that two hundred and fifty-dollar reward—and see how the chief likes it. That old Lanny girl warned us to step softly or she'd have us broke, didn't she? Well, where does she get her drag with the old man?"

A. Angelloti jumped to the natural conclusion of his kind. "She's got something on him, I suppose."

"Sure she has. She knows he knows where she's hid the body."

"We've got to see the Belden girl's photograph and thumb prints and Bertillon measurements. They're in the upper office."

They went up to the identification bureau, called for the record of Nance Belden and studied it for a couple of minutes.

"I'd recognize that dame now if she was burned to ashes." Thus Angelloti.

Flynn drew his partner into a corner. "The girl was wounded. We know that from the guard that shot her and we're sure of it after looking at the blood in that speedboat."

"If she'd bled that much all by herself she'd never have gotten ashore under her own power, Pat. I'm inclined to think one of the crew got hit, too."

"There's hope for the dagoes yet, my boy. You're right. It stands to reason some doctor fixed them up. Now, then, what doctor?"

"Dr. Stephen Burt," Angelloti decided.

"It stands to reason that if this Doctor Burt dressed their wounds last night he'll call on his patients every day until they're out of danger. If we catch him at his dirty work there ought to be a little something in this on the side, Amadeo."

P. Flynn thought that a thousand each would be a very modest sum to charge Stephen Burt for their silence—very modest.

An hour later they pulled up in front of Stephen's house, and behind a coupe parked at the curb. Flynn, circling around it, noticed a red cross on the radiator.

They circled the block and returned, to park at the lower edge of the block. At a quarter past eight they saw Stephen come out, bag in hand, enter his coupe, and drive away. So they followed him and came, in time, to Dan McNamara's house, into which they saw him enter, as they rolled slowly past.

"He had a latch key. He didn't ring the bell. An' no lights in the front o' the house," Angelloti cried excitedly. "Drive back, Pat, and I'll get the number."

"That house," Flynn informed him dramatically, "is the habitat of His Royal Highness, Daniel McNamara, Chief of Police of San Francisco. I always knew he was a fox, but I never suspected he was fool enough to hide an escaped convict in his own house."

Angelloti was excited, but like all smart Italians he was not impulsive except when he was in a fight, or angry. "This pinch will keep several nights, because some o' these birds ain't in no condition to be moved. This situation is ticklish an' requires calm an' mature deliberation."

"Maybe you're right at that, Amadeo. Well, we'll stick round a while."

They stuck around half an hour before Doctor Burt came out, and drove away. "Drop off an' watch the house," Flynn suggested to his partner, "an' I'll follow his nibs. I'll be back later."

He trailed Stephen Burt to the latter's home and saw him pull up across the sidewalk, preparatory to opening the door of his garage. So Flynn rolled past, circled, picked up Angelloti at the end of the block.

"After you an' the doc left, I went up to the corner drug store and phoned the chief's house, but nobody answered," Angelloti confided. "The gang's in there, all right."

"I'm as nervous as an old woman," Flynn confessed. "I wish I had a drink."

TO BE CONTINUED.

Dinosaurs Suffered Injuries

The dinosaurs that lived millions of years ago sometimes suffered broken bones, as scientists point out from skeletal remains.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A WOMAN'S HAIR

IT WAS long and brown and lustrous—the hair of twenty-three-year-old Jane McRea—and those who saw and admired it little realized that the destiny of a nation would be woven into its silky strands. But that was before Gen. John Burgoyne invaded New York in the summer of 1777.

Jane McRea was visiting in the home of fat Widow McNeil near Fort Edward that summer. She had been warned of the danger from Burgoyne's Indian allies but she refused to go to a safer place. Her lover, David Jones, a Tory, was coming back from Canada with the British. She intended to wait for him.

But she waited too long. A war party entered the cabin, dragged the two women out, placed them on horses and started to take them into Burgoyne's camp. Then two Indian warriors began quarreling over possession of the girl. Suddenly one of them turned, shot her and as she fell from the saddle his scalping knife did its ghastly circling around her head.

When the Indian exhibited his gory trophy in Burgoyne's camp the general was furious. But his rage was nothing compared to that of the New York Patriots. "Remember Jane McRea!" became a rallying cry.

Patriot propagandists spread the tale and that master propagandist of them all, canny Benjamin Franklin, made good use of it in stirring up sympathy throughout Europe for the American cause. It is impossible to estimate exactly the results of war-time propaganda. But there is no doubt that the story of Jane McRea encouraged Patriot morale at a time when it was very low and had a part in bringing about the final victory in our fight for freedom.

* * *

QUI VIVE?

NIGHT shrouded the St. Lawrence river that September night in 1759. Under its cover a fleet of boats filled with soldiers floated silently down the stream. Gen. James Wolfe was embarking upon a desperate gamble to gain a foothold on the plateau above Quebec where he could force his enemy, Marquis de Montcalm, to come out in the open and fight. To do this he proposed to lead his army over a secret path winding up the steep cliffs that rose from the river.

As his boat passed one of the jutting curves of the Palisades, suddenly the sharp voice of a French sentinel cut through the darkness!

"Qui Vive!"

In that breathless moment the fate of the North American continent hung in the balance. Discovery meant an alarm and the certain repulse of the expedition before it had reached its first objective. Then:

"France!"

It was the voice of Captain Fraser, a Scotch Highlander, who spoke French.

"A quel regiment?" demanded the sentinel.

"De la Reine," replied Fraser, naming a French regiment which might reasonably be expected to be abroad upon the river that night.

Apparently satisfied, the sentinel said no more. So Wolfe's soldier-filled boats passed on—down to the foot of the secret path, up which they scrambled and surprised the sleepy guard at the top. Then they deployed out on the Plains of Abraham.

The next morning, Montcalm came out from his walled city to attack them and the Battle of Quebec followed. It brought death to James Wolfe but it also brought the victory which decided that the English, not the French, were to rule North America. It might have been different if a French-speaking Scotch Highlander had not been in a boat on the St. Lawrence the night before.

* * *

SILICON

SILICON is the most abundant solid element in nature. Young James Abbot MacNeil Whistler, a cadet at the United States Military academy, may have known that once. But if he did, he forgot it. So one day in 1854, when he was writing an examination in chemistry and was called upon to define silicon, he just had to "make a stab at it."

His guess wasn't a good one. He was "found" in chemistry—that's West Point phraseology for "found deficient." Also he was "busted out" of the academy, thereby ending what should have been a promising military career. Both his father, George Washington Whistler, and his grandfather, John Whistler, had won distinction as officers in the United States army.

But as it turned out, the dismissed cadet won even greater distinction in another field. He became one of America's finest artists—the painter of the world's most famous "Mother" picture.

Perhaps there were other errors in his chemistry examination paper. But we have Whistler's words for it that "If silicon had been a noxious gas, I might have been a famous general today."

© Western Newspaper Union.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 10

PETER PREACHES AT PENTECOST

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:22-28, 36-42.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. Acts 2:38.

PRIMARY TOPIC — When Peter Preached a Great Sermon.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Peter Preached at Pentecost.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Story of a Wonderful Day.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Spiritual Power.

In teaching this lesson it is essential that the full meaning of Pentecost be apprehended. It is desirable, therefore, that the entire second chapter of Acts be brought into view.

I. The Day of Pentecost Fully Come (vv. 1-13).

1. The significance of the day (v. 1). Pentecost is from a Greek word meaning fifty. It was the feast held fifty days after the wave sheaf offering (Lev. 23:16). The wave sheaf typifies the resurrection of Christ (I Cor. 15:20-23).

2. The gift of the Holy Spirit (vv. 2-4). On this day the Holy Spirit descended upon the disciples. This does not mean that the Spirit was not in the world before this, for throughout all the ages he has been in the world, giving light and life to it.

3. Upon whom the Spirit came (v. 1; cf. 1:13-15). The twelve and others, both men and women, to the number of one hundred twenty, which shows that the gift of the Holy Spirit was for all believers, not merely the apostles.

4. The marks of the Spirit (vv. 2-4). These marks were external and internal.

a. External.

(1) The sound of a mighty wind (v. 2). This is suggestive of the mysterious, pervasive and powerful energy of the Spirit.

(2) Tongues of flame (v. 3). Each of the one hundred twenty was crowned with such a tongue for witnessing.

(3) Speaking in foreign tongues (v. 4). This miraculous gift characterized the apostolic age, but no authentic case has been reported in modern times.

b. Internal. This is seen in the transformation wrought in the disciples. Peter, who shortly before this cowered before a Jewish maid, now with boldness stands before the chief rulers and declares that they have murdered their King, and are guilty before God.

5. The effects (vv. 5-13).

a. The multitudes were filled with amazement and wonder.

b. Some mocked and accused the disciples of being intoxicated.

II. Peter's Sermon (vv. 14-47).

Peter's sermon is as wonderful as the gift of tongues. It demonstrates the presence and power of the Spirit because he was a Galilean fisherman, without literary training. His homiletical analysis is perfect.

1. The introduction (vv. 14-21).

a. Defense of the disciples against the charge of being drunk (v. 15). He cited Jewish custom, showing that they would not be drunk at such an early hour of the day.

b. A scriptural explanation (vv. 16-21). He showed that this was a partial fulfillment of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2:28-32).

2. The proposition, or theme (v. 36). This was the messiahship of Jesus. The argument which followed proved that Jesus was the Lord upon whom they were to call in order to be saved.

3. The argument (vv. 22-36). It was threefold.

a. From Christ's works (v. 22). He was approved of God among the Jews by his miracles, wonders, and signs, with which they were familiar.

b. From his resurrection (vv. 23-32). The Old Testament Scriptures had foretold the death and resurrection of Christ (Ps. 16:8-10). The disciples themselves were living witnesses of Christ's resurrection (v. 32).

c. From his ascension to the right hand of God (v. 33). The proof that he had ascended on high was the wonderful miracle of the Spirit's operation in their midst (John 16:7).

4. The effect of the sermon (vv. 37-42). Many people were convicted of their sins; some three thousand repented and were baptized. The evidence that the coming of the Spirit was real was:

a. That they continued steadfastly in the apostolic teaching (v. 42).

b. They continued in fellowship with the apostles (v. 42).

c. They continued in prayer (v. 42).

d. They gave their possessions to sustain those who had need (v. 45).

e. They lived gracious lives (vv. 46, 47).

Source of Disorders

An improper use of time is the source of all the disorders which reign amongst men. It is a treasure which we would wish to retain forever, yet which we cannot suffer to remain in our possession. This time, however, of which we make so little moment, is the only means of our eternal salvation.

Inspiration

How do you know the Bible is inspired? Because it inspires me.—Rev. Chas. Spurgeon.

BIRD SANCTUARY IN CITY

In the heart of Liverpool, England, eight miles from the open country, there is a remarkable bird sanctuary, which has been constructed in an old cemetery of St. James' cathedral. In this sanctuary can be found thrushes, robins, blackbirds, tom-tits, green-finches, starlings, hedge sparrows and wrens. The sanctuary has its special watcher and keeper, who places over ten pounds of bird food, consisting of chopped bacon-rind, breadcrumbs, peanuts, stale light cakes, etc., on the many bird tables every morning and night. There are bird-baths and drinking fountains, in addition to the nesting boxes and feeding tables. In the center of the sanctuary stands a beautiful granite memorial fountain.

WHEN YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE

... use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Properly Given

Deference is the most complicate, the most indirect, and the most elegant of all compliments.—Shenstone.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

COUGHS

Pimples on Face Never Could Shave

Healed by Cuticura

"Three years ago my face and arms broke out with a skin eruption that was followed by large, red pimples. They festered and went all over my face and arms. They itched and burned and I could never shave. I lost much rest at night with them.

"Nothing I tried helped very much. Then I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased them. I used about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment and now I feel like a new man. I am completely healed." (Signed) Harry R. Hall, 3958 14th Ave., Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 26, 1934.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold Everywhere. One sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. R, Malden, Mass."—Adv.

A TONIC and BUILDER

Mr. J. W. Buck of 1913 Ellis St., Augusta, Ga., said: "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a wonderful tonic. I have relied upon it at different times when I lacked strength and my appetite and digestion were poor. Always after taking the 'Discovery' I would be in good health again."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Do you lack PEP?

Are you all in, tired and run down?

WINTERSMITH'S TONIC

Will rid you of

MALARIA

and build you up. Used for 65 years for Chills, Fever, Malaria and

A General Tonic

50c and $1.00 At All Druggists

IMPORTED PERFUMES. Excellent French extracts. Special offer, 50c ¼ oz. bottle. Postcard brings list of 12 exquisite odors. KAMERER, Box 574, Terre Haute, Ind.

Gladiolus Bulbs, state inspected, all colors. Special offer now and low prepaid prices, write HEATON, MOUNTAIN VIEW, MO.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN, Calera, Alabama

Solon (Soupy) Suddeth, present athletic coach at Montevallo High School and former football star at Howard College, has taken another step in his coaching career. The announcement has been made that he will leave Montevallo within the next ten days to take the position at athletic director of Henderson State Teachers College at Arkadelphia, Ark. Suddeth leaves Alabama after serving two years as director of athletics at Georgetown College and coaching two seasons at Goodwater High School. He has coached and taught at Montevallo since the beginning of the 1934-35 term and turned out Shelby County's Champion football team for 1934. Although we are proud of "Soupy" and are glad to see him go up in his career, it is with a heart full of sadness that we say good-bye to our friend and coach. His successor has not yet been named.

Calera is fast becoming the basketball center of Shelby County. Games were scheduled for almost every nite of the past week and a heavy schedule is expected for the balance of the season. Due to the fact that so many games were reported we are giving only the box scores of each game with very little comment.

Summaries and line-ups:

Tuesday.

Calera Independents 35—Sycamore 42. This game was played at Sycamore and was very hard fought. The score was tied at the end of four quarters and the extra quarter was necessary to decide the winner.

Montevallo (12)—Hardy (2) and J. Eddins (2), forwards; Nichols (4). center; W. Eddins (4) and C. Findley (0), guards; Wilson, substitute.

Jemison (28)—T. Cobb (15) and J. Cobb (2), forwards; Busby (2), center; C. Ellison (7) and R. Ellison (2), guards.

Calera Junior Girls (10)—Comer (8) and Jones (2), forwards; Nabors and Bacley, centers; Holcombe and Bowdon guards; Seales and Taylor, substitutes.

Jemison High Girls (9)—Tucker (3) and Roberts and Smith (6), forwards; Horton and Glass, centers; L. Tucker and Crimm, guards.

Wednesday.

Mignon "A" (19)—Calera Independents (17). This was really a wonderful game and all those who missed it should have real regrets. It was anybody's game up until the final whistle.

Calera Juniors (5)—Mt. Pleasant (8). The Calera Juniors lost their first game to the Mt. Pleasant team. But boy, what a fight they put up.

Thursday.

Sycamore (24)—Calera Independents (25).

Sycamore Girls (34)—Calera Independent Girls (6).

Friday.

Calera Independents (20)—Jemison High School (22).

Saturday.

Calera Independents (45)—Marvel (9).

Thompson High School basketball team defeated Piper last Wednesday 16 to 5 on Siluria's court. This was the first game between these two teams. An added attraction for the afternoon was a game between Helena and Thompson Juniors. Helena managed to ring 6 while Thompson was held scoreless. Russo, of Helena, was high point man and seems to be a bright prospect for Thompson next year. Russo has been high point man in all of Helena's games this year.

Summaries and line-ups:

Piper (5)—Terpo and Finley, forwards; McCullay (2), center; Thompson (1) and Hayes (1), guards; Thompson, Warren, O'Brien and Finley (1), substitutes.

Thompson (16)—Pat Lee (3) and Mullins (7), forwards; R. E. Lee (1), center; Oldham and Payne (4), guards; Oldham and Hodges (1), substitutes.

Helena (6)—Russo (3) and Harris (2), forwards; Jowers (1), center; Davidson and Wilder, guards.

Thompson Juniors (0)—Davidson and Davis, forwards; Roach, center; Burt and Lacy, guards; Jones and Casey, substitutes.

The Siluria Pioneer Club, which was organized two weeks ago and now has 36 members, is planning to sponsor a baseball and swimming team. They plan to include boxing, tennis, wrestling, and a number of other sports. These boys are going to give other clubs and schools of the county some keen competition. George Cornwell has been appointed athletic director and has some bright prospects for a number of good teams.

KINGDOM NEWS

Eighteen members of Antioch Baptist Sunday School made the honor roll for the month of January. They were: B. B. Mooney, P. P. Anderson, J. T. Lovett, J. W. Milam, Mrs. P. P. Anderson, Mrs. Elner Mooney, Paul Wilder, Junior Ingram, Louise Mooney, Virginia Ruston, Marguerite Ingram, Pauline Ingram, and members of the beginners class, which was a Star class for the month. Miss Jewel Armstrong, teacher; Tommie Inez Kirkland; Annie Lou Mooney; Joe Thomas Anderson and Milton Ruston. Miss Armstrong is to be congratulated on her work with beginners and Antioch is proud of her little ones whose entire class made a perfect grade for the entire month even though the weather was not always so good. Isn't that a good example for we grown-ups might follow?

A good number of young people from the community attended the Young Peoples' Mass Meeting in Columbiana on last Sunday afternoon, and are to be commended for the interest they are taking in fighting the repeal of prohibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Armstrong, of Birmingham, spent the week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Perry.

The community extends a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis and family and Mrs. Jim Davis and family who moved here recently. The Davis families are well known here having lived here for a long time several years ago and the late Rev. Jim Davis was Antioch's first pastor when the new church was built.

Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Blackerby and children, spent the week-end here with Mrs. Blackerby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crumpton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Templin have named their little daughter born on January 27, Sadie Lou.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Duncan, of Birmingham, spent Sunday here with relatives.

BLUE SPRINGS

J. A. Martin is visiting relatives in Gadsden.

Mrs. Billie Whorton and children, visited in Birmingham last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKinnon, of Birmingham, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Farmer, Friday.

Mrs. Carrie Mooney has returned home after an extended visit in Clanton, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Stone, of Columbiana, spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miner and family.

Miss Annie Mae Walton recently visited her aunt, Mrs. A. M. Walton.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Richard and little daughter, Wynona, and Mrs. Carrie Mooney spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mooney in Bethel community.

We are very glad to learn that Miss Aileene Miner is improving after a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dooley, J. O. Dooley, of Gadsden, spent Sunday with Miss Mary Whorton.

MOSTELLER NEWS

Mrs. D. Z. Woolley, of Columgiana, attended the W. M. U. meeting here, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Fannie Merrell and Miss Ethel Merrell are spending this week in St. Clair County with relatives.

Miss Delene Atchison left last Thursday for Sylacauga where she is taking nurse training in a Sylacauga hospital.

Gordon Pearson and Miss Dot Higgins were married here Saturday morning. We wish them much happiness.

Kermit Pearson, Alvin Rylant and Miss Ruth McNeill spent Sunday in Leeds.

Mrs. Zadie Gay and daughter, Hazel, of Columbiana, spent Sunday with Mrs. Baldwin.

The new church at Kewahatchee has been completed and services will be held there at 2:30 Sunday.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

The Sock Supper given at the Methodist Church, Monday night, was quite a success. Candy, cigars, peanuts and hot chocolate was served throughout the evening. The socks were sold to the highest bidders, then a lovely cake was put up for the prettiest girl. The young ladies chosen were, Misses Mary Peete and Eleanor Peters. Miss Peete won the cake. The boys then looked for their partners for the evening, they were found by finding the girl whose socks matched the one he bought. A good time was had by all. The amount raised was $9.68—this amount to be paid on the piano.

We regret that Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Peters and family have moved from our community.

Miss Fannie Mae Harrison spent the week-end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler spent Sunday in Elliottsville.

Rev. Lester Fitts preached at the Underwood Baptist Church, Sunday and Sunday night.

Miss Sara Crumbly was the dinner guest of Miss Lee Esther Daviston, Wednesday night.

Miss Nell Brown spent the week-end at home.

Miss Mary Kate Harrison was the guest of Miss Henrietta Daviston, Sunday night.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to our neighbors and friends, sincere appreciation for the many kindnesses and loving sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our Mother and Grand-mother, Mrs. Lucretia Row.

We especially mention Mrs. B. C. Harris and J. F. McGraw, Sr.

To the faculty and student body of the Vincent School we extend our thanks for the beautiful floral offerings.

(Signed)
Mrs. Laura Bradford,
L. P. Bradford,
Lewis Bradford, Jr.,
Mrs. B. K. Smith.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses shown us during the long illness and death of our husband and father.

Mrs. Mary Brymer,
Mrs. Grace Gray,
Mrs. J. O. Jones,
Mrs. J. G. Baxley,
Mrs. J. H. McWilliams, Jr.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

BOY SCOUTS

By WILLIE THOMASON, Editor, Siluria, Ala.

BOY SCOUTS OBSERVE 25TH ANNIVERSARY.

The celebration of the 25th birthday anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will b eopened Friday, February 8th, at 8:45 p. m., by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Honorary President of the Boy Scout organization, through a nation-wide hook-up directly from the White House in Washington.

Scout Day in the schools will be observed on February 11th.

The celebration of the 25th anniversary will continue after the Boy Scout week. The year's observance will be climaxed by the 1st National Boy Scout jamboree in Washington, D. C., August 21-30. This occasion is expected to bring 30,000 boys together in the greatest Scout encampment ever held in America.

James E. West, Chief Executive of the Boy Scouts of America will attend the Southeastern Regional Scout Conference to be held in Birmingham, March 8-10.

Did you know that during 1934, 1,048,811 boys were either Boy Scouts or cubs under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of America?

Did you know that during the year 1934, 275,008 men served as Volunteer leaders in cubbing and scouting under the auspices of the Boy Scouts of America?

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank everyone for the kindness and help shown us during our recent illness. We want to especially thank Dr. Curtis for his faithful service. May God bestow his richest blessings on them all.

Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Cost and family, Calera, Ala.

VANDIVER

Our P.-T. A. met Friday at 2 p. m. in a very interesting session. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. G. Buckelew. Devotional was led by Mrs. L. D. Riggins, after which a group of children presented to the meeting two short skits. The meeting then entered into the discussion for the evening. First—Importance of Regular attendance in our schools. Next our average attendance in 1933 and 1934 compared with other two-teacher schools by Mrs. G. Buckelew. Third—Cooperation of Parents and Teachers in keeping our children in school, by Mrs. L. D. Riggins.

Also some of the things we learned in the County-wide Teacher and P.-T. A. meeting held in Columbiana was passed on to members who were deprived of the privilege of being in this meeting.

After discussion, the meeting entered into a business session. Arrangements were made for making a quilt and given an old-fashioned spelling match on February 22nd. Proceeds to go to our library and to purchase other necessities for the school.

Four new members were added to our numbers, and a greater determination to make our work a success was manifested by all present.

(Signed) Mrs. L. D. Riggins.

PERSONAL MENTION

J. B. Baker was doing a land office business at his Garage on Sunday afternoon and WOCO PEP was selling fast. We were delighted to note the progress this young fellow was making in his new business enterprise on Main Street. He is accomodating, and gives you Service, Speed, Satisfaction and a cordial welcoming smile thrown in for good measure. We like the gas and we like J. B. and the way he conducts his business. Good luck to you!

Walter Head and Ben Huston, prominent young business men of Bessemer, were the guests of Judge and Mrs. Cage Head this week.

If you are a resident of Harpersville, won't you please see our representative, Miss Annie Lee Borum, and hand her your renewal subscription to the Democrat. We consider ourselves most fortunate in having Miss Borum associated with us for the past two years, and we know Harpersville is most interestingly written up each week by this capable journalist.

FOR SALE
1 Second Hand Grain Drill. Terms!
A. P. LONGSHORE, Columbiana, Ala.

G. T. ELLIOTT GROCERY COMPANY

Located in Montevallo. They are the leading retail grocery stores in this community, offering the best in pure foods and groceries. Having an extensive patronage in this territory.

This well known grocery is the one store in this community where the housewife knows she can secure the best in foods and at a reasonable price. The store is modern and up-to-date in every particular, clean and sanitary throughout, the business is conducted along progressive lines and we are proud to say that it is a credit to the commercial life of this section.

Here is your local grocery with the interest of your home and country at heart. Fair and straightforward in their business dealings, it is not strange they have reached such a success.

To be able and make certain of getting the best of groceries and other allied products is a great boon to any city. At this grocery you will find the sales people have the ability of giving you exactly what you wish, and a large or small order receives the same courteous treatment.

The management of this store sees that quality is high and that you receive always the choicest of everything.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

A $50 SAVING YOU WON'T WANT TO MISS

BETWEEN now and next Summer, a General Electric Refrigerator will save some $50 or more for you. This is no idle boast. It is a proven fact! Tests conducted by General Electric show that the average home saves from $8 to $12 a month with this famous refrigerator by (1) purchasing food in larger quantities; (2) using all left-overs; (3) eliminating food spoilage. See the new GE models at once. Select the one you like best. Save this $50!

$9.95 first payment delivers a General Electric to your home. Balance payable in 30 months.

Electric Rates are LOW in Alabama

SEE YOUR DEALER, OR

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

USE MORE ELECTRICITY—IT COSTS LESS!

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

FEBRUARY 7, 1935.

The last issue of the Democrat reached you on the last day of the first month of 1935. Today, when we enter your homes and you begin to review these columns, we will have finished one week of the second month of the current year. Let's look through the leaves of the little desk calendar, retrospect a bit, look forward a bit, and see what we can find out about the shortest month in the year. My me! It looks rather important even if it is brief in calendar days.

February 1st, 1789, history tells us, George Washington was elected 1st President of the United States.

February 2nd, Saturday, was the day set aside for the annual visit of the sharp eyed wood chuck who is supposed to emerge from his underground lair, take a look around, and if his shadow is visible, return t cover for another six weeks of winterland. Now this little fuzzy weather forecaster blinked his eyes all day Saturday, for he saw his shadow every time he bobbed up, and was sufficiently frightened to return to his home proclaiming in ground hog vernacular, "Six More Weeks of Winter". If you believe in this weather prophet you had better swing on to your "red flannels", and under no conditions pawn your over coat! Both the weather man and the ground piggy have wig-wagged the signal and their theme song is, "It's A Long Time Till Spring"!

February 3rd, marked the 93rd birthday anniversary of the South's most distinguished poet, Sidney Lanier, of Macon, Georgia. The members of the D. A. R. organization are sponsoring a movement to have Lanier represented in the Hall of Fame celebrities.

Local and later highlights sharing this particular natal date, were C. R. Sparks and Will Page.

On February 7th, 1881, exactly 53 years ago work was started on the Panama Canal—and, on February 7, 1893, the first long distance telephone message was flashed between New York and Boston.

All Southerners will happily recall that Jefferson Davis was chosen President of the Confederacy on February 8, 1861 at Montgomery.

(I wonder what this gentleman would think, if he could take a peek through the Capitol Dome—present time—73 years after his inauguration and see the Solons now sponsoring and speeding up the New Deal activities).

February 8th, 1910, marked an occasion very dear to the hearts of all Boy Scouts in America, for on this date, the Boy Scouts of America was incorporated in the United States.

On February 10th, 1899, President McKinley signed the treaty of peace with Spain thereby bringing to a close the Spanish-American war.

The birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the 16th President of the United States is observed on February 12th. He was born in Kentucky in 1809.

St. Valentines Day! February 14th—the day Dan Cupid gets out his bow and arrow and those "three little words" mean Everything to Some Little Somebody—Everywhere.

February 22nd holds patriotic interest—George Washington's birthday!

It is now time to snap down the leaves on the calendar for the morning mail has arrived—it too, is always more or less interesting.

Well, here is a good one. "Enclosed is $1.00—please renew my subscription to the Democrat. Not all you say is wise or even true—but always INTERESTING! (Thanks Mister—As long as I can keep you interested—Why worry? How about my telling some "honest to goodness truth about you? Reckon that would be WISE?——) Think it over! At any rate, the dollars make the old press whirr—and I thank you for the left handed tribute.

The Shelby County Spotlight is next opened and the issue is edited by the Senior Three Staff of writers. This edition is one of the best seen from any body's school, and the editorial on CITIZENSHIP would do credit to much more mature minds.

I was especially happy to learn that Myra Stinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stinson of Columbiana, had won the distinct honor of representing Shelby County in the contest sponsored by the D. A. R. organization.

The qualities winning for this charming little Miss this distinction, includes: dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

The Democrat joins a host of friends in extending congratulations to Miss Stinson, and we sincerely hope she cops State honors and the trip to Washington. We know of no more worthy representative.

W. T. Carden, of Shelby, and W. A. Crim, of Calera, came by the little print shop to renew their allegiance to Shelby County's Leading Newspaper this week. Thanks gentleman, we were glad to see you and to welcome you back into the circle of weekly readers.

Frank A. Gorman, prominent merchant of Vincent, Alabama, was a visitor in Columbiana, Thursday. Mr. Gorman attended the Agricultural meeting held in the office of A. A. Lauderdale.

The Athletic Association of Shelby County High School entertained their friends and faculty members with a banquet in the High School on last Friday night.

The place cards were uniquely made in the figure of a football player in position, with the service stripes representing the number of years he had played for old Shelby.

The menu was prepared under the capable direction of Miss Mildred Meroney and served 60 guests.

Hugh Miller, Captain of the football team for 1934, was toastmaster, and many "talkettes" were enjoyed by the boys and the teachers. Tom Minor, was elected Captain for 1935, Conrad Fowler, alternate Captain. Coach Peacock spoke enthusiastically of his prospects for a winning team in 1935.

"The love for Fox Hunting has to be born in you—it cannot be acquired" states Shelby County's best looking devotee of this all absorbing sport, Homer Bearden. Mr. Bearden was seen proudly displaying a copy of CHASE which Mrs. Bearden had thoughtfully subscribed to for him, commemorating a birthday anniversary. He liked the gift—but he feels that the magazine will prove an expensive past time. He says he has found exactly 6 dogs in this one issue he wants to add to his collection of Walker specimens now in his kennels. So, an orchestra of 12 melodious hounds may soon be heard resounding over the hills of Old Shelby—for we have no doubt his intense love for this out door sport will prompt the purchasing of the other half dozen mentioned.

An out spoken House member was recently asked if he had read all the provisions of the 11 New Deal bills and understood them?

The House member replied, "Well, I look at it this way," "you know Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote those bills, and Bibb Graves corrected them, so why the D——— should I read them?"

The Columbiana Culture Club was entertained on last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Joe Stone. A collection of hand work made "for sale" by the pupils of the school for the blind in Talladega, was displayed. A short business session was held, after which Mrs. Purnie Hendrick conducted a short Parliamentary Drill.

The Life of Roosevelt was impressively given by Mrs. Inez Bird. Boston Rook was played, after which the hostess presented the Club Library with Somerset Maughan's newest novel, "First Person, Singular".

The next meeting of the Club will be held with Mrs. Purnie Hendrick on Wednesday, February 13.

A delicious salad plate with hot tea was served to the members and their guests on this happy occasion.

Miss Idell Turner, of Birmingham, entertained a group of her College mates at Curlee's Cafe for luncheon on Sunday. The six lovely blondes and brunetts caused quite a stir on Main Street among the bachelors, young blades, and even a few old married men were seen polishing up their "glasses", chucking their walking sticks and perking up a bit as this galaxy of girls left the cafe. Sure, I saw them—but could not blame them for LOOKING. One thoroughly hen-pecked gentleman remarked that he KNEW he was going to catch "IT" when he got home any how—and he might as well———at least, LOOK.

W. W. Wallace and Harold Harlin spent Wednesday in Rockford.

You will not find a better place to do your drug store buying! It is here you get THE BEST—!

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

Kiddies' Kolumn

My Dear Kiddies:-

I am reprinting a letter which I have just received and which I know you will be interested in reading:

Bourbon, Indiana,
January 28, 1935.

"Mildred White Wallace:-

I see in the 'Publisher's Auxiliary' of Chicago, Ill., that you are editing a Kiddie Kolumn in the Shelby County (Alabama) Democrat. I am enclosing ten cents for I want a copy of the paper containing this feature. Please send it to me. It seems to me that this is something NEW in the newspaper line, and I am interested.

Respectfully yours,
George W. Knight,
Bourbon, Indiana."

So, you see—those of you who had letters in last weeks paper, have journeyed into Indiana. Get to work now all of you and make this feature the most attractive one possible. Never can tell what might happen along the journalistic way—and I LOVE hearing from you.

Your ready response to all I have asked you to do is greatly appreciated. Especially do I want to thank my committee—Joyce Jackson, Hazel Ruth Swann and Louise Lovelady—A wonderful little trio and I could not ever do without you now.

Devotedly,
Mildred White Wallace.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 25, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

This is my first time to write you. I am in the 5th grade. I am 11 years old. Miss Wooley is my teacher and I like her very much.

We have just finished our tests. They were really hard. I hope I will pass. My best studies are—reading, spelling and health.

I hated to see the sun melt the snow last Tuesday, everything looked so pretty and white.

I do hope to see my letter in the Kiddies Kolumn. Yours,
Mary B. Holcombe.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 26, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

We are so glad you have given us the opportunity to let us put our letters in the paper. We have received some nice new books this morning. I also took a history test this morning.

We are studying Eskimo Land in Geography. I hate this weather—but I am always wishing it was summer, because I do not like winter. There is only one kind of fun in winter I think and that is playing in the snow.

I am in the 3rd grade.
Your friend, Bobby Chandler.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 27, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

My Mother said she would get my brother and me a billy goat wagon this spring. My brother's name is Bobby Smith, and my name is Ted Smith.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 26. 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

We are making an Eskimo Book. We are so glad to write to you, for we want to make you happy. The men are painting our school house. It is going to be so pretty. I got lots of things for Christmas. I have read 14 books. They are all good story books. Miss Nix will soon be here now so I will have to close.

With love, Gene Mankin.

Columbiana, Ala.,
January 28, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I am a little girl 12 years old. I am 4 feet 2 inches tall.

I have just gotten out of bed with the flu. (Oh Boy) was I glad to get back in school?

I was afraid Miss Wooley would not give my mid-term tests over, but she did. With love,
Angie Butterworth.

Columbiana, Ala.,
February 4, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

This is my first letter to you this year. I hope it misses the waste basket.

I'm in the third grade. I like my teacher, Mrs. Nivens, very much. I am 8 years old. I'm having a swell time skating after school.

Your friend, Dickie Miller.

P. S.—I love you.

SPECIAL VALUE;
Regular $1.10 Coty's FACE POWDER 75c—limited time only.

Come To See Us!

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

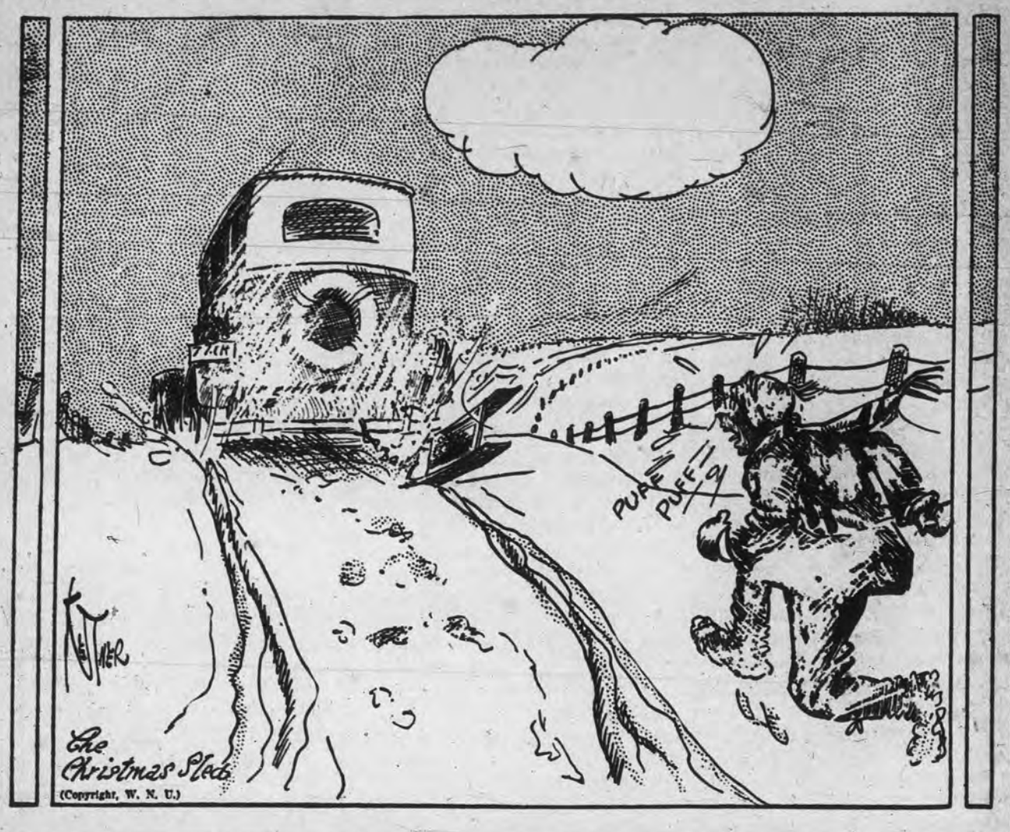
We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—
Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

SPECIALS

--at--



Taylor's Cash Stores

COLUMBIANA CASH STORE MONTEVALLO CASH STORE
SILURIA CASH STORE UNDERWOOD CASH STORE
BUCK CREEK CASH STORE CALERA CASH STORE

PINEAPPLE, sliced or crushed, 3 cans for	25c
SUGAR, 10 pound paper bag	47c
FLOUR, guaranteed, 24 pound sack	95c
TOMATOES, hand packed, 3 cans for	25c
HOMINY, Stokely's, no. 2 1-2 can, 3 for	25c
SOAP, giant octagon, 5 for	21c
BAKING POWDER, Clabber Girl, 2 pound can	20c
JELLO, assorted flavors, 2 packages for	15c
MATCHES, 6 boxes for	25c
CORN FLAKES, 2 boxes for	15c
SALMON, Chum, per can	10c
MILK, Northfield, 3 cans for	10c
PORK and BEANS, large size, per can	10c
SUPER SUDS, 2 packages for	15c
POTATOES, 5 pounds for	9c
GREEN CUT BEANS, no. 2 1-2 can, 2 for	25c
CORN, Excellor, 3 cans for	25c
CATSUP, 14 ounce bottle, 2 for	25c
CABBAGE, green head, per pound	4c
SNOW DRIFT LARD, 6 pound pail	95c

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

References

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Positive Answer

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

A Baby Grows Up
Senate's Good News
Five Little Girls
$4,880,000,000

Fifty-three years ago a good American mother, weak, but happy, received in her arms a small baby, with pink face and little hair. That baby now lives in the White House, face bronzed by ocean air, hair thick at fifty-three years of age.

The baby has grown to be Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States.

One hundred and twenty-five million Americans are grateful to his mother, who, happily, has lived to see her son move up, from the cradle in which she first placed him, to earth's most important place among men.

Congratulations and thanks, first of all, to President Roosevelt's mother; good wishes, congratulations and a long life to President Roosevelt.

The people of the United States are to be congratulated that by the decision of the senate they will not be pushed into the back door of the League of Nations through the World court.

Mr. Hull, secretary of state, wanted the United States to go into the World court and submit important matters affecting this country to foreign judges appointed by nations that have swindled this country out of ten thousand million dollars. Why, in heaven's name?

Those marvelous Canadian babies, the Dionne quintuplets, eight months old, are healthy, happy, each one a separate little lady of intense individuality. All pretty, all intelligent, with good foreheads, well-shaped heads. What a wonderful family! It seems almost a pity that they cannot remain babies, now, and above, through all eternity.

The house of representatives, 329 to 78, gives the President four thousand eight hundred and eighty million dollars, to be spent in accordance with his best judgment to fight depression and unemployment.

In early days the little, "small change" eighty million dollars, tacked on at the end of the large figure, would have astounded the country, for in those days millions were respectable units. Now our government unit is the billion—one thousand millions. When will the trillion start its career? The printing press could bring it.

Not content with being reduced from a great empire to a small "backyard" by the last Hapsburg, Austria thinks it wants another emperor and Prince Starhemberg will say when little Prince Otto shall mount the throne. That will mean unhappiness, eventually for the young prince, and a good actor spoiled for Hollywood.

Gen. William Mitchell, commander of all our flying force in the big war, knows more about national defense than anybody in this country. He writes to a friend seventy years old, as follows:

"During your lifetime have come the electric telegraph and telephone, the gasoline engine with its accompaniment of automotive vehicles, the airplane and submarine. The world is now only one-sixth as large as when you appeared. If this development goes on, it is difficult to say what may take place in the next seventy years. Will the biological supremacy of the yellow races dominate, or will the military supremacy, so far, of the white race be able to maintain our culture and standards? The world is growing so small and so increasingly populated that one or the other will undoubtedly become master."

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, whose father collected pictures and other works of art, has decided to sell six pictures. The price asked is said to be $1,500,000. The older J. P. Morgan evidently bought good pictures. Two of the six pictures, already sold to the Metropolitan museum, are a portrait of "Anne of Austria," by Peter Paul Rubens, and an altar piece by Filippo Lippi. Nobody knows how much was paid originally for either picture.

A rare ten-dollar gold piece, that sold at auction for $530, might offer a suggestion for government profit. At that rate, our $8,000,000,000 worth of gold could be changed into $400,000,000,000 worth, nearly all profit. Who could contradict the government if it said that was the value?

Industrialists that put 25,000,000 automobiles on the roads in this country helped their government last year. The federal tax on gasoline alone paid more than $170,000,000.

Col. Roscoe Turner, who does all sorts of things with airplanes, plans a real flight around the earth, 25,000 miles, following the equator all the way, starting at Panama.

This will be the first real "around the world" flight, the others having been flights around the northern end of the world, a flight that grows smaller as you go farther north. Equatorial heat will not bother Colonel Turner. In a plane you can pick out the altitude and the temperature that you want.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

Strong influences in Selma and Dallas County will be brought against House Bill No. 30, introduced by Representative Calhoun, of Houston County, which would revoke the right of cities between 16,000 and 20,000 to license filling stations outside the city limits but within the police jurisdiction.

A claim against the City of Tuscaloosa has been filed with the City Commission preparatory to filing a suit in court for $25,000 personal injuries sustained by Meade Johnson in an automobile wreck last August while engaged in special services for the city.

Fairfield schools will attempt to groom students for Fairfield jobs, utilizing a survey of all business in the city as a basis of the campaign. Heads of firms will be interviewed by survey-takers from vocational classes at the University of Alabama.

A letter requesting a list of public works projects in Boaz which would furnish employment for those out of work has been received by Mayor W. W. Creel from Deputy Administrator Phillip Fleming, of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Work has gotten under way on three units of the Walker County school building program. The total to be spent on the three buildings is approximately $100,000. The projects will give employment to 250 or 300 men for several months.

Because he violated probation by getting drunk less than 24 hours after Judge R. J. Wheeler suspended his four-to-five years sentence for robbery, F. B. Aston, 30, of Birmingham, was in County Jail awaiting transfer to Kilby Prison.

Florence city schools will have full terms, Supt. J. W. Powell stated, explaining that Florence has been listed by the State Department of Education as one of 11 Alabama cities likely to complete full terms without outside assistance.

Mrs. Susan J. Price, for 40 years a member of the science department faculty at Florence State Teachers College, died suddenly at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Trafford, in Coral Gables, Fla. She was 78.

Three large stills, two of them solid copper, were confiscated near Franklin's Ferry in the extreme southern part of Walker County. The outfits were of 2,000-gallon capacity and one of them had been in operation.

Producers of Central Alabama will be organized into an association to take advantage of Government contracts whereby it is expected a price of $8 per ton will be received for peanuts the coming season.

Oscar Selver, Tuscaloosa, unemployed painter, was fatally injured in a plunge from a ladder atop Warrior River Bridge to the river 80 feet below, striking a railing on the side of the bridge as he fell.

Gov. Bibb Graves signed extradition papers asking the return of Roy Bradley from Kentucky to face charges of highway robbery in Colbert County. Bradley is charged with taking $100 from J. E. Knight.

J. E. Hartman of near Huntsville claims the season's record as a hog raiser and says he has killed two hogs 18 months old that netted 1,180 pounds. Both were Poland China hogs.

The annual convention of the Alabama branch of the National League of District Postmasters will be held in Birmingham June 27-28. Headquarters will be at Tutwiler Hotel.

Plans are being completed for taking a city-wide religious census in Bessemer Feb. 10. All churches will cooperate and workers were selected Sunday for the campaign.

Elmer Davis, 14, of South Limestone County, was suffering with two fractures of his left leg which he suffered when struck by a stalk cutter on the Wilson Taylor farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powell Atkins were honored with a tea celebrating their golden wedding anniversary at their home in Monterey on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 18.

A 30-day reprieve was granted Ed Thomas, condemned Greensboro Negro, by Gov. Bibb Graves at a hearing before the governor and the State Pardon Board.

The survey for a highway from Birmingham to Columbus, between Alexander City and Sylacauga, has been completed by the Highway Department.

Capt. S. B. Roper has been informed by Congressman Joe Starnes that his appointment as postmaster at Albertville had received Congress' confirmation.

Payments of licenses required to do business in Huntsville exceed last year's collections by approximately $2000.

The number of Madison County families on direct relief has been reduced from over 4,000 to less than 1,000 within the last few months.

Dallas County ginned approximately 3,000 more bales of cotton up to Jan. 16 of this year than during the corresponding period last year.

At a county-wide meeting of school principals and musical directors held in Linden, a Marengo County Choral Club was organized.

Talladega County's relief rolls were reduced from 900 persons on Oct. 1 to 585 as of Dec. 31.

DESIGN HAS ALL THE BEST POINTS OF HOUSE DRESS

PATTERN 9083

Believe it or not, there's a four-point plan of convenience and flattery included in this neatly styled house dress. Let's add them up. First: the bodice may be worn with the contrasting rever, as shown in the larger sketch, or it may button all the way up to a smart point. Second: the sleeves boast little inverted pleats, jaunty to look at and very comfortable when working. Third: the slenderizing line sweeping down the middle front of the frock ends in another inverted pleat to give the slim skirt adequate fullness. And finally, the patch pockets with their important buttons are both useful and chic!

Pattern 9083 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 yards 36 inch fabric and ¾ yard contrasting.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

Smiles

OH! OH!

Mother (from upstairs)—Please, Tommy, turn off the radio., That lady announcer with the rasping voice ought to be kept off the air!

Tommy—But, Mother, it's Mrs. Jones to see you.

Intricacies

"A financier has to be an expert to explain intricacies of finance."

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "But it's easier when he's talking to a board of directors and not a grand jury."

No Fair!

Registrar—Have you been married before, madam? And, if so, to whom?

Film Star—What's the big idea? Memory test?—London Humorist.

Hard Boiled?

Bingo—In Russia children are brought up by the state.

Stingo—Well, it would take an act of congress to do anything with mine.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong. No alcohol. Sold by druggists in tablets or liquid.—Adv.

Real Charity

Charity is not a plan of giving! charity is the luxury of doing good.

Appetite gone?

✓ losing weight
✓ nervous
✓ pale
✓ tired

then don't gamble with your body

A simple thing, perhaps...yet a very serious one, resulting in loss of strength . . . body weakness . . . and possibly many other ills. So why not check-up and snap back to the zest of eating and well being.

You will find S.S.S. a great, scientifically-tested tonic—not just a so-called tonic, but one specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on."

Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetising food and good digestion . . . sound sleep . . . and renewed strength. So many say, "S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again." © S.S.S. Co.

You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

S.S.S. TONIC

Often When I Was Dragging My Weary Way to Bed, I Would Hear Him as I Passed His Suite, Dictating a Speech.

The Perils of Politics

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

My service as a member of a campaign squad have been discontinued permanently. One ought to have something in his past to look back upon with gratitude because it is not likely to occur again. Life, after all, is enjoyable, but as far as we can be sure, only while one is living it. I survived once, but should a second opportunity come to me to travel about on the trail of a candidate, I should politely but firmly leave it ungrasped.

In earlier days a man who had been nominated to the high office to which he aspired was carried from town to town in a comfortable railroad train, escorted to his hotel at the head of a parade and later to the hall in which he was to speak. Seated in a comfortable horse-drawn carriage he bowed to left and right and waved his hand at the cheering multitudes ranged along the street to do him honor. He made a speech at noon and a speech at night. Then retired to his hotel, ate a comfortable dinner, and spent an hour or two discussing the situation with his local supporters, after which he went to bed and to sleep.

That pleasant and enjoyable routine disappeared with the coming of the automobile, and with the assistance, by party leaders, of whirlwind campaigns. I have seen whirlwinds in the West and have been awed by them, and wished I was elsewhere. But many days during my service as the supporter of a candidate, I have regarded the days when sections of barns and rural bridges and unhappy cows and calves were spinning through the air as days to which I would gladly return. For pep has been put into politics.

Our candidate did not put it there, perhaps, but he made no effort to remove it. He is one of those people who likes to shake hands, and who had learned how to get in the first grip, so that his fingers will not be wrung from him by his devoted admirers. He has learned to write six or seven speeches while he is driving through the countryside at sixty or seventy miles an hour, and to make the one that seems best suited to the occasion when his local advisors call the parade to a halt. And, after a day that would leave a Bengal tiger limp and panting, he thinks nothing of sitting up till two or three in the morning talking with his retinue about what he ought to do tomorrow.

But it wasn't so much that that troubled me. It was the dash from town to town or from countryside to countryside in which we who followed his car in a huge reeling motor bus had to participate. On some days he was scheduled for six afternoon speeches in towns fifty or more miles apart. After breakfast we, of his following, would clamber into the vast bus, take our seats, get a firm hold on a strap, set our teeth, and dash forth.

Ahead of us was the candidate, listening to advisors who were giving him tips as to what to talk about to the next audience, and paying scant attention to them. Ahead of him were other retainers, talking over suggestions and plans to lay before him, and ahead of them were either two uniformed motorcycle policemen or a flivver containing state policemen.

In ten minutes after the start we were making fifty miles an hour. The sirens on the police cars or cycles shrieked like fire trucks racing through a city, the limousines rocked and swayed, and the motor bus leaped from depression to depression on the road like a giant jack rabbit. Rural motorists, truck drivers, farmers, appalled at the din, drew up beside the road and gazed at us with paling faces as we sped by them. Children raced beside the way shrieking madly. Men and women darted from farm houses and gaped over the fences at us. But on we rushed, unheeding.

Presently there was a signal from the sirens ahead, the brakes ground all along the array of cars, and we came to a stop in front of a school house or a town hall. Out hopped the candidate, into the building he rushed, made a five-minute speech, paused to shake out-stretched hands, then we all went into our equipages and forth we embarked o'er the hard high road. On one occasion we found the audience consisted of children who would have to wait for another ten years before they attained voting age. The candidate was a little taken aback, but he made a short speech, asked them to tell their parents about it, and away we raced again. We learned afterward that by some mistake we had got into the wrong hall, but there was no time to fuss about that.

Soon we began to glimpse church spires and the tops of skyscrapers over the trees and low hills, and knew that a city was near. I sat back with a sigh of gratitude. Here at least the pace must slow. Not even a political caravan could make its way through city streets at sixty miles an hour. I lit a cigar and prepared to take a few minutes of ease.

They were never taken. Outside the city we slowed down, but only to exchange our rural guard for a covey of city mounted policemen, and these gentlemen had motor cycles, not horses. Before I could catch a fresh breath, they set their sirens going continuously, and in their wake we rocked and roared along, around corners, over streets under repair and down narrow lanes, never once slackening our gait. If we came closer to a truck or a street car than the drivers had reckoned on, we merely shifted over a few feet while two wheels hiped up on the sidewalk, scattering startled pedestrains left and right, and proceeded on our way.

How we ever got through, and how a hundred people or so ever had the agility to escape us, is something that will forever remain a secret to me. But we did it, and presently were flowing forth from the bus and swarming into a hotel.

But not to rest. Three minutes after our arrival the candidate was making a speech and shaking hands. Five minutes later he was telling us what would be his plans for the afternoon. In another one minute we were forth and to the harvest field again.

Night brought no respite. There were two, and sometimes three speeches, frantic battles to get into the halls and out again, and often dashes through the night to some suburban hall which the local boys had forgotten for the nonce, but insisted must be visited. And through all and each of those long days, the candidate never turned a hair, never faltered in a speech for an instant, never failed to say something pleasant about the town and the people in it, and never showed a sign of fatigue.

Often when I was dragging my weary way to bed in a hotel after a terrific day, I would hear him as I passed his suite dictating a speech or discussing something with the native political yeomanry. And at seven o'clock in the morning he was out and ready again, his geniality unimpaired and his zest for battle keener than ever.

On the last night that I accompanied the procession we returned to town in a sleeping car which we boarded at midnight. As I passed his stateroom I heard him dictating, "And, as I have said so many times before, there are issues in this campaign which—" Then I went to my berth and tried to get a little sleep. In the morning I found him packing away a solid breakfast. "Aren't you nearly all in?" I said.

"All in?" he asked. "H—l no. By the way, if you see my secretary, ask him to come in here. I've just thought of something I ought to say to the meeting I'm going to speak to when we get into town."

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION
ENCLOSE STAMP
JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KANS.

SALESMAN
Can earn large profits selling our non-medical life certificate, benefits up to $5000. Very attractive rates. We also write full coverage Non-cancelable Health and Accident Certificates. Liberal commissions. Immediate earnings. Rural representatives write for territory.
THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CO.
504 Carondelet Bldg. - New Orleans, La.

WANTED TO BUY
CONFEDERATE and U. S. postage before 1870; preferably on envelopes; some worth dollars; write or send stamps; prompt pay. T. E. SPENCER, MOSS POINT, MISS.

FEEL TIRED, ACHY—"ALL WORN OUT?"
Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

IS a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

NIP THAT COLD
CLEANSE INTERNALLY
Doctors advise: "The moment a cold sets in, eat sparingly, CLEANSE INTERNALLY." A cup of Garfield Tea will relieve constipation, help break the cold's hold. Incidentally cleans out the system. Increases your resistance—At drug stores—25c & 10c.

GARFIELD TEA

COMMON COLDS
Relieve the distressing symptoms by applying Mentholatum in nostrils and rubbing on chest.
MENTHOLATUM
Gives COMFORT Daily

Three Simple Steps to Ease a Sore Throat in Three Minutes

1. Crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in ½ glass of water.

2. Gargle Thoroughly—throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat. Do this twice. Do not rinse mouth.

3. If you have a cold, take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Drink full glass of water. Repeat if necessary, following directions in package.

Modern Scientific Method Wonderfully Easy

REMEMBER PICTURES HERE

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it.

All you do is crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in ½ glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

RUN-PROOF
Resists Runs—Rips—Snags—Breaks in Silk or Rayon Hosiery and Lingerie
Run Proof doubles the wear of silk hosiery and lingerie. Simple home method SEALS delicate silk strands into strong, smooth, round threads with no loose fibres to catch and snag. Cuts hosiery bills in half. One treatment lasts life of garment. Half-a-million satisfied users. Money back guarantee.
If your dealer is unable to supply you with Run-Proof send 25c for full size package (enough to Run-Proof 10 pairs of Hose) sent to you postpaid RUN-PROOF LABORATORIES, Inc. • CHICAGO, ILL.

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA
direct from its New York Stage
3-Hour Broadcast by
LISTERINE
announced by
Geraldine Farrar
Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P. M.

For delicious chocolate layer cake be sure to use our pure, effective Baking Soda . . . It is specified by cooking authorities for all baked delicacies such as devil's food, steamed pudding, lemon loaf cake. Our Soda, a necessity in the kitchen, is helpful throughout the home . . . is often prescribed by physicians . . . Keep an extra package in the medicine cabinet . . . Your grocer has it. Just a few cents a package . . . Mail the coupon.

Business established in the year 1846

VINCENT NEWS

Mrs. Patgens, of Fayetteville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Walter Raley.

Richard Carter and Jimmie Gorman, of Camp Hill, visited their parents during the week-end.

Robert Hunt, Misses Mattie Hunt and Billye Arthur spent Monday in Sylacauga.

Mr. A. W. Livingston, of Birmingham, spent last Thursday with his sister, Mrs. W. I. Norris.

Work began on the Water Work's project, Tuesday, January 29, when Mayor T. C. Elliott moved the first shovel full of dirt for the foundation of the Water Tank. The work is under the supervision of Mr. Hugh McMath, of Columbus, Georgia and R. D. Cole and Co., of Newman, Ga.

Mrs. Bill Darden visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McGraw over the week-end.

Miss Elizabeth Bell, of Columbiana, and Mrs. John Miller, of Tennessee, visited Mrs. E. W. Bell. Mr. Bell continues ill.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Estate of Julian Green Radford, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed administrator of the estate of the said decedent by the Honorable Cage Head, Judge of the Probate Court of Shelby County, Alabama, and all persons holding claims against said estate are required to present the same within the time required by law or that the same will be forever barred.

T. N. RADFORD,
Administrator.

1-31-3t.

CALERA NEWS

Mrs. Elwood Gunn and daughter, Miss Marian, spent Thursday in Birmingham.

The Calera Independent basketball team played the Jemison team last Friday, Jemison winning from Calera 22 to 20.

Mrs. Z. S. Cowart returned home Friday after a few days visit with Mrs. Judd Salter in Opelika. Little Annie Salter returned with Mrs. Cowart for a months visit.

Miss Eleanor Jeffers, of Birmingham, is the guest of Miss Lucy Baily Bowdon this week.

Mr. D. W. Boyd spent Thursday in Birmingham on business.

Misses Elizabeth Shaw and Neva Jane Keys, of South Calera, were the guests of Mrs. C. B. Elliott, Saturday.

Mrs. W. P. Calloway, of South Calera, was visiting friends in Calera, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Sr., Miss Lucy Bailey Bowdon and Miss Margaret Kate Bowdon, spent the week-end in Birmingham with relatives.

Mrs. Pearl Burnett has returned from Selma after a two weeks visit with her sister.

Miss Lilly Pearl Shaw has returned from a visit in Sylacauga with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shaw.

The friends of Mr. Earnest Evans will regret to hear he has the flu.

Mrs. John Boley and children, of Boothton, returned home Saturday after a weeks visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pilgreen.

Mr. George Holcombe, Jr., spent the week-end with his parents. Mr. Holcombe is attending the University in Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. P. Baer and Mr. Louis Baer spent Thursday in Birmingham.

The many friends of Mr. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., will be pleased to know he has been appointed as Postmaster of the Calera Postoffice.

Messrs. Howard Cobert and Edwin Wiggins of Helena, were the dinner guests of Mr. T. Thomas and family, Sunday.

Miss Lilly Martin has returned from Columbiana and is with the Calera Cafe.

Mr. Ed Wallace and Miss Inez Wallace have charge of the Dixie Lunch Room in Columbiana.

Mr. Clayton Wallace and Mr. Albert Askins, spent Monday in Birmingham on business.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PAROLE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Loys Logan, will make application to the Governor and Board of Pardons for a parole, he having been convicted in the Fall term of the Circuit Court for the offense of transporting liquor, and sentenced to serve one year and one day or one year and seven months.

LOYS LOGAN.

2-7-2t.

14 ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT MODERNIZATION CREDITS

(Continued From First Page)

charge of an amount equivalent to $5 discount per $100 original face amount of a one-year note, payable in monthly installments. Charge for longer periods than one year is on the same basis.

9. How Do I Pay The Note?

By making regular, equal, monthly payments (seasonal payments for farmers) until the note is paid in full.

10. May The Owner Of Any Kind Of Property Apply?

Applications will be considered for credit to improve one-family, two-family, or other residences; apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings.

11. Where Do I Make Payments?

The regular installment payments will be made in person at the place of business of the financial institution; or by mail; or as otherwise arranged. No payment shall be made to any governmental office or organization.

12. May I Pay The Note In Full Before Maturity Date?

Yes, at any time. A reasonable rebate will be allowed for repayment, ifcharges have been collected in advance.

13. May I Make More Than One Payment At A Time?

Yes, as many as you wish.

14. What If I Am Late In Making My Payment?

The maker must not permit his payments to fall in arrears. Should a payment be more than 15 days late, the financial institution's expense, caused thereby, should be reimbursed in part at the rate of not more than five cents per dollar for each payment in arrears. Persistent delinquency will make it necessary for the financial institution to take proper steps to effect collection in full.

For further information, see Mildred White Wallace, Columbiana, Alabama, Chairman. Office in Shelby County Democrat.

—Complete—
FUNERAL PROTECTION
—No Age Limit—
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

YELLOW FRONT STORES
Groceries Dry Goods
Where Quality Prevails at Low Prices

SPECIALS - FEB. 8th and 9th - SPECIALS

1 POUND JAR 'BAMA
Peanut Butter - 15c

4 STRAND —:— EACH
BROOMS 25c
DILL OR SOUR — 26 OZ. JAR
PICKLES 15c

AMERICAN EAGLE —:— BOX
Shot Gun Shells 65c

CLARK'S —:— NO. 2 CAN
PEAS 10c
MILLERS CORN —:— PKG.
FLAKES 6c

STANDARD GRANULATED —:— 10 lb. Cloth Bag 50c
Sugar 10 lb. paper bag 47c

THREE 24 OZ. CANS
SCOTT CO. TOMATO
SOUP 25c
GOOD HEALTH —:— 3 BARS
SOAP 10c
Shop The Yellow Front

REX CRACKERS, 1 pound box 10c

SOLID OR FANCY PATTERNS —:— YARD
Manchester Chambray - - - 8c

LADIES FULL FASHION
HOSE 59c
THE LATEST COLORS — PR.
MEN'S NEW FANCY
HOSE 10c
Not Long At A Dime — PAIR

Men's Or Boys' Adjustable —:— An Honest 35c Value
Caps---Special---Each---25c

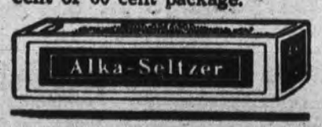
That New Piece Goods That Appears Like Woolens
Suiteen Gorgeous Patterns Rich Colors--Yard 15c

MEN'S CROSS RIB
PANTS 97c
Clearance Sale Price — PAIR
MEN'S SOLID BLUE
CAPS 47c
Sold For 75c All Season—Each

Don't Prolong The Agony!

Next time you suffer from Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, a Cold, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains; That Tired Feeling, That "Morning After" Feeling. Get a glass of water and drop in one or two tablets of

Alka-Seltzer



The New Pain-Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet

Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.

Get a glass at your drug store soda fountain. Take home a 30 cent or 60 cent package.

SEE US FOR JOB PRINTING

Prompt
Efficient
Inexpensive

GOOD printing service consists of more than delivering a certain amount of ink and paper in the form ordered. Good printing consists of careful consideration as to form in which the idea is to be presented, thoughtful selection of type faces, the right grade, weight and color of the paper, accurate composition and skillful printing . . . That is the kind of printing service you may expect from our shop . . . and it costs no more than inferior printing.

No matter what your printing job may be or in what quantities, we are confident you will find our estimate of cost most interesting, workmanship most efficient and promptness in delivery most gratifying. If you find it inconvenient to visit our office, phone and we will call . . . You are under no obligation in asking for an estimate.

The Shelby County Democrat

Printers---Publishers Telephone No. 9

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-FOUR

MANAGERS, CLERKS FOR ELECTION TO BE HELD FEB. 26, 1935

BEAT 1—BOX 1

Managers—Homer Bearden, J. P. Pearson, W. W. Carter; Clerks—Francis Leonard, H. R. Cox; Returning Officer—Jack White.

BEAT 1—BOX 2

Managers—A. B. Bristow, James Pate, E. S. Sawyer; Clerks—W. E. Finley, Cecil Davis; Returning Officer—Bill Jones.

BEAT 1—BOX 3

Managers—J. L. Davis, Bruton Pitts, Homer Walton; Clerks—Cecil Duke, N. Y. Horn; Returning Officer—J. W. Lee.

BEAT 2

Managers—E. S. Pearson, W. H. Shrader, Jasper Carden; Clerks—Maurice Pearson, Ercelle Jordan; Returning Officer—T. E. Weldon.

BEAT 3

Managers—J. F. Edwards, J. H. Johnson, P. H. Barnes; Clerks—Dave Norwood, Mrs. Cecil Cowart; Returning Officer—N. D. Thomas.

BEAT 4—BOX 1

Managers—Fred Frost, M. R. Jeter, J. R. Gilbert; Clerks—E. E. Craig, H. E. Latham; Returning Officer—C. M. Gardner.

BEAT 4—BOX 2

Managers—G. H. Crosby, B. B. Curry, O. T. Gay; Clerks—Phillip Harrison, Mrs. Burr Fancher; Returning Officer—George Harrison.

BEAT 5

Managers—Claude Lambert, John Crim, L. M. Johnson; Clerks—Mrs. Maude Crim, Mrs. Amanda Thomas; Returning Officer—Jim Crim.

BEAT 6

Managers—Frank Miller, J. D. Ruffin, Clay Espey; Clerks—Mrs. Emmie Davidson, Tommie Wallace; Returning Officer—H. A. Shaw.

BEAT 7—BOX 1

Managers—Wesley Ozley, C. H. Fulton, C. A. Payne; Clerks—Jim Naish, C. P. McLane; Returning Officer—Frank Nelson.

BEAT 7—BOX 2

Managers—L. E. Millender, Mal Roy, O. J. Broom; Clerks—Adrian Busby, Truett Farris; Returning Officer—Frank Fallon.

BEAT 8

Managers—A. F. Blackerby, M. H. Borland, T. B. Holcombe; Clerks—Will Shaw, Clifton Kendrick; Returning Officer—Frank Chesser.

BEAT 9—BOX 1

Managers—O. O. Tinney, Q. F. Lokey, John Clark; Clerks—G. E. Weldon, John Vardaman; Returning Officer—Robert Foster.

BEAT 9—BOX 2

Managers—Walter Lyon, Arthur Whorton, Charles T. Hughes; Clerks—Frank McEwen, John Stinson; Returning Officer—J. H. Blalock.

BEAT 10—BOX 1

Managers—R. B. Posey, Sam Elliott, T. M. Spruell; Clerks—Carrie Kimbrough, Annie Lee Borum; Returning Officer—Leonard Wyatt.

BEAT 10—BOX 2

Managers—E. E. Wallis, Lee Greene, Ed Cosper; Clerks—Cecil Glaze, B. D. Guy; Returning Officer—Scott Logan.

BEAT 11

Managers—John Shaw, Will Ray, H. E. Archer; Clerks—Henry Ray, L. H. Bentley; Returning Officer—L. E. Shaw.

BEAT 12

Managers—Morgan Denson, A. N. Cross, George Collins; Clerks—Ed Jones, Lee Street; Returning Officer—G. W. Rutherford.

BEAT 13

Managers—Pickens Lee, Jim Farley, Tom Lacey; Clerks—J. T. Lee, Ernest McLaughlin; Returning Officer—G. C. Lee.

BEAT 14

Managers—Jim Weldon, J. A. Whitfield, Albert Buckalew; Clerks—C. C. Perry, Grover Buckalew; Returning Officer—Tobe Weldon.

BEAT 15

Managers—C. C. Goodwin, R. E. Cosper, S. C. Spradley; Clerks—Clifton Hollis, Ozella Bruner; Returning Officer—Charlie White.

BEAT 16

Managers—Charles Davis, T. C. Elliott, Lee Embrey; Clerks—Frank Gorman, J. R. Montgomery; Returning Officer—W. G. Patterson.

BEAT 17

Managers—Robert Butler, W. W. Dickerson, Archie Word; Clerks—M. C. Butler, Robert Dennis; Returning Officer—John P. Lee.

BEAT 18

Managers—Ed Holliday, Ben Raines, J. O. Dorough; Clerks—F. F. Minor, Mrs. Lee Bailey; Returning Officer—J. T. George.

BEAT 19

Managers—George Siddons, Jack Smith, Cleo Broadhead; Clerks—Russell Harkins, Frank Lacey; Returning Officer—Earl Johnson.

BEAT 20

Managers—Melvin Snow, Clyde Kellum, Clyde Countryman; Clerks—Melvin Kendrick, Powell Harrell; Returning Officer—John Davis.

BEAT 21

Managers—Carl Wyatt, W. S. Cunningham, Amos Davis; Clerks—Melvin Douglas, Joel E. Swinford; Returning Officer—E. L. Garrett.

ABSENTEE BOX

Managers—W. J. Horsley, J. L. Isbell, A. R. Cooper; Clerks—H. M. Roberts, Mrs. Fay Benton; Returning Officer—J. M. Leonard.

MRS. STRICKLAND BURIED TUESDAY

Mrs. A. W. Strickland, former resident of Columbiana, passed away at her home in Woodlawn, Alabama, on Sunday, February 10, and was buried in Columbiana on Tuesday, the Rev. T. K. Roberts in charge of the services.

Mrs. Strickland is survived by her two sons, Robert and Ed Strickland.

The Democrat joins many friends in Columbiana in extending sincere sympathy.

To help you make the NATION'S Business YOUR Business

CARTER FIELD, famous Washington correspondent, is writing for this paper a weekly letter in which he explains and interprets the epoch-making events that are taking place in the national capital.

For twenty years Mr. Field has been observing and reporting the activities of Congress and administrative departments in Washington. His experience and his wide acquaintance among important men in the capital fit him unusually well for the particular task he has undertaken—that of giving you a clear understanding of what all these important developments at Washington mean to you and to other American citizens.

Mr. Field's letters appear in this paper under the heading

SEEN and HEARD Around the NATIONAL CAPITAL

The nation's business IS your business today more than ever before. Keep up with it by reading Carter Field's brilliant and interesting letters—tell your friends about them.

AAA PROGRAM WILL TAKE WOMEN OUT OF FIELDS IS BELIEF

Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, believes that the cotton adjustment program offers an opportunity to take Southern women and children out of the cotton fields.

"Eliminating the labor of women and children in the cotton fields has been a long hoped for objective in the South," he says, "but it could never be accomplished when cotton was selling at from 5 to 6 cents a pound and agriculture was so unorganized that producers tried to make up for low price by producing more cotton.

"Now that greater total income can be obtained from fewer acres with producers organized under the production adjustment program, the opportunity is here to reduce, to some extent at least, the amount of labor performed by children and women."

HURST TO SPEAK ON CURRENT ISSUE

"Why Christians Should Hold the Line on February 26," will be the subject that the pastor, the Rev. Henry M. Hurst will discuss Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Hurst states that Methodists have always been at the forefront in the fight against strong drink, and the campaign which ends with the 26th will be no exception. "You will find us right out in 'no man's land'." said Mr. Hurst.

COTTON PROGRAM TO BE LAUNCHED IN STATE IN FEW DAYS

AUBURN, Ala.—The 1935 cotton adjustment program which will net Alabama farmers over $10,000,000 in rental and benefit payments during the year, will be launched in Alabama within the next few days, advises Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service.

Farmers in every county of the state have already elected their cotton committeemen to serve during the year. County agents also have been furnished rules and regulations which they will pass on to the committeemen within a short time. The county and community committeemen will then carry the program directly to the other cotton farmers.

Dr. Duncan urges all county agents, committeemen and others to take all necessary steps to effectively and efficiently carry the benefits of the program to every cotton farmer during the year.

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN, Calera, Alabama

The Montevallo High School basketball team evened their winnings with the Bessemer High team on February 5th. Montevallo won with the score of 19 to 17. An extra quarter of play was necessary to decide the winner. The score was 17 to 17 at the end of four quarters. Charles Findley, newly elected captain, did some excellent playing and was high point man for the game. The line-up and summary:

Montevallo (19)—Wood (4) and J. Eddins (2), forwards; Nichols (2) center; Findley (8) and W. Eddins (3), guards.

Bessemer (17)—Mann (5) and Jordon (3), forwards; Holoman (2), center; Conzoneri and Little (6), guards; Terrell (1), sub.

On February 4th, the Calera Independent team defeated the Piper Independent at Piper 23 to 20.

The Calera Independents defeated the Shelby Independents Friday, Feb. 8th, 45 to 26.

The Calera Juniors stacked up another victory February 5th, by winning over the Montevallo High School scrub team. These boys won two games last week and lost one. They have lost only two games during the whole season and those who were to the Mt. Pleasant invaders. They won from the Helena Juniors again February 8th. The Calera boys are looking forward eagerly and hopefully to the coming Shelby County tournament. Line-ups and summaries:

Calera Juniors (20)—Lucas (10) and Blankenship (2), forwards; Findley, center; Kennedy (3) and Cook (1), guards; Comer (4), sub.

Montevallo Scrub (17)—Hardy (3) and Wilson (3), forwards; Jones, center; Wm. Kroell and Walton Kroell, guards; Villadsen, Clarke (7) and Green (4), substitutes.

Calera Juniors (24)—Blankenship (8) and Lucas (2), forwards; Findley, center; Cook (8) and Kennedy (6), guards; Hill, George, and Samples, substitutes.

Helena (9)—

Calera (12)—

Mt. Pleasant (25)—

Thompson High School defeated Jemison High, February 8th, 10 to 7.

Leon Hicks has taken over his coaching duties at Montevallo High School in Solon Sudduth's place. Mr. Sudduth has left to take charge of his new position in Arkansas.

EARLY GARDENS ARE PROFITABLE

Early garden vegetables, such as cabbage, lettuce, onions, spinach, mustard, kale, turnips, beets, carrots, peas, and Irish potatoes, should be planted during February, says Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, Auburn, Alabama.

"By planting these early, farmers will have a supply of fresh vegetables in March, April, and May," he advises.

To obtain high quality vegetables, they should be planted on the best soil available and fertilized heavily. Applications of stable manure and high-grade commercial fertilizer, together with thorough preparation and tillage of the soil, will pay big dividends.

TWO COLUMBIANA [illegible] ARE PLACED ON HONOR ROLL

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—Thirty-one students of Alabama College were placed on the first honor roll for the past semester, according to Dean T. H. Napier, who announced the following list:

Misses Alice Roberts and Jane Fowler, Columbiana; Aline Blair, Hartselle; Bess Buck, Thomaston; Ida Coker, Talladega; Dorothy Davis, Andalusia; Ruth Duffee, Mobile; Effie Lou Gaines, Crossville; Annie Belle Gates, Mount Willing; Bunelle Hall, Dothan; Jane Howell, Birmingham; Virginia James, Eufaula; Emily Starr Korksey, Aliceville; Winifred Lion, Uniontown; Ruby Livings, Elba; Brownie Lollar, Fayette; Martha Lowery, Birmingham; Rachael Moris, Geneva; Agnes Postell, Birmingham.

Eloise Reynolds, Montgomery; Elizabeth Sankey, Nauvoo; Julia Sellers, Anniston; Elizabeth Sitz, Gadsden; Emmie Vida Slaughter, Millerville; Jeanette Steele, Brent; Ruth Stovall, Brent; Hariette Stripling, Cullman; Lois Thompson. Clanton; Nancy Lucile Underwood, Ogden, Utah; Lois Willoughby, Gordon, and Helen Woodward, Birmingham.

Poultry And Egg Outlook Promising

AUBURN, Ala.—Farmers who follow the latest improved methods in poultry flock management should find poultry profitable, advise extension poultrymen, who report that the "price outlook for poultry and eggs is more favorable than a year ago."

With smaller supplies of poultry and with prices of competing types of meat increasing, poultry prices during the first half of 1935 should average higher than for the corresponding period in 1934, they declare.

SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SHELBY COUNTY BOARD OF REVENUE FOR THE LAST HALF OF THE YEAR 1934

Columbiana, Alabama,
January 27th, 1935.

To the Honorable Board of Revenue of Shelby County,
Columbiana, Alabama.

Gentlemen:

I beg to submit herewith a Report of Receipts and Disbursements for the six months period beginning July 1st and ending December 31st, 1934, together with a statement of the County's indebtedness on December 31st as the same appears of record on that date.

Respectfully submitted,
OLIVER MILES, Clerk.

—GENERAL FUND—
Last Half of 1934
—RECEIPTS—

1934:
July 1st: Balance on hand $ 7,823.12
Dixie B. Shealy, Tax Collector:
General Fund Collections 14,975.83
G. C. Hall, Probate Judge of Montgomery County:
Shelby County's share of Central of Georgia Mortgage Tax 2.25
J. H. Hard, State Comptroller:
Excise Tax 45.13
Franchise Tax 1,257.87
Johnson, A. J.:
Roofing 9.21
U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co.:
Refund of T. W. Ingram premium 6.02
J. M. Leonard, Jr.:
Trial Tax 34.20
Cage Head, Probate Judge:
Land sold for taxes ..... $ 495.87
Privilege License 1,496.28
Mortgage Tax 51.87
Deed Record Tax 49.39
Motor Vehicle Tax 600.87
Forestry 36.56
$2,730.84 $2,730.84
Total Receipts $26,884.47
Total Disbursements 21,227.85
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand $ 5,656.62

—GENERAL FUND—
—DISBURSEMENTS—

Luck, P. O.—Salary County Solicitor 900.00
Lauderdale, A. A.—Salary County Farm Agent 450.00
Lee, J. W.—Salary Jailer 225.00
Merrell, W. E.—Pres. Board of Revenue 228.00
Lawley, S. M.—Member of Board of Revenue 650.60
McGraw, S. E.—Member of Board of Revenue 463.20
Nash, T. R.—Member Board of Revenue 494.40
Tinney, C. R.—Member of Board of Revenue 522.00
Miles, Oliver—Clerk of Board of Revenue 600.00
Minor, Thomas—Salary County Treasurer 750.00
Kimmey, Dr. J. M.—Salary County Physician 180.00
Donovan, Dr. H. T.—Salary County Physician 180.00
Wooley, Bill—Salary County Jailer 45.00
White, W. B.—Salary Chief Deputy 600.00
Rhoden, Arthur—Salary Court House Janitor 270.00
McCain, Miss Connie—Salary Court Reporter 606.00

—STATIONERY, ETC.—

Shelby County Democrat—stationery, job work etc. 143.67
Shelby County Reporter—stationery, job work etc. 153.09
McCain, Miss Connie—stationery Court Reporter 57.18

—POSTAGE AND PHONE—

Appleton, J. L.—Postage and and phone 165.34
Head, Cage—Postage and phone 112.55
Christian, Mrs. L. E.—Postage 6.00
Leonard, J. M.—Postage 16.00
Minor, Thomas—Postage 16.44
Luck, P. O.—Postage and phone 23.10
Shealy, Mrs. Dixie B.—Postage 148.63
Taylor, W. T.—Postage and phone 51.13
Wooley, Knox E.—Postage and phone 121.20
Board of Revenue—Postage 32.52

—COURT HOUSE SUPPLIES—

Alabama Power Company 98.10
Alabama Typewriter Company 18.00
Anderson, P. P. 5.50
Columbiana Ice Company 24.72
Columbiana Drug Company ..... .50
Birmingham Paint & Glass Co..... 4.65
Houston, Pratt 4.25
Messer, M. C. 7.00
McGreggors, H. L. 3.60
McGhee, A. P. 12.00
Nelson, N. O. Mfg. Co. 66.74
Peers, J. W., Repairing roof.... 23.50
Roberts, T. K. 85.51
Warrior Water Co. 199.79
Walton, T. R. 5.65

—JAIL SUPPLIES—

Alabama Power Co. 60.93
Alverson, J. B. (Wood) 13.50
Curlee, G. C. ..... .75
Columbiana Drug Co. 4.55
Dee Gun & Key Co. 29.00
Dupree, Jesse ..... .50
Davis, Manning 3.00
Davis, Buddie 5.00
Johnson, Martin (Washing) 15.00
McGreggor, H. L. 22.40
Nelson, N. O. Mfg. Co. 3.75
Roberts, T. K. 89.25
Sumpter Co. Farm Co. 14.24
Warrior Water Co. 100.60
Walton, T. R. 33.87

—ALMS HOUSE SUPPLIES—

Alverson, J. B. (Keeper) 928.05
Baer, P. 1.98
Columbiana Cash Store 20.38
Columbiana Leader 68.52
Columbiana Drug Co. 46.25
Davis Drug Co. 80.10
Eagle Iron Works 20.00
Farr, F. S. 144.10
Grady's 5c & 10c Store 3.90
Kelly, Fred (Repairing stove) 4.50
Lightcap, Dr. D. S. (Dental work) 8.00
Lee-Rogers Mfg. 5.00
Meigs, J. R. 2.60
McGhee, A. P. 28.43
McGraw Brothers 5.00
Roberts, T. K. 69.72
Stinson, W. W. 1.50
Sutton, George 7.00
Shelby Lumber Co. 38.43
Stinson, T. C. 1.20
Walton, T. R. 22.25
JURORS, BAILIFFS AND ELECTION OFFICERS 2,458.80

—ENUMERATING SCHOOL CHILDREN—

Allen, Fred 31.20
Cooper, J. E. 18.70
Chesser, L. P. 15.05
Franks, G. E. 28.25
Horton, A. L. 68.70
Harmon, J. A. 70.65
Moore, J. W. 6.50
Riggins, L. D. 19.85
Street, Lee 17.05
Smith, D. B. 37.65
Stone, L. H. 23.05
Thomas, Miss Fannie 56.75
Tucker, R. W. 28.85
Wyatt, H. G. 5.00
Wallace, Beth 25.60

—MISCELLANEOUS—

Gordon & White—Official Bonds 555.00
Davis, John—Transportation Insane 12.00
Harrison, George—Transportation Insane 13.99
Wooley, Knox E.—Transportation Insane 197.50
Wooley, Knox E.—Transportation Prisoner 7.00
Minor, Thomas—Refund Com. Chase National Bank 24.61
Columbiana Savings Bank—Interest on Bonds 3,945.00
Booth, W. H.—Damage 40.00
Peoples Finance & Thrift Co.—Insurance 138.12
Alabama Relief Admin.—Appro. 200.00
Transfer to Gasoline Fund 852.86
Taylor, L. C.—Drayage 6.49
Owens, B. J.—Drayage 2.57
Curlee's Cafe—feeding jurors.... 32.50
Whitemore, Mrs. E. A.—Feeding Jurors 13.00
Snow, Dr. J. W.—Medical Service 5.00
Ray, R. M.—Tax Refund 6.79
Taylor, W. T. Jr.—Ex. Off. Fees 249.96
Head, Cage—Ex. Off. Fees 450.00
Christian, Mrs. L. E.—Making Tax Abstract 250.00
Wooley, K. E.—Serving Spec-

(Continued On Page Eight)

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Germany Studies Anglo-French Peace Proposals—Labor Rebuked by Roosevelt for Objections to the Auto Code—Governor Moodie Ousted From Office.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

CONTINENTAL chancelleries turned their attention toward a new plan designed to restore Germany to complete equality among European nations and to strengthen the shaky foundations of peace, as conversations ended between Pierre Laval, French foreign minister, and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

Pierre Laval

Germany will be offered a promise of repeal of the military clauses of the treaty of Versailles in return for re-entering the League of Nations. Such a concession would seem a victory for Hitler's campaign to restore Germany to its place as a sovereign power in Europe.

Another proposal arising from the negotiations greatly aids France's campaign for security. Regional defense pacts to provide the nations participating with reciprocal assistance in repelling an unprovoked air attack are part of the plan. France and Great Britain are willing to enter into such a series of pacts, and suggest that other European nations be invited to join. This signifies that either nation must rush planes to the aid of the other in the event of attack from the air. The pact will undoubtedly be concluded between Great Britain and France, no matter what action the other nations take, although no formal announcement has been made.

Some European diplomats are not at all certain that Germany and Poland can be persuaded to change the unreceptive attitude they have so far manifested toward suggestions for their participation in an "eastern Locarno." Germany may be so strongly rearmed by this time that she will not be concerned whether her armaments are legalized.

This, however, is only speculation. Dispatches from Germany have indicated the reich's willingness to engage in any conversations proposed by the Franco-British formula, but she must first be assured of complete equality of status.

SENATOR BORAH of Idaho, always sternly opposed to action that might lead the United States into foreign entanglements, has surprisingly come forward with a demand that congress investigate the alleged religious persecutions in Mexico and persuade our neighbors to the south to cease them. The excuse for such proposed meddling is that some citizens of the United States may be among the "victims." Through its representatives in Washington the Mexican government calmly denies there is any religious persecution down there, and says all who obey the laws are permitted to worship as they please. If the Borah resolution carries, Mexico may well tell the United States to mind its own business. Representative Fish of New York followed Borah's lead by introducing in the house a resolution calling upon the President to take diplomatic steps toward abatement of what he declares is growing communism in Mexico. He said the communistic trend was directly connected with the alleged religious persecutions, and that entrenchment of communism in Mexico would seriously affect the United States.

THREE million pounds of steel in the form of a huge gate was slowly lowered into place at the Boulder dam, the great Colorado river was placed under control, and there came into being a new lake which will eventually be the largest ever made by man. In two or three years it will extend back 115 miles from the dam. By June 1 next it will contain about 3,000,000 acre feet of water or one-tenth of its capacity. Only one of the diversion tunnels remains open. It is on the Nevada side and through it will be permitted to flow only enough water to meet the needs of irrigation in the Imperial valley of California.

THE much-advertised benefits from Russian recognition have been rather less than satisfactory. Neither the wide expansion of trade which was anticipated, or the satisfactory settlement of debts materialized, and following a conference with Soviet representatives, Secretary Cordell Hull admitted that diplomatic dilly-dallying had come to an end.

Hull issued a curt statement that "certain diplomatic changes" had been ordered in Moscow. The acting naval attache will be withdrawn, the consulate generalship will be abolished, and further reductions will be made in the personnel of the embassy, he stated.

The United States' action means a period of strained relations between the two countries, although not to the point of the United States government's withdrawing recognition. William C. Bullitt will remain as ambassador but there is little doubt that the United States will not proceed with construction of an embassy building, and that arrangements for creating consulates in other parts of Russia will be deferred.

RIOTING broke out in England as a protest against the new dole measure, despite an announcement by Minister of Labor Oliver Stanley that recent reductions in unemployment payments would be restored.

Thousands continued their protest campaign, demanding not only the restoration of relief cuts, but an increase over the scale of relief imposed before the advent of the unemployment assistance board last month.

Violent clashes occurred at Sheffield, where a mob of 10,000 battled with mounted police. At Glasgow during a discussion of the new relief concessions two councillors were thrown out of the council chamber and a band of unemployed men and women were also forcibly ejected.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT renewed the automobile code, with two changes designed to stabilize employment; but the American Federation of Labor, growing daily more dissatisfied with the government's policy, denounced the code extension, and President William Green said: "We will not accept it, recognize nor yield to it." The federation's executive council bitterly attacked Donald Richberg, emergency council director, and Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the automobile labor board, asserting they are hostile to the American Federation of Labor. Wolman's board not long ago conducted elections in the Detroit area which revealed that less than 10 per cent of the employees were affiliated with the federation, and presumably for this reason Green and his aids were not consulted in the matter of renewal of the code.

Wm. Green

The President lost no time in serving notice that labor would not be permitted to dictate administration policies.

Extension of the code was welcomed by the Automobile Manufacturers' association, its officers declaring there would be steadier work in their factories and that winter unemployment would be greatly reduced. The changes in the code call for the introduction of new models during a 60-day period before or after October 1, and pay and a half for overtime work.

Two days later the President again fired back at the federation in reply to the federation executive council's demand that S. Clay Williams, administration board chairman, be removed at least until a cigarette code satisfactory to labor could be approved. Williams had been appointed after careful consideration, the President said, and there was no need for any controversy.

A resolution had been passed by the labor council asking William Green to seek the ouster of Williams as a foe of labor. Before he took the NRA post Williams headed one of the nation's largest tobacco companies.

AFTER less than a month in office Gov. Thomas H. Moodie was ousted by the North Dakota Supreme court. The court held Moodie ineligible on the ground that he had voted, and thereby established residence, in Minnesota in 1930. The constitutional provision requires candidates for governor to have lived in the state five consecutive years before election. His successor, Lieut. Gov. Walter H. Welford, will be the fourth governor in seven months. Last June the State Supreme court ordered the removal of William Langer, who had just been convicted of conspiracy to solicit political contributions from federal relief workers.

During his brief term in office, Moodie was in difficulties with the legislature, the lower house being controlled by the Nonpartisan party which was hostile to Moodie, who was the second Democrat ever to win the office.

WILLIAM MAC CRACKEN, former assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, will spend ten days in jail, the Supreme court decreed, thus settling the right of the senate to punish for contempt. MacCracken was sentenced to jail by the senate when he failed to produce data requested by the senate air mail investigating committee. The District of Columbia Supreme court held the senate acted within its power, but the District Court of Appeals sided with MacCracken.

ORGANIZED labor in America now gives its full support to the international labor organization in Geneva. It was officially announced in the Swiss city that President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, will be the American member of the body. Leon Jouhaux, French labor leader, in a speech at Geneva, expressed the joy of labor representatives of all countries at the co-operation of American labor.

ACTING with startling rapidity, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration ousted a group of radical New Dealers, which Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said was "for the good of the service." Jerome N. Frank, Lee Pressman and Frank Shea and Gardner Jackson all tendered their resignations. The final fate of Fred C. Howe, Victor Rotnam and Alger Hiss still remain in doubt.

The bloodless purge of the group, known as favored proteges of Rexford G. Tugwell, was unexpected. Evidently signals were confused, because President Roosevelt in his press conference stated that he was uninformed of any such action, but later in the day, Secretary Wallace said the President was aware of the action before it was announced.

Wallace added, however, that Tugwell, who is in Florida, had not been consulted. It may be remembered that Tugwell's fight for Frank resulted in the discharge of George N. Peek as AAA administrator, and it was felt by some that it was to avoid possible trouble with Tugwell that he was not informed of the plan.

Agricultural Administrator Davis informed newspaper men that the order was necessary to preserve harmony.

"There was mounting difficulty in getting things done," said Administrator Davis. "We believed things would function more smoothly if they were directed by men familiar with farm problems and having a farm background."

Wallace was asked if this statement applied to Tugwell. He hastily replied that Tugwell had an excellent farm background, which may be a distinct surprise to many.

THE first special federal grand jury to be called at Washington since the Teapot Dome oil scandals more than ten years ago, began investigation of the public works scandal involving an alleged conspiracy to use 200 miles of California redwood pipe in a Texas irrigation project that originally called for no pipe at all.

PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes instituted the grand jury action. The plot centers around the $4,858,000 Willacy county (Texas) water control program to irrigate citrus orchards. Ickes claims the money was promised by PWA on the understanding that the Willacy project would be a gravity system requiring no pipe, and that after the papers were signed by PWA the plans were mysteriously altered to make it a pressure system and to use 200 miles of redwood pipe. According to the evidence to be placed before the jury, PWA officials and engineers, Texas politicians and lumbermen were parties to the conspiracy.

When the Willacy county matter has been sifted, the jury may investigate reported irregularities in other PWA projects, and may also start a new investigation of War department contracts.

POSTMASTER GENERAL JAMES FARLEY will either have to resign his job as head of the Post Office department, or give up the chairmanship of the Democratic national committee if Senator Norris, Nebraska, succeeds in putting through a bill he introduced in the senate.

James Farley

Norris would take the post office from Farley down out of partisan politics. The postmaster general would be appointed for ten years, and the present system whereby congressmen have an important voice in the appointment of postmasters would be abolished. All employees would be selected for "merit and efficiency" only. The chances of ever putting such a measure through congress are more than problematical. While Norris asserts that "congressmen ought to be tickled to death to be rid of the job," it is hardly likely that very many congressmen will be anxious to give up the "task" of handing out such political plums.

The administration moved hastily to introduce a counter bill, which would provide that all postmasterships would be brought under civil service, and which would ban political appointments and open most of the jobs only to career employees in the postal service. The measure was introduced by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, and was said to have the approval of both the President and Farley.

Only civil service employees of the postal system who have served in supervisory capacities or as post office inspectors, postmasters of first-class offices who have had at least four years of actual experience, or executives "of broad experience in private life" would constitute the class from which postmasters would be selected for offices having gross receipts of $1,000,000 or more.

SPEEDY police action was necessary to avert new bloodshed in Paris on the anniversary of the uprising caused by popular indignation over the Stavinsky scandal disclosures. Thousands of arrests were made as Communists sought to arouse the public to a repetition of the riots of a year ago, when 19 were killed in the Place de la Concorde. Police gave the Reds no chance to carry out their intended maneuvers. The most harmless looking individuals were escorted a few blocks and let go with farewell kicks, while those found carrying weapons were rushed into improvised concentration camps. Premier Flandin was hissed and booed by many fire-eating Nationalists as he attended memorial services in Notre Dame cathedral.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington. — Irish distillers are still sore with Director Choate, of the Federal Alcohol Control administration, because he will not permit them to label their whisky "straight." They insist that this is a rank discrimination, brought about by the social and economic influence of the British embassy, working in behalf of the Scotch "Whisky Trust."

This rivalry between the Scotch and Irish distillers for the American market is one of the queer twists that could occur probably nowhere else in the world, because the roots of the matter go back to Dr. Harvey Wiley, of pure food fame, to President Taft's liberal interpretation reversing Wiley on his "What is Whisky?" argument, and to prohibition.

The truth of course is that in the ordinary understanding of the words in America, Irish whisky is straight, and Scotch whisky is not. But under the ruling of Choate neither is "straight."

The ordinary American understands "straight" whisky to be liquor distilled from a grain mash, undiluted by neutral spirits or any other "thinning" ingredient. Under this definition practically all Scotch whisky sold in America, or in England for that matter, is a blend. It has mixed with the original malt whisky neutral spirits, water, a little sherry, and sometimes other ingredients. Further, whiskies of different distilleries and of different years are frequently mixed together to produce a certain flavor or quality.

This is not actually an objection—to one who knows his whisky. In fact, until the Scotch began "blending" their whisky with neutral spirits, they were never able to sell it outside Scotland. It was a little too pungent for the English taste, for example. At a hearing before the royal commission, several years before the World war, it was testified that not a drop of straight Scotch had been sold commercially for years—in fact, not since just before 1865, except once at a time of overproduction, when an attempt was made to sell some in England. Despite heavy advertising and boosting, the English did not like the straight Scotch, and continued to buy the blended brand they were used to.

Real Sales Talk

But in America, due to Doctor Wiley and to prejudices built up during prohibition against the addition of alcohol, "cutting," etc. the word "straight" has come to be a very real selling argument.

The Irish distillers wanted to take advantage of this, and were doing so in their advertising in this country last spring and summer. Then came the ruling they could not label their whisky "straight."

"Irish whisky is not straight," Choate insisted to the writer. "Every Irish distiller mixes products of different years."

In short, Irish whisky could be called "a blend of straight whiskies" if the distillers so desired. But not "straight."

But meantime, due to some of the atrocious tasting "blends of straight whiskies" marketed in America, a prejudice against this term had grown up. In fact, two big whisky concerns capitalized that and by making blends of actually aged whisky with neutral spirits, with no new whisky to ruin the taste, had run away with the market.

The Irish distillers, without exception, all mix the product of different years.

Their labeling as to age indicates the youngest whisky used in this "blend."

Meanwhile, however, Choate had been compelled to yield on another point—his own definition of what could be called "whisky." Under his original ruling Irish whisky could not have used that word, because it was distilled at 171 proof, whereas he fixed 160 as the limit. This the importers ignored with impunity for some months, until it was revoked.

To Settle Feud

Inside information is that President Roosevelt will settle the feud over stimulating exports between Cordell Hull, secretary of state, and George Peak, "special adviser to the President," in favor of Hull.

This will break the log jam which has been bogging down the reciprocal trade agreements on which Hull pinned so much hope. Hull has favored reciprocal trade agreements, retaining the "most favored nation" clause. Peak has favored direct barter agreements between governments.

There is not the slightest sign of an ending to the feud. Both men are determined and stubborn. Neither is giving any sign whatsoever of yielding. Peak still stands firmly for barter, with government control, virtually regimentation, of both imports and exports. Hull still stands strongly for the reciprocal trade agreements, which would give equal advantages to all foreign nations not discriminating against the United States, and for permitting trade to flow naturally, through normal channels, with no regimentation, quotas or other governmental interference.

Hope for a break in the deadlock lies in the fact that there are definite indications the President has made a decision, though there has been no public statement, or even a private one, to that effect.

The differences between the two men have blocked any hope of getting anywhere with either scheme up to date—Hull working for the treaties, and Peak, with the power of government money to loan exporters or importers, and with all the prestige of his title in dealing with foreign missions and diplomats, working to head off the treaties and substitute barter agreements.

See Hull Victory

Signs of the Hull victory were first evident when this German agreement was held up. Best information today is that it will never receive White House approval, despite the fact that it would dispose of half a million bales of American cotton. Germany would give a small amount of cash, and a large amount of "registered" or "blocked" marks.

It is on these blocked marks that the trouble centers in this particular agreement. But the trouble here is of the essence of the objections to the whole barter plan. For it would force trade, so to speak, along new and unnatural channels, against not only inertia but the active opposition of existing trade agencies. The point regarding the marks is that there is already a stupendous amount of these blocked marks on the market. They can be used for only one purpose—to buy German goods for export. In the present instance this is a serious objection. There is a very real boycott against German goods, especially on the part of our department stores, which for some time have handled a very large percentage of all German imports.

So the blocked marks on the market are selling at a very sharp discount. Germany is deliberately encouraging this discount, figuring that the profit which would accrue to anyone using them to buy German goods for some other country will eventually break through the deadlock. Purchase by the United States government, under the Peak agreement now on the President's desk, of some forty million dollars' worth of blocked marks, in addition to those already for sale, would accentuate this situation sharply.

Foreign Trade

Illustrating the generally unestimated value of foreign trade to American workers, a computation that no less than 12,000,000 Americans last year were dependent on American exports has been prepared by one of the experts working on the problem of how to get some activity in the apparently inactive negotiations for more reciprocal trade agreements.

The figure has amazed senators and members of the house to which it has been shown, especially as so much stress has been laid in the last few years on the small percentage of this or that product of America which was exported. Such statements have generally been made in connection with an argument that America could disregard the rest of the world, build a Chinese wall around itself economically, and prosper.

"Starting off with the automotive industry," this expert said, "there were some 350,000 cars, trucks and buses exported from America in 1934, either direct from American plants or for local assembly in branch plants abroad. Each of these vehicles represents a minimum of 500 hours of labor, that estimate growing out of an NRA study last year showing an average of 140 hours per automobile in final assembly and such processes of machining, painting, upholstery, etc., as are performed directly in the automobile factories.

"Fabrication of parts purchased from outside factories, the production of basic raw materials and other processes are additional, the total of which may be guessed as doubling the work done in the automotive factories. Adding a modest amount to cover transportation, both during and after fabrication, and such other things as sales force, executive supervision, accounting, bank clearances, etc., the estimate of 500 hours per automobile is, if anything, highly conservative.

"Now, if you multiply 500 hours by the 350,000 units exported last year, we have at least 175,000,000 hours of labor, which, at 35 hours a week, makes 5,000,000 weeks or 100,000 years. And bear in mind that this is direct labor.

Overseas Car Sales

"But this is only the beginning. Overseas sales of automotive products other than new cars and trucks are large, embracing parts, accessories and garage equipment (spark plugs, storage batteries, tires, brake lining, gears, pistons, rings, valves, carburetors, etc.) required in expanding volume to service the automobiles in current operation in other countries. No practical method exists for estimating the labor time involved in such exports in 1934, but I would guess it as 20,000 years. Thus, we credit the export section of the automotive industry with having supplied an equivalent of 120,000 years of work to American workers in 1934.

"Automotive exports are a tenth of our total trade, approximately. Assuming that same average, we have 1,200,000 years of work last year involved in export trade. Taking five to the family, such trade directly provided the livelihood of 6,000,000 men, women and children in 1934.

"But these 6,000,000 did not put their wages and salaries into a hole in the ground. Their income and wages were spent for food, fuel, shelter, transportation, amusements, doctor bills, etc. We may say that, radiating out through all the ramifications of business, for each worker gainfully employed in factory work, there is at least another service worker, in grocery stores, producing food, making clothes, furnishing transportation, mining coal, etc. Here you find another 6,000,000, indirectly employed from our foreign trade, completing the total of 12,000,000 directly or indirectly dependent for their livelihood upon foreign trade. Though, of course, half of them, and perhaps more than that, do not realize it."

Copyright.—WNU Service.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot . . . "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Enough Said

"Ever had a motor mishap?"

"Well, I met my wife in a garage."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust — MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Or So It Seems

A detour is the longest distance between two driven points.

COLDS Creomulsion

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

Toot, Toot, Toot

She—Oh, Hector, I love you so.

He—So what?—Pearson's Weekly.

Help Kidneys

If poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Smarting, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Sis-tex) —Must fix you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.

Cystex

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (For Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO. Chattanooga, Tenn.

EARN AT HOME—WRITE FOR PAY

10,000 men and women not now engaged in news-writing will in 1935 be earning income through writing for newspapers, trade papers and magazines. "Writing for Pay the Newspaper Way," by Walter C. Bowick will show you how in 3 hours or money refunded. Third edition sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00.

PRESS REPORTING SYNDICATE Box 134, Dept. B - Nashville, Tenn.

LOOK! OLD COINS WANTED

$2,000 for a single large penny, $250 for a dime and many others. Send 10c for list of coins worth big money.

PROGRESS CO. P. O. Box 65, South Pasadena, Calif.

WANTED TO BUY

CONFEDERATE and U. S. postage before 1870; preferably on envelopes; some worth dollars; write or send stamps; prompt pay. T. E. SPENCER, MOSS POINT, MISS.

WNU—8 7—35

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

—14—

Angelloti was a resourceful fellow. "Let's call on that Lanning woman, apologize for our rough work last night, an' maybe she'll slip us some o' that pre-war Bourbon again."

Flynn nodded, and they drove to Lanny's house. Lanny received them coldly. "Have you come to search my house again?" she demanded irritably.

No mule's face could possibly have been longer and sadder than P. Flynn's. "We didn't come to annoy you, Miss Lanning. The chief's give us the inside story. We just called to apologize for even suspectin' you."

"An officer," Angelloti explained, "has got to do a lot o' things he don't like to do in the discharge of his duty. The apology goes double, Miss Lanning."

"It's accepted." Then they shook hands. "How about a shot in the arm?" Lanny, the worldling, suggested, much mollified.

Angelloti shrugged expressively. "Well, seein' as how," P. Flynn murmured. So they had three drinks and spent a very pleasant evening with Lanny and she was loath to see them depart.

Now, Lanny was aware that Stephen had planned to visit his queer patients after dinner that night. So she telephoned—and Dan McNamara answered.

"I shouldn't ring you up this late and get you out of bed—"

"Not at all. Just got in this minute."

"I'm glad. How's everything, Dan?"

"I haven't seen the patients, but my chief of staff was up waiting for me, and reports everything jake."

"That's all I wanted to know. Thanks, Dan. Oh, by the way, Flynn and Angelloti called on me again, tonight."

"What's that!" The chief's voice was a roar. "What are those two eggs up to? I told them to lay off you."

"They're doing that, Dan. They just called to apologize. They spent the evening with me. They only left a moment ago."

"The liquor must have run out."

"Oh, Dan!"

"I know those two. It would never occur to them to apologize to anybody if they didn't have a reason. It's just as I suspected, Lanny. They're going to hang on to this case on the quiet and trail you around."

An anguished thought popped into Lanny's agile brain. "Oh, Dan, suppose they took a notion to trail Stevie!"

"Hush! You don't have to paint me any picture, Lanny. When did these two busybodies call at your house?"

"At nine-fifteen."

"Wait a minute." Lanny waited a minute and then McNamara said: "Stephen left here just about that time, so I guess we're safe tonight. And tomorrow I'll cover that loophole. I'm an ass not to have thought of it before. Good night."

In the morning Dan McNamara sent for Flynn and informed him he was to depart that night for Los Angeles to bring back a prisoner. Flynn begged Angelloti to keep his eyes on the job. But that night McNamara found other work for Angelloti. By the time Flynn returned, Angelloti was gone, and the same night, without a moment's notice, McNamara shot him up to Seattle on a similar job.

He let himself into the house that night with his latchkey, turned on the hall light and whistled. "Hello, everybody," he shouted. Nobody answered, so he hurried down to Nance's room. The door was open. He switched on the light and found a disordered bed with nobody in it. He searched the house thoroughly, only to discover he was alone in it; finally, on the living room table he found a note:

"Dear Chief: We think you mean well and we thank you for what you have done, but the dicks are watching this house. They trailed the doctor last night, but a friend of ours trailed them. Forgive us if we just can't trust any cop. Anyhow, it would be embarrassing for you if your men found us here. Good-by and good luck."

McNamara sat down. He was suddenly weak. So he hadn't fooled Flynn and Angelloti after all. The smart devils! Well, they might suspect all they pleased, but unless they had seen his guests and recognized Nance they could never prove anything.

He realized now that his act in sending them out of the state would clinch their suspicions; they would be sure to have somebody in their confidence keep the house under constant surveillance until they got back. Evidently they had sent a bungler and the ex-soldier had spotted the fellow—he wondered if Nance and her loyal friends had made a clean getaway.

The front doorbell rang and he went to answer it. A thin, bent man stood in the entrance, and even in the dim light from the hall McNamara knew him for an ex-convict in his prison suit of civilian clothes.

"Chief McNamara?" he queried huskily.

"Yes, I'm the chief."

"I got out of San Quentin this morning. I had a message for you, but I didn't want to come to headquarters to deliver it. Benny the Beetle told me to tell you to rest easy."

"Thanks, friend. Come in and rest easy yourself. Let's get acquainted," McNamara invited hospitably. In the clearer light of the living room he saw his visitor was far from being a well man. "What is it, kid?" he demanded. "Hop—or T. B.?"

"The old coughin' sickness, Chief. The prison directors shortened my term to let me out for treatment. As if I can get treatment anywhere," he added bitterly.

"Oh, yes, you can. I'm living alone here for the next thirty days, so I'll get a nurse in to take care of you, and you stay here."

The man looked at him suspiciously. "You mean it, Chief?"

"What did Benny tell you about me?" McNamara asked.

"He told me to trust you. He said you was one human being, even if you was a chief of police."

He changed the linen on Nance's bed, put the room in order, laid out a suit of pajamas and ordered his guest to bed.

"And now, me bold buckos," he reflected, "keep on trailing Doctor Burt to my house, if you feel like it."

He waited up until Stephen Burt arrived, and explained the situation to him. Stephen considered it a tremendous joke but commended his line of attack on Flynn and Angelloti.

"Hello, Stevie, Old Darling."

"The man does need treatment very badly," he told the chief. "I'll send around a practical nurse early tomorrow morning to look after him, and I'll continue to call upon the poor devil nightly until further orders. We're both involved in a tricky game now and must play the hand through."

Doctor Burt was suddenly serious. "I do hope we haven't lost Nance, Dan. She's the most interesting psychological case I've ever seen."

"She ain't lost, but I'll bet a cookie she's well hid. But I'll locate her within twelve hours," Chief McNamara added, thinking of Ella Cates.

"I've run Nance's early history down since I saw her last, Doc," he announced suddenly. "I got busy the other day and luck was with me. She's an heiress and her name is Penelope Gatlin. She got it in the nose by a baseball—a long fly into the bleachers. But I also discovered something else. It's a question whether she ain't just a natural nut. Her mother is. She led Gatlin a h—l of a life."

"No, I don't think it's congenital, Dan. There's something about that girl that's healthy—mentally and physically. Did you meet her mother?"

"No, but I'm going to run her down easy enough."

Stephen sighed. "Oh, poor Nance! I'm afraid she's beyond my skill, after all. A bad family history, Mac—very bad. There's a structural weakness in some families that never gets bred out, and I suspect poor Nance has an inheritance of mental instability from her mother."

"Well, with that busted nose, her inheritance and her hellcat mother, she certainly had a fine start on the road to the foolish farm, didn't she, Doc? Excuse me, there's the telephone."

Lanny was calling. "Dan," she quavered, "my house has been burglarized. They jimmied the back door, and for all I know the burglars are upstairs still. I'm watching the staircase—got my pistol covering it. Come over quick, Dan—please."

"Coming right away, Lanny." He hung up and faced Stephen. "Lanny has burglars. Into your car, boy, and we'll beat it over."

CHAPTER VII

Lanny, very white and shaken, was in her living room, pistol in hand, watching the stairs, when McNamara and Stephen came noiselessly in the back door. The chief whipped out his pistol and went unhesitatingly up the stairs. Presently he called them to come up.

They found him standing in the doorway leading into Lanny's guest chamber. "Take a look at that," he ordered.

They looked. Lying in the bed, sound asleep, was Nance Belden!

McNamara switched off the light and softly closed the door. With his great head clasped in both huge hands he went down the stairs to the living room. "Doc," he pleaded, "whose loony now? I think I am because I'm seeing things that ain't in the book. Ochone, ochone, and wirra, wirra, the fairies have me in tow!"

"Got to get her out of here," Dan McNamara decided. "Flynn and Angelloti finally got on her trail, no doubt about that—and it's a mighty cold trail those two dicks can't follow. I suspected this, and the note she left at my house confirms it. It's just the mercy of God that Flynn and Angelloti didn't happen to slip into my domicile and find the note. If they had I'd be sunk. They can suspect all they want to, but hanging it on to me is another pair of boots, as the French say."

"Why, they wouldn't dare invade their own chief's house," Lanny protested.

"They wouldn't? You don't know those two bozos like I do. They'd dare anything if they figured they could get away with it."

"Can't you give the miserable snoopers an office job?" Lanny demanded. She was faintly provoked at Daniel for his lack of initiative.

"Would you herd cows with a couple of horses that had won the derby?"

"Oh!"

"Wake that psychopathic nuisance up, Lanny, and get her down here, I've got to find out things or go crazy. Besides, she hasn't had any dinner."

"Let the poor lamb sleep, Dan," pleaded Lanny.

"I need a lot of sleep myself and I can't get it until I know how, when and where Nance and her gang made the getaway. Suppose Flynn and Angelloti let them make the getaway; suppose Flynn followed the men and Angelloti followed Nance? They'd do that; they wouldn't risk getting in Dutch with me by making the pinch as the gang came out of my house. They have some loyalty and a lot of common sense, and they know which side their bread is buttered on. When they take the girl they'll not turn her in to me. They'll waltz her straight back to San Quentin to the warden and let his men get the credit for recapturing her. All they want is the reward. Suppose they know she's here now and suppose they've seen me come here? Ouch! Murderation!"

"Have her down, Lanny," Stephen commanded in his operating room voice, and Lanny had no alternative save to obey. So presently Nance came down the stairs with her. The girl was arrayed in an old faded dressing gown of Lanny's, her hair was tousled, and she yawned sleepily.

"Hello, Stevie, old darling; hello, Dan, you great big beautiful thing. Here I am."

"Sit down," McNamara invited in honeyed accents.

So Nance sat down promptly—on his tremendous knees—put her arm around his burly neck and kissed him. "Now, don't get excited," she cooed. "I know exactly what's burning you up, but you needn't worry. One of the boys recognized Flynn and I recognized Angelloti, because he's the dick that pinched me the first time I got in Dutch. They kept circling the block in their car all the afternoon, and when it was almost dark we saw Flynn go into an alley alongside a vacant house across the street. We decided Angelloti had gone home for dinner. So we telephoned Angelloti's house and his wife said that he was eating his dinner, and unless it was important to call up in fifteen minutes. So we said it wasn't important, hung up and held a conference.

"We decided the back of the house wasn't guarded, so we telephoned the boy friend that met us at the yacht harbor that night, and he came and parked in the next street. We went out your back door, leaving the light in the front room burning and shinnied over the back fence. Some job for two members of the party, I'll say. Once over the fence we had to prowl through the back yard of the house that abuts against the rear of your house—and a dog bit me, but not very hard. We got out in front and into the next street before anybody could come out and see what luck the dog had had; our car was there and we beat it. We're pretty sure nobody followed us, but we drove out to the park first with our lights doused, and when we were sure nobody was trailing us, the boys brought me here. We jimmied your back door, Lanny dear; then the boys said good-by to me for keeps. It seems you don't want me associating with them any more and they think you're right about that, Dan."

TO BE CONTINUED.

Cosmic Rays' Strength

Cosmic rays are strongest at noon, according to a study on an Austrian peak.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

C. L. St. John was bound over to the Grand Jury by Judge H. B. Abernethy on a charge of embezzling $12,000 from a money express messenger service in Birmingham. It was charged the money was taken from sealed packages delivered to St. John by A. & P. stores.

A broad program aimed at the prevention and eradication of communicable diseases among children has been placed under way by the Alabama State Health Department in several counties in which there are no organized health units now operating.

Alabama's probation system permitting state courts to suspend sentence in criminal cases not exceeding 10 years imprisonment was struck a death blow by the Court of Appeals in a decision holding the system unconstiutional and invalid.

Secretary Ickes, the Public Works Administrator, announced a second low cost housing project in Montgomery, Ala. The $244,000 project will be located between Bell and Eugene Streets, the Montalla Mills property, and a bluff on the north.

Loud cries of "no, we don't want him," arose from legislators when Representative Owens, Madison, intorduced a resolution inviting Huey Long to address a joint session of the Alabama Legislature on March 19 "as a substitute for a circus."

Miss Beverly Hester, assistant professor of piano and organ at Judson College, Marion, has been awarded a scholarship in the Syracuse University school of music and will begin her studies immediately. She will return to Judson next fall.

After a lay-off of two and one-half months, 230 employes of the Louisville & Nashville Railway went back to work at the comuany's Boyles Shops. Sufficient work has accumulated to assure the men of employment for several months.

Plans for a City Hall for Florala were being drawn for submission to the Alabama Relief Administration, from which city officials hope to obtain building funds. The building will cost approximately $20,000.

Chairman Hugh White of the Alabama Public Service Commission met with the Interstate Commerce Commission at a hearing in Washington Feb. 12 on passenger rail fares and Pullman surcharges.

"Have you given your baby his first citizenship papers?" Parents of all babies less than one year old will be asked that question in the "Register Your Baby" campaign which is in progress in Alabama.

The Etowah County Board of Revenue which operated within its income last year, and in addition paid off $45,000 of the bonded debt, announced that $30,000 more of county bonds will be paid off in April.

A large box full of knives, lock picks, blackjacks and other instruments which might be used as lethal weapons was turned over to Governor Graves as a result of a "shakedown" at Kilby Prison.

The first step in the Tennessee Valley Authority's rural electrification program for Colbert County was taken when a 12-mile transmission line from Tuscumbia to Littleville was placed in operation.

Frances Rogan Milner, senior at Sheffield High School, will represent that city in the statewide good citizenship contest sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution in Alabama.

The Alabama Highway Department has called for bids to be opened Feb. 21 on the construction of five street and highway projects for which the federal government has allotted $125,000.

W. D. "Uncle Billy" Hale came to New Market on his 78th birthday and instructed a barber to "trim 'em off, young feller, they've never been cut before." And so he got his first shave.

A bill to require automobile drivers to take out drivers' licenses will be introduced at the Legislature's second session by Rep. R. F. Hammer, Dallas.

Figures from the Lauderdale County office of probate judge show that 573 couples were married in the county in 1934 as compared to 75 divorces.

Spencer Crosswell, 27, of Dora, was killed when the automobile he was driving was in collision with another car two miles west of Sumiton.

Madison County teachers have gone on record as being opposed to operation of the schools with money obtained from the sale of liquor.

An order for 12,500 tons of steel rails has been placed by the Southern Pacific Railroad with the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co.

Experiments with a toy cannon cost I. C. Entrekin, Jr., 20-year-old Woodlawn High School graduate, two fingers on his left hand.

A house-to-house survey is being planned by the Federal Housing Administration throughout Huntsville and Madison County to ascertain the needs of houses for repair.

If state tobacco tax continues to pour in at the present rate this source of revenue will net Alabama more than $2,000,000 this year, establishing an all-time record.

Eight Alabama convicts on a prison farm at Speigner overpowered a guard while at work in the fields and drove away with the guard in a prison truck.

BRITISH BAKERS CLAIM TO MAKE CRUSTLESS BREAD

Calculations showing that the world's wheat surpluses would disappear, if each individual consumed an extra slice of bread every day, can no longer be accepted as accurate now that London bakers have produced a loaf without any crust. Much of the credit for this accomplishment goes to the geniuses who made possible the transmission of electricity to bakeries and other industrial plants. The new loaf is baked by means of electrical current inside the dough, which, it will readily be seen, is just the reverse of the old process of putting the dough in a hot oven and allowing the heat to penetrate the mass.

It is no less clear that all past estimates dealing with consumption of wheat will need correction when customers all over the world begin to demand crustless bread. For, as the British bakers point out, it will now be possible to make sandwiches without throwing the crust away. This, it is true, has been possible all along, and there are not a few people who prefer and even insist upon having their frankfurters and hamburgers served between slices of bread with the crust intact. But the practice in many home kitchens and quick-service restaurants has been to cut off the crust. Indeed, many employees in these eating places have become expert in severing the crust from the rest of the slice, developing a technique that has elicited the admiration of all patrons. Persons interested in economics, in observing their speed and precision, have also reflected that the need for limitation of wheat acreage would be much greater if the crusts were saved.

The London bakers do not explain in sufficient detail how this marvelous new loaf is made. They do not tell us how the current that passes through the middle of the dough is prevented from forming crust on the inside instead of the outside of the loaf of bread. A loaf whose midsection was hard as a rock would have no advantage over one whose exterior was thickly crusted. But the claim that a crustless loaf of bread is soon to be marketed is of interest not only in London, where an international conference recently assembled to see what could be done to reduce wheat production throughout the world, but in many other countries. For if bread has no crusts to be thrown away, wheat production may have to be further curtailed.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Week's Supply of Postum Free

Read the offer made by the Postum Company in another part of this paper. They will send a full week's supply of health giving Postum free to anyone who writes for it.—Adv.

Move, or Drop Out

Life is like a policeman, always murmuring, "Keep moving, please."

To keep clean and healthy take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate liver, bowels and stomach.—Adv.

Spurs to Action

Emotions are far nearer to the springs of action than are thoughts.

FERRY'S PUREBRED FLOWER SEEDS

FOR LARGER BLOOMS AND STURDIER PLANTS

You can depend on Ferry's Purebred Flower Seeds. They are the offspring of generations of perfect plants and will reproduce, in your own garden, flowers of wonderful size, color and form. Choose your favorite varieties today from the Ferry Seed Display Box.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD STORE SELLS THEM IN FRESH DATED PACKETS —MANY ONLY 5c

Qualities

Don't value a man for the quality he is made of but for the qualities he possesses.

The "liquid test"

...it ENDS bowel worries for many people

This is a test that tells you whether the system needs a cathartic change. If you have constant sluggish spells or bilious attacks, and laxatives seem to make things worse, it would be wise to try this:

Stop all use of any laxative that does not encourage variation from a "fixed dose" (which may be entirely too large a dose for your individual need). Use instead, a liquid laxative that you can measure and regulate as to dose. As necessary to repeat, take smaller doses, less and less often, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

Doctors use liquid laxatives, and a properly prepared liquid laxative, containing natural laxative agents like senna and cascara is a joy and a comfort; a real help in establishing regularity. Ask your doctor about this! (Doctors use liquid laxatives.) You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a most dependable liquid laxative, at any drug store.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Scientists Find Fast Way to Relieve a Cold

Ache and Discomfort Eased Almost Instantly Now

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

NOTE "DIRECTIONS PICTURES"

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA
direct from its New York Stage
3-Hour Broadcast by
LISTERINE
announced by
Geraldine Farrar
Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P.M.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

NOT ENOUGH TIME

It now develops that the legislature did not allow sufficient time for the preparations necessary to hold the referendum on prohibition February 26. It is a bit strange that with the membership of the two houses made up so largely of lawyers, that the difficulties and conflicts in the law that have now arisen, should not have been foreseen. The use of the new 1935 poll lists in the election will not be possible, as time is not sufficient to get these lists in order and transfer them from the collector's office to the probate judge. In fact the law sets March 1 as the time for the delivery of these lists, after which the probate office must have sufficient time for their final preparation.

As it is it looks as if considerable confusion in holding the election will be unavoidable. The only way out of the exigency will be to use the 1934 lists, coupled with the added names that belong to the 1935 lists. The safest course for new voters will be to carry their poll tax receipts with them to the polls.—The Selma Times-Journal, Selma, Alabama.

CALERA NEWS

Mrs. A. E. Norwood and Mrs. B. F. Miller were joint hostesses Thursday afternoon, February 7th, at the home of Mrs. R. L. Holcombe, in honor of the Unique Club. Mrs. C. D. Cowart, President of the Club, told of getting the Membership Certificate, showing that the Club had been duly federated. Mrs. Sidney DuBose was elected Treasurer of the Flower committee. Mrs. Arthur Seale was elected assistant Chairman of the Program Committee. Mrs. Dick Martin gave a reading on "Creed of Good Citizenship". Mrs. J. E. Gunn read a paper on "Current Events", Mrs. R. L. Holcombe a poem, "In 1935; Miss Doris Mitchell, a piano solo. At the close of the meeting, "America" was sung. Anglefood Cake and coffee was served to twenty members.

Mrs. John I. Mitchell entertained Tuesday afternoon, January 29th, from 3 to 5, honoring her granddaughter, Mary Lou Mitchell, on her seventh birthday. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in table appointments, and refreshments, and games were enjoyed until 4:30, then after singing "Happy Birthday", the little guests were invited into the dining room where ice cream and cake was served to the following: Jeffie Leola Cowart, Earl Erwin, Jean Askins, Jane and Bennie Warren, Lucy Jean Holcombe, Adrain Onderdonk, Bennie Frances Miller, Elizabeth Posey, James Mayhew, Mary Sue Parker, Ernest Wells, Beverly and Lester Simmons, J. H. Denham, Jr., Julia and Katherine McDuffie, Jane Gunn, and Betty Hill. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ira L. Mitchell and Miss Doris Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mitchell announce the arrival of a 8 1-2 pound son on February 3, whom they have named John Lyle Mitchell.

The many little friends of June Crowson, are pleased to have her back in school after a five-week absence.

Mr. Eric Elliott, who is employed with the State Highway Department, and is stationed in Talladega, is spending the week-end with his mother.

Mr. C. C. Green, of New Orleans, spent Thursday with Mrs. C. C. Green and children.

Miss Lucy Norwood is visiting relatives in Birmingham for a week.

The Calera Quartette sang at the Holliness Church in Alabaster, Thursday night, and the Baptist Church in Siluria, Sunday night.

Mrs. J. W. Burgess is improving after a 10-day attack of flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong, of Birmingham, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Armstrong, Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons and family, motored to Lester's Chapel, Saturday.

Mrs. John Booker was in Birmingham Monday.

Mrs. Jasper Holcombe and daughter, Lucy Jene, motored to Montevallo, Tuesday.

Mr. J. J. Pardue, of Attalla, was the dinner guest of Mrs. Oscar Pilgreen, Friday.

Mr. Jake Johnson and Helen Johnson spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Plantersville.

Rev. W. H. Haddock has been called to Siluria for the second and fourth Sunday.

Those who are victims of flu this week, are Mr. Richard Parker, Mr. C. W. Wade, Mr. T. W. Wallace and Alice Joyce Seale.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Warren and son, James, spent Sunday in Sixmile.

Mrs. L. N. Cochran and son, Mrs. W. B. Ozley and son; Miss Annie Bell Lesley and Mr. J. B. Parker motored to Selma, Tuesday.

Mrs. Dick Martin motored to Chelsea, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Weaver and family, of Birmingham, are occupying the Harlan Crim home on 14th Street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Sr., and Mr. A. Baer, motored to Atlanta, Georgia, Wednesday, to visit Mr. Sam Bowdon, who has an attack of flu. Mr. Bowdon is reported improving.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Wood and family, of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Conaway, of Clanton, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wood.

Miss Ruth Lyons was in Birmingham, Tuesday. for the day.

Mr. Grady Crowson, of Dargin, and Mr. T. R. Lucas enjoyed a fox race Friday night.

Mrs. C. L. O'Neal and Charlie O'Neal, Jr., are in Miami, Fla., for a month as the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Curric.

Bettie Tomlin is reported improving after a weeks illness.

Mrs. J. E. Armstrong and children spent Friday in Ebenezer.

Miss Katherine Miller, of Eva, Ala., and Mr. Billie Tom Miller, of Birmingham, are the week-end guest of their parents.

Mrs. Oscar Pilgreen, Mrs. C. C. Green and children, spent Wednesday in Longview with Mrs. Pardue, Mrs. J. P. Wyatt and daughter returning with them for a weeks visit.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Estate of Julian Green Radford, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed administrator of the estate of the said decedent by the Honorable Cage Head, Judge of the Probate Court of Shelby County, Alabama, and all persons holding claims against said estate are required to present the same within the time required by law or that the same will be forever barred. T. N. RADFORD,
1-31-3t. Administrator

LEGAL NOTICE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.

In the Circuit Court for the Eighteenth Circuit of Alabama, in Equity.

E. D. LeMay, Complainant, VS. Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, Respondents.

In this cause it being made to appear to the Register by affidavit of D. K. McKamy, solicitor for E. D. LeMay, complainant, that the respondents, Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, are non-residents of the State of Alabama, residing in Nashville, Tennessee, and whose other address is unknown to complainant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the respondents are of the age of twenty-one years;

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Shelby County Democrat, a newspaper published in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber to plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 18th day of March, 1935, or thirty days thereafter a decree pro-confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office, this 12th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
2-14-4t. Register.

NOTICE OF SALE.

In The Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity. No. 1642.

G. M. Edmonds, Complainant, VS. Joe Lett, et al., Respondents.

By virtue of a Decree in the above stated cause rendered at the July Term 1934, on the 22nd day of December, 1934, of the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity, to satisfy said Decree, I will sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at public sale at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of Eleven o'clock a. m. and Four o'clock p. m. on Monday, the 11th day of March, 1935, the following described real estate:

The North-half of the Northwest Quarter of Section 12, and the Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section One, and the West-half of the Northwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section One; all in Township 20, S. of Range 3 W.

Witness my hand, this the 8th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
2-14-3t. Register.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Miss Sara Crumly left last week for an extended stay with her sister in Atlanta, Ga.

Rev. Sam Henderson preached at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Henrietta Daviston was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Kate Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler spent Sunday in Elliottsville.

Mrs. Nellie Harris is at home after a visit in Bessemer.

The folks who have had the flu are improving.

Mr. Bean, of Clanton, spent Saturday here.

Rev. I. T. Carlton will preach at the Methodist Church, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Tom Harper and John Draper, of Elliottsville, were visitors here Saturday.

Rev. Lester Fitts will preach at the Underwood Baptist Church Sunday.

Mrs. Pauline Horton spent the week-end in Lineville.

Mr. J. B. King spent the week-end in Columbiana.

VINCENT NEWS

Among the attractive visitors in our town during the week-end were: Misses Minnie Lula Tucker and Lucile Bailey, of Talladega; Mary Mitchell, of Cragford, and Estelle Phillips, of Birmingham.

Misses Geneva Brewer, Pauline Gibbons, Maxine Dupuy and Mattie Hunt, spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Little Ruby Catherine and Joe Embry Montgomery, are happy to announce the arrival of a little brother at their home on February 10th.

Miss Algie Harris entertained the Dramatic Club with a social at her home Thursday evening, February 7. Games and contests such as Dramatic Pantomines, Musical Romances etc. were enjoyed. Mrs. Ada Gorman entertained the Club with a reading. Everyone enjoys hearing Mrs. Gorman read. Refreshments consisting of delicious jello, cake and coffee were served to the following members: Mrs. W. J. Florey, Mrs. Ada Gorman, Mrs. J. E. Harris, Mrs. R. T. McGraw, Mrs. Jabe McGraw, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hunt, Robert Hunt, Bennie Bowdon, Misses Mattie Hunt, Billye Arthur, Frances Elliott and Naomi Baker.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

The Blankenship Band of Wilsonville entertained a nice audience Friday night at the school house. The proceeds are for the benefit of the school.

The Twin Oak Bridge Club members were entertained Saturday night at the home of Misses Camma and Edna Lee Holladay. Mrs. Alma McDuffie won high score. Refreshments were served.

Miss Alice Catherine Nolen has been in Birmingham with her sister, Mrs. H. Lee, who is very ill.

The P.-T. A. Club met at the home of Mrs W. M. Galloh. Many delightful games were enjoyed by everyone. A business meeting was held and refreshments were served. Those present were: Mrs. Dave Deneham, Mrs. Ferrel Dodgen, Mrs. J. T. George, Mrs. John Greene, Miss Elva George and the hostess.

Mrs. W. N. Baker, Miss Edna Dorough, and Mrs. Robert Dorough spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough.

Prof. and Mrs. I. B. Bowsoin entertained the younger set with a dance at their home Friday night.

Mrs. J. O. Dorough is ill. We hope that she will be enjoying splendid health again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Clapp have moved into their new home. Dunnavant is very proud of several new bungalows that are being built.

The Democrat was happy to welcome C. P. McLane in the office this week—and happier still to feel that he has bought a ticket which assures our travelling in the journalistic way into his home in Siluria each week.

"Beer in mind that lips that touch liquor shall not touch mine"—"Bull" Bonner.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PAROLE.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Loys Logan, will make application to the Governor and Board of Pardons for a parole, he having been convicted in the Fall term of the Circuit Court for the offense of transporting liquor, and sentenced to serve one year and one day or one year and seven months.

2-7-2t. LOYS LOGAN.

What's become of the old-time boy who used to play tobacco tag? What's become of the tobacco tag?

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes
Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

When In Montevallo, Visit
Wilson Drug Company
The Rexall Store.
We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.
Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

——Complete——
FUNERAL PROTECTION
——No Age Limit——
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," That "Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgic, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

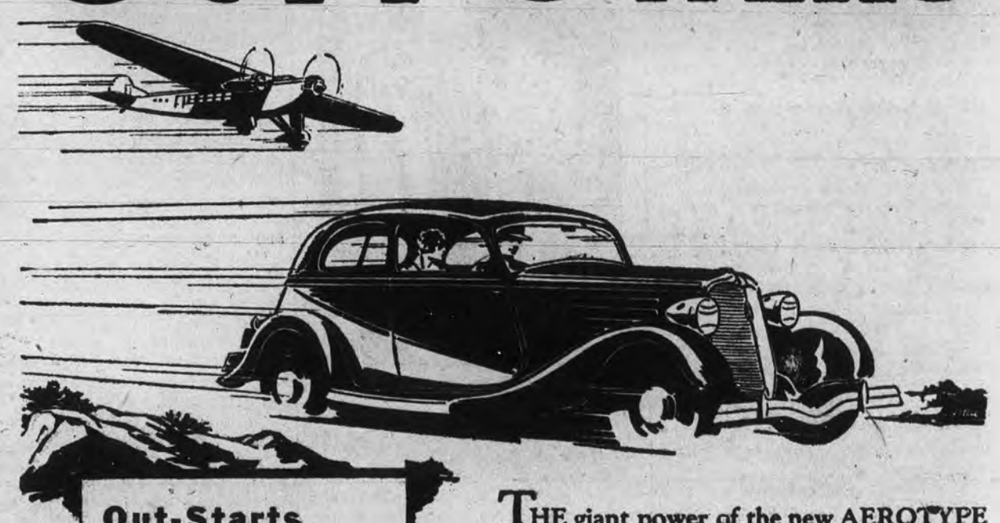
All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

ALKA-SELTZER

The New Pain Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid. Alka-Seltzer is pleasant to take, harmless, non-laxative.

Why don't you try it? Get a drink at your drug store soda fountain for a nickel. Buy a package for home use.



Large Package 60 cents
Small Package 30 cents

You will not find a better place to do your drug store buying! It is here you get THE BEST—!

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.
Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

OUT-POWERS

Out-Starts
Vaporizes at lowest temperature—quick warm-up—minimum choking.

Out-Climbs
Highest anti-knock rating ever offered for land service—no carbon knocks.

Out-Classes
Has the highest specifications ever applied to motor gasoline.

Out-Ahead
Virtually gum-free—no gummy or sticking valves to cause loss of power.

Outstanding
Positively a NEW fuel—unlike and amazingly superior to any gasoline heretofore sold.

THE giant power of the new AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL comes from its complete vaporization...Every drop is converted into vapor—POWER—with no dragging on account of raw gasoline...It is economy to use it, especially when unmixed with other fuel. No increase in price—sells for only two cents a gallon more than Crown Gasoline.

AEROTYPE CROWN ETHYL
FOR YOUR MOTOR

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
INCORPORATED IN KENTUCKY

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

ST. VALENTINE—FEB. 14, 1935.

"Time flies and words may be unsaid
And thoughts remain unuttered, too,
Even so, HEARTS don't forget
When they have loved someone like
——YOU"——

So says the old Scrap Book whose pages are well worn wherein lies this little souvenir from the land of "Long Ago". A few well-pressed violets lie under the corner of this particular Valentine. If I remember correctly, they were taken from a corsage worn with the indispensable "Alice Blue Gown". Their fragrance still lingers, as does the happy memory surrounding the joyous occasion they mark.

Turning a few leaves, I find another memento that runs like this:

"TO YOU"

"I found them in a book last night
Some withered VIOLETS
A token of that early love
That no one e'er forgets—
Pressed carefully between the leaves,
They keep their color still,
I cannot look upon them today
Without an old time thrill.
Ah me! What tricks does mem'ry play
The passing years have fled
And hopes that lived in vigor once
Alas! have long been dead.
And this is all that I can say—
When all is said and done—
Those flowers, remind me of some boy—
I wish I knew—which one."

Now, thats just about "sweet" and "stupid" enough—It really must have happened something like a million years ago—for there it is in black and white—but, enough of "Personal Mention"—

Almost all customs have a reason for existing—yet there seems no reason at all to associate St. Valentine with any thing romantic, or sentimental, but who can remember the day without an expression of sentiment or a comic Valentine, or flowers or some little something typical of the occasion which has, since the third century been identified with this old Roman Saint? There seems no REASON for this—only CUSTOM which is more potent than reason—There is no record that this good old Bishop or Pope of Rome ever became sufficiently sentimental to even write a love song, or wax poetical, or take one single look at the Roman maidens. History tells us, he stood steadfast in his faith during the Claudian persecutions, and for that faith was cast into prison, where he cured his keeper's daughter of blindness, and for this beneficence was clubbed and then beheaded. What remains of the charitable old Saint lies buried in Rome. You can readily see that nothing sentimental or comic surrounded his life.

Modern Valentine versions have it that birds in Southern Europe mate in the Spring, and this inspired the early Romans to indulge in sentimental celebrations on February 14. At any rate, the day is supposed to be sacred to affairs of the heart—and if it does not do anything else, it brings a panaroma of colorful cards and thoughtfulness, and thoughtfulness at any time brightens the prosaic details of an every day existence—so, whether you are 6, 16, or 60, I'll wager you will enjoy the love story told through the medium of "hearts and flowers" or bits of lace or crimson ribbon, with that ever illusive little pagan love-god Cupid, acting as Master of Ceremonies. His quiver is filled with well-trained arrows which spell I LOVE YOU—and you had better watch out. He is a sure fire little archer and he never fails to hit the mark.

CORRA HARRIS.

The passing of Corra Harris brings to an end a colorful literary career. Although her life was singularly fraught with tragedy, her faith remained undaunted. Her tolerant philosophy of life, and her unquenchable love for humanity carried universal appeal, and made her one of the most beloved of Southern writers. From her fluent pen there came some 20 or more published novels. "A Circuit Riders Wife", was her best known work.

Mrs. Harris was gifted with an unusual brilliant intellect. She possessed a sparkling wit. She was a writer who trenchant but tender irony frequently penetrated the human heart, yet her honest portrayal of many adversities, in her own unique way of writing, won for her world-wide recognition. She was widely travelled, and claimed the friendship of the great literary figures of her day. She served as the first woman war correspondent in Europe during the World war—but she remained firmly bound by ties of love and tradition to her beloved Southland, and was buried in her beloved cabin "In The Valley" near Rydal, Georgia on Sunday, February 9th, 1935.

Mrs. Harris' CANDLELIT column, which she has successfully conducted for the past four years in the Atlanta Journal, will be sadly missed. The radiant gleams from this little friendly literary "candle" have often proved a worthy incentive to—"keep a going".

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately. Rawleigh, Dept. ALB - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

Kiddies' Kolumn

Columbiana, Ala.,
February 12, 1935.

Dear Mrs. Wallace.

I am sorry that you did not find the letter which my friend and I wrote you. I want to thank you for appointing me one of the editors of the Kiddie Kolumn, also the subscription of the Democrat for the year. I enjoy reading the paper and look forward to hearing from the Kiddies each week. Love,

Louise Lovelady.

Columbiana, Ala.,
February 4, 1935.

Dear Mrs. Wallace:

Our teacher has been sick and Jeannette Nivens has been our teacher. We hope she will be back to school soon.

We are having individualized reading in the sixth grade. We are reading in story books instead of old fashioned readers. Each child has a different reader. We spend half of the period reading for information and the other half we read for pleasure. Yours sincerely,

Faye Nell Polk.

Columbiana, Ala.,
February 5, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:

How are you feeling today. I was so glad when Joyce came in and told me that I could write a line or to. I brought my doll to school and play toy store. It sure was fun. I wrote this at my writeing period. I like to write letters. I hope you enjoy my letter. Your friend,

Mildred Glen.

Mosteller, Ala.

Dear Mrs. Mildred White Wallace:

I am a little girl 7 years old. I go to Sunday School every Sunday. My teachers name is Mrs. T. H. Atchison. I love her very much. My play mates are Joel and Pauline Lovett, they go to Sunday School too. I like to hear the Kiddies Kolumn read to me each week. Sincerely,

Mary Christene Hand.

PERSONAL MENTION

Here's hoping the "gold decision" brings us a "silver lining".

Miss Mary Peters, beloved english instructor of Shelby County High School, left Columbiana on Saturday to attend Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee. Miss Sanders of Birmingham will finish the term in the english department of Shelby County High School.

King Flu is holding many unwilling victims in his relentless grasp this week. Among those who have been speaking the "ker-chuu" language around his court, are Judge and Mrs. Cage Head, Miss Delilah Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Head, Misses Gertrude and Irene Bishop, Mrs. Tom Taylor, Miss Elizabeth Taylor and others.

Judge W. W. Wallace and Harold Harlin are spending the week in Ashland, Alabama, where Judge Wallace is holding his initial term of the Clay County Circuit Court.

Judge Len C. Walker was initiated into the ceremonies of his future judicial duties, when he held his first term of the Shelby County Court, on Monday.

The Shelby County Board of Revenue held a regular session on Tuesday, J. M. Lyon, officiating. By the way, this genial and popular President of this distinguished group of "financial wizards" started off this week exactly right. He dropped by the Democrat and renewed his subscription to "Shelby County's Leading Newspaper". We just love a week that starts off like this—A good FRIEND and a perfectly good DOLLAR BILL are hard to beat.

Have you a little baby in your home? If so, it will be to your advantage to REGISTER him or her. The Census Bureau in Washington has mailed out cards to every family in Alabama and working in cooperation with the Health Department, they will endeavor to get a record of every baby's birth. This is important for many reasons. An honest to goodness fortune might some day be left him—and without a record of his birth he might not be located and catalogued properly, so, what could be done about it? All you have to do in this Register Your Baby campaign is to fill out the card and drop it back into the postoffice—Uncle Sam does the rest.

Miss Agnes Wingard remains ill at her home in Columbiana—another victim of the popular and prevalent FLU.

The best buy on the radio market is the Fairbanks-Morse! If you do not believe me, have Rux Carter or John Curlee install one in your home on free trial. If you allow this beautiful exponent of melody taken out of your home, it will surprise me. The thoughtfulness of John Curlee on a rainy day this week prompted him to brighten my office with a new model. I do not know exactly where those American Eaglets will fly down here from with which to purchase it—but I shall be perfectly LOST without it. It makes even the monotonous tap tap tapping of the typewriter become more rhythmic—when done to the tune of a popular melody. The only static created in this office was the Democratic Rooster attempting to singa duet with Bing Crosby—the "crooning and crowing" did not sound especially harmonious—but otherwise, the programs were splendid.

The many friends of W. L. Christian regret to learn that he is confined to his home with an attack of influenza.

Advertising matter attractively prepared and presented through the Shelby County Democrat is the best medium to help your business. Call Number 9! We are at your service.

Governor Graves is in Washington conferring with "powers that be" for the good of Alabama. It has been suggested that he should have carried a copy of Dicken's "Great Expectations" along with him. At any rate, here's hoping the progressive dreams for Alabama all come true and that the little Colonel may be successful in fullfilling his New Deal program for his native state.

If you need a light on a dark subject—see Neil Acker. Mr. Acker has a three-way light that is a knock out. Call him for a free demonstration—I'll wager you will say it is the best way to flash a light three ways you have ever seen. And if you are real practical and want a Singer Sewing Machine to make your new little frills and furbelows—call this same gentleman, and he will also demonstrate these excellent economy saving devices for those thrifty and fortunate ones who know how to thread a needle and sew a straight seam.

And now, it is about time to call it "quits". The little Fairbanks-Morse tells me Lincoln had a birthday Tuesday—and his recipe for long life and happiness was something like this: "Do not Worry", "Eat three meals a Day", "Say your prayers every nite", "Go slow! Go easy"! I have tried about everything else—so may put into execution this famous advice and see what happens. Will be greeting you—next Thursday—Until then, I shall be wishing for you—happiness!

SPECIAL VALUE;
Regular $1.10 Coty's
FACE POWDER 75c—limited time only.

Come To See Us!

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

FREE EXAMINATION

THE LATEST ACHIEVEMENT OF SCIENCE NOW PERMITS YOU TO SEE WITH YOUR OWN EYES YOUR PHYSICAL CONDITION.

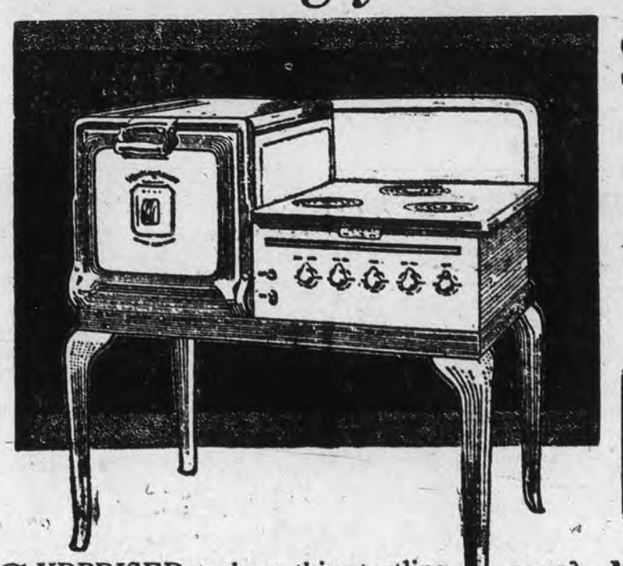
These examinations are given without obligation in the interest showing what Dr. Lindhe has for the sick people. Dr. B. M. Lindhe, former instructor of the National College and Chicago General Health Service of Chicago.

NOW AT MY OFFICE FOR 4 WEEKS

DR. GEORGE BOTKIN

CHIROPRACTOR and PATHOMETRIST

1910-A. 5th Avenue North -- Birmingham, Alabama



Why not secure your FREE examination from Dr. Lindhe and become acquainted with latest and most sensible method of treating disease.

Extra Special

Westinghouse

FLAVOR ZONE RANGE

At Amazingly Low Price of $59.50

$3.00 extra for cable and plug

—A— LIMITED NUMBER ONLY!

SURPRISED to hear this startling news? Most people are, for never before has this fine Westinghouse Range sold for so little money! But the saving in dollars and cents is just the beginning. Once in your kitchen, this famous range will save you work. It will save you worry. It will enable you to cook meats accurately and quickly, with minimum loss of weight. Come to our store TOMORROW. See this range. Let us send it to your home WHILE THIS SPECIAL SALE IS ON!

● Electric Rates Are LOW In Alabama!

SEE YOUR DEALER, OR

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

USE MORE ELECTRICITY— IT COSTS LESS!

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

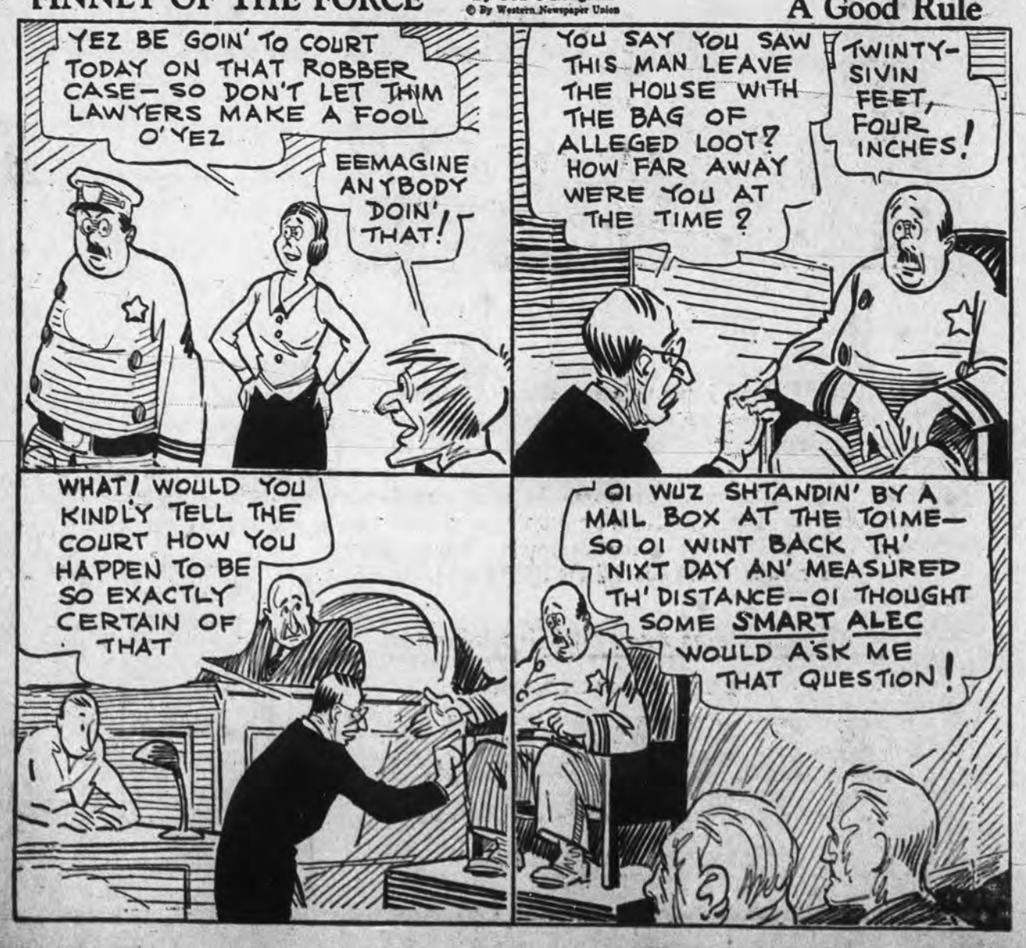
OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

(Copyright, W. N. U.)

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union



Long and Short of It

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

A Good Rule

Style-Alert Will Wear Smart Linen

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHETHER you are a faithful stay-at-home by inclination or necessity, or whether you are counted among those present in the spectacular style parade which fashionable resorters are now staging in climes where summer spends the winter, the message of linen is all-important.

There is so much real news in regard to linen as now is, one scarcely knows where to begin to tell of the amazing things taking place in the way of new colorings, new weaves and artful patternings. From the daintiest sheerest embroidered handkerchief linen to the very rough textures in daring peasant colorings and design, linen is writing a most fascinating chapter in the history of fabric fashion.

What's more, you do not have to trek to a tropical clime or wait until spring and summer in order to don linen—wear it instanter! And here's how—speaking to women who are wintering where winter is winter. Top that favorite velvet or wool suit, which is proving so smartly wearable for midseason, with a blouse of one of the new tweedy coarse linens which are the rage in leading style centers. The trick is to choose one of the strikingly new colors, tangerine, for example, or better still, linen in a rich fuchsia shade. You will adore these wonderful new tailored blouses. So timely, too, not too light in wintry zones, and not too dark for tropical climes.

Maybe it is a one-piece dress of crepe or wool or velvet which is your mainstay for midseason wear. Give it "class" by collaring and cuffing it with linen in natural, pastel or bright color. The Puritan sets with wide collars and deep cuffs are youthful and flattering. Quilted or stitched they are smartest of all.

Just to give some idea of the stunning trends of the new linens we cite the striking outfit, so handsomely tailored, as shown to the left in the illustration. Linen in the new beetroot red is chosen for the blouse. It has widely spaced tiny tucks running horizontally across its front, is fashioned to fit snugly and fastens high up the front with square buttons. The plaid for the slim skirt and the three-quarter jacket carries beetroot red for its predominating color. The relationship of suit and blouse is further established in that the identical beetroot linen which fashions the blouse lines the coat. This ensemble offers a perfect costume for sightseeing in a warm climate or for spectator sports or it is ready to jump into at the very first signs of budding spring in the North.

Nothing could be swankier or more appropriate for a sunny morning on deck than the mannish suit of white linen pictured to the right. The coat is as tailored as a man's and the back is belted, giving freedom for tennis or shuffleboard. The blouse is made of old-fashioned figured percale. Better jot that down in your note book, for this quaint percale is an ultra style note.

Many remarkable effects are achieved in the new linens. There are rustic peasant weaves which look as if hand-loomed. Some of these are of Tyrolean inspiration, in the colorfulness of their stripes. Many are nubbed to add to their rough texture. Among linen novelties are towel and tablecloth motifs, also openwork lines with colored threads, plaid lines, too, are good style, while plain linens either in pastels or dark vivid blues, or reds, or browns, have a vogue coming which will make them foremost in fashion.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

YOUTHFUL LINES IN HOUSE FROCK

PATTERN 2071

You'll like the youthful shirtwaist lines of this smartly tailored house frock, and you'll like the way you can slip into it as quickly as one, two, three! What a joy for the woman who hates to jump out of her nice warm bed on cold winter mornings and start struggling with hooks and eyes! For the dress opens the full length of its front and is easily adjusted to the figure by means of a tie-belt, part of which slips through a slit at one side and is drawn about the waist to tie into a gay little bow with the other half of the belt. And if you prefer a round neckline the dress can be made without the collar, as in the smaller illustration.

Pattern 2071 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3¾ yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address, and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York city.

STARCHED LACE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

An outstanding message which the advance dresses convey is that starched lace accessories are the "big idea" for spring. A word to the wise is sufficient. The shopping itinerary of the woman who would be smartly attired should include an immediate pilgrimage to the neckwear counters where the latest fantasies in the now-so-fashionable crisp laces are set forth in all their freshness. For midseason wear nothing more charming and seasonal can be pictured than the charming black velvet suit here illustrated. The deep ruffle lace cuffs and collar with frilled jabot of stiffened white lace interprets the latest. The jabot bow sketched and the collar of lace with the Medici flare are new this season.

Skirt Fullness

Skirts wide at the hem are still very much in fashion, but the fullness usually does not start till the skirt is well on its way. Snug fitted hip lines are best at the moment. Bustle effects are out.

MUFFS ARE REVIVED FOR EVENING WEAR

Muffs, in the dear dead days, were neat little bundles into which elegant ladies placed their hands when they went into the cold, wintry out-of-doors. Then, a few years ago some bright person conceived the idea of giving bridesmaids muffs to carry instead of shepherds' crooks or bunches of flowers or baskets filled with rose petals. Thus, muffs were separated from strictly out-of-door costumes.

Now, as the latest development in this evolution, there are muffs to accompany evening gowns. Some of these frivolous affairs are made of shirred chiffon or velvet. Others are covered with small artificial flowers, such as violets, pansies, or narcissi. Debutantes are gaily carrying them as they dance. They're plenty large enough to hold a lipstick, cigarettes, powder, hankie, and all the other ballroom necessities.

High Hat and Plain Pumps With "Little Suit" Chic

When standing before your wardrobe in doubt as to what to put on, better reach for a suit. The "little suit" is the "long suit" of our smartest women over here.

With it goes a high hat and plain kidskin pumps. If the day and the occasion present that "special moment," we suggest a glamorous lame blouse as a surprise to come forth when the trim little jacket is removed.

Patou has made some of the most perfect blouses for this purpose you can find anywhere. Lots of them are of the sheerest chiffon with shirring near the shoulders to give fullness to the billowy sleeves. There is usually a touch of lame in gold or silver or a satin collar and cuffs and demure little bow tie.

Smiles

SUCH IS JAZZ

"When Jake's dog tipped over a table in the cafe, four waiters dropped their trays at the same time."

"Yes, and I heard that two couples got up to dance, thinking it was a new jazz tune."

Little Squirt

"Are you a doctor?" asked a young lady, stepping into a drug store.

"Naw," replied the youth behind the white counter. "I'm just the fizzician."—American Boy.

Pessimistic

Trainer (encouraging his man)—What you've got to do is to stick it and go for him, and you'll come through with flying colors.

Boxer (doubtfully)—Yes! At half-mast.

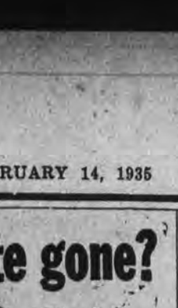
Never Fails

Woman (in crowded tram, to her friend)—I wish that good-looking man would give me his seat.

Five men stood up.—Automobilist.

Appetite gone?

✓ losing weight
✓ nervous
✓ pale
✓ tired



then don't gamble with your body

A simple thing, perhaps...yet a very serious one, resulting in loss of strength . . . body weakness . . . and possibly many other ills. So why not check-up and snap back to the zest of eating and well being.

You will find S.S.S. a great, scientifically-tested tonic—not just a so-called tonic, but one specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood to enable you to "carry on."

Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food and good digestion . . . sound sleep . . . and renewed strength. So many say, "S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again." © S.S.S. Co.

You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.

S.S.S. TONIC

Makes you feel like yourself again

All Cogs in Machine

No one is rich enough to do without his neighbor.

IRON THE EASY WAY IN ONE-THIRD LESS TIME WITH THE

Coleman SELF HEATING Iron

Reduce your ironing time one-third . . . your labor one-half! Iron any place with the Coleman. It's entirely self-heating. No cords or wires. No weary, endless trips between a hot stove and the ironing board.

The Coleman makes and burns its own gas. Lights instantly—no pre-heating. Operating cost only ½¢ an hour. Perfect balance and right weight make ironing just an easy, guiding, gliding motion.

See your local hardware or house-furnishing dealer. If he does not handle, write us.

The Coleman Lamp & Stove Company
Dept. WU309, Wichita, Kans.; Chicago, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Philadelphia, Pa.; or Toronto, Ontario, Canada (6209)

Amazing. Healthful, energizing. Hu-Tran-Aton plays radio through body. Agent's sample $1.55. Hu-Tran-Aton Co., 20 W. 22nd., N.Y.

Cash Prizes for a Name. If you suffer from head colds and want quick safe relief, write today for free offer. P. M. BARNTHOUSE, Lock Box 33, Grover, Ohio.

AGENTS
2,000 business cards $1.50. Advance com. 50c. Sales outfit 25c, refunded with third order. E. H. DeSELMS, San Jose, Calif.

BOILS Cuts, Burns and Bites
CARBOIL eases throbbing pain; allays inflammation; reduces swelling; lessens tension; quickly heals. Relieve these painful, unsightly conditions with powerfully medicated CARBOIL. Results guaranteed. At your druggist, or write Spurlock-Neal Co., Nashville, Tenn.

NO-VEX
The World's Best Ointment for Athlete's Foot, Ringworm, Eczema, Itching Piles and Dandruff. Stops Itching Instantly. Heals quickly. Absolutely pure, and will not irritate the tenderest skin. Many leading physicians prescribe and use it. If your local druggist cannot supply you, send us 50c and a jar will be sent you by mail postpaid. FALLS CHEMICAL CO., Box 962, Memphis, Tenn.—Adv.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS!

IF your kidneys are not working right and you suffer backache, dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, swollen feet and ankles; feel lame, stiff, "all tired out" . . . use Doan's Pills.

Thousands rely upon Doan's. They are praised the country over. Get Doan's Pills today. For sale by all druggists.

DOAN'S PILLS

If you have a pimply, blotchy, complexion try Resinol to help nature heal such surface defects

OLD AGE PENSION INFORMATION
ENCLOSE STAMP
JUDGE LEHMAN, HUMBOLDT, KANS.

"LIFE begins at 40" if you keep its intestines, at middle age usually work more slowly than in early youth. When Nature slows up, CLEANSE INTERNALLY with Garfield Tea—a mild quick-acting, pleasant-to-take laxative drink.

FREE SAMPLE! Write to: GARFIELD TEA CO., Dept. D, Brooklyn, N. Y.

GARFIELD TEA
At Drug Stores—25c and 10c

BRISBANE
THIS WEEK

Idle Acres, Idle Men
The Townsend Plan
Mrs. Roosevelt's Enterprise
Another Slave of Man

Ten million idle men and more in the United States. Ten million idle acres and more on either side of this railroad running along the Atlantic coast from southern Florida to New York. Two of the acres, intensively cultivated, would feed a family. Texas alone, under intensive cultivation, could feed the entire population of the earth as it exists now, and oil underneath Texas would run all the automobiles. There is an empire for you, in one single state.

And we talk about "over-population" with so much land not used, and none of it used with full intelligence.

The Townsend plan, $200 a month to everybody sixty years of age, is solemnly discussed by congress, which ought to be passing a sound, reasonable old age pension now. The Townsend plan is an interesting plan in many ways. By taxation on every transaction, on producer, jobber, wholesaler, retailer, manufacturer, buyer, it would practically absorb all available money to turn it over to deserving, or otherwise, persons, aged sixty. It would soon become necessary for some other Townsend to organize a $200-a-month plan for all paupers. There would soon be twice as many paupers as there are people sixty years old.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is meanly criticized, because, having interested herself in providing better homes for poor people, it appears that the undertaking may involve some slight financial loss, trifling in United States finance.

Mrs. Roosevelt caused families to be moved from miserable hovels into comfortable homes.

A woman with children, living last year in two rooms without windows, with nothing but raw carrots for her Christmas dinner, told Mrs. Roosevelt that she did not dare tell her children it was Christmas day.

On this Christmas day, when Mrs. Roosevelt went to see her, the mother, with a new born baby, and her children, all happy, were living in a decent homestead, with modern improvements, including a cellar full of canned goods.

If that did cost a little money, it was money well spent.

Other ladies and gentlemen who have spent money for the United States government have not done so well.

A steel gate 12 feet thick, weighing 3,000,000 pounds, was closed one day recently and the Colorado river, its water and power, definitely harnessed, made slaves of man.

The stream that had wandered as it pleased for millions of years, through the magnificent mile-deep canyon of the Colorado, through Boulder Canyon and Black Canyon, was now tied fast in Black Canyon. "The Boulder Dam" is a reality. Hereafter the Colorado will flow as man shall order, lighting cities, irrigating deserts, supplying power far away.

Man eventually will control the earth completely. He has made a good start—at Niagara, Panama, Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam.

Chicago reports the latest "American type" murder. Thomas E. Maloy, veteran head of Chicago's Motion Picture Operators' union, was killed in the usual way, as he sat at the wheel of his automobile.

The government says Mr. Maloy's career as a "union labor leader" was profitable. He had been indicted and released on bail on a charge of failure to report three hundred and fifty thousand dollars' income before the assassin's "slugs" canceled that and other accusations.

If the leader of a motion picture union got that income you wonder how and from whom he got it, also what other motion picture operators who got no such sum think about it.

It was time for somebody to say what Mr. Richberg says now, that he "does not propose to put the interest of the unions above loyalty to his government."

It is a friendly act to remind union labor again that if it wants to know what happens when separate organizations claim the right to run the country they should study conditions in Italy. There are no Italian union leaders collecting millions a year in dues. Former leaders are working with pick and shovel, or tractor, or lathe, according to their mechanical ability.

Kenneth Neu, killer of two men, hanged in New Orleans, entertainer and singer by profession, sang gally the day before his hanging, sang in the morning before going to the gallows, said he would sing all the way to the scaffold, "Love in Bloom," and "When the Trumpet Sounds." But when he saw the hangman and the noose he stopped singing and only did a feeble tap dance on the scaffold.

It may comfort California, which dislikes reading about Florida, to be told that when you buy cauliflower and many other green things in Florida you buy things grown in California.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 17

PETER TEACHES GOOD CITIZENSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 2:11-17; 4:1-5.
GOLDEN TEXT—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law. Romans 13:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Letter From Peter.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Becomes a Teacher.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes a Good Citizen.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Responsibilities of a Good Citizen.

In order to get an intelligent grasp of today's lesson one must get a view of the entire Epistle as to its purpose and method. The purpose was to establish all who were passing through suffering and testing (see 1:7; 3:14; 4:12; 5:10-12).

The principles of Christian behavior set forth in this text are of a broader scope than citizenship. They embrace,

I. Behavior as Pilgrims and Sojourners (vv. 11, 12).

Christians are really sojourners on the earth. They have not their permanent home here. They are journeying through the earth on their way to their eternal home in the heavens. Their heavenly citizenship (Phil. 3:20) should constrain them to the maintenance of conduct consistent with their high calling.

1. Abstain from fleshly lusts (v. 11). The term "lusts" here includes the entire army of unclean forces springing from our carnal natures. They are enumerated in Galatians 5:19-21.

2. Behavior among the Gentiles or heathen (v. 12). The word conversation here means behavior. Christians are under obligation to so live as to render it impossible for the world to speak evil against them as evil-doers.

II. Behavior as Citizens (vv. 13-17).

While the Christian's true citizenship is in heaven, he has a responsibility as a citizen on the earth during his earthly sojourn. He should be in submission to properly constituted authority.

1. Obey all requirements of civil rulers (v. 13). Fidelity to Christ is shown by loyalty to civil authority. The intelligent Christian recognizes the necessity of government and graciously submits to those in authority over him, regardless of the form of government. His duties as a citizen he performs as the Lord's free man, not through servile fear. Government even of a low order is better than anarchy. Free submission to governmental authority puts to silence the ignorance of foolish men (vv. 15, 16).

2. Honor all men (v. 17). The Christian sees in every man the image of God and will, therefore, give him the honor due him. This applies to all relations wherein we touch human life.

3. Love the brotherhood (v. 17). The brotherhood is composed of those who are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ.

4. Fear God (v. 17). This means to recognize God's sovereignty, righteousness, and holiness, and properly to reverence him.

5. Honor the king (v. 17). This had a peculiar significance at the time this was written, because in all probability the wicked Nero was then reigning as the emperor.

III. Behavior in a World of Opposition (I Pet. 4:1-5).

1. Arm for the conflict (v. 1). Christians are engaged in a tremendous conflict with evil forces within and without. Satan and his angels are bent on the believers' defeat and destruction.

2. The salutary effect of suffering (v. 1). Suffering has a remedial effect upon God's children. The one who suffers with Christ as an example will have the consciousness that it is his identity with Christ that calls forth the opposition of the world.

3. God's will the regulating force of his life (v. 2). The will of God, not the lusts of the flesh, is the directing force of the believer's life.

4. The consciousness of a wasted life (v. 3). Looking back upon a wasted life in serving the lusts of the flesh will move one to give no more time to serving such a master.

5. The attitude of the world toward the one who separates himself from it (v. 4). The world speaks evil of those who will not go its way. The world not only wonders at the life of the Christian who separates himself from its pleasures, such as dancing, card playing, wine drinking, etc., but will heap upon him nicknames of reproach.

6. Account shall be given (v. 5). The Christian should so live as to be able to render a good account to God.

Fellowship With God

Every mental movement and religious activity of life should be a heartfelt plea for deeper and sweeter fellowship with God.

Need of the Day

The greatest need of today is a renaissance of character among the people of this distracted earth; a renaissance of that quality of character which recognizes obligations as an honest man recognizes his debts, and of the quality of faith that gives us the desire and the courage to help instead of to hide.

Belief Imperative

An optimistic view of life is a hollow sham unless it is based on a belief in human immortality.

BE CAREFUL!

All personal messages that are broadcast on short waves—to police cars, ships, commercial stations and amateur operators—are confidential and listeners who divulge any facts that they overhear break a federal law, the maximum penalty for which is a $5,000 fine and five years in prison.—Colliers' Weekly.

CHAPPED SKIN

To quickly relieve chapping and roughness, apply soothing, cooling Mentholatum.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

FROM GIRL TO WOMAN

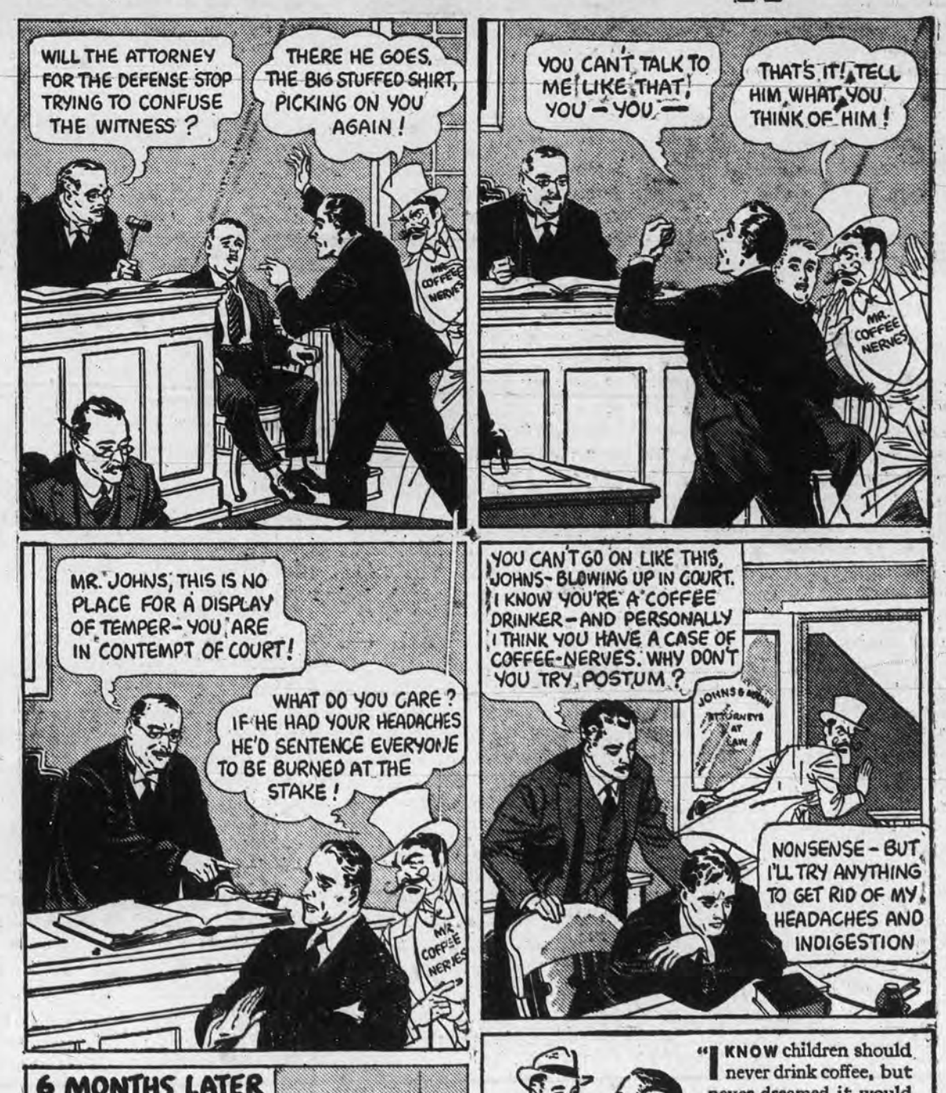
Mrs. W. P. Gillespie of 11 Glendale Place, N. W., Atlanta, Ga., said: "Some days I would become melancholy and dizziness and headaches were frequent. I did not know what a normal night's rest was and I dreaded mealtime. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and after the second bottle my health was back to normal and I felt fine again." All druggists.
Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y. for free medical advice.

LION HIS ONLY ASSET

A lion was stated to be the only asset of a man who was summoned at Liverpool, England, for nonpayment of taxes, and an attachment was placed on the beast.

"There's Nothing Else Like SIMONIZ!"

Try Simoniz and the new, improved Simoniz Kleener for keeping your car beautiful. Then you'll never use anything else. They're easier, quicker and better to use. A few strokes with the wonderful Simoniz Kleener and the finish will sparkle with all the beauty it had when new. Then put on Simoniz, and your car will stay beautiful. Simoniz protects the finish in all weather and makes it last longer. So always insist on Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener for your car. Refuse anything else!



MOTORISTS WISE SIMONIZ

Be sure and look for the trademark SIMONIZ on the can. If it isn't there, it isn't Simoniz or Simoniz Kleener.

Lawyer Johns beats his worst Opponent

"I KNOW children should never drink coffee, but never dreamed it would bother me!"

"Oh yes! The caffein in coffee can upset digestion, fray the nerves, and prevent sleep."

If you believe coffee disagrees with you — try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffein. It is just whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. Easy to make—and it costs less than half a cent a cup. It's delicious—and may be a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE! Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail the coupon.

GENERAL FOODS, Battle Creek, Mich. W. N. U. 2-14-35
Send me, without obligation, a week's supply of Postum.

Name_____
Street_____
City_____ State_____

Fill in completely—print name and address.
This offer expires December 31, 1935

REPORT OF BOARD OF REVENUE, SHELBY CO.

(Continued From First Page)

ial Jurors	35.00
Wooley, K. E.—Attending Circuit Court	25.00
Wooley, K. E.—Ex. Off. Fees	250.00
Shealy, F. P.—Member Jury Commission	100.00
Elliott, H. H.—Member Jury Commission	100.00
Thompson, J. H.—Member Jury Commission	100.00
Wallace, Mildred W.—Clerk Jury Commission	30.00
Total Disbursements	$21 227.85

General Fund—Last Half of 1934.

—SPECIAL COURT HOUSE, ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND—
Last Half of 1934.
RECEIPTS

1934:

July 1st: Balance On Hand	$1,523.96
Dixie B. Shealy, Tax Collector Taxes Collected	7,508.93
Cage Head, Probate Judge Land sold for taxes	247.93
Total Receipts	$9,280.82
Less disbursements (see below)	5,963.35
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$3,317.47

DISBURSEMENTS

Chase National Bank of New York, Interest on Bonds	$5,900.00
Merrell, W. E.—Expense to Huntsville Ass'n meeting	15.65
McGraw, S. E.—Expense to Huntsville Ass'n meeting	16.60
Nash, T. R.—Expense to Huntsville Ass'n meeting	15.45
Tinney, C. R.—Expense to Huntsville Ass'n meeting	15.65
Total Disbursements	$5,963.35

—GASOLINE FUND—
Last Half of 1934
RECEIPTS

1934:

July 1st: Bal. On Hand	$ 1,652.64
J. H. Hard, Jr., State Comptroller Gasoline Tax Collections:
July	$ 5,761.02
August	5,767.90
September	5,926.31
October	6,130.34
November	6,072.86
December	6,425.62
	$36,084.05 $36,084.05
J. R. Meigs—Pipe	1.20
B. J. Owens—Cement	1.26
General Fund—Transfer	852.86
Total Receipts	$38,592.01
Less Disbursements	37,273.17
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$ 1,318.84

—GASOLINE FUND—
DISBURSEMENTS

Alexander, E. G.	$130.00
Alexander, Buster	6.00
Alexander, Jim	3.00
Allen, Max	100.00
Allen-Craig Grocery Co.	3.50
Allen, Reid	27.50
Allen, W. A.	531.20
Anniston Hardware Co.	35.62
Alabama Relief Adm.	3,021.40
Atkinson, C. O.	3.50
Auto Electric Co.	32.07
Adams, Travis	3.00
Armstrong, J. E.	84.12
Armstrong, Tobe	2.25
Armstrong, Ben	10.00
Archer, H. E.	6.00
Braswell, Ernest	390.00
Boothe, J. W.	158.50
Baer, P.	2.40
Blalock, Hoyt	360.00
Bowden, J. A.	19.50
Bowden, Samuel F.	12.50
Bolin, W. N.	15.00
Bowden, Clarence	13.00
Bowden, Earl	6.00
Bowden, Casey	4.00
Bowdon Service Station	30.35
Bruener, R. J.	10.00
Bailey, W. R.	4.95
Belcher, W. A.	39.07
Bunn, Kelly	12.00
Brantley, Cleve	19.50
Brantley, Powell	16.75
Brantley, Jack	63.20
Butler, Jack	64.00
Bearden, C. V.	7.00
Brown, W. T.	8.40
Brown, W. P. & Son	262.53
Bentley, L. H.	46.56
Barber, Andy	6.25
Barber, Pete	4.50
Bolton's Garage	7.10
Bolton, Josh	3.00
Baumgartner, A. E.	16.92
Bishop, Dan	3.00
Bishop, Henry	3.50
Bierley, J. P.	21.00
Birmingham Electric Battery Co.	9.04
Bracknell, A. Q.	3.00
Brasher, L.	13.75
Brasher, J. L.	20.00
Brasher, Dewey	3.00
Brasher, Hovah	1.50
Brasher, Edward	1.50
Brasher, Ervin	3.00
Brasher, Lewis	1.50
Coats, W. H.	452.30
Coats, Kennith	310.80
Cox, O. E.	286.30
Cox, O. C.	10.50
Cox, M. W.	4.38
Curlee's Auto Shop	118.73
Curlee, Hulett	3.00
Cahoon, John	113.00
Cash Store	3.84
Carpenter Brothers	25.75
Cosper, A. C.	58.62
Cosper, E. M.	4.50
Campbell, W. N.	25.20
Campbell, Harvey	10.00
Clinkscales, L. B.	6.00
Clinkscales, L. E.	6.00
Clinkscales, Newt	6.00
Cross, Jeff	15.00
Cross, C. W.	3.00
Cobb, B. L.	8.50
Crawford Auto Shop	41.84
Crawford, L. B.	1.50
Crawford, Walt	6.00
Clark, J. C.	9.95
Cincinnatti Varnish Co.	71.75
Carter, G. R.	3.75
Carter Filling Station	1.80
Carter, Hance	2.25
Culberson, A. R.	2.50
Chace Rubber Co.	40.86
Clifton, Arthur	5.25
Clifton, Robert	6.75
Clifton, Luther	4.50
Columbiana Savings Bank	50.25
Cooper, J. H.	3.00
D. A. Lubricant Co.	63.76
Davis, Joe S.	51.00
Davis, Horace	23.75
Davis, Chas. P.	10.50
Davis, Young	52.50
Davis, John R. Jr.	8.40
Davis, Onie	1.50
Davis, W. A.	4.40
Davis, J. P.	2.00
Davis, L. M.	7.50
Davis, Gordon	14.50
Davis, J. Y.	3.50
Davis, Ray D	10.50
Davis, Henry	10.50
Davis, Jack	1.50
Davison, Frank	14.20
Davison, Pink	20.00
Davidson, Joe	351.20
Dorough, A. A.	3.50
Denty, Otis	272.50
Dewberry, C. G.	309.47
Dupree, Jesse	29.40
Downey's Auto Shop	10.95
Dycus Service Station	9.75
Dickson, Jude	10.00
Dean, A. E.	15.20
Durden, Wilson	83.20
Dunnam, Mrs. C. L.	5.00
Darby, T. E.	31.50
Dawson, J. A.	3.00
Dement, A. C.	8.25
Dement, Charlie	3.00
Dixie Culvert Co.	313.20
Epperson, George D	16.00
Eddings, W. T.	25.60
Eddings, Ralph	12.00
Elliott, H. H.	179.00
Eureka Lime Co.	12.00
Eureka Lumber Co.	109.68
Embry, J. H.	2.00
Eastis, W. C.	19.50
Edwards, Walker	3.50
Edwards, Jack	7.50
Florey, E. E.	14.25
Florey, W. J.	27.00
Florey, L. L.	2.00
Freeze, W. B.	196.00
Falkner, Gordon	1.50
Falkner, Albert	29.00
Flemming, John E.	2.50
Fancher, J. R.	4.50
Fowler, O. O.	48.00
Foster, Lee	4.50
Freeman, George	6.00
Green, Mark	2.50
Green, L. B.	10.50
Green, Gettis	4.50
Green, Otis	4.50
Green, Elvin	4.50
Griffin, P. R.	18.60
Griffin, Jack	16.80
Goodwin, Alvin	390.00
Goodwin, Garvice	14.00
Goodwin, J. W.	268.00
Gray, W. C.	71.50
Glover, J. H.	292.00
Gardner's Service Station	83.80
Gardner, L. C.	12.00
Gardner, John H.	25.00
Garrett, A. V.	27.35
Garrett, Jack	21.00
Garrett Brothers	3.15
Garrett, J. M. & Son	3.83
Garrett, W. L.	15.50
Garrett, Dewitt	8.00
Garrett, Cliff	8.00
Gallon, W. M.	3.75
Gulf Service Station	188.81
General Welding Co.	7.00
Gallups, M. E. & Morris	27.00
Gill, Nelson	10.50
Gill, Willie	3.00
Gill, W. C.	4.50
Gill, Austin	15.25
Gallion Iron Works	140.95
Goss, Frank	3.75
Gwin, Wheeler	2.25
Guy, R. L.	5.00
Huggins, DeWitt	1.50
Harless, Elwood	289.20
Holmes, Bradford	296.00
Holmes, Marvin	8.00
Holcombe, J. D.	110.90
Holcombe Mercantile Co.	9.00
Honeycutt, Willard	58.90
Honeycutt, O. C.	12.00
Honeycutt, Jack	10.50
Honeycutt, Malvin	34.00
Herren, Ed	100.00
Herren, Willard	4.00
Hand, R. M.	154.50
Hand, Irby	83.20
Harper, Newt	40.90
Harrell, S. P.	641.33
Hassett, Dalton	5.00
Hassett, M. T.	12.50
Hercules Powder Co.	43.36
Hatcher, D. L.	19.50
Heath, Charlie	51.00
Harris, Burr	116.15
Harris, Gordie	3.00
Harris, Ollie	3.00
Harris, Lester	3.00
Harris, Luther	3.00
Hill, Charlie	14.00
Horton, N. O.	15.00
Houston, J. W.	6.00
Harpersville Garage	2.90
Horn Chevrolet Co.	4.40
Henderson, Tobe	4.50
Hollis, Dock	10.00
Hanna Motor Co.	56.08
Howard W. H.	7.50
Ham, Jim	4.50
Ingram, W. L.	328.95
Isbell, Walker	3.00
Isbell, J. H.	19.00
Isbell, Sammie	2.25
Isbell, Clyde	3.00
Isbell, Shelby	3.00
Isbell, Earl	3.00
Jarvis, N. L.	59.65
Jones, R. A.	72.00
Jones & Hernandez Mch. Co.	5.00
Jones, J. O.	4.00
Jones, J. C.	134.40
Jones, J. H.	5.00
Jemison, Fred	4.00
Jemison, Y. A.	20.50
Jemison, W. R.	12.00
Jemison, Robert	18.50
Johnson, Scott	13.00
Johnson, J. H.	2.10
Johnson, John	3.00
Johnson, A. J.	9.21
Johnson, Fred	36.00
Johnson, Andrew	5.00
Johnson, Hillman	12.00
Joiner, Sam	15.00
Jenkins, Clyde	6.00
Kidd, W. E.	17.30
Kimerling, M. & Sons	9.75
Kromer, Willie	32.00
Killworth, G.	12.00
Knowles, Charlie	10.00
Logan, R. P.	144.00
Lee, Bill	104.00
Lee, Obie	24.00
Lee, Robert	26.40
Lee, John	45.60
Lee, Roy	3.50
Lee, J. P.	240.00
Lit, Sam	14.71
Lawley, R. W	40.40
Lawley, Serge	4.00
Lawler, W. P.	95.00
Luquire, Jim	410.00
Leeds Supply Co.	586.65
Long-Lewis Hardware Co.	167.65
Lybrand, Jack	6.00
Lybrand, Madison	3.00
Lybrand, L. H.	3.75
Lambert, Earl	292.80
Lowery, Regnold	276.00
Lynn, Frank	4.00
Lynn, J. W.	46.50
Lynn, Floyd	38.40
Lovelady, W. E.	182.00
Lackey & Murphy	4.45
Lester, Roy B.	91.00
Lester Lumber Co.	217.74
Looney, A. B.	13.75
Langston, Frank	3.00
Lisco Co.	34.30
Lubro Co.	336.62
Lawson Auto Co.	41.55
M. & S. Company	3.00
Murphy, J. L.	465.00
Murphy, Fred	1.50
Miles, Floyd	102.40
Morris, W. F.	49.25
Montevallo Merc. Co.	25.68
Montevallo Lumber Co.	43.68
Miller, H. A.	360.00
Miller, George	4.00
Moore-Handley Hdw. Co.	222.35
Moore, J. W. Jr.	1.50
Moore, F. L.	70.40
Moore, W. B.	91.24
Moore, Ferman	89.60
Mullins, L. C.	6.00
Millstead, W. M.	18.00
Malone, Sorrell	42.70
Mann, Grady	1.75
Milling, D. H.	9.00
Mathis, H. C.	34.50
Melton, Vergil	15.25
Milam, J. D. Jr.	6.00
Milam, Will	3.00
Martin, W. B.	10.50
Martin, Wilburn	4.50
Martin, Clyde	12.00
Martin, L. W.	6.00
Martin, Homer	5.25
Miner, F. F.	3.00
Mitchell, W. E.	2.00
Messer, W. C.	3.00
McGraw Brothers	112.68
McGraw, R. T.	27.50
McGhee, A. P.	111.72
McCranie, G. M.	21.50
McCammon, A. B.	1.50
McManus, L. O.	3.00
McCauley, S. G.	10.00
Nunnally, L. H.	361.50
Nabors, Harvey	100.00
Newport Culvert Co.	539.00
Nash, Abe	10.00
Norwood, Bud	66.50
Nickerson Drug Co.	16.17
Nixon, B. C.	3.50
Norris, W. I.	3.75
Nixon, Curtis	4.50
Oaks, Reuben	3.50
Ozley, Jack	83.20
Owens, L.	.75
Phillips, G. C. Tractor Co.	672.14
Peter, Grover	16.80
Payne, C. A.	2.00
Payne, Walter	3.00
Payne, J. O.	2.00
Peoples Finance & Thrift Co.	279.55
Pittman, J. D. Tractor Co.	2,520.17
Pitts, J. B.	7.50
Prince, C. L.	2.25
Parker, Clyde	3.00
Parker, Robert	3.75
Parker, Jake	2.25
Pierson, Kirk	27.00
Partridge, Claude	1.50
Patmon, Grady	2.25
Rutherford, G. W.	208.00
Roach, G. F.	9.00
Roach, J. N.	4.00
Riley, O. L.	18.00
Rowland, Miss Grace	600.00
Reid Motor Co.	19.65
Runyan, W. T.	3.75
Robbs, J. J.	3.00
Robbins, Charles	6.00
Richie, Robert	16.50
Reynolds, Sam	10.50
Reynolds, J. D.	10.50
Reynolds, Dave	4.50
Robinson, J. L.	3.95
Robinson, W. S.	1.50
Ray, A. A.	4.50
Ray, Rev.	9.50
Ray, W. T.	3.00
Simmons, R. D.	360.50
Stinson, Offie	146.00
Stinson, Neal	42.00
Stinson, Mrs. A. D.	32.08
Shrader, Charlie	1.50
Shrader, T. M.	7.75
Snyder, Monroe	3.50
Snyder, J. D.	3.50
Smith, W. M. & Co.	897.50
Smith, Jack	6.00
Smith, Charlie	8.75
Smith, Nick	10.50
Smith, James	7.50
Smith, Wes	7.50
Smith, John	9.00
Standard Oil Co.	6,974.68
Standard Equipment Co.	159.50
Swann, C. R.	4.50
Strother, Fred	9.00
Shelby Iron Co.	46.66
Spradley Brothers	105.00
Sterrett Lumber Co.	14.62
Sterrett Pottery	1.00
Sterrett Mercantile Co.	109.00
Stracner Brothers	6.20
Siddons, George	24.00
Spain, Johnnie	14.70
Southern Culvert Co.	128.56
Shipp, William	4.50
Stevens, R. M.	1.75
Sanders, N. E.	5.50
Southern, O. D.	5.00
Spruell, Lon	3.00
Seale, J. H.	5.25
Templin, W. H.	221.87
Thompson, Clyde	287.50
Thompson, M. S.	43.50
Thompson, G. C.	4.00
Tinney, Ollie	360.00
Thomas, Lyman	4.50
Tillman, H. H.	48.00
Tri-State Culvert Co.	125.00
Taylor, L. C.	.65
Turner, Jessee	3.00
Turner, Guy	6.00
Turner, James	4.50
Turner, E. A. Jr.	15.00
Townsend, Harvey	3.00
Talladega Hardware Co.	8.18
Underwood, W. C.	33.40
Underwood, Brady	15.00
Vick, Albert	17.50
Vick, J. H.	2.50
Wooten, Jim	65.25
Weldon, J. R.	85.60
Weldon, M. T.	3.00
Weldon, George	127.78
Weldon, G. H.	2.00
Weaver, W. F.	26.90
Weaver, Bill	12.00
Wooley, R. W.	40.80
Wooley, Milton	18.00
Walton, T. R.	34.75
Walton, W. R.	12.00
Walton, J. F.	4.00
Woodlawn Auto Parts Co.	30.00
Wood Chevrolet Co.	162.85
Wood, W. O.	19.50
Wood, Will	4.50
Wilder, Fred	1.50
Wyatt, Clyde	39.70
Wyatt, H. G.	48.00
Wyatt, Grady	81.50
Wyatt, Leonard	71.05
Watson, W. A.	24.00
Wallace, C. G.	15.35
Wofford Oil Co.	39.71
White, C. E.	6.25
Whitfield, Gordon	3.00
Whitehead, F. E.	12.80
Wallis, Maples	13.00
	$37,273.17

FINE AND FORFEITURE FUND
RECEIPTS

1934:

July 1st: Balance on hand	$ 5.75
R. M. Hand—Justice of the Peace Fines	11.50
Total Receipts	$17.25
Disbursements, none
December 31st: Bal. on hand	$17.25

—MOTOR CARRIER FUND—
RECEIPTS

1934:

July 1st: Balance on hand	$193.46
J. H. Hard, State Comptroller, County's pro rata of Tax Collected	224.59
Total Receipts	$418.04
Less Disbursements (see below)	364.00
December 31st: Bal. on hand	$ 54.04

DISBURSEMENTS
(Road Work, Supplies, Etc.)

Davidson, Pink	$25.00
Holcombe, J. D.	50.00
Knowles, Charlie	27.00
Pittman, J. D. Tractor Co.	100.00
Standard Oil Co.	100.00
Templin, E. H.	4.50
Thompson, Clyde	57.50
Total Disbursements	$364.00

—BEAT ROAD FUND—
Last Half of 1934
Beat No. 1—Receipts

1934:

July 1st: Balance on hand	$12.52
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0;
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$12.52

Beat No. 2—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	.52
J. S. Davis, Road Tax	$7.50
Total Receipts	$8.02
Disbursements, none
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$8.02

Beat No. 3—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$13.75
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$13.75

Beat No. 4—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$39.28
J. H. Chapman, Road Tax	D 3.00
Total Receipts	$42.28
Less Disbursements, (see below)	27.04
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$15.24

Disbursements—Beat 4

Allen, John F.—Lumber	$27.04

Beat No. 5—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	6.00
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$6.00

Beat No. 6—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$5.45
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$5.45

Beat No. 7—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$2.82
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$2.82

Beat No. 8—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$8.59
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$8.59

Beat No. 9—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	.50
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	.50

Beat No. 10—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$1.10
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$1.10

Beat No. 11

July 1st: Balance on hand	1.01
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	1.01

Beat No. 12

July 1st: Balance on hand	8.98
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	8.98

Beat No. 13

July 1st: Balance on hand	8.40
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	8.40

Beat No. 14

July 1st: Balance on hand	2.75
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	2.75

Beat No. 15

July 1st: Balance on hand	.11
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	.11

Beat No. 16—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$1.90
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$1.90

Beat No. 17—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$4.45
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$4.45

Beat No. 18—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$2.25
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$2.25

Beat No. 19—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$14.74
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$14.74

Beat No. 20—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$426.23
Receipts, 0
Less Disbursements	419.80
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	$ 6.43

Disbursements—Beat 20

Allen, W.	140.80
Calver, W. D.	16.75
Eddings, William	8.00
Elliott, H. H.	29.25
Honeycutt, M. A.	19.50
Honeycutt, W.	21.80
Honeycutt, Jack	2.00
Hand, R. M.	105.80
Herren, Ed	25.00
Harris, Burr	32.00
Swan, Blunt	18.90
Total Disbursements	$419.80

Beat No. 21—Receipts

July 1st: Balance on hand	$1.00
Receipts, 0; Disbursements, 0
Dec. 31st: Bal. On Hand	1.00

OUTSTANDING INDEBTEDNESS AS OF DECEMBER 31ST, 1934:

BONDS: Authorized by the election held in 1923, payable in 30 years bearing 5 1-2% interest payable semi-annually, $375,000.00.

NOTE: Seventeen of these bonds have been purchased by the Board for the Sinking Fund, leaving the amount now outstanding, $358,000.00.

WARRANTS: Issued by the Board, registered by the County Treasurer and described as follows:

Newell, A. T. Class "A" Road work 2-1-36 6% 2,000.00.

Newell, A. T. Class "B" Road work 2-1-35 6% 2,000.00.

Newell, A. T. Class "B" Road work 2-1-36 6% 2,000.00.

Columbiana Savings Bank, Loan, 1-10-35, 43,320.00.

Columbiana Savings Bank, Interest, 1-10-35, 2,599.20.

Shelby County Democrat, Election Supplies, 1-10-35, 570.00.

Lauderdale, A. A. Past due salary as County Agent, $100.00 warrants payable monthly 2,075.00.

Pittman Tractor Co., Road Machinery, 1-20-35, 288.02.

(The following claims have been filed but not yet audited or allowed).

Dixie Chemical Co., Disinfectant, floor oil, insecticide etc. 81.38.

Monarch Chemical Co., Disinfectant, floor oil, insecticide etc. 76.07.

Universal Laboratories, Disinfectant, floor oil, insecticide etc. 52.28.

Worrell Mfg. Co., Disinfectant, floor oil, insecticide etc. 85.75.

Underwood-Elliott-Fisher, Machine for Tax Assessor 105.75.

Total: $413,253.45.

(The following claims in most instances are not yet due but are being paid in monthly installments out of the Gasoline Funds of the districts mentioned.)

District No. 1

Dixie Culvert Co., Pipe etc	179.40
Forrest Lumber Co., Lumber	214.78
Hanna Motor Co., Machinery repairs etc.	19.08
Lubro Co., Oils etc.	292.71
Long-Lewis Hardware Co., Truck notes	75.00
Pittman Tractor Co., Delinquent parts account	581.55
Pittman Tractor Co., Tractor-grader lease	3,601.75
Phillips Tractor Co., Tractor-grader lease	277.22
Smith, W. M. & Co., Pipe etc.	1,123.22
Standard Oil Co., Tire and Tube account	276.45
Standard Oil Co., Gasoline account	148.83
Standard Equipment Co., Road supplies	58.13
Tri-State Culvert Co., Pipe account	169.82
Total	$7,017.94

Comparison of the reports for the last two 6-months periods show that Mr. Tinney, (District No. 1) has reduced the debt of his district approximately $2,500.00.

District No. 2

Dixie Culvert & Metal Co., Delinquent pipe account	$258.00
Elliott, H. H., Road work	21.00
Holcomb, J. D., Road work	5.00
Ingram, W. L., Road work	65.00
Killworth, G., Road work	32.00
Long-Lewis Hardware Co., Road supplies	10.35
Lisco Co., Road supplies	153.63
Lubro Co., Road supplies	180.48
Moor, F. L., Road work	12.80
Montevallo Mercantile Co., Road supplies	2.25
Ozley, Bruce, Road work	8.00
Ozley, Jack, Road work	6.40
Pittman Tractor Co., Parts account etc.	120.80
Reid Motor Co., Machinery repairs etc.	40.63
Spain, Lee, Road work	10.75
Spain, John, Road work	19.50
Southern Coal & Coke Co., Road supplies	16.41
Total District No. 2	$963.00

AMOUNT OUTSTANDING DECEMBER 31ST, 1934:

General	$413,253.45
District No. 1	7,017.94
District No. 2	1,013.00
Total Debt 12-31-34	$421,284.39

At the date of publication the above schedule is misleading, the total representing the amount as of December 31st, 1934; whereas all claims listed as due between said date and the present date have been paid.

CERTIFICATE

The State of Alabama,
Shelby County.
Board of Revenue

I, J. M. Lyon, President of the Board of Revenue of Shelby County, Alabama, hereby certify that the foregoing pages from 1 to 29 both inclusive, contain a true and correct report of receipts and disbursements for the period beginning July 1st, 1934 and ending December 31st, 1934, together with an itemized statement of indebtedness on December 31st, 1934, as the same appear and remain of record in the office of the County Treasurer.

Witness my hand this 5th day of February, 1935.

J. M. LYON,
President of the Board of Revenue.

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-FIVE

COUNTY BIRTHS REPORTED DURING THE PAST MONTH

—BOYS—

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Holcombe, Chelsea, November 17.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Brasher, Vandiver, January 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Riffe, Aldrich, September 28th.

Mr. and Mss. Milton Grover Davis, Wilsonville Rt. No. 2, January 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Broadhead, Straven, November 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. Ura A. Hethcock, Westover, January 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Arthur Fredrick, Montevallo, October 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. Dollie Brantley, Maylene, November 7th.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Genry, Boothton, October 25th.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie B. Dollar, September 26th, Aldrich.

Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Faust, Montevallo, November 21st.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Busby, Calera, January 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Glass, Calera, January 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Vernon, Maylene Rt. No. 1, Janlary 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lee, Straven, January 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Scott, Helena, January 31st.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady King, Pelham, January 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Payton, Pelham, January 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jackson Walton, Columbiana Rt. No. 1, January 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Millard Davis-ton, Boothton, January 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tony, Underwood, January 30th, twin boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Lee, Maylene, January 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Cratwell, Siluria, January 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Garrett, Siluria, January 9th.

—GIRLS—

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stephens, Vincent, January 31st.

Mr. nad Mrs. Ambus Quincy Weldon, Chelsea, January 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. James Floye Ray, Wilsonville Rt. No. 1, January 7th.

Mr. and Mrs. John Floyd Thompson, Columbiana, January 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Haynie, Montevallo Rt. No. 1, December 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. William Major Hobbs, Wilsonville Rt. No. 2, January 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Rice, Straven, December 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith, Aldrich, November 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Templin, Columbiana Rt. No. 2, January 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Askin, Calera, January 11th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin Horn, Columbiana, January 13th.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Hughes, Wilsonville Rt. No. 2, January 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Hyde, Boothton, January 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Howard, Sterrett, December 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Burks Goggins, Boothton, December 22nd.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wells, Montevallo, January 19th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Garrett, Calera, January 9th.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Moore, January 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. Earler Martin, Pelham, December 21st.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Harless, Helena, January 10th.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Martin, Helena, January 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin Hutchison, Helena, January 25th.

Montevallo Music Club Meets February 13th

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The Montevallo Music Club met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Carmichael, Wednesday evening. Hosts of the occasion were Miss Anna Irvin, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Trumbauer, Mr. and Mrs. M. Ziolkowski and Dr. and Mrs. Carmichael.

Miss Katherine Farrah, of the Alabama music faculty, spoke on "The Development of Present-Day Music," and Miss Helen Osband, of the speech faculty, gave an account of the Russian ballet. Refreshments were served to a large group of members and guests.

What's What Who's Who in WASHINGTON

Carter Field, noted capital correspondent, in a weekly letter, now gives the readers of this paper an intelligent understanding of what is going on in Washington.

Read these brilliant, forceful and illuminating letters, which appear under the heading

SEEN and HEARD AROUND THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

NEW LAWS ENABLE LOAN COMPANIES AID IN FHA PLANS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Enactment by the State of Alabama of legislation with respect to mortgage lending should be of the very greatest interest to all who are concerned with the program of the Federal Housing Administration.

Under the new laws all such financial institutions as state banks and trust companies, building and loan associations and other lending agencies are authorized to make mortgage loans in accordance with the terms and conditions laid down for insured mortgages in the National Housing Act. That is to say, such loans may be made against first mortgages in amounts up to 80 per cent of the appraised value of property and for periods of as long as 20 years, provided that the mortgage requires monthly payments on principal and interest sufficient to pay it off by the time it falls due, and conforms in other respects to the requirements of the National Housing Act and the regulations laid down by the Federal Housing Administration.

Under this new state legislation, all financial institutions subject to the state law are now placed in a position of competitive equality with the national banks operating in the state.

It will be recalled that under the National Housing Act itself all national banks are authoriped to make long-term loans up to 80 per cent of appraised values against insured mortgages. Thus the last obstacle to complete cooperation on the part of every financial institution in the state has been cleared away.

All institutions which have not already done so may now send in their applications to the Federal Housing Administration for approval as lenders under the insured mortgage plan.

NOTICE TO FEDERAL INCOME TAXPAYERS

For the convenience of those who are required by law to file Federal Income Tax Returns, a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue will be at Columbiana on March 1st, 1935, to assist taxpayers in preparing their returns. No Charge Will Be Made For This Service. The matter of filing your Income Tax Return should be given immediate attention, in order to avoid penalty and interest.

If your net income is $1,000 or over or your gross income $5,000 or over and you are single (or if married and not living with husband or wife), you are required to file a return. If you are married and living with husband or wife and your net income is $2,500 or over or your gross income is $5,000 or over, you are required to file a return.

FEDERAL AUDITORS ARE IN COLUMBIANA

Federal Auditors are now in Columbiana, checking records to find out when Federal Funds should be allocated to Shelby County schools.

A normal term of school for Shelby County is assured by State Superintendent Keller and Governor Bibb Graves, according to information obtained in a letter written to Supt. J. L. Appleton..

COUNTY DEATHS REPORTED DURING THE PAST MONTH

Noah Richard Coker, Calera Rt. No. 2, January 19th.

Sidney Fletcher Nelson, Columbiana, February 13th.

M. K. Taylor, Calera, January 24th.

William Henry Bryman, Shelby, January 31st.

Jesse Miller, Boothton, January 2.

S. L. Wooten, Siluria Rt. No. 1, January 12th.

Charles Monroe Dinwiddie, Montevallo, January 7th.

Herbert Donis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wooten, Sr., Calera, January 14th.

Haskell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abie Robinson, Wilton, January 9th.

Henry Thomas, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Green, Maylene Rt. No. 1, January 11th.

Mrs. Bedy Annette Nelson, Columbiana, February 13th.

Mrs. Martha Frances Drummond, Calcis, December 13th.

Mrs. Mary L. Jones, Helena Rt. No. 1, January 27th.

Mrs. Susan Florence Commun, Shelby Rt. No. 1, January 24th.

Mrs. Arminda Dyer, Wilsonville, January 15th.

Mrs. Mary Lizzie Bishop, Helena Rt. No. 1, January 7th.

Mrs. George A. Woods, Calera, January 17th.

Mildred Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Print, Calera, Jan. 12th.

EX-SERVICE MEN INVITED TO HEAR BILL PRITCHARD

CALERA, Ala.—Every ex-service man in the county is invited to the Calera School House on Friday night, February 22, to hear State Commander Bill Pritchard lecture on the Bonus and other Legion affairs.

Coffee and sandwiches will be served—FREE. (Signed)

Ware-Crim Post No. 56,
Guy Roberts, Adjutant.

MR. AND MRS. F. D. NELSON CALLED BY DEATH, FEB. 13TH

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Nelson, prominent pioneer citizens of Shelby County, and residents of Columbiana, passed away at their home on Wednesday, February 13, 1935.

Services were conducted from the Methodist Church, the Rev. H. M. Hurst and T. K. Roberts officiating. Interment in the Columbiana Cemetery, Walton in charge.

Surviving Mr. and Mrs. Nelson are five children, Miss Ruby Nelson, of Columbiana; Talmadge Nelson, of Birmingham; Mrs. H. Archie, of Westover; Mrs. S. Jackson, of Birmingham and H. Nelson, of Clanton.

The Democrat extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

PLAY TO BE PRESENTED IN CALERA, FEB. 26TH

CALERA, Ala.—Stop, look and listen—the play, "Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick", will be given in the Calera Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock on next Tuesday night, February 26th. Admission 10 and 15 cents. Added attraction—Wilsonville String Band. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

LACKEY QUARTETTE TO BE AT BETHEL CHURCH

BETHEL, Ala.—The Lackey Quartette will give a concert at Bethel Church, February 23rd. The proceeds will be used to help pay on the singing school fund.

Everyone is invited to come and bring your friends. We assure you of having a good time and plenty of fun. Admission: 10 and 20 cents.

REGULAR SERVICES NOW AT MT. OLIVE CHURCH

Regular monthly meetings are now being held at Mt. Olive Church. Services are held on the first Saturday and Sunday in each month. Visiting ministers will conduct the services in March.

INTERESTING PERSONALITIES

By

Mildred White Wallace

HON. JOHN J. HAYNES,
Assistant Attorney General,
State of Alabama,
Montgomery, Alabama.

On Sunday, February 17, Columbiana citizens had the happy privilege of extending sincere greetings and a cordial welcome to one of her most beloved former residents, the Hon. John J. Haynes, of Montgomery, Alabama, who had graciously accepted an invitation, issued by Judge W. W. Wallace, to be the guest-teacher of the Men's Bible Class in the Baptist Church.

Judging from first hand information received from members of this excellent group of men, who heard the able discourse this distinguished attorney brought them, I know no troop of adjectives in my army of words are adequate to describe their deep appreciation for his visit, and the personal interest he manifested in them on this occasion.

Not since I have been engaged in pen point paragraphing a personal sketch of various Shelby County celebrities, has it been my good fortune to chronicle an article about a life long FRIEND. It is far more difficult than merely sketching verbally, some one whom you know, casually, or by reputation.

A true FRIEND is God's greatest gift to mankind—and hard to describe. You cannot mechanically tabulate in printers ink just what you would like to express about one who has been so steadfastly true and loyal through all the years that have gone, since we travelled the same road here as neighbors and friends. It is easy to say how we love new friends and what we think of them, but neither distance nor the passing of years can ever trace out all the fibres interwoven with the sharing of mutual joys and sorrows, that knit us to the old. So, my task in presenting Mr. Haynes to you is so firmly bound with ties of sacred association, that memories of former days come crowding up for review and the personal retrospective panaroma rather over shadows "facts and figures" in which you are now interested.

Fortunately, Mr. Haynes, needs no introduction to readers of the Democrat, or to Shelby County residents. However, a few "new comers" to "Your Main Street and Mine", who heard his excellent talk, Sunday, have asked for a bit of personal background. We learn the following:

John J. Haynes was born in Lineville, Alabama, the son of the late W. D. Haynes, prominent Banker of Clay County. He received his early education in the schools of his native County, later completing his academic and law courses at Howard College and University of Alabama. He began to practice the legal profession in Ashland, Alabama, and remained there for six years. In 1904. Mr. Haynes moved to Columbiana, and formed a law partnership with the late D. R. McMillan. Gov. B. B. Comer, then appointed him Solicitor of the Law and Equity Court of Shelby County. In 1911, the firm of Haynes and Wallace was perfected. In 1917, this partnership was dissolved and both became members of the firm of Leeper, Haynes and Wallace. In 1924, W. B. Brandon appointed Mr. Haynes, Solicitor for the 18th Judicial Circuit. After his term of office expired as Solicitor, he received, from Attorney General Charlie McCall, the appointment of Assistant Attorney General of the State of Alabama, in which capacity he continued to serve under the administration of Thomas E. Knight. In January, 1935, this signal honor was again conferred on Mr. Haynes by Attorney General, Albert C. Carmichael.

"Has success and the realization of his ambitious dreams changed, "JOHN"?—some old friends have asked? I emphatically state "NO"! The genuine happiness Mr. Haynes expressed in his own genial and jocular way, over having the opportunity of again being in Columbiana, had a ring of sincerity that left no lingering doubt in our minds about his everlasting love and appreciation for his friends here who so heartily welcomed him HOME again, Sunday.

Rest assured as long as John J. Haynes remains in the Attorney General's office in Montgomery. Shelby County citizens have a FRIEND on Capitol Hill.

Democrat Write...

Register In Chancery 7-5-35

CARTER FIELD
Whose Illuminating Washington Letters Appear In This Paper.

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN,
Calera, Alabama

The fifth District High School Basket Ball Tournament is to be played at the Howard Gym in Birmingham beginning February 21st. Three teams from Shelby County have entered the tournament. Vincent High plays Minor today. Siluria plays West Jefferson for the first game and Montevallo begins with her old opponent, the Bessemer High team. The finals will be played Saturday night.

The Shelby Initiation Tournament, scheduled to begin March 1st, has been cancelled. The promoters find that it is against the rules of the State Athletic Association for High Schools to participate and they do not believe there are enough Junior Teams with which to play the tournament. It is with regret that we learned this tournament could not be held.

Montevallo High School defeated the Columbiana Independent Basketball team at Calera, February 15, 35 to 19. On this same night the Calera Juniors defeated the Montevallo High School team 20 to 16. The Calera Juniors took another victory, in a very hotly contested game, from the Montevallo Scrub team again on Saturday night. The Montevallo first team lost to Jemison High on the same night. The line-ups and summaries follow:

Montevallo (35)—Milstead (10), and W. Eddins (7), forwards; Woods (7), center; Findley (4) and J. Eddins (7), guards; Wilson and Clark, subs.

Columbiana (19)—L. Crumpton (3) and Martin (1), forwards; Rayfield (12), center; Davis and M. Crumpton (3), guards; Kirkland, substitute.

Calera Juniors (20)—Lucas (1), and Blankenship (6), forwards; Findley, center; Comer (4), and Kennedy (3), guards; Samples and Cook (6), substitutes.

Montevallo Scrubs (16)—Clark (5), and Wilson (7), forwards; Jones, center; Wm. Kroell (2), and Green (2), guards; Walton Kroell, sub.

Calera Juniors (18)—Lucas (5) and Blankenship (1), forwards; Kennedy (4), center; Comer (4) and Cook (4), guards; Findley, sub.

Montevallo Scrubs (17)—Wilson (10) and Clark (6), forwards; Jones (1), center; Green and Wm. Kroell, guards; Walton Kroell and Villadsen, substitutes.

Montevallo (9)—W. Eddins (2) and Milstead (5), forwards; Woods, center; J. Eddins and Findley (2), guards.

Jemison (21)—T. Cobb (10) and J. Cobb (4), forwards; Busby (3), center; R. Elliott and C. Ellison (4), guards.

Zeigler's Five Little Pigs, of Bessemer, won over Calera Independents at Bessemer. It was a very close game; Zeigler's have a very strong team and they are champions of the Bessemer City League. Sunnybrook Dairy is to play the Calera team, February 21st, at Calera.

Calera Independents	24
Zeigler's Little Pigs	29

Calera Independents	14
Mignon	34

Calera Independents Girls	13
Mignon Girls	21

Thompson continued her winning streak last week by defeating the Pelham Community Club on Wednesday, 10 to 6 and following it up Friday with a battle with Piper. R. E. Lee did some outstanding playing in both games. Good playing was also done by G. Bentley for Pelham, and Payne and Pat Lee for Piper; Mullins and Hodges for Thompson were brilliant players in the Piper game.

Thompson Girls defeated Helena Girls in an exciting game Friday, on Helena's Court. The game was played immediately following a shower and there was plenty of mud for the girls.

TO SUBSCRIBERS OF THE DEMOCRAT

We again call your attention to the "Yellow Label" on which your name appears on this paper, and ask that you send in your delinquent subscription or renewal to Shelby County's Leading Newspaper.

We appreciate your continued interest and loyalty, and we are endeavoring to merit same by giving you the best features we can obtain for you. Political information covering the Nation, State and County—Social and Local news from your respective communities, a Kiddies Kolumn. Heart Drifts, and a Serial Story, in fact something for each member of your family is sent to you each week. Other new features are now being planned for the summer months. Is not this service worth $1.00 per year to you?

Let us hear from you.

CROWD IS PRESENT TO HEAR LOCKE

Judge Hugh Locke, of Birmingham, Alabama, addressed a crowd of several hundred representative citizens from Shelby County in the Auditorium of the Court house on Sunday afternoon.

Judge Locke made a forceful appeal to the people of the County to cast their vote against the Repeal of the present Prohibition Laws in the State, citing the unfavorable conditions existing in various States in the union which had repealed the Prohibition laws. Congregational singing and short talks by local pastors brought the meeting to a close.

COUNTY TEACHERS ... HERE FOR MEETING FEB. 16TH

The Shelby County Teachers' Meeting was held in Columbiana, Saturday, February 16th, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Mr. Franks, of Wilsonville. Mr. Appleton talked to the group about repair of school buildings, keeping the buildings in good order and improving the grounds at all schools. He also talked some about Federal Aid.

A group of high school girls under the direction of Miss Saylor, of Alabama Colelge, gave a Physical Education Demonstration.

The extension class, led by Miss Boyd, discussed the teaching of history and geography. The High School group, under Mr. Anderson, discussed Courses of Study, text books and adopting these suggestions to our work in the county.

Mrs. Walton had charge of the elementary group, spending some time in checking on problems that had presented themselves since the last meeting. Miss Neighbors, who represented W. S. Benson and Company, gave many helpful suggestions in writing.

Mr. Allen had charge of the Teachers' Organization, called for reports of committees and attended to the business part of the meeting.

The group was very fortunate in having with them Dr. Carmichael, of Alabama College. He gave a most interesting and instructive talk on the history of education in our country and some views of the future work of our schools.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Breach Widens Between Administration and Labor—Hauptmann Sentenced to Death—Inquiries Into Causes of Macon Disaster Get Under Way.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT extended no olive branches toward the American Federation of Labor when he signed the cigarette industry code, which labor leaders had declared was "unsatisfactory." The breach between the administration and labor is daily growing wider.

S. Clay Williams

The code, finally signed after months of argument between the tobacco industry and labor, calls for a forty-hour week and minimum wages from 25 to 40 cents an hour. Labor leaders also objected to the presence of S. Clay Williams, administration board chairman, who they declare is not in sympathy with labor. The President issued a curt statement informing the federation council that Williams' services had been satisfactory and that he had no intention of removing him without cause.

The executive council of the federation, composed of William Green and presidents of the federation of seventeen international unions, states that some present administration labor policies are bringing increased unrest among workers which may reach the danger point of widespread strikes unless corrected.

Thus far, the President seems to have had the best of the argument. Labor leaders, however, are expected to push the fight for a "prevailing wage" clause in work relief legislation, thus endangering the administration program.

INQUIRIES into the causes of the "quiver" which ripped away the two gas cells and caused the giant dirigible "Macon" to plunge into the Pacific has been started. Even the surviving 81 officers and men of the "Sky Queen" are not certain just what caused the catastrophe, although Lieut. Com. H. V. Wiley, survivor of the Akron disaster and master of the Macon, was said to have "some ideas" about it. His findings will be placed before the board of inquiry.

Some hints were made about structural weakness of the $2,450,000 craft, but naval officers refused to discuss the subject. In Washington President Roosevelt said there would be no immediate move to replace the ship.

Survivors of the crash told a dramatic story of heroism. Cruising along at a speed of 63 knots, the ship twice lowered its elevation to avoid rain squalls. A short jar was felt, the ship began to take a bow-up position, and Commander Wiley received a report that one of the 12 helium gas cells was gone. The Macon then rose rapidly to 4,600 feet, its nose sticking up at a sharp angle and then slowly sank toward the ocean as the crew made frantic efforts to right the lurching craft.

As it hit the ocean the crew slid down ropes or dived into the heavy swells. Men swam through flame where flares had ignited oil and gasoline, others rescued companions whose lifebelts were lost or broken in long leaps into the sea. The sailors watched the ship crumble under the waves and at last disappear. Only two men were lost. Cruisers rushed to the scene and picked up the survivors.

BRUNO HAUPTMANN will die in the electric chair at Trenton, N. J., during the week of March 18, unless attorneys secure a stay of execution by filing an appeal. The prisoner showed no trace of emotion as the jurors announced their verdict and did not break under the strain until after Justice Trenchard had pronounced sentence, and he was returned to the cell. There, his iron will gave way and he sobbed as he sat on his hard iron cot.

The jurors required more than 12 hours to reach their verdict. Two of the women were said to have held out for a recommendation of mercy which would have resulted in a life sentence for the man accused of the murder of the Lindbergh baby, but there was no mention of mercy when the verdict was read.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT eked out a close victory in the senate appropriations committee, when the amendment to cut $2,000,000,000 off the administration's $4,880,000,000 work relief bill was defeated by the close vote of 12 to 11. Administration forces scored another victory by the adoption of a compromise amendment to the proposal of Senator Pat McCarran for the payment of prevailing wages on all federal projects. Witnesses testified that McCarran's amendment would have increased the cost of putting 3,500,000 men to work by more than $2,000,000,000 and would have defeated the purpose of the bill.

McCarran did not press his amendment in committee when a substitute was offered, but insists that he will do so on the senate floor. The fight the American Federation of Labor is making on this point is expected to have considerable influence with a number of senators, who fear the wrath of their labor constituents.

The substitute, proposed by Senator Richard B. Russell, and adopted by a vote of 14 to 9, provides that the President shall establish the prevailing rates of pay whenever an investigation discloses that the federal wages of $50 a month are affecting adversely the rates on work of a similar nature. The matter is entirely up to the President, however, and he can take any action or withhold any investigation, just as he sees fit, which may mean much or nothing.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI found Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is a man not easily frightened. Il Duce's demands for indemnities for Italian colonials killed on the borders of Italian Somaliland were politely, but firmly, refused. The Ethiopians, undismayed by the vast preparations Italy has been making, declared they would fight to their last drop of blood to preserve their independence, that they would not apologize or make reparations for what they maintain is merely defense of their own country. This puts Mussolini in an embarrassing position. He must either send an expeditionary force against the Ethiopians, or back down after mobilizing troops, and that would be a bitter pill for the Italian dictator to swallow.

CHANCELLOR HITLER emerged from his hermit-like seclusion with a number of counter-proposals which he offered in reply to the Franco-British proposals. Der Fuehrer, a government spokesman stated, would definitely refuse to join any pact guaranteeing Austria's independence unless "the will of the Austrian people is first consulted" by means of a plebiscite to determine whether that nation desires an "anschluss" (union) with the German reich. Hitler will also follow Poland's stand, and will have nothing to do with the French-sponsored eastern securities agreement "if it is to be based on mutual assistance," although he is willing to join an air pact provided it allows Germany an air force equal to Soviet Russia's. Hitler seems particularly anxious to avoid any agreement which would bind Germany to Russia and perhaps result in aiding Russia in event of war between that country and Japan.

Chancellor Hitler

From the tone of Hitler's demands, he evidently did not entirely believe that France and Great Britain were not preparing some trap for him. The Hitler reply demands that Germany must be given absolute equality of armaments before anything else can be discussed, and that Germany will negotiate an air pact if her relations with Soviet Russia are considered, and if England, France, Belgium and Italy agree to consult each other before any action is taken. He also insists that the general question of disarmament is allied with the air pact and must be settled at the same time.

When notified that Der Reichfuehrer would make reservations, official British sources indicated that Germany must either accept or reject the agreement in its entirety, and stated partial acceptance would not be agreeable to Great Britain. All of which may be true, or it may be just the old horse-trading spirit which seems to break out in the best diplomatic circles.

DISPATCHES from Bolivia, which must be taken with several grains of salt, indicate that the Bolivians are meeting with success in defending Villa Montes, their last important stronghold in the disputed Gran Chaco, and that the scissors-like offensive of General Estigarribia, Paraguayan commander in chief, is seriously menaced. It was reported the Bolivians, struggling desperately to relieve the pressure on Villa Montes, had defeated the Paraguayans in the Nancorainza sector "after three days of bitter fighting." This offensive, it was thought, might force Estigarribia's northern wing to retreat.

FRANCIS BIDDLE and his national labor relations board took a hand in the controversy between the administration and the American Federation of Labor by offering a suggestion that section 7-A of the recovery act "should be clarified." William Green and his fellow leaders of the federation have long contended that the clause, guaranteeing employees rights to bargain collectively, should be enlarged to specify that the majority of employees should have the right to choose the spokesmen for all employees, and that company unions should be barred. The national labor board, which submitted a report of its first six months' work, defended the majority rule at length. As is well known, the administration desires section 7-A continued unchanged in the new NRA law which is in the process of making.

WITH the full approval of the administration, the army and navy are to receive $40,000,000 to carry out a program of national defense which will consist mainly of improved strongholds on the west coast and in the Pacific. The money, which will be shared equally by the two departments, comes from a $300,000,000 public works fund. Some of the navy's part will be spent along the Atlantic, but the greater part will go for shipyards, dry docks and bases on the Pacific coast, at Pearl harbor, Hawaii, and at Coco Solo, Canal Zone, which is a submarine base.

Nearly $11,000,000 of the army's share is to be used in beginning the construction of a great air base in Hawaii. The total cost of this base is estimated at $18,000,000.

The decision to use most of the money in the Pacific was said to have been influenced by the fact that the fleet has been concentrated in Pacific waters during much of the past two years. Navy officials stressed before the naval committee, that facilities on the coast are inadequate.

Japan is supposed not to be alarmed by this program, congressional leaders having given public and careful assurance that no "offense" is intended and that such propositions as the Hawaii air base would have been put forward even if Japan had not denounced the Washington naval treaty.

At a meeting of the army high command with the military committee of the house these plans for defense were threshed out thoroughly. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, recommended to the committee the purchase of 800 new armored and equipped airplanes at a cost of $90,000,000 to give the army the aerial armada of 2,320 modern aircraft recommended by the Baker aviation committee. These additional aircraft are necessary, MacArthur said in a memorandum, to expand the new general headquarters air force to give it 900 fighting units, for its Pacific, Atlantic and central divisions.

Soon after this meeting the commanders of these three divisions were announced by Brig. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, head of the GHQ air force. Lieut. Col. H. H. Arnold, March field, Calif., was named commander of the first (Pacific) wing with the rank of brigadier general. Lieut. Col. H. C. Pratt, former assistant chief of air corps, was named commander of the second (Atlantic) wing at Langley field, Va., with the rank of brigadier general. Lieut. Col. Gerald C. Brant will command the third (central) wing, Fort Crockett, Texas, with the rank of colonel.

WHETHER he desires it, President Roosevelt will have to face an early test of his strength against that of bonus payment advocates, if present signs are read correctly. Although bonus leaders have been unable to agree among themselves, they insist the plan be brought up for consideration. Some administration leaders have expressed belief such a step is necessary to prevent a revolt on major administration legislation.

Wright Patman

The controversy over possible methods of payment is becoming increasingly bitter. Representative Patman, Texas Democrat, author of a bill to pay the bonus certificates with an issue of new currency, gave out a statement asserting that Commander Frank N. Belgrano of the American Legion wanted to finance payment with a bond issue because the bank of which he is vice president receives $1,350,000 in interest annually on $45,000,000 worth of government bonds.

The American Liberty league also issued a statement applauding the President's stand against paying the bonus. The league said the Legion-backed Vinson bill to finance the bonus through the sale of bonds was "the lesser evil," but asked congress to defeat both it and the Patman measure.

"The President's opposition to immediate payment of the entire face value of the bonus certificates is based on sound principles and deserves to be upheld," the organization added.

NINE old gentlemen of vast dignity, comprising the United States Supreme court, conferred together for five hours Saturday. Then, through Clerk Charles C. Cropley, Chief Justice Hughes announced that there would be no decisions handed down on the following Monday. Nothing was said about the rest of the week, but it was assumed the ruling on the gold clause cases would not be handed down before February 18. It was thought by the well informed that the delay was due to the slowness with which the dissenters were preparing their views.

Meanwhile anxiety over the matter, at least in government circles, was growing less daily. Attorney General Cummings spent two hours with President Roosevelt going over the plans which have been drawn up for immediate action in the event that the decision goes against the government.

ROME and Tokyo were the chief bidders for the 1940 Olympic games, and it now appears that the Japanese capital is likely to be the winner. Count Soyeshima, representative of the Japanese Olympic committee, had an interview with Premier Mussolini in Rome and talked him into a swap by which Japan will use its influence to obtain the 1944 games for Rome. The count said that at first Il Duce was not inclined to agree to the shift but softened under the plea the Olympics would mean much to Japan's celebration of the three thousand sixhundredth anniversary of the founding of the empire.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—Two tremendously important changes in the known factors of the Far Eastern situation are seriously worrying every nation which has any interest in that part of the world. These are: (1) Proof that Japanese can make good flyers, as proved in the recent hostilities in two widely separated portions of old China. (2) The fact that the Japanese are slowly but steadily extending northward, until they are within striking distance of the line of communications across Siberia.

Until recently, when the Japanese began their latest drive in north China, the Russians had a very powerful argument against Japan's provoking war. This was that the Russians had a strong bombing fleet of aircraft at Vladivostok and other points not too far from the big Japanese cities.

They still have. But conviction among military experts now is Japan would have to endure only one or at most two bad bombings. After that there would be no more bombs. For, in the meantime, the Jap army and Jap flyers starting from north China would effectually block the line of supply from European Russia to the Pacific ports.

A glance at the map in connection with the next news story about Japan's aggrandizing movement in north China will be very illuminating on this.

Still another disturbing fact is that the Japanese commanders in the field seem to have more leeway than any generals since the invention of telegraph. They do not bother to annoy Tokio with questions as to whether they should seize this or that territory. There is nothing new about this. It has been going on ever since Japan began to expand her influence in north China, in her long drive to take control of first one Chinese province and than another.

Misleading

Which has made it possible for the Japanese ambassador in Washington, or for that matter at Geneva, to deny many things for weeks after they had really happened. Then it would develop that Tokio had misled the ambassador because it had received no report from the army in the field.

So much so that aides under former Secretary of State Stimson used to complain, with a trace of sarcasm, that there should be a better understanding and exchange of communication between the war and foreign offices in Tokio.

The immediate importance of this situation, which seems to still exist, is that at any moment there is apt to be some clash in the Far East between Russians and Japanese, due to some Jap movement utterly unanticipated by the Japanese foreign office. And when something of this sort starts, sometimes it is impossible to control it.

Optimists say that Japan has discovered that Russia does not want to fight now, and therefore there will be no war for some time to come. Their theory is that Japan is very busy digesting the big pieces of north China she has bitten off, and acquiring additional pieces—a process which may take several years.

Pessimists point out that the Russians know perfectly well what the reason for Japan's extending her troops so far northward has been—to threaten the line of communications of Russia's Far Eastern air fleets. So they believe it unthinkable that Russia has not made some moves to circumvent this danger.

All of which—the arguments of both pessimists and optimists—is probably true. And the situation, as thus summed up, might readily mean only that there is a fair chance of continued postponement of real hostilities. The fly in the ointment is that unanticipated clash which may touch off the fireworks.

Then the big questions will be—can the United States, and the rest of the big nations, stay out?

Important Question

What is going to happen about July 1, when Chester C. Davis retires from running the Agricultural Adjustment administration is perhaps the most interesting question mark in the government at the moment.

Davis now has a free hand, with the backing of both President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. He was permitted to throw out the radicals and others he thought were obstructing the carrying out of his policies. But what will happen when he leaves?

The point, of course, is that the brain trust, so far as AAA is concerned, is temporarily in complete eclipse, but that no one knows definitely whether it will stay in eclipse or not.

Davis intends to build up an organization, planned to be permanent, during the five months he intends to serve yet. He thinks that by July 1 this organization will be capable of going ahead without an administrator. But, of course, it would be very simple for some follower of Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell to reverse all this after Davis is out. The question is whether the President and Wallace will permit it.

The answer lies entirely in what will happen between now and then. If removal of some of the theoretical policies, which proved restrictive on business, results in improvement in business in the lines affected, the Davis policies will continue triumphant long after Davis has gone. If there should be no improvement, it is likely that the brain trusters will be given a chance by the President to try out another scheme.

For the most important problem, now and for some time to come, on President Roosevelt's mind is how to get more men and women employed by private industry. It is no secret that he is somewhat disappointed at the failure of all his efforts to reduce substantially the number of unemployed. So that any scheme, which, without doing too much violence to his reform ideas, promises stimulation of private employment, is very appealing indeed. And will continue so.

Whereas any proposed handicaps on business which might result in a decrease of employment have to be mighty important to his reform program to make any appeal at the moment.

Jars President

This attitude on the part of the President has reached a new peak, in a way, in the last few days. That vote in the senate appropriations committee, which almost upset the apple cart so far as his big work relief program is concerned, was a bigger jar to the President than the vote on the World court. Far worse. And the vote was so close because some of the senators voting against the White House were anxious to hold down the total debt of the government. They were worried about the government's credit.

The President has not been much worried about that. He is convinced it is all right. So is Secretary Morgenthau. But he is very much worried over such an attitude developing on Capitol Hill. It may rise to bother him in any number of ways before this congress is over.

So that the problem has been made more difficult. It was: could the government spend its way back to prosperity before the danger point of spending was reached. Now it is: can the government spend its way back to prosperity before congress thinks the danger point has been reached. It is a very different question, and one to cause grief not only to the President, but Public Works Administrator Ickes, Relief Director Hopkins, Housing Director Moffett, and last but not least, Jesse Jones.

So much has been intimated about government opposition to this and that in business, proposed new taxes, harsh treatment for holding companies, etc., that it was thought a very good idea to indicate that in at least one important governmental unit, dealing with some pretty important lines of business, the government should take on a conservative tinge.

Work Relief Cash

New Deal officials, questioned by senate and house committees as to what would be done with the $4,800,000,000 lump sum being asked by President Roosevelt for work relief, have been compared by critics to Hauptmann witnesses in their vagueness and contradictions of testimony.

But the answer is very simple. Putting a man under oath and grilling him with great solemnity does not add anything to his information. If he really does not know, it is pretty hard for the shrewdest cross-examiner to find out.

The thing is complicated by a factor as old as tribal government, but which has led to newspapers getting things wrong in their stories ever since the early Romans chiseled bulletins on stone. This is the human desire on the part of officials not to admit that they really do not know what they are going to be told to do—that they are not really on the inside.

In this particular case there is no inside—so far. Mr. Roosevelt himself does not know what he is going to do with the money. He admits it frankly, but the boys on Capitol Hill do not believe it. They think he knows, but is not willing to tell them lest they hamstring him by earmarking too much of the money.

But there is that curious human tendency on the part of many of his lieutenants not to admit they do not know perfectly well what is going to be done. Especially after one of their number has given the implication, by his apparent evasion, that he really knows all about it, but cannot be forced to tell. For the next fellow then to admit that he did not know would be to give the public the idea that the first witness was really on the inside, but the second did not know what was going on, was no longer being consulted by the President, and had generally lost his place in the sun.

Remember Wilson Era

Old Washington correspondents remember the era of Woodrow Wilson and Joseph P. Tumulty in the White House, in the days after Joe's contacts with his chief had begun to wane.

Old friends in the newspaper business would ask Tumulty what the President would do on some important matter. Tumulty would reply that he could not discuss that. Which was literally and actually true. Then the correspondents, by shrewd leading of the conversation around a circle and bringing it back, would find out what Joe thought ought to be done.

Next morning would appear long positive stories about what the President would do. They would be based on what Joe had said. Sometimes, in fact, quite frequently, they were right. For Tumulty had studied Wilson so closely, and admired him so tremendously, that he at least achieved what might be called a Wilsonian approach to a given subject.

But often they were wrong, and then there was no recourse. It was the fault of the newspaper men, not Tumulty. He had not purposely misled them.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE SHOULD BE LIQUID

(Ask any doctor)

For your own comfort, and for your children's safety and future welfare, you should read this:

The bowels cannot be helped to regularity by any laxative that can't be regulated as to dose. That is why doctors use liquid laxatives.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative dose gives the right amount of help. When repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. Every druggist has it.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Self-Punishment

To be angry is to punish myself for another's fault.—Goethe.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

DO YOU NEED PEP?

Mrs. R. H. Hanner of 2910 Norwich St., Brunswick, Ga., said: "I started taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because my system lacked strength and I thought this tonic would build me up. I took one bottle and soon felt myself growing stronger—I gained in every way."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering impurities from the blood stream. But kidneys get functionally disturbed—lag in their work—fail to remove the poisonous body wastes.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains; feel "all worn out."

Don't delay! For the quicker you get rid of these poisons, the better your chances of good health.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They tend to promote normal functioning of the kidneys; should help them pass off the irritating poisons. Doan's are recommended by users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff -Stops Hair Falling

Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair

60c and $1.00 at Druggists.

Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO — Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

Standard Table Model RADIO

If under seventy send your name, age and ten prospects. Radio to each first thousand accepted for $660.00 protection. If your application not accepted, will pay $5.00 for prospects. Funds immediately available for all claims. Assessments costing about 80c monthly. No obligation in answering. Reference any bank here.

FREE

FEDERAL MUTUAL ASSURANCE ASSN. Box 1467 - Shreveport, La.

FRECKLES VANISHED ALMOST instantly. Secret that banishes those hateful freckles for good. Send 50c. CALEB MARTIN, BOX 673, PECOS TEXAS.

WANTED TO BUY

CONFEDERATE and U. S. postage before 1870; preferably on envelopes; some worth dollars; write or send stamps; prompt pay. T. E. SPENCER, MOSS POINT, MISS.

EARN AT HOME—WRITE FOR PAY

10,000 men and women not now engaged in news-writing will in 1935 be earning income through writing for newspapers, trade papers and magazines. "Writing for Pay the Newspaper Way," by Walter C. Bowick will show you how in 3 hours or money refunded. Third edition sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00.

PRESS REPORTING SYNDICATE Box 134, Dept. B - Nashville, Tenn.

WE NEED A MAN

in this territory to sell our line Asbestos Roof Coating, a guaranteed waterproofing liquid. If you have car and interested in earning $50 per week or more, write

H. CLAY JOHNSON

Post Office Box 789, Fort Worth, Texas.

WNU—8 8—35

KILL THEM TODAY RATS MICE COCKROACHES use STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE

ASK YOUR DEALER NOW IN TUBES 35c

GOLDEN DAWN

By PETER B. KYNE

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, sound asleep, curled up on the guest-room bed.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

—15—

"Did your men scout the street in front of this house before pulling up in front of it?" asked McNamara sharply.

"Certainly. We circled the block twice."

"Feed our Nance, Lanny," McNamara urged happily. "She's a smart girl. How's the shoulder, dearie?"

"Fine. It'll be O. K. in another week."

"So am I." Mr. McNamara grinned horribly. "Flynn's home eating his dinner now, and Angelloti must be on guard in that alley. I'm going to mistake Angelloti for a suspicious character, lurking there in the dark—and put a mark on him so I can recognize him later. He just can't stand to mix it with me, and get recognized, of course, so when he runs I'll fire in the air. He'll know who I am but he'll never suspect I know who he is."

McNamara bade Nance, Lanny and Stephen goodnight and hurried away in a taxi. A block from his home he alighted and walked down the side of the street opposite his own house. He was whistling softly as he came abreast of Angelloti's hiding place, where he turned at right angles, apparently with the intention of crossing in the middle of the street to his own house. A step from the curb he halted, turned, bent his head in a listening attitude, then stepped resolutely into the alley.

"Who's there?" he demanded. Receiving no answer, he got out a small flashlight; he seemed to have some difficulty flashing it on, for he cursed softly, and suddenly a beam from the flashlight illuminated his own face for an instant, but long enough, he decided, to permit the watchful Angelloti to recognize him. The alley was empty, but in a little garden strip a large syringa bush grew, and instinct warned the chief that his prey was behind it. So he walked past it, his flashlight held close to the bush, and as he had anticipated, it was snatched from him. As he turned, one of his stout legs was jerked from under him by a man crouching low; so, before permitting himself to topple backward, McNamara dropped his good right arm to the level of his knee and swung a short, stabbing punch. He felt a cheekbone and the side of a nose; so he punched again, a little higher up, and then fell over backward. Instantly his assailant rose and fled like a doe.

"Halt! I'm an officer," McNamara shouted, and fired into the air. But the running man did not even hesitate. In the morning he sent for Angelloti for a report on a certain case, and was charmed to note a faintly lemonish spot on the Italian's left cheek and a very noticeable iridescence under the left eye. The chief grinned. "What does the other fellow look like, Angie?" he queried innocently. "He couldn't have been more'n a flyweight or he'd have done more damage! How come you let some runt one-two you like that?"

"It was a dame I picked up for drunkenness," Angelloti lied with the glibness of long practice.

Following some discussion of the report, McNamara dismissed him, and sat down to decide what to do with Nance Belden. That Flynn and Angelloti were keeping his house under surveillance he knew now; undoubtedly they would enter his house at the earliest favorable opportunity.

The chief wondered what he would do if he stood in the shoes of his two detectives. "I'd wait for a night when I wouldn't be disturbed for a couple of hours," he decided. "What night would that be? Why, Thursday night, when the board of police commissioners meet and I am in attendance there. Stephen will make his usual early evening call—and as soon as he leaves the house those two will slip into it. The cellar door, of course. I'll make it easy for them. I'll leave the door unlocked."

He concluded that until then, Nance would be safe at Lanny's house. In the meantime, however, he must arrange to get her out of the city at an early date. The detectives were both absolutely satisfied Lanny had once given Nance sanctuary for a brief period; trust them, therefore, to keep an eye on Lanny's house.

He had in his office a telephone line that did not connect with the private exchange system in the central station, so he called Lanny on his phone at Doctor Burt's office now.

"Dan speaking, Lanny. Tomorrow morning you had better buy our pet nuisance a lot of clothes, so she'll be all ready to get out of town when I send for her. I think I'll have to fly her out and down to Tia Juana, Lower California."

"What will she do there?"

"I don't know. We'll think about that when she gets there. At least my two dicks won't be there and Tia Juana is one place where that saddle nose of hers won't surprise anybody. And when she acts rough and tough in Tia Juana nobody will pay any attention to her. They have experts down there in that line."

"I'll think that Tia Juana stunt over," Lanny decided. "It has possibilities. Is there a good hospital there?"

"I don't think so. Why?"

"You numbskull, Dan McNamara! We have to find a quiet hospital where we can have her poor nose operated on."

"Well, if we can get her beezer restored and change that black bob of hers to a movie-tone gold, she could take Flynn and Angelloti out to dinner and they'd never suspect her."

"Stevie says her nose must be operated on first. Her present state of dissociated personality probably started in an inferiority complex, and the inferiority complex probably arose out of the knowledge that her nose made her unlovely. When it's safe to bring her back to this city, Stevie will take her soul out and look at it, dust it off, put it back and do a Little Jack Horner."

"Can he do that?" McNamara's heavy voice was freighted with awe.

"He can, provided he can find a starting point for his investigation into her past life. There is always a reason for a dissociated personality. The ground for the mental shock that causes it is usually prepared long before the psychosis occurs. Rebellious thoughts, unhappiness, brooding—all these eventually have a serious effect upon sensitive and highly intelligent people and particularly, women of the hysterical type."

"All women are hysterical," McNamara said with conviction.

"You're a dear booby, Dan. Eight women out of ten can throw a fit of hysterics as easily as you'd break an egg, particularly if there is a man to be impressed. They never simulate hysterics to impress a woman, however, because they know better. However, there are women who have hysterics that are real, but it has been the experience of this office that most of these are just a trifle balmy—neurotics."

"Well, you get our girl a trousseau and warn her to keep away from the window and not to answer the doorbell, or do any telephoning, or leave the house until she has my permission. I don't expect she'll obey, so tonight when you go home have some hysterics to impress her."

"Dan, dear, I couldn't. I'm hard as a picnic egg. Did you stage your little comedy after leaving us last night?"

"I did—and it worked out exactly."

"Good gracious. Well, I'm busy. Good-by."

Nance Belden's personalities were a source of keen professional interest to Lanny, who regretted that for the present Doctor Burt was unable to share her observations with her. She had, as yet, had no opportunity for ascertaining anything regarding the girl's past history, but she had a suspicion that Nance had had advantages superior to most girls.

Her hands were the very first thing (with the exception of her poor wrecked nose) that Lanny had noticed. They were soft, shapely, small and well kept, decidedly not the hands of a factory girl. While her vocabulary was a trifle "salty," running at times to the idiom of the ill bred and ignorant, her voice was soft, with well bred intonations. Her clothing, on the occasion of her visit to Stephen Burt's office, had been, in Lanny's judgment, in splendid taste; rich but not flashy, up to the mode but not beyond it. Then, too, Nance had a slow, leisurely walk, she knew how to enter a room, she was sure of herself at all times without display assurance. To Lanny, the girl, in his abandoned moments, appeared to be amateurish, a bit of a showoff, unreal.

Thus far she had observed the girl only in this showoff phase of her personality. She was amazed, therefore, on coming home from the office after her conversation with McNamara, to find her a complete changeling. As she entered the house she caught the odor of cooking, and going into the kitchen, she discovered Nance, with one of Lanny's kitchen aprons on her, preparing dinner.

"Good evening, Lanny dear," she saluted her hostess. "It occurred to me it must be a very great trial to you, coming home night after night from the office, tired, and having to prepare dinner for yourself. I'm sure you're too tired most of the time to prepare more than a very sketchy meal, and that isn't good for you." She smiled. "So I thought I'd have a nice dinner for you."

"Now, I call that real sweet, Nance."

"My name isn't Nance, Lanny. It's Penelope."

"Penelope what?"

"Penelope Gatlin. Silly old Lanny, how could you forget?"

"You've placed your finger on my dread secret, Penelope. When I'm tired my memory fails me."

Lanny knew that during the day a psychological door had opened and Nance Belden, otherwise personality B, the abnormal, had walked through it and emerged Penelope Gatlin, or personality A, the normal. Also, she knew now that Penelope Gatlin probably had more or less amnesia for her former personality as Nance Belden. Lanny had heard Doctor Burt discuss such rare cases and she glowed with pride in the knowledge that at least he had secured a perfect specimen.

"I decided we wouldn't have broiled lamb chops, Lanny," the girl went on brightly, "so I've made a ragout."

"You mean, in good old Americanese, you've concocted an Irish stew."

"You're so amusing, Lanny. A stew, of course. The difference between a stew and a ragout is entirely geographic. A ragout in France, an Irish stew in the United States."

"Have you lived in France?"

"Eight years, Lanny. Went to school in Switzerland and learned French there."

"Are your people French?"

"I think I was there alone." The girl appeared puzzled. "I don't remember my mother, but I had a father. He was such a dear, but he's dead."

"Were you happy there?"

"No, I was perfectly miserable."

"Why?"

"Because my father wasn't with me. We'd been such pals."

"But you must have lived with somebody."

"There was Laurette, the cook, and Babette, the maid."

"Did you graduate?"

"No, I left school when father died. He was killed in a motor accident en route to Europe. I've always had a feeling he was coming over to see his Penelope. He loved me very much, Lanny. He was adorable. He used to tell me that I was all that made his life bearable. Somebody—I forgot who—told me he wasn't my real father, that I was a foundling he adopted. I wouldn't believe that at first, but when I read his will I knew it was so."

"What sort of woman was his wife—or did he have one?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, but I remember the will stated very positively that he had settled with her, that she had accepted the settlement in full satisfaction of her dower rights, and he made my income from the trust just sufficient to support me decently until I should come of age. He said in his will that he did this not because of any lack of affection for me, but because if he made me an excessive allowance, his divorced wife would have control of it during my minority. He must have despised her."

"Well, if she could have control of your income during your minority, she must have been your adopted mother," the practical Lanny reasoned. "And you must have lived with her following the divorce. That's why you didn't see your father in Europe. You must have been there with your foster mother. Laurette, the cook, and Babette, the maid, argue an establishment. Do you remember everything that has happened to you since that day Dan McNamara brought you to Doctor Burt's office?"

"Perfectly."

"Ever have funny thoughts about it?"

The girl stared at her shrewdly. "How strange that you should ask that question, Lanny. I do have funny thoughts. Sometimes I'm horrified at the memory and could die of shame; at other times it seems perfectly all right, but those are the times when I've been nervous and sleepless; sometimes I think there's something wrong with me, because people often refer to me as Nance Belden and to things I've done and which I know very well I haven't done. And yet it seems to me sometimes as if I had—just a wraith of memory, like an old dream. But still I'm strong and healthy."

"But a little given to spells of nervousness?"

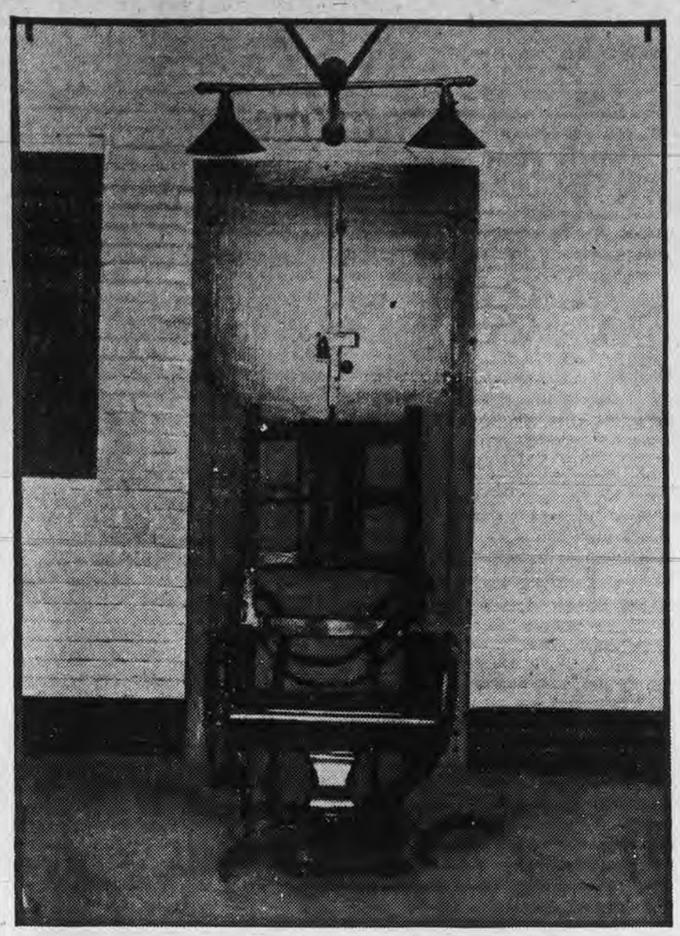
"I'm moody." The girl seemed interested in herself to an unusual degree. "Some days I like to do things that are perfectly intolerable to me on other days. Some days I'm so democratic I could go out to dinner with a garbage man—other times I can't bear to be with anybody but nice people." She sighed and turned to inspect her savory ragout. "I wish I knew what I wanted in life and I wish I knew somebody that wanted me. Of course I can pay my way through life, but it's terrible to be lonely, Lanny."

She faced Lanny again. "Now, when I decided to cast myself on your hospitality, Lanny, it seemed to me the most natural thing in the world to do. But today I'm covered with confusion. I've deliberately imposed myself upon your peace and privacy."

"Listen here, Penny, my dear. You aren't the only lonely woman in this world. Believe it or not, the first spring buttercup isn't a bit more welcome in old lady Lanning's house than you are."

The lost one beamed upon her. "I believe that Lanny. Oh, Lanny, when I'm happy I'm so happy and when I'm wretched I'm so wretched."

"You think too much about that nose of yours, my poor child."



The girl's hand flew to that organ (automatically, Lanny thought) as if she would hide it. "Isn't it terrible?" she quavered. "I'm so ugly nobody can ever love me."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

2,340 Acres for Graves

London's burial grounds cover 2,340 acres.

Hauptmann Will Die in This Chair

In this grim chair Bruno Richard Hauptmann will die for the murder of little Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.; the final chapter of the greatest manhunt ever staged. But for the alertness of a young gasoline station attendant, Hauptmann might still be free. The attendant remembered the murderer's auto license number after receiving a $10 ransom note from him. This tiny bit of evidence started the investigators on the trail that finally led to Hauptmann's arrest and conviction, and that finally brought him to the electric chair.

HAUPTMANN FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Prisoner's Calm Breaks; He Weeps in Cell After Hearing Sentence.

By W. C. WEBBER

FLEMINGTON, N. J. — Richard Bruno Hauptmann must die in the electric chair. A jury of his peers has found him guilty of murder in the first degree without recommendation of mercy, thus ending the most sensational trial of modern history, and the cold, stolid German carpenter must forfeit his life for that of the golden-haired Lindbergh baby he is convicted of having murdered after kidnaping the child on the night of March 1, 1932.

Although Justice Thomas W. Trenchard immediately sentenced the defendant to die during the week of March 18, it is possible that this may be delayed. Attorney Edward J. Reilly for the defense announced that an appeal would be taken and it is almost certain that this will stay the execution until late in May.

The four women and eight men making up the jury left the courtroom at 11:14 o'clock in the morning. Hour after hour passed with rumors flying everywhere—"eleven to one for conviction"—"a deadlocked jury"—"holding out for acquittal." At 10:25 in the evening the bell on the Hunterdon county courthouse begins tolling, the sound carrying far out over the Jersey hills. The mob massed in front of the courthouse starts yelling.

Hauptmann is led in. He talks to one of his lawyers for a few minutes. Evidently the strain of waiting for the verdict is beginning to tell on him as his face is damp with perspiration. His wife, the faithful Anna, whose belief in her husband's innocence has never wavered, comes in and takes a seat near him. They exchange no words. Hauptmann sits staring straight ahead.

Then the jury enters through the library door and takes its place in the jury box. The verdict is evident from the expressions on the jurors' faces. The women are all red-eyed with weeping. They sit and wait. Edward Reilly stands nervously smoothing his hair with his hand—his opponent, Attorney General Wilentz, whose vigorous prosecution of this trial, has aroused the admiration of veteran criminal lawyers everywhere, paces up and down as they wait for the judge.

Then the room becomes curiously still. The clerk calls the roll of the jury and the jurors stand in the box, and Hauptmann is ordered to stand also. The clerk asks:

"Mr. Foreman, have you agreed upon a verdict?"

Charles Walton, the foreman, a former baseball player, now a machinist, forty-four years old, answers:

"We have."

Walton reads the verdict:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder in the first degree."

Then he hands a little slip of paper to the clerk who reads it again, and asks:

"So say you all?"

There is a murmured chorus of "yes" from the eight men and four women, but then the clerk calls the roll and each juror replies that his or her verdict is "guilty of murder in the first degree."

Hauptmann resumes his seat. Then Wilentz briefly moves for immediate sentence of the defendant. Justice Trenchard orders Hauptmann to stand again, and in a matter of fact tone of voice says:

"The court will now proceed to impose sentence.

"It is, therefore, the sentence of this court that the defendant shall be put to death during the week beginning March 18, 1935, in the manner and place indicated by law. You are remanded to the custody of the sheriff."

It is all over.

Nervy to the last, Hauptmann receives his death sentence without outward demonstration. His guards begin moving toward the door. Hauptmann's eyes seek those of his wife sitting at the counsel table trying to fight back her tears. He says nothing, just looks at her, and then disappears through the door.

Bruno Hauptmann

It was not until he was in his cell that the man, whom Wilentz said had "ice water in his veins," cracked. Faced with the grim reality of the death penalty, he sat on the edge of his hard iron cot and wept. His iron will had stood the strain as long as it could.

Even the mob howling its approval of the death sentence would have felt sympathy for Anni Hauptmann the plain, haggard woman, as she sat there motionless while the jurors intoned:

"Guilty of murder in the first degree."

The woman who clung to her husband when all the world seemed to accuse him of this most horrible of crimes, the woman who had worked in a bakery even after her husband had thousands of dollars of ransom money in his possession, who knew nothing of his ill-gotten hoard, kept her eyes straight ahead as the verdict was announced. Her eyes were fixed only on her husband as he went through the door on the journey that will finally lead to the grim death chamber of Trenton prison. Then only did the tears of relief come.

Neither Colonel Lindbergh nor the members of his family were in the courtroom as the death sentence was passed. A close friend of the family explained that after the judge had read his charge to the jury, Lindbergh felt that he had done everything possible, and that there was nothing to be gained by his presence. The family awaited the verdict at the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, and news was phoned them direct from Flemington.

Little hope was felt for Hauptmann's acquittal after Justice Trenchard's charge to the jury was read. The justice told the jurors they could return three possible verdicts—murder in the first degree, the same with recommendation of life imprisonment or acquittal.

Brief and to the point, the final charge paid particular attention to the disputed reliability of the important state witnesses, Dr. John F. "Jafsie" Condon and Amandus Hochmuth, and to the defense theories that a gang perpetrated the kidnaping and that the dead Isidor Fisch gave Hauptmann the ransom money.

On the state's important ladder evidence, the court asked the jurors:

"Does not the evidence satisfy you that at least a part of the wood from which the ladder was built came out of the flooring of the attic of the defendant?"

"If you find that the murder was committed by the defendant in perpetrating a burglary it is murder in the first degree, even though the killing was unintentional."

The court added:

"If there is a reasonable doubt that the murder was committed by the defendant in perpetrating a burglary, he must be acquitted.

"If you find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree you may, if you see fit, by your verdict and as a part thereof, recommend imprisonment at hard labor for life."

An important point brought up in the charge was the place of murder. The court charged the jury that it might conclude the baby's sleeping garment was stripped from it at the point where the nurse, Betty Gow, said she found its thumbguard. This was important to the state because the baby's body was found in Mercer county, and Hauptmann was charged with murder in Hunterdon county.

David T. Wilentz

In reviewing the ransom negotiations, and Doctor Condon's part, Justice Trenchard said:

"Of course, if there is in the minds of the jury a reasonable doubt as to the truth of any testimony, such testimony should be rejected, but, upon the whole, is there any doubt in your mind as to the reliability of Doctor Condon's testimony?"

Trenchard said:

"It is argued that Colonel Lindbergh could not have identified that voice and that it is unlikely that the defendant would have talked with Condon. Well, those questions are for the determination of this jury."

As to the gang theory, the court said:

"It is argued by defendant's counsel that the kidnaping and murder was done by a gang with the help or connivance of some one or more servants of the Lindbergh or Morrow households.

"Now, do you believe that? Is there any evidence in this case whatsoever to support any such conclusion?

"Does it not appear that many thousands of dollars of ransom bills were found in his garage, hidden in the walls or under the floor, that others were found on his person when he was arrested and others passed by him from time to time.

"The defendant says that these ransom bills, moneys, were left with him by one Isidor Fisch, a man now dead. Do you believe that?"

He told the jury it might also consider the evidence that shortly after the delivery of the ransom Hauptmann began to purchase stock and spend more freely. Then he asked:

"Do you believe his testimony that the money was left with him in a shoe box, and that it rested on the top shelf in his closet for several months?

"His wife, as I recall it, said she never saw the box and I do not recall that any witness, excepting the defendant testified that they ever saw the shoe box there."

The judge first told the jury it must be guided by the principles of law, which he would set forth. He added that they were the sole judges of evidence.

Hauptmann will await his execution date in the Trenton death house. Elaborate precautions have been taken to prevent suicide or jail break attempt on the part of the prisoner. Asked whether Hauptmann would be permitted to mingle with others in death row, the warden declared that other prisoners would "tear him to pieces." Hauptmann's cell is only a few steps from the gray door that leads to the death chamber, a barren room containing the electric chair. The walls of the chamber are a glaring white, the concrete floor a battleship gray. The chair stands in the rear of the room, under two flood lights.

Unless efforts of his attorneys to obtain a retrial are successful, it is in this room that Hauptmann will end the long trail that began on March 1, 1932, when the Lindbergh baby was stolen as it lay sleeping in its crib in the Hopewell home. On April 2, Dr. John F. Condon established contact with the kidnaper and paid the $50,000 ransom to "John" in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx. The search for the child was resumed when the kidnaper failed to keep his part of the pact, and the baby was found, slain, in a thicket grave five miles from the Lindbergh estate.

During the year of 1933, the search continued with apparent failure to find any trace of the criminal, and it was not until September 19, 1932, that Bruno Richard Hauptmann was arrested in New York's Bronx; within a week $14,600 in ransom bills were found hidden in his garage. The Bronx county grand jury indicted Hauptmann for extortion on September 26. Hauptmann's fight to escape extradition to New Jersey to answer a charge of murder was unsuccessful and on October 19, he was taken to Flemington.

The trial began on January 2, 1935, and on February 13, he was found guilty and sentenced to the electric chair.

Some believe Hauptmann will talk now that he has been convicted. Many have felt that he had accomplices in the crime and that only the fact that his story would implicate him has sealed his lips. Whether this will happen, and what the results of such testimony would be, can only be conjectured. No one knows. Perhaps he will go to his death, his lips sealed, still a man "with ice water in his veins."

©, Western Newspaper Union.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

THE GREATEST DAY SINCE THE DRED SCOT DECISION

The most sensational decision made by the United States Supreme Court was handed down yesterday. Ordinarily a Supreme Court decision leaves the situation practically unchanged, except with reference to a few parties to a controversy. In this instance the most daring effort at economic redemption in the history of latter day American politics was in the balance.

Yesterday marked a great day in the career of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the undisputed leader of a distressed and bewildered people.

The Supreme Court upheld the President and the Congress in their law that gold bonds need not be paid in gold, in these desperate times. Federal bonds must be redeemed in gold, or gold's equivalent, but others may be paid in whatever money we are now using.

How did the justices vote?

We note with interest that in this 5 to 4 decision—there is a new line-up—Mr. Hughes, the Chief Justice, who read the majority opinion, was supported by Mr. Justice Stone, Mr. Justice Brandels, Mr. Justice Roberts and Mr. Justice Cardoza, while the minority of four consisted of Mr. Justice McReynolds, Mr. Justice Van de Vanter, Mr. Justice Sutherland and Mr. Justice Butler.

This is by no means a perfect line-up of liberals and conservatives, of which we have heard so much in the past, but it is of significance to The Advertiser that Stone, Brandeis and Cardoza should have stood breast to breast with Hughes. It is Mr. Hughes who particularly interests us at the moment.

Mr. Hughes has been the Republican Governor of New York. He has been a Republican candidate for President. He has been a Republican Secretary of State. He was a Republican Associate Justice; later when he was summoned back to the court, after taking time out to try his hand once more at practical politics he was made Chief Justice.

Mr. Hughes is sometimes "conservative," sometimes "liberal." At all times he has commanded the confidence of the conservative interests of this country. Always they have respected him as a great American.

Mr. Hughes in this crisis threw the weight of his great influence behind the Democratic President of the United States. He carried with him such radicals of the court as Brandeis and Cardoza and such liberals as Stone and Roberts.

So serious would have been a contrary opinion that the President had made his plans to deal with a national emergency. If the court had overthrown his gold law it would have been necessary for a Government that had put itself on a non-gold basis to take extraordinary steps to protect the people.

The Advertiser is frank to say that it had expected an upset of startling character. It had suspected for weeks that the President was privy to a decision against him, and that this accounted for his efforts to prepare for an emergency.

But this apprehension was groundless. The President and his country had a close shave, but the highest tribunal in the land nevertheless stood by him in his most critical hour. Today the President must be a happy man.

Certainly the immediate effect of this decision in support of one important part of the New Deal is salutary. Yesterday stocks and bonds skyrocketed.

It would offend the Court to hint that practical expediency in the interest of a distressed people colored the opinion of the court, divided 5 to 4. We do not wish to offend the court. But we know that the land has been under torture since October, 1929.

And we know that Charles Evans Hughes is first a statesman, and then a jurist, though great in both roles. We know that he is a dominant personality in the Supreme Court of the United States.

We know that men of his type love their country before they love the letter of the law.

And the issue was as vital to national well-being as that involved in the fate of the humble Dred Scot, who achieved his fame long before the soldiers of the Confederacy marched.—The Montgomery Advertiser, Montgomery, Alabama.

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

The other day I was in a country grocery store on the Oregon Coast. Some travelers were getting soft drinks.

I asked the lady proprietress, whom I knew, if she couldn't make me a ham sandwich. She motioned me to one side and said that the law prohibited her from selling sandwiches unless she took out "another" license. She pointed to the wall of the store which was covered with licenses, federal and state, which were required for the sale of different products.

"But," she said, "there is no law yet that prevents me from giving you a sandwich," which she did.

What a picture! A free country, a little country grocery store, a hungry man—and the law prohibits him from buying a sandwich.

From Marshfield, Oregon, comes the astonishing press dispatch that two dairymen were fined, not for selling impure milk but for the high crime of selling milk that was too rich, too pure—just as it came from a good cow.

I could hardly believe my eyes. There was no false labeling, no adulteration—the crime seemed to be that they failed to "water" their milk sufficiently to bring the butter fat content down to the legal requirements for the grade of milk sold. The court handling the case gave the offenders a suspended sentence and placed them on parole for a year.

And this happened in the land of the free! Men hailed into court and sentenced for serving their customers too well.—By R. M. Hofer, Industrial News Service.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

Mr. Robert Dorough and Miss Edna Dorough, of Birmingham, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe McDuffie are visiting in Birmingham.

Miss Catherine Nolen attended the teachers meeting in Columbiana Saturday.

Edna Lee Holladay was in a piano recital presented by Lucille McLendon Whitemire, Friday night at Leeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Blackerby spent the week-end in Wilsonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Isbell are very ill with the flu. We sincerely hope that they will be well soon.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Rev. J. T. Carlton preached at the Methodist Church Sunday afternoon.

Thursday night, February 21, Rev. A. B. Canant and B. B. Curry, of Wilton, will speak at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church.

Miss Dixie Peete is still confined to her bed but we hope she will soon be up again.

Miss Lee Esther Daviston spent Sunday with Miss Mary Kate Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler were visitors in Elliottsville, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Farr, Fulton Farr and Mrs. T. V. Peete and babies, motored to Birmingham, Sunday.

Mr. J. B. King went to Columbiana for the week-end.

Rev. Lester Fitts preached on God's Great Love For Man", Sunday night at the Underwood Baptist Church.

There will be preaching at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Sunday.

Everyone who has had the flu are able to be out again.

Everybody go to the singing on Wednesday night and help make it a success.

Miss Lesley Falkner spent the week-end in Birmingham.

S. P. Daviston spent Wednesday in Columbiana.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

NOTICE OF SALE.

In The Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity. No. 1642.

G. M. Edmonds, Complainant, VS. Joe Lett, et al., Respondents.

By virtue of a Decree in the above stated cause rendered at the July Term 1934, on the 22nd day of December, 1934, of the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity, to satisfy said Decree, I will sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at public sale at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of Eleven o'clock a. m. and Four o'clock p. m. on Monday, the 11th day of March, 1935, the following described real estate:

The North-half of the Northwest Quarter of Section 12, and the Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section One, and the West-half of the Northwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section One; all in Township 20, S. of Range 3 W.

Witness my hand, this the 8th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS, 2-14-3t. Register.

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately. Rawleigh, Dept. ALB - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

FOR SALE
STERLING PIANO
Good Condition—Price $40.00
MRS. LA SALLE,
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

When In Montevallo, Visit
Wilson Drug Company
The Rexall Store.
We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.
Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

or a kitchen chair, or a suit of clothes or a parlor rug," . . . says Reddy Kilowatt "Then I, too, could start on a rocket ride to the sky, and people would envy and admire me.

"But for thirteen years (ah, unlucky me!) I've been on the downward path, and it seems that the lower I get, the more some folks kick me around, despite the fact that I'm the cheapest thing they buy . . . and that I'm the only thing that isn't on a higher price sky rocket and that I've done much to make Alabama the foremost industrial State in the South.

"However, while I may be down I'm not downcast, because life for me has a bright side too . . . many of the customers of my Company know how cheap I am and know too that the more work I do, the cheaper I work for them. And that being so unusual in these days of skyrocketing prices, they and use me more and more for cooking, water heating, refrigeration and a hundred and one other things I'll do for them."

Sing My Praises

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

ELECTRIC RATES ARE LOW IN ALABAMA

POWER ORDER ON RATE REDUCTION ISSUED IN STATE

'Objective' Toll To Be Open To All When 85 Per Cent Mark Is Reached

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Alabama Public Service Commission today issue an order to the Alabama Power Company directing that when 85 per cent of its customers were billed in any one month after August on the low "objective rate," all customers would be entitled to come under the rate.

In addition, the commission ordered that five per cent reductions were to be made in the objective rate base every six months, instead of every year as under its order of October, 1933, when the objective rate was put into operation. The first new reduction was ordered April 1.

The order affects only customers of the Alabama Power Company.

$600,000 Savings

In establishing the objective, the commission estimated it would result in a $600,000 per year saving when it became fully effective on all residential customers.

"Today's order moves that full saving date up three months at least," said Hugh White, Commission president. "If 85 per cent go on in any month after August it will be effective immediately."

Curlee's Cafe
Columbiana, Ala.
The Best Menus The Markets Afford.
Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.
We Will Serve You Promptly.
We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—
Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.
A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.
We Appreciate Your Patronage.

Prints Gay With Color Now Arrive

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

surprising variety of colorful materials that are just as practical as they are good looking.

PLAYING the game of fashion, the next move is to acquire a bright simple daytime wearable frock which has the freshness of the new season in its looks, to wear under your fur coat during lingering snows and departing wintry chill. Later this gay little gown will companion admirably with a chic light wool topcoat in role of a smart springtime ensemble.

If it is your custom to buy ready-mades a casual saunter through leading dress departments will be your budget's undoing, for the new between-season's dresses are not to be resisted. A most exciting feature about the early spring arrivals in the shops is the abundance of frilly ornate neckwear which lends a delightfully feminine air to the new modes.

The woman who likes the fun of making her own simple daytime frocks will find inspiration-plus in the spring fabric displays which in their gay colorings have turned winter into spring within store walls. Walking through the aisles and aisles of fascinating, joyous-looking prints and the rows and rows of voguish linens that flaunt their vivid peasant colorings before enchanted eyes, and the novelty cottons which were never more novel, no matter how conservative you may have been up to this season in matter of colors and patternings you will throw discretion to the winds and indulge to your heart's content in the giddiest, prettiest, most flattering materials you have known for this many a day.

As to the new prints the arrival of the first robin in your garden is no surer sign of spring than is their appearance on the style horizon. You will be delighted, if bewildered, by the

The three frocks shown here illustrate but a fraction of the perfectly beautiful washable prints that are in good taste now for wear under a coat and for later on when no coat is necessary. These attractive dresses are made up in rayon chulla crepe, in the brightest of colorfast colors.

For campus or office wear or for resort wear with light accessories, the tailored frock to the left, of print in a spaced conventional dot design with its ascot type scarf and cuffs of self-fabric, is both smart and practical. There are no fussy details or tricky places that your iron cannot reach in a hurry, and you probably know that you can wash and iron these chulla crepe frocks with no more special care than fine cottons.

The frock with the two-tone tie will carry you through a day that includes shopping, luncheon, matinee and tea. The lines are becomingly simple, the better to accentuate the beauty of the design of colorful leaves against a dark background. It is easy even for the amateur to work with this crepe it stays so accurately in place as you cut out the pattern, with no frayed or curled up edges as you baste it together.

The print that fashions the dress on the seated figure is stunning. Solid black dots together with white dots that are cross-lined with fine red and black lines stand out boldly against a bright red background. The button fastening and the touch of knife pleating are important style details. As you see from the smart models pictured, you do not have to sacrifice any style points this spring when you look for washable dresses.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

TAFFETA TUNIC

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Taffeta silk for tunic, for blouse, for the frock entire, for trimming touches is the great hue and cry for spring. The knee-length tunic-blouse pictured is of printed taffeta in exotic coloring. The skirt is black crepe and the accessories are black, introducing white stitchings on shoes and bag. The hat is a very modish sailor of shiny black straw.

NEW STYLES SHOW GREEK INFLUENCE

The Greek influence on current styles has spread so that now it is to be seen in furniture and clothes as well as in the lines of the feminine figure. The popularity of the flat Greek rear profile has made the figure ideal of the Greeks an established vogue.

The influence of this Greek ideal is to be seen in Mainbocher's recent introduction of a gown modeled on the robes worn by ancient Greek dancers. This filmy, graceful garment heralds a turn from the "important" gown, with its stiff formality, to the softness of net and tulle. Its straight skirt is short in front and to the ground in back. There is a garland of fruit or flowers around the waist. Very authentically Greek. And very revealing of the state of one's figure. Hips must be slender, small breasts uplifted in youthful silhouette. The flat Greek rear profile was never more important than to this new and slimly molded style.

To complete the picture, a great vogue for classical Greek furniture is predicted for this spring.

New Fur-Lined Slippers Slender as Satin Pumps

The fur-lined slipper is probably one of the greatest joys the modern woman has ever known. And because it is fur-lined, doesn't mean that it is bulky or clumsy looking. Not at all. It is as sleek and slender as the sheerest satin pump or sandal, but the sole of the foot is protected against cold pavements by a thin, but warm, layer of rabbit or sheepskin, fuzzy side footward.

The strapless brassiere is another boon to smart women. For evening it has certainly become an indispensable item in the society woman's wardrobe. Because of its clever construction of the sheerest and most clinging fabric, it stays perfectly in place without the bothersome need of straps over the shoulders.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 24

PETER HEALS A LAME MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 3:1-10; 4:8-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.—Acts 3:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Peter Helped a Lame Man.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Carrying on Jesus' Work.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Helping Hand.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Gifts That Are Better Than Money.

In the teaching of this lesson it will be necessary to include all the material in Acts 3:1 to 4:31.

I. Peter Healing the Lame Man (Acts 3:1-10).

1. The place (vv. 1, 2). It was at the gate called Beautiful, which leads from the outer to the inner court of the temple.

2. The man (v. 2). This beggar was infirm from his birth. When he saw Peter and John, he asked alms.

3. The method (vv. 3-8).

a. Gaining the man's attention (v. 4). Peter and John commanded him to look on them, but not because they had any power within themselves.

b. Peter commanded him in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth to rise and walk (v. 6). He had been unable to do this all his life, but with the command went the ability to do.

c. Peter took him by the right hand (v. 7). This act was meant to give impetus to his faith, not strength to his ankles.

4. The man's response (v. 8). Strength came into his feet and ankle bones at once. He stood, he walked, he leaped, and praised God.

5. The effect (vv. 9-11). The people were filled with amazement.

a. This helpless beggar had to be carried to the temple gate. Men and women out of Christ are so helpless that they need to be brought where the life of God can be applied to them.

b. Peter, in taking the man by the hand, shows the manner of helping the lost. While ministers and Sunday school teachers of themselves have nothing to give to the lost, they have the dispensing of the gospel of Christ.

II. Peter Witnessing Before the Multitude (3:12-26).

He told them it was faith in Jesus Christ, whom God had glorified and whom they had deliberately betrayed and crucified, that had healed this man. Despite their awful guilt, he appealed to them to repent (v. 19). God would pardon them if they would repent, and refreshing seasons would come to them when God should send back Jesus Christ to the earth to consummate the work of redemption.

III. Peter in Prison for Christ's Sake (4:1-4).

1. The leaders in this persecution (vv. 1, 2). Both priests and Sadducees joined in this wickedness. The priests were intolerant because these new teachers were encroaching upon their functions. The Sadducees joined the priests because they did not believe in the resurrection, which was a vital part of the apostolic teaching.

2. The result (vv. 3, 4). Peter and John were arrested and imprisoned. Though the witnesses were held in bondage by chains, Christ was not bound. The number of believers had greatly increased, so that there were now about five thousand.

IV. Peter Witnessing Before the Sanhedrin (4:5-22).

1. The inquiry (vv. 5-7). They inquired as to by what power and name they had wrought this miracle.

2. Peter's answer (vv. 8-12). With stinging sarcasm he showed them that they were not on trial as evildoers, but for doing good to the helpless and needy man. Since they could not deny the miracle, he boldly declared that it had been done in the name of Christ, and that the only way for them to escape God's judgment was to believe on his name.

3. The impression upon the Sanhedrin (vv. 13-22).

a. They marveled (vv. 1-13). They were made conscious that they were on trial instead of sitting as judges upon Peter and John.

b. They took knowledge that Peter and John had been with Jesus (v. 13).

c. They forbade them to speak in Christ's name (v. 18).

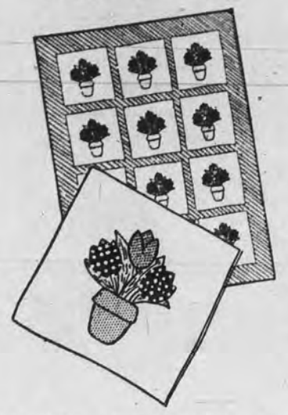
d. Peter and John expressed their determination to obey God rather than man (vv. 19, 20).

e. Their release (v. 21). Seeing that the people were on the side of the apostles they had no way to punish them.

V. The Church at Prayer (vv. 23-31).

They praised God for deliverance and prayed for boldness to speak the Word of God.

Religion



Religion should be to every man not merely a creed, but an experience; not a restraint, but an inspiration; not an insurance for the next world, but also a program for the present world.—Stalker.

Peace of God

We need the peace of God in our heart just as really for the doing well of the little things in our secular life as for the doing of the greatest duties of Christ's kingdom.

Tulip Has Won Popular Favor

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The tulip adapts itself so well to applique and quilting designs that it is made use of quite frequently. This combination, showing the entire potted plant, gained popularity immediately after it was released. Tulips in bloom always form a beautiful color scheme, and this tulip pot is also brilliant in prints and greem applique. These stamped blocks are 18 inches, and twelve are required for a quilt about 76 by 97 inches, if you use a nine inch border and four inch strips between blocks. Strips and border widths can be changed to make a quilt any size.

Send 15c to our quilt department for one of these stamped blocks, No. 96-F, and the stamped applique pieces ready to be cut out. Work this up and see what a beautiful quilt can be made of this design. A set of six blocks will be sent for 75c, postpaid.

ADDRESS, HOME CRAFT CO., DEPT. D., Nineteenth and St. Louis Avenue, St. Louis.

Inclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

HUGE TELESCOPE ADDS TO RANGE OF MAN'S VISION

One can imagine the shades of Galileo, Kepler and Newton watching with amazed interest all that happened the other day in the glass works at Corning, N. Y. Sir Isaac Newton, in particular, would have followed the process with thrilled wonder. It was he who more than 250 years ago invented the reflecting telescope and made for it a mirror of polished metal that measured six inches in diameter.

At Corning 20 tons of molten glass were ladled from the vast belly of a fiery furnace to be molded into a mirror 200 inches in diameter. It will be the second of that huge size, and both will go to serve a telescope, greatest of its kind, on a plateau of Palomar mountain, 45 miles north of San Diego. The range of human vision will be extended four times over what is made possible by any existing instrument. It will reach suburbs of space 400,000,000 light years away. Objects on the moon no bigger than a city skyscraper will become visible, and the mysteries of the geometrical tracings on Mars may be solved.

And what, asks the hard-headed reader, will be the practical value of it all? The practical value, in the hard-headed sense has never been considered. But whether or no there comes from it anything that we could class in the category of utility, man will be less a stranger in his universe. That justifies the adventure.

Meanwhile back of the telescope conceived at Mount Wilson observatory lies the Carnegie institute, and back of the Carnegie institute the millions of a money-making Scot, who wrested his wealth from the competitive conflict of steel mills. Thus the sage sweeps from the smelter to the stars.—Chicago News.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are best for liver, bowels and stomach. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.—Adv.

Will Come to Light

As the man who commits some evil deed has to fear that, notwithstanding all precautions, it will one day come to light, so too he must expect, who has done some good thing in secret, that it also, in spite of himself, will appear in the day.—Goethe.

Character Brought Out by Ills of Depression

Some persons as I see them dealing with the depression, have not succeeded in getting any good out of it. The impact of the economic catastrophe has cracked their faith, crumpled their morale, and left them dilapidated and disillusioned.

Moreover, this has happened, in my experience, not mainly among those who have faced tragic destitution. They frequently have been magnificent. The worst failures I have seen have been among those who, having valued life in terms of wealth or business success, have collapsed when their extravagant ambitions were disappointed. The trouble with them was inside.

On the whole, however, I have been proud of the human character, as I have intimately watched men and women reacting to this depression as though it were a stimulus. —Harry Emerson Fosdick in Cosmopolitan.

Cheap Liquid Hydrogen

A low-temperature laboratory has been devised in California, it is announced. Five quarts of liquid hydrogen will be made in an hour at a cost of $2 a quart.

NASAL IRRITATION due to colds.

Relieve the dryness and irritation by applying Mentholatum night and morning.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

BOYS, Make money, repair and build bikes with used parts. Send quarter for illustrated instructions "HOW TO LACE BICYCLE WHEEL." FOREMAN'S, 1220 N. Wis. St., Dept. A, Racine, Wisc.

10c Pint Pure Vanilla Flavor. Compound delivered postpaid. Will not bake or freeze out. Money back guarantee. Send dime. Box 265 - - Hagerstown, Maryland.

Now Relieve Your Cold "Quick as You Caught It"

For Amazingly Fast Results Remember Directions in These Simple Pictures

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

"Simoniz Makes the Finish Last Longer"

Play safe! Simoniz your car! Don't let "finish rot" go on and on, ruining its beauty. Simoniz stops this destructive decay. Makes the finish last longer and keeps it beautiful for years. If your car is dull, first use the new, improved Simoniz Kleener. It quickly restores the lustre.

MOTORISTS WISE SIMONIZ

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA direct from its New York Stage 3-Hour Broadcast by LISTERINE announced by Geraldine Farrar Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P. M.

CALERA NEWS

Hon. John J. Haynes, assistant attorney general of Alabama, and Mrs. Haynes, of Montgomery, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Holcombe, Sunday.

The M. E. Missionary Society met at the Church Monday afternoon with a business meeting. There was a large attendance.

Miss Bishop entertained the 9th grade Thursday evening, February 14th, with a Valentine party, at the home of Mrs. A. B. Baxley. Games and contests were enjoyed by all. Refreshments in Valentine motifs, was served to 28 guests.

Miss Beatrice Ingram and Mr. Max Allen, of Spring Creek, were in Calera, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Holcombe and daughter, Lucy Gene, motored to Birmingham, Monday.

Miss Myrtle Crim and Miss Ruth Stockdale were the guests of Mrs. Ed Crim, Sunday.

Mrs. Paul Wyatt and daughter, of Longview, returned home Saturday after a weeks visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Pilgreen.

Mrs. P. Baer, Mr. and Mrs. Max Baer, spent Sunday in Birmingham with relatives.

Mrs. Cecil Cowart and children, spent the week-end with Mrs. Jeffie Mothershed, in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Martin and Miss Edwards motored to Birmingham, Sunday.

Mr. Clayton Wallace and Albert Askins motored to Birmingham, Thursday.

Mrs. Bill Iseral, formerly Miss Dorothy Baer, of Calera, whose home is in Edison, Ga., is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. P. Baer and family.

Eugene Harris is reported improving in Birmingham at the South Highland Infirmary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lake and Mrs. S. M. Tomlin, motored to Birmingham, Thursday.

Mrs. D. Isacobb, formerly Miss Beckie Arsnson, of Calera, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. P. Baer, left Saturday for her home in Charleston, West Va.

Mrs. Pete Hill and children, spent the week-end in Childersburg.

Mrs. Pat Ruddy was in Birmingham, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnett of South Calera, announce the arrival of a daughter, February 14, 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Martin and Mrs. W. H. Martin, motored to Birmingham, Friday for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ellis, of Pelham, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin, Saturday.

Mr. Alto Carter, who is employed with the State Highway and is stationed in Talladega, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pilgeren and family.

The Richardson Construction Co., of Birmingham, who have the contract of laying the pipes for Calera Water Works, will employ about 25 men. The Baxley Spring will furnish the city with water.

Mary Sue Parker and John H. Denham, Jr., are improving from the flu.

MARINELLO BEAUTY SALON

At Caheen's, 1921 2nd Avenue N., in Birmingham.

Offers the ladies of this section an opportunity to receive the latest in marcelling, hair bobbing, and all facial and scalp treatments and permanent waving.

We wish to call the attention of the ladies of this section to this institution, for it is conducted solely for their benefit. This is a day and age when women, both old and young, are paying more attention to the little things which make them more attractive and which keep them from having a look beyond their years.

In the up-to-date beauty shop today it is possible to have the face treated in such a way that the little wrinkles and skin troubles vanish and with them, years.

GOODYEAR SHOE HOSPITAL

In Birmingham at 419 N. 20th St.

One of the leading establishments of this nature that is convenient to leave your shoes as you come to town and get them on your way out. Service to suit you and they also specialize in shoe repair work by mail from the surrounding territory.

What's the difference between a Shoe Service Shop and a cobbler shop? The cobbler merely patched on his makeshift job made shoes last a bit longer. A patch here, a patch there. Perhaps a tack or two more for luck. No wonder the shoes he repaired were uncomfortable and unsatisfactory. At this shoe shop is where service is built into shoes. It contains all equipment to put shoes back into the same serviceable condition they were in when they left the factory.

R. T. BOYETT, PHOTOGRAPHER

In Birmingham at 2022 1-2 2nd Avenue N. This is one of the most progressive establishments in this section and is equipped with the latest mechanical devices for the purpose of doing high grade work. The proprietor has especially prepared this studio to take care of those customers who desire the very best in photography.

The studio has an excellent reputation for the high class work turned out and for the prompt and courteous attention shown in each and every particular. They finish your photographs in the most up to date manner, insuring the best at all times. Their prices are within reach of everyone. All telephone appointments will be promptly taken care of. The proprietor has established a large and substantial patronage from the people of the city and surrounding territory.

GOLDEN FLAKE PRODUCTS

1716 15th Avenue N., in Birmingham, are manufactures of the well known Golden Flake Potato Chips and Nuts and is one of the foremost food products concerns in this part of the state.

Because of the great volume of business transacted through their extensive wholesale establishment and because of the up-to-date business methods and the high quality of their service, this well known establishment has gained for this section a commercial prestige as an excellent market for the trade that could be gained in no other manner.

Many dollars are brought into this section each year through the trade channels, presided over by this house. The fact that their trade extends over all adjoining territory, this is their special field, brings new faces, new business and adds prosperity to the city in which they are located.

SHROPSHIRE & DANIEL GROCERY CO.

Located at 1920 11th Avenue S., in Birmingham.

Take your basket here when you wish to have it completely filled with the best grades of food. They keep the grocery well stocked with staple and fancy groceries as well as fresh fruits and vegetables in season.

At this popular grocery and food store you will find only the most wholesome and nationally known lines of provisions.

Buy it at this grocery, is a fitting slogan for all people who wish to keep their food bill at the lowest possible figure. At this day and age the modern grocery store is more than just a grocery store. It is a store where you get good groceries and the very best of foods at all times, their slogan is, we spend with those who spend with us. When you buy it at this grocery you save money and why? For the well-known fact that a grocery operated on a smaller margin of profit than any other line of business. And for this reason they must turn their stock five or more times a year, thus insuring fresh goods at all times of the year.

BIRMINGHAM STOCK YARDS

At 1600 21st Avenue N., in Birmingham. The fact that their quotations are always as good as the prices paid by any other primary market is known not only to the farmers of this county, but to those in surrounding counties as well.

The livestock markets in the larger centers have always manipulated quotations in the interest of others than the producers. The producers were short changed for a long time, but as in other lines, the farmer has awakened and these modern yards where top prices are assured is the grand result. The enviable reputation gained among the farmers and stockmen of this part of the State is certainly well merited.

This market was founded by far-sighted men of large caliber who saw in its operation a square deal for the stock raisers in the future and a potent factor in the advancement of this section, both industrially and agriculturally.

You are welcome to phone or call on them at any time for the market quotations.

W. B. LEEDY AND COMPANY

At 112 N. 21st Street in Birmingham.

Among the progressive real estate agencies of this part of the country we are glad to make prominent mention of this agency. The activities of this man are conducive to the progress of this section in no small degree inasmuch as his dealings in city and farm property attract new people to the community.

There are many dealers in real estate but the successful operator must be well versed in values and locations. He must also have a complete knowledge of the history of the country and of what value a particular property is to the intending purchaser.

The real citizen is the home owner. To him comes the thrill of owning a home whether it be large or small.

Every true citizen has in his own mind a picture of the home he at sometime intends to own. Perhaps it is a small bungalow with a few rooms, surrounded by flowers. Perchance a small garden where he may spend his leisure time. Then too, the owner of rural property desires the comfort of a city dwelling. In any respect, regardless of the wants of the intending purchaser or renter this man can take care of their needs as he has listed on his books a number of properties that are sure to please.

LEGAL NOTICE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.

In the Circuit Court for the Eighteenth Circuit of Alabama, in Equity.

E. D. LeMay, Complainant, VS. Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, Respondents.

In this cause it being made to appear to the Register by affidavit of D. K. McKamy, solicitor for E. D. LeMay, complainant, that the respondents, Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, are non-residents of the State of Alabama, residing in Nashville, Tennessee, and whose other address is unknown to complainant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the respondents are of the age of twenty-one years;

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Shelby County Democrat, a newspaper published in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber to plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 18th day of March, 1935, or thirty days thereafter a decree pro-confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office, this 12th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
2-14-4t. Register.

Why be NERVOUS

There's a time-tested, harmless, preparation, compounded by a specialist in nervous disorders, for the relief of Sleeplessness, Irritability, Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache, Restlessness, the Blues and Hysterical Conditions.

During the more than fifty years since this preparation was first used, numberless other nerve sedatives have come—and gone. But the old reliable has always been in constantly increasing demand.

Only one medicine fits this discription.

DR. MILES NERVINE

If you are nervous, don't wait to get better. You may get worse. Take Dr. Miles Nervine. You can get Dr. Miles Nervine—Liquid and Effervescent Tablets—at your drug store.

HELPED 98 PERCENT

Interviews with 800 people who had used or were using Dr. Miles Nervine showed that 784 had been definitely benefited. Isn't anything that offers a 49 to 1 chance of helping you worth trying?

Get a package of Dr. Miles Nervine today. If it fails to help you—take the empty bottle or carton back to your druggist, and he will refund your money.

MACHINERY REPAIR IS IMPORTANT JOB

One of the most important jobs on Alabama farms at this time is getting farm machinery ready for work before the spring rush begins, declares J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer, Auburn.

The first step is to inspect all machinery carefully, he says, and make an inventory of repairs needed and the parts to be replaced.

Parts should be ordered as early as possible so they will arrive before the machines must be used, he explains, and the repair work scheduled so that the machinery to be used first will be repaired first.

41 Counties Have 64 Terracing Machines

County commissioners and board of revenue members of 41 Alabama counties have provided 64 modern terracing outfits which will terrace approximately 130,000 acres of farm land during 1935, reports J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer, Auburn.

The terracing is being done on a cooperative basis and is costing the farmers an average of between $1.00 and $2.00 per acre. It is estimated that the terraces are increasing the value of each acre of land by at least $5.00 to $10.00.

Mr. Wilson urges the farmers to take good care of the terraces by properly turning the land, laying-off the rows, and repairing the weak and broken places in the terraces.

LEGAL NOTICE.

All holders of warrants, certificates of indebtedness, and due bills against the Shelby County Board of Education are hereby notified to deposit same with the County Superintenlent of Education, J. L. Appleton, in Columbiana, Alabama, and they will be paid in full and so deposited. J. L. APPLETON,
Supt. of Education,
Shelby County, Ala.

Alabama Power Co. Declares Dividends

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company have declared the regular quarterly dividends on its preferred stock, payable April 1, 1935, on the $7 and $6 stock to stockholders of record March 15, 1935, and payable May 1, 1935 on the $5 stock to stockholders of record April 15, 1935.

These dividends will aggregate approximately $585,000 and dividend checks will be mailed on March 30, for the $7 and $6 stock and on April 30, for the $5.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TO HEAR DR. HALFPENNY

MONTEVALLO, Ala. — Joseph Halfpenny, an Alabama statistician, will speak to a group of Alabama College students Wednesday evening at 6:30 on "Unemployment Insurance."

The talk has been planned especially for the benefit of students in history, economics and sociology.

CALDER FURNITURE COMPANY

Complete home furnishers in Birmingham at 1820 2nd Avenue N., is one of the popular stores of this section, offering the newest and most attractive furniture at the lowest possible prices, and enjoys a large patronage not only from the city, but from all the surrounding territory.

What is more important than the building of happy, comfortable homes. We venture the statement that because they contribute probably to a larger degree than any other institute in this important work, this justly popular house is one of the most essential features of the commercial and community life of this section. This fine establishment under the efficient direction of latter day business men is replete with furnishings for the home, and no matter what may be your need in this line, they have it for you at a very reasonable price. Standard makes will be found throughout this immense store. Library tables, davenports, mattresses, beds, furniture of all kinds, all of the articles for the home are represented by standard brands that are known the country over.

H. L. DOBBS MONUMENTS COMPANY

In Birmingham at 2312 N. 25th Street. Telephone 35981.

They are large dealers in monuments of granite and marble. Every grave should have a marker.

If you are looking for monuments of marble or granite of any description you should consult this firm.

This is one of the best regulated institutions in this section. When they started their business from then until the present time it has been known as the best place to buy monuments or markers of any kind gaining a well merited reputation for service and reliability.

Here will be found a large selection of finished work ready to letter to make your selection from, at bottom prices. This firm does their own work, selects the best grade of stock and has the best equipped shop in this section of the state.

Their plant is equipped with the latest inventions for producing work of this kind in the best and most economical manner, enabling them to finish and handle the products at the minimum expense. Lettering and carving are produced by the latest method, which leaves the edges perfectly true without stuns or flaws from cutting, and which produces lettering of an artistic merit not heretofore attained.

SPECIALS
--at--
Taylor's Cash Stores

COLUMBIANA CASH STORE
MONTEVALLO CASH STORE
SILURIA CASH STORE
UNDERWOOD CASH STORE
BUCK CREEK CASH STORE
CALERA CASH STORE

WATER PAILS, 10 quart	19c
POTATOES, Cobbler Main, per peck	35c
TUBS, no. 0	39c
TUBS, no. 1	49c
TUBS, no. 2	59c
TUBS, no. 3	69c
OATS, Texas Red Rust Proof, 5 bushels	$4.50
SUGAR, 10 pound cloth bag	50c
MOPS, each	25c
FLOUR, High Score, 24 pound sack	$1.00
FLOUR, Water Fall, 24 pound sack	$1.10
HOMINY, Stokely's, no. 2 1-2 can, 3 for	25c
MEAL, per peck	25c
DAIRY FEED, Winner, per sack	$2.35
EVAPORATED APPLES, per pound	15c
PEAS, California Black-eyed, per pound	6c
SUPER SUDS, 2 packages for	15c

AT OUR MARKETS

OYSTERS, per pint	30c
SAUSAGE, 2 pounds for	25c
BACON, sliced, per pound	28c
NATIVE STEAK, per pound	15c
SPARE RIBS, per pound	15c

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-SIX

STATE DRYS DOWN REPEAL

Register In Chancery 7-3-35

SHELBY COUNTY WITH 44 OTHER COUNTIES OF STATE OPPOSE REPEAL

CARTER FIELD NOW FEATURED WRITER OF THE DEMOCRAT

Now—much more than in years gone by—people in this community, as in every other community in the United States, are interestel and vitally concerned in what is going on in Washington. They know that events that are transpiring at the National Capital will have a far-reaching influence on the every-day affairs of the people of every community, and they want to know what that influence may be.

The Shelby County Democrat is meeting this growing demand for an interpretation of the National Capital news by publishing a weekly letter written by Carter Field, a statesman-journalist whose training has fitted him in every way for this particular job. His letter appears under the heading, "Seen and Heard Arounl the National Capital."

Mr. Field explains and interprets the Capital news of the week. He presents a background of information that enables the average reader to understand clearly the movement and significance of events.

With unrivaled news sources and writing with the impartial, level-headed wisdom of twenty years' experience, Mr. Fiell tries, above everything else, to get the truth, and because of his many friendships among men in high authority in Washington, he succeeds in that effort more often than do most Capital correspondents.

Mr. Field went to Washington in 1915 for the New York Tribune, which later became the Herald-Tribune. Since that time he has written sanely and clearly about wars, inflations, deflations, deeds noble and ignoble. scanlals that shook the nation and events that made a man feel proud to be an American. For two decades he has met squarely the exacting requirements of a Washington correspondent.

We are greatly pleased to be able to give you the benefit of Mr. Field's observations on the news now being made in Washington. We are sure you will have a better understanding and be able to talk more intelligently of levelopments at the National Capital if you read Mr. Field's articles regularly.

SENATOR BANKHEAD PREPARES NEW BILL

A measure proposing Federal loans to help eliminate the tenant system of farming has been prepared by Senator John H. Bankhead, widely known throughout the nation as author of the compulsory cotton control bill.

The proposal would establish an emergency similar to the home owners loan corporation. Only tenants would be eligible for the loans to purchase land already in cultivation. The loans would bear a low rate of interest and would be amortized over a period of thirty years.

PLAY TO BE PRESENTED IN CHELSEA, MARCH 2

CHELSEA, Ala.—The play, "Aunt Samantha Rules The Roost", will be presented in the Chelsea School Auditorium, Saturday evening, March 2nd, at 7:30 o'clock. You are cordially invited to attend. Admission 10 and 15 cents. Benefit of school.

CORN-HOG SIGN-UP WILL END APRIL 1

AUBURN, Ala.—F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, warns Alabama farmers that "all 1935 corn-hog contracts must be in the office of the Board of Revenue by April 1."

"All farmers interested in receiving benefits from the 1935 program should see their county agents and get the necessary forms immediately," he advises.

Corn After Legumes Need No Fertilizer

AUBURN, Ala.—Corn planted ten days to two weeks after turning a good crop of either hairy vetch or Austrian peas needs no further fertilization, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist. Corn not following winter legumes should receive a side-dressing of 100 to 200 pounds per acre of nitrate about 40 days after planting.

It is probably advisable to apply phosphate at rate of 200 to 300 pounds per acre on land recently cleared.

Other Crops Allowed On Idle Corn Land

AUBURN, Ala.—Land held out of production of corn for grain under the 1935 corn-hog contract may be planted without limitation to any other crop than corn, but not to corn for use as fodder or other forage purposes, reports the corn-hog section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

GOLDS ARE NAMED WINNERS OF THE 16TH COLLEGE NITE

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The Golds have been declared winners of the sixteenth annual college night at Alabama College. The winners were led by Miss Isabel Henderson, Mobile, and Miss Eleanor Watson, Georgiana. The purple leaders were Miss Ellie Ayres Burns, Talladega, and Miss Aeolian McRee, Greenville.

The annual gift to the College through college night funds was in the form of loan scholarships, announced by Miss Margaret Vaughn, president of the Student Government Association, and acknowledged by President O. C. Carmichael.

For the second successive evening Palmer Hall, seating 1,600, was crowded. Included in the Saturday evening audience were distinguished guests, including Dr. J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, who spoke.

Impersonations presented by the rival sides were called pleasing. The Purples gave "Hiawatha," and the Golds "The Minotaur." Toasts by by Misses Alice Green and Mary Nall Kendrick for the Golds and and Purples, respectively, were also given.

The stunts, entitled "Will Rogers in the Land of Oz," and "Imp-or-a Nero?" added humor to the program, while the songs and cheers contributed to the ever apparent enthusiasm.

FACTS FOR TENANTS & LANDLORDS GIVEN

Under the cotton adjustment program, land owners are required to retain the same number of tenants as they had when they signed the contract, according to AAA officials.

This does not mean that the landlords must retain the same tenants as were on their places when they signed the contract but it does mean that the land owners are not to displace tenants without obtaining others to take their place, they report.

ALABAMA FARMERS GET $18,305,690

AUBURN, Ala.—Rental and benefit payments to the amount of $18,305,690.64 have been paid to Alabama farmers during the past 20 months, advises Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service.

The money was paid farmers for reducing their cotton and corn acreage and their hog production. Figures show that $18,081,799.81 were paid to cotton farmers; $224,324.83 to corn-hog producers; and $1,566 to tobacco growers.

STATION TELLS OF BEST FERTILIZERS FOR COTTON, CORN

AUBURN, Ala.—A summary of the best fertilizer for Alabama farmers to use under their corn and cotton is given by the State Experiment Station as follows:

"(1) Phosphate and potash, when used in mixed fertilizers, did not increase corn yields.

"(2) Thirty-six pounds of nitrogen (225 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent) should be used per acre for corn.

"(3) The best fertilizer mixture for cotton is one which supplies 36 pounds of nitrogen, 48 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 24 pounds of potash per acre. These amounts of plant nutrients may be supplied by 600 pounds of a 6-8-4 fertilizer, or by 600 pounds of a 4-8-4 fertilizer and a side application of 75 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent."

Farmers interested in a full discussion of the value of various fertilizers under corn and cotton are advised to see their county agent or write the Experiment Station for a copy of Circular No. 70, which has just come from the press.

INTERESTING PERSONALITIES

By Mildred White Wallace

J. T. PHILLIPS, Manager, Buck Creek Cotton Mills, Siluria, Alabama.

On one of the most hectic days last Summer, in an attempt to get a bit of diversion, and to find a cool and delightful spot to pass the afternoon away, we turned the little blue car toward Siluria, Alabama. We had, for a number of years, heard of J. T. Phillips, popular Manager of the Buck Creek Cotton Mills, but until this particularly memorable afternoon, we had not had the pleasure of meeting the gentleman. However, some of his personal friends were in our motor party and when formal introductions were over, the genial host cordially invited us into the Manager's Box, from which vantage point, we enjoyed one of the best base ball games, interspersed with friendly chatter, we ever remember having witnessed.

Some eight years ago, J. T. Phillips moved from Kinston, North Carolina, to Siluria, Alabama, to take over the Managerial position of the Buck Creek Cotton Mills. The excellent executive ability and leadership which Mr. Phillips possesses, combined with one of the most pleasingly tactful personalities we have yet encountered, doubtless accounts for the remarkably successful record he has made since coming to Alabama.

During the recent turbulent upheaval in industries of all kinds, when numerous strikes were prevalent, Mr. Phillips commandered his faithful workmen through to the signal success they now enjoy. Three years ago, when mills all over the United States were closing down, the Buck Creek Cotton Mills continued to run, operating for the Red Cross. Over 1000 yards of cloth were donated to unfortunate ones in Columbiana, by these altruistic loborers. There are now, over 400 workmen employed in the mills, and two shifts are running full time. The products from these spindles are principally sold for mechanical rubber goods and shoes. and are distributed throughout the middle East and West.

Mr. Phillips is enthusiastically in accord with the slogan, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy", and so, RECREATION plays a large part in his program schedule for his co-laborers. For instance, there is a large Community House where various forms of entertainment are staged. There are three picture shows presented each week. Wholesome sports are encouraged, and of course the Siluria Band needs no introduction to the public, for no important gathering would be complete without the peppy, martial tunes of the day played by this excellent group of well trained musicians.

In speaking of his plans for the coming baseball season, Mr. Phillips stated he expected to have a bigger and better baseball club than even last year's enviable record. The above statement will be good news to Columbiana base ball fans, who were always well represented on these occasions.

"How has the Gold decision affected your industry?", we asked?

"The Gold decision means marked improvement in the entire Textile Industry," Mr. Phillips replied. He expressed extreme optimism over the outlook for 1935. Having just returned from Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, and other points on an important business trip for his Company, he emphatically stated that Roosevelt had accomplished more for the people of the United States as a whole, than could have been visualized by any other candidate for this honor. He is wholeheartedly in sympathy with the far reaching, constructive plans of the Administration, and if Mr. Phillips has his way about it, the Buck Creek Cotton Mills will not be found even one little step behind the New Deal. The entire personnel of the Company, stand for the Progressive spirit which marks the reign of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Personally speaking, this genial Manager is very emphatic in his views on current issues of the day. When he believes himself right on a proposition, we do not believe he could be easily changed. In other words, he is a man whom you know where to find. If he is your friend, he will likely remain your friend to the end. He is very positive in his ideas, yet broad minded, fair and square regarding the other fellow's individual convictions. He is widely travelled and a most interesting conversationalist. His experience of being in Europe when the World War was declared is an entertaining episode in his colorful career. He is planning to go back to France during the coming Summer, and we shall look forward to some personal impressions from "across the pond" when he returns..

Rarely, if ever, has the day brought a more Interesting Personality through the portals of the little print shop than J. T. Phillips. The tiny "Bluebird Clock" ticked off the hour rather too fast for the writer, however, as all good stories end, Mr. Phillips promised to come again soon —and here's hoping it won't be such a long time between—VISITS.

North Carolina's loss was Alabama's gain, and Shelby County was decidedly the winner the day she enrolled J. T. Phillips as one of her public spirited citizens whose influence in the political, social, economical and industrial life of the County for the past eight years gives us a claim on him which we shall hope to maintain through all the years to come. We are happy to have him designate Shelby County as his HOME.

STATE DAIRYMEN ARE PREPARING NEW DAIRY LAWS

Alabama dairymen are preparing legislation to present to the State legislature to stabilize the dairy industry.

At a state-wide meeting of approximately 100 dairymen, a committee of five was named to prepare the legislation. The committee is composed of Kenneth M. Harper, Chairman, Selma; J. Frank Baker, Montevallo; William G. Regan, Mobile; C. E. Massy, Anniston; and H. H. Bailey, Morris, Rt. 1, Jefferson County.

As soon as the bill has been prepared, R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture and industries, F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, Auburn, and G. W. Ray, agricultural economist, Montgomery, will call a second state-wide meeting of dairymen to further discuss the legislative program.

LACKEY QUARTETTE TO BE IN CALERA, MARCH 6

CALERA, Ala.—The Lackey Quartette will play a return engagement at the Calera Auditorium on March 6th, 1935. An entirely new program will be presented.

CALERA JR. 111 CLASS TO PRESENT PROGRAM

CALERA, Ala.—The Calera Jr. 111 Class of the Calera Junior High School, will present a program consisting of plays, stunts and songs on Monday evening, March 4th, 1935, in the School Auditorium at 8 o'clock. You are cordially invited to be present. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

FIVE CIVIL SERVICE JOBS ANNOUNCED BY COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Assistant statistical clerk, $1,620 a year, departmental service, Washington. D. C.

Chief dietitian, $2,300 to $2,900 a year, head dietitian, $2,000 to $2,500 a year, staff dietitian, $1 800 to $2,160 a year, Public Health Service and Veterans' Administration.

All States except Utah, Iowa, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C. The dietitian positions are not affected by the State apportionment law.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Director of Typography Examination

The salary is $3,600 a year, less a deduction of 3 1-2 percent toward a retirement annuity.

Applicants must have had certain practical printing experience and, in addition, at least four years of consistent employment by a printing or publishing house, in laying out and preparing complete "dummies" of proposed publications; in the creation and development of artistic designs, illustrations, title pages, book and pamphlet covers, lettering, and decorative design for reproduction by typographical processes; in the selection of stock and colors to be used, and in the setting of margins and otherwise planning of complete publications or jobs of commercial printing.

Full information may be obtained frm the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

SHELBY COUNTY POLLS LIGHTEST VOTE IN HISTORY

Rain and snow swept over Shelby County on Tuesday, and the lightest vote in the history of elections was polled. Much speculation has been indulged in by political seers in the county, but the result of Tuesday's vote decides the Prohibition question as far as this section is concerned, on the present issue involved. Shelby County remains in the Dry column.

As we go to press, all the county boxes have been heard from and the vote is as follows:

For Modification, 968; against Modification, 1402.

As we go to press, the latest returns on the Referendum gives the Drys a 4,000 majority with 500 boxes scattered throughout Alabama yet to be heard from. These boxes, an Associated Press representative stated to the writer, can sway the election either way.

Forty-five of the 67 counties were definitely in the dry column, and 16, including Jefferson, Mobile and Montgomery, had gone wet by sweeping majorities. It was nip and tuck in six other counties.

Counties going dry were: Bibb Blount, Butler, Calhoun, Chambers, Cherokee, Chilton, Clarke, Clay, Cleburne, Conecuh, Dale, DeKalb, Elmore, Etowah, Fayette, Franklin, Geneva, Hale, Houston, Jackson, Lamar, Lauderdale, Lawrence, Lee, Limestone, Lowndes, Macon, Marion, Marshall, Monroe, Morgan, Pickens, Randolph, Shelby, St. Clair, Sumter, Talladega, Tallapoosa, Tuscaloosa, Walker, Washington, Wilcox and Winston.

Counties going wet were: Jefferson, Mobile, Montgomery, Autauga, Baldwin, Choctaw, Coffee, Colbert, Crenshaw, Cullman, Dallas, Greene, Madison, Marengo, Perry, Pike and Russell.

FARMERS OFFERED FARM BULLETINS

AUBURN, Ala.—To aid Alabama farmers in producing their 1935 crop, the State Experiment Station has published 12 leaflets dealing with various farm problems.

The bulletins are (1) Control of Mediterranean Termites in Dwellings; (2) Soy Beans; (3) The Control of Peach Diseases and Insects; (4) The Pecan Weevil; (5) Peanuts; (6) Lespedeza; (7) Pasture for Alabama; (8) Control of Insect Pests in Stored Grains, Peas, and Beans; (9) Control of Corn Insects and Diseases; (10) Control of Cotton Insects and Diseases; (11) The Fall Crop of Irish Potatoes; (12) Caring for and Pruning of Ornamental Shrubs.

A copy of these leaflets may be obtained free from the County agents or by writing the Experiment Station at Auburn, Alabama.

HOG AND CATTLE PRICES HIGHER

AUBURN, Ala.—Hog prices are the highest they have been since July, 1932, and cattle prices the highest since November, 1930.

During the past week the hog prices went as high as $8.40 per hundred weight and cattle to as high as $13.95 on the Chicago market. The prices were brought about by the drought, controlled production and government relief slaughtering.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

New Deal Sighs Relief as Supreme Court O. K's Gold Laws—President Urges Congress to Extend NRA Two More Years.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and the New Dealers breathed easier after the United States Supreme court handed down its decision sustaining invalidation of "gold clauses" in private contracts, but not on federal bonds. While it was held that the government must pay off its bonds in gold or its equivalent in devalued currency, another ruling that the Court of Claims had no jurisdiction over such cases means that it would be impossible for holders of federal bonds to collect on their old gold basis. In other words, the holder of a $1,000 federal bond is entitled to a technical value of $1,690, but in reality it would be impractical to make any collection of that amount, since the Court of Claims is the only tribunal before which suits against the government may be taken, and other courts may not entertain such suits without a special act of congress.

President Roosevelt

The court also held that those who held gold certificates had no cause of action and could not sue the government. The power of congress to deal with currency was fully upheld.

Not only this country, but the entire world, awaited what the "nine lonely old men" of the Supreme court had to say about the Roosevelt monetary policies. The decision is ranked with the court's decisions in the Dartmouth college cases in 1818 which upheld the sanctity of contract, and in the Dred Scott slavery case in 1857 which had much to do with hastening the outbreak of the Civil war.

Briefly, the ruling said:

1. Congress has the power to nullify promises to pay in gold contained in the bonds of private corporations.

2. A gold certificate is worth only its face value in present devalued currency. Congressional power over the currency includes the right to establish circumstances under which gold certificates need not be redeemed in gold or its equivalent.

3. Congress has no authority under the Constitution to abrogate the payment-in-gold clause of government bonds, but, as no actual damage has been shown, therefore there is no basis for suit for recovery.

The decision was read by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, who voted with Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts and Cardozo in the majority. Dissenters were Justices McReynolds, Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler, the four so-called conservatives.

Satisfaction within the administration was evident at once.

Justice McReynolds was spokesman for the dissenters. He unleashed a scathing attack on the majority views. His voice vibrant, he said:

"The Constitution as we have known it is gone."

"If given effect, the enactments here challenged will bring about confiscation of property rights and repudiation of national obligations."

"Just men regard spoliation of citizens by their sovereign with abhorrence, but we are asked to affirm that the Constitution has granted power to accomplish both."

"No definite delegation of such a power exists; and we cannot believe the farseeing framers, who labored with hope of establishing justice and securing the blessings of liberty, intended that the expected government should have authority to annihilate its own obligations and destroy the very rights which they were endeavoring to protect."

Notified that Chief Justice Hughes was reading the decision, President Roosevelt went to the cabinet room, where he listened to telephone reports from an aid. Three cabinet officers were at his side. The Chief Executive was prepared to take swift action to protect the credit of the government in case an adverse decision was handed down, but executive orders were unnecessary. The carefully prepared program was not needed.

TWO more years of the NRA, with clarification of policies, more effective enforcement of codes and the granting of "unquestioned power" to the federal government, were urged by the President in a message to congress.

The national recovery act terminates June 16 this year. "Abandonment would be unthinkable," he said, naming the act as "the biggest factor in giving re-employment to approximately 4,000,000 people."

He said congress must maintain the fundamental principles of the act to establish at least a minimum fair trade practice and labor relations standard, pleading that child labor must stay out and that fixing of wages and hours was practical and necessary.

Answering recent protests of labor, he said: "The rights of employees freely to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining should be fully protected."

He urged more strict application of anti-trust laws, condemned monopolies and private price fixing, opposed hindrances to fair competition, and proposed further protection of small enterprises against discrimination and oppression.

His suggestions, if adopted, would keep code violators from behind the bars. "The way to enforce laws, codes and regulations relating to industrial practices is not to seek to put people in jail," he said.

Admitting some mistakes, the President was well satisfied that the NRA had done a good job considering its short existence.

"Only carping critics and those who seek political advantage and the right again to indulge in unfair practices or exploitation of labor or consumers deliberately seek to quarrel over the obvious fact that a great code of law, of order and of decent business cannot be created in a day or a year," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

All details of the legislation were left to congress. While this is in progress, the senate finance committee proposes to conduct the Nye-McCarran investigation of the NRA administration and codes. The judiciary subcommittee reported no funds available, but the inquiry, which has the President's approval, will be attempted without money.

MORE than 100 men were reported killed or wounded in a skirmish in the "demilitarized" zone which lies between Manchukuo and China north of Tientsin. The clash was between the recently formed Peace Preservation corps and the Lwanchow militia. The Peace Preservation corps, which has the approval of the Chinese government, was receiving money and arms from the Japanese, it was alleged. The militia is supported by local Chinese interests.

VICTOR A. CHRISTGAU, demoted from his position of second ranking officer of the AAA in the recent shake-up which involved several alleged radicals, resigned in protest. Chester C. Davis, administrator, had not accepted the resignation and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was attempting to persuade Christgau to change his mind.

Wallace hinted that there had been differences between Christgau and A. H. Lauterbach, chief of the AAA dairy section, over the milk policy. A protege of Undersecretary Rexford Guy Tugwell, Christgau was also supposed to have encountered "friction" with other members of the department. This gave rise to new rumors that Brain Truster Tugwell will resign before his influence in the AAA is too severely curtailed by the demotion and ouster of his confreres.

Secretary Wallace

Meanwhile amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act were declared to conceal dangerous, arbitrary and autocratic powers over farmers, manufacturers and distributors of farm products, by the legislative committee of the agricultural industries conference in Washington. The committee cited the provision that the AAA may require that a licensed processor purchase only from those who sign contracts. It charges that the amendments make no provision for the farmer to express himself in the matter of licenses, but contain provisions for price control, markets, production and purchasing. Through indirect restriction of the farmer's market, these provisions are equivalent to a licensing of the farmer, according to the committee. "The entire economic life of communities could be directed from Washington," the committee said.

BRUNO RICHARD HAUPTMANN escaped the electric chair at least temporarily when a writ of error filed by defense attorneys earned him a stay of the execution sentence which was to be carried out at Trenton, N. J., March 18. The Bronx carpenter's life is safe at least until September or October, since a further appeal can be made to the court of pardons if the court of errors and appeals fails to uphold the writ. Lloyd C. Fisher and Frederick A. Pope presented the appeal after a battle with Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly, who subsequently threatened that either he or Fisher would have to withdraw from the Hauptmann defense. The hearing will probably take place at the next session of the court, which begins May 21.

Part of the dissension among defense attorneys was thought to exist because Reilly never challenged the assumption that the body of the dead baby was that of Lindbergh's son. George H. Foster, former investigator for the defense, declared that seven autopsies were ready to show that the baby could not have been Lindy's because it was four inches taller than Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.; was in a less identifiable condition than would have been possible in the mild weather following the kidnaping, and was embalmed.

THIRTY-ONE inmates shot and killed a guard in a spectacular break from the Oklahoma state prison at Granite, the only male penal institution administered by a woman warden. Thirteen were captured shortly afterward and a man-hunt is on for the others. The fugitives used two guns which had been smuggled to them, forced a "trusty" turnkey to open up for them, corralled 20 visitors in the visitors' room and, using them for a shield, made their escape. Her prison already the subject of investigation into its moral and managerial standards, the warden, Mrs. G. A. "Mother" Waters, was ordered replaced by a man, Gov. E. W. Marland declaring that a woman "just can't manage" a prison. Defiantly, she refused to clear out until completed investigations vindicated her.

ON THE heels of the Supreme court's gold ruling, former President Herbert Hoover demanded re-establishment of the gold standard in the United States as the only way "to restore confidence in our currency." This could only be done by making the dollar immediately convertible at the present 59 cents of gold—the "modern method of specie payment."

Herbert Hoover

The only living ex-President said that such action would put more of the 12,000,000 unemployed men back to work than any other step. The United States should take the lead in returning to the standard, he said, declaring that, "There is no need to wait on foreign nations before we re-establish the gold standard and restore confidence in our currency. They would be bound to follow some time. They are more afraid of our doing just this than they are of any American 'managed currency.'"

DR. F. E. Townsend of California, whose pension plan for the aged has gained the support of many thousands of America's citizens, went before the senate finance committee and tried to explain how the government could get out of its economic troubles by paying $200 monthly pensions to all persons over sixty, provided each one must spend his $200 for commodities or services within the country each month. The senators didn't treat the proposition with much seriousness.

Chairman Harrison said that with 10,000,000 or more aged, the plan would cost $24,000,000,000 a year. But a 2 per cent tax would raise only $5,000,000,000, leaving a deficit of $19,000,000,000 a year.

"Yes," Townsend said, "but we will not be able to put 10,000,000 on the pension immediately. It took two years to get 4,000,000 men into the army. We would have to examine each citizen for his citizenship and age, as we examined applicants for the army."

A NEW assault on Germany's unemployment problem is announced by Nazi leaders, who will put their plan into effect on April 1. The scheme, the most drastic yet announced, will force most young people to give up their paying jobs and join the government labor service which will send them to construction projects, "voluntary" labor camps, and to farms.

In this way, positions will be opened for older men and those with dependents. All jobs for persons under twenty-five will be state-controlled, and the entire labor market will be under Nazi domination. Jobless at the present time are estimated at 2,000,000. Another feature of the campaign is the setting of a definite goal of 800,000 as the number to be left without work as "chronically unemployed."

GERMANY'S reply to the Anglo-French proposals for a European security pact was not very specific but "welcomed the spirit of trustful discussion between the individual governments" and promised that the reich would examine thoroughly "the whole document concerning the European questions contained in it." The note declared the air agreement might be one step toward solution of other problems, and promised that Germany would examine the question of how to avoid the danger of an armaments race. No mention was made of the proposed Danubian and Eastern pacts.

The German conciliatory attitude toward a pact which recognizes its rearmament was generally considered to put the French in an uncomfortable position, since it was believed that the pact was drawn in terms that were expected to find quick German refusal.

REALM LEADER HITLER refused to exercise his prerogative of mercy and two Berlin society women were beheaded by the official executioner for divulging military secrets. Another woman and a Polish nobleman were sentenced to life imprisonment at hard work. The execution of the two women was carried out at dawn with such secrecy that it was hours before their exact fate could be learned. Officials finally admitted that the women had gone to the block where their heads were severed by a silk-hatted executioner with a medieval battle ax.

STEPS to curb the inroads of Japanese landholders in the rich hemp growing province of Davao are being taken by the Philippine government. Strict application of insular laws governing land holdings by aliens will be made, according to Eulogio Rodriguez, secretary of agriculture, who schemes a wholesale cancellation of subleases of public lands, which he maintains are illegal.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—Probability that some compromise on the so-called 30-hour week bill, probably limiting the hours of work in any industry to 36 or 48 hours, but with perhaps a few special exemptions, will be enacted by the present congress is growing. Flat prediction that such a compromise would be enacted is made privately by half a dozen of the more important figures in the house, and by an equal number of influential senators.

The importance of this prediction would be enormously enhanced if the names of the senators and members of the house could be mentioned, with their exact views. Incidentally some of those making the prediction said that they personally opposed the idea; they were merely giving their opinion as to what would happen, not what they wanted.

Nor were these just personal conversations. In each case the statements were made to a group of men who came to Washington seeking to find out what the prospect was—men who wanted to adjust their situations to the probabilities. They did not come to argue for or against the measure, though all of them, for private reasons, happen to be opposed to it.

The tremendous pressure for the measure does not result primarily from the fact that the American Federation of Labor is strongly for it. Nor from the fact that virtually every other labor group is for it. It comes from the evidences that though business has picked up somewhat unemployment has not diminished by anything like the same extent.

So, in short, the thought is a "share the work" idea, rather than a social betterment idea.

It is aimed at reducing unemployment, not at bettering living conditions. In fact, there is some talk of amending the proposal of the Federation of Labor, as embodied in the Connery bill, in a way that would be very displeasing indeed to labor, and which labor, both organized and unorganized, would oppose violently.

Just a Possibility

This is to change the idea so that instead of reducing the number of hours per week, but requiring—as the Connery bill does—that the same amount of dollars be paid each week for the shorter number of hours that is now paid for the present work week, the bill would reduce the number of hours with no mention of what the rate of pay should be. In short, leaving to employers, and to the revision of NRA codes which would follow, what the wages for the shorter work week would be.

This is not mentioned as a probability. Only as a possibility. Actually, it is highly improbable. The measure will probably pass, if it passes at all, with the requirement that the same wages be continued regardless of the cut in hours. And, of course, the compromise, raising the number of hours from the 30 proposed in the Connery bill to at least 36, will soften this blow as far as employers are concerned.

But, as a matter of fact, economists do not regard the question of wages here as very important, except in so far as they apply to inflation. They reason that if the hours are reduced, and the pay per hour increased, the result will be inflation just as surely as by any possible expedient proposed by the followers of Senator Elmer Thomas.

They reason that a wholesale vertical boost in wages, forced by law, would result promptly and almost mathematically in an increase in prices, reducing the purchasing power of the dollars earned by the workers. Hence, the laborious arguments by the opponents of the 30-hour week, or any compromise of it, that it would result in lowering the standard of living in America, either by a smaller number of dollars to spend by each worker, if the pay is maintained at the same hourly rate, or by the smaller purchasing power of the dollars if the wage rate per week is maintained.

The reasoning that is expected to put the compromise over is not concerned with this. It is concerned with getting more people to work, and cutting down the need for the dole and for work relief.

Social Program

Every indication now is that President Roosevelt's social program—old age pensions and unemployment insurance—will go through in very much the form proposed, despite the loud cries of the insurgents about a government subsidy.

The idea of taking all the money for unemployment payments, and old age pensions, out of the federal treasury, is very appealing in some directions. People would like to dodge the direct deductions from their pay envelopes. Argument is made that this tax on pay rolls, which, if both bills are counted, runs gradually up to 5 per cent, would heavily increase the cost of production—assuming it is passed on to the consumer. Or else heavily cut into the spending power of the workers.

But the great advantage that President Roosevelt has had right along, and gives every prospect of continuing to hold—always excepting World court, St. Lawrence seaway, and the bonus—is that his opponents cannot agree.

For example, the ten senators on the appropriations committee who a few days back voted to substitute the dole for work relief, with the avowed purpose of saving the treasury two billion dollars, have maneuvered themselves into a position where it will be rather difficult for them to vote against the President on the social security bills. Or at least vote against him on the only roll-call where the President's position might otherwise have been in jeopardy.

When the roll-call comes on the question of paying all the cost out of the federal treasury—which will be the big test vote—those ten senators would be rather embarrassed to vote to make the treasury carry the load—after all their loud cries in the appropriations committee about the strain on the federal credit of spending nearly five billion dollars on work relief.

Local Interest

Which is highly interesting because some of those ten senators were not worried in the slightest about the federal credit when they voted against the President on that bill in committee. They followed Glass and Adams, who made that issue. But some of them were just voting on that excuse in the hope of getting their states, and the counties and cities back home, out of a jam. They wanted a direct federal gift to the unemployed as against a work project, which contemplates that the local governments shall pay a considerable percentage of the work relief money back to the federal treasury, with interest.

Which is very different, especially if the credit of their states, or local communities in their states which need relief work badly, feel that they have already strained their credit to the breaking point.

But every senator who publicly took the position that the five-billion-dollar bill was too great a strain on federal credit has put his vote on the social security bill in pawn, as far as the only real test vote is concerned. For there is expected to be only one roll-call of importance on those bills which will really be significant. And that is the one which will attempt to shift the entire financial burden on to the federal treasury.

Some contend that the President has already taken one beating on this social security legislation. Their argument is that he wanted both bills enacted prior to the adjournment of the many legislatures which are in session this winter. He did express a hope for that. But it was a hope, not a conviction. It put the stigma for delay on anyone holding up the procession, but the President really never expected any such quick action, and has expressed no disappointment about it.

Actually many advisers of the President thought it would have been very unfortunate if the bills had gone through, and been forced into operation, so speedily. The known fact that manufacturing costs are going to rise has always been a stimulus to business.

Civil Service

Real friends of civil service are far more interested in an immediate reform, which would require only an executive order, than in either the proposal of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, or of Senator C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

What they would like to see is elimination of the prohibition, imposed by an executive order, which prevents any present employee of a post office from taking the examination for the postmastership. This provision, which seems rather hard to explain on any ground other than pure spoils politics, strikes at the heart of the whole civil service idea. It bars advancement to the top in any particular office.

It is this situation which plays into the hands of the Curley faction in Massachusetts, preventing Postmaster Hurley from taking an examination—unless he should resign in the meantime—for appointment to the very job he now holds!

This merely happens to be what seems to many a ridiculous side of the situation. For it might naturally be thought that the man who had been postmaster for a period of years, who had come up through the ranks just as if he had been employed in some private business, and who, according to the testimony of business firms in the city of Boston, had been giving satisfaction, would and should stand a better show of passing first in an examination for his own job than anyone outside the office.

But actually the present law—for that is what an executive order amounts to—not only prevents Postmaster Hurley from competing in an examination for the place he now holds, but it prevents any other employee of the Boston post office from competing.

Favor Norris Plan

Another phase of the present post office situation, which is very distressing to civil service advocates, is that barring anyone from an examination for postmaster who does not receive his mail at the particular office for which he is a candidate. In many western and other thinly populated states there is some point to this. But there is very little merit in it, civil service people contend, in and around the big cities.

The Norris plan would delight the civil service people if they thought there was a Chinaman's chance of its going over. The idea of a postmaster general divorced from politics, serving President after President on a long term appointment just as Comptroller McCarl has served in auditing expenditures, is, in the opinion of the civil service folks, just too good to be true. And therefore not likely to happen.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

Constipated?

The doctors say . . . Use liquid treatment

Here is the soundest advice anyone can give on the subject of laxatives. It is based on medical opinion. We want you to have the benefit of this information no matter what laxative you may buy:

The secret of real relief from constipation is reduced dosage. You can't regulate the bowels unless you can regulate the help you give them. That is why doctors use a liquid laxative; the dose can be measured to a drop.

Avoid laxatives that you can't cut down in dosage; especially those that seem to require larger doses than when you began their use.

Under the doctor's care, you usually get a liquid laxative. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. Smaller and smaller doses—until you don't need any.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—natural laxatives that form no habit.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Revised Version

Genius is the infinite capacity for feeling dissatisfied.

Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust — MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Drastic Vengeance

One form of vengefulness is to spite one's dyspepsia by not eating.

Head COLDS

Put Mentholatum in the nostrils to relieve irritation and promote clear breathing.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

Not Noticeably

Money may talk, but it never gives itself away.

Help Kidneys

- If poorly functioning Kidneys and Bladder make you suffer from Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Stiffness, Burning, Smarting, Itching, or Acidity try the guaranteed Doctor's Prescription Cystex (Sis-tex) —Must fix you up or money back. Only 75¢ at druggists.

Cystex

Beautiful SKIN.. —needs more than cosmetics

Beauty of skin comes from within. When constipation clogs the pores with intestinal wastes, CLEANSE INTERNALLY with Garfield Tea. Helps relieve the clogged system promptly, mildly, effectively. At your drug store 25c & 10c

FREE SAMPLE Write to GARFIELD TEA CO. Dept. 19 Brooklyn, N.Y.

GARFIELD TEA

ECZEMA...

To quickly relieve the itching and burning, and help nature restore skin comfort, freely apply

Resinol

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (For Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO. Chattanooga, Tenn.

WNU—S 9—35

EVERY FARMERS NEEDS A RADIO We will sell a good Battery Radio complete for $39.95, one-half cash, balance this fall. Electric Set for $19.95, same terms. Write for catalogue. We sell batteries for all makes of radios. E. E. FORBES & SONS PIANO CO. BIRMINGHAM ALABAMA

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, sound asleep. Several days later her partially restored memory leads her to tell Lanny of her wealthy father, Theodore Gatlin, and of her girlhood in France.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

—16—

"Quit that," Lanny commanded in her most ferocious manner. "If I hadn't found you lovable I wouldn't have you in my house this minute. I'd turn you over to Flynn and Angelloti. By the way," she continued, "how did you get that sock on the beezer?"

"Father took me to a baseball game and a long drive flew into the bleachers and struck me on the nose. Lanny, you mustn't use slang. It isn't polite."

"I wrap myself around a highball when I'm tired or want to be sociable, and I smoke cigarettes," Lanny protested. "I suppose a perfect lady wouldn't do those things, either?"

"A perfect lady may without marring her perfection, old fuss-budget. That's a matter of personal liberty, and only becomes distressing when carried to excess. But there's no excuse for a highly intelligent and cultured woman to employ the language of the streets."

"I have my human moments," Lanny excused herself meekly.

"I'll set the table in the dining room. Won't you order some flowers? And Lanny—I'll do something for you some day."

"For instance?"

"Well, have you ever been to Europe?"

"Certainly not."

"Then I'll take you."

"I accept the nomination. In return I'll do something else for you. I'll have that nose of yours split open, the shattered bone of the bridge scraped out and a cute little piece of pliable cartilage whittled off one of your spare ribs, and grafted into your funny nose to form a new bridge. Then the doctor will sew your nose together again over it—"

"What's the difference between having a nose like a Pekinese and a makeshift with a big scar on it, I'd like to know?"

"Oh, there won't be any scar, dearie. The surgeon will cut a strip of epidermis off your forehead and without detaching it from your forehead, bring the flap down, drape it over your new scarred nose and graft it there. It will grow and cover the scar, and when everything's lovely, that skin connection with your forehead will be severed and the ragged edges trimmed and presently nature will do the rest. Six months after the operation I'll defy anybody but an expert to discover you've got a custom-made nose."

The girl's eyes shone. "Is it true, Lanny, is it true? It's so hard to believe in miracles."

"Science pulls 'em off daily, my dear."

Nance changed the subject. "Here, here, we're gabbling like a pair of geese. The linen, woman, where's the linen? Off with your hat and coat. While you're getting it I'll run upstairs and get your mules."

"After dinner I must do some more pumping," thought Lanny. "The information will be invaluable to Stephen. Strange case! Total amnesia sometimes, only partial amnesia at others. Dreadful mixture."

When Dan McNamara came home about midnight from the regular weekly meeting of the police commission, he found his ex-convict guest up and waiting for him. "I had two burglars here tonight, about ten o'clock, Chief," he announced.

The chief sat down and loaded his pipe. "I was expecting them, my boy. Did they ask you any questions?"

"No. They just searched the house. I don't think they touched anything except the lipstick on the bureau over there," he said.

"Did they take the lipstick?" Dan asked.

"They didn't take it, they looked at it." McNamara sighed. The case was getting a little thick for him when it became complicated with lipsticks. He went to the telephone and got Stephen Burt out of bed.

"Did a certain party, while a guest at my house, ask you to bring out a lipstick when you called in the course of your professional duties, Doctor?"

"Oh, yes."

"Thanks. Goodnight." McNamara hung up and went to the room lately occupied by Nance Belden. On the bureau he found a lipstick. "Vanity is always the undoing of a crook," he sighed and went to bed, greatly troubled in his mind at what was, to him, indubitable knowledge that Flynn and Angelloti, even though they had failed to find their quarry, must be convinced, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that he had harbored an escaped convict in his home.

He passed a sleepless night, but he did some solid thinking, so there was no lost time. He had hoped, by providing this sick convict as an excuse for Doctor Burt's nightly visits, to throw Flynn and Angelloti off the scent—and now the scent was hotter than ever.

"Now, what will they do? They're morally certain she went to Lanny's house the night she escaped and that Lanny got her out of there in the nick of time and took her here. Now that she's escaped them here they may suspect she'd doubled back to Lanny's house. Murderation! However, those two dicks will never bother her without fortifying themselves with a search warrant. They'd be too afraid of me. But with a search warrant and the girl to show for their pains they'll have me foul. I couldn't open my mouth—if they bring the girl into headquarters I'll have to give them a cheer and congratulate them."

He decided Flynn and Angelloti would sleep on their evidence and the suspicions it had aroused, compare notes in the morning and decide upon a course of action. They would have to adduce some nominal evidence to support their suspicion before the district attorney would consent to issue the search warrant, for a search warrant is not issued lightly. In the morning they would induce some stool-pigeon to tell the district attorney that he had seen Nance Belden's face at the window of Lanny's home. Possibly they might induce the patrolman on that beat to stretch the truth a little.

"Science Pulls 'Em Off Daily, My Dear."

"I can't get Nance out of Lanny's house tonight and I can't get her out in daylight tomorrow, but I must get her out tomorrow night," he decided. "But how?"

He was at his office at eight next morning. At eight-thirty he looked into the detectives' room and saw Flynn and Angelloti in profound conference. Half an hour later he stepped out of a taxi two blocks from Lanny's house, and when the cab had disappeared, he made his way to the house and was admitted by Lanny.

"Nance has got to make a clean getaway," he assured her earnestly, "because tonight Flynn and his pal may come with a search warrant. The district attorney will probably call me up before he issues it and I'll have to tell him to go ahead and issue it, in order to allay suspicion. Now, here are half a dozen harmless hand grenades that burst on impact. Three of them are tear gas bombs and three are stink bombs.

"Now, I'll tell you exactly how they'll make the pinch. They'll not come during the day, because they'll know you aren't at home and that Nance wouldn't answer that bell anyhow. But tonight, one of them will ring the front doorbell and shove the search warrant under your nose and step inside. The other will, in the meantime, have gone around to your back door to prevent the girl's escape in that direction. There's a cement floor around your kitchen door, is there not?

"Yes. Well, when the doorbell rings, you answer it. That will be Nance's tip to peek out the second story window and lob three bombs down on the cement beside whoever she sees standing there. They explode with a sound like a gunshot and diffuse their gas almost instantly over a considerable area. Now, whichever one goes to the back door will never be expecting a citizen to shower this sort of bomb down on him, because they are not accessible to citizens; so he will think they're electric light bulbs tossed down to scare him away. By the way, have Nance toss one electric light bulb down first and then follow with two tear bombs—here, I'll make a mark with my pencil on the tear bombs. Before he realizes what has happened he'll be weeping like Niobe and unable to see anything in the darkness.

"But bear this in mind, Lanny. He'll not desert his post. He'll hug the back door and be ready to grab her when she comes. He'll stick it out. That's the time Nance must drop a stink bomb beside him.

"Meanwhile the man in front will hear the explosions. If the one in back cries out, the one in front will figure he has been shot and will run to the back door to help him. As he opens the back door his pal will grab him. You must follow at his heels and shut and bolt the door instantly, or you'll get yours, too. There will be a momentary struggle between Flynn and Angelloti in the dark because the front door man will think he has the scoundrel that hurled the bombs; and by the time they discover each other's identity, the front door man will be as sightless and ill as the back door man.

"Nance, a word to you now."

"My name is Penelope Gatlin, Dan."

"My error. Penelope, the instant you drop those first two bombs, shut down the window. And, remember, all the lights in the rear of the house and particularly in the kitchen must be turned off. When the front door man is struggling with his pal and Lanny has closed the door, her scream will be your cue to open the window again, just long enough to pay the rest of your eggs on the scrimmage. You must be dressed for the street and have some money in your pocket. Got any?"

"No."

"Here's two hundred."

"I'll send you my check. Thanks." And she took the money.

"Immediately after tossing the last of the bombs, close the window and beat it downstairs and out the front door. I'll leave a coupe, with the motor running, parked at the curb across the street. Can you drive?"

"I can drive, Dan."

"Very well, then. Climb into the car and beat it."

"Beat it where?"

"Los Angeles, San Diego, anywhere. Keep on going, and when you get there, send me a wire to the central station merely giving your address. Then lay low until somebody comes after you. Keep off the street. Lanny, you must disguise her nose. Clamp a wadding of cotton and a neat dressing over it to hide the dish in it. Any lady is liable to have an injury to her nose and wear a dressing on it. Now, is everything understood?"

Nance nodded, and Lanny's silence gave consent. "You'll probably get a whiff of what's good for Flynn and Angelloti," McNamara advised Lanny, "but you'll get over it. When you lob over the last of your rotten eggs, Penelope, do not breathe, and close your eyes tightly until you have closed the window again. Then—out of the house like a shot. This plan of mine is fool-proof if followed absolutely, but it's you for San Quentin again if it isn't, my brave lassie, and all the chiefs of police in town cannot help you then."

CHAPTER VIII

—

"Thank you, sir," said Nance politely and with quiet dignity. "You are most kind to take this trouble for a stranger, and I shall never forget it." And she held out her hand.

McNamara looked in puzzlement at Lanny. "What's happened to her?" he demanded.

"I'll explain to you some time. You're a brilliant chief of police and you've figured everything out to a gnat's eyelash for Penelope, but what's going to happen to me?"

"The concoction of the plan I've just outlined has given me brain fag, Lanny. It's cost me a night's sleep. I don't know what's going to happen to you and I don't care much. You're a smart woman, and if you can't figure a way out of your end of the mess don't call on me for help."

"I wish I could relish that compliment," Lanny retorted dryly. "However, if you think I'm not going to laugh myself sick over this you're a poor judge of women. Good-by, you old crook, and God bless you. Kiss him, Penelope."

A becoming modesty caused the girl to hesitate just a little, then she came to the chief and implanted a most ladylike kiss on his blue jowl. "You're very kind, Mr. McNamara," she assured him again.

"Cripes," he muttered and went off.

Dan McNamara's estimate of the ability of Detective Sergeants Flynn and Angelloti did them no injustice; indeed, they proved even smarter than their chief credited them with being. Angelloti's adventure with Dan McNamara they passed over as an unavoidable accident; Angelloti was certain McNamara had not recognized him. He felt certain McNamara had no suspicion that his house was under surveillance, although Flynn had mental reservations on that point, for the Irish are a psychic race.

After watching Doctor Burt enter and leave the chief's house on Thursday night, when they knew the chief would not be home until midnight, they decided to investigate. The unlocked cellar door gave them pause; Flynn whispered that he was always suspicious of things that came too easy. They crept upstairs and found Dan McNamara's ex-convict guest reading in bed. Both detectives recognized him, so while Angelloti guarded him Flynn made a hurried but thorough search of the premises. They were not in the house more than five minutes.

TO BE CONTINUED

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

SHE WROTE A BOOK

IT APPEARED first as a serial in an unimportant newspaper in the National Capital. She was paid $300 for her story of some 200,000 words—a little better than a hundredth of a cent a word. The first book publisher to whom she submitted her novel turned it down. But in March, 1852, a Boston company brought it out in two volumes. The first edition and then a second were exhausted within a month. Within six months she had received $10,000 in royalties.

By the end of the year 295,000 copies had been sold. For years it was an American "best seller" and established a record which no other novel came near touching. It has been translated into almost every language on earth. The copyright ran out long ago but it is still on the lists of more than a score of American publishers who sell about 5,000 copies annually.

A play based on the book was produced in the summer of 1853 and it ran for 77 years—that is, it was always being performed somewhere during that time, mostly by several companies. It had the "longest run" in theatrical history.

Although it is now admitted that the book was an exaggerated and distorted picture of the conditions which it portrayed, it helped bring on the greatest civil war in history which cost over $3,000,000,000 and took the lives of more than 700,000 men.

The book was "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the woman who wrote it was Harriet Beecher Stowe.

• • •

A PINCH ON THE LEG

THEODORE ROOSEVELT wanted to be renominated for governor of New York because it was a stepping stone to the Presidency. Senator Thomas C. Platt, Republican boss of the Empire state, had other ideas. T. R. had antagonized Platt's Wall Street friends and the boss decided that the vice presidency, then regarded as the graveyard for all political ambitions, was the place for the Rough Rider.

Platt tried to make Roosevelt promise that if the New York Republican caucus indorsed him for the job, that he would not decline it. Reluctantly T. R. agreed, then added: "But I shall certainly urge them to name some one else."

At this point, Frank Platt, the boss's son, interrupted, "All right, but I'll pinch you, if I see any signs of your getting up and declining!"

In the caucus, Roosevelt did speak emphatically against his candidacy for vice president and urged that it be given no support. Then he sat down on the speaker's platform. Several of his close friends gathered about him and pleaded with him to decline. For a moment he wavered. Then young Platt pinched him on the leg and whispered, "Remember your contract with the senator!" So Roosevelt kept faith with the boss and against the advice of his friends rose and accepted the nomination.

But the joke turned out to be on Platt after all. He thought he had "shelved" Roosevelt by making him vice president. McKinley died from an assassin's bullet and T. R. went to the White House—sent there by a pinch on the leg!

• • •

CAKES AND WINE

THE tea which was "served" at the famous Boston Tea Party one December night in 1773 is commonly regarded as the most important beverage in Revolutionary war history. But something should be said for the cakes and wine which were served by Mary Lindley Murray in New York one August afternoon in 1776.

Washington had just been defeated at the Battle of Long Island and, by a masterly maneuver, had led part of his army safely across the East river. General Putnam's 4,000 Continentals were also retreating but it seemed certain that Sir William Howe's quick movement would cut them off.

So confident was Howe that when his companion, Governor Tryon, suggested they stop at the home of Robert Murray, a Quaker merchant, whose wife was a Patriot sympathizer, and banter her about the rout of her "rebel" friends, the British commander willingly agreed. Mrs. Murray and her daughters were charming. They gave Howe and Tryon and Sir Henry Clinton and Lord Cornwallis a warm welcome. The wine and cakes the women served were excellent. For two hours the British officers lingered.

During those precious two hours, Putnam and his Continentals were swiftly marching. By the time Howe took up the pursuit again, Putnam's 4,000 were safely out of reach. They joined Washington and the next day helped him fight the Battle of Harlem Heights, the only Revolutionary battle won by the Americans in what is now New York city.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

Hole Made by Meteor

A mile wide hole in the earth northeast of Fallon, Nev., long thought to be an old volcano crater, is, instead, a hole made by a huge meteorite which struck the earth.

POULTRY

EARLY CHICKS KEY TO INCOME ON EGGS

Birds Likely to Come Into Fall Production.

By M. L. Mosher, Farm Management Division, University of Illinois.—WNU Service.

One of the first things that poultrymen can do in the new year to increase their average annual cash income of $20,000,000 from eggs is to buy or hatch their baby chicks early enough in the season.

When properly fed and cared for, early-hatched chicks are more likely to come into egg production in the fall months when prices are higher.

In a group of 26 north-central Illinois farms last year the egg sales amounted to an average of $104 more in the same area because the hens were raised and fed to produce more eggs during the fall and winter months when prices were good. The extra feed used to bring the pullets into early production amounted only to $36 a farm, thus leaving $68 a farm more above feed costs.

The records kept on these 121 farms showed that the 26 better-paying flocks produced 25 per cent or more of their eggs during October, November and December. These same flock owners received an average of five cents a dozen more for all eggs sold during the year than did the other 95 farmers whose birds produced less than 10 per cent of their eggs in the high-price season. The feed cost was only 1¾ cents a dozen more on the farms producing the higher percentage of fall and winter eggs. These differences in selling price and feed costs, when applied to all eggs produced on the farms accounted for the average $68 increase in egg profits.

An average of 40 more eggs were produced by each hen on the farms that fed for fall and winter production. Higher quality of hens, better sanitation and health practices and improved feeding methods, all contributed to this larger production. That the hens were kept busy laying eggs throughout more of the year seemed to be an important reason for the greater average production for each bird in the 26 better-paying flocks.

Allow Ten to Fourteen Turkey Hens to One Tom

Ordinarily, about ten turkey hens should be mated to one tom, but if the pen be large 12 to 14 hens may be used with a single young tom, says the Missouri Farmer. If a large flock of hens are kept, several toms can be used on the hens, in which case they should be alternated—one tom allowed with the hens one day, and another tom the next day, etc. Such a mating makes for extra good fertility because the toms have a chance to rest and feed on alternate days. Also if one tom should happen to be sterile the eggs from hens with which he mates will not be lost. Furthermore, if toms are alternated they can be used on a larger number of hens than where they are used entirely with an individual pen.

If two or more pens are kept they should be separated so that the toms cannot fight through the fence and thus waste their time as well as weaken themselves. More than one tom should not be placed in the breeding pen at one time unless the pen is large, embracing several acres. Nests should be provided which may be a barrel, a large box, or a brushpile, and one nest should be available for every five hens.

Old Poultry Lore

In a book written about 1750, M. De Reaumur, a Frenchman, stated: "To avoid cannibalism, do not crowd the chicks. Weak legs are prevented by sunlight. Moisten feed to fatten poultry. Feed animal protein. Do not expand beyond the food supply. Infertile eggs keep better than fertile eggs. The feed affects the flavor of the egg." In those days they knew nothing of vitamins, proteins, the importance of balanced rations, and so on, but it is evident that they had learned a great many things by observation that later have been proved out by experimental work.

Eliminate Infected Hens

Some good reasons for eliminating infected hens from farm flocks are: First, the fertility of eggs from infected hens is low. On the average, 71 per cent of chicks which are hatched from infected eggs die of pullorum disease. Infected hens lay on the average less than half the eggs that healthy hens lay. Thirty per cent of reacting hens, on the average, die annually, whereas the normal death rate in farm flocks is estimated at about 10 per cent.

Use Stale Storage Eggs

The Chinese use duck eggs, which they prize very highly after they have been stored for a long time. The eggs are stored in barrels with a coat of mud over them and mixed with lime or salt and pine needles. The older the eggs get the more valuable they are. They turn very black and naturally acquire a very strong taste and odor. When they are taken out of the preservative they are simply eaten as they are or perhaps flavored with soy sauce.

A Law Every Mother Should Know and Observe

Never Give Your Child An Unknown Remedy without Asking Your Doctor First

According to any doctor you ask, the only safe way is never to give your child a remedy you don't know all about, without asking him first.

When it comes to "milk of magnesia," that you know everywhere, for over 60 years, doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia for your child."

So—always say Phillips' when you buy. And, for your own peace of mind, see that your child gets this; the finest men know.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Of Two Evils—

It is better to be incensed at one's self than to indulge in self pity.

FERRY'S PUREBRED FLOWER SEEDS

FLOWERS

YOUR NEIGHBORS WILL ENVY

Don't take a back seat when it comes to growing flowers. Plant Ferry's Purebred Flower Seeds and your garden will be the envy of every one in your neighborhood. They are purebred seeds—the offspring of generations of perfect plants.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD STORE SELLS THEM IN FRESH DATED PACKETS —MANY ONLY..... 5c

Psychological

Grief makes men slow of foot, but good news mends their pace.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

COUGHS

BOYS, Make money, repair and build bikes with used parts. Send quarter for illustrated instructions "HOW TO LACE BICYCLE WHEEL." FOREMAN'S 1220 N. Wis. St., Dept. A, Racine, Wisc.

CARBOIL for BOILS

Eases throbbing pain; allays inflammation; reduces swelling; lessens tension; quickly heals. Easily applied. Inexpensive. Results guaranteed. Also use for festers, risings, cuts, burns, and bites. At your druggist, or write Spurlock-Neal Co., Nashville, Tenn.

USE STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE

KILLS RATS MICE COCKROACHES —NOW IN TUBES ASK YOUR DEALER 35¢

Does Your Mirror Reflect Rough, Pimply Skin? Use CUTICURA

Anoint the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off after a short time with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for several minutes. Pimples, rashes and other distressing eruptions are quickly soothed and a condition established which conduces to healing.

Ointment 25c and 50c. Soap 25c.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

SPORTS

By CARLOS C. WARREN, Calera, Alabama

The Senior-Junior Basketball Initiation Tournament which was cancelled for March 1st and 2nd, has been scheduled for March 16th with only Junior High School teams playing. There will be only one day but many prominent Junior teams are expected to win. Each school will be allowed to enter nine players and the coach. The names of the players must be in the hands of the officials not later than March 9th. Make your plans now to attend this big sporting event in Calera.

Three Shelby County teams, Montevallo, Thompson and Vincent, entered the Fifth District High School Basketball Tournament held at the Howard Gym last week. Although all three teams were eliminated before the finals, we can give them credit for playing some of the best games of the entire tournament.

Vincent players were heard from twice on the courts and put up a good fight each time. They lost out Friday.

The Siluria team played a wonderful game of ball with West Jefferson, Friday. At times during the game we thought Thompson would come through with flying colors but sad to say, they lost their first game. R. E. Lee and Mullins were high score men and both played beautiful games.

The Montevallo Quintet barged into their old enemy, Bessemer, Friday afternoon and to the great surprise of the spectators emerged the victors. It was one of the best games we have seen this year. With a slow, deliberate game the boys began piling up the scores. But Bessemer, determined not to be beaten, would not let the Montevallo boys get but one or two points ahead. At the end of the first half the score stood 11-11. The second half was a tense one for both players and spectators. Donald Milstead was high score man for both of Montevallo's games, making 10 points in the first and 12 points in the second game. Montevallo High owes a lot to this boy who seemed to find the hoop 'most every time.

Montevlalo's second game was a little disappointing but the boys played a nice game against such stars as Bradford and Sharpe.

The line-ups and summaries are as follows:

Carbon Hill (28)—Allen (6) and Hammett (2), forwards; Smith (9), center; Stokes (4) and Couch (7), guards; Taylor and Nix, subs.

Vincent (17)—Beauers (6) and Sothern (1), forwards; Holcomb (6), center; Buckeley (3) and Lowe (1), guards.

Siluria (21)—Mullins (6) and P. Lee (2), forwards; R. E. Lee (9), center; Payne (4) and Hodges, guards; Oldham, substitute.

West Jefferson (25)—Johnson (6) and Poole (9), forwards; Ullery (4), center; Card (4) and Dickey (2), guards.

Montevallo (21)—W. Eddins (2) and Milstead (10). forwards; Wood (6), center; J. Eddins (1) and Finley (2), guards.

Bessemer (19)—Jordan (2) and Terrell, forwards; Holoman (4), center; Canzoneri (2) and Little (11), guards; Mann, substitute.

Woodlawn (41)—Bradford (11) and Cather (9), forwards; Sharpe (17), center; Rast and Burton (4), guards; Adams, McCall, Patterson and Tortarigi, substitutes.

Montevallo (19)—W. Eddins (4) and Milstead (12), forwards; Woods (1), center; J. Eddins (2) and Finley, guards; Kroell, Wilson, Hardy and Green, substitutes.

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately. Rawleigh, Dept. ALB - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets Salve-Nose Drops

SOUTHEASTERN CASKET COMPANY

Located on Main Street in Sylacauga, are Manufacturers of High Grade Cloth Covered Caskets. Request them from your retail undertakers as they are manufactured by local interests and merit your undivided support.

Each race, in its religious ceremonies, pays tribute to the mighty hand of death. In our civilized time, we attach a certain dignity to the funeral service, and we demand that the dignity of this service be unspoiled by anything. Nothing adds so much to the solemnity of the occasion, nothing is so in accord with the deep sentiments of those moments than a casket suitable to shelter the sacred remains of our dead. It is the last tribute, that final something which overlays all.

To manufacture caskets in keeping with the beautiful tribute paid to the dead, to make the funeral service so far as possible a thing of beauty is the purpose of this Casket Company. When you want a beautiful Cloth Covered Casket, ask your undertaker for a casket manufactured by the Southeastern Casket Company.

SQUARE DEAL MARKET & GROCERY CO.

In Sylacauga. Take your basket here when you wish to have it completely filled with the best grades of food. They keep the grocery well stocked with staple and fancy groceries as well as fresh fruits and vegetables in season.

At this popular grocery and food store you will find only the most wholesome and nationally known lines of provisions.

"Buy it at this grocery," is a fitting slogan for all people who wish to keep their food bill at the lowest possible figure. In this day and age the modern grocery store is more than just a grocery store. It is a store where you get good groceries and the very best of foods at all times, their slogan is, we spend with those who spend with us. When you buy it at this grocery you save money and why? For the well-known fact that a grocery is operated on a smaller margin of profit than any other line of business. And for this reason they must turn their stock five or more times a year, thus insuring fresh goods at all times of the year.

HOWARD-PARKER FURNITURE CO.

In Sylacauga, telephone 422.

Here is the place to furnish your home at a real saving. Their stock contains everything the modern home desires from living room to the kitchen.

Before you furnish your home, let them show you these home outfits. You will be delighted with their variety and beauty.

When you buy furniture of this well known establishment you are assured of the very best and paying only a very reasonable price for the articles that you buy. It takes care and judgment to buy the right quality and when you are told at this establishment that the goods offered are of the latest style you need not hesitate in making the purchase.

It has always been the endeavor of this store to secure a fair and honest profit, but their business principles never permit an exhorbitant one.

They have provided the trade with a complete line of representative goods in which you can have every confidence. They are offered at most reasonable prices and when the quality of the material is considered you will say that they are extremely low in prices. They are supporting NRA one hundred percent.

CITY NATIONAL BANK

Located in Sylacauga. Interest on Savings, Checking Accounts, Investments. See them about your financial affairs. Leonard Smith, President.

This well known bank is an institution that has gained prestige at such a substantial rate since its organization that it has taken its place as one of the Gibralters of Finance in this section, as it is conducted with a conservation that makes it a very reliable institution.

This strong financial institution has aided in the upbuilding of the community. A few dollars started in an account has placed many a man on the road to success. The possessor of a bank account soon becomes a home owner and then has money on deposit from which he draws interest. This is the road to success and this institution has been instrumental in starting many a man who has acquired habits of saving that have made him and his family happy in the possession of a comfortable home.

The history of this bank shows that it has adopted a policy of faithfulness and service. "Stand by and fight for those with whom you have placed your faith." This bank stands by its customers at all times, in peace and prosperity as in storm and stress. Faithfulness and service have been their watchword and guide for years. They can be a friend indeed to you if you are one of their depositors.

LEGAL NOTICE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.

In the Circuit Court for the Eighteenth Circuit of Alabama, in Equity.

E. D. LeMay, Complainant, VS. Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, Respondents.

In this cause it being made to appear to the Register by affidavit of D. K. McKamy, solicitor for E. D. LeMay, complainant, that the respondents, Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, are non-residents of the State of Alabama, residing in Nashville, Tennessee, and whose other address is unknown to complainant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the respondents are of the age of twenty-one years;

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Shelby County Democrat, a newspaper published in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber to plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 18th day of March, 1935, or thirty days thereafter a decree pro-confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office, this 12th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS, Register.
2-14-4t.

NOTICE OF SALE.

In The Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity. No. 1642.

G. M. Edmonds, Complainant, VS. Joe Lett, et al., Respondents.

By virtue of a Decree in the above stated cause rendered at the July Term 1934, on the 22nd day of December, 1934, of the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, In Equity, to satisfy said Decree, I will sell to the highest and best bidder for cash, at public sale at the Court House door of said County, between the hours of Eleven o'clock a. m. and Four o'clock p. m. on Monday, the 11th day of March, 1935, the following described real estate:

The North-half of the Northwest Quarter of Section 12, and the Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section One, and the West-half of the Northwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section One; all in Township 20, S. of Range 3 W.

Witness my hand, this the 8th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS, Register.
2-14-3t.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Rev. Sam Henderson preached at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost motored to Decatur, Sunday.

A large number of young people attended the College Night program at Montevallo, Thursday night.

Tom Harper, of Elliottsville, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler.

Wilbur Hughes and Miss Lizzie Garner were married Saturday night by the Rev. Sam Henderson. We wish this young couple a long and happy life.

Mr. M. G. Roy, of Siluria, was a visitor here, Monday.

Mr. Russell Edwards, of Calera, stopped a short time here Monday.

Pete B. Jarman, of Montgomery, was greeting friends here Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Virgial Horton went to Lineville for the week-end.

Mr. J. B. King spent the week-end in Columbiana.

Mr. Bean, of Clanton, spent Saturday here.

FARMERS DEFRAUDED BY CHANGE OF MULE TEETH

AUBURN, Ala.—Dr. C. A. Cary, state veterinarian, has issued a warning to Alabama farmers to be careful about depending upon the teeth of horses and mules determining their ages.

Dr. Cary declares that many farmers are being "outrageously defrauded" by horse and mule dealers and shippers changing the animals' teeth so that they appear much younger than they really are. He gave an example of one mule that was bought as a 6-year old and it was found to be 20 years old.

A bill is now before the state legislature making it "unlawful to transport or move in any way for any purpose into Alabama any horses, mules, or other solipeds that have had any of their teeth burned, cauterized, or changed in any way to make them look younger than they are." It also prohibits state dealers changing the animals' teeth.

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

QUALITY MARKET

In Sylacauga, phone 176, is headquarters for people from all the surrounding territory for meats of all kind, chickens, etc.

Featuring everything the best—have the latest refrigeration system and place is kept in the most sanitary manner—their meats are better.

The poultry department of this store is a feature of the home life of this part of the state as chickens and game can be secured here that are in the very best of condition and the housewives have found them of the best quality.

IDEAL PRESSING CLUB

In Sylacauga, phone 281, W. B. Sparks, Manager.

If you don't happen to be going to town just send in your work by parcel post and it will be given the best attention and returned promptly.

There is no one establishment that has done more for the good of the people of the community during this era of high prices than this modern cleaning establishment.

The fact that they are able to take clothing that fades or needs cleaning and, turn it out so that it looks like new has saved many a high priced purchase and helped to lower the cost of living.

This is a business that requires experience and they employ only practical help. Their assistants are all able and efficient workmen who know their line thoroughly and thus you are assured the most careful and painstaking work.

PALACE DRUG COMPANY

No. 1 and No. 2 in Sylacauga, phone 27 and 9110. This is one of the most modern drug stores to be found in this section. Honest methods have built up a growing business from the city and surrounding territory.

Quality goods are sold at this establishment at reasonable prices.

Many lines of goods are handled at this store, all standard and of time-tried merit, and the store is so advertised that anything carried in a twentieth century drug store can be found here. Included in their list are toilet articles of every description as well as household remedies which have proven their worth to thousands of American homes.

The prescription department uses only the purest of drugs and each prescription is compounded by a registered pharmacist.

J. U. BRIDGES MARKET

Located in Sylacauga. Everything in the very finest of foods can be obtained here and in the highest grades. Clerks are courteous and keenly alert to wait on you. Try them on your next trip to town.

Enjoying a large and well merited patronage from the city and surrounding territory.

There are few, if any grocery dealers in this section who have attained a prominence equal to this popular store for the accomodation of the public. They have an enviable record for cleanliness and sanitation.

Insisting that everything about their place be in accordance with the most modern scientific ideas regarding sanitation, they have thus assured the public that groceries which come from their store are pure and wholesome. Nor have they seen fit to take advantage of the general tendency to raise prices needlessly, as have many dealers, but on the other hand have been most moderate in selling.

By reason of their fair dealing with the public their patronage has increased until today their store is visited daily by many not only from its home city, but from the surrounding territory. Whenever in need of anything in their line, our readers could not do better than to visit this modern place and be convinced and see products which they offer in abundance and at prices that are extremely reasonable.

FAMOUS ABC IRONER

Only 10%

cash installs washer or ironer, OR BOTH, in your home. Balance payable in 18 months.

WOMEN everywhere say this new ABC washer is the finest, quickest and, under our low rates, the most economical washer money can buy. It washes all the family clothing and linens—from finest lingeries to roughest overalls—thoroughly, safely, beautifully. The famous ABC "Fingertip Control" and "Touch Release" features make operation easy and pleasant. There's an ABC washer to fit every need and pocketbook. Select YOURS now.

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

Use More Electricity

SEE YOUR DEALER, OR

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electric Rates are LOW in Alabama!

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

The Election is past history, so what shall we begin an argument about? Perhaps it will be just as well to "skip it", and begin a mental acrobatic feat and get out the paper on time!

There has been a lull in all social activities during the past week—and if anything has happened "up and down Main street", we have not seen it. The WEATHER, therefore, seems to be the only topic left to begin a verbal ramble on.

Just about the time we were "all set" for SPRING, Old Man Winter, bringing Jack Frost and his entire stock of icebergs returned, and sent us scurrying into the house to "Throw Another Log On The Fire". We should have paid some attention to that little fuzzy Wuzzy weather prophet on February 2nd, for he plainly stated, when he saw his shadow, that we were in for another six weeks of winter—but we preferred to think otherwise, and the first Spring day that dawned we wrapped up the old coat and presumed we would not need it until next season. However, we cuddled up in it Election Day when casting our little "yes-es and no-es", firmly resolving if we lost faith in everything else in the world, never again would we lose confidence in Mr. Groundhog. That little fellow keeps his ear close to the ground and from now on out, we are going to listen to him.

Snow, sleet, ice and rain sent Shelby County voters shivering to the Polls—some voted DRY—but all were WET—on the outside. However, that is an old story now—Yesterday is dead! Let's face the morrow—and hope by our "little mark" here and there that the best solution to the Prohibition question has been decided, at least as far as the people have been able to express their sentiment regarding it.

Pete Jarman, former Secretary of State, spent Friday in Columbiana circulating among his many friends in Shelby County.

Alvin Richards, former resident of Columbiana, now making his home in Decatur, Alabama, and making an enviable record as representative for the Marshall-Bruce Company, of Nashville, Tenn., was cordially welcomed to the Democrat office this week. Mr. Richards renewed his subscription to "Shelby County's Leading Newspaper" and says it is "just like getting a letter from home" and he would be "lost" without it. Thats just about as good a "break" for us as we care to have come our way. Thanks Mr. Richards, and we wish for you the continued success you so richly deserve.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Longshore, of Birmingham, spent Monday in Columbiana.

Mrs. Sam H. Wallace, Miss Erin Wallace, of Birmingham, and Miss Roberta Taylor, of Isabella, Tenn., were luncheon guests of Judge and Mrs. W. W. Wallace at Curlee's Cafe on Sunday.

Collegiates noted spending the week-end in Columbiana, included: A. D. Gordon, of University; Misses Charlie Verne Tinney, Jane Fowler, Ruth Luck, Alice Roberts and Margaret Ellis, of Alabama College.

Tom Lee, prominent citizen of Pelham, Alabama, spent Monday in Columbiana, transacting business.

Mrs. Jessie Thompson, assisted by George Holcombe, has opened up an up-to-date Luncheonette in the location formerly operated by Clayton Wallace. Their many friends in Columbiana, will be delighted to call on them in their newly appointed quarters, and we personally recommend their sandwiches, cold drinks, and deserts. They offer you quick, efficient and satisfactory service.

Misses Eula Mae Wessinger and Elizabeth McCain, of Athens College, were week-end guests of Miss Mary Elizabeth Lokey and Mary Florence Lyon in Columbiana. Miss Lokey entertained with an informal reception at her attractive home near Wilsonville, on Saturday night.

There are three subjects I am perfectly willing to stop hearing about—the Referendum—and Papa and Mama Dionne.

The Electric servants in the modern home, Grandma would have thought "black magic". When utilized successfully, they have become necessities in every home. So do proper lighting facilities become essentials to the "home beautiful". Did you happen to see C. A. Patterson, Engineer with Alabama Power Company, who had on display in Columbiana on last Friday a complete stock of the latest in lighting equipment? His stock of lamps for every room, and his explanation of the newest in convenient and economical operating of these light fixtures was instructive and entertaining. Appealing both to the eye, ear, and—pocketbook, he and his co-workers marked up another successful trip to Columbiana.

Judge J. T. Stokely, of Birmingham, was a distinguished visitor to Columbiana, on Monday.

The recent election of Dr. L. N. Duncan to the presidency of Auburn marks a victory for one whose conscientious application and life long loyalty to an institution, has at last received the recognition he so richly deserves. We feel sure under his administration, there will be marked development in all branches of education for which Auburn is noted.

Baseball Nines will soon be gamboling on the green under Coach Peacock's excellent direction. Much enthusiasm is being shown in this popular sport, and Shelby High is looking forward to some interesting tilts with the willow stick plus the "white pellet".

Miss Robbie Stone has returned to her home in Uniontown, Alabama, after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Stone.

Miss Mamie Jo Harbin, of Athens, Alabama, was a visitor in Columbiana last week-end.

VINCENT NEWS

The Better Homes Club met at the home of the President, Mrs. E. W. Bell, Thursday afternoon. Members responded to roll call with the county and state in which she was born. Following the business meeting, an interesting program was enjoyed. Mrs. E. Stokem made an interesting talk on "True Homes". Refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames E. Stokem, J. A. Wade, J. L. Murphy, W. B. Freeze, W. I. Norris, J. F. Bates, Ada Gorman, Mrs. Self, W. J. Florey, H. W. Florey, Ed Harris and Miss Alyce Harris. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. L. Murphy.

Mrs. Eva Graves and daughters, of Montgomery, spent Sunday with Mrs. Sallie Florey who is very ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Robinson and little son, of Birmingham, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Embry, Sunday. Mr. Robinson taught the Sunday School Lesson at the Baptist Church.

We are glad to report that Misses Sara Elliott and Dottye Morrell at Pell City Hospital and Emily Lou Cross at Woodlawn Hospital are doing nicely after having undergone operations for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Denty and family accompanied by Miss Mildred Franks spent Sunday in Vincent.

Miss Ada Sue Gorman visited Miss Gertrude Conrade, of Sterrett, during the week-end.

Miss Maxine Dupuy spent the week-end in Auburn as the guest of a friend.

Miss Merrill spent the week-end with relatives in Andalusia.

Misses Fannie Thomas and Geneva Brewer spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Miss Nadine Thompson spent the week-end at Alabama College as the guest of her sister, Fannye Lee, who is a student at the college.

EBENEZER NEWS

Prayer meeting was conducted at the home of J. D. Holcombe, Wednesday night.

Miss Kate Brasher, of Birmingham, spent Wednesday night with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hatcher, of Maylene, visited their daughter here over the week-end.

Miss Elda Bridges visited Montey Lee and Alice Lovelady, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Elliott, of Calera, visited in this community Sunday evening.

The Sock Supper given at the home of Mrs. Rogers Saturday night was quite a success. Hot dogs, hot chocolate and cake were served throughout the evening. The socks were sold to the highest bidder, the boys then looked for their partners, they were found by finding the girl whose sock matched the one he bought, then a lovely cake was put up for the prettiest girl—the young ladies chosen were: Misses Eleanor Peters, Mary Sue Holcombe and Ester Bailey. Miss Peters won the cake. A good time was had by all. The amount raised was $8.96.

Miss Geraldine Lawley spent the week-end with Margaret Burgin.

Miss Hazel Pate spent Sunday with Mary Sue Holcombe.

If You Want The Best And That Is What You Should Have—You Will Find It Here——

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

MAGAZINES

We Have The Ones You Want—

Come To See Us!

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

Heart Drifts

TO YOUTH.

Be WISE. Be SURE. Be CONFIDENT and TRUE.
Go warily, for life is not a flower.
Demand of earth one half of what you're due—
And for the rest trust in your own hard power.

None will dispute you, none will say you nay.
Not one will call you fool if you will mark
Your golden shield with that one word—TODAY!
And know that it is yours from dawn till dark.

You are the vault in which the Elders hoard
The rarest of their jewels of the mind;
You are the chest in which their FAITH is stored;
Have strength therefore, be HONEST—and be KIND.

—(Cooksley)

A GOD FOR YOU.

I am making songs for you
Soon you will be asking me
With your solemn baby stare—
Soon I'll have to answer you
When you ask me, "What is God"?

God is where you want to go
When we reach the river's head
Where the branches are too low—
And we go home instead.

God is everything that you
Have not done and want to do.

God is all those shiny bright
Stories that I say I'll keep
Te tell to you another night—
If you will go to sleep.

God is every lovely word
You want to hear and haven't heard.

And if you should need a place,
After searching everywhere
To hide a secret or your race—
You could find it there.
God is much the safest place
To hide a secret or your face.

—(Strobel)

SHIPS.

Across the sea-blue of the sky
The soft white clouds go drifting by,
Looking for all the world to me
Like white ships sailing out to see.

Like those white ships with silver beams
That go afar in search of Dreams;
O' sea be calm! Be kind, O sun,
And bring them safely home, each one.
For I remember, here to-day,
A fair white ship that sailed away
Long ago on a sky-blue sea
And brought a love dream back to me.

—(Hopkins)

I DREAMED.

"I dreamed of waters rising high
And suddenly upon the land,
Too swift for any aid
For you and me. I made no cry,
Because I dreamed you held my hand
And I was not afraid".

CLING FAST TO HOPE.

"Cling fast to hope, what though it show to thee
Visions of gladness which shall never be.
Would you walk blindly through a darkened vale
Because the sun shows heights you cannot scale?
Would you tear down the drapery in your hall
Because it hides the rough and jagged wall?"

MUSIC.

You say love dies,
That beauty fades?
I'd say rather that
It blends——
A thousand throbbing colors
Merged to one—
Shadows and dims
Into an old mosaic
Smiled on by the gods.

—(Maddox)

DREAMS.

"Let me remember the night
With its shadows and stars,
Or day with its dawn and dusk,
Or life with its scars.

Let me remember living—
But Oh! eternally,
Let me remember my DREAMS;
They hold no grief for me."

SOUTHERN AUTO SUPPLY COMPANY

Located in Sylacauga. By auto supplies we mean especially repair parts such as bearings for any make or model of automobile, pistons, rings, fanbelts and other similar auto necessities. Their stock is one of the largest in the state.

This establishment is one of the firms that is not satisfied with a stock of a few parts. When they set out to sell dealers and garage men of this section they determined to keep everything that there is in the line. Anyone who has purchased from them or even been in their place, will have to acknowledge that they have succeeded. We venture that there are few concerns in the larger cities that have a more complete stock or better service.

This establishment is abreast with the times and have secured for the trade a large stock of everything needed in the line of parts, repairs and supplies.

RAINBOW MARKET

In Sylacauga—Two Stores, No. 1 and No. 2, G. D. McGraw, Manager.

Featuring everything the best—have the latest refrigeration system and place is kept in the most sanitary manner—their meats are better.

The poultry department of this store is a feature of the home life of this part of the state as chickens and game can be secured here that are in the very best of condition and the housewives have found them of the best quality.

They have equipped the store with the very latest of scientific refrigeration devices and thus are prepared for the proper handling of all provisions so that when they arrive at your place they are in the very best of condition.

And no matter what you may desire you will find whether you go in person or call over the telephone that you will receive a courteous and intelligent answer to any questions you may ask.

——Complete——

FUNERAL PROTECTION

——No Age Limit——

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.

Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

ELIZABETH ANN BEAUTY SALON

Located in Sylacauga. Marcelling, manicuring, facial massages, hair dressing, and permanent waves are some of the specialties at this shop, and to the woman who wishes the advanced methods of beauty culture, her desire can be attained at this establishment. Here the style of coiffure is considered too important a part of your appearance to be governed by some whim of the moment, and because of this the individual type is considered and their work emphasizes youth in the younger woman and dignity and good grooming in the mature. Healthy hair is a necessary quality for a well appearing coiffure and at this shop unhealthy hair is treated after the quaint but successful methods of long ago days, the whole system being based on the correct use of tonics that stimulate and heal.

The treatment chosen by this shop is the one which is best suited for each case.

For Sale

Seven Room Dwelling on Main Street with 2 acres of land.

Six Room Dwelling on West College Street with 2 acres of land.

Five Room Dwelling on Sterrett Street, all in Columbiana, Alabama.

THESE DWELLINGS CAN BE BOUGHT ON LIBERAL TERMS.

For Rent

Seven Room Dwelling on East College Street.

Business Offices centrally located.

Farms

We have a large list of choice Farms FOR SALE on easy terms.

All Kinds of Insurance

Don't take the risk of driving your Automobile WITHOUT PROTECTION. It may mean a judgment against you taking all you have earned in years of hard work.

We have arrangements made to carry Insurance Premiums where you are not able to pay all cash by making monthly payments over a period of eight months.

Let us serve you for that is our business.

GORDON & WHITE R. E. & INS. COMPANY
COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA

Just a word about the SERVICE at the

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

(Copyright, W. N. U.)

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Hot Stuff

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Experience Teaches

BRISBANE
THIS WEEK

The Gold Decision
Beheading Women
Murder With Germs
The Atom. Absolute Zero

The Supreme court upholds the President and congress in their legislative and executive action outlawing gold as money in the United States and invalidating "gold clauses" in private contracts.

Arthur Brisbane

The Supreme court's decision is all the more important and gratifying, because every American knows that no consideration outside the letter of the Constitution could have influenced Chief Justice Hughes or his associates.

The Supreme court decision disposes of the statement that President Roosevelt's administration has been proceeding "regardless of the Constitution." The decision will be reassuring to business and the public generally.

From every point of view the beheading of women by Mr. Hitler's government seems to have been a painfully disgusting performance. The women's hands were bound with steel chains—in fear, perhaps, that they might bite through strings or straps. The agile headsman, in full dress, cut off both heads in six minutes. The women were beheaded out of doors in the night, just before dawn, with floodlights for the headsman's work.

Witnesses of the killings praise the composure of the two women. Each walked to her death erect, wrists chained behind her, showing no sign of fear. An eyewitness said: "They set a good example to our men, whom we usually have to drag to the scaffold."

You have read about "war with germs" in the next great outburst.

India proves that it could be done. At Alipore two are condemned to death, convicted of "germ murder." As rich Amarendra Nath Pandey walked along the street he felt a sharp stab. He cried out. A germ poisoner had injected plague germs into his blood. Amarendra died. His murderers were his step-brother and his doctor. Two other doctors, accused, were acquitted.

A well-organized germ war could be disagreeable, distributing disease germs above great cities and in reservoirs from planes.

At Leyden, in Holland, scientists have produced a degree of cold said to approach within one five-thousandth of a degree of absolute zero.

A gigantic electro-magnet, in combination with liquid helium, produces the lowest temperature ever known on earth.

The lowest possible degree of cold, the absolute zero, would be minus 273 degrees centigrade, or minus 459.6 Fahrenheit. At least science thinks so. It used to call the atom "smallest fragment of matter."

Science needs "absolute zero" to help in tearing apart the atom, now known to be a miniature solar system.

Doctor Steinach of Vienna, whose business has been transplanting glands of lower animals to the bodies of men, to prolong youth and extend the years of possible parentage, announces now a "chemical substance" that makes transplanting glands unnecessary. The chemical, called progynon, possibly a compound of "progeny," is available for men or women.

The fact that a demand for it exists proves what fools there are, among men and women, seeking for more trouble, after kind nature has set them free.

Henry Ford views money philosophically as merely an abstract "indefinite, incoherent homogeneity," as Herbert Spencer might have called it. Mr. Cameron, broadcasting, mentioned casually the fact that Mr. Ford in one year lost $68,000,000.

When this writer asked Henry Ford what was the most money he had lost in any year while "changing type" and reorganizing, he replied: "I didn't lose any money. I only distributed some money."

It has been customary at executions in New Jersey state prison to admit relatives of a murdered man, that they may witness the killing of the murderer; very considerate, if relatives of one murdered really desire to see the murderer as he sits in the chair, straining against the straps and frothing behind the mask. It is safe to predict that Colonel Lindbergh will reject the invitation to see Hauptmann put to death for the kidnaping and murder of his child.

James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, says the country is out of the depression but does not know it. In the West he "found business conditions definitely improved. Los Angeles alone has pledged $100,000,000 in new construction and modernization involving all types of buildings." San Francisco likewise has embarked on an ambitious building program.

Now if 10,000,000 or 12,000,000 idle Americans can get back to jobs, even though they may "not know it," all will be well.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

Birmingham is definitely sure of obtaining $2,000,000 in federal funds for slum clearance projects when the new Roosevelt relief measure goes into effect. Commissioner Lewey Robinson, who returned after a trip to Washington with Gov. Bibb Graves, declared.

Ernest G. Holt, chief forester of the U. S. Soil Erosion Service at La-Crosse, Wis., spent several days in Alabama recently appraising the wildlife possibilities of a government soil erosion project being conducted on 110,000 acres in Talladega County.

Notice that all bids for construction of the new Fairfield postoffice have been rejected and that new plans and specifications will be drawn has been received by Mrs. Ada Burks, Fairfield postmaster, from the Postoffice Department at Washington.

Members of the Florence "Roosvelt for President Club" which was one of the first organized in the nation to promote the candidacy of the President in 1932, gathered at the Courthouse to begin a campaign for Roosevelt's re-election.

A committee to present to Congress the urgency of a canal providing a short cut to the sea for the Tennessee Valley was named by the Tennessee Valley and Tombigbee River Association in an effort to speed up decision on the project.

Plans for going forward with preliminary work in the 1935 cotton acreage reduction program under the Bankhead Act were completed by farm agents from 23 North Alabama counties in session in Birmingham.

Three Alabama counties, Madison, Limestone and Jackson, have higher gasoline taxes than any county in the United States, George Clear charged in an address before the Exchange Club at Montgomery.

Albert Troup was fatally injured and Price Owens, Jack Hudgins and Clarence Moore were critically hurt when a sawmill boiler at the Ben Peck Lumber Company, Athens, exploded.

John R. Boyle, former Birmingham attorney, convicted of the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Jessie Ann Boyle, was declared insane in a report by a commission appointed by Judge H. P. Heflin.

The Lineville Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution asking Congress to place a more satisfactory tariff on graphite in order to revive this industry in the several counties in Alabama.

Montgomery's chances of placing an entrant in the reorganized Southeastern Baseball League appeared remote with the announcement that the St. Louis Cardinals would not support a team there.

Alabama is leading the nation in soil conservation work. At present 54 complete terracing outfits are terracing approximately 1,000 acres of land in 32 counties of the state each day.

The Etowah County Bar Assn. has voiced its disapproval of the proposed Inferior Court of Gadsden and reiterated its request that Etowah County be created into a separate circuit.

More than 15,000 Alabama citizens became volunteer fire fighters in 1934, when approximately nine per cent of the state's 22,500,000 acres of forest land burned over during the year.

"Ninety in the Shade," a new book about the South by Prof. Clarence E. Cason of the University of Alabama, will be issued in March by the University of North Carolina Press.

The State Pardon Board in a unanimous decision denied the plea of Ed Thomas, condemned Hale County Negro, for commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment.

To date 252 families have been placed on land in the rural rehabilitation program in Coffee County, and it is expected the number will be increased to 300 by March 1.

The Lions and Civitan Clubs of Albertville have promoted the organization of the Albertville Country Club and work is expected to begin soon on a nine-hole golf course.

John G. Chapman, textile official, will head the Democratic Party in Talladega County again this year. He has been re-elected chairman of the executive committee.

Not satisfied with having obtained $295 cash and a $75 watch, burglars who broke in the home of Dr. E. C. Ray, Birmingham, took his keys and fled in his new auto.

The Boys Work Committee of Decatur Kiwanis Club is cooperating with the band committee of the Chamber of Commerce in an effort to organize a band for Decatur.

The Gadsden City Commission has awarded the contract for the construction of the new Municipal Auditorium. The contract price was $125,426.51.

Carlton K. Butler, instructor in music in the Birmingham public schools, has been appointed bandmaster at the University of Alabama.

Dean Wellman, Birmingham-Southern College student, has been appointed to an assistantship in geology at Washington University, St. Louis.

The mayor and Town Council of Boaz have filed application with officials in Montgomery for $147,250 of Public Works Administration funds.

Influenza which reached the proportions of an epidemic over Alabama recently, is receding now

THIS FROCK "JUST RIGHT" FOR PLAY

PATTERN 9086

For a tiny girl's play or school frock nothing could be very much nicer than this adorable little bloomer frock with its quaint over-the-shoulder yoke and prettily puffed sleeves. The frock is simple to slip into, too, buttoning up the front, with only three buttons to be fastened. And it allows plenty of room for romping—the skirt is gathered to the yoke at the back and box-pleated in front. A smart checked or plaid wool or cotton would be pretty for this frock—little girls always seem to love gay colors—and be sure to make up four or five of those crisp white collars in linen or pique. The bloomers, by the way, are included in this pattern.

Pattern 9086 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 2⅝ yards 36 inch fabric and ¼ yard contrasting.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

Smiles

CONCENTRATED CARE

"Did Crimson Gulch go Democratic?"

"Of course," answered Cactus Joe. "We was havin' one quarrel after another, and we jes' decided to let political leaders take the full responsibility for carryin' on the argument."

Not Particular

"May I call on you?" Jinks asked the girl he met at the dance.

"Certainly not! I wouldn't think of it!" she snapped.

"Oh, I didn't mean tonight," he countered. "I meant one wet and miserable night, when I have nothing better to do."

No Wonder

"Is somebody sick at your house, Johnny?" asked the neighbor. "I saw the doctor going in there last night."

"Yep, pop is," replied the kid. "The stork brought mom triplets."

Chic Worsted for Suit and Ensemble

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHEN it comes to topnotch swank, audacious color schemes and versatile weaves the new worsteds which go to make up the spring suits and ensembles have arrived at a dramatic moment in their career.

It is nothing uncommon in the advance spring styles parade for an ensemble to be fashioned of a skirt of one woolen, a blouse of another with the jacket, coatee or long coat still another type and color. Yet in the final analysis the entire outfit will have correlated into a perfect unit of highest artistry.

The call of the immediate mode is for the suave and slim fitted tailored suit which has a related topcoat of heavier wool to go with it. The ensemble to the left in the picture is typical of the new suit-with-topcoat movement. The skirt and jacket is of light oxford gray wool, with a long top raglan of two-tone stripe novelty woolen. Later this topcoat can be worn as a separate wrap with other dresses.

Centered in the group is a two-piece tailleur with button trim from neck to hem with a brown oxford topcoat held in readiness, its color being complementary to the brown and white check of the suit. As to checks and stripes and plaids they are all the rage in every conceivable mood of color and weave.

To the right is an early spring arrival—a coat made of a "nifty" new woolen of intriguing novelty. The check is achieved via a shaggy surfaced cord on a navy blue background. Navy, by the way, is at the top of the list of important colors for spring. Buttons above the waistline as employed in the fastening of this coat and the unusually wide belt are also featured details in the incoming fashions. The wide collar is of navy woolen which is quilted in wide welts. Volumes could be written about the new quilted, stitched and shirred effects which embellish dresses, coats, hats and everything in sight which is quiltable, stitchable or shirrable.

The new "companion woolens" brought out this season provide endless opportunity to designers to work out striking and original fashions. A laceweave tweed for the suit with a lacier lighter weight wool for the blouse done in overchecks of white, the ground color matching the color of the suit material gives some faint idea of the handsome combinations in store for fashion's followers this season.

Another model consists of a fitted suit in cinnamon brown wool with a loose topcoat in the same woolen which is striped in white. Then again a light and soft texture suiting in diagonal weave is apt to have a companion woolen in interesting plaided patterning which introduces bright colors and it is even possible to detect an interweaving of gold or silver metal threads.

Rustic weaves in coatings are high style for sportswear, such as a basket weave check in soft spongy texture, one color running one way and a contrasting shade running the other, also handknit and carpet-weave effects which are colorful and sturdy in appearance.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

TORTOISE SHELL

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

If you are the sort who wish to be "first in fashion" in your set, appear on the scene wearing either of the tortoise shell sports jewelry ensembles here pictured. Barbaric in design is the stunning necklace of blond tortoise shell catalin with matching bracelets which the stylish young woman above in the picture is wearing with her bright green silk dress.

MUST HAVE VELVET TOUCH TO ENSEMBLE

Even if you don't want to wear a velvet frock or suit this year, there should be a touch of velvet about you if you are to be truly smart and luxurious looking.

A turban of velvet ribbon done with intricate twists and drapings is always good when worn by the picturesque or exotic type. The tall Russian hats of sleek velvet also are good, as are the pill-box hats with rhinestone ornaments and flirtatious veil. These are nice to nestle in huge, upstanding fur coat collars.

Then, too, there are afternoon bags of velvet, many of them shirred and trimmed with rhinestone or mirror ornaments.

Though Clothes Are Very Chic, They Are Practical

Clothes are ever so smart this season, but at no time have the designers lost sight of the practical. Thus we have tunics that are strikingly elaborate, yet they will give new life to an old evening frock, or a long, slim skirt. These tunics come in beautiful fabric, sometimes they are rhinestone studded or else they have bands of spangles. One beautiful model that we saw was of heaviest lame in silver and green. The very draped neck was caught in front with a jeweled ornament, and bracelets caught the loose sleeves into tight cuffs. This could go over an evening dress to make a lovely outfit.

Frothiness

Net dresses, sometimes complemented by capes, all are marked by extreme frothiness about the neck, shoulders and hem lines. Black, turquoise, pink, brown and peach are the favorite colors in order of their popularity.

Sport Sweaters

The smartest of sports sweaters show a decided English influence in their conformation to more or less simple and classic styles, softest yarns and unusual pastel off-tones.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 3

PETER UNMASKS FALSEHOOD AND HYPOCRISY

LESSON TEXT—Acts 5:1-11, 8:18-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor: for we are members one of another. Ephesians 4:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC — Peter's Friend Helps People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Stands for Truth and Honesty.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Sin of Lying.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Modern Forms of Hypocrisy.

I. Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5:1-11).

The new community formed after Pentecost is now for the first time called the Church. Since the Christians have now broken with Judaism the success of the new community depends upon its gaining recognition. The Church is now superseding the Mosaic economy. It was now to be God's dwelling place, as hitherto it had been in the Tabernacle and Temple. Their sanctity was now being transferred to the Church. This fact the Church itself must learn as well as the Jewish people who surrounded it.

1. Their sin (vv. 1, 2). It was a hypocritical imitation of the generous act of Barnabas (4:36, 37). Because of the particular distress of the early Church following its open rupture with Judaism, its members for a time had a "community of goods." This was not universal nor permanent. Ananias kept back a part of the proceeds from the sale of his land, while pretending to have brought it all. His wife was a partner in it. They wanted the honor of generosity without paying the price thereof.

2. Their judgment (vv. 3-10). Physical death was visited upon Ananias and Sapphira for their sin. They lied to the Holy Ghost in keeping back a part of the price of their land. They were not obliged to sell their land or, having sold it, to bring any of their money and place it in the common fund. People today are walking in the way of Ananias and Sapphira when they make a profession of Christianity for temporal gain and pleasure. Preaching the sermons of Moody, Spurgeon, etc., without giving credit is another form of this evil. God is passing judgment upon many for their sins of this kind (I Cor. 11:27-30).

3. The effect (vv. 11-16).

a. Great fear came upon the Church and upon all who heard of these things (v. 11). The Church should be regarded as holy because of its being the very dwelling place of the Most High God. Irreverence is an outstanding sin of this age.

b. Multitudes of men and women were added to the Lord (vv. 14, 15). The fame of Peter was spread far and wide, so that the people were anxious to come under his shadow. The proper recognition of the holiness of the Church, the body of Christ, will bring many to Christ for salvation.

c. Hypocrites did not dare to join (v 13). The vindication of the holiness of the Church deterred none but hypocrites from joining. No unregenerate person and nothing unhallowed has any place in the Church.

II. Simon the Sorcerer (Acts 8:18-24).

1. His wicked request (vv. 18, 19). When Simon saw that Peter's power to work wonders exceeded his own and that this power was received through the laying on of hands, he offered money for the gift. This act revealed his hypocrisy. He professed faith in Christ and was baptized, and even followed the apostles for a selfish end. Traffic in sacred things is called "Simony," from the name of this sorcerer. Making merchandise of Christianity is committing the same sin. Using the name of Christ for the purpose of gain is to be guilty of this sin.

2. Peter's severe rebuke (vv. 20-22).

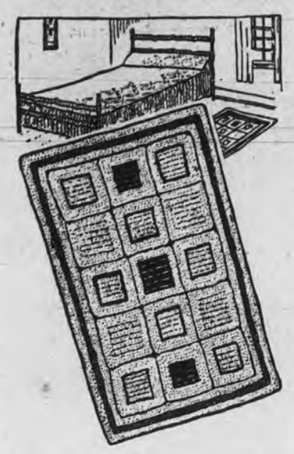
a. "Thy money perish with thee." This implies that Peter's judgment was that Simon was unregenerate and that he himself was in the way of perishing.

b. "Thy heart is not right in the sight of God." One whose inner life delights in God could not seek the Spirit's power for selfish reasons.

c. "Repent of thy wickedness and pray to God for forgiveness." While Peter recognized that this man was unsaved, he did not regard him as beyond the hope of salvation, but urged him to turn from his sin and ask for forgiveness.

d. "Thou art in the gall of bitterness and in the bond of iniquity." The one and only thing for this man to do was to repent and sue for forgiveness. Simon requested Peter's prayer to the end that he might escape divine judgment.

The Power of Jesus



Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father.—John 10:17-18.

Must Be Tested

In most men there must be a tragedy of the soul, and the "majesty of righteousness" must be burned into us.

NURSERY BLOCKS CROCHETED RUG

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

This crocheted rug called "Nursery Blocks" is made up of small blocks in different color combinations, assembled and then a border crocheted all around. Each block measures about 8 inches and outer border 4 inches, making a finished size 33 by 50 inches, and requires about 5 lbs. of rag strip material.

A rug made of blocks and then assembled enables you to make a rug in any size or color desired. Make the blocks in any size. Arrange color scheme to suit particular room in which it is to be used, or make it of hit and miss colors and use it anywhere. Either way it remains a practical rug, and easily made up in spare time.

Full instructions for this rug and 25 others can be found in rug book No. 25, containing crocheted and braided rugs, also instructions for crochet stitches used and how to prepare your rag materials for use. This book will be sent to you postpaid upon receipt of 15c.

ADDRESS, HOME CRAFT CO., DEPT. C., Nineteenth & St. Louis Avenue, St. Louis.

Inclose stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

Steps in Fight on Tuberculosis

Periodic Examination Most Favored of Methods in General Use.

"From the public health aspect the school program is distinctly secondary to the effort to control active tuberculosis in the general population," Dr. William Paul Brown says in an article on "The School and Tuberculosis" in Hygeia Magazine. "The periodic examination and the contacts of known active cases is much more productive of results in controlling the disease than the school study of all pupils. No special study of tuberculosis in the schools is warranted unless a good program based on these two more important phases has had consistent promotion.

"The school physician might detect a few active cases in children, if conditions allow careful auscultation of the chest and a careful history of exposure to the infection. However, many children with demonstrable disease may be missed, for at the time they may be negative to auscultation and give a negative history."

Among the benefits of a school program for childhood tuberculosis under public health control are the following:

1. An appreciable number of children are found in need of treatment, and adults with active tuberculosis are discovered.

2. Families who are not utilizing regular medical supervision are given occasion to choose a physician for this prevention service.

3. Children, apparently well, whose parents have taken meager steps to correct overfatigue, dietary errors, neglected teeth and other defects, have therein a rather spectacular reason for correcting these general health hazards before symptoms of tuberculosis have brought a belated warning.

4. Physicians are aided in increasing their function in preventive medicine through the reference to them of such considerable groups of children who are apparently well but wh give a positive reaction to the tuberculin test.

5. Diagnostic service of a high quality is accomplished through the local sanatorium staff and is immediately made available to the family physician who is actually supervising the patient.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills put up 60 years ago. They regulate liver and bowels.—Adv.

Scientific Wonder

Heat into sound is an amazing transformation accomplished by scientists. The warmth of a hand held near the device makes it emit a low growl; lighting a match a few feet away draws a snarl for an answer. The invention can be adjusted so that it is sensitive to a burning match 40 or 50 feet away.

300 CANDLEPOWER LIGHT for 1¢ A NIGHT WITH A Coleman LAMP

Priced As Low As $5.95 Complete

Light that floods the whole room with a clear mellow radiance! The nearest to daylight of any artificial light.

More light than 30 common kerosene lamps. It's light that protects your sight! Plenty of light for every home need. Easy to operate . . . easy to keep going. Only Coleman gives you so much light for so little cost. Beautiful new models with parchment shades.

See your hardware or housefurnishing dealer. If he doesn't handle, write us.

The Coleman Lamp & Stove Company
Dept. WU28, Wichita, Kans.; Chicago, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Toronto, Ontario, Canada (5128)

THESE PICTURES SHOW
Modern Three-Minute Way to Ease Sore Throat

1. Crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third glass of water.

2. Gargle Thoroughly — throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat. Do this twice. Do not rinse mouth.

3. If you have a cold, take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Drink full glass of water. Repeat if necessary, following directions in package.

Ease Pain, Rawness, Soreness Almost Instantly

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it.

All you do is crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in ½ glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

MOTORISTS WISE SIMONIZ

So Easy to Use . . . and It Lasts

Always insist on Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener for your car. If dull, the new, improved Simoniz Kleener quickly restores the lustre. It's surprising, too, how easy Simoniz is to put on, but it's hard for weather to wear off. That's why your car stays beautiful when you Simoniz it.

Weak Women

"After childbirth I lacked strength and suffered from dizzy headaches—my whole body felt sick," said Mrs. J. W. Buck of 1913 Ellis St., Augusta, Ga., "but I was much improved after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a short time. It gave me new strength and made me feel that I had the right amount of energy to carry on."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

HELP KIDNEYS

IF your kidneys function badly and you have a lame, aching back, with attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains . . . use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over.

Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

EARN EXTRA MONEY IN SPARE TIME

Start a mailing list business. Big demand for local lists. We show you how. Write today for full particulars.

STANDARD ADVERTISING CO.
843 McDonald Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WE NEED A MAN

in this territory to sell our line Asbestos Roof Coating, a guaranteed waterproofing liquid. If you have car and interested in earning $50 per week or more, write

H. CLAY JOHNSON
Post Office Box 789 Fort Worth, Texas.

METROPOLITAN GRAND OPERA
direct from its New York Stage
3-Hour Broadcast by
LISTERINE
announced by
Geraldine Farrar
Every Saturday · all NBC stations 12:45 P.M.

DR. SAM E. PRUETT, Dentist

In Sylacauga. This dentist is known as one of the prominent professional men of this section, enjoying a large and well merited patronage from the city and surrounding territory.

According to the medical and dental authorities, the majority of diseases with which humanity is affected, have their origin in defective digestion and a stomach that is out of order and one of the prolific causes of imperfect digestion is bad teeth.

He features all phases of the work from extracting and filling of a tooth to a full set of teeth, bridges. This work as well as all of his dental practice is done at a very low cost. In fact his prices are most moderate.

It is to remedy this that the dentist devotes his life, and it is this fact that makes him an important factor in every community.

Among the most representative dentists in this section of the state is Dr. Sam E. Pruett.

He is a dentist of very wide repute and expert training and is serving the people of this city and vincinity in a highly artistic manner and has built up a very large and steadily growing clientele. His methods are the latest in dentistry and has had years of experience.

SOUTHERN COTTON OIL COMPANY

Are manufacturers of high grade Cotton Seed Oil and Cotton Seed Hulls, and affords the people a valuable market for their cotton seed. Always prompt and courteous in their dealings with the producer in Sylacauga—phone 111.

This well known establishment is one of the well known centers of its kind in this section of the state. They are extensive dealers in cotton seed. Their honest dealings with the dealer, with years of service are the results of this successful concern and enjoys an extensive patronage.

When this well known firm started in business they determined to handle cotton seed.

They know this line thoroughly and have arranged to offer the best there is, but they did not stop there, for they were indeed wise in their business and appreciated the necessity of real magnanimous service. They equipped themselves to furnish service second to none, and the success of this enterprise since they have been in business testifies to the wisdom of their course.

Scientific selling must be born of scientific knowledge, and when you consult this house you receive this information without expense.

Dealing in cotton seed is their business and they know this line from the ground up.

PEOPLES DRUG COMPANY

Located in Sylacauga, C. W. Gaston, Manager, telephone 39.

This well known establishment is a very modern and thoroughly equipped drug store.

Since this well known firm has been engaged in this business its popularity has grown until it is known by practically everybody in this section and has won for itself a well merited reputation for honest and fair dealings with all its fast increasing list of names.

The first requisite of any successful business must be courtesy then quality at the right price must be offered. This has been this establishment's policy in conducting business. They have directed their efforts to the end that this store must be headquarters for anything in the apothecary line.

For the convenience of patrons they have taken on famous lines of products that are known the world over and recognized by every one as being without peer for excellence. These famous lines embrace toilet articles of every kind and household remedies that have found their way into homes of so many persons of this section.

In the prescription department only the purest drugs are used and the prices are very reasonable.

Every department of this store is most complete and the wants of the people are taken care of in a manner that is commended by all who have had business dealings with them.

BENELEY SERVICE STATION

On Broadway, telephone 149 in Sylacauga, W. B. Beneley, Manager, is one of the essential factors in the business organization of the community, furnishing oils and gasoline and greases and a satisfactory and complete filling station service.

In this day of automobiles and progressive improvements in all kinds of machinery, it is very important that every city and town have oil and gasoline supply firms. This firm enjoys a tremendous business and renders a very complete and efficient service.

Of course the chief feature of the service that this company furnishes to the public is to supply high grade gasoline, motor oils and greases. These are of the very finest quality and have proven their efficiency by actual test. But a special feature that is maintained by this firm is magnanimous service to the customers.

Genial courteous and accommodating gentlemen themselves, they insist that all of the employes under their supervision maintain their standard of service and as a result it is a very pleasant task to do business with this firm. The management thoroughly understands the business, can give you information as regards what oils and greases are best suited to your needs and are always willing and anxious to do this.

Beneley Service Station is favored by hundreds of motorists in this section and is under a management who knows the oil business thoroughly.

When you patronize this popular oil concern you not only receive superior gasoline, motor oils and greases, but a service that includes a reliable information service.

SLEEP!

When the worries, noise, confusion, high-tension work, or hectic pleasures of your waking hours "get on your nerves," here is a simple time-tested preparation that will bring a feeling of calm and relaxation and allow you to get a good night's sleep.

Dr. Miles Nervine quiets your nerves. It is not habit-forming and does not depress the heart. Why take chances with dangerous habit-forming drugs? Why use narcotics that make you dull and depressed?

Millions have found relief, relaxation, sleep, by using Dr. Miles Nervine. Although first used more than fifty years ago, Dr. Miles Nervine is as up to date as today's newspaper. Nothing better for the home treatment of overtaxed nerves has ever been discovered.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles Nervine. We guarantee relief, or your money back, with the first bottle or package.

Relief!
For Nervousness
Sleeplessness
Irritability
Restlessness
Nervous Headache
Nervous Indigestion

DR. MILES NERVINE
Liquid and Effervescent Tablets

CALERA NEWS

Mrs. D. W. Boyd and Mrs. W. H. Martin were joint hostesses, Thursday afternoon, February 21st, from 2:30 to 4:30, at the home of Mrs. Boyd's., in honor of the Unique Club. Mrs. A. E. Norwood and Miss Doris Mitchell were in charge of the program, this being a Valentine and George Washington affair. The meeting opened with the song of "Star Sprangle Banner". Mrs. Sidney Dubose read a paper on the life of Geo. Washington. Mrs. Cecil Cowart sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart", accompanied by Miss Mitchell. Mrs. Sloan told how she grew rose cuttings. Mrs. A. E. Norwood was in charge of a heart contest, Miss Lucy Norwood winning the prize. An hour of serving was enjoyed by all. A plate luncheon was served with Valentine and George Washington motifs, by Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Martin. Miss Ruby Blackburn assisted the hostess.

Mrs. Barry, Miss Mable Claire Holcombe and Mr. Lyle Mitchell, all of Birmingham, were the dinner guests of Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell, Tuesday evening.

Mr. John Booker is visiting relatives in Nashville this week-end.

Miss Charlotte Sawyer, of Shelby, is the guest of Miss Geneva Stagner.

Mr. Eric Elliott is visiting his mother this week-end.

Mrs. Boggess was hostess at the home of Mrs. Cecil Cowart', Wednesday afternoon, from 3:00 to 5:00, in honor of the W. M. S. Circle No. 2. Mrs. Curtis Lucas, Chairman of the Circle, gave an interesting program. Mrs. D. W. Boyd had charge of the Mission Study. Mrs. Cowart assisted Mrs. Boggess in serving a plate luncheon to nine members.

Mrs. Jerry Wright of Nashville, Tenn., returned home Wednesday, after a visit with her brothers, Mr. Earnest and Leslie Evans.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benton and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Benton, all of Birmingham, were the dinner guest of Miss Lucy Norwood, Sunday.

Mrs. Russel Edwards entertained Saturday afternoon, February 16th, with a birthday party honoring her son, Robert, age 6 years. Games were enjoyed. Guests were: Charles Baxley, Elba Edwards, Adrian Onderdonk, Jane Gunn, John Edwards, Julia and Katherine McDuffie, Bennie Francis Miller, Jeffie Leola Cowart, Gene Murphree, Johnnie Roan Burgess, Ruth and J. E. Armstrong, Jr., Donald Busby, Judson Tomlin and J. Baker. Cake and cream was served. Miss Marion Gunn and Miss Cecil Watts assisted the hostess.

Mr. James Byce, who is with the U. S. Navy, and is stationed at Hampton Roads, Va., was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Joe Ross, this week.

Mrs. Oscar Pilgreen's dinner guests Friday, were: Mrs. John Pilgreen and Mrs. George Campbell and daughter.

Miss Annie Cost, of Selma, is visiting friends and relatives here this week.

Mrs. Crossman and Miss Eunice Sloan, of Birmingham, were the guests of Mrs. Sloan this week-end.

Mr. Jimmie Gunn, who is attending A. P. I., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Gunn.

Mr. Clayton Wallace and Mr. Albert Askins left Sunday morning for Lansing, Michigan, where they will purchase a new Oldsmobile car.

Mrs. Dick Martin, Mrs. Z. S. Cowart, Mrs. John Denham and Miss Lucy Bailey Bowdon, motored to Birmingham, Thursday for the day.

Mr. George Figpen, of Montgomery, lectured at the auditorium Wednesday evening. His subject was the "Repeal of The Present Prohibition Laws".

Miss Louise Regnett, of Birmingham, who has been the guest of Miss Elizabeth Wallace for a week, returned home Wednesday, Miss Wallace accompaning her for a weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Norwood's dinner guests Wednesday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Luther, Mr. Norwood, Miss Lucy and Mr. David Norwood.

Mrs. P. Baer, Messrs Sol and Louis Baer motored to Birmingham, Wednesday.

Mrs. J. T. Parker visited relatives in Dargin this week.

Mrs. Russell Edwards motored to Columbiana, Tuesday.

Mrs. Pearl Brandon Crawford, of Montevallo, Field Worker in Parent Education, has begun a class of six meetings once a week on Monday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. at the M. E. Church. All ladies interested in this work should attend.

Mr. M. D. Crowson was in Columbiana, Tuesday, on business.

The young people enjoyed a singing at the Nazerine Church Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. T. Jones is visiting relatives in Alabaster this week.

Robert Edward Lyman, of Montevallo, spent Sunday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Sr.

Mrs. Charlie O'Neal ad Charlie O'Neal, Jr., returned from Miami, Fla., Sunday.

Mr. S. M. Tomlin motored to Birmingham, Wednesday.

Misses Charlotte Martin, Lilly Pearl Shaw and Mr. Courtland Rutherford, motored to Clanton, Sunday, for the day.

Mr. Mc Anderson was in Siluria, Saturday, on business.

Mrs. S. M. Tomlin spent the week-end in Birmingham with relatives.

Miss Bessie Gunn, of Shelby, is the house guest of Miss Susie B. Williams this week.

Mrs. B. F. Miller is attending the North Alabama Conference in Gadsden, Alabama.

Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell motored to Haleyville, Sunday, to visit friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Baer spent Thursday in Birmingham.

Miss Ella Neil, of Falkville, Alabama, was the guest of Mrs. Dunlap, this week-end.

Mrs. N. C. Peterson and son, Norman, spent the week-end with relatives in Atlanta.

The American Legion Auxiliary Post No. 56, met at the auditorium Wednesday afternoon with a business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen, Miss Bishop and Miss Letcher, motored to Columbiana, Wednesday.

Mr. Joe Doyle is spending a week in Birmingham with relatives.

Mrs. Haddock and Mrs. W. M. Heaton entertained the W. M. S. Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Haddock. Delightful refreshments was served to 10 members and three guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Dubose and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roberts motored Birmingham Tuesday evening to see Will Rogers.

Victims of the flu this week, are George Holcombe, Robert Holcombe, Jr., Billie Blevins, Miss Charlotte Martin and Mrs. Richard Parker.

Mrs. McElory, of Sixmile, and Mrs. Frederick, of Ashby, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Warren, Sunday.

RUDDS DRUG STORE

In Sylacauga, phone 9106. This drug store is known throughout this section as one of the most reliable and progressive stores in this section. It has gained a large trade by its good quality and commendable methods. It is headquarters for famous world remedies which are compounded from prescriptions of renowned physicians. It always keeps the stock in the best condition and a full line so you can get what you call for. It is very careful in filling prescriptions and having had much experience, the pharmacists at this drug store are considered the best in their line.

Sylacauga Lumber & Manufacturing Co.

In Sylacauga, telephone 38. It is a well known fact that there is no institution in the community that has met with greater favor with the public than this well known establishment. By reason of the fact that the management has had wide experience in every feature of this business and because of their comprehensive knowledge of every branch of the trade, this establishment has continued to witness the increase in the number of their patrons.

This firm is known throughout this section as one of the leaders in the retail lumber business and because of their knowledge of every branch of the trade, this establishment has continued to witness the increase in the number of their patrons.

This section is indeed fortunate to have such a progressive firm to serve it in Tight Water Cypress and lumber, and it adds in no little way to the progress and prosperity of the community.

If you want anything in this line, telephone them or call at their establishment, and then when you have decided what you need you can depend on it that this well known firm will see that you get it.

With that business acumen and foresight which has won such wide popularity and patronage in the past the management has anticipated the needs of the state and the establishment of this firm is one of the busiest spots in this section and though the business has grown to large proportions and the demand is far surpassing even the largest expectations, this firm still specializes in rendering individual service to every patron.

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY,
CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

Alabama Power News

(An Advertisement of Alabama Power Company)

February, 1935

STAGE SET FOR BIG SPRING SALE

Low Rates Pave Way For Many More Alabamians To Enjoy Comforts and Convenience of Electric Cooking and Water Heating

Low rates, low prices and unusually reasonable terms abundantly complete the triangle of value on which we base our confident prediction that our 1935 Spring sale of electric ranges and water heaters will set a new all time record.

Until you've actually owned an electric range or water heater you can't imagine what a world of comfort and real enjoyment these two appliances can bring into your home.

When you cook electrically you will have many more carefree hours to spend in your garden or with your friends. Your kitchen will be cool and clean, your pots and kettles free from soot and grime. And meals will be tastier, because foods cooked electrically hold their flavor.

An electric water heater is an equal aid to living comfort. It reduces the hot water problem in the home to one simple thing—turning on the faucet. Automatically and silently it maintains an inexhaustible supply of piping hot water at all times. And gives you this constant service without dirt, smoke or flame.

During our Spring sale, beginning March 1st, electric ranges will be offered at prices ranging from $77.50 up and electric water heaters from $60.50 up. Convenient terms will be available.

Drop around and see us sometime soon, and let us figure out for you how economical it is to own and use these two dependable home services.

Beebe made a new low record for deep sea diving in his bathysphere. Electric rates in Alabama have also reached the lowest point in Alabama history.

Its Easy To Have A Lighted Outdoor Living Room

A cozy outdoor garden, enclosed with shrubs and vine covered fences, bordered with flowers, softly lighted by electricity, will prove a wonderfully attractive retreat during hot-weather nights this summer. A little cash, a little ingenuity, a little careful planning can easily transform your back yard or garden into such a fairyland — an "out-door living room" which you, your family and friends will find a place of constant pleasure.

With modern outdoor lighting many beautiful effects can be achieved. For instance, underwater colored lighting for your lily pond, portable spot lighting to reveal the full beauty of your flowering dogwood, your boxwoods, or other shrubs in which you take especial pride. Then there are border lights for your flower beds, and many other lighting methods which are new and novel. Our lighting engineers have made special studies of outdoor garden lighting, and will be glad to advise and assist you with your "outdoor living room." Under the FHA financing plan you can finance such improvements at low cost and on long terms.

Preferred Stock Dividend Declared

Birmingham, Ala., February 11. (Special)—The Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company have declared the regular quarterly dividends on its preferred stock, payable April 1, 1935, on the $7 and $6 stock to stockholders of record March 15, 1935, and payable May 1, 1935, on the $5 stock to stockholders of record April 15, 1935.

These dividends will aggregate approximately $585,000 and dividend checks will be mailed on March 30, for the $7 and $6 stock and on April 30, for the $5.

MARVELS

I

How would you like to bathe in melted snow? Folks who live in Iceland actually do! But the melted snow in that part of Iceland is really the hottest spring water in the world. Snow on the peak of the volcano, Hecla, in Iceland, melts and rushes down thru deep ravines in the volcano's seething sides, then underground for 30 miles to emerge finally as steaming natural springs, some of which have a temperature as high as 260 degrees Fahrenheit. Citizens of Iceland use this hot water for bathing and washing clothes.

Alabama has no volcanoes, and no natural hot springs. But many citizens of Alabama do have a hot water supply which is equally abundant and even more convenient. They use electric water heaters.

II

America's first bath tub was built in Cincinnati in 1842. It was of mahogany, lined with sheet lead, and was exhibited at a Christmas party. Next day, local papers denounced it as a "luxurious and democratic vanity." Medical men took it up and pronounced the bath tub a "menace to health." In 1843, Philadelphia undertook by public ordinance to prohibit bathing between November 1st and March 15th. Two years later Boston made bathing unlawful except when prescribed by physicians. Bath tubs were taxed $30 yearly. And that was only little more than 90 years ago! Today all recognize that the daily ath is a vital part of good health, good breeding and good business. And that hot water—instantly available at any hour through the convenience of electricity, is an essential service in the modern home.

Utility Service Low In Average Budget Dollar

Figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board show that the total cost of all utility service to the individual in the United States is only six cents of the average family's budget dollar. That includes electricity, gas, telephone, water, and street railway fare.

Farmers' Dollar Is Biggest Since '29

For the first time since 1929, the farmers' dollar in terms of what he buys is estimated to be worth from 89c to $1.09.

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-SEVEN

SIGNING OF COTTON CONTRACTS TO GET UNDERWAY SOON

The Cotton Committeeman are ready to assist producers in signing cotton contracts.

Those who signed an acreage reduction contract in 1934 must sign a paper stating how many acres and what percent of their cotton land will be rented to the Government in 1935.

All cotton farmers who did not sign an acreage reduction contract in 1934 may sign a contract in 1935 and receive rent on 25 to 35 percent of their cotton acreage.

Those wishing to sign a 1935 contract should get up the cotton record on their farm since 1928 and see their committeeman in the next few days or come to the office as it is late in the season. All 1935 cotton contracts must be made by March 13th.

The Community Cotton Committeeman are as follows:

J. T. Lovett, Columbiana, Route No. 1; E. C. Burton, Calera, Route No. 2; W. E. Harrison, Montevallo, Route No. 1; J. L. Crim, Siluria, Route No. 1; J. L. Farley, Leeds, Route No. 1; E. D. Hollidaye, Dunnavant; A. J. Gilbert, Chelsea, Route No. 1; R. M. Ray, Wilsonville, Route No. 1; J. H. Reinhardt, Wilsonville; E. E. Wallis, Vincent, Route No. 1; Clyde Wyatt, Vincent, Route No. 1; F. A. Gorman, Vincent.

The County Committee follows:

L. H. Cosper, Vincent, Route No. 1; L. J. Embry, Calcis; and W. E. Finley, Columbiana, Route No. 1.

LEAFLETS OFFERED ON CONTROLLING INSECTS

AUBURN, Ala.—In an effort to insects, such as boll weevil, leaf help Alabama farmers control cotton worm, flea hopper, red spider, and boll worm, also cotton rust, wilt, and anthracnose, the Alabama Experiment Station has just published a leaflet entitled "Control of Cotton Insects and Diseases."

"Control of Corn Insects and Diseases" is the title of the other bulletin which tells how to control Southern corn root worm, the Lesser Corn Stalk Borer, the Southern Corn Stalk Borer, Corn Ear Worm, Fall Army Worm, Billbugs, Grasshopper, and other worms, Smut, Ear and and Root Rots.

Copies of the leaflets may be obtained free from the county agent or by the Experiment Station here.

ARSENATE IS EASILY MISTAKEN FOR FLOUR

AUBURN, Ala.—Having handled several poison cases in which calcium arsenate was mistaken for flour, H. W. Nixon, assistant chemist and toxicologist, Auburn, is reminding farmers and others who use calcium arsenate as an insecticide to to label it distinctly and be very careful to avoid poisoning by it.

"Calcium arsenate," said Mr. Nixon, "looks like flour and it is often mixed with flour in flour bags in applying it as an insecticide. Hence it is easy to confuse it with flour."

Calcium arsenate is used extensively for the control of garden, fruit, and field insects. Many poison cases occur as a result of failure to exercise care in handling.

IN MEMORY

In memory of Martha I. Bentley, who died at her home in Lester's Chapel on February 18, 1935, at the age of 73 years.

YOUNG PEOPLE ORGANIZE CLUB

The Baptist Young People with a few Methodist young people organized a club on last Sunday night. The meetings will be held each Sunday night after church services. The program for this organization includes ensemble singing and instructive talks to be arranged by the Program Committee, which consists of Mary T. Goodwin, Mary Wooley, and Mrs. Wailes Carter. John Grady is President, Wailes Carter, Vice-President, and Vonceil Goodwin, Secretary and Treasurer.

All young people who are interested in work of this kind are cordially invited to join us. (Signed) Reporter.

All Farmers Advised Grow Sweet Potatoes

AUBURN, Ala.—Sweet potatoes on every Alabama farm in 1935 is the goal of the Alabama Extension Service.

"Every family should plant 1-4 to 1-2 acre to sweet potatoes," writes Dr. L. N. Duncan, director in a special message to rural rehabilitation farmers of the state.

Potatoes should be bedded about 5 or 6 weeks before time to set in the field, and the plants should be set 15 to 18 inches apart in the field in 3-foot rows. This will require about 6,000 to set 1-2 acre—about 4 bushels of potatoes should produce the plants.

The potatoes should be fertilized with a 4-8-7 fertilizer at a rate varying from 600 to 1,200 pounds per acre.

CONTEST IS HELD AT SILURIA HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

SILURIA, Ala.—A very interesting program was given at Siluria High School, Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Jackson Hale, President of the Senior Class, presided. The Flag Salute was led by Robert Burke.

Prayer, Robert Burns.

Preamble to the Constitution given by Jr. II's led by Vera Genry.

First Amendment to Constitution by Jr. III's led by Loyd Stanley.

Mildred Payne and Martha Houston were the contestants. Miss Payne's subject was, "The Future American Through The Right of Petition."

Miss Houston's subject was "The New Order Through Petition".

Both girls made an excellent speech and deserve very much credit. Miss Payne won by a very slight margin over Miss Houston.

The judges were: Mr. Dunlap, Mr. Roy, Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Homer Walton.

PRISONERS ESCAPE COLUMBIANA JAIL

On Friday night, March 1st, six prisoners in the County jail in Columbiana made their get-away by sawing the bars from the windows, and letting themselves down by blankets tied together forming a rope of exit.

Alquin Riggins, charged with murder; Willie Jones and Lowan Worthy, charged with distilling; Percy Hanks, Oscar Greenfield and Sam Neeley, charged with Burglary, are still at large.

G. R. M'NEILL NOW WITH EDWARDS MOTOR CAR CO.

Edwards Motor Car Company, Birmingham, Alabama, whose advertisement is displayed elsewhere in this issue of the Democrat, is the oldest Chevrolet dealer in Alabama. The trade which they have built up through the years has made possible their continued success. Their service is dependable, their terms are fair and reasonable, and their stock of latest models are always complete.

Of interest to many Shelby County citizens when in Birmingham and visiting this popular dealer's show rooms, is that G. R. McNeill, former Athletic Director of Shelby County High School, is one of their most successful representatives. Mr. McNeill continues to take an interest in his many friends and patrons in this territory, and they always find him ready to assist them in procuring just the "car" they are looking for.

At the present time, their Used Car models are numbered among the "floor bargains" to be found. We advise your looking them over before purchasing your motor for the Summer, whether it be a new Master De Luxe model you are seeking, the Standard Sedan or Sport model. Just call for "MACK", he will be right on the job. If you cannot go to Birmingham, phone him at 3-5217.

FREE ENTERTAINMENT AT FOURMILE SCHOOL

The Democrat has been asked to announce that there will be a free Musical Concert at Fourmile School House, Friday night at 7:00 o'clock. E. G. Foster, with his magic tricks, will be present, followed with speaking by Mr. W. C. Irby. All Farmers are urged to be present. (Signed) Hubert Stone.

More Irish Potatoe Patches Advocated

AUBURN, Ala.—Each Alabama family should plant about 1-4 acre to Irish Potatoes during the spring, advises Julian Brown, extension horticulturist, who says that "the earlier they are planted after danger of hard frost has passed the more they will produce."

The potatoes should be cut into seed pieces about the size of a small hen egg, with at least one good eye to the seed piece. They should be fertilized with 800 to 1,200 pounds of 4-8-7. Barnyard manure should not be used.

MRS. SALLIE FLOREY CALLED BY DEATH FRIDAY, MARCH 1

VINCENT, Ala.—Friends throughout Shelby County were grieved to learn of the passing of Mrs. Sallie Florey, beloved citizen of Vincent, on Friday, March 1st, 1935.

Mrs. Florey was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Martin, prominent pioneer citizens of Shelby County, and the wife of the late T. G. Florey of Vincent. She was an accomplished musician and for a number of years was connected with the Vincent Schools in the Musical Department.

Services were conducted from the Baptist Church in Vincent, with interment at Harpersville, Alabama, Saturday.

Surviving Mrs. Florey is one son, T. J. Florey, of Vincent.

The Democrat joins a host of friends in extending sympathy to the family.

Plant Corn Often For Roasting Ears

AUBURN, Ala.—A continuous supply of roasting ear corn can be had by farmers making a number of plantings of corn about two or three weeks apart.

"Such varieties as Truckers Favorite and Silver Mine are of good quality, and a little earlier than ordinary varieties of field corn," says Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service.

MINOOKA DEMONSTRATION CLUB HOLDS MEETING

MINOOKA, Ala.—The Minooka Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. C. B. Martin with Mrs. A. T. Ryan as hostess, at 2:00 o'clock, February 28th, with the majority of the members present.

Miss Pardue, our capable leader, gave a very interesting demonstration on the cutting, alteration, and fitting of plain patterns. Our club is progressing as we believe along with Miss Pardue, in "Hands that work, hearts that love, and minds that think". (Signed) Reporter.

Screw Worms Make Early Appearance

Received In Chancery 1-8-35

AUBURN, Ala.—Screw worms have already appeared in Florida this year, according to reports reaching Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension live-stock specialist, who warns Alabama farmers to be on the look-out for the pest.

"No one knows how serious the screw worm infestation will be this spring and summer but it is probable we will have some trouble with them," Sugg declares. "It would be advisable to keep the cows, just before and during calving season, in small pastures where they can be given daily attention. As the calves come treat the navel with some fly repellant, as pine tar oil, and castrate when two or three days old. Put pine tar oil around the scrotum to keep flies away. See the calves every day until they heal up. If there is any dehorning to be done do it now before warm weather."

SENIOR 11 CLASS PLAY PRESENTED FRIDAY IS SUCCESS

"Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose", presented by the Senior 11 Class of Shelby County High School, in Columbiana on last Friday night, under the capable direction of Mamye Peacock, scored one of the most artistic successes ever presented to Shelby County audiences.

Each character was wisely cast and interpreted his or her part in a most creditable manner. The stage setting was particularly noted, carrying out in detail the cabin dooryard of Uncle Joe and Mammy Celie in the mountains of old Virginia, around which realistic setting the nucleus of the play revolved.

The orchestra, under the direction of Leroy Mooney, was one of the high spots of the occasion. This group of musicians are attracting favorable mention every where they have appeared.

The players, accompanied by the orchestra, will present the program at the Vincent High School on next Friday night, March 8th. A large crowd is expected to attend this excellent presentation. Proceeds will be donated for school improvement.

G. W. JOHNSON DIES AT HIS HOME IN DECATUR, FEB. 27

DECATUR, Ala.—General Wheeler Johnson, 34, well known local insurance man, died at his residence, 623 Fourth avenue, west at 5:20 Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 27, after a two weeks' illness of pneumonia.

Prayer services will be held at the home at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning by the Rev. James Allen Smith, pastor of Central Baptist church, with song service by the Bonanza Quartet. The funeral procession will then leave for Ebenezer church, near Montevallo, where funeral rites will be conducted at 2 p. m. by the Rev. I. T. Carlton, Methodist minister of Montevallo. Interment there will be directed by Brown of Decatur.

Pallbearers will be Mr. Johnson's associate employes of the Brown-Service Funeral Insurance Company.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his widow; his mother, Mrs. H. L. Johnson, of Montevallo; three sisters, Mrs. W. S. Frost, Montevallo; Mrs. Frank Frost, Underwood; and Miss Ann Johnson, Montevallo; four brothers, Scott, Fred and Hillman, all of Montevallo and Cecil, of Birmingham.

Mr. Johnson had gained a large number of friends in this city and county since coming here to accept a position with the Brown-Service Company, and was highly regarded in both business and social circles.

Mr. Johnson was born and reared in Shelby County and his many friends here regret to hear of his death.

BIRMINGHAM FIRMS ARE AMONG OUR ADVERTISERS

Many firms in Birmingham are finding the Shelby County Democrat the best medium for rural advertising. Look over the ads in this weeks paper, and watch next weeks issue for a partial Birmingham Directory of the better known firms in the Magic City, who have found it to their advantage to patronize Shelby County's leading weekly, and Alabama's most distinctive newspaper.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our husband, son, and brother, General Wheeler Johnson. Also for the beautiful floral offerings. (Signed)

Mrs. G. W. Jornson,
Mrs. H. L. Johnson,
and family.

John Ivey Becomes Poultry Specialist

AUBURN, Ala.—On February 16, John Ivey, former head of the poultry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, became poultry specialist of the State Extension Service. Immediately after his appointment he became active in helping farmers and poultrymen develop their poultry industry.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our Mother, Mrs. Martha Bentley. We also want to express appreciation for the many beautiful floral offerings.

(Signed) The Children.

COWPEAS SERVE FOUR PURPOSES

AUBURN, Ala.—Alabama farmers have found four important uses of cowpeas. These uses are: (1) makes good hay, (2) gives grazing for hogs and poultry, (3) is a good soil builder, and (4) is a desirable human food.

The Whippoorwill variety is perhaps the most popular, report agricultural officials of the College of Agriculture, who also advise that "the Brabham and Iron should be grown on lands infected with cotton wilt."

Red Ripper, Clay, and Black are running varieties and are satisfactory for grazing and soil improvement, they add.

Plant 25 to 35 pounds of seed per acre in rows wide enough to permit one to two cultivations. When broadcast, cowpeas should be sown at the rate of 90 to 120 pounds per acre.

Kiddies' Kolumn

Bourbon, Indiana,
Feb. 23, 1935.

Dear Kiddies:-

I do not wish to take up the space allotted to you in the Democrat, unnecessarily, (Oh my, that is a long word) as your letters are gems of thought in the rough, but your kind Editor Mildred White Wallace has said, we are "adopting" you, or your Kiddies Kolumn for our own paper soon to appear here, and it seems to me that the word—kidnaping—should be used, as that would be more to the point.

My cousin, Jasper Wright, of Hayneville, Ala., writes me that our robins here come to Alabama in the winter, and then fly back here in the spring. I am sure our kiddies here do not know that, so letters about robins by the Southern Kiddies would be very interesting. If you see a robin with a white feather in his wing, that is the one that made a nest in my cherry tree last summer. Spring is here when we see the first robin back North.

With best wishes to all the Kiddies in Shelby County, I remain,

Yours very truly,
George W. Knight.

(Now Kiddies, isn't that a great letter from a friend who has met you only through your writings? No, I do not know him either, but I join all of you in extending our thanks and appreciation to him for his interest, and we shall be awfully glad to be represented in his paper. Now get busy and write some more letters and tell him about the robins and everything else that you think would be interesting to our Northern friends. By the way, I do wish I could have shared a delicious jar of wild cherries he sent me, but I ate them all up, every one and yummy-yummy—were they good? Selfish? Maybe——but they were so good and honestly they would not have gone all round—I could not resist it, however, like George Washington, who is accredited with cutting down one of these famous trees—I had to "fess up". —— M. W. W.)

TIME TO RISE.

A birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon the window sill,
Cocked his shining eye and said
"Aren't you 'shamed" you sleepy head?

LOOK FORWARD.

When I grow up to man's estate
I shall be very proud and great
And tell the other girls and boys,
Not to meddle with my toys.

Adell Pitt.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

When I go to my grand-mother's in the country, I feed chickens every morning. I drive the cows to the pasture, and in the evening we go for the cows and bring them back. Sometimes we each ride one of the cows and we have so much fun.

Betty Green.

Heart Drifts

GIPSIES.

Together in any weather,
We took the trail, we two,
You were my Gypsy sweetheart
And I roamed the world with you.
The hill trail, the still trail,
The trail to plain or sea;
The old trail, the new trail,
You found them all with me.
The far light of star light,
Our tent neath skies of blue—
Now—when I look to the West,
I always think of YOU.

—(Contributed)

I NEVER WALK.

I never walk
On any street
Without a prayer
That we won't meet.

I am afraid
That you may guess
Time hasn't made
Me love you less.

But more than that
I'm afraid I'll find
That you can meet
Me—and not mind!

—(Contributed)

POVERTY.

The window has such things to see
She stops and stares in hungrily
Till other people pause and stare
To see what makes her linger there.

A rubber duck, most proud and white,
A gayly terryfying kite
(How they would run and snatch and shout,
The children, when she held them out)

But she goes slowly past the door,
To where a shop holds only rings
Lacking a child to buy them for,
And chains and such—like useless things.

—(Widdemer)

AFTERMATH.

When your heart is wanting
Someone who has gone
Where a taller highway
Wanders on and on—

When you keep recalling
Little words he said,
Lines of strange enchantment
From a book he read.

How his eyes would wander
From the page to you
Sudden warm inflections
That his voice could do.

There's a sudden longing
Tearing up a heart
Now and then, long after
Two have grown apart.

—(Contributed)

THE SOUND OF RAIN.

Softly it rains, I think of you—
Remembering things we used to do.
I dream of days across the sea
And feel your arms encircling me.

The rain is warm that wets my cheek,
Through its soft song I hear you speak.
When nights are black the sound of rain
Brings all of you to me again.

—(Smith)

"Take all my heart"—you said,
And I took all and gave you in return
Only a song to haunt the long days through—
Or, so you say———and yet,
None can hear my brave and singing heart;
None can see my life of wasted years
None can know that the MELODY is part
And only part of all my smiling tears."

News Review of Current Events the World Over

President Returns From Vacation to Face Critical Test of His Administration Policies as Foes Stand Firm on Prevailing Wage Clause.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ended his vacation at Hyde Park and left for Washington where his administration faces serious trouble, involving the prestige of the White House. Capitol Hill is full of lively curiosity over the President's program, and whether he will fight the present congressional defiance of his leadership and go before the people with one of his famed fireside talks, or whether he will agree to a compromise. Mr. Roosevelt at the end of his second year in office faces a predicate in his relations to congress similar to that which confronted Mr. Hoover in 1931.

Sen. Wagner

Unless he regains control his entire program is likely to bog down. The fight hinges on the $4,880,000,000 work-relief program, the first item in the President's budget message and the principal mainstay of his program. Secret conferences at which slices of pork were reported to have been dangled before the avid eyes of revolting senators were said to have been held. A few supporters of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment which wrecked the bill and forced its recommission to the appropriations committee were said to be wavering under the pressure. Senator Robert F. Wagner, who voted for the amendment, acted as peacemaker. He intimated the possibility of a compromise by paying more than the so-called security wage of $50 a month, but still lower than the prevailing rates. Other leaders declared they would not budge from their positions.

Secretary Ickes has been no help to the President in quelling the revolt. In his recent testimony, Ickes was reluctant to tell a senate committee about allocation of $238,000,000 for a naval shipbuilding program. The senators finally pried out information which would indicate that the navy and the speculators knew all about the appropriation, but none of the members of congress knew about it. The money was to be spent at executive discretion, and senators feel this does not auger well for the proposal to hand to Mr. Rosevelt unlimited power in spending the proposed five billion dollar appropriation.

Since next year will bring another Presidential election, a third of the senators will be up for re-election, and all of the house members. They are watching closely the present situation because, if the President is slipping, they want their own records back home in good order.

MUSSOLINI has sent 5,000 more Italian troops to east Africa, making 10,000 that have been dispatched for the possible war with the empire of Ethiopia. With the latest contingent went Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, who will be in command of the expeditionary army. The soldiers were given a fine send-off at Naples, Crown Prince Humbert being present.

Mussolini has set European governments buzzing in a speech in which he roared defiance at Italy's foes, asserting that he could put eight million armed men in the field if necessary. Newspapers during the past few weeks have openly referred to the possibility of a war between Italy and Germany over Austria, and it was thought that Il Duce's speech was made to impress upon the Nazis that he was prepared to defend Brenner pass, although a part of the troops are being used in Ethiopia.

Britain is keeping a close watch on Ethiopian developments. Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the house of commons. Simon said that the agreement of 1908 between Italy, France and Great Britain to preserve the political and territorial status quo in Ethiopia is in force and that Britain has drawn Italy's attention to this fact. He added, that the whole trouble is over the frontier between Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland which has never been properly defined.

THE Blue Eagle lost another tail feather the other day, when Federal Judge Nields at Wilmington, Del., held that the collective bargaining provision of NIRA is unconstitutional when applied to companies not engaged in interstate commerce. The administration and organized labor immediately joined in a fight to preserve the validity of Section 7-A, and announced that an immediate appeal would be taken before the United States Supreme court.

The Wagner labor relations bill making Section 7-A the law of the land and outlawing company unions may have to be revised, if Judge Nields is upheld by the high court. The ruling also gives support to opposition now forming in congress against extension of NRA unless it is reorganized.

Judge Nields' ruling was on an injunction suit brought by the government against the Weirton Steel company to enjoin the steel firm from alleged violations of Section 7-A of NIRA and the labor section of the fair competition code of the iron and steel industry. He upheld the right of employees to form company unions for collective bargaining, thus upsetting the claim of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, that the company intimidated employees and dominated the company union. The court held that the company is primarily engaged in state, not interstate commerce, which congress is not empowered to regulate. Judge Nields stated:

"Power to enact Section 7-A was not conferred upon congress by the 'general welfare' recital in the preamble of the Constitution, nor by the welfare clause, Article 1, Section 8, of the Constitution."

Unless the Supreme court reverses Judge Nields, the decision will prevent the New Deal from interfering with employee-employer relationships of a vast majority of American business.

New Deal policies received another jolt the same day when Judge Charles L. Dawson on application of 35 western Kentucky coal operators issued a writ enjoining the government from enforcing the bituminous coal code, reaffirming an earlier decision that the national industrial recovery act was unconstitutional. Judge Dawson declared that the coal mining is an intrastate business, and beyond the power of congress to regulate.

He had previously issued a temporary writ, on petition of the operators on the ground of invalidity of the code, but the court of appeal remanded the case for a finding of fact on the question of irreparable injury. "When the government unconstitutionally interferes with the right of a citizen to do business in his own way, that interference constitutes an injury to the property rights of the citizen," said Judge Dawson, who labeled as fallacious the government lawyers' contention that gains resulting from the coal code should offset losses.

FEDERAL JUDGE W. I. GRUBB of Alabama gave the New Deal a sharp rap that threatens the great electric power development in the Tennessee valley. He ruled that the Tennessee Valley Authority has no legal authority to dispose of surplus power generated at hydro-electric plants on the Tennessee river. The administration is depending on this enterprise to bring about the lowering of private power plant rates, and it was believed there would be an immediate appeal from the decision.

In Washington especial note was taken of the fact that Judge Grubb made permanent an injunction restraining 14 north Alabama cities and towns from negotiating with the Public Works administration for loans to build electric distribution systems. There was speculation as to what effect, if any, this might have nationally on PWA's policy of giving financial encouragement to municipal power developments.

INTERNAL troubles continue to rock Cuba, and President Carlos Mendieta's regime appears tottering. Manuel Despaigne, the only member of Mendieta's cabinet who was in office, has resigned as secretary of the treasury, completing the rout of the ministry brought about by the school strike. And twelve assistant cabinet secretaries have also deserted the administration.

Carlos Mendieta

The cabinet resignations began over differences of opinion as to how to deal with the strike of several hundred thousand students and teachers which has developed into a national movement to oust the Mendieta administration. Communist-led labor organizations are ready to throw their strength behind a revolutionary general strike, and the situation is becoming critical. Although armed forces are being held in readiness to quell disorders, there is some doubt as to their loyalty to the president. Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staff, was reported ready to throw his support to Dr. Carlos Manuel de la Cruz for president if the Mendieta government falls, but leaders of the anti-Mendieta movement have indicated Batista's choice would not be acceptable to them.

Terrorism continues rampant. Bombing has become general, railroads have been blown up, and Havana has suffered considerable damage to property.

POSSIBILITIES of a merger of Democrats with Republicans in fighting for repeal of the "pink slip" or income tax publicity section of the 1934 revenue act was seen as Representative Bell, Missouri, pleaded for immediate passage of his bill eliminating the publicity provision.

"Not only is there fear on the part of the people of the country on account of gangsters and racketeers," Bell asserted "but there also is concern among business men, because their competitors will have the opportunity of nosing into their secret files."

A SWEEPING investigation of NRA and charges of graft and corruption was started by the senate, when it passed the Nye-McCarran resolution for a finance committee inquiry after a series of floor conferences between the sponsors, administration leaders, liberal Democrats, and western progressives. Sponsors of the bill originally demanded a special committee to investigate NRA, but finally agreed to the finance committee handling the inquiry. Since the finance committee is headed by Senator Pat Harrison, administration follower, this may mean little. However, it is understood that Harrison agreed that counsel and professional investigators be employed, and also yielded to demands that the committee confer with McCarran and Nye in planning the investigation. If Harrison attempts to "whitewash" the NRA, it is rumored that Nye will take the floor to demand that the inquiry be placed in the hands of the judiciary committee.

THE irrepressible Huey Long announced in Baton Rouge that he will be a candidate for governor of Louisiana in 1936. That may be just more Kingfish conversation. However it is known that Long has not preferred the office he now holds, and there is some possibility that he may seek the chief executive's chair of his state. When asked what would become of his candidacy for the presidency, he said that being elected governor and being a candidate for president would not interfere with each other.

DETERMINED not to accept the McCarran-Federation of Labor prevailing wage amendment, the administration forces in the senate sent the work relief bill back to the committee. What will happen now to the President's big program is problematical. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the administration men, declared the measure had met its death.

Senator Huey Long

Insisting he was expressing his own belief and not talking for the President, Byrnes said, "There is no prospect" of reviving the works program and "The committee probably will do nothing about it."

"The President stated that if the McCarran amendment were adopted he would not sign the bill," Byrnes said. "The senate adopted it, therefore, so as far as the works part is concerned, the bill is gone."

He expressed the thought the committee would report out an appropriation of $880,000,000 or $1,880,000,000 to carry out the present relief program for six months or a year.

Adoption of the McCarran amendment by the senate was brought about only after a hard fight and by means of a rather tricky shifting of pairs in which Huey Long took a leading part. It won by a margin of one vote, whereupon Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, moved that the bill be sent back to the committee. This was done, Senator Glass expressing the hope that the committee would report out a bill "that will not be quite so controversial."

Senator Long, who loses no opportunity to pester the administration and to display his political shrewdness, has started a movement for the specification of $2,500,000,000 of the work relief measure's total for the purpose of highway construction. Highway commissions in every state were asked by him to indorse this plan. Long said he had discussed it with some other senators and that they liked it.

CHANCELLOR HITLER has been forced to abandon his intensive campaign against the Jews. Economic pressure has caused Der Fuehrer to give up public manifestations of his cherished anti-Semitic policy, speeches at a meeting of political leaders and Nazi party members indicated. Boycotts, foreign exchange difficulties and other troubles cannot be risked by the reich at the present moment.

THE Saarland after fifteen years under League of Nations rule returned to Germany. Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian chairman of the league's Saar committee, took over the reins from Col. Geoffrey Knox, British chairman of the territorial governing commission. The next day, Aloisi formally surrendered the Saar to Germany, and the German flag was hoisted over the territory for the first time since the World war.

CELEBRATING the seventeenth anniversary of the establishment of its army of 960,000 men, Soviet Russia renewed its defiance of "imperialistic" nations. All over the country there were fetes, and the speakers took occasion not only to glorify the Red warriors but also to attack Germany and Japan.

CHANCELLOR KURT SCHUSCHNIGG of Austria paid a visit to Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, and was told that while Britain is all for maintaining the independence of Austria, return of the Hapsburgs in Austria and more British loans were strictly tabooed. Incidentally, Britain hinted that Austria might be a little more popular if it were a little less rough with the Socialists and trade unionists. Austria saw the light, and gave a half promise to be a little gentler. Everything was very friendly, but the Austrians came to London without inviration, and little effort was made to conceal official Britain's feeling that they would rather they had stayed at home.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—Increasing evidence of under-cover moves to discredit President Roosevelt from both the extreme conservative and the extreme radical sides is obvious to the most casual observer in Washington.

It is difficult to prove any given case, for in every instance some senators or members of the house are honestly and enthusiastically for the particular thing that the White House thinks would hamstring its program. Proof of the real underlying desires of any given senator being so difficult to obtain, it would be very misleading to name names.

The interesting point about the whole situation, however, lies not in any particular move against the administration which may gain unexpected support, but in the possible consequences for 1936.

It muddles what until now had been a very clear view of what seemed certain to happen, and which in all probability still is very sure. It is only the fact that there is now a bit of a cloud on the horizon—which may or may not grow—that is really interesting at all.

The cloud is the possibility that a group of the extremists may get together and form a third party next year. For such a move to get anywhere it must surmount several rather tall hurdles. One is whether they could even get together on a candidate, there being no such person in the offing as the elder La Follette was in 1924.

With that hurdle surmounted, and assuming—which is much easier—that the third party leaders could agree on a platform, the next hurdle is something over which the radicals have no control whatever—what the regular Republicans will do.

Big Handicap

For the only possible importance of a third party entering the field would not be the possibility of electing its own candidates, but of giving the Republicans a chance to beat Roosevelt, just as the elder La Follette's candidacy in 1924 assured the election of Calvin Coolidge by a landslide. The third party would draw votes from the New Deal. It would not get any of the 13,000,000 men and women who voted the Republican ticket last November.

Even with this big handicap, however, the Republicans would have to make a good showing to win, a bigger showing, in fact, than there is any apparent probability at this time of their making. Their difficulties revolve not only around the candidate, but the platform.

What could they agree on in a national convention as to platform? Talks with half a dozen leading Republican survivors in the house and senate indicate almost that number of widely varying views as to the proper course to be taken as to issues. And the same is true with respect to candidates, with the notable difference that here it is not a case of warmly advocating different candidates, but of coldly rejecting nearly all candidates in sight.

There is not the personal angle which usually is so apparent at this stage of the Presidential term among the outs. No one is screaming for this or that candidate. All unite in saying they do not know what candidate would make a good run.

There is less opposition to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, and to Frank Knox, the publisher, than to most, but even those who like these particular men disagree as to what the platform should be.

Altogether, even with more success for the radicals than is now anticipated, the picture is not very disconcerting to the New Deal. Actually, the far more important element is whether business can revive sufficiently by November, 1936, for America to see its path leading out of the present difficulties.

The Baby Bonds

Anticipated objections from the life insurance companies to the baby bonds the government proposes to sell at post offices have not materialized, most representatives of the companies saying there is no strictly insurance feature, in that the amount of return is not changed by the death of the holder.

Actually the baby bonds present an ideal arrangement for the purchaser only in one set of circumstances: if the purchaser figures that ten years from now he or she will need a sum of money for some purpose, and that there is no reasonable possibility that the money will be required before that time.

For example, if a father has a son now six years old, and is figuring on providing a sum of money for that son's education at college, ten years hence, the bonds might be very attractive. The rate of interest would not be high. It would be slightly under 3 per cent. But the money would be as safe as anything can be—the direct obligation of the government.

If on the other hand he should find it necessary to use the money before the expiration of that ten years, he would be forced to take a lower rate of interest. For during the first year no interest whatever accumulates. And for the next six years the rate is only a little above 2 per cent. It is only in the last three years, when the rate per year goes over 4 per cent, that the average is pushed up—and then not quite to 3 per cent.

The government is figuring on a very large sale of the bonds, and bankers and insurance men are rather skeptical as to any such large amounts being taken. There is plenty of idle money waiting for safe investment. Every banker, broker and insurance man knows that. The government knows it. It is proved every time a short term loan is asked by the government.

There are always lots of applications which cannot be filled. And the government has been able to get money at around 1 per cent repeatedly.

Different Proposition

But, bankers and insurance men point out, this baby bond issue presents an entirely different proposition. In the case of people taking short term government loans, their motive is to obtain a little return on their money while they are waiting. They hope that by the end of the period of that loan they may find some safe investment, which will yield them a larger return. Proof of this is in the fact that for long term bonds the government has to pay from two to four times as much interest.

But in the case of the baby bonds there is no return at all during the first year, and only a very small return for the next six years. Moreover, the holder is compelled, if he wants to cash in before the higher interest rate becomes effective, to take the price fixed in advance by the government. Other investors might be willing to pay more, but the bonds are not transferable.

One of the government's objects here is to save money, of course. Every person cashing the bonds in before maturity takes a very low interest rate. Another object is to keep the bonds out of the hands of the banks. There has been a great deal of criticism of government financing on the score that it was loading the banks up with government bonds, and thus restricting the amount of money which could better be employed at stimulating industry.

Not being negotiable, these baby bonds will stay out of the banks, thus serving this purpose. But the fact that the bonds are not negotiable also lessens their attractiveness to investors. This might not interest the chap who buys just one bond for $18.75. But it would interest considerably the man or woman with a few thousand dollars to invest. Hence the prediction that the total sales will not figure heavily in the government's fiscal plans.

In fact, this is frankly admitted by some administration officials. They admit they would like to see certain other effects. Just holding a bond of any sort, they point out, has the effect of making the holder just a little more conservative. And incidentally making him in a way a partner in the New Deal.

Gold Clause Decision

One of the most significant things about the gold clause decision of the Supreme court was not only the secrecy which shrouded what that decision would be—indicated by the fact that some of the first news flashes were very misleading—but also the moves the administration had planned to counteract the effects in case the decision should have gone 100 per cent against the government.

For it can now be stated that not even the speaker of the house, nor leading administration senators, had the slightest idea what would be done.

Just three people really knew. They were: President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, and Attorney General Cummings.

And that Cummings knew is the writer's guess. Cummings does not admit it. So it might be possible that the third person who knew was not Cummings, but some other lawyer on whose judgment the President and Morgenthau could rely.

Legal advice was produced for the treasury in plenty, but those furnishing it were not sure how it would be used. Some of the decisions asked for were as to public utility rates. For instance, in many past decisions, courts have ruled that contracts between utility companies and their customers did not bind either side if a legal body, which had the right to change rates, should change them.

Inference of the employees supplying this information assumed, and still assumes, that this was for calculating the court's decision, in advance, rather than deciding what to do should the court rule otherwise than it did.

But while the actual decision as to what would be done in the event of a decision against the government may never be known, and will not be unless the President should decide to let it leak out, there are some excellent guesses.

Some Deductions

One high treasury official, known for his shrewdness, made some interesting deductions in advance. For example, he had the idea, stressed in the majority opinion by the court, that the amount of damages would have to be determined in court—that certainly no court would force a company to pay the full $1.69 for each dollar of a gold clause bond.

"And," this official added in a conversation several days before the decision, "I do not think it will be possible actually to demonstrate damages to the extent of the decision."

Now this was not just a haphazard opinion. Nor was it a "leak" from the court. It grew in that official's mind as a result of various questions he had to answer for Secretary Morgenthau.

The administration was sure of several things about the decision—that it as to what it could do in this or that event—but it was hoping there would be some such loophole as forcing holders of the bonds to demand their damages through the courts instead of a flat order to pay $1.69.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped!

(Use what Doctors do)

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for—

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Do It Now!

By the street of "By-and-by" one arrives at the house of "Never."

STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS due to colds.

Use Mentholatum to help open the nostrils and permit freer breathing.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

Knows Himself

A great man marvels that the world calls him great.

END FRECKLES AND BLACKHEADS, QUICK

No matter how dull and dark your complexion; no matter how freckled and coarsened by sun and wind, NADINOLA Cream, tested and trusted for over a generation, will whiten, clear and smooth your skin to new beauty quickest, easiest way. Just apply tonight; no massaging, no rubbing; Nadinola begins its beautifying work while you sleep. Then you see day-by-day improvement until your complexion is all you long for; creamy white, satin-smooth, lovely. No disappointments; no long waiting; money back guarantee in every package. Get a large box of Nadinola at your favorite toilet counter or by mail, postpaid, only 50c. NADINOLA, Box 9, Paris, Tenn.

Kindliness Wins

A kindly smile is better liked than an ingratiating one.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

COUGHS

KILL RATS MICE COCKROACHES with STEARNS' ELECTRIC PASTE

NOW IN Tubes 35¢

ASK YOUR DEALER

WNU—8 10—35

FEEL TIRED, ACHY—"ALL WORN OUT?"

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

Is a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

GOLDEN DAWN

By PETER B. KYNE

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, sound asleep. Several days later her partially restored memory leads her to tell Lanny of her wealthy father, Theodore Gatlin, and of her girlhood in France.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

—17—

"We've been like two pups, chasing our tails," Angelloti complained when they met at their car. "The chief's up to his old tricks, babying a convict with the con, and that's the bird Doctor Burt is calling to treat."

"The girl's been there, just the same, Amadeo, my boy. There was a lipstick on the bureau and that's something old lady McNamara don't use. And I found a roll of adhesive, the heel of a roll of bandage and a soiled sheet with some bloodstains on it in the dirty clothes basket in the bathroom."

Angelloti was convinced. "Where did she go?"

"She might have doubled back to that old nurse's house again, but I doubt that, because she knows that's risky."

"Well, let's give Miss Lanning's house a prowl, anyhow."

Flynn was one of those hearty fellows who will try anything twice, so they went immediately to Lanny's house. The lights in front were out when they arrived, so Flynn pussyfooted around to the rear of the cottage to see if any lights were lighted there. Finding none, he listened for possible voices. Hearing none, he cautiously lifted the lid off Lanny's garbage can and bent his flashlight on it. He was rewarded for his courage by finding a stained bandage with clipped adhesive tape clinging to it. This telltale evidence he carried around to Angelloti; they entered their car, drove a block and inspected the clue in the light of the dash lamp. Then they silently shook hands.

"Nothing is ever lost if you know where it is," Flynn rejoiced. "I'm going to get my missus a winter coat with my half of the reward. We'll bone the district attorney for a search warrant tomorrow, and tomorrow night when the old lady gets home, we'll make the pinch."

"Shall we pinch her as an accessory?"

"Amadeo, my boy, unless you're looking hard for something, it's a mistake to see too much or know too much. This Lanning woman is a friend of the chief's. As far as the public ever need know we picked the girl up on the street."

Angelloti nodded his acquiescence; they got the search warrant on the strength of that soiled bandage, and at nine o'clock that night arrived in their car. Flynn went to the back door and posted himself there; and Angelloti rang the front doorbell. A light was switched on in the hall presently, and Lanny, dressed for the street, opened the door six inches. Angelloti had his foot in it in a flash.

"Detective Sergeant Angelloti of the central station, Miss Lanning. I have here a search warrant, giving me legal right to search your house and secure the person of Nance Belden, an escaped convict from San Quentin penitentiary. Read it an' weep!"

"You take your big flat foot out of my door and stay outside until I've read this purported search warrant or I'll shoot your foot off," Lanny informed him coldly. Angelloti withdrew his foot promptly, Lanny closed the door, and he could see her faintly through the curtained glass, reading.

"Come in," she invited—and at that moment the electric light bulb tossed out the upper window by Nance exploded with a loud report. "What's that?" Angelloti cried, instantly alert. A still louder explosion reverberated in the back yard; then the voice of Flynn crying: "Hey, stop, or I'll shoot."

"Tried slippin' her out the back door, eh?" Angelloti exulted, and dashed through the house, with Lanny at his heels. As he went out the kitchen door, Lanny slammed and bolted it behind him, and then, even as Dan McNamara had predicted, nature took her course. Nance dropped the remainder of the bombs and came dashing down the stairs. "Good-by, Lanny, darling," she cried happily. "We'll meet again." Lanny switched off the hall light, and Nance was through the front door and gone. Across the street two coupes stood at the curb, the motors of both turning over slowly.

Alternately the girl's finger was pointed at each car. "My—mother—told—me—to—take—this—one," she murmured, and when, through the aid of this childhood formula, she had made her decision, she leaped into the coupe of Messrs. Flynn and Angelloti and went rapidly away. Lanny, watching her from the darkened doorway, saw that she had taken the wrong car, but was afraid to cry out and warn her. So she did the next best thing. She locked her front door behind her, climbed into the other car and drove down town to a late motion picture show. She carried the search warrant with her and while enjoying the show tore it into little bits.

Of the weeping, the groaning, the burning sensations in the eyelids, the bewilderment, the groping, vomiting, cursing and despair of Messrs. Flynn and Angelloti nothing need be said. Suffice that Angelloti felt his way out of the gassed area and about two minutes after Lanny's departure, stationed himself on her front steps, while the valiant Flynn, dying a thousand deaths, stuck manfully at his post, leaning up against the kitchen door, enduring for duty's sake. Convinced they had Nance Belden cornered, they waited for the night wind to dissipate the gas. Angelloti ceased to weep about half an hour after escaping from the gassed area, but continued to gag for an hour. About ten-thirty he was able to see, so he rang Lanny's bell repeatedly, but received no answer. Then he noticed that their car was missing, so he summoned the martyred Flynn around front and told him the worst.

"Don't speak to me," Flynn commanded passionately. "I'm dead! Hunt up an all-night drug store an' phone for a taxi."

"This," Angelloti hissed, "is Dan McNamara's work. Where would they get

"What's That?" Angelloti Cried, Instantly Alert.

the bombs if he didn't swipe 'em out of the police arsenal?"

Flynn commenced to sob as he considered the barren fruits of his enormous sacrifice.

"Amadeo, swear to me, by our common faith, that, come what will, blow high, blow low, come sickness or sorrow, happiness or health, you'll never lay off this job until we've landed that—that—that huzzy."

"Right! I swear." Angelloti's voice trembled with the sincerity of his purpose.

The respective wives of the worthy pair telephoned down to the chief of the detectives next morning and informed him that their husbands were confined to bed with influenza. It might not be amiss, also, to state that Lanny came home in a taxi about twelve-thirty, and finding the front door free of Angelloti, and the neighborhood ozone quite restored to normalcy, retired to her bed and passed almost at once into dreamless and untroubled sleep.

It was not a police car in which Nance had escaped, but the private vehicle of Detective Sergeant Flynn, and its loss troubled him until the car was found, abandoned, out in the Mission, about twenty-four hours later. A glance at the speedometer comforted Flynn. The car had been driven six miles. In company with Angelloti (both now happily recovered from their terrible experience) he drove in the same car from Lanny's house, via the most direct route, to the point where a patrolman had picked up the car; thence via the route followed by the patrolman when he came off duty and drove the car to the central station and reported it. The mileage was six and two-tenths miles!

"She's holed up within a block or two of where she left the car," Flynn decided.

"Not such a cold trail, after all," Angelloti exulted. "We'll just have to patrol the neighborhood in our off moments. I'm sure the girl doesn't know she swiped your car, and that she gave us a clue to follow her."

"If crooks didn't make mistakes and give us the breaks, my boy, you and I wouldn't be where we are," Flynn reminded him. "I think it might be a good idea to interview the druggist in the neighborhood and see if she's been in to buy a new lipstick."

A round of the neighboring drug stores, however, proved barren of a new lead, and as they had other matters claiming their attention, they were forced to abandon the search that day.

Dan McNamara was much too intelligent to make inquiries of the assistant district attorney who had issued the search warrant, but when informed that Flynn and Angelloti were down with flu he called up Lanny at Stephen's office, and received a meticulous report. "You say the girl fled in the car my dicks arrived in?" he queried. "That's terrible. A description of the car must have been broadcast to all outlying police and the surrounding country stations immediately by Flynn and Angelloti, and Nance will be picked up somewhere down state."

"We've done our damnedest," Lanny replied cheerfully. "Angels can do no more. I borrowed the car you left out front. It's in a garage. I'll send you the claim check."

For a week, the chief waited for news of Nance Belden, but no news came through beyond some gossip around the central station that the car had been driven but three miles and then abandoned—for which evidence that the Almighty was still on his side the worthy fellow was grateful.

So Nance was still in the city! McNamara's mind worked so automatically he did not even have to tell himself that, undoubtedly, she had taken sanctuary within a short distance of the spot where she had abandoned Flynn's car, nor did he have to remind himself that Flynn and Angelloti would come to the same conclusion. He had no difficulty in ascertaining the spot where the car had been recovered.

"Folsom street and Sixteenth, eh?" he reflected. "Residential—flat buildings and cheap apartment houses, cheap rooming houses and workingmen's hotels. No, she wouldn't go to one of those. Not what she is—she has class—and she has two hundred dollars in her possession. She's holed up with a friend. What friend? Why, Ella Cates, of course."

He had already secured Ella Cates' address from the banker in San Jose. However, he realized it would not be wise to call upon her and run the risk of having Flynn or Angelloti run across him in the neighborhood or see him entering Ella Cates' house. The obvious thing, therefore, was to cast about for a job in another part of the city and see that both detectives were assigned to it. If he sent them out of the city for a day or two they might suspect his purpose and have some other dick friend of theirs shadow him during their absence.

While he was considering where he could dispose of them, the president of the Security Trust company in San Jose rang up.

"Miss Penelope Gatlin has just been in the bank, Chief," he told McNamara. "She has purchased a letter of credit for ten thousand dollars and has withdrawn in cash the remainder of the funds on deposit to the credit of her checking account, amounting to eleven hundred dollars."

"Is she in the bank now?"

"Yes."

"Have one of your clerks follow her. Give him some expense money—I'll be responsible for its repayment. And when you get his report please telephone me."

At three-thirty the banker telephoned again. "She purchased a ticket to San Francisco on one of the buses leaving here at three-fifteen. She spent two hours shopping."

The buses, McNamara knew, entered the city via Mission street, the bus depot was at Fifth and Mission streets. Ella Cates lived on Howard street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth. Howard street runs between Mission and Folsom—and Flynn's car had been found abandoned at Sixteenth and Folsom. Nance was smart. She had left the car a block from Ella Cates' home and walked there. McNamara reasoned the incoming bus would drop the girl off at Sixteenth and Mission streets—a regular stop—and she would then make her way to the Cates woman's house.

He glanced at his watch. He had an hour and a half to intercept her; for that hour and a half he must have Flynn and Angelloti in another section of the city. To his annoyance he discovered they were out on a detail, so he decided he would have to risk it, called a taxi and drove to Ella Cates' address. He discovered it to be a cheap wooden apartment house, but the directory in the vestibule gave him no information as to which apartment Ella Cates lived in, so he rang the landlady's bell and the door opened to admit him. To his inquiry regarding Mrs. Cates, he was informed that she had moved to parts unknown a week before, nor could his informant give him any clue to aid him in discovering her.

As he came out of the apartment house he glanced warily around and was amused to observe Detective Angelloti leaning against a cigar stand across the street. He was certain the detective had recognized him, for Angelloti immediately turned his back. The chief walked up to Mission street, boarded a street car and was at the bus terminus two minutes before the bus on which Nance had left San Jose rolled in. But Nance was not among the passengers that alighted.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Ancient Festival Goes On

At Aix en Provence, France, was instituted the first Roman garrison in Gaul. The church of Monte Sainte Victoire perpetuates a victory of Marius. Every April 24 there is a procession from Bauvenargues to the mountain to light a bonfire. This, the festival of Marius, is one of the oldest still existing.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 10

PETER PREACHES TO GENTILES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:1-11:18.

GOLDEN TEXT—Of a truth I perceive God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. Acts 10:34b, 35.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Learns That God Loves Everybody.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter Learns Something New.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Gospel for All.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Overcoming Racial and National Prejudices.

The missionary program of the church having broadened to include the Samaritans in Philip's preaching in Samaria, we see in this lesson the program still widening and embracing the Gentiles. Through the conversion of Cornelius, the middle wall of partition was broken down (Eph. 2:14).

I. The Man Cornelius (10:1, 2).

1. His official position (v. 1). He was a centurion, a Roman officer over a company of one hundred soldiers.

2. His character (v. 2). a. "A devout man." b. A benevolent man. c. A praying man. d. Highly respected by his family.

The Lord chose Cornelius as the channel of the transition of the gospel to the Gentiles because of his character and position.

II. Supernatural Preparation for the Transition of the Gospel to the Gentiles (10:3-35).

In order to bring this about, observe:

1. Two visions were given.

a. The vision of Cornelius (vv. 3-8). While engaged in prayer, an angel of God instructed him to send to Joppa for Peter, who would tell him what to do. Cornelius sent at once for Peter.

b. The vision of Peter (vv. 9-16). While Peter was praying (v. 9) he saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals let down from heaven, and heard the command, "Rise, Peter; kill, and eat." Peter protested that he had never eaten any unclean thing. God replied, "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common." This vessel, let down and taken back, indicated that both Jews and Gentiles were accepted on high.

2. A messenger sent from Cornelius (vv. 17-22). Peter was greatly perplexed over what he had seen, but not for long, for a messenger from Cornelius made inquiry at the gate for him. The Spirit informed Peter of the matter and bade him go, nothing doubting.

3. The meeting of Cornelius and Peter (vv. 23-33).

a. Peter took six witnesses along (v. 23 cf. 11:12). In a matter of so great importance he must have witnesses.

b. Cornelius waiting for Peter (v. 24) called together his kinsmen and near friends.

c. Cornelius, about to worship Peter (vv. 25, 26), was told by Peter that he himself was but a man.

d. The reciprocal explanation (vv. 27-33). Peter explained how God had taken from him his Jewish prejudices. Cornelius explained how God had instructed him to send for Peter.

III. Peter's Sermon (vv. 34-43).

1. The introduction (vv. 34, 35) showed that God is no respecter of persons (see Golden Text).

2. His discourse (vv. 36-43) touches briefly upon the mission of Jesus, showing that he was qualified for his work as a Mediator. He then exhibited the work of Christ.

a. In his life (vv. 36-39). He went about doing good, even casting out demons, as a proof of the fact that God was with him (v. 38).

b. In his death (v. 39). The just suffered for the unjust that he might bring us to God (I Pet. 3:18).

c. In his resurrection (vv. 40, 41). God raised him up the third day, showing openly that Christ was his Son (Rom. 1:4) and that his sacrificial work was satisfactory (Rom. 4:25). In this discourse Peter sets forth

(1) The basis of salvation—the sacrificial death of Christ (vv. 39, 40) (2) The scope of salvation—"whosoever" (v. 43). (3) The method appropriating salvation—"believeth on him" (v. 43).

IV. The New Pentecost (vv. 44-48).

As the gospel was entering upon its widest embrace the Holy Spirit came in new power.

V. Peter Vindicates His Ministry to the Gentiles (11:1-18).

Being called to account for visiting and eating with Gentiles Peter's defense took the form of logical argument, showing how God had set his seal on the work by the miraculous gift of the Spirit.

Religion of Love

Self-confidence is good, and one can do very little without it, but it is something that needs watching, in order that its tendrils do not overgrow 'the vital'; and one of the things in life which are vital is love, and from love springs happiness.

As a Little Child

"When Israel was a child, then I loved him," (Hosea 11:1). Aim to be ever this little child, contented with what the Father gives of pleasure or of play.

Many Cape-Suits, Many Cape-Coats

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PREFIX the word cape to suit, coat or ensemble and you will be speaking in terms of smartest fashion. A tremendous vogue is predicted for the perfectly stunning cape-suits, cape-coats and cape-ensembles which are so dramatically lending their fashionable presence to the spring style panorama.

The three models pictured were shown at the fashion revue recently presented by the Chicago wholesale market council. Seeing that they speak louder than words as to the new spring fashion trends, we are passing them on to you via illustration.

This trio of smart modes is style-revealing from any number of viewpoints. Firstly the group bespeaks the versatility of the new caped costumes—a coat to the left, one of the very new waistcoat effects in the center, a simple, youthful two-piece suit to the right, each of which is styled with a cape.

A most interesting feature in regard to the tailored suit on the figure seated is the narrow skirt which exploits a slit hemline, a detail which is considered tres chic for street wear. But wait until we tell you of the breath-taking color scheme of this charming tailleur! The cloth of which it is made is in the new blue called "delphinia," handsomely trimmed with a wide bordering of choice fox fur, and here is the big part of the story, it is dyed in a harmonizing darker blue "tropez"—a perfect symphony in blue even to the girlish off-the-face hat, the brim of which is smartly fluted at the edge. Fur dyed in exotic colors to match the materials it trims is one of the thrilling adventures which fashion is making this season.

Of more than passing interest, too, is the pointed turnover collar on the jacket which gives a decidedly youthful aspect to the neckline. The graceful fur-bordered cape has likewise gone pointed at the back to below the waistline in compliment to the collar.

In regard to the model centered in the group, the handsome moire brocade which fashions it is one of the interesting novelty weaves which emphasizes the fact that fabrics were never more varied and fascinating than they are for the new season. It is also said that we are entering into an era of color the likes of which we have not known for years and the green-gold tone of the moire brocade for the caped waistcoat together with the beige of the skirt goes a far way to verify the statement. This compose of two striking colors also confirms reports that daring combinations distinguish the majority of costumes this season. Note the rope braidings of self-fabric which collar the throat and girdle the waist, which is a trend in current fashion that is chic to the 'nth degree.

Contrasting the color-glory of the cape-suits shown, enter the handsome topcoat of black cloth to the left in the illustration. It is an aristocrat among spring coats, the sort in which best dressed women find appeal. The wide banding of superb silver fox adds greatly to its distinction. The cape fits snugly which is a noteworthy detail to keep in mind, as it is in keeping with the prevailing idea. It is also well to remember when selecting your new spring coat that silver fox is one of the very smart first-choice furs this season.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

DARK ACCENTS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

With the pastel costume, dark accessories are considered good style. The outfit pictured shows what can be done with this theme. A cloth frock in a subtle soft pastel green is artfully contrasted with a scarf of plaided taffeta in rich deep green and golden yellow. Note the modish calf bag which perfects the color scheme in that its dark green calfskin is enhanced with a diamond cut-out bar of gold finished metal. Or if you prefer to think of this costume in tones of blue the gown of pale blue would call for the scarf in navy and a lighter blue taffeta with thin white lines in its plaided design. The calf bag of course would be in navy. Which reminds us that the widespread flair for navy extends to footwear and that all the leading booteries are making a big display of navy blue shoes.

SPRING FASHIONS ARE INTERESTING

Rare color combinations, unique types and arrangements of trimmings, and tricky fabrics are doing their best to attract women's attention to the new spring fashions. The alliance of tomato red and chartreuse is one of the most arresting of the colors that you'll see but no more impressive than the use of red and yellow. A woolen jacket costume of a porous, honeycomb woolen appears in the chartreuse shade but adds a stomacher of the tomato colored crepe.

One evidence of the discard of the red and yellow rule is a yellow knitted frock trimmed with bright red buttons. These buttons fasten the shirtwaist front, the composition of which they are made being duplicated on the red leather belt. A silk scarf that is striped with alternating bands of the two colors is tied carelessly around the neck.

Brown Woolly Tweed Now Combined With Taffeta

Tweed and taffeta meet today on a common footing. Marcelle Dormoy combines them in a coat adequately named "Riviera" in a brown woolly tweed with a scarf collar-tie in solid brown taffeta.

The coat is three-quarters, flaps open in front from where the taffeta makes a crisp bow near the throat. It has that wide back flare that is so good now, and the sleeves are rather baggy but close in around the wrists.

Jenny contributes a smart redingote in black faille worn over a dress in white silk pique.

Chamois Colored Shoes

Smartest among the new sports shoes now being shown for resort wear are chamois color, trimmed with brown, with black or white. They can be worn with all light clothes.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

LEGAL NOTICE.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
CIRCUIT COURT OF SHELBY COUNTY, IN EQUITY.
No. 1687

The State of Alabama, Complainant, VS. One Ford Sedan Automobile, 1930 Model, Motor No. A-2690152, Respondent.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 4th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in or claiming an interest in One Ford Sedan Automobile, 1930 Model, Motor No. A-2690152, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said county, which said Automobile is alleged to have been used at the time of such seizure for the purpose of illegally conveying or transporting prohibited liquors containing alcohol, from one point in this state to another point in this State, contrary to law, to file their claim in this court to the said Automobile on or before the 18th day of March, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this 4th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-7-2t. Register.

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately. Rawleigh, Dept. ALC - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

666 Liquid - Tablets Salve-Nose Drops — checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Miss Henrietta Daviston was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Kate Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, and Miss Lee Esther Daviston, were visitors in Elliottsville, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Farr and Fulton Farr, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Peete, Sunday.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost in the loss of their brother, Mr. G. W. Johnson, who died of pneumonia in Decatur, February 27th. Mr. Johnson was laid to rest in the Moore Cemetery, Friday, near Montevallo.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bradley had Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bradley and children, of Boothton, as their guests this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stripling and children, of Marvel, were visitors here, Saturday evening.

Mrs. Pauline Horton spent the week-end in Lineville.

Miss Pauline Evans, of Montevallo, visited Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Moore, Sunday.

Rev. Lester Fitts filled his appointments at the Underwood Baptist Church, Sunday.

There will be Prayer Service at sday night at 7:00 o'clock. Everyone the Underwood Baptist Church, Thurs is invited to attend.

Mr. J. B. King spent the week-end in Columbiana.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harper and others, of Elliottsville, were visitors here Saturday night.

There will be preaching at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church Saturday night and Sunday, the Rev. Sam Henderson, of Blocton, filling the pulpit.

Little Gracie Lee, baby of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Smith, is very sick. We hope she will soon be well again.

VINCENT NEWS

Mrs. W. J. Florey entertained the Vincent Study Club at her home on Wednesday afternoon of last week with sixteen members present. Although it was cold and windy, it was like a breath of Spring on the inside because of the decorations which were yellow doffodells.

The following officers were elected for another Club year: President, Mrs. F. J. Lee; Vice-President, Mrs. C. H. Florey; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Embry; Parlimentarian, Mrs. F. A. Gorman; Reporter, Mrs. Embry.

After a short business session the club went into an interesting program. Responses to roll call were prominent social workers.

Mrs. Lee read an interesting sketch on the life of Jane Adams.

Another interesting paper was read by Mr. C. R. Carter, on "Ann Sullivan Macy, Leading The Blind".

The club will entertain all the women of the Vincent High School Faculty at the Montpilier Club House with a Spend-the-day Party Saturday of this week.

Mrs. Florey served those present with a delicious salad plate and coffee assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wilbur Florey.

LEGAL NOTICE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.

In the Circuit Court for the Eighteenth Circuit of Alabama, in Equity.

E. D. LeMay, Complainant, VS. Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, Respondents.

In this cause it being made to appear to the Register by affidavit of D. K. McKamy, solicitor for E. D. LeMay, complainant, that the respondents, Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber, are non-residents of the State of Alabama, residing in Nashville, Tennessee, and whose other address is unknown to complainant, and further that in the belief of said affiant, the respondents are of the age of twenty-one years;

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Shelby County Democrat, a newspaper published in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said Kate T. Sharber and A. L. Sharber to plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 18th day of March, 1935, or thirty days thereafter a decree pro-confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office, this 12th day of February, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
2-14-4t. Register.

CALERA NEWS

Miss Lucy Bailey Bowdon's guest Sunday, were Miss Ted Brown and Miss Toots Peters, of Montevallo.

Mrs. Jasper Holcombe was in Birmingham, Monday.

Mrs. Henry Sanders passed away at her home in Selma, Feb. 28th. Interment in Selma. Mrs. Sanders, formerly Miss Nannie Adkins, used to live in Calera.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C Baker and children and Mrs. Bert Dodge motored to Birmingham, Sunday.

Mr. Fred Allen has purchased the home of Mr. E. K. Wood on 21 ave.

Mrs. J. E. Armstrong and family and Mrs. Leon Busby and family, were in Birmingham, Monday.

—SEE—
NOLAND BARNETT
—FOR—FLOWERS
FOR ALL OCCASIONS.
Nelson Farm—Columbiana, Ala.

—Complete—
FUNERAL PROTECTION
—No Age Limit—
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

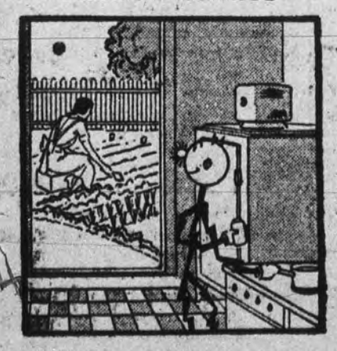
COMPLIMENTS
—OF—
SOUTH HIGHLAND INFIRMARY
1127 South 12th Street — Birmingham, Alabama

SPECIALS
--at--
Taylor's Cash Stores

COLUMBIANA CASH STORE — MONTEVALLO CASH STORE
SILURIA CASH STORE — UNDERWOOD CASH STORE
BUCK CREEK CASH STORE — CALERA CASH STORE

SUGAR, 10 pound paper bag	47c
TOMATOES, 3 cans for	25c
CORN, Excelsiors, 3 cans for	25c
Y. C. PEACHES, no. 2 1-2 can	15c
CRACKERS, 1 pound	10c
CATSUP, 14 ounce bottle, 2 for	25c
CORN FLAKES, Post Toasties, 2 for	15c
OAT MEAL, 3 minute, 3 for	25c
FLOUR, Mary Jane, guaranteed, plain or S. R.	95c
FLOUR, Water Fall, guaranteed, plain or S. R.	$1.10
PINEAPPLE, sliced, no. 2 can	17c
RAISENS seeded or seedless	9c
BANANAS, per pound	5c
SALMON, Chum, per can	10c
LARD, Snow Drift, 6 pounds	$1.05
LARD, Pure, 4 pound carton	65c
LARD, Shorting, 4 pound carton	55c
SOAP, big Octagon, 5 bars for	21c
PLOW LINES, 36 feet long	25c
MILK, Swiss, 3 cans for	10c
C. S. MEAL, per sack	$1.95
SHORTS, per sack	$1.95
SAUSAGE, mixed, per pound	15c
STEW MEAT, boneless	12½c
BACON, sliced, per pound	32c
CHUCK ROAST	12c
FISH STEAK	30c
WESTERN STEAK	25c

For Women Who Like To "DIG IN THE DIRT"



● Many attractive Electric Range models from $77.50 up. Very easy terms may be arranged.

When the first warm sunshine of early Spring brings swelling buds, obey that impulse to "dig in the dirt." Install an Electric Range in your kitchen; Its automatic features will enable you to get out of doors—and stay there!—as long as you wish. Simply place your food in the oven, set the time and temperature controls, put on your garden gloves and go out and dig. Install an Electric Water Heater and have plenty of hot water when you come in. Electric Appliance Dealers, or any member of this organization, gladly will explain how easily this new "garden freedom" can be yours; and how little it costs with the bargain-rate electricity now available in Alabama.

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

"You can have more leisure hours
For playing bridge or growing flowers
If you cook the Electric Way
Tomorrow, next week—EVERY DAY!"

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electricity Is CHEAP In Alabama

Try Faster Way to Relieve Your Colds

Medical Discovery Bringing Almost Instant Relief to Millions

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

REMEMBER DIRECTIONS

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

"SIMONIZ Made the Finish Last Longer!"

Simoniz your car. Then notice how much longer the finish lasts. Fifty or even a hundred thousand miles are nothing to a Simonized car. Simoniz protects the finish in all weather and makes it stay beautiful. So, always insist on Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener for your car.

MOTORISTS WISE
SIMONIZ

The new improved Simoniz Kleener quickly restores the lustre to dull cars. Simoniz, too, is easy to apply and it keeps the finish beautiful for years.

for Itching Rashes Use Cuticura Ointment

It soon brings relief and promotes healing. Because of its absolute purity and mildly antiseptic properties, it is unsurpassed in the treatment of rashes, red, rough skin, itching, burning feet, chafings, chappings, irritations, cuts and burns. No household should be without it.

Price 25c and 50c.
Sold at all druggists.

HIGH QUALITY single comb white Leghorn baby chicks, hatching eggs, from State Accredited Blood Tested flocks. An exclusive leghorn breeder. Prices reasonable, postal gets catalog. HILL CREST LEGHORN FARM, WILKESBORO, N. C.

BOYS. Make money, repair and build bikes with used parts. Send quarter for illustrated instructions "HOW TO LACE BICYCLE WHEEL." FOREMAN'S 1220 N. Wis. St., Dept. A, Racine, Wisconsin.

ARE YOU RUNDOWN, AILING?

Read this: Mrs. O. Vincent of 19 New St., Natchez, Miss., remarked: "My husband was suffering with low vitality and he was wonderfully benefited by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N.Y., for free medical advice. Ask for our free booklet which describes the Invalids Hotel and gives all particulars of our work here.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO — Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

WE NEED A MAN
in this territory to sell our line Asbestos Roof Coating, a guaranteed waterproofing liquid. If you have car and interested in earning $50 per week or more, write
H. CLAY JOHNSON
Post Office Box 789 Fort Worth, Texas.

FARM AND RANCH
in the lime belt of east Mississippi. 634 acres at $15 per acre, ½ cash, balance easy terms. Rich soil, lies well, nearly all open. Good water, healthy location, no overflows. 7 houses, barns fenced and cross fenced. Fine pastures. Would take small clear farm or income property in the Birmingham district if priced right in part payment. Also 100 cattle, work stock and farming tools cheap to buyer of land. Possession at once. B. F. BORDEN, CORDOVA, ALA.

EVERY FARMERS NEEDS A RADIO
We will sell a good Battery Radio complete for $29.95, one-half cash, balance this fall. Electric Set for $19.95, same terms. Write for catalogue. We sell batteries for all makes of radios.
E. E. FORBES & SONS PIANO CO.
BIRMINGHAM ALABAMA

NO-VEX
The World's Best Ointment for Athlete's Foot, Ringworm, Eczema, Itching Piles and Dandruff. Stops Itching instantly. Heals quickly. Absolutely pure, and will not irritate the tenderest skin. Many leading physicians prescribe and use it. If your local druggist cannot supply you, send us 50c and a jar will be sent you by mail postpaid. FALLS CHEMICAL CO., Box 962; Memphis, Tenn.—Adv.

YEAR 1934 HAD FEW "BIG WINDS"

Tornado Toll Well Below the Average.

Wedging a dime into a tree trunk and driving a 10-foot plank through the chassis and steel body of an overturned automobile, the outstanding tornado of 1934 lived up to its family reputation for prankishness. Real twisters, however, were comparatively few and far between in the United States last year. Windstorms violent enough to do a great deal of damage swept over the Midwest and parts of the East and South, but they were not of tornado intensity.

Weather bureau records show that there were only 76 true tornadoes in 1934, as compared with 260 in 1933, and 152 in 1932. The 76 twisters of 1934 cost the lives of 32 people and demolished property valued at nearly $2,800,000. But the tornado toll of other years has run from 36 lives, in 1931, to 794, in 1925, and from a property loss of nearly $3,000,000 in 1923, to one of about $43,500,000 in 1927. Since 1916, the records show, only 1 year, 1919, has had as few twisters as 1934 had. The 65 tornadoes in 1919, however, killed 205 people and destroyed property worth $6,861,069.

The tornado belt, the weather bureau says, is commonly presumed to be Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and much of Kansas and Nebraska. A tornado, however, may appear in other parts of the country, as was evident last year, when New Orleans, La., Cleveland, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind., were hit. Nor, the climatologist adds, do twisters follow any special plan. Past performance is no key to where or when the next one will strike.

Maryville, Mo., was the scene of the worst tornado in 1934. That of the year before struck Nashville, Tenn., although the one at Chicago, Ill., ran a close second. In 1932 twisters made themselves most severely felt south of the Ohio river. Iowa, with 19 tornadoes, seems to have been the main target in 1931. Thirty-two twisters on May 1, 1930, left ruin in their wake in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan. The outstanding tornado of 1929 hit Minneapolis, Minn. The year before the twisters had showed a special affinity for Iowa.

Age-Old Memories Stir Merry Laughing Spring

Moonlight falling in pearly, ghostly radiance over the hill in Hardscrabble forest touches candleberry and sweet-fern with opalescence and mirrors age-old stars in the fern-lipped bowl of the Laughing Spring.

The Spring, which finds something funny in its age-long life, chuckling constantly at some comic joke, remembers the coming of the Ice age, its imprisonment under the ice sheet, and the herds of mastodons migrating through the valley after it. It remembers when wild animals were dominant along the Hudson, and the timid coming of Red Men from the West, spying out the land, taking it away from bear, deer, moose and wolf.

At its lip white settlers stooped to drink, listening for war-whoops. It remembers the Dutch, the English, Continentals marching past to the battle of White Plains, and boys of the Neperhan marching away to the Civil war.

Hunters, hobos, pursued men and women, hikers, lovers, have all visited the ancient fountain, but still the Spring is the youngest and merriest thing in all the Hardscrabble forest, for it still remembers how to laugh. —New York World Telegram.

Professional Mourners

Professional mourners can be hired in Spain, and their blackmailing activities are attracting much attention in the Madrid newspapers, says the Montreal Herald. These people, who hire out their services at funerals, have been a long established institution in Spain. But in these days of progress their trade is rapidly declining, and the professional mourners, becoming desperate, now turn up unasked. Formidable gangs of them attach themselves to funeral processions as they pass through the street, wailing loudly. Sometimes the relatives of the dead person pay them for their services. Sometimes they object. In that case the mourners threaten to wreck the funeral unless money is forthcoming.

POLITICAL NOTE

It is a false notion that the public can only understand hokum and bunk.—Owen Davis.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong. No alcohol. Sold by druggists in tablets or liquid.—Adv.

Broadcasts the Fact

No one would throw it up to a fool that he is one, if he wouldn't insist that he isn't.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Along came Ruth

"I NEVER dreamed coffee could have such an effect on me . . . although I knew it was bad for children!"

"Oh, coffee disagrees with lots of older people. The caffein in coffee gives 'em indigestion, upsets their nerves and keeps 'em awake nights!"

If you suspect coffee disagrees with you . . . try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. Easy to make, and costs less than ½ cent a cup. It's a delicious drink, too . . . and may prove of real value in helping your system throw off the ill effects of caffein. A product of General Foods.

FREE—Let us send you your first week's supply of POSTUM . . . Free! Simply mail the coupon.

GENERAL FOODS, Battle Creek, Mich. W. N. U. 3-7-35
Send me, without obligation, a week's supply of Postum.
Name_____
Street_____
City_____ State_____
Fill in completely—print name and address.
This offer expires December 31, 1935

ARM & HAMMER AND COW BRAND BAKING SODA ARE PURE BICARBONATE OF SODA U.S.P. STANDARD

When you are footsore a Baking Soda foot bath will soothe and refresh your weary feet . . . To cleanse the throat and remove accumulated mucus, gargle thoroughly with a solution of our Baking Soda, two teaspoonfuls to a glass of water . . . A product of eighty-eight years' 88 experience, our pure Soda has many remedial Rx uses . . . It is obtainable everywhere U.S. in convenient sealed containers for just a few cents. Mail the coupon today.

CHURCH & DWIGHT CO. INC.
BB-19
PLEASE SEND ME FREE BOOK DESCRIBING USES OF BAKING SODA ALSO A SET OF COLORED BIRD CARDS
(PLEASE PRINT NAME AND ADDRESS)
NAME
STREET
CITY
STATE
70 CEDAR ST. NEW YORK

Business established in the year 1846

CALERA NEWS

The M. E. Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Dick Martin, Wednesday afternoon, February 27th, with Mrs. Arthur Seale, joint hostess. Mrs. J. E. Armstrong read a paper on "God's Frontier". Mrs. B. F. Miller gave a report on the Missionary Conference held in Gadsden, Ala. Mrs. H.. C. Baker rendered several piano selections. A dialogue subject, "How our fathers dug the well", by Mrs. R. L. Holcombe, Mrs. Frank Denson, Mrs. A. E. Norwood, Mrs. Arthur Seale, Mrs. C. Campbell, Mrs. J. T. Murphree, Mrs. H. C. Baker and Mrs. J. R. Edwards. After the social hour, a delightful salad plate was served to 24 members.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Jr., and son, Bobbie, motored to Birmingham Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Denham and children spent last Sunday in Tarrant City. Miss Laura Brannon returned with them for a visit.

The P. T. A. celebrated Founders Day at the school auditorium, Thursday afternoon. Sandwiches and cake was served to a large attendance.

Eugene Harris returned to South Highland Infirmary in Birmingham, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. R. L. Holcombe, Misses Ada and Zimma Holcombe and Miss Margaret Kate Bowdon spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. Zollie Cowart, Jr., is home for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Warren and son, spent Saturday in Sixmile.

Those who are on the sick list this week are Mrs. Frank Denson and son, Harry, and Mrs. F. Crim.

Mr. W. Seale has recovered from a three-weeks attack of flu.

Rev. B. F. Miller, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. A. E. Norwood and Mrs. Arthur Seale, were in Birmingham, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons and children, motored to Lester's Chapel Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Frank Harwell spent the week-end in Talladega with friends.

Miss Louise Thomas is visiting in Wilsonville this week.

Mrs. Lucile Davis, of Georgiana, Alabama, was the guest of Mrs. W. H. Martin last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Fulmer, Mrs. Chamley, and children left for St. Petersburg, Fla., Sunday, where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Daniels and little daughter, Gene, were the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dodge last week-end.

Mr. J. H. Crawford is visiting relatives in Birmingham this week.

Mrs. E. K. Conway, of Clanton, was the guest of her parents, Monday.

Mr. R. B. Price, Misses Virginia and Mildred Price, Miss Loraine Matthews and Miss Margaret Blewston, all of Jemison, were in Calera Sunday, visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Boyd were in Birmingham, Monday.

Miss Hazel Pardue spent Monday in Valley Grove with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons and children, motored to Lester's Chapel, Sunday.

Mrs. M. T. Anderson left for Bessemer, Monday, where she will make her home with relatives.

Miss Mattie Pardue, of Valley Grove, was the week-end guest of her sister, Miss Hazel Pardue.

Miss Bessie Gunn, who has been the house guest of Mrs. Susie B. Williams, returned to her home in Shelby, Thursday.

Misses Nora Elvin and Elizabeth Roberts, of South Calera, entertained at their home Friday evening with a dance.

Miss Wilma Adams, of Selma, spent Monday with Miss Fannie Pearl Seale.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Watts, of Minooka, were the dinner guests of Mrs. Ed Crim, Wednesday.

SOUTH HIGHLAND INFIRMARY

In Birmingham at 1127 S. 12th Street.

There is nothing more important to the progress of our community than a hospital of this kind presided over by those who have made a special study of the needs of the afflicted—those who are unfortunate because of physical or mental defects. They feature general hospital service, general practice and surgery. They give the most patient service here.

The very finest equipment, careful nursing and the most able professional services are features of this hospital. Features are general hospital service. Are prepared to take care of emergency cases.

The management is to be commended upon devoting their lives to the work which is so much needed to make everyone fit to be a Spartan. The change in the methods from the olden times is well illustrated in the work of this hospital, which typifies modern civilization.

WILLIAM S. PRITCHARD, Attorney

With offices in the First National Bank Building in Birmingham.

To the layman, the life of a lawyer seems to be one of considerable ease, with right to walk in and out of the courts without having to tremble in the presence of judges and his ability to understand many things which are as Greek to the ordinary citizen. While it is undeniable that the followers of the legal profession are fortunate in some respects, they are nevertheless usually a hard working set of individuals as many lawyers will be more than willing to testify. For example, William S. Pritchard may be pointed out as one of the city's most learned and successful lawyers.

A law office consequently presents a scene of anything but blissful ease and his constantly increasing list of clients are forever making large demands upon his time and legal knowledge. Much has been said about this city's lawyers. They constitute a tower of strength in the community and by dint of actual performance and achievement. William S. Pritchard has certainly won a place among his confreres that is comfortably near the top.

THE BIRMINGHAM JEWELRY CO.

In Birmingham on North 19th St., across street from City Hall.

There is positively no reason why people should not take into consideration this modern and up-to-date store when making selections in jewelry. This is one of the progressive establishments of this section that is known as one of our most efficient and reliable stores.

At this season of the year this popular store is especially prepared to serve the trade in the way of birthday and wedding presents and we wish to suggest that the problem of what to give will be readily and satisfactory solved by a visit to this complete store. Of course everyone knows that it is headquarters for diamonds, watches, silver, clocks, novelties, goldenware, and everything else that pertains to a modern and complete stock of jewelry. A special feature is made of the repair department, within the experience and expertness of the expert workmen accrues to the advantage of all of the many patrons of this store.

While this store is one that in point of extent of stock quality of goods and workmanship and attractiveness of appointment would compare favorable with the largest establishments of metropolitan centers, the prices are most reasonable.

THE TUTWILER HOTEL

In Birmingham at 2001 5th Avenue North, invites the ladies to make this Hotel their home while in the city. They have a lady hostess who looks after the conveniences of all the ladies that stop at this Hotel. They also have a registered nurse that looks after lady guests.

This hotel, because of the service rendered, is growing in popularity all the time. It is thoroughly equipped and up-to-date in every way, and is operated at reasonable rates.

There is no greater necessity than the modern hotel. With the ever-increasing number of men, who, because of their business are forced to live away from their homes, the modern hotel proprietor has realized that the public has learned much from these as to what constitutes a modern and efficient hotel.

Every community that can boast of such a hotel is sure of much recognition over the surrounding country.

We are glad to refer our readers to this well known hotel and point to it as a modern, up-to-date hotel that is increasing in popularity all the time. The management takes special pains to see that the service of the entire staff of helpers are as near perfect as it is possible to make it.

All the rooms are comfortably furnished with plenty of ventilation, hot and cold water.

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL COMPANY

In Birminghm, main office in the Webb Crawford Bldg. They offer a complete Burial Insurance Policy at a very moderate rate. No one can afford to be without this protection. A complete service never costs more, and often less.

In a comprehensive review of this nature, embracing as it does the most salient featurers af our progress, we cannot fail to devote to the professional status of the community and justly so to a profession which is so essential as that of the modern funeral director and embalmer. In this respect, this community possesses an efficient representative in this well known firm.

Since the foundation of their business, they have always been foremost in giving the best service. Not only has this accrued to the benefit of the public, but has built for them a reputation that has spread for miles around.

One particular feature of this establishment is the privacy for the funeral, the atmosphere is more of the home-like, giving it a touch of cheerfullness. In the funeral home that same home-like atmosphere prevails that is different from sadness. All the comforts of one's own home, plus every facility that is needed to perform the service with the utmost satisfaction to their patrons, will be found in their funeral home.

PIZITZ BEAUTY SALON

At 1821 Second Avenue N. in Birmingham on the balcony of Pizitz store—Mr. Rex, the Beautician, in charge.

This beauty shop is a center for beauty culture that is adding much to the life of the ladies of this part of the state.

They have fitted the shop according to the late and modern ideas of science and thus offer the public the best of service. Every electrical device and article of equipment that has been approved by the trade is here installed for the convenience of the public. Here are employed operators who are thoroughly competent. Massage and manicure treatment is featured which gives the customers a full and complete service.

It has many booths and features a comprehensive service in modern, scientific beauty culture. They are all cosmeticians of the most advanced ideas. The styles of the day are understood and no matter whether you desire the coiffure, manicure, massage, marcel, water wave, scalp treatment or permanent waving, they are able to assist you so that all beauty service will conform to your individuality and add to your beauty and charm. All work is performed according to the latest scientific discoveries and the prevailing styles of the day. They treat your hair to become your personality.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
JEFFERSON COUNTY.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, as mortgagee in the hereinafter described mortgage, will sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash during the legal hours of sale on Saturday, March 23rd, 1935, in front of the main entrance of the Shelby County Court House, in Columbiana, Alabama, the following described real property situated in Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit:

All of Lot 3, and a strip of the uniform width of 15 feet off the northeasterly side of Lot 4, in J. H. Baker's survey of property located in Northeast Quarter of Southeast Quarter of Section 1, Township 20, South, Range 3 West, and the Northwest Quarter of Southwest Quarter of Section 6, Township 20 South, Range 2 West, according to map of said survey recorded in map book 2 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama; said property being more particularly described as follows: commence where the west line of the right of way of the paved Montgomery Highway crosses the north line of the Northwest Quarter of Southwest Quarter of Section 6, Township 20 South, Range 2 West; thence in a southwesterly direction along the west line of said right of way of said highway 529.14 feet for point of beginning; thence continue in a southwesterly direction along said west line of said right of way 262.54 feet; thence in a northwesterly direction parallel with the southwesterly side of Lot 3 to the west line of the Northeast Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section 1, Township 20 South, Range 3 West; thence north along the said west line of the forty to the northwest corner of the forty; thence east along the north line of the forty for 348.71 feet; thence an angle to the right of 22 degrees 39 minutes for 1268.06 feet to point of beginning; 8.91 acres, more or less.

Said sale is to be had under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Caroline H. Brown and her husband, T. D. Brown, to Bankers Mortgage Building & Loan Association on to-wit: June 26th, 1931, and recorded in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama, in volume 162 on page 434; said mortgage having been given to secure a certain indebtedness mentioned therein and said mortgagors being in default in the payment of said indebtedness.

BANKERS MORTGAGE
BUILDING & LOAN
ASSOCIATION, as mortgagee.
W. H. Woolverton,
Attorney for mortgagee. 3-7-2t.

UNITED AUTO SERVICE, Inc.

In Birmingham at 2121 2nd Avenue South.

They are leading citizens and specialize in all phases of the motor repair work. Realizing that not the first cost, but the service charges make an automobile an extravagance this widely known garage has gained its popularity because it keeps the service charges for auto owners in this city and community at the lowest minimum. "Let us keep your car in repair and it ceases to be an extravagance," is the slogan of this modern, up-to-the-minute garage.

This garage has established a free examination department. Your car is looked over at any time free of charge and you are told if any repair is needed. This may save you much in the long run. This examination places you under no obligation to allow this garage to make your repairs.

Buy A

Crosley Shelvador Refrigerator

UNSURPASSED FOR:

CONVENIENCE,
SERVICE,
BEAUTY,
DEPENDABILITY.

PRICED $72.50 UP.

WHALEY FURNITURE CO.

Montevallo, Alabama.

HOGS GO HIGHER

Electricity Stays Down!

"AND," says Reddy Kilowatt, "so far as I'm concerned they're all greased pigs, because even though I tried, I couldn't hold on to go up with them.

"But my low price wins me a lot of friends, and I ask you, how many friends has a pig?

"Every day I hear of Alabama families who are using more and more of my electric service. Some people even write my Company telling how pleased they are with the low rates."

Mr. Cruitt of Atmore, Ala., Writes:

"Every so often you hear about how cheap electricity some place else is, but when you begin checking, you usually learn that electric rates in Alabama are among the lowest in the country. I have nothing but praise for your Company."

R. H. Cruitt

Atmore, Ala.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP IN ALABAMA

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — THE SHELBY COUNTY DEMOCRAT, COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA — NUMBER FORTY-EIGHT

7-12-85 Mary Sparks

BOYS STATE - WIDE RECREATIONAL SYSTEM ORGANIZED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Alabama now has its first state-wide co-ordinated recreational system in the American Legion-Macfadden Athletic Program. This program is now completely organized, firmly established and satisfactorily operating, six days a week, in 38 of the 40 towns on the schedule. This project has been made possible through the joint cooperation of the American Legion, State Aviation Commission, Alabama Relief Administration and Bernarr Macfadden, internationally famous publisher, philanthropist and physical culture leader, who is financing all expenses of organization, supervision and equipment.

The program is well distributed throughout the state, giving a balanced and representative layout, touching every section of the state and providing a comprehensive coverage.

More than 4,000 boys have been actually registered and it is estimated that more than 6,000 boys have participated in the program at one time or another since January 1st. Weekly attendance has ranged as high as 10 000. By Spring, when the program has become fixed in the daily life of the communities and better operating conditions prevail, weekly attendance should run as high as 15,000 and registrations should exceed 10,000. Nearly 100 leaders and assistant leaders are now at work directing the program.

More than 60 towns have applied for the program and efforts are being made to extend it beyond the present quota of 40.

In each town the program is supervised by a Macfadden committee of the local American Legion post. The total membership of these committees in the various towns exceeds 120.

The program is receiving most enthusiastic support and cooperation in the various towns. The city council of one has made a special appropriation to broaden its local program. A gymnasium is being built in another town. Athletic fields are being specially prepared or improved. Additional facilities are being provided in many of them. Nearly every town has done something special for it.

Now that the program is in full swing, plans are being made for its enlargement. Consideration is being given to a state-wide boxing tournament, state-wide standard athletic tests, radio programs, field days, etc.

Field organization work is being handled by William Cather and Andrew Hudson, two experienced athletic directors, who have been connected with the program since it was first started on an experimental basis.

With organization and operating details completely arranged, Asa Rountree, Jr., state director, is resigning, effective March 1st and will be succeeded by Hugh Starnes of Birmingham. Rountree served as director of the program since its inception and planned the program as it is now operating.

Hog Prices To Make Further Advances

AUBURN, Ala.—Further advances in hog prices are expected throughout 1935, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which expects the prices "to remain at relatively high levels compared with recent years."

J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, lists three reasons for the increase in hog prices: (1) Low price for past three years caused many people to reduce operations; (2) the government pig and sow slaughter campaign; (3) high price of feed forcing the corn-hog ration out of line.

RELIEF ADMINISTRATION BUYING SORGHUM SYRUP

AUBURN, Ala.—The Relief Administration is at present offering to buy 275,000 gallons of sorghum syrup from Alabama farmers for relief purposes. Price is 30 cents per gallon in gallon cans.

Farmers with sorghum for sale are advised to get in touch with their county agent who will tell them the proper persons to contact to dispose of the syrup.

COLLEGE ALUMNAE LUNCHEON WILL BE HELD ON MARCH 29

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The annual Alabama College Alumnae luncheon will be held in Birmingham during the meeting of the A. E. A., March 29 at 12:30 in the main dining room of the Tutwiler Hotel.

Miss Eloise Meroney, of the Alabama College faculty and alumnae association, is general chairman of the arrangements. Mrs. W. H. Trumbauer, also of the college faculty, is planning an interesting program for the event, while Mrs. Frank Chappell, of Birmingham, is chairman of the arrangements and ticket sales in Birmingham.

Tickets for the luncheon may be secured from Mrs. Chappell, from the Alabama College Alumnae office or from Phillips High School during the A. E. A. convention.

Alabama College alumnae are urged to attend.

APPLETON ATTENDS CONFERENCE HELD IN B'HAM MARCH 12

Supt. J. L. Appleton attended a conference of County Superintendents of Education in Birmingham on Tuesday, March 12th, for the purpose of discussing operation of schools on Federal Relief Funds. A number of recent changes in regulations were released at this meeting. These changes make it possible to retain married teachers and others ineligible to receive Relief Funds with the assurance that plans have been perfected for paying such teachers at least the $60 salary. It is also now ruled that all principals, except supervising principals, who are eligible for relief are to be paid. for the present, $60 per month from Federal Relief Funds. Possible additional salary adjustments for teachers and principals will be determined later.

Federal Relief pay roll forms will be forwarded to Superintendents this week. Upon approval of teacher affidavits and pay rolls, checks will be mailed to Superintendents for distribution to teachers.

EMERGENCY CROP LOANS DELAYED

The Emergency Crop Loans are delayed this year on account of Legislation in Washington.

As soon as the blanks are received we will give publicity through the press and prepare to assist farmers in making application for this loan.

If a tenant farmer desires to make application, it is necessary that the landlord waive to the extent of the loan. So, I want to urge that the tenant bring the landlord along when he is ready to make application so that he may sign the necessary waivers.

(Signed)
A. A. Lauderdale,
County Agent.

FLOCK NETS $569.00

CARROLLTON, Ala.—Lacy Lee, of Union Chapel Community, netted $569.00 on 250 hens during 1934, reports F. A. Rew, county agent. "Mr. Lee raised 134 pullets and has a flock of 260 hens this year," Rew states.

CATTLE PRICES CONTINUE RISE

AUBURN, Ala.—Although the trend in cattle prices is expected to continue upward throughout 1935, it is probable that the advance in prices in the remainder of the winter will be less pronounced than the sharp rise which has occurred since early November, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the "Cattle Price Situation" of February 15.

"Market supplies of all classes and grades of cattle and calves this year will be materially smaller than the large commercial marketings in each of the past two years, and a marked decrease in the slaughtering supplies of other meat animals also is probable for 1935," the report says. "The number of cattle on feed this winter is the smallest in many years, and supplies of well finished cattle will be smaller during most of the present year."

Rented Land Used Making Terraces

AUBURN, Ala.—Lands rented to the government may be used in building terraces.

County agents of the state have developed a plan whereby the farmer may have his terrace lines run before planting and then leave a strip 25 feet wide for building the terrace during the spring and summer months. The land in the strip will be counted as part of that rented to the government. Should the terraces be constructed in time, the farmer may plant the strip of food and feed or soil-improvement crops.

EIGHT MILLION QUARTS FOOD CONSERVED IN '34

AUBURN, Ala.—Alabama farm women and girls conserved more than 8 000,000 quarts of food valued at $2,594,650.21, reports Margaret Garrett, food preservation specialist with the Alabama Extension Service.

ALA. POWER CO. TO GIVE ELECTRICAL SHOW HERE SOON

To The Ladies of Shelby County:

The Alabama Electrical Dealers and the Alabama Power Company extend you a cordial invitation to be their guests at the most spectacular Electrical Show ever held in Columbiana. The show will be staged in the Shelby County High School Auditorium on March 20 and 21, at 7 p. m.

The above invitation is being issued by Local Manager, J. F. Thompson, and he urges all who are interested in something new, something different, with a complete change of program daily, to attend. Prizes will be offered each day, and the latest models of Electric Ranges, Electric Refrigerators and Electric Water Heaters will be used in this demonstration.

Plan now to spend March 20 and 21 in Columbiana and see what "Reddy Kilowatt"—your electrical servant has to show you. His message is

"You'll find me economical—
My cost is very nominal;
Just use me more and have the best,
The cost is less, just make the test".
REDDY KILOWATT.

FIRES DAMAGING STATE FORESTS

AUBURN, Ala.—Lyle Brown, extension forester, has issued a warning to Alabama farmers to protect their forests against fires.

He estimates that fires destroy over $3,000,000 worth of property in Alabama each year and prevent reforestation of countless acres fitted only for growing trees.

"Light fires seen creeping over hill and vale with the sanction of the landowners or tenants are destroying the tiny seedlings from the previous year's seed crop and preventing the covering of the soil with trees for another timber crop and to prevent the loss of soil by erosion," he says. "Thinking landowners are planting trees on many such acres at costs possibly averaging $5.50 per acre, while thoughtless ones permit the destruction of such crops planted by nature at no cost."

AAA Officials Advise 35 Percent Reduction

AUBURN, Ala.—If farmers follow the advice of AAA officials they will reduce their cotton acreage 35 per cent and produce 11,500,000 bales of cotton this year.

By reducing their acreage 35 per cent farmers will be taking advantage of the maximum rental payments permitted under the cotton contracts, they declare.

In emphasizing the importance of farmers making the maximum reduction, C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section, says:

"A crop materially larger than 11,500,000 bales would unduly depress the market in 1935 and make it difficult to reduce the carry-over to a desirable figure by August 1, 1936, and in this way would affect the 1936 price as well as the 1935 price."

Farmers Penalized For Short Staple

AUBURN, Ala.—In emphasizing the importance of farmers growing better staple cotton in 1935, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, reports that Alabama farmers were penalized because of short staple cotton in a number of areas of the state during the fall of 1934.

"The percentage of cotton shorter than 7-8 inch was 21.1 per cent in 1934 compared with 8.7 per cent in 1933. If the amount of short staple varieties planted in 1935 shows an increase over 1931-1933 in line with the increases in the short kinds in 1934 there is a likelihood that considerable trouble may be experienced this fall."

Proper Rations For One Cow, Hog, Hen

AUBURN, Ala.—A year's supply of feed for one milk cow, one hog, and one hen is given by livestock specialists of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, as follows:

A milk cow needs about 20 bushels of corn, 2 tons of hay, 5 bushels of oats, and 2 acres of good pasture each year. If readily available, this feed may be supplemented with velvet beans, cottonseed meal, or other protein feed.

Each year a hog needs about 15 bushels of corn, and about an eighth of an acre of good pasture.

The proper ration for a laying hen for a year is about 1-2 bushel of corn, a peck of wheat, and, if possible, pasture or other green feed throughout the year in addition to a good laying mash.

SHELBY COUNTY F. F. A. CLUB TO GIVE PLAY MARCH 15TH

A three-act comedy entitled, "Poor Married Man", will be presented by the F. F. A. Club of the Vocational Agriculture Department of the Shelby County High School in the auditorium next Friday night, March 15.

The boys are being assisted by some of the high school girls. The play is a two-hour play just full of fun and comedy from start to finish. Pearson West is the Poor Married Man and Professor combined. Sister Taylor plays the sweet little wife to perfection. Ellen Ruth Isbell is the very efficient Chaperone and Mother-in-Law. Sammie Pate is the kind old Country Doctor and Aubrey John Williams is his lovable daughter. Billy Blake, the dashing college boy, is played by J. B. Turner, and last but by no means least, is the negro servant protrayed by Dave Stone.

There will be, as an added attraction, between acts, a group of Chorus sung by some of the boys and girls featuring Dot Miller tapping and Virginia Nichols as soloist.

Part of the proceeds will go toward the expenditures of an educational trip the F. F. A. bays make each summer. Your presence will be appreciated very much. The play begins promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

TWO NEGROES DIG OUT OF JAIL HERE

The second jail-break in less than two weeks occurred here Sunday night when Ben Rice and Aaron Thomas, negroes, dug their way out of their first-floor cell in Shelby County jail. Rice and Thomas, charged with burglary and driving while intoxicated, respectively, used a nail to loosen the bricks, the sheriff's office reported.

Six Negro prisoners who sawed their way out the night of March 1st, are still at large.

FARMERS ARE USING MORE ELECTRICITY

AUBURN, Ala.—With approximately 12,000 Alabama farmers using electricity in their farming operations, more state farmers are using electricity than ever before in the history of the State. In 1934 there were 11,604 rural customers in the state compared with only 240 in 1924—10 years earlier.

Not only are farmers finding electricity useful in their farm work, but the farm women are finding that it removes many of the burdens of homemaking. It is also useful in preserving fresh fruits and vegetables.

SYLACAUGA D. A. R. SIGNALLY HONORS MRS. JAMES H. LANE

A loan scholarship, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution of the Sylacauga Chapter, will signally honor Mrs. James H. Lane, who is well known and much beloved by legions of friends in Shelby County.

Mrs. Lane is the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. T. P. Roberts, and a sister of the Rev. T. K. Roberts, of Columbiana. The name of the scholarship will be "The Nan Roberts Lane Loan Scholarship".

The Sylacauga Chapter will present Mrs. Lane with a Memory Book inscribing the names of every donor, whether it be for ten cents or for more. They prefer inscribing many names rather than large amounts from special individuals, and invite not only the Daughters of the American Revolution to assist in this undertaking, but will appreciate name, address and donation from any friend of Mrs. Lane's in the State or elsewhere.

Mrs. Lane has long been identified with the Club life of Alabama. She served for a number of years as President of the State Federation of Clubs and has organized many Chapters for patriotic organizations throughout the State in the D. A. R. work. Both the Literary Club and Music Study Club, of Sylacauga, were organized by Mrs. Lane, and her many friends know just how much her work and interest deserves this recognition.

Mrs. J. J. Hightower,
Regent and Char. Loan Scholarship Fund.

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE JOBS ANNOUNCED BY COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Assistant naval architect, $2,600 a year. Optional subjects are ship piping and ventilation, hull structures and arrangements, scientific ship calculations, and general.

Assistant mineral economist, $2-600 a year, Bureau of Mines. Optiona lsubjects are coal, metals, petroleum, nonmetallic, and general economics of minerals.

Typewriter repairman, departmental service, Washington, D. C.

All States except Utah, Iowa, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their quota of appointments in the apportioned departmental service in Washington, D. C. The position of typewriter repairman is not affected by the State apportionment law.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

BANKHEAD TENANT BILL BEFORE SUBCOMMITTEE

AUBURN, Ala.—Hearings are being held on Senator Bankhead's bill proposing to finance tenants and share croppers desiring to purchase farm land. The bill, when enacted, will set up an organization similar to the Home Owners Loan Corporation with power to issue up to $1,-000,000,000 in bonds to finance tenants and share croppers in buying land.

The hearings are being conducted by a subcommittee composed of Senator Bankhead, chairman, Senators Poe (Idaho), Bilbo (Miss.), McNary (Ore.), and Shipstead (Minn.).

STEEL FOR FARM USE INCREASING

The increased farm income during 1934 created the largest demand for steel for agricultural purposes since 1929.

Reliable sources estimate that 1,-400 000 tons of steel went into farm equipment last year—more than seven per cent of the finished steel produced. This is reported to be the largest percentage of the total production required for agricultural uses in any recent year.

STATE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION WILL MEET MARCH 28TH

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The fifty-fourth convention of the Alabama Education Association will convene in Birmingham, on Thursday, March 28, with President H. G. Dowling, Superintendent of the Tuscaloosa County Schools, presiding. In order to accommodate the large crowds expected, the general sessions will be held in the municipal auditorium. Thirty departmental meetings, most of which are scheduled for Friday, March 29, will be held at the Phillips High School and other near-by buildings.

The opening session on Thursday afternoon will be featured by addresses by State Superintendent J. A. Keller and President Dowling. The only speaker scheduled for the Thursday evening session is Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, President of DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana. Dr. Oxnam's address at the recent Atlantic City meeting of the Department of Superintendence was outstanding. Besides being an eminent educator, Dr. Oxnam has traveled extensively in the Orient. He possesses an unusually fine stage presence and is a speaker of world-wide reputation.

Governor Bibb Graves and Dr. Edwin Mims, of Vanderbilt University, will speak on Friday evening. The address of the Governor at this particular time is awaited with intense interest by the hundreds of laymen interested in schools as well as by the teachers themselves.

One unusual feature of the opening evening will be a fun and fellowship program immediately following Dr. Oxnam's address on Thursday evening, directed by the Department of Physical and Health Education, H. A. Flowers, Florence, Chairman. This feature is provided primarily for the visitors and guests of the A. E. A. In addition to a grand march and a series of songs and stunts, the program will include general dancing. One of Birmingham's best orchestras is being employed for the evening.

Walter Jenkins, of Houston, Texas, the official song leader for Rotary International, has been engaged to lead the convention singing. In addition to being a world-famous leader o fsongs, Dr. Jenkins is a distingueshed soloist.

Montevallo Legion Adopts Resolution

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The following resolution was submitted by S. R. Woolley and passed at the regular monthly meeting of the Hendrick-Hudson Post of the American Legion organization at Montevallo, on January 16th, 1935:

"Whereas, by the records from the Department of Public Health of the State of Alabama, there were 1851 known deaths from Pulmonary tuberculosis and 166 known deaths from Non-pulmonary tuberculosis in the State of Alabama in the year 1934.

Whereas, during the same period there were 9257 known cases of Pulmonary Tuberculosis, and a reliable estimate of the Health Department being 15,000 cases.

Whereas, the facilities of the counties are very limited, we feel that some provision should be made by the state to care for these cases. We feel that some type of arrangement should be made on the order of other supported institutions. If this were done, it would remove many thousands of our people from actual contact with this dreaded disease and also give the victims proper treatment that they would not ordinarily have.

Therefore, be it resolved that the Hendrick-Hudson Post of the American Legion Department of Alabama, favor such a plan and respectfully ask that the proper authorities give this their earnest consideration at their earliest convenience."

This decidedly worth-while movement so altruistically sponsored by the Hendrick-Hudson Post and introduced by S. R. Woolley, active Legionaire, has been favorably received by Col. Pritchard, Department Commander, and will receive consideration and cooperation from Mary L. McClung, President of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association.

Try advertising what you have for sale it The Democrat—It WILL sell.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Heavy Fighting Reported as Greek Government Seeks to Put Down Insurrection—Senator Robinson Scores Huey Long in Heated Senate Session.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

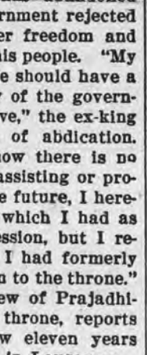
THE Greek government is making a grim effort to stamp out the fast growing revolt which started in Crete and has spread to the mainland. Greek government planes bombed the home in Crete of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, and also struck at five naval vessels manned by rebels, standing off the shore of Crete. Venizelos is openly heading the forces of sedition, and, reports say, has seized $1,000,000 from the Canea treasury to finance the revolt.

Ex-Premier Venizelos

Martial law prevails throughout the country; rail, telephone and telegraphic communications have been cut off and normal activities suspended.

Heavy fighting with serious losses on both sides have been reported in the Struma valley, and in the Macedonian city of Kavalla. Fear has been expressed that the country will be plunged into a factional civil war of unestimated proportions. The government has offered amnesty to the rebel troops if they capitulate peacefully.

Saloniki harbor has been heavily mined in preparation for an attack by the rebel fleet, and land batteries have been reinforced by heavy caliber naval guns. Eight additional classes have been called to the colors as wounded troops pour into Saloniki from the battlefront. The government claims 100,000 loyal troops, 60 airplanes and a quantity of heavy motorized artillery are ready, although good part of this equipment is said to be old and defective.



A report from Alexandria claims that Venizelos has abandoned Crete and fled toward Egypt.

The rebellion had been plotted for a whole year, and broke when 20 naval officers, both active and retired, seized the Salamis arsenal. As the revolt spread, rebels boarded the five warships while the crews were ignorant of the plan, and put under steam. Government planes were dispatched to the scene and pursued the rebel ships down the Aegean sea. The cruiser Averoff was struck by an aerial bomb while the vessel lay in Souda bay, near Crete, and two other ships were reported to have been overtaken and bombed near the Island of Cythera with undetermined damage.

DIMINUTIVE King Prajadhipok of Siam has renounced his throne, relinquished his claims to being known as "brother of the moon and possessor of 24 umbrellas," assumed the simpler, if still unpronounceable name of Prince Sukhodaya, and retired to the simple life of an English country gentleman. By his action, the ex-monarch set a record, for it is probably the first time in history that a ruler has abandoned power because his government rejected his demands for greater freedom and democratic control for his people. "My intention that the people should have a real voice in the policy of the government has been ineffective," the ex-king wrote in his message of abdication. "Since I realize that now there is no longer any way of my assisting or protecting the people in the future, I hereby renounce all rights which I had as king or rights of succession, but I reserve the rights which I had formerly enjoyed before accession to the throne."

Prince Ananda, nephew of Prajadhipok, has accepted the throne, reports state. The prince, now eleven years old, is attending school in Lausanne.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, jurist, scholar, soldier and gentleman, is dead. Two days before his ninety-fourth birthday, the beloved "great dissenter" succumbed to the ravages of pneumonia. The next day in the somber Supreme court chamber, the court led by Chief Justice Hughes paid tribute to the man whose career, he said, had been one of "unique distinction." Justice Hughes' voice choked as he spoke. The grind of legislation and the disputes of the day were forgotten in congress as both the house and senate paused while glowing words were said in memory of the retired justice. Funeral services were held in Washington, attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and members of the Supreme court. After the ceremony, Holmes was given military burial in Arlington National cemetery, as befitted one who had served his nation so gallantly. Justice Holmes was born in Boston, the son of the noted American poet of the same name. He entered Harvard and was in his senior year when the Civil war began. He enlisted as a lieutenant, was promoted to a captaincy and retired with the rank of colonel. He was wounded three times. After the war he returned to school and obtained his law degree. In 1882, Holmes was elevated to the Supreme court of Massachusetts, and in 1902, President Roosevelt appointed him to the United States Supreme court. On October 4, 1928, when he was eighty-seven years old, he became the oldest man ever to sit on the bench of the Supreme court. He retired in January, 1932.

Oliver W. Holmes

SENATE administration leaders have decided to virtually abolish NRA when it expires in June, and set up in its place a plan of self-government in business, eliminating present coercive measures, and giving over administrative functions of the new program to the federal trade commission. Thus would end one of the administration's most spectacular and far-reaching experiments. In its general form, the plan calls for permission to join in voluntary codes regulating trade practices and eliminating unfair competition. Price fixing will be outlawed. Business and industry will agree to minimum wages and maximum hours, and only when these standards are violated, can the government apply compulsory codes.

At the same time United States District Judge W. G. Borah, in New Orleans, denied a government petition to compel a box manufacturer to comply with the maximum hour and minimum wage provisions of the lumber code, ruling that the national industrial recovery act is unconstitutional. The ruling is expected to bring before the United States Supreme court the constitutionality of the interstate commerce clause of the lumber code.

THAT "ancient repository of dignity," the senate, has been treated to an exhibition of personalities, vituperation, barely avoided fistic encounters, and general uproar centering about Senator Long that should set a record for even that august body. Goaded into action by the almost daily tirades of Louisiana's Kingfish, majority leader, Joe Robinson of Arkansas arose white with rage and let loose a castigation designed to blast the irrepressible Long into submission. Robinson appealed to the senate to assert itself and put Long, whom he called "a madman," in his place. Vice President Garner and more than a dozen senators shook hands with Robinson when he closed, and galleries applauded until the chair threatened to clear them. It had no perceptible effect on Long other than to cause him to rush back to the senate chamber, and renew his attack on Robinson.

Senator Robinson

The next day Huey precipitated another verbal free-for-all when he resumed his one-man campaign against Postmaster General Farley and the New Deal in general. Long charged that Farley was instrumental in quashing an indictment against a bank in which Norman Davis, "ambassador at large," was interested. For his trouble Kingfish received a liberal supply of ridicule. He also sent to the senate post office committee a letter in which the accusation was made that Farley is "profiting" from 25 business concerns in New York city, involving violation of four criminal statutes. When questioned, Farley said he had no statement to make.

S. CLAY WILLIAMS, head of the NRA, tendered his resignation to the President, starting what is expected to be a wholesale housecleaning of the recovery administration's high command. Chairman Williams explained his action by saying that he had to return to his job as head of one of the country's largest tobacco companies. Three of the four remaining members of the board, Arthur D. Whiteside, Walton Hamilton, and Sidney Hillman, are known to have their resignations ready. Rumors say that the President will not fill the vacancies, but will return the NRA to a one-man command.

MONEY markets of the world reacted violently after President Roosevelt declared his administration would seek further jacking up of commodity prices. Stocks rallied in New York, government bonds sagged, and the falling British pound rose four cents. The President hurriedly issued another statement explaining that his advocacy of higher prices did not mean further devaluation of the dollar, at least not for the present. The first statement was made by the President at a press conference when he was asked if he believed prices had now risen sufficiently to warrant stabilization. He replied that they had not; that they were still too low in relation to debts.

ITALIAN government officials state that nearly 1,000 aviators and several squadrons of planes have sailed for East Africa, and that a second wave of troops has been started to join the 20,000 already massed in Somaliland. General Graziana has been named governor of Somaliland and commander of the troops.

THERE seems to be no doubt about the "pink slip" clause in the income tax law being repealed. Overwhelming sentiment for its abolishment has been expressed in both houses of congress, and the house ways and means committee has already approved the resolution offered by Chairman Doughton. Polls taken disclose a heavy majority in the senate favor repeal, and both Democratic and Republican house leaders are pledged to lend their strength to prompt passage of the measure. Congressional decision on the "pink slips" must be registered before March 15.

BY A vote of 23 to 1 the house ways and means committee approved the Vinson bonus bill, and gave the rival Patman bill a possible edge. The committee instructed Chairman Doughton to ask a wide open rule permitting inflationists to move the Patman measure as a substitute on the floor. Patman supporters claim the house will pass the first bonus bill brought up, but conservatives are working to jockey the "printing press money" measure out of preferred position. The Vinson bill is favored by the American Legion.

DONALD RICHBERG, executive director of the National Emergency council, and one of the closest advisers of the President, "guaranteed" that there would be no monetary inflation as long as Franklin D. Roosevelt is President. His statement came in answer to a questioner at a lecture in Boston.

Donald Richberg

"If we are to assume that President Roosevelt will be President for the next six years, I can tell you this: I can guarantee there will be no inflation while Franklin D. Roosevelt is President," Richberg said.

He dodged further discussion of the subject, and refused to comment as to what was being done by the government internationally and nationally on monetary policies. However, Richberg did touch on the Townsend plan for payment of $200 monthly to all persons over sixty. He said:

"If everybody over sixty is to get $200 a month, you can be certain it is going to come out of the pockets of everybody between eighteen and sixty.

"When those under sixty have arrived at the unselfish attitude where they are ready to dig to pay everybody over sixty the $200 a month, there will have been a tremendous spread of real Christianity. But the government can't get the money out of thin air."

Richberg flatly denied that the government was issuing baby bonds because bankers had refused to lend the government money, and asserted that several billion dollars more could be borrowed without endangering national credit.

THE American Federation of Labor proposes to find out immediately what are its chances of fully organizing the workers employed in the automobile industry—and if Doctor Wolman's figures are correct it is likely the federation is doomed to be greatly disappointed. The method adopted is the calling of a secret strike vote among members of the 176 federation locals in the industry. Organizer Francis J. Dillon explained this did not necessarily mean there would be a strike, only the federation's national officers having authority to order such action.

"Now is the time to find out, once and for all," he said, "whether the workers in the automobile industry want the American Federation of Labor. If they want the union, we will find it out through these strike votes. If they don't, well . . ."

The automobile industry is in the midst of the busiest season it has had since 1930. The great majority of its workers are not in the federation ranks and probably would not strike; but its plants could be seriously crippled by strikes in allied industries. Perhaps the American Federation of Labor leaders have some way of explaining how all this would help on the cause of national industrial recovery.

SECRETARY OF STATE CORDELL HULL encountered his third success in carrying out his policy of restoring foreign trade by concluding a series of reciprocal agreements with other nations, when a trade treaty with Belgium was signed. Although not entirely satisfactory to Secretary Hull, it was nevertheless a step along the way. The Belgians gave us a tariff or quota concessions on a number of our exports, including automobiles and parts, calculating machines, radios, grapefruit, pears, oatmeal and corn starch. We cut tariffs on plate glass, glass sand, iron and steel mill products, linen fabrics, lace and cement. Reciprocal agreements have been previously concluded with Cuba and Brazil.

THE United States and Great Britain remain unconvinced of Japan's high purpose in China, although Eiji Amau, foreign office spokesman, declared that Japan is not trying to persuade China to leave the league, and is not urging China to dismiss foreign advisers. He also insisted that no attempt is being made to force China into an Asiatic bloc in return for financial assistance. In Washington, William Phelps, acting secretary of state, and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, went into conference. Twenty-four hours later it was announced from London that Great Britain together with the United States, France and Japan was "exploring proposals" to help China financially.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—No final decision on Section 7A—the Wierton case—can be obtained for one year. That is the inside view at the Department of Justice. Lawyers there do not see any way of short-circuiting the Circuit Court of Appeals, and thus getting the case before the Supreme Court of the United States at once.

This means that NRA must be extended by congress without benefit of knowledge as to what the final ruling is to be. As a result the administration will press for extension for two years, as originally proposed, without any attempt to rewrite or clarify Section 7A. This had been agreed upon by virtually every element concerned before the decision in the Wierton case—at a time, as a matter of fact, when Washington thought the Wierton case would be won by the government.

It is all the more essential now, because nobody can tell in advance how to rewrite Section 7A so as to bring it within the high court's views as to constitutional limits. Prevailing opinion here is that when the case is finally decided by the Supreme court the decision will reverse the Wilmington court, and uphold the government. And that the decision will be by the same five to four majority that divided the court in upholding the government on the gold clause case.

But naturally opinion in Washington would be that, especially as it was felt so strongly that the case would be decided for the government in the lower court. That is the way Washington, dominated by so many New Deal lawyers and Department of Justice attorneys, functions as to its legal thought.

It is the reason Washington thought it was a ten to one bet that the high court would uphold the government on the gold case, although actually the decision was by the tight vote of five to four, so that any one justice on the majority side could have changed it.

Not Before Christmas

After the Supreme court decision of the Wierton case, which cannot well be expected before next Christmas, there will undoubtedly be a new attempt to rewrite Section 7A if the high court decision should be against the government.

But before that a lot of water will have run under the country's bridges. It may well be that the whole attitude of the administration will have changed.

Best opinion is that some form of NRA will remain with us always. It goes to the essentials of the New Deal philosophy. Many lines of business, for reasons as far apart as the poles, want some phase of it retained. In many instances the chief desire is to prevent competitors from "chiseling." But in others this is not the main motive at all. For example, in the coal industry the saving grace of the code, as far as members of the industry are concerned, is the price fixing provision, whereas in many lines price fixing is anathema. In the coal trade, however, it is generally admitted that the industry could never have been brought together on any code whatever had it not been for the price fixing element.

Then along comes the Guffey bill, which if enacted would remove this one string that is holding the industry together for the code. Business as a whole, if the National Association of Manufacturers can be accepted as speaking for it, is opposed to the Guffey bill, which would virtually make coal a public utility and impose drastic government regulation. The United Mine Workers are strongly for the bill.

The National Coal association, which might be expected to speak for the operators, has been absolutely silent, and is expected to remain so. But individuals in the organization in Washington have declared heatedly that the bill is an outrage.

Radicals, worried about the constitutionality of NRA in view of the Wierton decision, are strongly for the Guffey bill, and anything else like it for other industries. They are interested in the march toward stricter and stricter control of everything by the government.

Utilities Campaign

For the first time since the public utilities came under attack, they have begun utilizing in an organized way the power of their army of stockholders. And they had to choose a time when there was another issue, which was very much more appealing—publicity for income tax returns.

The effects on the mail are prodigious. They threaten to swell postal receipts so much that Postmaster General James A. Farley will not have to resort to fancy bookkeeping to prove that the department is no longer in the red.

Just as an illustration, Senator Marcus A. Coolidge of Massachusetts has been averaging 1,000 letters a day. Slightly more than 600 of these urge that the law providing for publicity for income tax returns be repealed, and more than 300 protest against the drastic legislation intended to eliminate holding companies.

In fact, the old-timers say you have to go back to the days of 1916 and 1917, when the United States was drifting into war, and there was an organized propaganda against it, to get anything like a comparable volume of mail.

Many senators profess that they pay no attention to letters, which are obviously inspired by some such propaganda. But when the letters come from voters in their states whose names are big enough to mean something to their secretaries, this aloof attitude becomes a mere pose. They are affected.

And in these two instances—repeal of the publicity provision of the income tax and the holding company legislation—naturally a considerable percentage of the letters and telegrams come from influential people, of whom a smaller percentage are apt to be on friendly terms, sometimes political supporters, of the senators receiving the mail.

Fight Over "Pink Slip"

As a result of the present deluge, it is actually a probability and not just a mere possibility, that the "pink slip" provision will be repealed. Not without a fight. Senator Robert M. La Follette and Senator George W. Norris, both of whom at different times forced through income tax return publicity provisions, will both fight repeal. They will be joined by many others. But expectancy now is that the provision will be repealed just the same. The house of representatives never was very strong for it. In each case where it was enacted, the resulting provision was a compromise forced by the house. Both Norris and La Follette wanted, and still want, the income tax returns to be made a matter of public record. They resent the "pink slip" idea, which merely makes public a small part of the entire return, but also encourages newspaper publication of the reported incomes.

Best information is that President Roosevelt has no objection to repeal. The treasury does not like the provision. It forces a tremendous amount of additional work, and so far as the treasury is concerned, does very little good. The big push for the present law resulted from the disclosure that Morgan, Mitchell and others had not paid any income tax in certain years. This was made possible by the law permitting losses to be deducted from income. That law has since changed. Net losses in excess of $2,000 a year cannot be deducted any longer.

So the treasury holds that the publicity would not accomplish the cure for the disease which caused its passage, the patient having already been cured. All of which will provide plenty of excuse for senators anxious to please a good many of their influential constituents. Not to mention many very influential newspapers, which have recently denounced the pink slip provision as a guide to kidnapers, etc.

His Position Stronger

President Roosevelt is not weaker in strategic position than he was before his two senate rebuffs. He is immeasurably stronger. Stronger because he has progressed definitely toward the position outlined in these dispatches right after last November's election—the happy and typically Rooseveltian position of being in between two extremes.

Let us dismiss the World court. It meant nothing but local sentiment in the states which elected the dissenting senators. The lineup on the St. Lawrence seaway treaty will also mean nothing. The motives will be almost entirely geographical. For example, even if Huey Long loved and adored Franklin Roosevelt, he would still have to vote against that treaty, because almost to a man the people of New Orleans think the treaty would hurt their city by diverting business it now handles to the new route.

But consider a much more important question—the prevailing wage fight in the work relief bill.

Immediately after the last election it was apparent that hope for any successful opposition to the President in the 1936 campaign, as far as the Republican party was concerned, was very low, indeed. It also appeared that the menace of a new radical movement was so far nebulous.

Hence the chief problem of President Roosevelt, with most fear as to 1936 opposition from purely political angles eliminated, became to prevent an economic situation developing which would endanger him. In short, if in some way business could be made better, so that the hope of prosperity's coming back under his guidance should be strong by 1936, there would be almost no threatening opposition to him in that year at all.

In the Middle

He had attained his old favorite position—in the middle; with extremes on either side—each of which would far rather have Roosevelt continue in the saddle than to have the other extreme victorious. Just as in the preconvention maneuvering in 1932 Roosevelt wound up with the supposedly dry South enthusiastically for him. It had turned to him despite his wetness because it feared Al Smith might be named otherwise.

The fact that Roosevelt, after the 1934 endorsement, stood squarely in between the radicals and the extreme conservatives was obvious, but had not been demonstrated forcibly to the country. Many shrewd business leaders realized it. And at the same time gave up hope, in the face of those election returns, of getting back to the old order by 1936. So they were ready to support the President, mildly.

Then came the work relief bill, and the prevailing wage issue. And to the amazement of conservative business men, hoping Roosevelt could beat the radicals, the most talked about candidate for the Republicans in 1936, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan—one of the few Republicans to weather the 1934 landslide—voted with the radicals. So did a lot of other Republicans generally regarded as conservative. And now friends of the President are busy building backfires, apparently to turn a few votes in the senate so as to prevent this long step towards Socialism.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

AVOIRDUPOIS IN DEMAND

Current prices for wives in Cyprus, Mediterranean isle owned by Britain, range from $100 for a slim wench, to $500 for a buxom girl with plenty of curves. The buying and selling of girls for marriage is, of course, legal. The girls are the daughters of Turkish parents, who sell them to the highest bidders, usually Arabs from Palestine. A document has to be drawn up and stamped, and duty is paid. In the case of divorce, full recompense must be given; but in virtually every case the girls are contented.—Grit.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT "Acid Indigestion"

A WAY THAT RELIEVES THE CAUSE IN A FEW MINUTES

Many people who think they have "weak stomachs" or "indigestion," doctors say, suffer in reality from nothing more serious than acid stomach. And this common ailment can usually be relieved now, in minutes.

All you do is take familiar Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals. This acts to almost immediately neutralize the stomach acidity that brings on your trouble. You feel like a new person!

Try this just once. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'", or the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. But watch out that you get the Genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Mystery Cleared Up

Friend—I bought your book in Hamburg.

Author—Oh, so it was you.

Animal Friends

Animals are agreeable friends—they ask no questions. They pass no criticisms.—George Eliot.

COLDS Creomulsion

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

WOMEN'S AILMENTS

Mrs. D. W. Young of 2800 Wilmer Ave., Anniston, Ala., said: "I have taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription off and on whenever I felt that I needed a tonic and I have always received satisfactory benefit. If I begin to be weak and rundown, I take the 'Prescription'. Usually one or two bottles is all I have to take before I am well and strong again."

New size, tablets, 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

Start Business of Your Own. Over 500 Practical Plans, Ideas, Etc. Free Particulars. KELLEHER SALES 213 Grove St. - - - Brockton, Mass.

LEARN TO MAKE MECHANICAL Sketches and increase your earning power no matter what your occupation. No college education necessary. Easy low priced method for beginners. Box 1222, Baton Rouge, La.

BOILS Instantly Eased Quickly Healed

CARBOIL eases throbbing pain; allays inflammation; reduces swelling; lessens tension; quickly heals. Easily applied. Inexpensive. Results guaranteed. Also use for festers, risings, cuts, burns, and bites. At your druggist, or Spurlock-Neal Co., Nashville, Tenn.

Start the day feeling FIT and ACTIVE!

Don't let a sluggish overcrowded system hold you back. CLEANSE INTERNALLY WITH GARFIELD TEA. Get rid of the wastes that slow you up and keep you feeling run-down and inactive. Usually works within 6 to 10 hrs. MILD but prompt! At drug stores 25c & 10c.

FREE SAMPLE! Write to GARFIELD TEA CO. Dept. 3-C Brooklyn, N. Y.

GARFIELD TEA

POWERFUL FEMININE BAND

The Delphian society is a national women's educational organization. It has chapters in all of the states except two, Vermont and Rhode Island. It has a membership of 250,000 and its chapters number 3,500. As many as 30 chapters are banded together in some cities for a city federation. The purpose of this organization are higher education, social progress and personal improvement. Self-expression is the keynote of the society.

Doctors Know!

... and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset.

To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Important Point

Vocalist—I'm going away to study singing.

Friend—Good! How far away?

MORE LUSCIOUS VEGETABLES

Fresh, large, full-flavored and luscious vegetables can be grown right in your back-yard or garden, if you use Ferry's Purebred Vegetable Seeds—the kind that have been America's favorite seeds for three generations and more. Don't miss this chance to economize!

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD STORE SELLS THEM IN FRESH DATED PACKETS FOR ONLY 5c

Life

The man who grabs life in both fists and twists the essence out of it, counts.—R. W. Chambers.

Laxative So Many Like

Old folks, young folks—thousands of them say they prefer Thedford's Black-Draught when they need a laxative. It does its work so well.

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught in my family since 1885," writes Mr. Henson Temple, Smithdale, Miss. "We do not feel like we could keep house without Black-Draught. We are quite a good ways from town, and a good, simple medicine, like Black-Draught, is good to have on hand. All these years I have never changed because it gave satisfaction."

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

LOOK LADIES, 2 pair women's fine hose, box face powder, 1 bottle perfume, rock crystal necklace, $1.25. BAKER, 312 Morreson Spring, Chattanooga, Tenn.

WNU—8 11—35

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS!

If your kidneys are not working right and you suffer backache, dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, swollen feet and ankles; feel lame, stiff, "all tired out" . . . use Doan's Pills.

Thousands rely upon Doan's. They are praised the country over. Get Doan's Pills today. For sale by all druggists.

DOAN'S PILLS

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Knowing detectives are on her trail, she disappears.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

—18—

McNamara chuckled. Flynn and Angelloti would waste a great deal of time watching that apartment house in vain. Nance, discovering Ella Cates had moved, had sought quarters elsewhere. What puzzled McNamara, however, was the girl's failure to communicate with him or Lanny; and he knew now that she did not intend to. The fact that she had purchased a letter of credit was proof that she intended leaving the country, and the more the excellent fellow contemplated this impending move the more inclined was he to regard it as a not unmixed blessing.

The more he thought the matter over, the more inclined did he become to take a practical and policeman-like view of the situation. While Nance remained in San Francisco she would be a constant menace to himself and Lanny; if captured she might, during one of her uncontrolled moments, consider it a great joke to tell the world how she had been enabled to escape capture so long.

"I can't baby the world," he decided. "I'll let her go. She'll probably live abroad, and when her letter of credit is gone she may remember who she is long enough to draw more checks. I can always get a line on her through the bank, and if Steve and Lanny still insist on salvaging this nut I'll tell them where to find her. Me, I'm through. If I keep this pace up I'll be as big a nut as she is."

There is more than a modicum of truth in the ancient adage, "Out of sight, out of mind." Dan McNamara lived a very full life; and when Nance Belden had definitely passed beyond his ken and he knew himself safe at last from the prying of Messrs. Flynn and Angelloti into his private affairs, he forgot the girl, for pressing matters of great importance claimed his attention and he required more first-class assistance than he was receiving. He resolved, therefore, to give Flynn and Angelloti a week in which to make up their minds they had lost the trail; then to call them in.

On the sixth day, however, he received information that the doughty pair were still as busy as two pups with a feather duster. A beautiful lady called on him at his office and told him so.

"And who might you be?" he demanded.

"I'm Susan Engelbright."

"I am not aware that I have the pleasure of your acquaintance, Miss Engelbright."

"You haven't. I was sent up from Oakland."

"Oh! Alias Sapphire Susie! I've heard of you lately."

"Perhaps. I hocked three twelve-carat sapphire rings to raise money, and the papers called me Sapphire Susie after that."

"I see you got them out of hock again, Susie."

The girl nodded. "Nance Belden got them out for me."

"Part of the bargain for smuggling that letter out of San Quentin for her, I suppose."

"Never mind what it was for." Sapphire Susie smiled archly and unafraid. 'I earned it and she kept her word."

"Check or cash?" McNamara was frightened. If Sapphire Susie had been given a check, then she knew Nance Belden's real name and the name of her bank. And that would be fatal.

"I don't know. I gave her the pawn tickets and she got back the rings. I don't know just how."

"When?" He was relieved.

"A week ago tomorrow."

"And you say Detective Sergeant Flynn has been giving you a bad half hour?"

"Yes, he has."

"Well, that's his business. Nance Belden escaped from San Quentin and naturally he's interested in apprehending her. You were recognized by the guard at the main gate two weeks before Nance escaped. Miss Lanning, a friend of the Belden girl, had visited the prisoner that day, and since Miss Lanning was the only visitor Nance Belden had in San Quentin, naturally she was suspected of carrying a letter for delivery to the men who helped Nance escape. You rode down to Greenbrae with Miss Lanning, and she slipped the letter to you, of course. Flynn knows that. But why come to me with your tale of woe?"

"I've run straight since getting out of the pen. I served my time and I want to be let alone—that's why! Flynn told me that if I didn't come through and tell him where he could find Nance Belden he'd see to it that something nasty happened to me. I don't know where Nance Belden is. And I want protection from Patrick Flynn."

"You seem pretty sure of me, don't you?"

"Well, Nance told me that you were one human being. And I called on Miss Lanning last night to tell her to warn Nance that the dicks were after her, and Miss Lanning told me to see you about it. She said you'd see I got a square deal."

'She did so, now? How did Miss Lanning treat you otherwise?"

"She kissed me and gave me a hundred dollars and told me to be as good as I could. The old girl is sure a darling."

"Did you ask her for the hundred?"

"Of course not."

The chief eyed her owlishly, for he distrusted Sapphire Susie and wondered if she might not be working in the interests of Flynn and Angelloti.

"This is interesting," he admitted heavily. "Of course I only keep in touch with the upper office through the captain of detectives. If he set Flynn on this job he should have interviewed you a couple of weeks ago. Seems to me he has overlooked a good bet. If he'd had you under surveillance a week ago he'd have picked up Nance Belden when she came to you to deliver the rings. Flynn's a crackerjack detective," he added sadly, "but this looks as if he's slipping."

"That bird don't slip very far, take it from me, Chief. He met me on the street the day before yesterday and noticed I was wearing my big ring and my eardrops. 'Hello, kid,' he says, 'I see you got your sapphires on again.' I says to him, 'Fall dead, you bum,'

"He's Got Me Scared to Death," Sapphire Susie Declared.

and walked on. And the next night he came up to my room. 'Nance Belden got them sapphires out of hock for you, Susie, my dear,' he says kindly. 'I want that frail. Where is she?'"

"And you wouldn't tell him, even if you could?"

"That's a fact. I wouldn't snitch on her."

"You wouldn't expect me to inferfere in the work of a detective sergeant when he appears to be doing a good job, would you, Susie? But I give you my word, Susie, that if you run straight in this city I'll see to it that you're not harassed. Of course you helped Nance Belden to escape from San Quentin, and I know it, but I can't prove it; if I could I'd put you in the birdcage this minute. And I'll not put Flynn off the case, although if he gets too rough I'll stop him."

"He's got me scared to death," Sapphire Susie declared, and commenced to weep a little; whereat McNamara realized she had been really frightened. She shook his hand warmly, thanked him and departed.

For several minutes McNamara sat thinking, a smile, faintly tender, illuminating his rugged countenance. So Lanny had kissed Sapphire Susie and given her a hundred dollars and begged her to be a good girl in the future. What a rare good sport Lanny was! And how good God had been to all concerned! In their pursuit of Nance, Flynn and Angelloti had followed such a hot trail they had forgotten Sapphire Susie was a pal of Nance's, but afterwards, when the trail grew cold, they had suddenly remembered her.

That Flynn was a marvel, and McNamara sighed to think the fellow could not be promoted instantly. In all probability he had not at first connected Nance Belden with the glory of Susie's sapphires. Undoubtedly he had jumped to the conclusion that the girl had been up to her old trick of blackmailing some wealthy and socially prominent masculine jackass. So he had looked up her record in the police files. Here he had discovered something that must have convinced him of Susie's total innocence of sapphires during her trial; certainly she had not carried them to San Quentin with her, and the obvious conclusion was that she had pawned them to raise money to pay her attorney. In the hope of discovering the identity of Susie's latest victim (who, he assumed, had redeemed them for her) Flynn had thereupon made a round of the pawnshops and located the one from which the jewels had lately been redeemed; from the pawnbroker he had secured a description of the one who had redeemed them. No pawnbroker would be likely to forget Nance Belden's nose!

McNamara shuddered. If Nance should visit Sapphire Susie now, she would undoubtedly walk straight into the arms of the waiting Flynn or Angelloti.

Well, Nance Belden had stolen a dozen pairs of silk hose, but apparently Penelope Gatlin paid her debts. The chief wondered if he had loaned Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin two hundred dollars, for of course they were two separate and distinct personalities inhabiting the same body. If Nance Belden had accepted the loan, then McNamara could kiss the money good-by. If, on the other hand, Penelope Gatlin had accepted it, then, some day, when Nance had changed places with Penelope, he would get it back. Well, he could trace her progress through the world by the drafts she would cash. Her bank in San Jose would give him that information.

He took down the telephone and called the bank. Yes, a draft had just come in. Drawn for four hundred and thirty-five dollars in favor of the French line, dated three days previously at New York. It had come across the continent by air mail. McNamara thanked the president of the bank and called up the French line's San Francisco office. After some difficulty he discovered that four hundred and thirty-five dollars was payment of one first cabin passage to Havre and that the Ile de France had sailed from New York during the past three days.

Instantly Dan McNamara shot a straight telegram to police headquarters in New York, requesting that the passenger list of the Ile de France be checked to see whether Nance Belden or Penelope Gatlin had taken passage on her. Four hours later he received a reply to the effect that Nance Belden was not aboard but that Penelope Gatlin was.

"Nothing is lost if you know where it is," McNamara decided happily, and sent a cable to the prefect of police at Havre, requesting him to pick up Penelope Gatlin on her arrival at that port, shadow her and report by cable, collect, the girl's destination, the names and addresses of those who should meet her and any other information that would aid in keeping track of the girl.

The following day McNamara sent for Detective-Sergeants Flynn and Angelloti. As they ranged themselves, more or less at attention, in front of his desk, the chief leaned back in his chair and bent upon the pair a long, severe and penetrating look. They grew a little fidgety before he spoke.

"Well, boys, how are your private affairs prospering?"

Both shrugged, unwilling to be definite.

"They are unprosperous," the chief challenged, "so I have called you in to express the hope that you are now quite willing to abandon your private practice and return to work for the city and county of San Francisco. You draw salary from the taxpayers, you know. I may have been mistaken, Angelloti, but I thought I saw you out in Mission recently when you were supposed to be working on that racketeer killing over in North Beach. However, I'll overlook that on the assumption that you permitted yourself to be led astray by Flynn. Flynn, you lay off Sapphire Susie until that enterprising young woman does something you can pin on her. Then bring her in."

"She's done something and I'll pin it on her yet," Flynn growled, "and you know what it is." Flynn, being Irish, was unwilling that his chief should regard him as deficient in intelligence and enterprise.

"We understand each other thoroughly, Flynn. You've been after that Belden girl and you've made a mess of it." He opened his desk drawer and drew out two envelopes. One was addressed to Flynn and the other to Angelloti and both envelopes bore the return address of a prominent New York hotel, but were neither stamped nor postmarked. "These two envelopes came in a large envelope addressed to me," McNamara explained. "They're sealed!" He handed each detective his letter and watched as they opened them and drew forth typewritten letters and two hundred and fifty dollars in bills. Flynn's letter was, undoubtedly, a carbon copy of Angelloti's.

Flynn perused his letter and handed it to the chief, who read:

"Dear Mr. Flynn:

"You poor dear, you have worked so hard and so intelligently and in such dreadfully hard luck that my heart goes out to you. You were working for the reward, of course—no doubt because you needed the money. You and Mr. Angelloti would have had to divide two hundred and fifty dollars had you recaptured me, but just to prove I'm a sport and not holding any mean little grudge, I'm sending you each two hundred and fifty dollars. Please be good and try to forget all the unpleasant incidents. You will never get me now, so do give up your attempts, like good boys."

The letter was unsigned.

"How much did you get, Angelloti?" McNamara queried softly.

"Two fifty, Chief."

TO BE CONTINUED.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER

IN NAPLES, ITALY, in 1896, John Philip Sousa read a three-day-old copy of the Paris edition of the New York Herald. In it was a brief dispatch saying that David Blakely, manager of Sousa's famous band, had dropped dead in his office. That meant that the bandmaster must assume all the responsibility for the arrangements of his next American tour.

Hastily cancelling the plans that he and Mrs. Sousa had made for a visit to Sicily, he booked passage on the first ship for America. As he paced the deck of the S. S. Teutonic, saddened by the news of Blakely's death and his mind filled with the burden of the task ahead, an uncanny thing happened.

Sousa became aware of the rhythmic beat of a playing band—just an imaginary band that was making music in his mind. Throughout the voyage across the Atlantic, that invisible band kept on playing, playing. Never for a moment was it silent and it always played the same tune! He tried to think of other things but the theme of the melody echoed and re-echoed in the back of his brain. Psychologists today might claim that this was "compensation" . . . the reaction of a creative mind after a severe shock.

But whatever the reason for it, Sousa made no attempt to set the tune on paper while he was aboard the steamer. When he reached New York and found that mystical band still playing on and on, he could resist it no longer. He sat down and in a few minutes had recorded the all-too-familiar measures of that composition. In his spirited autobiography, "Marching Along," Sousa has written the fact that not a note of that tune has been changed from that day to this. It was the "Stars and Stripes Forever," known all over the world today and the most beloved of all the compositions of the "March King."

* * *

PIGS IS PIGS

"PIGS is pigs" and they're also trouble-makers. No less than twice did they seriously affect the diplomatic relations of nations and once they almost brought on a war.

In 1841, Monsieur de Saligny was French ambassador to the Republic of Texas. One day, a pig belonging to an Austin hotel keeper named Bullock, strayed into M. de Saligny's garden. One of the ambassador's servants abused the pig. Whereupon Bullock proceeded to horsewhip the servant.

De Saligny insulted Bullock and Bullock insulted de Saligny with the result that the ambassador demanded his passports and left the country. Diplomatic relations between France and Texas became strained and it required an apology from President Lamar of the Lone Star Republic to restore peace.

More serious was the pig incident that troubled the peace between England and the United States a few years later. On one of the tiny San Juan islands in Puget Sound lived an American and an Englishman. One day the Briton shot one of the American's pigs and a furious quarrel resulted. But they finally agreed to settle it in court.

But which court—British or American? Despite the treaty of 1846, boundary lines were none too clear, especially on this little island. So the dispute grew worse over the matter of jurisdiction. Civil officers were drawn into it, then the military. Troops were mobilized and it looked like war. By this time the pig was forgotten in a controversy involving citizenship, boundary lines and international law.

Eventually it was settled by arbitration—with no less a person than the German emperor acting as arbiter in a dispute that started over a pig!

* * *

"HE SHOT AN ARROW—"

THE capture of the important Spanish fortress of San Lorenzo by Sir Henry Morgan, the famous English buccaneer, was not due to his expert generalship as much as it was to a strange chain of circumstances over which he had no control.

In his command were a number of pirates who had fought well for the cause. One day, during the siege of the fortress one of these men was pierced in the side by an arrow. The cutthroat pulled it from his flesh vowing to send it back to the Spaniards as fast as he could. He had no bow but, in his anger, he used the one weapon he had . . . his musket.

Wadding cotton around the end of the arrow, he crammed it into the barrel of his gun, took aim and fired. The missile went sailing over the fortress wall and was lost from view. It was merely a gesture of revenge. No one dreamed of the consequences.

But the cotton was kindled by the powder which in turn set fire to the thatched roof of a building inside the fortress. The Spaniards were frantically trying to get the flames under control when the creeping fire reached the powder magazines. They exploded, bursting part of the walls, and Morgan rushed in to capture the stronghold.

© Western Newspaper Union.

TIME FOR THINKING

An excellent result brought about by the times through which we are passing is, I find, a chastened and soberer point of view. It is turning more men to study and reflection than ever before. The scope of the calamity through which we have gone is only now beginning to be grasped. Millions of honest men and women feel this was a catastrophe that never should be allowed to occur again. Then, how prevent it? The answer is: Study and find out. —L. V. Jacks in the Rotarian Magazine.

Reputation Counts

If one has a reputation for judgment, his mere grunt has weight.

Do you tire easily?

no appetite? nervous? losing weight? pale? then don't gamble with your body

WHY not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." That's not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low... and this, perhaps, is what makes you feel weak.

If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference S.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

S.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary in blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin up-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition.

© S.S.S. Co.

S.S.S. TONIC Makes you feel like yourself again

Then the Hard Sledding

The easiest way is usually easy for a very brief period.

Chiseler's Bulletin. Listing over 1,000,000 worth of FREE merchandise. Price 10c coin. W. Tidaback, Box 83, Hillside, N. J.

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (for Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chafing and Itching Rash easily soothed by the bland medication of Resinol

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

CALERA NEWS

The Unique Club met with Mrs. Sidney Dubose, March 7th, with Mrs. McClanahan joint hostess. The President, Mrs. Cecil Cowart, made a suggestion to organize a relief committee, which was adopted. After the business session, Mrs. Arthur Seale presented a program featuring St. Patrick. Mrs. Marion Jones sang "Where The River Shannon Flows".

Mrs. Guy Roberts read a sketch on the life of Madam Heink in her operactic career and the life of Mrs. Grace Coolidge. Mrs. D. W. Boyd gave a reading on Ireland. Cake and coffe was served to 25 members and one guest.

Miss Gladys Marsh, of Bradford, Alabama, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. G. T. Murphree.

The Alabama Power Company held a demonstration Thursday and Friday evening at the school auditorium. Many useful prizes were given away.

Mr. and Mrs. N. K. Blankenship and family, spent the week-end in Sylacauga with relatives.

Miss Janie Nix was the guest of her parents in Oak Grove, last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ford, of Gordon's Dam, are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Boyd spent Monday and Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. C. C. Green was in Montevallo, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Holcombe motored to Birmingham, Thursday.

Mrs. J. H. Wood returned home Wednesday after a weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Wood in Birmingham.

Mrs. Ed Crim had as her guests this week, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Watts of Minooka, and Mrs. Sara Crim and Audry Crim, of South Calera.

Miss Inez Wallace, Mr. Clayton Wallace, Mr. Albert Askins, and Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Muchison, motored to Montgomery, Tuesday.

Mr. R. B. Luther and Mr. C. C. Green were in Columbiana, Monday, on business.

The Week of Prayer, closed at the Baptist Church, Friday. Mrs. B. F. Killingsworth was chairman of the program committee. A plate luncheon was served to a large attendance.

Mr. Clarence Bray left Saturday for Beaumont, Texas, where he is to play ball with the Beaumont team. This is the second season that Mr. Bray has played with this team.

Mrs. P. Baer and Mrs. Sol Baer, visited relatives in Birmingham, Tuesday.

Miss Elizabeth Hill entertained the Senior League, Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Z. S. Cowart on Church street. Games and contests were enjoyed, Miss Zimma Holcombe winning the prize. Cake and punch was served.

Mrs. Margaret Milstead is spending the week-end in Dry Valley with relatives.

Mr. Mc Anderson spent Sunday and Monday in Birmingham.

Robert Edward Lyman, of Montevallo, was the guest of his grandparents, Sunday.

Mr. M. D. Crowson spent Monday in Montevallo.

Mr. and Mrs. Weir and family and Mr. and Mrs. Parmell, all of Birmingham, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Luther, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crim, Miss Mattie James, and Miss Eunice Sloan, of Birmingham, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Sloan.

Mrs. Z. S. Cowart and Miss Elizabeth Wallace left Wednesday for a few days visit in Opelika.

Mrs. B. F. Miller spent last week-end in Birmingham.

J. K. Boley, Jr., is reported to be very ill with pneumonia at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pilgreen.

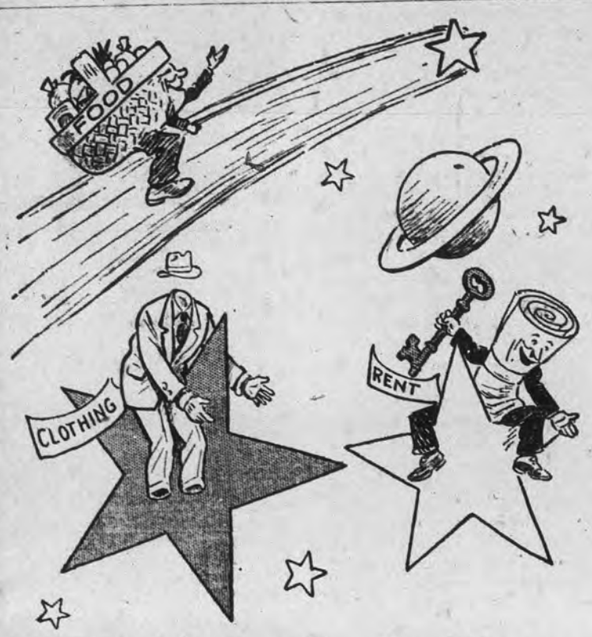
Miss Mary Culver, of Childersburg, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Pete Hill, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Martin and Mrs. Zollie Cowart were in Birmingham Tuesday for the day.

Mrs. Ida Ellette, of Birmingham, returned home Sunday after a weeks visit with Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell.

Mrs. T. M. Benson and daughter spent Sunday with relatives in Billingsley, Alabama.

Miss Sara Coker, is reported to be very sick with pneumonia.



The guest of Mrs. R. C. Jones, Friday, were: Mrs. John Holcombe and Mrs. Jane Holcombe, of Shelby Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Harris and son, Eugene, returned home Friday from Birmingham.

The Junior Three program was a success Monday evening at the school auditorium. The proceeds will be used for the school.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets Salve-Nose Drops

"Why Don't You COME UP and See Us Sometime?"

"I'D LIKE TO," replied Reddy Kilowatt, "but if I did that I'd lose a lot of friends my Company and I now have because of the low price we ask for electricity, so they can cook and heat water and refrigerate and do a lot of other things electrically for very little money. And, too, if I should come up to see you sometime I'd break faith with Mr. S. A. Bolen, of Jackson, Alabama, who wrote:

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

"I'm glad to learn that there's at least one thing that seems to have been going down in price ever since I can remember—and that's the price of electricity. Everything else always seems to be going up."

S A Bolen
Jackson, Ala.

Alabama electric rates are the lowest ever—and among the very lowest in the Nation. Compare that with what's happening to the prices of food, clothing, rent and other necessities.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electricity Is CHEAP In Alabama!

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

The Best Menus The Markets Afford.

Come In For A Quick Lunch Or For Regular Meals.

We Will Serve You Promptly.

We Also Carry A Complete Line Of—

Candy, Cigars and Cigarettes.

A Cordial Welcome Awaits The Transient Guests.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

HEADLINERS

IN THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL LIFE OF

BIRMINGHAM

This directory is an official guide for the convenience of Shelby County people, who need articles and various kinds of services, they cannot find at home. The headings are indexed so that you may use them rapidly and conveniently. You will find here most any line you are seeking in Birmingham with leading concerns. This directory will save you time and money.

Auto's and Repairs

Notice To Chevrolet Owners.

The next time you are in Birmingham, and you are having trouble with your Chevrolet, it will pay you to drive by

EDWARDS MOTOR COMPANY

16th St., and 3rd Ave. N.,

and have your car checked by our expert mechanics at our reasonable rates now offered.

Beauty Schools

BE A BEAUTICIAN—Earn $20 to $35 per week—Good operators in demand. This school is prepared to give you a most thorough training. Day and night classes.

WOODALL INSTITUTE of Beauty Culture
Marinello Method - 205½ N. 21 St.

Chiropractor

LADY CHIROPRACTOR and PATHOMETRIST
COLONIC IRRIGATION
Men and Women Accepted
Male Attendant — 3-6708
JUANITA JOHNSON
513 North 19th Street

My professional concern is just two things—your Health and My Reputation—Therefore I shall accept only the cases which I beleive I can help.

Dr. A. H. Kessler
CHIROPRACTOR
PATHOMETRIST
200—5 Farley Building

Feeds

Corn And Hay Supply Short

The 1934 Corn crop in the United States is seriously short, and the domestic Hay crop is also short. No better substitute can be had than Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls. You already know they have no equal as cow feed, but did you know that your mules, both idle and work stock, will thrive on Meal and Hulls?

Auburn recommends them. Write for feeding formula for all purposes. Our Green Toy Meal is the best—Try it and see!

Farmers' Ginners Cotton Oil Co.

Furniture

ATTENTION

Engaged Couples and Brides To Be!

Cedar Chest Free
See Us For Details.

SOKOL BROS.
1818 1st Avenue North

Grinding

We grind all edge tools—specializing on razors, clippers and shears. Also sausage plates and knives, bacon slicers and choppers.

BIRMINGHAM GRINDING WORKS
527 N. 18th Street.

Livestock

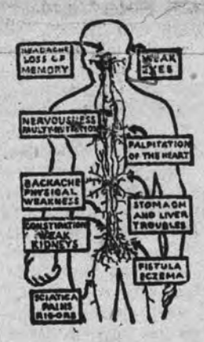
HERRIN, HORSE AND MULE CO.
2701 2nd Ave. North
Dealers In
HORSES AND MULES.

All animals they sell are guaranteed to be as represented. They deliver Mules by trucks which makes them as close to you as your local dealer.

"WE SELL OR TRADE".

Poultry

IDEAL BABY CHICKS



are all the word implies. They are pure bred, blood tested and-bred to-day, and if given half a chance will grow. Our heavy varieties are $7.95 delivered and our Big English White Leghorns are $9.00. White and black Minorcas, giant size, $9.00. Send us your hatching eggs. Our equipment is all electric, and we will give you a big hatch.

IDEAL HATCHERIES
211 N. 24th Street
Birmingham, Alabama
Long Distance Phone 7-5400

These Birmingham firms are the Leaders in their respective lines, and are always glad to serve you. Give them a trial.

Medical Specialist

Piles Treated Without Surgery
By "Conservative Ambulant Methods"

I have an instructive illustrated copyrighted booklet which I will send free on request if you have piles or other rectal trouble. Write today for a copy and learn about the method by which you may be successfully treated in 90% of rectal trouble without surgery—without the use of chloroform or ether, if treatment is taken in time. This method of treatment has been used successfully in thousands of cases.
Don't say it can't be done—that's what they told Edison, Marconi and others. There is no greater blow to progress than CONDEMNATION without INVESTIGATION.

Many and varied reflex conditions in various parts of the body are due to troubles of the Rectum, as the cut herewith shows.

MAIL THIS TODAY
I have rectal trouble. Please send me free copy "Rectal Diseases Cured Without Surgery." This request does not obligate me in any way.
Name.....
Street..... Town.....

DR. M. D. KELLEY
414½ N. 20th St., Birmingham, Alabama
Phone 7-5383 P. O. Box 415
Hours: 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. Sundays: 10 A. M. to 12 Unless By Appointment.

Optometrist

DR. J. H. TINDER
Optometrist
EYES EXAMINED
OPTICAL WORK
627-28 Comer Building
Birmingham, Alabama
Phone 7-2885

I WILL BE GLAD TO SEE MY OLD FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS, OF SHELBY COUNTY.

TELL THESE ADVERTISERS THAT YOU SAW THEIR ADVERTISEMENT IN THE SHELBY COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

Roofing

THE FINEST ROOF MADE
Interlocking Steel Shingles
Last 30 to 40 years.
Need no painting.
Easy to nail on.
Fire-proof.
Will not break, crack, nor curl.
Cool in Summer, Warm in Winter.
Cost only $5 per sq.
For the best roof—the life-time roof—use galvanized pressed steel shingles.

Birmingham Fence & Roofing
520 N. 28th St. - Dial 3-8538

Seeds

J. B. Gorman & Sons Seed & Supply Company
ESTABLISHED 1898
SEEDS, PLANTS, BULBS AND FERTILIZER
PHONE 3-7291
2330 SECOND AVE.
Give Us A Trial.

Hernia and Rupture

DR. H. G. BOWDEN
Why be bothered with RUPTURE or HERNIA when it is eliminated without operation. Dr. H. G. BOWDEN, specialist has perfected an appliance which has proven successful in the most stubborn cases even after operations have failed. These are made according to your needs. Consultation void of charge. WE GUARANTEE RESULTS.
517 Chamber of Commerce Building ——— Phone 7-1816

Social and Personal Mention

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Social Editor

Pass the "APPUESAUCE" friends! I need an over dose this morning to conteract some "hear say" "facts" and "figures". I am about "fed up" on FRIENDS who tell you TRUTHS about what OTHER FRIENDS say about you—or THINK about you—or KNOW about you! Adverse remarks! I am aware that one cannot always hear pleasant "chatter" about this and that, when editing a weekly to please Mr. and Mrs. Public—the WHY'S and WHEREFORES etc., that currently drift in—but I'd like a few "ORCHIDS" while I am here—TODAY—THIS VERY MINUTE—and you can say what you please when I'm gone—It won't matter MUCH, then.

In other words, if you do not feel FRIENDLY, as I thought you did—Please do not enlighten me—Let me keep on "fooling" myself—It is far more pleasant, and I am far happier "playing like it's so", right on.

Now here is an item, with an optimistic thought in it, which I pass on to you this morning. The papers state PHONE RATES will take a tumble. There is one good thing about this—It won't cost as much to say "HELLO" over Herr Bell's little instrument, and if you do not like what you hear in your ear drum, like the radio, you can turn it off! Thats something to think about. The verbal battles may continue across the miles but they will travel at a reduced rate. In other words, TALK is STILL CHEAP—even when measured in "dollars and cents". The only difference is, over the telephone, you don't have to sit and take it. You can "sign off". Excuse me please, while I answer the "ting-a ling-a ling".

Clay Lester, happy - go - lucky friendly CLAY, was seen on "Main Street" this week busily engaged in extending his hearty hand clasp of greeting which is so much a part of this genial likeable chap, that you truly feel, even though his work in Birmingham keeps him away from his old home town, and his many friends in this territory, he is still delighted to be back in Columbiana where he always receives a royal welcome.

"SPARKS" continue to "fly" around the Court House—and over Shelby County boundary lines. A new Chevrolet was seen leaving Main Street, Saturday, and at a speed seldom equalled by even Sir Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird—The REASON?——Ah, that would be telling!

"A Madam President" movement is now being sponsored by the League for a Woman President. It is reported, the "LADIES" expect to begin their feminine tactics in this direction in a characteristically modest manner. that is—they plan to run "Madam Somebody" as Vice-President in 1936.

Some journalists are raising the question regarding the HUSBAND of such a feminine celebrity. His reactions to the honor. They are wondering whether or not he, "First Gentleman of the Land", would suffer an inferiority complex or whether he would fall in step with Madam President as did Amelia Earhart's husband when she blazed the trail across the Atlantic.

One of the State's cleverest journalists says: "A Woman President could bake pie both figuratively and in reality. Traditionally she would always have the last word with the men, which would be a good thing for Congress"——so the idea has its good points—and personally speaking, we have heard of the "weaker sex" attempting to break every masculine made record—but, up to this writing, there does not seem to be any rush about equalling or surpassing Lady Dionne's last achievement.

Two ladies were heard talking while standing in front of the Democrat offices last week—The confab went something like this:

Mrs. X—She told me that you told her the secret I told you not to tell her.

Mrs. Z—The mean old thing. I told her not to tell you I told her.

Mrs. X—Well, don't tell her that I told you she told me.

And so the story goes—on and on—molehills become mountains and old friends fail to speak——One of life's little tragedies.

T. A. Blackerby, Birmingham News-Age-Herald representative, has again contributed his $1.00 for another 52 issues of the Democrat during 1935. We are truly grateful for his continued interest, and happily welcome him into the circle of readers for the current year.

Why not Clean Up, Paint Up and Fix Up in the Better Housing Program? Call by the Democrat offices for particulars.

Mrs. W. L. Christian gave a lovely dinner party in her home on Friday night, honoring her husband, W. L. Christian, and Paul A. Davis, Relief Director of Shelby County. The happy occasion marked the birthday anniversaries of the two honorees, and the co-host was exactly twice the age of Mr. Davis—You will have to "figure" the total amount of years this distinguished and popular Banker has chalked up—and he also wants to know when this circle of years will roll around again and double the years between the two who so happily shared this gala occasion.

The "Dixie Luncheonette" is doing a land office business under the supervision of Mrs. Jessie Thompson and George Holcombe. If you are in a hurry and want a quick sandwich or a delicious piece of home made pie or custard, go by and call at this popular eating place—located next to the Masonic Building.

Tom Lee, the "Duke of Pelham", spent Saturday in Columbiana and was noticed circulating among his many friends on Main Street and "Under the Courthouse Dome", where he is always a welcomed guest.

Rux Carter was the honoree at a lovely birthday staged at Curlee's Cafe on Sunday, March 9th. This popular young fellow states that he is "20" years old now. He is no longe. in his "TEENS", and proud of it. Here's hoping 20 years from now, he will be able to boast of as many friends as he has in this town today—for if there is any one in this little burg who doesn't like Rux Carter, and who doesn't realize and appreciate his sterling qualities, well, "yours truly" has not met them yet.

A personal wish for every happiness, which he so richly deserves, comes from the heart of all of us who have known him since his "ROMPER DAYS".

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Luttrell, Doris and June Luttrell, of Atlanta, Ga., spent Sunday with Mrs. Luttrell's father, James R. White, in Columbiana.

Herbert Elliott, of Montevallo, and Member of the Jury Commission of Shelby County, was in Columbiana on Saturday.

Try one of Curlee's Special Sensational Smoked Canadian Bacon suppers.

The many friends of Mrs. Sam A. Lokey are delighted to learn that she is steadily improving at her home in Columbiana, after a tonsil operation in the Sylacauga Infirmary last week.

Mrs. Paul O. Luck and Miss Ruth Luck are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Luttrell in Atlanta this week.

Judge W. W. Wallace and Harold Harlin are spending the week in Rockford where the Circuit Court of Coosa County is in session.

The Columbiana Savings Bank held a Directors meeting on Tuesday, March 12th. A representative official meeting was reported.

Grady Cleveland, "right hand man" in the State Forestry Department, was a cordially welcomed guest in Columbiana last week. Mr. Cleveland had just returned from Washington, where he had journeyed in the interest of progressive plans now being fostered by this Department in Montgomery.

Wednesday A. M.

Burr-r-r-r! "The day is cold, and dark and dreary—It rains and the wind is never weary"—according to a Longfellow inspiration poetically stated many, many years ago. However, it is just as applicable and true today—! Some especially gifted Pollyanna person dropped by to remark that we were having "APRIL SHOWERS"——At this time, I was just about as "damp" as RAIN can get you—So, APRIL SHOWERS, by any other name gets you just as wet as plain old RAIN—and thats what I'm telling you we are having! Rain! Plain Old Rain!

Listen folks—Column Conducting a weekly newspaper isn't all it is cracked up to be. Like life—"smiles and tears" are rarely far apart—but there is always the rain-bow of promise of a better day. That illusive TOMORROW which never comes, but which lies—just around the corner keeps one on the "up and up"——The grimy old press continues to point an accusing finger, marking delinquency—so we must hasten and end the ramble—lest we fail to greet you on Thursday morning in that same old happy way. Rest assured we love coming, and look forward to it each Thursday morning. We also eagerly await your weekly comments.

Sure, we can "take it"! Unless you CAN 'take it"——better not attempt to sail a "Dream Boat" on a sea of "Printers Ink"—for you would SINK slowly but surely—that's a fact I have personally found to be true—so, "chins up" until next Thursday!

A METHODIST INVITATION

By Henry M. Hurst

What does Sunday mean to you—
A day for recreation?
A day to ease and motor out
To cover all creation?
Now that's all right, if on this day
You give your first attention
To worship at the house of God,
Without feigning or pretention.
You have the cart before the horse,
You give first thought to pleasure;
You worship gold instead of God,
As all your plunks you treasure.
Say, give less thought to things of earth,
And more thought to religion—
But on you go and give no heed,
You do not care a smidgeon.
Say, get up early Sunday morn,
Put on your Sunday breeches,
And come around and worship where
The long, lank parson preaches.

VINCENT NEWS

Mrs. Hatcher and Mrs. Bazemore were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florey.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Black announce the arrival of a little daughter, Rebecca. Mrs. Black and Rebecca are resting well at the Sylacauga Infirmary.

Miss Maxine Dupuy has returned to her school duties after a week's illness at her home in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Darnell, Mr. Gordon Bates and Miss Glaze, of Birmingham, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bates, recently.

The friends of Mrs. Lee regret to hear that she is ill in a Birmingham hospital.

We welcome Mr. Milton Denty and family who have returned to Vincent after living in Birmingham a year. They are domiciled on College street.

The teachers of Vincent High School were entertained Saturday by the Vincent Study Club at the Montpelia Club House.

Miss Mary Campbell spent several days with her aunt, Mrs. Logan, near Harpersville.

Wonderful RELIEF

Here's good news for you people whose nerves are so jangled, you can't eat, sleep, or rest; who worry over trifles, start at sudden noises, have Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache.

DR. MILES NERVINE WILL RELIEVE YOU QUICKLY. It was originated by a Nerve Specialist especially for people in your condition. It has been making good for more than fifty years.

Hundreds of thousands of nervous people have had an experience like that of Maud Thomas. Read her letter. You too will find the dollar you spend for your first bottle of Dr. Miles Nervine the best investment you ever made. If you don't think so, we will return your dollar.

"Has done me more good than I can express"

I am a Dr. Miles Fan all the way through. I have taken Nervine for 2 years with good success. It is more than it is recommended to be and it has done me more good than I can express. I am in better health now than I have been for ten years. Maud Thomas, Glasgow, Kentucky

Dr. Miles NERVINE Liquid and Effervescent Tablets

SPECIAL!

16 OZ. BENZOIN AND ALMOND LOTION

---39c---

——Worth More——

Come To See Us!

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

LUQUIRE FUNERAL HOMES INS. CO.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Legal Reserve Funeral and Cash Policy

BURTIS F. HAMRICK

—Representative—

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——

TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

FEED

COTTONSEED MEAL AND HULLS

——TO——

HORSES, MULES AND OXEN.

Scientific feeding test made by all agricultural colleges in the south and experiments by extension service at Auburn College have demonstrated that Cottonseed Meal and Hulls used in corn and hay rations is the most economical and best feed for all types of livestock. The manure from feeding Cottonseed Meal is valuable as fertilizer. Save dollars by using Alabama products in Alabama and add to the value of your Cotton Seed. See your County Agent or call on nearby oil mill for proper rations.

I have been using Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for thirty years. No matter what kind of pain I have, they stop it almost instantly. Never without them in the house. Mrs. Chas. W. Webb, Indio, Calif.

You're The Loser

WHEN you allow Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains to keep you from work or pleasure.

You can't go places and do things when you are suffering—and the work or good times won't wait for you.

Why allow Pain to rob you of Health, Friends, Happiness, Money?

DR. MILES ANTI-PAIN PILLS have been used for the relief of pain for more than forty years. They taste good, act quickly, do not upset the stomach, nor cause constipation, leave no dull, depressed feeling.

Thousands have used them for twenty, thirty, forty years, and still find that nothing else relieves pain so promptly and effectively.

Why don't you try them? Once you know how pleasant they are to take, how quickly and effectively they relieve, you won't want to go back to disagreeable, slow acting medicines.

You too may find quick relief. Why wait forty minutes for relief when Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you in ten to twenty minutes?

As a household remedy I have never found anything that equalled Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. Mrs. Silas D. Keller, Penfield, Pa.

I never found anything that was so good to stop pain as Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. I have told many about them and I find they are all using them. Mrs. Martha Lacy, Davenport, Iowa

I have been using Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for years. I keep them on hand all the time. I can certainly recommend them for pain. Miss Audra Seybold, 2417 W. 2nd St., Dayton, Ohio

Your Anti-Pain Pills have been a wonderful help to me. I have used them for three years and always keep them on hand. Mrs. E. Pierce, Lapwai, Idaho

I have used quite a lot of Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They are fine pills to stop pain. Mrs. J. L. Kester, Shickshinny, Pa.

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

Kiddies' Kolumn

Columbiana, Ala.,
March 5, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I wish to thank you for my subscription to the Democrat. I enjoy my work for the Kiddies Kolumn very much. All of the kiddies have cooperated so nicely in writing their letters for this column.

Again may I say "thank you" for my subscription to the Democrat.

Your friend,
Hazel Ruth Swann.

——Complete——

FUNERAL PROTECTION

——No Age Limit——

BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.

Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

General Electric Refrigerators

All Steel Cabinet

Sealed-In Mechanism

With 5 Years Protection Against Failure of Mechanism.

SPECIAL TERMS:

5 Cu. Ft. Size

$7.00 DOWN and $7.00 PER MONTH

HOME APPLIANCE CO.

(Milton Allen — E. E. Craig)

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Reminder

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Slippery

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

Find Comfort in Greece
The British Wake Up
New Civilization?
Fremont Older

Americans, with comparatively small troubles, may find comfort in reading about Greece, where government airplanes are bombing government battleships, seized by rebels. From the Averoff, pride of the Greek navy, "flames rose high" when a 250-pound baby bomb struck her deck. What would happen if a 5,000-pound bomb struck such a ship?

Arthur Brisbane

Ancient names taking you back to school days are scattered through Greek civil war reports. Venizelos, a true Greek patriot, supporting the revolution, dwells on the little island of Crete, where the Minotaur, half human, half bull, used to live and devour youths and maidens from Athens.

In this world of trouble, something must explode somewhere.

Ramsay MacDonald tells the commons that Germany's military activity compels Britain to extend her boundaries of "imperial air protection" to the banks of the Rhine. Armies of men mean nothing. Floating ships mean little. A while ago Lord Rothermere, warning his country usefully, as his brother, Lord Northcliffe, did in the big war, was telling the British that they must have at least 5,000 fighting planes. His advice, at first ridiculed, is now taken seriously and Britain will have the planes.

Old American methods that have built up this country, such as it is, are called out of date by leading minds in Washington.

Mr. Richberg, supposed to be closest to the President in thought, tells a Miami audience "the World war marked the passing of a civilization." What kind of civilization will take its place?

With all possible respect for professors and reformers, you wonder if they can, offhand, manufacture a better one.

The death at seventy-eight of Fremont Older, for more than fifty years a courageous, fighting newspaper man in California, recalls Victor Hugo's words: "The death of the just man is like the end of a beautiful day."

Fremont Older's life, character and work were worthy of his impressive stature and benign expression. It may be said of him, as was said of Gladstone, that "his heart was ever with the weak and miserable poor." Every good cause found a defender in him; the most miserable convict, released from prison, might find a friend in him. There is a heaven, of course, and Fremont Older is there. If there were no heaven, his character and merit would "make it necessary to invent one."

Alabama voted dry, stands with Kansas, one of the two dry states of the Union. Northern racketeers and bootleggers must not hastily conclude that Alabama offers a paradise of profit. First, Alabama knows how to make corn whisky at a price per gallon that would discourage any bootlegger; second, the men of Alabama are not as long suffering as men of New York. Racketeers would find Alabama is bad climate for their health.

Paris and American dressmakers tell woman that she must now dress in a fashion "revealing the outlines and curves of the human form." To know exactly what the outlines of the human form are, take a walk through the streets of Miami near public or private bathing beaches. You will see strolling to their homes, as free from care or self-consciousness as little birds, hundreds of ladies, some tall and thin, a majority short and fat, with literally nothing on from the waist up that could not be replaced by two half coconut shells fastened to the chest with a string around the back of the neck, and below the waist a wisp of material that would make Eve's skirt of leaves look like a ball dress.

Such costumes are unwise "salesmanship." The old-fashioned muslin dress down to the ankle, up to the neck, aroused romantic interest and uncertainty. The two half coconut shell costumes cause the eligible young man to say, "If that is all there is to it, I shall postpone matrimony."

On an island in the Pearl river, inhabitants of a Chinese fishing village dreaded and disliked a small settlement where 24 lepers lived nearby. A dispatch from Hongkong says the villagers have solved their problem by a massacre of the 24 lepers, followed by the destruction and burning of their settlement.

That shocks us now, but such barbarity was once the rule. The old were killed and sometimes eaten in primitive days.

British medical men declare positively that "drinking milk within two hours after eating meat is highly detrimental to the digestive system." Moses could have told them that long ago.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

Elimination of the provision against employing married teachers in schools receiving federal relief was announced by J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, as he called a series of conferences of county and city superintendents to discuss the relief provisions in detail.

Mayor R. L. Mitchell of Warrior fined two former mayors of that North Jefferson County town $25 and costs, each, for doing business without a 1934 municipal license. The two were R. B. Montgomery, auto dealer, and E. A. Terry, hardware merchant.

New impetus to the production schedules in the Birmingham district were given with the announcement of a $1,500,000 order from the Mexican National Railways and the beginning of construction on the $1,200,000 building for Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

J. Rivers Paterson, chairman of the National Retail Code Authority on paints and hardware, will be among the principal speakers before the Retail Hardware Association of Alabama, meeting in Montgomery for its annual convention on March 16-17.

The Mobile County Board of Commissioners was the first to file an application with the new State Public Works Board, a request being received for $1,026,000 for the construction of a bridge from the mainland to Dauphin Island in Mobile Bay.

Only minor damage was done the apple and peach crop of the state by the recent freeze, believe Julian Brown, extension horticulturist and B. P. Linvgston, chief of the plant industry of the State Department of Agriculture and Industries.

The Alabama Public Service Commission has ordered a downward revision in the rates of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Alabama, estimated to save customers $300,000 annually and effective on bills dated after April 1.

A volume of poems by Jacques Henri Pilonel, of Paris, formerly teacher of French at Marion Institute, has been received by P. J. Benrimo, of Selma, who was accociated with Mr. Pilonel at Marion 12 years ago.

Gov. Bibb Graves has called a general election for Tuesday, July 30, to elect a successor to Congressman John McDuffie, who recently resigned his First District seat to become U. S. district judge for South Alabama.

Plans for beautification of the Montgomery Highway along the route over Red Mountain from Birmingham to Homewood were outlined to members of the Homewood Civic Association at a meeting at the city hall.

Second prize of $75 in the Alabama-Georgia-Florida territory of an All-Southern Beautification Contest has been awarded to Mrs. Joe I. Lightfoot, Rt. 1, Troy, by The Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist.

Delay on construction work of the proposed $136,000 municipal auditorium at Gadsden was blamed on a "scheme by local people to defeat the project" by Dr. George S. Vann, chairman of the City Commission.

Recommendations of the State Crime Commission to reduce the time limits of appeals by 60 days and permit nine members of a jury to return a verdict were adversed by the recess committee on judicial reform.

Jefferson County's delegation in the Legislature stood pledged unanimously to enact a rigid civil service law and a constitutional recall act in a move toward ending political strife at Birmingham's City Hall.

Talladega Beat 5 went "wet" by one vote in the state liquor referendum, a survey of official balloting showed. The vote was 595 to 594 for modification. The county went dry by 583 majority.

Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University of Alabama, announced that Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes had accepted an invitation to deliver the commencement address there on May 27.

Said by police to have admitted setting fire to his residence while his family attended a movie, C. W. Lee, Birmingham, laundry driver, was being held in County Jail on a charge of arson.

Plans to redistrict the judicial circuits of the state, drastically reducing the number of judges, were under consideration by the recess judiciary committee of the Legislature.

Alabama marble will be used in the new Anniston postoffice, contractors for the project announced. The marble is estimated to cost approximately $30,000.

A new $10,000 bath house has been built by the Alabama Fuel & Iron Co. for the use of its employes at the Margaret Coal Mine, in St. Clair County.

Recent raids brought destruction of two stills, the arrest of 10 persons and the seizure of about 50 gallons of whisky in and near Birmingham.

The Alabama Relief Administration is purchasing sorghum syrup from Alabama farmers for consumption by the state's 54,000 families on relief.

School children gave a sign of better times in Birmingham when they hoisted their savings accounts to an all-time high of $205,493.30.

An increase of 18 per cent in postoffice receipts was recorded at the Talladega postoffice in February.

HOUSE FROCK ON TAILORED LINES

PATTERN 2163

If you are a little tired of the general run of house frocks you'll enjoy the trimly tailored lines of this design, with its unusual buttoned-down collar and buttoned-over sleeves. For it's one of those casual shirtwaist styles—so very popular nowadays—and it has a slenderizing panel up the front, to make it very becoming to the larger figure. The way the bodice is gathered to the youthful yoke and slot-pleated at the back is not only very smart but it gives the comfortable fullness that women demand of house frocks. Made of cotton broadcloth, or printed pique this dress would be charming and every bit as chic as a sports frock!

Pattern 2163 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 4¼ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Smiles

IN THE WHIRL

"It is always a statesman's privilege to change his mind."

"I'm aware of that," answered Senator Sorghum. "But what's the use of changing your opinion when everybody's too busy with their own mental somersaults to pay any attention to yours?"

Unknown Language

Lady Visitor—And so your little brother can talk now, can he?

Bobby—Yes, he can say some words very well.

Lady Visitor—How nice! And what words are they?

Bobby—I don't know. I've never heard any of them before.

Too Late

Detective—So, I've caught you in the financial district, have I?

Crook—Yes, Bill, but I can't slip you nothing. I just got away from a broker.

Gay, Crisp Taffeta Trims New Gowns

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ALL roads and bypaths which the spectacular spring style parades are now treading lead to taffeta. The furore and excitement over this crisp, sprightly and youthful silk is keeping up at such a maddening pace, those who launch the new fashions are almost talking taffeta in their sleep while during their waking hours they are voicing a spring-song of taffeta which is reaching to every style center far and near.

And such taffetas! Taffetas which baffle description so persuasively lovely and dramatically chic are they. Printed, plain, metal-interwoven, plaided, striped—just say taffeta and the salesperson will show you such a versatile assortment as to almost bewilder.

According to the new style program taffeta is as smart for dresses, daytime or evening, it matters not which, as it is for suits, wraps and ensembles. It is equally as important used in a trimming way and for hats, big bows and accessories of every description.

The latest news about taffeta is the little separate jacket of this pert swishy silk which may be worn with your spring frock of light woolen or crepe or "what have you." It may be quilted or plain and it may be in black, navy or other dark street color with prospects of pastel shades later on in the summer.

Demonstrating taffeta in a trimming way, the three costumes pictured tell a fascinating story of what's what to wear this spring. Of course the up-and-going dress to the left in the group is navy, for navy blue outranks even black in importance according to reports. Metal-plaided navy taffeta forms the wide girlish collar, also the deep cuffs which extend halfway up the sleeves. The rhinestone hook-and-eye fastening adds an intriguing touch.

The dress going arm-in-arm with the afore-described may be considered in terms of either black or navy. The deep cape collar is in taffeta in the same color accurately matched so as to carry out a perfected monotone. The huge animated taffeta bow interprets a fashion which is all-prevailing this season.

Comes next in the picture to complete the group a stunning suave, sleek and slim-of-cut two-piece tailleur fashioned of a novelty weave woolen in a rich-toned green. The decorative bow is of gold-striped taffeta with the same color combination repeated in the square buttons. Note the fashionable breton sailor which tops this smartly costumed woman's carefully coiffed head. If you are asking about the millinery outlook there is much could be said in regard to the race for supremacy which is now going on between sailors of varied type and quaint picturesque "way-back-when" looking bonnets to which add a third competitor—the very new brims which lurch toward the front narrowing at the sides being thoroughly modernistic in their streamline movement.

©. Western Newspaper Union.

TULLE IS IN VOGUE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Reports from style centers all agree as to the tremendous importance of laces, tulles, nets, chiffons and other like diaphanous media for evening and coming summer fashions. Enthusiasm for stiffened tulle is manifested throughout couturier showings in Paris. Georgette Renal, one of the up-and-coming designers, fashions the exquisite gown pictured of midnight blue tulle, the sequins on the cape being in matching blue. She uses three tiers of the tulle fabric to form an interesting silhouette starting with the sequin-covered cape with its sprightly flare, continuing with a peplum for the little jacket, adding a corresponding flare in the back swing of the skirt.

KID BOOTEES TRIP ONTO SHOE MARKET

You should see the new kid bootees that have just tripped onto the shoe market.

A revolution in footwear, is the way most people feel about them. Cecil's little black kid ones already are a success. The effect is achieved by eight straps that lace across the instep until close under the ankle bone. This particular bootee lunched at the Crillon and Madame was wearing at the same time a belted three-quarter coat, whose high neck and accompanying lofty Russian toque obviously demanded the bootee touch.

Cecil has another bootee deserving mention. It is of black kidskin with patent leather lacing at the outside.

Tailored Styles Will Be Popular for Spring Wear

As a fashion foreword to spring, a prominent stylist says that women are asking for models that have a minimum of fancy trimming and a maximum of tailoring. With these requirements in mind, this authority believes in interpreting Regency and Empire themes to spring sportswear.

He refers to Empire skirts being cut very high, a good three inches higher for spring than this winter. Swallow tail jackets as novelties, vests, loads of them in all different colors, in patterned silk or in plain pique, wing lapels faced in contrast fabric—these are some of the Regency developments which he believes in borrowing, developments taken from the masculine phase of the Regency period and assimilated in sports fashions minus the decorative trimming of this period.

New Blouses

Blouses with very feminine lines and flattering fullness in medium pastels, rose tones and beige are going to be seen worn with spring suits of the "dressmaker" sort. Chiffon blouses will soon replace the more opaque sheers.

New Jewelry

Some of the most interesting jewelry being shown for formal wear copies military or royal orders, suspended on heavy metal or jeweled chains.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©. Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 17

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:1-19.

GOLDEN TEXT—But prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him. Acts 12:5b.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Peter Was Freed From Prison.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Was Delivered From Prison.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of United Prayer.

The young church had met and overcome some serious difficulties. She first had to face religious persecution at the hands of Jews. Then came internal troubles as to the support of certain widows. The separating wall of Pharisaical legalism was broken down in the admission of Gentiles into the church, but finally she had to meet the naked sword of civil authority. Through all these tests she was more than conqueror.

I. Peter's Imprisonment (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1). Herod, the grandson of the wicked Herod who slew the innocent children of Bethlehem. His half-sister, Herodias, secured the death of John the Baptist.

2. The reason (v. 3). It was to gain the favor of the Jews. Herod was not a Jew but an Edomite. Therefore, he knew that his success was dependent upon his having the good will of the Jews. He seems not particularly to have hated the church, but to have loved popularity, for the sake of which he manifested a deep sympathy for degenerate Judaism. Since the church had so developed as to be a successful rival of Judaism, he saw an opportunity to curry favor with the Jews by putting forth his hands against it.

3. The method (v. 4). He was arrested, put into prison and guarded by sixteen soldiers, one group of four for each watch of the night. Humanly speaking it was impossible to escape. They had doubtless heard of Peter's escape from jail before, so they thought they would take no risks this time. However, they reckoned without God.

II. The Church of God in Prayer (v. 5).

The church was at a crisis. James, one of the brethren of the church, was dead, and Peter, the most prominent of all, was in prison. In this desperate strait, they betook themselves to prayer. This was a noteworthy prayer.

1. It was unto God. All true prayer is unto God.

2. It was united prayer. There is peculiar power in the united prayer of God's people.

3. It was more than unceasing prayer. It was the intensely earnest desire of the soul stretched toward God.

4. It was definite prayer. They specifically offered prayer to God for Peter.

III. Peter Delivered by an Angel (vv. 6-11).

This occurred the night before Herod's plan to make a public display of him.

1. Peter sleeping (v. 6). This shows that he was not disturbed over the matter. The Lord keeps in perfect peace those whose minds are stayed on him (Isa. 26:3).

2. Peter leaves the prison (vv. 7-10). A heavenly light shone in the prison. The angel smote Peter on the side. The chains fell off. Peter put on his clothes and passed by one guard after another, through the iron gate and into the city. The whole transaction was orderly and leisurely, showing that God is not in a hurry.

3. The effect upon Peter (v. 11). Although the matter was so wonderful to Peter, who thought himself in a vision, when he came to himself he knew that God had miraculously delivered him from Herod's wicked hands.

IV. Unconscious Unbelief (vv. 12-19).

1. The behavior of Peter and the church (vv 12-17). Peter went to the house of Mary and knocked. The knock was answered by Rhoda, who was so overjoyed that she forgot to open the gate, and went right in and told them that Peter was at the gate. The disciples were not prepared for such good news, even accusing her of madness. She, undaunted, insisted. They offered as an explanation that perhaps it might be Peter's guardian angel in his likeness. Peter rehearsed unto them the Lord's dealing with him.

2. The behavior of the soldiers (vv. 18, 19). There was great agitation among them as to what had become of Peter. This was a serious matter, since they were responsible for him. Not being able to account for Peter's escape, Herod commanded that they be put to death. After this, Herod went down to Caesaren, where he was adored as a god. Because he arrogated this honor to himself, the Lord smote him. Herod died, but the word of the Lord grew and multiplied.

How to Love God

To love God is to love his character. For instance, God is purity. And to be pure in thought and look, to turn away from unhallowed books and conversation, to abhor the moments in which we have not been pure, is to love God.

Good Rules of Life

It is a goodly thing to die with the blessed consciousness of never having taken advantage of another's infirmity, or poverty, or ignorance; to die able to say that one has not extended the empire of evil on the earth.

Some Change Noted in Rules for Politeness

"You are expected to rise early and be dressed neatly, to exercise before breakfast, and to retire to rest when the family in which you reside desire you to; and you must consider it a breach of politeness if you are requested a second time to rise in the morning or retire in the evening.

"Your deportment must be grave and decent while in the house of God, and you must remember that all light conduct in a place of worship is offensive to well-bred people and highly displeasing to your Maker and Preserver.

"Every hour during the week must be fully occupied either in useful employment or rational amusement while out of school; two hours must be employed each day in close study and every hour during the week must fully occupied.

"The truth must be spoken at all times, on all occasions, though it might appear advantageous to tell a falsehood.

"You are expected to be polite in your manners, neat in your person and room, careful of your books and clothes, attentive to economy in all your expenses.

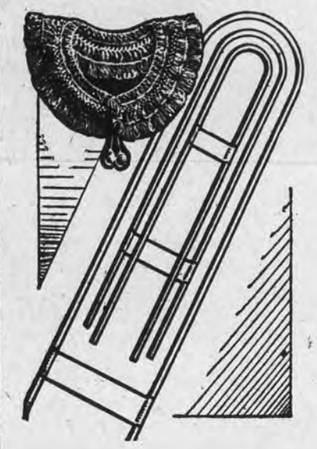
"Talebearing and scandal are odious vices, and must be avoided neither must you flatter your companions by remarks on their beauty, dress or any slight accomplishment, in order to increase their vanity."

Commenting on these oldtime rules of politeness, a modern woman writer caustically remarks:

"Heaven deliver us! But this is only a part, dear reader, of the list of rules for the current manners of students at the first 'Academy for Young Ladies' to be opened in New England—at the beginning of the last century. It is a museum piece that I cannot deny the readers of this column.

"They were not making it easy, these New England 'educators,' for young ladies to have 'good manners.'

"Of course even in this highly frivolous, wasteful, wicked day, we believe in being quiet in church, in keeping ourselves and our possessions clean and neat—and telling the truth when it is not too inconvenient! It is the manner in which even these reasonable demands are expressed and their implication of how young people should be dealt with that gives us a precious sidelight on those days.



"The prize, by honest vote, would go, I think, to this one: 'Neither must you flatter your companions by remarks on their beauty, dress or any slight accomplishment, in order to increase their vanity'! Today's 'well-bred young lady' would regard it as better 'manners' to never overlook an opportunity to remark on her companions' beauty or charm—and wherever possible within the bounds of conscience to say something pleasing and heart-warming to those whose hand she touches in this fleeting journey on which we are for a short time together.

"'Other times,' says the French, 'other manners.' For my part, I prefer those of our times. What say our readers?"

©. Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

PRETTY WORK IN MALTESE CROCHET

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

This kind of crochet work is not new but has been used by past generations when general crochet work is in vogue. The article to be made is worked up faster than when crocheting with a hook only, and the result is different. A hairpin staple and crochet hook are used, and the hairpin varies in width, depending upon the article to be made or the size of loops that are desired. Cotton, wool, silk or linen thread can be used, and scarfs, centers, edgings, insertions, novelties, in fact any article that is crocheted can be made in maltese crochet. The collar shown above is made of white Shetland wool. The hairpins measure: Small 9x1⅜ inches, medium 9x1⅞ inches, large 12½x2¾ inches. Instructions in hairpin crochet work and for making this collar will be mailed to you upon receipt of 10c. The hairpins are 15c for each size, or 3 sizes for 35c.

Address HOME CRAFT CO., Dept. B, Nineteenth and St. Louis Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Inclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

Alterations in Place Names Not Infrequent

How folks in a community will change the real name of a place, a river, mountain, etc., by gradual differences in spelling and pronunciation, is brought out on "Uncle Sam's Handbook on Geographical Names," published by the United States Geographic board.

Sometimes the natives will entirely reverse the proper name of a place, by carelessness or as a joke, over a long period. Horse Creek in California, for instance, is now miscalled Cow Creek. Breteche Creek, Wyoming, has been called Britisher Creek a long time, perhaps because it sounds like that.

The board found that the word Ozarks was corrupted from the French words Aux Arcs, pronounced exactly the same way.—Washington Post.

To keep clean and healthy take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate liver, bowels and stomach.—Adv.

Attention, Cynics

The cynic is the man who has no courage.—Rev. Lynn Harold Hough.

Individuality

For each individual the world consists of his experience.

Win out WITH A CLEAR WHITE SKIN

End freckles, blackheads quick

Be lovely! Have the flawless, satin-smooth skin men admire! No matter how freckled or blemished your complexion, no matter how dull and dark, Nadinola Bleaching Cream will bring you flawless, radiant new beauty—almost overnight. Just smooth it on at bedtime tonight—no massaging, no rubbing. Instantly Nadinola begins its beautifying work. Tan, freckles, blackheads, pimples, muddy, sallow color vanish quickly. Day by day your skin grows more lovely—creamy white, smooth, adorable. No disappointments, no long waiting; tested and trusted for over a generation. Your money back if not delighted. Get a large box of Nadinola Bleaching Cream at toilet counters, or by mail, postpaid, only 50c. NADINOLA, Box 21, Paris, Tenn.

SAVES MORE TIME and WORK than a $100.00 WASHING MACHINE

Coleman SELF HEATING Iron

No Heating with Matches or Torch... No Waiting... Lights Instantly, Like Gas

REDUCE your ironing time one-third... your labor one-half! The Coleman Self-Heating Iron will save you more time and work than a $100 washing machine! Iron any place where you can be comfortable. No endless trips carrying iron from stove to board. Operating cost only ½¢ an hour. Helps you do better ironing, easier, quicker.

See your hardware or housefurnishing dealer. If local dealer doesn't handle, write us.

THE COLEMAN LAMP & STOVE COMPANY
Dept. WU86, Wichita, Kans.; Chicago, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Philadelphia, Pa.; or Toronto, Ontario, Canada. [858]

Three Simple Steps to Ease a Sore Throat in Three Minutes

1. Crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in ¼ glass of water.

2. Gargle Thoroughly—throw your head way back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat. Do this twice. Do not rinse mouth.

3. If you have a cold, take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Drink full glass of water. Repeat if necessary, following directions in package.

Modern Scientific Method Wonderfully Easy

REMEMBER PICTURES HERE

Here's a safe, modern and effective way to relieve sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Many doctors advise it and millions are following this way. Try it.

All you do is crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in ¼ glass of water and gargle with it twice—as pictured here. (If you have signs of a cold, take BAYER Aspirin and drink plenty of water.)

Get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. They disintegrate quickly and completely, making a gargle without irritating particles.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

MAKES DULL CARS LOOK LIKE NEW AGAIN!

It's marvelous the difference Simonizing makes in the appearance of a car. It brings back all the beauty and lustre your car had when new. Not only that, but Simoniz keeps the finish beautiful. So always insist on Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener for your car.

MOTORISTS WISE
SIMONIZ

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Rev. Sam Henderson preached at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Sunday.

The Rev. I. T. Carlton will preach at the Methodist Church, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Butler, of Elliottsville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, J. D. Jr., and Robert Harper, motored to Columbiana, Sunday.

Mrs. Jimmie Vernon and baby came home Saturday after a weeks stay in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Frost visited in Ebenezer Sunday p. m.

Mr. Bean, of Clanton, spent Saturday here.

Mrs. Virgial Horton spent the week-end in Lineville.

Mr. J. B. King went to Columbiana for the week-end.

Miss Henrietta Daviston was the week-end guest of Miss Mary Kate Harrison.

Tom Harper, of Elliottsville, spent a few days here last week.

Miss Dixie Peete is still on the sick list.

A large crowd attended the Prayer Service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, Saturday night.

If You Want The Best And That Is What You Should Have—You Will Find It Here——

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

——FOR——

New Cars--Used Cars

——SEE——

G. R. McNEILL

——WITH——

EDWARDS MOTOR COMPANY

Third Avenue at Sixteenth Street————Phone 3-5217
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA
"Alabama's Oldest Chevrolet Dealer".

Just a word about the SERVICE at the

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

RATES AS LOW AS $1.50

J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.

The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

Buy A

Crosley Shelvador Refrigerator

UNSURPASSED FOR:

CONVENIENCE,
SERVICE,
BEAUTY,
DEPENDABILITY.

PRICED $72.50 UP.

WHALEY FURNITURE CO.

Montevallo, Alabama.

LEGAL NOTICE.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
CIRCUIT COURT OF SHELBY COUNTY, IN EQUITY.
No. 1687

The State of Alabama, Complainant, VS. One Ford Sedan Automobile, 1930 Model, Motor No. A-2690152, Respondent.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 4th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in or claiming an interest in One Ford Sedan Automobile, 1930 Model, Motor No. A-2690152, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said county, which said Automobile is alleged to have been used at the time of such seizure for the purpose of illegally conveying or transporting prohibited liquors containing alcohol, from one point in this state to another point in this State, contrary to law, to file their claim in this court to the said Automobile on or before the 18th day of March, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this 4th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-7-2t. Register.

IN MEMORY

In memory of Mother who died on January 17, 1935.

Pearl Wood, Tallassee, Ala.
Chadwith Bruce, Calera, Ala.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
JEFFERSON COUNTY.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, as mortgagee in the hereinafter described mortgage, will sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash during the legal hours of sale on Saturday, March 23rd, 1935, in front of the main entrance of the Shelby County Court House, in Columbiana, Alabama, the following described real property situated in Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit:

All of Lot 3, and a strip of the uniform width of 15 feet off the northeasterly side of Lot 4, in J. H. Baker's survey of property located in Northeast Quarter of Southeast Quarter of Section 1, Township 20, South, Range 3 West, and the Northwest Quarter of Southwest Quarter of Section 6, Township 20 South, Range 2 West, according to map of said survey recorded in map book 2 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama; said property being more particularly described as follows: commence where the west line of the right of way of the paved Montgomery Highway crosses the north line of the Northwest Quarter of Southwest Quarter of Section 6, Township 20 South, Range 2 West; thence in a southwesterly direction along the west line of said right of way of said highway 529.14 feet for point of beginning; thence continue in a southwesterly direction along said west line of said right of way 262.54 feet; thence in a northwesterly direction parallel with the southwesterly side of Lot 3 to the west line of the Northeast Quarter of the Southeast Quarter of Section 1, Township 20 South, Range 3 West; thence north along the said west line of the forty to the northwest corner of the forty; thence east along the north line of the forty for 348.71 feet; thence an angle to the right of 22 degrees 39 minutes for 1268.06 feet to point of beginning; 8.91 acres, more or less.

Said sale is to be had under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Caroline H. Brown and her husband, T. D. Brown, to Bankers Mortgage Building & Loan Association on to-wit: June 26th, 1931, and recorded in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama, in volume 162 on page 434; said mortgage having been given to secure a certain indebtedness mentioned therein and said mortgagors being in default in the payment of said indebtedness.

BANKERS MORTGAGE
BUILDING & LOAN
ASSOCIATION, as mortgagee.
W. H. Woolverton,
Attorney for mortgagee. 3-7-2t.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

The twin Oak Bridge club met at its regular meeting Friday night at the home of Mrs. B. W. McDuffie. Mrs. Claud Bryant won high score. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe McDuffie have returned home after a stay in Birmingham.

The P. - T. A. of Dunnavant, is sponsoring the play, "Constable Jerry From Fulton's Ferry", to be given at the Dunnavant School House, on Friday night, March 22nd, at eight o'clock. Admission: 10 and 15 cents.

The members of the Friendship Club met at the home of Mrs. John Greene, Saturday afternoon. A good time was had by everyone. Refreshments were served to Mesdames Dave Denham, J. O. Dorough, W. M. Gallon, M. Bailey, J. F. Dodgen, E. D. Holladay, C. J. Davis, Misses Katherine Nolen, Flora George and the hostess.

Mr. J. O. and V. W. Dorough spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Extensive plans are being made to beautify the Dunnavant School grounds.

Miss Irma Greene is visiting friends in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Blackerby spent the week-end in Wilsonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Lokey are the proud parents of a baby girl whom they have named Martha.

CLASSIFIED ADS

LOST—One brown Jersey Cow, dehorned, medium weight. M. A. COLLINS, Calera, Ala. 1tp

FOR SALE OR TRADE—Four good young Fresh Cows for good young stock. WALTER E. LESTER, Route 1, Columbiana, Alabama. 3-14-1tp.

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately. Rawleigh, Dept. ALC - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

BOY SCOUTS

By WILLIE THOMASON,
Editor, Siluria, Ala.

We shall begin this column this week with just a word about our First National Jamboree. How many of you are planning to attend this Scout meeting in Washington on August 21st from Shelby County to help make up the 30,000 Scouts who will be present. Siluria is expecting to send at least two representatives. How about you?

To give you a better idea of just how many 30,000 Scouts require as far as menus go—we print the following: 4000 pounds of butter per day, 70,000 eggs for each breakfast, 7 1-2 tons of meat for each meal, 900 bushels of potatoes for one meal, 30,000 quarts of milk daily, 4,000 pounds of sugar per day, 15,000 pounds of bread daily, 1,200 gallons of canned vegetables per meal, 1,000,000 gallons of water each day, 100,000 flap jacks a day, in all 250 tons of food every 24 hours. 2,000 20-quart dish pans, 2,000 dish mops and enough soap to scour the sides of a battle ship for washing dishes. There will be 28 sectional kitchens, each capable of cooking for 1260 campers. 8,500 tents for sleeping; 180 hospital tents; 1,000 dining floors; 980 troops will be present. There will also be miles o ftelephone wires running through camp to take care of 100 telephones. 30 Post offices.

Can you imagine 70 tons of garbage going out of camp every day? There will be 5 250 tables which will require 9,400 yards of table oil cloth etc.

Another feature of the camp will be the publicity bureau where a camp paper will be published every day, and information given to the press and news reel picture hunters. Also a broadcasting and information bureau will be located conveniently.

Do not these figures make you long to be there? Get your Troops busy and see who will be the lucky bird to represent your Troop.

BLUE SPRINGS

A. P. Merrell and Howard Merrell spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Merrell and family.

Miss Effie Smith, of Columbiana, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith.

Mrs. Nellie Seale was carried to a Birmingham hospital and underwent an operation on alst Friday. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Rev. Doyce Mitchell filled his regular appointments here Sunday morning and evening.

Plans were made last Sunday for the painting of Blue Springs Church and it is expected work will begin at an early date.

Mr. Hebb, of Wilsonville, attended Service here, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roper, of Wilsonville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roper, Sunday.

Rudolph Miner visited at Vincent last Friday.

George Whorton visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Whorton last Sunday.

Miss Perrine Miner spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Forage Crops Reduce Hog Production Costs

AUBURN, Ala.—Farmers may reduce the cost of producing hogs by growing forage crops, says J. C. Grimes, head of the Animal Husbandry Division of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

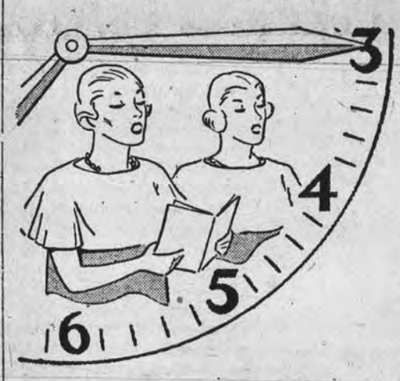
The crops particularly recommended for this purpose are sorghum, sudan grass, peanuts, soybeans, velvet beans, and cowpeas. The "hogging-off" of potatoes is also recommended as a supplementary feed on the sandy or light soils of the State.

Where hogs are raised strictly for home use, these crops may be grown on acres taken out of cotton production, he says..

PERMANENT WAVING

by REX, the Beautician, and his capable operators—

Artistic, Competent and Reliable.



BEAUTY SALON
(Balcony)
AT PIZITZ DEPT. STORE
Birmingham, Alabama.

COLD from Oil Heat

YOU can depend on the performance of SUPERFEX, the oil burning refrigerator. It is designed especially for use in your home in the country, and operates without outside power. Just fill the small reservoir with kerosene, then light and leave it. In about two hours, the burners go out automatically, and you have refrigeration for 24 hours, without bother or worry. A full year of efficient refrigeration for less than $10!

Home Appliance Co.

(MILTON ALLEN — E. E. CRAIG)
Montevallo, Alabama.

TAKE "Time Out!"

EVEN women who like to cook, enjoy taking "time out" from kitchen duties for those many other things which make an interesting life.

There is so much these days that progressive women can do with a few extra hours . . . Springtime gardening . . . church and club work . . . sewing . . . swimming . . . golf . . . motoring . . . dramatics . . . art . . the list is unbelievably long.

An electric range — with automatic time and temperature controls —will give you extra leisure hours every day. It cooks the meals while you're away, shuts off the heat when dinner's done.

During our Spring Appliance Sale, you can buy a modern Electric Range for as little as $3.50 down and $2.48 a month.

P.S.—Don't forget to ask about the new automatic HOT WATER HEATERS that can be bought for as little as $3.50 down and $2.27 a month.

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

"Pots and kettles black—
Don't you hate to clean them?
Try cooking with electricity
And stop the fuss between them!"

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electricity Is CHEAP In Alabama!

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1935 — NUMBER FORTY-NINE

7-12-35 Mary Sparks

COTTONSEED MEAL GOOD FOR MULES AS WELL AS COWS

Since domestic supplies of corn, oats and hay are seriously short, farmers throughout the South should give attention to the use of cottonseed meal as a mule feed, declares Dr. Milton P. Jarnigan, head animal husbandry department, College of Agriculture, University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia.

It is real economy to add two pounds of cottonseed meal to the daily ration of each mule or horse, replacing about four pounds of corn or oats.

Corn at $1 per bushel (56 pounds) is $37.70 per ton. One pound of cottonseed meal equals, as feed, two pounds of corn in mule and horse rations, giving a relative potential value of $71.40 per ton to cottonseed meal.

Cottonseed meal contains about four times as much protein as corn. Where it is fed as a protein supplement, in amounts required to properly balance the ration, it will have twice the feeding value, pound for pound, as corn.

A Georgia farmer, H. E. McMath, of Sumter County, writes:

"We place daily 1 1-2 to 2 pounds of cottonseed meal per mule in the feed troughs in which about 25 mules are fed. It is distributed over the corn on the cob. The next morning the meal has disappeared. The mules are in good condition, sleek and glossy, and this method of feeding is much cheaper.

"The protein content of cottonseed meal is much higher than corn, and does not make the stock pant and blow or perspire during the hot summer months as stock will do that are fed on corn along with hay."

To increase the palatability of cottonseed meal two to three pounds of salt should be sprinkled over each 100 pounds of meal fed.

In view of the fact that hundreds of carloads of corn are annually shipped into Alabama from other states, it would be of great advantage to Alabama farmers to replace much of this and consume their own home grown cottonseed meal, as the increased consumption of cottonseed meal would reflect back into increased price of cottonseed, advises livestock specialists of the Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn.

COBB CAUTIONS COTTON FARMERS

AUBURN, Ala.—C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section, AAA, has cautioned farmers "against planting more than 65 per cent of their base acreage with the anticipation of buying surplus exemption certificates at reduced prices in 1935."

"It will be our recommendation that provisions be made which will prevent surplus exemption certificates being sold much below the full amount of the tax," he says, and then adds: "We will also recommend that the tax be kept adjusted at 50 per cent of the price."

"It will be to the advantage of the individual producers," he declares, "to plant only 65 per cent of their base acreage because in no case will the bases used in making allotments of tax-exemption certificates be more than 65 per cent of a producer's base production."

CARE OF SWEET POTATOES TOLD

In the spring, just before the potatoes are bedded the seed potatoes should be disinfected by treating them for 8 to 10 minutes in a solution made by dissolving one ounce of corrosive sublimate in eight gallons of water, or that proportion. Only wooden vessels should be used for disinfection. Corrosive sublimate is a strong poison and should be kept out of reach of animals and children. This solution will not kill the stem rot fungus within the potato, but it will destroy any spores that may be on the surface.

If for any reason, corrosive sublimate cannot be used, the potatoes may be immersed for five minutes in a solution of formaldehyde made by adding one pint of commercial formalin to thirty gallons of water, or that proportion.

A. A. Lauderdale,
County Agent.

BASEBALL GAME TO BE AT SILURIA, SUNDAY

SILURIA, Ala.—The opening game of baseball will be played on the Siluria diamond on next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m., between the Birmingham Barons and Buck Creek Cotton Mills. Every one is cordially invited to attend. Admission 25 cents.

RITES CONDUCTED FOR I. GORDON ON THURS., MARCH 14

I. Gordon, former resident of Columbiana, and father of Mayor Harry Gordon, passed away in Birmingham on March 13th, 1935.

Mr. Gordon was born in 1867, in Russia, but for many years had made his home in Alabama.

Funeral services were conducted from Brown Funeral Home in Birmingham and interment in Columbiana.

The pall bearers included: Mayor Harry Gordon, Nathan Gordon, Leo Gordon, Andre D. Gordon, Harris Milton Gordon and Leo Friedberger. Honorary pall bearers were: J. R. White, Judge W. W. Wallace, Max Lefkovits, L. H. Ellis, C. E. Niven, T. R. Walton, P. O. Luck, J. H. Fulton, W. L. Christian, W. F. Davis, P. A. Davis, E. M. Young, and A. P. Longshore, Sr.

COTTONSEED MEAL AND HULLS GOOD FOOD FOR STOCK

The South as a whole is now awakening to the value of cottonseed meal and hulls in the rations of workstock. The great scarcity of grain throughout the nation pushed up the price of corn, oats and hay, and the South rubbed its eyes and began to look at its feed bill.

Millions of dollars have been sent out of the south annually for grain and hay to feed workstock. This year the feed bill more than doubled and the South became "feed conscious." Everybody began to ask what to do about it, The answer was found in the circulars and bulletins published by the Experiment Stations and Extension Divisions of Southern Agricultural Colleges. The uncovering of these printed facts got things going throughout the South.

The literature recommending the feeding of cottonseed meal and hulls to horses, mules and oxen together with facts that deal with the value of using cottonseed products for dairy cattle, beef cattle, hogs and sheep, shows the economical value of feeding cottonseed products to all types of livestock.

The farmer receives added benefit in the fertilizer as cottonseed meal retains about 80% of its fertilizer value in the manure through feeding.

By using these Alabama products in Alabama the farmer also enhances the value of his cotton seed.

HARPERSVILLE

Dr. and Mrs. Snow and son, were the dinner guests of Mrs. D. G. Kidd, Sunday.

Miss Mary Brumbaugh, of Birmingham, is the attractive guest of Miss Eva Ruth Brumbaugh.

Miss Lorene Davis, of Sylacauga, was the week-end guest of Miss Marjorie Darby.

Rev. Davidson filled his appointment here, Sunday.

Don't forget that Rev. Pate, of Birmingham, will preach at the Baptist Church Sunday. Come out and hear him.

Miss Annie Lee Borum and Mrs. R. W. Darby motored to Birmingham Thursday.

Mrs. Evelyn Wilson returned home Wednesday after a months visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Strickland.

Mrs. Arnold, of Rockford is the guest of her sister, Miss Carrie Kimbrough.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank our many friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our father and grandfather, also for the beautiful floral offerings we gratefully received.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon.
Andre D. Gordon,
Harris Milton Gordon.

ELWOOD GUNN, OF CALERA, CALLED BY DEATH MONDAY

Just as we go to press, we learn with sincere regret of the passing of Elwood Gunn, age 55, and life long resident of Calera, Alabama.

Mr. Gunn is the son of the late distinguished physician, Dr. Gunn, and has held a responsible position with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, for a number of years.

Funeral services were conducted from Calera on Tuesday morning, Walton in charge.

The Democrat joins a host of friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

TO OUR READERS, CORRESPONDENTS, FEATURE WRITERS:

Just a line of explanation should you miss some of the excellent material you have written this week, and which we had to set aside with the Personal Mention page to happily, gratefully and cordially welcome to our columns 15 Birmingham firms who have phoned in their desire to line up with the Shelby County Democrat, "Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly", for their rural advertising. We deeply appreciate this recognition of our efforts for the past three years to merit this "distinction", and we hope, when you are in Birmingham and need any of the within mentioned firms, persons or companies, that you will call by their place of business and let them serve you.

The regular features and community news is earnestly solicited for next weeks issue. Every one of you who have so steadfastly and loyally remained with us, are responsible for the success we are now claiming, and we remain gratefully yours.

We sincerely hope when you are in Columbiana and we can serve you in any way that you will come by the Democrat offices and see us or call us—Number 9.

SHELBY COUNTY GETS U. S. MONEY FOR SCHOOL AID

After conferring with Federal authorities in Montgomery on Friday, March 15th, Superintendent J. L. Appleton announced that Shelby County Schools were assured a normal term for the 1934-35 school year.

The terms approved by the Auditors were 140 days for Elementary schools, 176 days for long term and white high schools, and 160 days for the County Training School. These were the terms taught in 1930-31.

Teachers eligible for Relief Funds will be paid $60.00 per month by the Federal Government from January 15th, 1935. Teachers ineligible for relief will be paid for from a supplemental fund provided by the State of Alabama. It is also planned to pay salaries in excess of $60.00 per month from the supplemental fund. Pay rolls for two months are now being prepared in the Superintendent's office and will be completed at an early date.

P.-T. A., TEACHERS' MEETING CALLED FOR MARCH 23RD

The second and last meeting for this scholastic year of the County Council and Teachers will be held at the High School in Columbiana, March 23rd, from 9 to 12 o'clock. Every citizen interested in the Legislative program for the continuation of schools is urged to be present, as important matters are to be discussed. A very interesting program has been arranged. Dr. E. G. Howe, University of Alabama, will be the guest speaker.

Try advertising what you have for sale in The Democrat—it WILL sell.

Also see The Democrat for any kind of Job Printing—we guarantee perfect satisfaction.

Heart Drifts

TONIC.

When grieved with problems and woes and ills,
I take my way to the friendly hills
On old, companionate roads that wind
Thru field and forest; and there I find
That still the valleys are rich and green,
The air is good and the sky is clean,
The corn still marches in crested ranks,
The woods still wave on the mountain
flanks,
The squirrel knows where his nuts
are hid,
The river flows as it always did,
And the cows still graze in their old content,
In spite of human mis-management.
—(Guiterman)

GAY PANORAMA.

A wooded Gypsy trail,
A gay, lilting tune,
Pink root tea in a tiny cup
Over a single flame.
A bright carpet of brown, orange and red leaves,
A spicy odor of burning stick (pine)
A whiff of cool, fresh air with a peculian tang
Birds, chilly in the breezy air,
Twitter and hop from limb to limb,
A vivid scarf knotted carelessly at my throat
And I'm off for a brisk
Walk into the autumn woods.
—(Mildred Sparks)

YOU.

I have the sunshine, I have the streams,
Woodlands and meadows, magical
dreams.
Hopes dearly cherished, steadfast and true,
But—everything dear—just reminds me of YOU.

I have the mornings, I have the nights,
Sunlight and starlight, with their delights.
Bird songs and wind songs tell me you hear—
Still, I'd like you just a little closer—
dear.
—(Contributed)

DREAMS.

"May some Keeper of Dreams stand close, stand close,
And with kind and friendly fingers
Tenderly veil from our tired eyes,
All that would hurt if we grew too wise—
And woke to find that loved dream dies,
For life is much sweeter, while it lingers."
—(Contributed)

FRIENDS.

"Some FRIENDS are like silver,
They shine when skies are gay—
But when the clouds have turned to gray,
They somehow turn away—
Some FRIENDS keep their luster,
Thru shadows, darkness cold—
Such FRIENDS as you have been to me,
Are made of purest gold—
Let them take EVERYTHING but
YOU".

YOU AND I.

We've climbed together the ladder of years
We've shared together its blessings and tears
We've viewed together life's varying scenes,
Now—PLEASE don't leave me alone
with my DREAMS.

CEASING TO CARE.

If ceasing to care is to want you,
Each moment that we're apart,
If it's longing to hold and caress you
With every throb of my heart;
If ceasing to care is remembering,
And breathing your name in each
prayer,
If it's dreaming of you,
Night and day thru—
Then—dear, I'm ceasing to care.
—(J. Will Callahan)

LIFE.

It is easy enough to be happy,
When life flows by like a song—
But the one worth-while, is the one who will smile,
When everything goes dead wrong.
For the test of the heart is trouble,
And it somehow comes to us all—
While I like to share your sunshine
No sacrifice is small,
If you will but let me be
Near you—when the raindrops fall.
—(Contributed)

COMEDY WILL BE AT DUNNAVANT SCHOOL

DUNNAVANT, Ala. — "Constable Jerry from Fulton's Ferry", a comedy, will be presented at the Dunnavant School House on next Saturday night, March 23rd, 1935, at 8 p. m. Sponsored by the P.-T. A. Everyone is cordially invited. Admission 10 and 15 cents.

REPRESENTATIVES OF F. H. A. NAMED; FOUR IN COUNTY

Home ownership under the new insured mortgage plan of the Federal Housing Administration is getting underway in Shelby County and the workers in Columbiana and Vincent are already calling on the residents in these communities to explain the Government plan under which this system is now operated.

Mrs. Lida Wood is the worker in Columbiana, and B. M. Terrell, of Vincent, will give you the information desired in his locality. R. E. Bowdon, Sr., is the Calera representative.

There are 27 answers to the questions on Home Ownership which will cover almost any problem you may have confronting you which these workers will be glad to explain to you.

Montevallo is also allotted a worker, but has not been selected yet, according to the information received from the Relief Office in Columbiana.

Literature has been distributed from the Shelby County Democrat offices, and for further information, see your community worker.

B. R. ALEXANDER IS CALLED BY DEATH SUNDAY, MARCH 10

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—Mr. B. R. Alexander, age 83, of Montevallo, Route 1, passed away at his home Sunday a. m., March 10th. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 at Spring Creek Church with Rev. B. T. Allinder, of Bessemer, and Rev. W. M. Roberson, of Huffman, officiating, and Walton, of Columbiana in charge. Interment at Spring Creek Cemetery. Surviving are the wife; four daughters, Mrs. T. W. Ingram, Calera; Mrs. Vest Kendricks, Selma; Mrs. Harvey Nabors, Montevallo, and Miss Evelyn Alexander of Birmingham.

Three sons, Herman, of Akron, Ohio; Will, of Birmingham, and Glenn, of Montevallo, and also fourteen grandchildren.

Active pall bearers were: H. H. Killingsworth, R. D. Ingram, W. L. Ingram, Walter Hayden, P. M. Russel and Horace Alexander.

Honorary pall bearers were: C. T. Ingram, J. M. Allen, J. F. Allen, J. M. Frost, Charlie Frost, C. R. Knowles, J. E. Roach, W. R. Alexander and Joe Suenford.

Mr. Alexander became a member of Spring Creek Cumberland Presbyterian Church at an early age and has been an elder for many years.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

INTEREST GROWS IN HOME MAKERS CLUB

Interest continues to grow in the recently organized Home Makers Club of which Mrs. Bruton Lyon is President. Twelve members reported at the meeting held on March 15, and Quilting proved the worth while project for the afternoon.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Lyon in her home on Main Street on next Tuesday afternoon. All members and interested visitors will be welcomed.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the kind people who were so good to us in our recent sorrow, and also for their kindness and beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. B. R. Alelander
and family.

'COME EASY' WILL BE PRESENTED ON FRIDAY, MARCH 22

MONTEVALLO, Ala. — Perhaps every community has at least one charming happy-go-lucky family who follow the fortunes of life with a laugh, up one day and down the next, something always happens to put them on their feet again.

Such is the family around which "Come Easy" is written by the brilliant Felicia Metcalf.

It seems to be woman's specialty in the field of play-writing to depict the vagaries of domestic life, and Miss Metcalf has taken advantage of her material in a masterly way. The desire for new dresses which possesses any woman when prosperity hits the home, forms a leading theme of "Come Easy", as well as the desire for new furniture; and great is the consternation in this particular family when the bottom drops out of the markey and the folks are flat once more.

This sparkling comedy of domestic life will be presented by the Senior Class of the Alabama College Training School on March 22nd, at Palmer Hall. Miss Elizabeth Utterback is directing the play, and the cast includes the following: Freida DeMent, Boothton; Gene Lewis, Montevallo; Virginia Moore, Aldrich; Freda Camp, Calera; Ruth Collins, Calera; William Eddins, Calera; Earl Lindsy, Wilton; James Hardy, Newala; Julian Hardy, Newala; William Kroell, Montevallo.

Robert Eddings is Business Manager, assisted by Walton Kroell. Calvin Wilson is in charge of advertising. Gibson Jones will act as stage manager.

"Come Easy" promises an evening of real entertainment, and, as usual, the proceeds will go to buy equipment for the high school.

CULTURE CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. CHRISTIAN

Mrs. W. L. Christian was hostess to the Columbiana Culture Club on Thursday afternoon. Seventeen members answered to roll call. The Librarian and Treasurer gave reports. A program committee was appointed. Mrs. J. H. Crawford had charge of the program, and told many entertaining Irish Legends. Mrs. R. W. Peacock sang, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. L. Nichols. The hostess presented "Early Autumn", by Louis Bromfield, to the club library. Refreshments consisted of gum and white cream with cake, and favors of the program, and told many interest- next meeting will be with Mrs. Sidney Bird.

OFFER MADE TO BUY SORGHUM SYRUP

Anyone having sorghum syrup for sale may bring it to the County Agent's office in Columbiana. If the syrup is in gallon buckets, practically free from rust, you can get 30c net for it; one person allowed to sell not over 100 gallons.

A. A. Lauderdale,
County Agent.

RENTAL PAYMENT SCHEDULE GIVEN

AUBURN, Ala.—The rental payment on each acre rented to the Secretary of Agriculture this year will be 3 1-2 cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre, with a maximum rental of $18 an acre, announces the Agricultural Adjustment Administration..

Farmers will also receive a parity payment of 1 1-4 cents a pound on the farm allotment for each farm under contract.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful of us during the sickness and death of our beloved father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Nelson. May God bestow his richest blessings on each of you.

Huston Nelson,
Mrs. H. E. Archer,
Mrs. Stacey Johnson,
Ruby Nelson,
Talmadge Nelson.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

President's Proposal to Eliminate Utility Holding Companies Brings Storm of Criticism—Treasury Seeks to Simplify Nation's Currency Structure.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

THE President's special message calling for abolition of utility holding companies stirred up a storm that probably surprised even such an astute politician as Mr. Roosevelt. The President urged legislation to abolish those holding companies which were unable to show they were operated in the public interest. Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican leader, immediately attacked the message, claiming the President had denounced propaganda against the proposed legislation, and was himself propagandizing for it. Utility companies also swung into the battle, and thousands of investors in utility stocks are reported to have sent in protests to congress. In the senate, Norris, Nebraska Republican, offered a resolution calling upon the federal trade commission to investigate propaganda regarding the legislation. The senate approved without debate. Charges were made by utility companies that because of the administration's campaign against public utilities "the value of utility securities has declined by three and one-half billion dollars since 1933." Enactment of legislation to halt holding companies will cause enormous loss to the American family, one power official testified before the house interstate commerce committee.

Senator Norris

GREECE is mopping up the loose ends of the revolt. Some fighting is reported near the Bulgarian border where one regiment, part of the rebellious Fourth army corps, has declined to surrender, but the revolution is definitely over. Eleutherios Venizelos, ex-premier, and leader of the futile revolt, was reported a refugee at Rhodes, the tiny island where Julius Caesar was interned by pirates some 2,500 years ago. Venizelos was transferred there by the Italian government after he had been landed in Italy by one of the rebel warships. Gen. George Karmenos, rebel commander, is safe in Bulgaria, where officials have refused extradition. Rebel prisoners are being concentrated in camps, and courts martial are functioning in Saloniki, Kavala and Larissa, and military trials have begun in Athens. It is believed that only a few of the most flagrant rebels will suffer the death penalty. Venizelos is almost certain to be court-martialed in absentia, and banished forever. His elaborate home in Athens, and his valuable library have already been confiscated and will likely be converted to public use. Italy has refused to extradite him, although it is possible that new demands will be made by the Greek government, who will claim that he took funds from a bank in Crete. Unless he is surrendered, he will probably move to Paris where his two sons now reside.

THE senate smacked down Senator Huey Long for his filibustering tactics and his efforts to amend the administration's $4,880,000,000 work relief measure. The Kingfish had demanded alterations in the work relief bill which would take $100,000,000 away from the $600,000,000 earmarked for CCC work and allot it to students in colleges and universities. Long's amendment was defeated by a vote of 58 to 27. To prove that old adage of "politics makes strange bedfellows," Long was aided by Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who declared that the senate should have something to say about methods for spending the huge sum sought by the President. Johnson has heretofore been considered a supporter of the President. Long's amendment brought forth other proposed changes which should keep the senators busy arguing for several days. The bonus bill may be dragged in and an attempt made to make it a rider to the relief measure, and inflationists and leaders of other "ists" will insist on having their say.

ALL outstanding first Liberty loan bonds have been called for redemption by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. The $2,000,000,000 outstanding has been called for June 15, before which time the treasury will likely offer lower interest-bearing securities in exchange for the first Liberties, saving the government some $14,000,000 in annual interest charges.

NEW Deal policies took two more batterings as Federal courts held both the AAA and NRA unconstitutional as regards intrastate business. The administration might find some consolation in another ruling which held the radical Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill was valid. Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis, at Kansas City, declared the Frazier-Lemke law was constitutional, "although unwise in many of its provisions and almost incomprehensible matter." Judge Otis said his ruling was not the first in which the act was upheld, and that an appeal was already before the United States Supreme court and a decision might be expected shortly. The AAA was declared invalid as regards intrastate business by Federal Judge Ira Lloyd Letts at Providence, R. I., who issued an injunction restraining Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from enforcing the act against three Rhode Island retail milk dealers, on the grounds that their business was conducted entirely within the state, and the national government had no right to interfere. At Newark, N. J., Federal Judge Guy L. Fake ruled the national recovery act unconstitutional as applied to intrastate commerce "because it attempts an unlawful delegation of legislative authority." The latter decision agrees with that handed down by Federal Judge Nields in the controversial Weirton steel dispute.

CHANCELLOR ADOLPH HITLER'S "diplomatic" cold is over, and he will welcome Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to a conference beginning March 24. Accompanying Sir John will be Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, and disarmament authority. After the Berlin visit Eden will go to Moscow to talk with Soviet leaders. The Berlin conferences will discuss legalization of Germany's rearmament in exchange for an air Locarno pact with Great Britain, France, Italy, and Belgium, and an eastern security pact with Poland and Russia. Limitation of armament by all nations will also be taken up. The visit is complicated by a recent announcement that Germany possesses military aviation in violation of the Versailles treaty. Because of this, France may invoke the Rome accord with Italy and Franco-British declaration at London in support of its move to keep the reich from giving the air force official sanction.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU revealed plans to dip into profits from gold seizure to retire $674,625,630 of the national debt through the use of gold certificates. Potentially inflationary, it will deprive national banks of the power to issue currency, and save the government an annual interest charge of $13,500,000. Questions on inflationary implications were avoided by treasury officials, but they admitted the plan would "put gold back to work which can be expanded."

Secretary Morgenthau

The maneuver will place in the hands of the federal reserve banks $674,625,630 of gold certificates, which must be used as backing for issue of the same sum in federal reserve notes to retire the bonds. Note issue against the bonds could be expanded if currency demands warranted, to about $1,687,500,000, since a federal reserve note need not be backed by more than 40 per cent gold or gold certificates in like percentage. What will happen will be the immediate simplification of our currency system. The treasury and federal reserve banks will have all the authority to issue money. The plan involves retirement on August 1 of $674,625,630 of 2 per cent federal securities and substitution of federal reserve notes for $657,937,080 of outstanding national bank currency. These bonds will be retired with surplus funds created by devaluing the Roosevelt dollar from 100 cents to 59.06 cents, gold. The total profit was $2,812,000,000.

National bank notes issued by national banks against federal securities represent more than one-tenth of the nation's circulating currency. The administration's program likely means the permanent abandonment of the national bank note which has been used since the Civil war. The circulation privileges expire on all bonds deposited by banks and held in trust by the treasury on July 22, 1935, except on two issues. By calling for redemption, the treasury will retire all securities bearing "circulation privilege" and national banks will no longer have suitable security for issuance of their own notes.

COMPLETE collapse of the administration's long battle to regulate prices in the steel industry is seen in an NRA offer to give up, and in charges by the federal trade commission of a fiasco of collusion. The trade commission insists that price-fixing be scrapped, and no prosecution of steel companies under the anti-trust laws. The trade commission charges that under the code the steel companies have fixed and raised prices on government contracts, in defiance of competitive bidding requirements. Bids were identical, and then steel executives slapped fines of $10 a ton on members who let the government have steel cheaper, the commission says.

DEMONSTRATORS numbering approximately 2,000 marched into the Minnesota state capitol at St. Paul and harangued legislators with demands in behalf of the idle ranks. Threats were made to picket the capitol unless demands were met.

THE house appropriations committee favorably reported out the Department of Agriculture appropriations bill for the 1936 fiscal year. A cut of $513,878,758 was due largely to a $411,022,428 slash in the AAA item. The total bill calls for $653,278,758, of which $570,000,000 would go to the Agriculture Adjustment administration activities. At committee hearings it was explained that it is impossible to estimate how much would have to be obligated because of the crop control program, but the AAA item was a rough estimate of processing tax collections and is not controlling. Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, told the committee that the farmers' share of the national income is now about 10.2 per cent, and that it should be 13 to 16 per cent.

Sec'y Wallace

Wallace said "true prosperity" cannot come "until there has been a very material increase in the output of physical goods, industrial goods."

"If in some way it were possible to turn out 50 per cent more industrial goods at a price definitely lower than the present price," the secretary testified, "the result would be to make it possible for agriculture to buy more with the agricultural dollar and there would be more factory workers to be fed in the cities."

EVEN though the senate will not act immediately on the "pink slip" bill to repeal income tax publicity, income tax figures will not be available to the public for six months, according to internal revenue officials. While it is likely the publicity act will be repealed, the house having so voted, it is not anticipated that the senate will act on the measure for some time. Even though the latter might not act favorably, there remains considerable work to be done before the figures can be made public, and income tax payers may be confident that prying neighbors cannot have immediate access to such information. In the senate a drive has been started for higher federal income and corporation taxes.

FRENCH courts have formally indicted 19 persons, including Mrs. Stavisky, for the Stavisky scandal that rocked the government after the financial debacle, which caused losses of millions of francs to investors, had broken, Stavisky, known as "Handsome Alex," died from a gunshot wound as police tried to arrest him in January, 1934.

AFTER twenty months of bargaining, the documents conveying full title to the Chinese Eastern railway to Manchukuo were initialed in Tokyo, thus eliminating Russia as a factor in Manchukuo. The written approval of the agreements was signed by Koki Hirota, Japanese foreign minister; Dr. Constantine Youreneff, Soviet ambassador to Japan; and by Gen. Ting Shih-Yuan, Manchukuoan minister of finance. The consideration was 140,000,000 yen, or about $39,300,000. The documents require that all three governments approve them before their formal signing about March 23. Thus is ended forty years of Russo-Japanese contention for domination.

A NEW gold suit is menacing administration financing and money policies. The suit reopening the question of investors' claims for payment of 1,800 million dollars of government bonds in gold or an equivalent, is brought by Robert A. Taft, son of the late chief justice, over the sum of $1.07. Taft demands either payment of bonds in gold or suspension of all refunding of the gold clause certificates. Before going to court, Taft presented to the treasury a $50 gold clause Liberty bond and four $1.07 interest coupons attached, and demanded gold for both, but was refused. The suit may force the administration to close the loopholes left by the Supreme court decisions, if that is possible.

THE Mendieta administration in Cuba has established a military dictatorship over the island, constitutional law has been suspended, the death penalty for rebels imposed, and military governors designated for Havana and provinces. Washington is watching the situation with keen interest. Bombings and rioting are increasing, according to reports, with ten dead and fifteen injured. The objectives of the opponents of the government is the removal from office of President Mendieta and Colonel Fulgencio Batista, chief of the army. The strike has become almost general, nearly paralyzing all activities in the island. Repressive measures taken by the government to quell the strikers strongly resemble the strong-arm methods prevalent in the Machado regime, according to observers.

THE senate passed the army appropriation bill, and it now goes to the house. The measure adds $20,000,000 to the original bill, making the total appropriation of $400,000,000 almost a record high, and will add 46,250 to our army strength, making the total of enlisted men 165,000. Warm talk flowed freely as the senate debated the measure. Senator Lewis said that conflict might come between Russia and Japan and he asked: "With the army of Russia and the navy of Japan, where do we stand?" Senator McAdoo also speaking in favor of the bill said:

"Unless we want to continue to be a boob nation, we will not hesitate to make this increase in the army. It is justified by the wisdom and the necessities of national defense."

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—In connection with the proposed international loan to China—aimed at preventing the Japanese from obtaining a strangle hold on that market—a very interesting development, with a group of American manufacturers behind it, is under way. The government knows about it, but has taken no action.

Representing manufacturers who use tungsten, an American is now in China investigating the possibility of obtaining a very large amount of this valuable metal—enough to supply all the needs of this country for a period of years. The idea would be to ship this tungsten from China to Seattle or some other Pacific port, there to hold it as a sort of pool. Supplies would be sold from the pool as needed by the manufacturers.

The main object is not to aid China, but to stabilize the price in this country of tungsten. The price has fluctuated over a tremendous range, amounting to several hundred dollars a ton for tungsten ore! This is a situation, which is naturally most embarrassing to those using it, as it makes much more difficult the making of contracts which have any length of time to run, especially contracts where any sizable fraction of the cost is based upon the price of tungsten.

But if the plan succeeds it will be of enormous benefit to China. The supply of tungsten bought would be so large that it would run way up in the millions of dollars. This would provide a credit for China here for any imports she wanted from this country. It would not be barter in the sense that the word has been used, for example, in connection with the proposed exchange of half a million bales of cotton with Germany for blocked marks. But it would provide China with a large amount of exchange in this country on which she could draw. And the best of it, as the State department folks see the situation, though they are taking no part so far in the maneuver, is that it would provide a natural stimulus to trade, with no attempt to force goods along new channels, and with none of the difficulties and barriers with which most of the proposed barter agreements have been afflicted.

Wouldn't Stop Imports

Nor would it even put a stop to imports of tungsten into this country, thus depriving China of a natural source of exchange. Under the proposed plan, just as much tungsten would be imported from China for the three years, say, following the arrival of the huge shipments to make up the pool, as though the pool had not been created. In a way this would be a reserve supply, which would be replenished by purchases from China as fast as it was depleted. For the object of the pool is not to buy all at once a supply for a long period, and then not to buy again until the pool is exhausted. The object is just to obtain price stabilization. If the price should shoot up to a point the managers of the pool thought unreasonable, they would sell, but do no purchasing until the price should decline. If the price should fall too low, heavy purchases would be made, certainly to the limit of the pool capacity.

In effect, advocates of the plan point out, the organization of the pool would be an advance to China of some millions of dollars, in exchange for a valuable commodity, so that no element of credit would be involved—as between China and the United States. But it would serve just as useful a purpose as if the government—as desired by Britain and others worried about the Japanese credit to China—had advanced the money. Which is very important to the treasury because only the most optimistic think if the money were lent it would ever be repaid.

Those working for the pool say there would be no difficulty in financing the original purchases, as banks would be glad to lend money on tungsten stored in a bonded warehouse.

See Trouble Ahead

A simple relief measure for Porto Rico has opened up with probability of troubles and repercussions from now on, and involving not only Porto Rico but the Philippines, Hawaii, Cuba, and Louisiana, not to mention the beet sugar states.

It all grew out of the visits to Porto Rico by Mrs. Roosevelt and by Professor Tugwell, who happens to be undersecretary of agriculture as well as a brain truster. At least, critics of the move so insist.

What happened finally was that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace signed an order permitting excess sugar cane in Porto Rico to be ground into molasses and then brought into the United States. This means, of course, that the sugar so ground was—until this order—in excess of Porto Rico's quota. It could have been sold abroad, on the world market, or it could have been plowed under.

Obviously this move disturbed the whole quota set-up. Already Hawaii had been screaming that this very quota was ruinous to her. The beet sugar people had accepted it because they could get nothing better, but were far from happy. And the Cubans thought they were pretty nearly ruined.

AAA has not paid much attention to Louisiana sugar producers. They had been benefiting. The price for their molasses had risen from 2 to 7½ cents a gallon during the past year. In fact, the sugar section of AAA claims that Louisiana has profited more than any other section from the sugar program.

This was due to a more or less unexpected development—the widespread use of molasses for the production of alcohol. And therein lies more trouble from the Porto Rico decision.

Hits Corn Belt

For it brings the corn belt boys up standing—and screaming. They have fought bitterly for years for all kinds of legislative devices to increase the price of corn. Many of them backed the proposal to force all motorists to use a mixture of alcohol—made from corn—with their gasoline. This was never enacted, but there has always been pressure for it, and it illustrates their interest in any proposal affecting the use of corn.

Now whisky men agree that neutral spirits for blending with straight whisky should be made from grain. They insist that the taste is different; that alcohol made from molasses does not produce as delectable a drink as if the alcohol had been made from grain, despite the chemical similarity.

And it so happens that the prime movers for this dispensation to Porto Rico on molasses, outside the Porto Rico interests themselves, were liquor people. Those most interested happen to be located in Philadelphia. Which presents a double-barreled argument for opponents of the concession.

Louisiana finds herself supported by the corn belt in protesting against this upset on the sugar quota, whereas just recently the corn belt was sore with the liquor people for using molasses from Louisiana. Moreover, the corn belt boys are sore because if the price of molasses had kept on mounting, as the Louisiana planters had hoped it would, the liquor people would have turned back to corn anyway.

But the end is not yet. For the liquor people are not satisfied, even with the concession on Porto Rican molasses. Now they want the same concession made for the Philippines—despite the fact that the sugar interests were most potent in the fight to give the Philippines their independence in the hope of eventually getting rid of Philippine competition on sugar.

So now the Philippine agitators will join the liquor people in insisting on having Philippine molasses—in excess of her sugar quota—admitted into the United States. And the corn belt boys are preparing to make Mr. Wallace's life miserable.

Long Perturbed

Huey Long is said by some close friends to be just a little perturbed about the selection of ex-Gov. Dan Moody of Texas to prosecute alleged tax evasion cases in Louisiana. This is one reason Long has been making such a crusade against Postmaster General James A. Farley. He hopes to do just about what Senator Burton K. Wheeler did to Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. And what Senator James Couzens of Michigan did to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. In short, to beat them to the punch. So that when later developments are aired the country will get the impression that Long is being "persecuted."

It is no secret that the government thinks it has the goods on Huey. There is no doubt whatever that Dan Moody was convinced, in his recent interviews here with Department of Justice and treasury officials, that they had a good case.

The really interesting part of the story is why Moody was picked. It was on the recommendation of some very high New Deal advisers who knew the Texas situation intimately. They clinched their case for Moody when they told of the prosecutions that made him famous.

At that time Moody, only thirty-two years old, was attorney general of Texas. He went after a group, which was suspected of having made some fat profits out of road contracts. He did a masterly job of investigating first, and then so enmeshed the small fry that before they knew what they were doing they had dragged the higher-ups into the picture. So the astonishing picture was held up to Texas of actually putting the big fellows—the men behind—in jail.

Made Moody a Hero

All of which made Moody a hero. He was elected governor and then re-elected. In fact, his popularity lasted until he, although a Baptist and a thirty-second-degree Mason, decided to support the nominee of the Houston convention for President. This happened to be Al Smith, and Texas did not take kindly to Smith's candidacy. Nor to its popular governor supporting him. This is important at the moment for several reasons. First, because Moody knew he was running counter to public sentiment. He told friends at the Houston convention that he did not think Smith would have a chance of carrying Texas if nominated. As a delegate he did not vote for Smith, but for Jesse Jones. But Al Smith once nominated, Moody took the unpopular course and went through for the New York candidate.

So that while his judgment was sound, his determination to do what he thought was the right thing regardless of consequences was also demonstrated. Afterward he retired to private life, and has been doing pretty well since at the practice of law.

The Long case promises to put him back in the national picture. His friends are enthusiastic about his prospects. He is only forty-three now, so he can wait. But they are sure he will wind up with the scalps of both the Kingfish and Gov. O. K. Allen, as well as many of their lieutenants. Which would make him a figure all over the country.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

BIG EATERS AT FESTIVAL

Frenchmen who pride themselves on their capacity for food enjoyed themselves at the three-day banquet held in connection with the annual Stomach festival at Rouen. Most of them were fat, and a prize was given to the one with the largest girth. Prizes were also given to the consumer of the largest meal, and to the one who downed the greatest number of oysters. The best and rarest dishes of Normandy were served at the three-day meal.

Victory

The victory of success is half won when one gains the habit of work —S. A. Bolton.

WHEN YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE

...use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

That Point Settled

First thing made sure of at a family reunion is plenty to eat.

CREOMULSION

Your own druggist is authorized to cheerfully refund your money on the spot if you are not relieved by Creomulsion.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

DAHLIAS and GLADIOLUS: 100 varieties, both new and old. Reasonably priced. Write for list. TOMPKINS DAHLIA GARDENS, R. 1, Lebanon Road, Nashville, Tenn.

Look at your Skin

Is it Pimply, Blotchy Red and Rough?

If so, Use

Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c.

HAVE YOU INDIGESTION?

Mr. J. W. Lingo of 1416 Sardis St., Memphis, Tenn., said: "I didn't feel right at all, had no appetite and suffered from indigestion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery built me up, gave me an appetite and made me feel all right again." All druggists. New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering impurities from the blood stream. But kidneys get functionally disturbed—lag in their work—fail to remove the poisonous body wastes.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains; feel "all worn out."

Don't delay! For the quicker you get rid of these poisons, the better your chances of good health.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They tend to promote normal functioning of the kidneys; should help them pass off the irritating poisons. Doan's are recommended by users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

Mantilla Seems to Be Losing Favor in Spain

The mantilla or lace wrap draped over a high comb is used less and less in modern Spain, writes the Madrid correspondent of the Observer, London. A Spanish writer, Don Jose Romero Cuesta, has written an interesting account of the history of the mantilla, which gives some interesting facts about the most typical features of Spanish dress.

Senor Romero Cuesta traces the mantilla back to the Seventeenth century, but says that it was only early in the Nineteenth century that the lace mantilla came into use. Those worn today are usually made of a mixture of silk and cotton, and one of moderate quality costs $12. As much as $70 is sometimes paid for one.

Family festivities, such as marriages or the visits to the "Seven Churches" on Maundy Thursday, are the only occasions when the mantillas come out into the daylight in these modern days, although rather more use is made of them in some provincial towns, especially in Andalusia. The simple "vela," a mere wisp of black gauze, is, however, much used by all classes of women in Madrid, who prefer to go hatless, but must, of course, cover their heads if they enter a church. The "Manton de Manilla," or elaborate Spanish shawl with decorations, usually in color, is often used at evening festivals.

FERRY'S PUREBRED VEGETABLE SEEDS

you grow ONLY what you plant

ALL the sunshine, good soil, fertilizer and cultivation in the world won't help poor seeds produce big, tender, flavorsome vegetables. The quality must be in the seed. And that quality must be inherited from generations of parent plants and seeds of the same quality. Ferry's Vegetable Seeds are purebred. They reproduce what their parents and great great grandparents so lavishly bequeathed them.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD STORE SELLS THEM IN FRESH DATED PACKETS FOR ONLY 5c

Our Own Friends

Happiness grows at our own firesides, and is not to be picked up in strangers' gardens.—Douglas Jerrold.

Whitens, Clears The Skin Quickest Way

No matter how dull and dark your complexion; no matter how freckled and coarsened by sun and wind, Nadinola Bleaching Cream will whiten, clear and smooth your skin to new beauty, quickest, easiest way. Just apply at bedtime; Nadinola, tested and trusted for over a generation, begins its beautifying work while you sleep. Then you see day-by-day improvement until your complexion is all you long for; creamy white, satin-smooth, lovely. No disappointments, no long waiting for results. Money-back guarantee. Get a large box of Nadinola Bleaching Cream at your favorite toilet counter, or by mail, postpaid, only 50c. NADINOLA, Box 15, Paris, Tenn.

Love

Love is better than spectacles to make everything look great.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Says Cardui Soon Helped

"My mother was such a believer in Cardui that she gave it to me," writes Mrs. Sam Ferrara, of Hammond, La. "I was suffering with my back and side. I would get so dizzy I could hardly stand and then have a weak feeling in my back. This made me very nervous and I did not rest well at night. I felt better after my first bottle of Cardui. I took two bottles and felt a great deal better. It certainly is a fine medicine."

Successfully used over fifty years. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO — Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

GOLDEN DAWN

By PETER B. KYNE

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Knowing detectives are on her trail, she disappears, and McNamara learns that she has sailed for France.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

—19—

"Santa Claus has been good to you two, hasn't he? Well, are you both willing to go back to your regular jobs now?"

Flynn threw the money on the chief's desk. "We swore an oath—" he began, but McNamara cut him short.

"So have I!" he reminded Flynn fiercely.

"We know every move you've made in this case," Flynn shouted.

"And I knew every move you were going to make before you made it."

Angelloti tucked his present in his pocket. "Come on, Flynn," he urged.

"I can't be called off for money," Flynn persisted stubbornly.

Dan McNamara swept the money on his desk into the drawer. "The widows and orphans of the Policemen's Benevolent and Protective association will be glad to get this. On your way—you and your oath."

Flynn sighed deeply and went out. Fifteen minutes later he came back and said humbly: "Chief, I've changed my mind."

Alas! McNamara was Irish, too. He glanced at the clock. "You're fifteen minutes late, so I'll fine you two hundred and fifty dollars for tardiness and impudence and disloyalty and housebreaking."

"I'll get you for this, McNamara!"

"I don't think so. My advice to you, Pat Flynn, would be to quit monkeying with TNT. I've known detective-sergeants to be taken for a ride."

"Threatening me, eh?"

"Not at all. I wouldn't harm a hair of your red head—and by the way, red hair in the Irish is a sign that they breed back to the Danes and Swedes. A pure-bred Irishman would know enough to lay off a girl with powerful and implacable friends. All you were after was a hundred and twenty-five dollars—half the state reward for recapturing that girl—and when she sends you double that you're not sport enough to meet her half-way."

"I took an oath," Flynn mumbled.

"You should have taken a physic."

"Well, I did take an emetic. Chief I'll never forgive you those tear and stink bombs."

"Well, you shadowed my house and entered it unlawfully."

"Well, I found a lipstick—"

"Belonged to the nurse I had looking after a sick friend of mine," the chief lied glibly.

But Flynn only grinned ferociously. "I found stained bandages, too."

"Well, the pot can't get nowhere by calling the kettle black," McNamara decided. "Clear out!"

"Give me the money and I'll lay off."

But Dan McNamara shook his head. "I know your kind, Pat. There's no sense wasting good money on you because you won't stay bought. Clear out, I tell you."

So Flynn cleared out, carrying with him infinitely more respect for his chief than he had heretofore entertained. Well, some day he'd collect heavy interest on that two hundred and fifty dollars.

* * * * * * *

The last patient had left Stephen Burt's office for the day and the ever watchful Lanny had locked the office door.

"Tired, Stevie?" she queried anxiously, as he loaded his pipe.

"No, of course not," he replied abruptly. "What have I done to be tired?"

"Well, you had another session with that terrible Mrs. Merton."

"She doesn't weary me any more. She merely excites my sympathy. Still sleepless, of course, and still bothered about her poor devil of a husband. She's had detectives on his trail for a month. They've cost her ten dollars a day each and they haven't discovered anything to Merton's discredit."

"It's about time for Mrs. Merton to commence hearing voices of sorts," Lanny commented dryly. "Highball, Stevie?"

"Yes, thank you, Lanny," he said, and deluged Lanny with his sunny smile. "Yes, Mrs. Merton is hearing voices. Her first husband who is dead keeps whispering through space to her. He's trying to tell her how sorry he is. I understand he made a dirty will."

"He would—if he had any common sense. What a poor, beaten devil Merton is! He hasn't the courage of a mouse."

"What can he do, Lanny? His wife is unbalanced, but if he swears out a warrant charging her with insanity, she'll snap out of her lunacy. Mrs. Merton isn't sufficiently insane to be incarcerated. And she's a beautiful woman, well-to-do, respectable. Merton couldn't get to first base on an insanity warrant."

"Then why doesn't he divorce her on grounds of mental cruelty?"

"The man's chivalrous and profoundly sympathetic. Besides, he hasn't any witnesses to prove a charge of mental cruelty. And he can't run away from her, because he has a thriving business he may not abandon. I told her again today not to come to my office any more; that I could do nothing for her; that she was a nuisance—and to try some other doctor. She went out in a rage."

Lanny jumped up. "Now who do you suppose that is knocking? Your office hours are plainly printed on the door."

"Oh, Lanny, don't be so hard-boiled. Let the patient in."

"Who's there?" Lanny shouted angrily.

"Oh! So it's you, is it? I knew you were there," the voice of Dan McNamara boomed.

Lanny unlocked the door. "Lucky for you you're not a nut, Dan. Stevie and I are just pinning one on."

"I'll join you, if that's the case." McNamara proffered his huge hand, that resembled nothing so much in life as a bunch of bananas. "Howdy, Medico." He planted himself in the visitors' chair.

"You have news of Nance Belden," Stephen challenged.

"Gobs of it, Doctor."

Lanny entered with a highball. "I had a letter from Nance yesterday, Dan. She's in Paris. Can you beat that?"

"I can," McNamara replied coolly. "She's got an apartment at twenty-seven Rue St. Honore, with a cook and a maid, and a chauffeur who drives her around in a Citroen car. And she's having her picture painted."

"She's written you, too, then?"

"Divil a line. I have my information from the prefect of police of Paris."

"Dan, you're marvelous!"

"What's more, Lanny, she's living with her normal personality."

"How do you know?"

"She registered as required by law, under her real name of Penelope Gatlin. I've known her name since the day after her escape from San Quentin."

"Get Over to Paris as Quick as You Can," McNamara Commanded.

McNamara proceeded to relate the tale he had previously related to Stephen, who had neglected to retail it to Lanny. "Well, if this isn't a h—l of a tale, Dan!" she said.

"Does it beat your news, Lanny?"

"Beats it by a mile, although while she was at my house she told me as much about herself as she could remember."

"This morning," McNamara continued, "the president of the Security Trust company telephoned me that the girl's mother had called him up to ask if Penelope had been cashing any checks lately. The banker gathered that the mother has a notion her daughter's dead. She doesn't like the idea of having to wait seven years to have the girl declared officially dead before she can lay claim to Penelope's estate."

"Did you find out the name of her mother?" Stephen asked.

"Oh, yes. She's married again, you understand. Naturally she didn't get any information out of the banker. He's on to her, and it was none of her business whether Penelope has been cashing checks or not."

"Get the girl's case record, Lanny," Stephen commanded. "What is her mother's name, Chief?"

"Mrs. Rudolph Merton."

"She's a patient of Stevie's!" Lanny yelled. "She's such a nut the squirrels chase her."

Stephen finished writing and laid down his pen. "I told you, Lanny, that Mrs. Merton wasn't insane enough to be confined."

"Guess I've got Lanny's news beaten, after all, Stephen. This Mrs. Rudolph Merton is the girl's foster-mother."

"Hooray! Hooray! Hooray!" cried Lanny. "How do you know? Did the banker tell you?"

"No, I dug the information up myself."

"Why? How?"

"Why? I wanted to investigate the girl's fortune. So yesterday I had a copy of the will and a copy of the appraisal of the estate made at the courthouse in San Jose and sent up to me. Gatlin stated in the will that he left all of his estate to his beloved adopted daughter, Penelope Gatlin. At the time of his death his estate was worth practically half a million dollars and has since doubled in value. Nance Belden is a lost heiress."

"Not wholly lost," Stephen reminded him. "There are times when she remembers who she is and that she has money."

"She doesn't know anything about her mother," Lanny declared. "I asked her, but she could tell me nothing. And she was Penelope Gatlin when I asked her."

"There is a reason for that." Doctor Burt's scientific mind was already racing along this new trail. "Penelope has had a wretched childhood; she knew nothing but unhappiness up to the time she received the shock that threw her mental gears out of mesh. She hated her mother with a terrible hatred. Feared her, probably. Then she made up her mind to forget her mother. And the will to forget was so strong that she succeeded.

"Not only did she forget her mother but her entire past life as well. Well, she ran away, and she'll never find her way back until she acquires sufficient courage to face the old issues again, surmount them and defeat them."

"But is that possible?" McNamara asked.

"Quite. She will have to have assistance and the sort of treatment I think I can give her, and she must have assurance that never again will she be subjected to the old unhappiness. By the way, I wonder if Penelope was a love child. Have you looked up her parentage, Dan?"

"I haven't. Can't you ask Mrs. Merton about the girl?"

"I suppose I could. But if lunacy ran in the family of her father or mother, I'm not going to bother with Penelope."

"If you decide to take her on, we'll have to get her back into this city," McNamara mourned, "and Flynn will pick her up."

"We'll fix her nose first," Lanny said.

McNamara beamed upon her. "Her criminal photographs and Bertillon measurements are gone to glory, Lanny. What did Penelope say in her letter?"

"Not a great deal. She said, among other things, that after leaving my house she found two hundred dollars. So she returned it."

"Give me that two hundred, Lanny. Stephen, our little thief is honest."

"As one personality she would remember you gave her two hundred dollars, but as the other she couldn't remember who gave it to her," said Lanny.

"Get over to Paris as quick as you can," McNamara commanded, "or she'll be stealing the Eiffel tower."

"Stephen can't spare me," said Lanny.

"Stephen can spare you," he decided.

"It's got to be," McNamara urged. "Nance fled the town with a letter of credit for ten thousand, but she'll go through that like a weasel through a rat hole. Take a bankroll with you, Lanny, and when you get there take charge of her funds."

"And have her nose done over while you're there," Stephen urged.

"There's a hitch," said Lanny. "The girl evidently got a passport in New York—"

"Not in New York. In San Francisco," McNamara interrupted.

"Well, will a strange photograph on her passport get her back into the United States?"

"She can go to the American consul in Paris, and present proof that she's the same woman with a different nose," Stephen said.

"She'll do nothing of the sort." McNamara was very emphatic. "When her trail is lost it will be lost forever. Lanny, when you have that new nose built for the girl, have half a dozen new passport photographs of her taken, and send them and her passport to me. The seal of the United States of America is on the passport and covers a part of the photograph. I know a man that'll make me a seal that would fool the American eagle himself. We'll fit it down over the old seal and stamp the new photograph. Then I'll send it back to you—and may God have mercy on my soul, for you can blackmail me for that the longest day I live," Dan cried.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Naming the U. S. A.

The name United States of America is really an evolutionary product, a name which began to develop as soon as the colonies banded themselves together, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Some of the old local coins refer to the "Unity States of America." The Declaration of Independence asserts "that these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states." It also speaks of them as the United States of America. So do the Articles of Confederation and Constitution. The "authority" by which the name is used is that of the people, as delegated to the Continental congress and the other bodies which shaped the form of our government.

MAN NOT ALWAYS HELD ENEMY BY WILD CREATURES

There was once a time of universal friendship, or at least mutual tolerance, between man and the animals, declares Dr. Walter Hough, curator of anthropology of the Smithsonian institution. This situation is contrary to the theory that in the early days there was mutual antagonism between man and the lower creatures, causing a "tooth and claw" relationship.

"There are still remnants of this original 'Eden' in isolated parts of the world," states Doctor Hough, who has been tracing the method by which man domesticated animals. The trail of most of the domesticated animals leads back to central Asia. There, Doctor Hough believes, early man had a temperament especially adapted to inspire friendship and confidence among his fellow creatures.

"Observers in new countries," Doctor Hough says, "have recorded with surprise the lack of fear by animals. . . . There still remain in remote parts zones of peace, where animals are unaccustomed to fear. One such zone was found in Tibet by naturalists of the British Mount Everest expedition. . . . Another instance was called to my attention by a member of our own staff, who observed the lack of fear among the animals during his exploration of St. Lawrence island, Alaska.

"The above leads to the generalization that domestication is not the province of cruel and fear-engendering men. Domestication came about in zones of peace and was accomplished by peaceful men through kindly methods. The coming together of such fortuitous circumstances as animals suited for domestication and men of the peaceful, patient type undoubtedly was found in Asia, where our domestic animals originated."

Horse Still Survives

In its first enthusiasm over the Machine age, the world prepared to say farewell to the horse. But horseflesh remains as hardy as ever and refuses to be shoved into oblivion. One of the predictions was the disappearance of the war horse, in favor of motor cars, trucks, tanks and motorized artillery batteries. Motorized artillery was given a thorough test by the United States army, and the verdict was that the horse could never be entirely displaced, for his superiority in rough country and over muddy roads was clear. The War department now has announced its plans for mechanization, and the horse gets ample recognition. Effective December 1, 41 artillery units will be motorized, but 33 horse-drawn batteries will be retained.

Big Figures for Relief

"What comes after a billion?" asked the girl who was copying statistics.

"Everybody," answered Senator Sorghum.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Firestone

GROUND GRIP TIRES

THAT 6,000,000 FARMERS NEED FOR THEIR CARS, TRUCKS AND TRACTORS TO PULL THEM THROUGH MUD, SAND OR BAD ROADS OF ANY KIND

YOU don't need chains, for these Ground Grip Tires will pull you through where chains would leave you stranded in mud or sand. Firestone Ground Grip Tires for motor cars, trucks and tractors give the farmer greatest economy ever offered, and relief from being stranded on mud roads and in soft ground.

Why can Firestone give you these wonderful new tires with the wide tread that withstands this terrific pull and strain, and still does not destroy the cord body? Firestone can do this because the body of this tire is built with Gum-Dipped cords. Underneath the tread, the patented construction feature of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped High Stretch cords gives extra adhesion of the tread to the cord body, enabling Firestone Tires to hold on this heavy, tough, scientifically designed tread. This tire cleans itself on any kind of clay or soft ground, and the tread projections have been so placed, that they are always in contact with the road, doing away with any bumping.

You cannot afford to be without these tires on your trucks and passenger cars. If your tractor is not equipped with rubber tires, see your nearest Firestone Service Store — tire dealer or implement dealer, and learn how easy it is to make the changeover. Get our prices on a full line of tires and auto supplies.

Firestone

COURIER TYPE $4.33 UP		GROUND GRIP TYPE $10.90 UP
30x3½	$4.33	4.50-21	$10.90
		5.00-19	11.75
4.40-21	5.08	4.50-20	11.50
		5.50-17	13.90
4.50-21	5.60	5.25-18	14.15
4.75-19	5.92	6.00-16	15.70

Other Sizes Proportionately Low

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Listen to the Voice of Firestone—featuring Richard Crooks, Gladys Swarthout, or Nelson Eddy—every Monday night over N. B. C.—WEAF Network . . . . A Five Star Program

Firestone EXTRA POWER BATTERY For 20% More Power

Firestone SPARK PLUGS For Quick Starts, Long Mileage

Firestone AQUAPRUF BRAKE LINING For Better Braking Control

© 1935, F. T. & R. Co.

J. B. Gorman and Sons Seed and Supply Co.

Located at 2330 2nd Avenue North in Birmingham.

It is the duty of each and every man to see that he gets a maximum return from every acre of his land and to do this it is absolutely necessary that he use modern and scientific methods.

They have gathered together a line of the latest and best known seeds which they are now offering at prices so reasonable that they have caused an increase in the food production in this community.

Their large and varied stock is of a dependable quality and through their system of purchasing in enormous quantities and their experience they are enabled to offer astounding values to the public. The unusual extent of their volume of business reimburses them and warrants a continuance of their policy of small profits on all sales.

They enjoy the fullest confidence of a large number of planters and farmers.

Only the best in nationally known and reliable brands will be found in their stock. It is always economy to buy the very best, and seeds are no exception. 39 years of reliable dealings with the patrons of this section.

ALBERT BOUTWELL, Attorney

With offices in the Massey Building in Birmingham.

In the hurly-burly of business, education and politics, represented by countless mercantile and manufacturing interests, by the city goyernors and by the schools, there is bound to be both friction and salve. The tempests are called forth and allayed. The part the lawyer plays in this drama is really of a soothing nature, although most people take the contrary view.

They insist that lawyers create contention. The constructive ability of such a legal light as this man must be regarded as one of the helpful influences which tend to make any city great. He is a lawyer in broad sympathy with the community's business development. That is what makes up the character of the builder, and a man does not need bricks and mortar to build well if he is willing to give the best that is in him—in his own character, and cement it with the best that is in others. It is instructive and necessary to contemplate the activity of the leading business builders of the city of the quiet men who never carry a hod but who carry ideas in their head and strength of purpose in their hearts, and thus help to build a citadel which will withstand that which bricks and mortar never would.

FEED COTTONSEED MEAL AND HULLS TO HORSES, MULES AND OXEN.

CORN AND HAY SUPPLY SHORT.

The 1934 Corn crop in the United States is seriously short—about one billion bushels below normal. The domestic Hay crop is also short. Cottonseed Meal and Hulls can replace corn and hay in rations. Conserve your corn and hay by substituting Cottonseed Meal and Hulls in daily feed for horses and mules. Cottonseed Meal is a very rich and concentrated feed. One pound of Cottonseed Meal will replace two pounds of corn or oats.

See your County Agent or nearby oil mill for information on feeding Cottonseed Meal and Hulls to all types of livestock.

The Democrat

Published Every Thursday Morning at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter At The Post Office In Columbiana, Alabama, Under Act Of Congress, March 3, 1879.

FRANK HEAD, Editor and Publisher

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Associate Editor.

CALERA NEWS

Mrs. John Denham was hostess Tuesday afternoon at her home from 3 to 5, in honor of Mrs. Charles Lake, with a surprise shower. Spring flowers were used in decoration. A delightful plate luncheon was served to 20 guests. Miss Brannon assisted Mrs. Denham.

The M. E. Missionary Society held a study class on Japan this week.

Miss Lavada Curtis, of Opelika, was the guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Curtis, Sunday.

The guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dodge, Monday, was Mr. W. T. Outlaw, of Birmingham.

Mrs. Louis Bowdon and son, Mr. Wilson Bowdon, of Birmingham, spent Thursday with relatives and friends here.

Mrs. S. M. Tomlin and Mrs. John Denham motored to Birmingham, Monday.

The annual Basketball tournament met at the School Auditorium, Saturday. The P.-T. A. served coffee and sandwiches to a large crowd.

Mrs. Richard Parker spent Monday in Birmingham.

Mrs. P. Aldridge was in Birmingham Monday.

Mrs. G. T. Murphree was at home Monday evening in honor of her Sunday School Class. Games and contests were enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

The many friends of Mr. Elwood Gunn will regret to hear he has pneumonia.

Miss Mildred Jones, of Dargin, spent the week-end with Mary Thomas and Nina May Seale.

Mrs. Jenkins and son, Billie, of Helena, spent teh week-end with her sister, Mrs. Roy Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Heck, of Birmingham, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dodge.

YOU'LL never hear this exclamation again—after you have installed an ELECTRIC WATER HEATER. When one of your family wants hot water, all they'll have to do is turn a tap. Instantly, crystal clear water will come gushing forth! And at such little cost!

Rid yourself of this complaint about "no hot water." As little as $3.50 down will introduce the comforts and conveniences of automatic hot water service to your home. You can pay the balance in 30 months.

Now, while our Spring sale makes these low prices possible, is the best time to rid your home of the "no hot water" nuisance ONCE AND FOR ALL!

● Remember, too, that an ELECTRIC RANGE means a clean, cool kitchen. Select the model you want this week! Prices as low as $77.50. Convenient terms.

ALABAMA POWER CO.

Electricity is CHEAP in Alabama!

REDDY KILOWATT

Your Electrical Servant

"Let me heat your water
For bath, laundry or dishes,
After you try me you'll find
I've gratified your hot water wishes."

HEADLINERS

IN THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL LIFE OF

BIRMINGHAM

This directory is an official guide for the convenience of Shelby County people, who need articles and various kinds of services, they cannot find at home. The headings are indexed so that you may use them rapidly and conveniently. You will find here most any line you are seeking in Birmingham with leading concerns. This directory will save you time and money.

Auto's and Repairs

Notice To Chevrolet Owners.

The next time you are in Birmingham, and you are having trouble with your Chevrolet, it will pay you to drive by

EDWARDS MOTOR COMPANY

16th St., and 3rd Ave. N.,

and have your car checked by our expert mechanics at our reasonable rates now offered.

Beauty Schools

BE A BEAUTICIAN—Earn $20 to $35 per week—Good operators in demand. This school is prepared to give you a most thorough training. Day and night classes.

WOODALL INSTITUTE of Beauty Culture
Marinello Method - 205½ N. 21 St.

Chiropractor

LADY CHIROPRACTOR and PATHOMETRIST
COLONIC IRRIGATION
Men and Women Accepted
Male Attendant — 3-6708
JUANITA JOHNSON
513 North 19th Street

My professional concern is just two things—your Health and My Reputation—Therefore I shall accept only the cases which I beleive I can help.

Dr. A. H. Kessler
CHIROPRACTOR
PATHOMETRIST
200—5 Farley Building

Feeds

Corn And Hay Supply Short

The 1934 Corn crop in the United States is seriously short, and the domestic Hay crop is also short. No better substitute can be had than Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls. You already know they have no equal as cow feed, but did you know that your mules, both idle and work stock, will thrive on Meal and Hulls?

Auburn recommends them. Write for feeding formula for all purposes. Our Green Toy Meal is the best—Try it and see!

Farmers' Ginners Cotton Oil Co.

Furniture

ATTENTION

Engaged Couples and Brides To Be!

Cedar Chest Free
See Us For Details.

SOKOL BROS.
1818 1st Avenue North

Grinding

We grind all edge tools—specializing on razors, clippers and shears. Also sausage plates and knives, bacon slicers and choppers.

BIRMINGHAM GRINDING WORKS
527 N. 18th Street.

Livestock

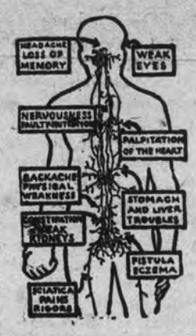
HERRIN, HORSE AND MULE CO.
2701 2nd Ave. North
Dealers In
HORSES AND MULES.

All animals they sell are guaranteed to be as represented. They deliver Mules by trucks which makes them as close to you as your local dealer.

"WE SELL OR TRADE".

Poultry

IDEAL BABY CHICKS



are all the word implies. They are pure bred, blood tested and bred to-day, and if given half a chance will grow. Our heavy varieties are $7.95 delivered and our Big English White Leghorns are $9.00. White and black Minorcas, giant size, $9.00. Send us your hatching eggs. Our equipment is all electric, and we will give you a big hatch.

IDEAL HATCHERIES
211 N. 24th Street
Birmingham, Alabama
Long Distance Phone 7-5400

These Birmingham firms are the Leaders in their respective lines, and are always glad to serve you. Give them a trial.

Medical Specialist

Piles Treated Without Surgery
By "Conservative Ambulant Methods"

I have an instructive illustrated copyrighted booklet which I will send free on request if you have piles or other rectal trouble. Write today for a copy and learn about the method by which you may be successfully treated in 90% of rectal trouble without surgery—without the use of chloroform or ether, if treatment is taken in time. This method of treatment has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Don't say it can't be done—that's what they told Edison, Marconi and others. There is no greater blow to progress than CONDEMNATION without INVESTIGATION.

Many and varied reflex conditions in various parts of the body are due to troubles of the Rectum, as the cut herewith shows.

MAIL THIS TODAY
I have rectal trouble. Please send me free copy "Rectal Diseases Cured Without Surgery." This request does not obligate me in any way.
Name.....
Street..... Town.....

DR. M. D. KELLEY
414½ N. 20th St., Birmingham, Alabama
Phone 7-5383 P. O. Box 415
Hours: 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. Sundays: 10 A. M. to 12 Unless By Appointment.

Optometrist

DR. J. H. TINDER
Optometrist
EYES EXAMINED
OPTICAL WORK
627-28 Comer Building
Birmingham, Alabama
Phone 7-2885

I WILL BE GLAD TO SEE MY OLD FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS OF SHELBY COUNTY.

TELL THESE ADVERTISERS THAT YOU SAW THEIR ADVERTISEMENT IN THE SHELBY COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

Roofing

THE FINEST ROOF MADE
Interlocking Steel Shingles
Last 30 to 40 years.
Need no painting.
Easy to nail on.
Fire-proof.
Will not break, crack, nor curl.
Cool in Summer, Warm in Winter.
Cost only $5 per sq.
For the best roof—the life-time roof—use galvanized pressed steel shingles.

Birmingham Fence & Roofing
520 N. 28th St. - Dial 3-8538

Seeds

J. B. Gorman & Sons Seed & Supply Company
ESTABLISHED 1898

SEEDS, PLANTS, BULBS AND FERTILIZER

PHONE 3-7291
2330 SECOND AVE.

Give Us A Trial.

Hernia and Rupture

DR. H. G. BOWDEN
Why be bothered with RUPTURE or HERNIA when it is eliminated without operation. Dr. H. G. BOWDEN, specialist has perfected an appliance which has proven successful in the most stubborn cases even after operations have failed. These are made according to your needs. Consultation void of charge. WE GUARANTEE RESULTS.
517 Chamber of Commerce Building ——— Phone 7-1816

SOUTHERN HARDWARE STORES

Wholesale and retail garden and field seeds. Located at 2313 2nd Avenue North in Birmingham.

If you select your seeds from this well known concern you will be assured the highest quality seeds on the market. Their stock includes only such merchandise as have been tested and have proven germination percentage. They stand behind the stock and give their years of experience and a large list of satisfied customers as their best reference.

The stock not only includes field seeds of all kinds; it also includes garden seeds, flower seeds and a general line of supplies for keeping up lawns and gardens.

The proprietors of this store invite the public to make this place their headquarters when in town and are glad to render any little service for your convenience. It affords us much pleasure to refer this seed company to our readers, and if they will give this establishment a trial, they will be convinced of the highest productive value. Their past reputation is your guarantee for the future.

DR. O. FORTNER, Chiropodist

With offices in the Watts Building in Birmingham.

The profession of Chiropody should be one of the utmost importance and we can not fail in this comprehensive review of our country's progress to devote some space as a well merited tribute to the excellent work performed by this eminent Chiropodist.

During the years that he has been in active practice he has gained a valuable clientele due to his demonstrated ability as a practical Chiropodist.

His office and establishment is equipped in the most modern fashion with the latest equipment and developments in the field of Chiropody.

He offers a very complete service in the profession, including treatment of corns, bunions, callouses, and in fact everything that may afflict them.

Those who secure his services are sure to be pleased, as he is a gentleman who performs his work in a thoroughly conscientious manner and he is sure to satisfy the most exacting. He has gained the respect and good will of all who have had dealings with him, and we predict for him a most successful future in his chosen profession.

HENRY L. ANDERTON, Attorney

Located in the First National Bank Building in Birmingham.

The history of our country from the beginning, shows that many of the keenest minds of every generation, have been attracted to the legal profession. This is perhaps, a natural condition, since in that field exists the greatest opportunity for the exercise of intelligence and talents to the service of mankind. Whatever may be the chief factor contributing to this condition, it is an established fact that in mentioning the names of a given number of people who are entitled to classification as the most useful citizens of this community the members of the legal fraternity loom large.

Among the members of the local bar, who by their achievements are entitled to more than ordinary reckoning is Henry L. Anderton, one of the most prominent attorneys of the city.

Broad of vision, keen, forceful and energetic, he has advanced to his present position of leadership in his profession by the constant pursuit of those ideals which actuated the efforts of the early lawyers of the province in founding the bar of this state. It is such men of affairs who are factors to be reckoned with in the advancement of our community.

FINN BEAUTY SHOP

Located in Birmingham at 117 1-2 North 19th Street.

This beauty shop is a center for beauty culture that is adding much to the life of the ladies of this part of the state.

They have fitted the shop according to the late and modern ideas of science and thus offer the public the best of service. Every electrical device and article of equipment that has been approved by th etrade is here installed for the convenience of the public. Here are employed operators who are thoroughly competent. Massage and manicure treatment is featured which gives the customers a full and complete service.

It has many booths and features a comprehensive service in modern, scientific beauty culture. They are all cosmeticians of the most advanced ideas. The styles of the day are understood and no matter whether you desire the coiffure, manicure, massage, marcel, water wave, scalp treatment or permanent waving, they are able to assist you so that all beauty service will conform to your individuality and add to your beauty and charm. All work is performed according to the latest scientific discoveries and the prevailing styles of the day. They treat your hair to become your personality.

——Complete——
FUNERAL PROTECTION
——No Age Limit——
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

General Electric Refrigerators
All Steel Cabinet
Sealed-In Mechanism
With 5 Years Protection Against Failure of Mechanism.
SPECIAL TERMS:
5 Cu. Ft. Size
$7.00 DOWN and $7.00 PER MONTH
HOME APPLIANCE CO.
(Milton Allen — E. E. Craig)
MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
Circuit Court of Shelby County, In Equity. No. 1691.

The State of Alabama, Complainant VS. 1931 Chevrolet Coupe, Motor No. 2574846, and Stanley Harrison, Respondent.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 14th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in or claiming an interest in 1931 Chevrolet Coupe, Motor No. 2574846, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said county, which said Automobile is alleged to have been used at the time of such seizure for the purpose of illegally conveying or transporting prohibited liquors containing alcohol, from one point in this state to another point in this State, contrary to law, to file their claim in this court to the said Automobile on or before the 1st day of April, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this 14th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-21-2t. Register.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
Circuit Court of Shelby County, In Equity. No. 1692.

The State of Alabama, Complainant, VS. 1 Ford Automobile. Motor No. A-525306, 1929 Model, and George W. Moore, Respondent.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 18th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in, or claiming an interest in 1 Ford Automobile, Motor No. A-525306, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said County, which said Automobile is alleged to have been used at the time of such seizure for the purpose of illegally conveying or transporting prohibited liquors containing alcohol, from one point in this State to another point in this State, contrary to law, to file their claim in this Court to the said Automobile, on or before the 1st day of April, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this the 18th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-21-2t. Register.

KINGDOM NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Anderson and two children, Fredrick and Joe Thomas, spent Sunday at Calcis as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ordice Rascoe.

The boys who went to Sylacauga last week for the tournament were: Judson and H. I. Martin, Henry Moon, Hubert and Clarence Kirkland, James Lovett, Jr., and Nathan Mooney. They didn't bring home a loving cup, but some of them came in proudly sporting medals which they won on the ball court.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lewis have named their young son, John Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Anderson spent Sunday at Sterrett with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillary Williams and family, of Bessemer, were week-end guests of Mrs. Williams sister, Mrs. J. M. Templin.

Floyd Crumpton and little Mona Floye, are ill with flu at the home of Mona Floye's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Riley. We wish for them a speedy recovery.

A study course was held at the Baptist Church last week and was taught by Rev. E. E. Wells. The book, "Outlines of Bible History", was completed and examination given on Saturday night.

SPECIAL!
16 OZ. BENZOIN AND ALMOND LOTION
---39c---
——Worth More——
Come To See Us!
COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
Circuit Court of Shelby County, In Equity. No. 1693.

The State of Alabama, Complainant, VS. One Slot Machine, No. 18472, R. L. Lynch and A. A. Holman, Respondents.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 18th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in or claiming an interest in One Slot Machine No. 18472, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said county, which said Slot Machine is alleged to have been used as a gambling device, contrary to law, to file their claim in this Court to the said Slot Machine on or before the 1st day of April, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this 18th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-21-2t. Register.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Rev. I. T. Carlton delivered a very impressive sermon at the Methodist Church Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Lester Fitts filled the pulpit at the Underwood Baptist Church and Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, Misses Lee Esther and Henrietta Daviston and Mary Kate Harrison, spent Sunday in Elliottsville.

Miss Nettie Fortenberry was carried to a Birmingham hospital Sunday for an appendix operation. We hope she will soon be home again.

Miss Jewell Harrison was the guest of Miss Zella Vernon, Thursday.

Miss Doris Osburn is visiting her brother this week.

Mr. L. B. Riddle, of Columbiana, was a visitor here, Thursday.

Rev. Sam Henderson will preach at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. T. V. Peete and babies, were guests of Mrs. O. V. Farr, Sunday.

Mr. J. B. King spent the week-end in Columbiana.

Miss Eleanor Peters, of Ebenezer, was a visitor in Underwood, Sunday night.

Miss Dixie Peete continues to be very sick.

If You Want The Best And That Is What You Should Have—You Will Find It Here——
DAVIS DRUG CO.
In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.
Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

WHEN you are suffering, you want relief—not tomorrow—not next week—but right away. DR. MILES ANTI-PAIN PILLS relieve in just a few minutes—less than half the time required for many other pain-relieving medicines to act.
Next time you have a Headache, or Neuralgia, or Muscular, Sciatic, Rheumatic, or Periodic Pains, just take an Anti-Pain Pill. Learn for yourself how prompt and effective these little pain relievers are. You will never again want to use slower, less effective, less palatable medicines, after you have used Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills.
I am much pleased with your Anti-Pain Pills. They sure are wonderful for a headache and for functional pains. I have tried every kind of pills for headache, but none satisfied me as your Anti-Pain Pills have.
Ann Mikitko, St. Benedict, Pa.
DR. MILES' Anti-Pain Pills

LUQUIRE FUNERAL HOMES INS. CO.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA
Legal Reserve Funeral and Cash Policy
BURTIS F. HAMRICK
—Representative—
MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA

When In Montevallo, Visit
Wilson Drug Company
The Rexall Store.
We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.
Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL
FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.
RATES AS LOW AS $1.50
J. A. DRIVER, Mgr.
The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

YELLOW FRONT STORES
Groceries Dry Goods
Where Quality Prevails at Low Prices
SPECIALS - MARCH 22 & 23 - SPECIALS
24 LB. BAGS -- Guaranteed Quality
Flour G. Washington and Delicious 85c
:-: Enamel Ware :-:
AGAIN THE YELLOW FRONT BUYS A SOLID CAR LOAD OF ENAMEL WARE. THE SAVING OF THIS PURCHASE IS BEING PASSED ON TO YOU. ALL FIRST QUALITY MERCHANDISE, STRONGLY MADE FOR LONG WEAR.
Wash Bowls, nice size, each - 10c
-:- MILK PANS -:- 2 or 3 Qt. Size .. 10c; 6 Qt. Size 15c
- PUDDING PANS - 2 or 3 Qt. Size .. 10c; 6 Qt. Size 15c
-- COFFEE POTS -- 2 Qt. Size 25c
-:- DIPPERS -:- Nice full size .. 10c
Tea Kettle 7 qt. size 69c
Sauce Pan 4 qt. size 15c
Water Pail 10 qt. size 39c
Spring Piece Goods
NOW! SHOWING THE MOST COMPLETE LINE OF PIECE GOODS WE HAVE EVER ASSEMBLED. HIGHLY STYLED AND CHUCK FULL OF QUALITY AT LOW PRICES.
STAPLE GOODS. WHITE GOODS, VOILES, ORGANDIES, BANJO CORDS, LINENES, BROADCLOTH, PRINTS, AND A PARADE OF SILKS YOU CAN'T RESIST —— BE SURE TO VISIT THIS DEPT.
-: Romance Crepe :- Colors, Copen, Pink Flesh, Jap Red, yard 25c
Starlite Rayon Satin Colors, White, Pink Yellow, Blue, yard 49c
A CLASSY SPORT PIQUE, yard 15c
SOLID COLORS — PINK, BLUE, YELLOW.
New Spring Prints Fast Colors, Checks Stripes, Figures, yard 15c
Avondale Gingham LINEN FINISH — Per Yard Large Checks, Small Checks, Fancy Checks 10c

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Sympathetic

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Sold

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Pleasant News
Air Fleet Controls
Nordic Max, Jewish Max
Gen. Dawes Sees Joy

It is pleasant to read a Washington dispatch saying that the government will establish a great airport in Hawaii near Fort Kamehameha, named for the last king of Hawaii.

Arthur Brisbane

The idea is to keep enough bombing planes there to take care of unwelcome flyers or surface ships arriving from Asia.

It will be more pleasant to read, as you may do later, that the government plans to establish a powerful air base on the island of Guam, which we are free to fortify, now that the Washington conference agreements have been repudiated and our silly pledge not to fortify Guam is wiped out.

Thanks to airplanes, the Greek rebellion is crushed. The old Greek patriot, Venizelos, leading the revolt at the age of seventy-two, fled from his home on the Island of Crete across the Aegean sea to an Italian island for refuge.

Weeping, the old man vowed that he would never again set foot on Greek soil. A rebel cruiser took Venizelos to the protection of the Italian flag. Then, last of the fleet that had rebelled, the cruiser Averoff surrendered to the government.

Max Schmeling, German heavyweight prize fighter, beat Mr. Hamas with ease and says, "Now we get Baer." Baer, you know, is the world's heavyweight champion. The fact that he is a Jew, and not a blue-eyed Nordic, with the back of his head as straight up and down as a board fence, is said to annoy Mr. Hitler.

It will interest Hitler and others. A hard-hitting "Nordic" meets Max Baer, a tall young Jew, who laughs while he fights. The meeting will settle nothing. Racial supremacy does not depend on the fist. But in New York city it ought to draw a crowd, gigantic, and a "gate" of about one million dollars.

General Dawes, once Vice President, always busy, now visiting General Pershing at Tucson, Ariz., says: "America is on the verge of real economic recovery. Its natural force, and human nature, are definitely working for recovery, and in May of this year, positively not later than July, the nation will know the depression is over." Well, it is a pleasure to have somebody at least say so, even though they may have to say it over and over year after year.

The California assembly votes 58 to 17 in favor of the Townsend plan. The state senate, however, revolted and defeated the resolution calling on congress to enact the old age pension bill. It is not possible for the United States to pay twenty-four thousand million dollars every year, the total cost of giving $200 per month to every man past sixty.

It does not cost the assemblyman anything to vote for the impossible, and it makes him feel politically safe.

H. G. Wells is in America to write about the New Deal. He will find some good applicable descriptive copy in his book, written long ago, "Doctor Moreau's Island."

Doctor Moreau performs some strange and horribly cruel operations in the effort to make animals speak and otherwise act like human beings.

Mr. Wells will find the new era performing strange operations on business men, to make them speak the new business language.

New Yorkers are told that all workers pay in taxes in various ways the earnings of one day every week. The man who has $5,000 a year pays $1,000 toward the support of government. Some men with bigger incomes, busy just now borrowing money with which to pay taxes, could tell a more interesting story.

When watches were first made a Frenchman said it was strange that man, with genius and intelligence enough to make a watch, should be superstitious enough to believe in ghosts. It's more strange that the human race with sufficient intellect and will to fly, travel underneath the ocean, and talk around the world, without wires, should be feeble and foolish enough to believe in a permanent depression. The belief in ghosts is slowly disappearing. Let's hope and believe the depression will disappear more rapidly.

The national ladies' hairdressers' convention, gathered in Toronto, is informed that platinum blonds are on the wane and red-haired women, politely called "titian," are rising in favor. The platinum blond is a modern invention, a passing thing, whereas the woman with red hair antedates all the governments and civilization that we know, and may outlast them.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

COLD OR HOT?

IT'S a little tube about half the size of a steel knitting needle and about as round. It influences our behavior, our markets, our clothes and our comfort. You've guessed it. It's a thermometer!

Back in 1592, there was a professor of mathematics at the University of Padua named Galileo. He was fond of puttering with tubes and acids. Being Greek, he christened one brain child that he fashioned "thermos" for warm and "meter" for measure. It was a glass tube containing air connected to another glass tube that was set in colored water. Galileo could hold the air bulb in his hand and find a measure of heat that his own body had supplied.

Up to 1640, however, there was no agreement as to what scale should be used on the fascinating instrument. Some wanted the freezing and boiling points of water and others suggested that the freezing point of water and the melting point of butter be used for extremes. In between, the space could be called temperate!

In 1714 Fahrenheit of Danzig evolved a scale, using the interval of 180 degrees. The freezing point of water was given as 32 degrees and the boiling point at 212 degrees. This gradation had many advantages for meteorological work and is still in use today.

This is the only invention that has such a background of universal co-operation from scientists of all nations. Reamur, a French physicist, invented a scale in 1727. Anders Celsius, professor of astronomy at the University of Upsala, proposed a scale in 1742 with a freezing point of water at 100 degrees and a boiling point at zero. These degrees were reversed some time later by Christin of Lyons and became the centigrade scale. It's a tremendous trifle—that little glass tube!

* * *

FLAG-AVENGER

MR. JOHN T. FORD is happy. It is a big night for his theater in Washington. The gifted Laura Keene is starring in "Our American Cousin," and in the audience will be no less a person than the Chief Executive of the nation.

So—"Decorate the box in which the President will sit. Yes, of course it should be draped with the American flag." Thus, the orders of the owner of Ford's theater.

The play begins. One of the most appreciative in Laura Keene's audience is that quiet sad-faced man in the stage box.

A slender dark young man enters it and stands for a moment behind the President. Suddenly he steps forward. "Sic semper tyrannis!" he shouts. There is a sound of a shot. The head of the President drops forward on his breast. The young man lets his pistol fall, draws a dagger, slashes an army officer who grapples with him. Now he mounts to the rail of the box, ready to leap down to the stage.

But at that moment, the spur on his riding boot catches in the flag which drapes the box. He falls to the stage with his left leg doubled under him. The bone snaps but he hobbles out of the theater.

That broken leg, however, will become so painful that he will have to stop at the home of a kindly doctor for aid. His well-laid plans for a quick escape southward will be upset. He will be overtaken, shot down in a burning barn.

That bit of red, white and blue bunting, when its folds caught the spur of John Wilkes Booth, was the avenger of the assassinraion of Abraham Lincoln, that tragic night in April, 1865.

* * *

$34,000,000 AN ACRE

ONE of the familiar legends of American history is that the Dutch bought the whole island of Manhattan from the Indians for $24 worth of rum, beads and other trade goods. Remembering that, consider this item of real estate values:

A few years ago one of the Mrs. Vanderbilts wanted to buy a plot of ground in East Fifty-Seventh street between First avenue and the river. On it stood one of the five brownstone mansions, built in the '70s by Harvey Dennis, a leading realtor of his day. An examination of the abstracts revealed a flaw in the title to a narrow strip of land which ran straight through the middle of the site on which the house was built.

So experts in a title guarantee and trust company were set to work. It was necessary to hunt up the six Dennis heirs and get them to sign a quitclaim deed.

The search for the heirs was a long one. After writing more than 300 letters, they were finally located. They agreed to sign the quitclaim deed for $200 apiece—$1,200 in all. That wasn't much, of course. But neither was the land to which they were surrendering title. It was exactly 18 feet long and one inch wide—a little over one and one-half square feet. But it cost Mrs. Vanderbilt $5.50 a square inch.

If you could get the same price for your farm it would be worth $34,499,520 an acre!

© Western Newspaper Union.

Extreme Chic in This Frock

PATTERN 9986

If you've been following the latest trend in style news, you know that the classic shirtwaist frock is still one of Fashion's pets. And here's a delightful version of it. The sleeves and shoulders are cut in one to give a nice smooth line, and make them easy as a, b, c to fit. The bodice with a trim slot-pleat at the back to match the chic of its buttoned front closing is smartly gathered to the yoke—the long skirt seams end in jaunty inverted pleats—and the patch pockets follow the latest mode by being rounded instead of square. Make it of a rough crepe and put an impudent little contrasting bow at the throat for added chic!

Pattern 9986 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern department, 232 West Eighteenth street, New York.

Smiles

SOMETHING NEW

Tired Business Man—Take dancing lessons? Well, I guess not! There are too many other ways by which I can make a fool of myself.

His Loving Wife—Yes, darling, but you've tried all of those.

Revenge

The lady was visiting the aquarium. "Can you tell me whether I could get a live shark here?" she asked an attendant.

"A live shark? What could you do with a live shark?"

"A neighbor's cat has been eating my goldfish, and I want to teach him a lesson."—Portland (Maine) Express.

The Martyr

"I'm starting a world-wide movement against cosmetics. Powder shall never touch my nose!"

"So you intend to be a shining example?"—Pearson's.

Chic Leather Fashions for Spring

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ALONG comes leather to add to the new spring mode. And such leathers—most beautiful and rich, exquisitely colored, dainty and supple suedes, kidskins and calfskins designed with arresting dressmaker details that bring them smartly into the current high-style parade.

Only seeing is believing as to the perfectly marvelous things being accomplished via leather artistry in the realm of costume design this spring. Which reminds us to say to those who have hitherto held to the idea that garments fashioned of leather belong solely to the sports wardrobe, the time has come to change your way of thinking.

Out Hollywood way where the newest, smartest fashions go on parade in advance of the rest of the world, leather for dress occasions has been accepted with genuine enthusiasm. A movie star of distinction wears a lovely evening gown of shell pink suede. At a smart gathering, an evening mess jacket was noted styled of white suede with a white galyak collar.

A leading designer in the French capital has created a charming evening coat, three-quarter length, of soft, supple brown leather embellished with intricate cutwork design, posed over brown lacquered satin. From Paris also comes the message that the haute couture is creating fetching little daytime dresses suitable for town activities. These attach chamois jumpers in smart new colors to wool skirts. Wide leather belts with bizarre metal fastenings complete the costume.

By the way, if you want your costume to carry a sure-fire style message wear chamois accessories. Swank gilets, boleros, lapels on spring coats and suits are made of chamois. Other jaunty items include handstitched chamois scarfs, belts, berets, slip-on gloves and roomy bags with contrast stitching.

You can see from the illustration that the new leather jackets are—well, they are just too good looking for words, that's what they are. For early spring these costumes which top a checked wool skirt with a gay colored suede jacket are not only ideal to wear but they have that out-of-the-ordinary look and being "different" they offer a welcome diversion from the regulation cloth tailleur. What's more, they are as outstandingly modish for town and travel as they are practical for country and sports wear.

The gay colors of the new suede jackets delight the eye. The simple model on the standing figure is in a mosaic rust shade. Its sash-belt and turn over collar are chic features.

The modish sportswoman seated in the foreground is wearing one of the very new jackets that are styled with knit sleeves and collar. You can have it in any smart colors such as Robinhood red, rust, green or in the much-talked-of amber. Of course the checked woolen skirt must carry corresponding colors. A Tyrolean suede hat, pigskin gloves and calf oxfords complete this smart outfit.

The wonderfully attractive jacket on the figure seated to the right is most happily tuned to a colorful spring. It goes in for zigzag red, white and blue stitching, which is a chic move on its part, since the emphasis this season is so decidedly on fancy and lavish stitching.

©. Western Newspaper Union.

IRISH LINEN

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's how Irish linen goes cruising—smartly fashioned into a two-piece with pockets and pearl buttons and a belt of good plain rope which gives it a novel and nautical touch. This model is becoming to almost every one, with its round Peter Pan collar, four buttoned down pockets and a slim slenderizing skirt. A two-piece dress in white Irish linen such as this will fill many a gap in cruise wardrobes now and later on it will prove an ideal summer costume.

Brown With Beige

Brown and beige are a favorite color combination of the Princesse Amedee de Broglie. She wears a wool ensemble woven in a novelty weave combining those two colors, collared and cuffed in brown astrakhan. It is finished with a belt of brown leather.

SEPARATE SKIRTS FOR SPRING WEAR

Since separate skirts are so necessary a part of the spring wardrobe and since tweed ones are highly approved, it would seem an economy measure to start with a tweed suit. Jackets are no longer wedded to one skirt, and skirts may step out with any number of jackets, blouses and sweaters, so there is no end to the possibilities.

Outside of the practical feature of skirt and jacket going its own way, there is the practical detail of the cape being detachable, and therefore ready for a career of its own. The objection to a caped jacket on the score that one might tire of the cape is also overcome.

Slipper of Glass Steps From Cinderella's Land

Cinderella's glass slipper has stepped from fairy tale lore into the modern everyday world.

This is the way it's made: Bits of shimmering glass cut to reflect the light are strung along transparent mica straps across the top of the foot while the tip of the toes and the instep are left bare. More strips of glittering glass gird the heel attached to a pale pink kid ankle strap and a tall pink kid heel spike. So, except for the heel and ankle strap, it gives the effect of a foot held by a few twinkling glass bands.

Gray Is Very Smart Color for In-Between Seasons

Gray is just about the smartest in-between season color, fresh and flattering. Shirring and tucking, quilting and smocking are smart manipulations for the gray crepe frock. Puritan collars of immaculate white pique trim charmingly childish frocks of gray metallasse.

Often grayed blue or cherry red provides a piquant accent for these new silvery grays. A high style collar for midseason shoes of kidskin, gray appears in a rather dark cast.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©. Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 24

PETER DESCRIBES THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 3:8-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear. I Peter 3:15.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing Jesus Every Day.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Way of Living.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Like a Christian.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Practicing Our Christian Profession.

Having given instructions to citizens (2:13, 14), servants (2:18), wives (3:1-6), and husbands (3:7), Peter now sets forth the attitudes and motives which are required for the perfection of all the relations of human life.

I. Characteristics of the Christian Life (vv. 8-11).

These find expression in personal attitudes and manner of living.

1. Toward fellow believers (v. 8).

a. "All of one mind." This means unity of thought and feeling. Christians being united to the one Lord Jesus Christ, animated by the one Holy Spirit and governed by the one Book, the Holy Scriptures, will inevitably come into possession of like-mindedness.

b. "Having compassion one of another." This means more than sympathy in times of sorrow. It means the sharing of joys as well as sorrows.

c. "Love as brethren." Being of the one family, a common affection should dominate its members.

d. "Be pitiful." This means tenderheartedness, expressing itself in sympathy toward the helpless and needy.

e. "Be courteous." This means friendliness, Christian politeness.

2. Toward the world (vv. 9-11).

a. "Not rendering evil for evil." Positively expressed, this means doing good for evil. The natural man renders evil for evil. The believer has been called thus to manifest the spirit of Christ.

b. "Eschew evil and do good" (v. 11). This means to shun or turn away from evil. It means the bending away from one's course at the approach of evil and the positive doing of good.

c. "Seek peace, and ensue it," It is not enough for a believer to refrain from conflict. He must bend every energy in the direction of peace.

II. Incentives to Christian Living (vv. 12-14).

1. "The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers" (v. 12). God not only takes account of their efforts to live righteously, but his ears are open to hear their cries for help.

2. "The face of the Lord is against them that do evil" (v. 12). God will surely visit in judgment those who depart from the way of right living.

3. God will protect and keep those who will bend their energies to the doing of good (v. 13).

4. Happiness in suffering (v. 14). This means the suffering which results from the pursuing of the ways of righteousness.

III. How the Christian Life Can Be Lived (vv. 15, 16).

It cannot be lived in the power of human strength. A divine dynamic is provided.

1. "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts (v. 15). The Revised Version says, "Sanctify Christ as Lord," enthrone Jesus Christ as the Lord of life.

2. Be ready to give a reason for your hope (v. 15). A Christian should have an understanding of his faith, such as to give a reason to the inquirer. The Christian's faith rests upon the highest reason.

3. Live a conscientious life (v. 16). One's life should be so lived that the consciousness that actions are consistent before God and man is possible. Such a life will put to shame evil men who falsely accuse and despitefully use the believer.

IV. The Issue of the Christian Life (vv. 17, 18).

Christ said to the disciples that they would receive the same treatment that the world accorded him. Paul says, "All that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution" (II Tim. 3:12). If God wills that we suffer for well doing, let us rejoice, looking to Christ as our supreme example.

Greatness and Humility

I believe that the first test of a truly great man is his humility. I do not mean by humility doubt of his own power, hesitation of speaking his opinions, but a right understanding of the relation of what he can do and say to the rest of the world's doings and sayings.—Charles Spurgeon.

Helps to Better Faith

Every noble act of devotion to truth, every pure life unstained with evil, every word of pity, every instance of forgiving goodness, helps us to a better faith in that divine and eternal goodness which has no variableness or shadow of turning.—Dr. J. F. Clarke.

Try It Yourself

Whatever may be said of the philosophy of Coleridge, his proof of the truth of Christianity was most simple and conclusive. It consisted in the words, "Try it for yourself."

Year's Discoveries Add Laurels to Explorers

A hitherto unknown, inactive volcanic crater, partly eroded, but with an original circumference estimated at 30 miles, was discovered in July, 1934, by Father Bernard R. Hubbard, near the tip of the Alaska peninsula. Father Hubbard's party, which carried on its work in co-operation with the National Geographic society, also scaled for the first time the Aghileen pinnacles, lofty peaks near the crater.

Dr. Sven Hedin, Swedish explorer, found, in a desert region of Chinese Turkestan, traces of the lost city of Edsina.

A fresh-water lake, two miles long by one mile wide, heretofore known only to Indians, was discovered in Costa Rica in September. It was first located from an airplane. The lake is near the Nicaraguan border.

The Greenland ice cap was crossed by dog sledge, from Disco bay on the west coast to Scoresby sound, by a British expedition led by Martin Lindsay, after which the party pushed southward parallel with the coast for nearly 400 miles, traversing previously unexplored territory, between Scoresby sound and Angmagsalik.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are best for liver, bowels and stomach. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.—Adv.

Action Called For

Most people are resentful that their lives are dull.

Scientists Find Fast Way to Relieve a Cold

Ache and Discomfort Eased Almost Instantly Now

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

NOTE "DIRECTIONS PICTURES"

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

DIZZY DEAN plows one over

Boys! Girls! . . . Join the Dizzy Dean Winners

Just send the top from one yellow-and-blue Grape-Nuts package, with your name and address, to Grape-Nuts, Battle Creek, Mich., for your membership insignia and free copy of the club manual—"Win with Dizzy Dean"—and list of other valuable free prizes.

Free membership pin—for boys and girls. Solid bronze with red enameled lettering. A pin you'll be proud to wear.

This offer expires July 1, 1935

And start building up your energy by eating Grape-Nuts. It has a winning flavor all its own—crisp, nutlike, delicious. It's economical, too. Two tablespoonfuls, with whole milk or cream, provide more varied nourishment than many a hearty meal. A product of General Foods.

JOHNSON AND COMPANY

Located in Birmingham at 1725 2nd Avenue North.

This is one of the leading Jewelry houses in Birmingham, which has been successfully fulfilling the demands for superior Jewelry and gifts. Select your gift now.

The gift season is always on and the jeweler receives his share in making possible the wisest selection of presents for all occasions. An up-to-date jeweler is indispensible to every community of taste and refinement and he whose work shows marked skill is sure of liberal patronage. The people of this community are in no way behind in this respect and the generous patronage extended to this popular jewelry firm shows how this community appreciates their efforts..

The stock has been selected with rare judgment and includes everything necessary to conduct a modern and up-to-date store. Here will be found the leading makes of watches, diamond rings, pins, studs and ornaments, novelties in silverware, clocks of handsome design, and an extensive variety of jewelry.

NICHOLS-WHITE REALTY COMPANY

Located in Fairfield on 9 South Plaza Street.

This is headquarters for anything in the real estate line and enjoys the patronage and confidence from all surrounding territory.

In this day and age when conservative men are constantly seeking investments where they are not only assured a permanent source of income, but a reasonable certainty of increasing in value, the real estate dealer is doing more than his share to meet the demands of such men. This locality is indeed fortunate in having in its midst such a firm as this well known agency.

This institution has been closely identified with the growth and expansion of the section and has made a close study of real estate conditions so that they could offer both the buying and selling public the very best service. They have on their books a large list of most desirable properties for sale, both town and country, at prices that cannot fail to be attractive to the intending purchaser. They have made many important deals in this section.

SPEARS WELDING COMPANY

Located at 106 North 24th Street in Birmingham.

This establishment has gained a patronage not only at home but throughout the surrounding territory on account of the very complete and fully guaranteed service they render.

The shop is fully equipped for all classes of work, including the welding of cast iron, bronze, brass and aluminum, according to the most approved process. The work is featured for the accommodation of autoists, farmers, garages and manufacturers and is a great convenience to the public.

They have a most complete equipment and thus are prepared for the most accurate and intricate work, including the repairing of machinery as well as other forms of welding of all metals.

They are also experts in repairing anything in the way of broken parts. It makes no difference how little or how large they may be, this firm can handle the job and complete it in a way that you will remember them the next time you have anything in this line.

General Plumbing and Heating Company

At 103 North 18th street in Birmingham, has had wide experience in plumbing and heating business, and have greatly aided in the upbuilding of this part of the state. This Company has made a study of modern plumbing and heating contracting that is especially suitable to the climate and they install all work according to the most modern methods. They have built their business upon quality and say the Best is the Cheapest. Customers are always satisfied with their work and the business has grown from year to year.

In the employ of this firm are expert men who thoroughly understand the details of the work to the best advantage. The service is rapid and satisfactory, the work careful and tasteful. These craftsmen will go on your job and will astonish you at the results that can be produced.

If you want to modernize your place just stop in and see them. They will aid you in your plans.

We advise all our readers when they want any of this class of work properly executed they will do well to go to this place.

BIRMINGHAM SHIRT COMPANY

W. H. NIX, Manager.

In Birmingham, at 6522 First Avenue, North, are manufacturers of high grade shirts.

The prosperity of the city is greatly increased by the extent of their trade which extends for miles around which is their chosen field of endeavor and brings new people to the community. Through the extended trade channels of this active firm many dollars are brought yearly into this section.

This up-to-date firm started its career upon a solid foundation knowing that success in this advancing business could only be gained by offering quality service upon a fair margin of profit. Fair and honest business methods at all times, individual service to every patron has established for them a trade that has extended in every direction from the city. All these business assets have been the reason for their success, and with these methods in mind they have always been successful in business.

McCORMICK AND COMPANY

Located at 704 South 20th Street in Birmingham.

Among the progressive real estate agencies of this part of the country we are glad to make prominent mention of this agency. The activities of this Company are conducive to the progress of this section in no small degree inasmuch as their dealings in city and farm property attract new people to the community.

There are many dealers in real estate but the successful operator must be well versed in values and locations. He must also have a complete knowledge of the history of the country and of what value a particular property is to the intending purchaser.

The real citizen is the home owner. To him comes the thrill of owning a home whether it be large or small.

Every true citizen has in his own mind a picture of the home he at sometime intends to own. Perhaps it is a small bungalow with a few rooms, surrounded by flowers. Perchance a small garden where he may spend his leisure time. Then too, the owner of rural property desires the comfort of a city dwelling. In any respect, regardless of the wants of the intending purchaser or renter this Company can take care of their needs as they have listed on their books a number of properties that are sure to please.

J. T. HALL AND SON FEED STORE

Located in Birmingham at 2431 1st Avenue North.

There is no firm in this section of the country more widely known as extensive dealers in feed than this well known concern which is under competent direction.

Through their straightforward and above-board policies this firm has established an enviable reputation in these parts and the farmers and the people generally have come to look upon this firm as one of the prominent concerns of this section. Through their extensive dealings in this line they afford the farmers of this section a most advantageous market right at their door.

They bring thousands of dollars into this section each year that would otherwise go to some other center were their policies and service not so entirely satisfactory in every particular.

This section is indeed fortunate to have such a progressive firm to serve it in this line for it adds in no little way to the progress and prosperity of the entire surrounding territory.

In the way of feed the management has made an exhaustive and scientific study of modern feeding and all feeds are made up with reference to their nutritive value.

No matter what problem you may have in feeding, you will find the management can solve it for you.

CALERA NEWS

Mrs. Lula Lanham, of Birmingham, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Sr., and friends this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Braws and daughter, Dorothy, of Johnson City, Tenn., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Booker.

Miss Eva Watts, of Minooka, returned home Monday after a three weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. B. E. Oldham.

Mr. Robin Ozley and Mr. George Holcombe attended the Basketball tournament in Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. Guy Roberts and Mrs. A. E. Norwood were in Birmingham, Monday.

Mr. Walter Crawford, of Birmingham, was the guest of his sister, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Wood and children, of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. anl Mrs. J. H. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips and daughter, Miss Louise; Mr. and Mrs. W. Long and son, Rupert, were the week-end guests of Mrs. C. Campbell, Miss Lutie Phillips and Mr. Winferd Seale.

Mr. Tom McDonald, who has been in the hospital in Tuscaloosa, is reported improving.

Mrs. D. L. Martin and daughter, of Birmingham, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pilgreen, Sunday.

Mrs. Bettie Watts and children, of Minooka, were the guests of Mrs. Ed Crim, Sunday.

Mrs. Jake Johnson and daughter, Helen, are visiting in Plantersville.

Mrs. Cleve Long was in Birmingham Monday.

Misses Florence and Myrtle McElroy, of Sixmile, and Mr. Nash, of Piper, were the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Warren, Sunday.

THE PARSON'S COGITATIONS

By Henry M. Hurst

Satan, he slipped up and said,
"Don't go to church today;
They are a bunch of hypocrites
And I would stay away."
You listen to his wily talk,
And lounge or gad about,
Eat your fancy Sunday grub
And aggravate your gout.
The faithful few meet at the church,
But long to see you there,
They are not perfect by a sight,
Such claim they would not dare.
We all are just poor stumbling folks,
We never do our best,
But working, striving, struggling
With an ever earnest zest.
We are here to do our city good,
We have "no axe to grind",
So come in singles, couples,
With no one left behind.

CLASSIFIED ADS

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately: Rawleigh, Dept. ALC - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

FOR SALE—1100 lbs. Farm and good brood mare—or would trade for something smaller or take some cattle. S. C. SLOAN, Calera, Alabama. 3-21-1tp.

666 Liquid - Tablets Salve-Nose Drops — checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

THOMPSON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Baseball season opened at Thompson High School, March 11. The admission will be 10c after the first game. Please come!

Each of the teachers of Thompson High School has a group of girls 45 minutes for physical education period. The best sports are Baseball, Basketball, Volleyball, and Relays. The same group does not stay with the same teachers all the year. They change every month when the report cards are given out.

Mrs. Green, one of our best physical elucation teachers, had to quit teaching. We were very sorry to lose her.

Thompson High School girls, of Siluria, defeated the Helena girls in basketball. The game was held on Thompson basketball court, March 1, 1935, at 2 p. m. The score was 8 to 3.

The P. W. A. workers are repairing the Thompson High School. They have replastered the auditorium and they are repainting the building inside and outside also. The building will look fresh and new when finished, and we hope the whole school will help keep it looking that way.

SPRING

1.
Springtime is here and the violets blue
Peep up their head at you.
And the little buds green,
Here and there can be seen.

2.
The blue birds have come
With their beautiful songs.
So sweetly they sing,
Telling us its Spring.

3.
Red birds, sparrows and jay,
Warble away all day,
Telling us the Spring is here,
And winter is away.

4.
And up peeps the four leaf clover,
Spring has come and winter is over.
And we can see the bunnies every where,
Which makes us know that Spring is here.

Composed by Mildred Bozeman.

Make Arrangements Now To Dine At
Curlee's Cafe
Columbiana, Ala.

Here the food is always delicious and satisfying.. Prices are extremely reasonable and the service is gracious and cordial. Menus are prepared for your convenience—be it a quick luncheonette, a dinner, or a special banquet—Curlee's culinary department is adequately prepared to serve you.

Come in and try one of our Special Sunday Dinners served from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

Buy A
Crosley Shelvador Refrigerator

UNSURPASSED FOR:

CONVENIENCE,
SERVICE,
BEAUTY,
DEPENDABILITY.

PRICED $72.50 UP.

WHALEY FURNITURE CO.
Montevallo, Alabama.

DR. D. A. PIATT, Veterinary

In Birmingham at 1709 14th Ave. S.

The profession of the veterinarian should be one of the utmost importance and we cannot fail in this comprehensive review of our onward progress to devote some space to a well merited tribute of the excellent work performed by this eminent veterinarian.

During the years that he has been in active practice he has gained a valuable clientele due to his demonstrated ability as a practical veterinarian, for he is a graduate of Ontario and Chicago Veterinary College; also one year in a medical college, and uses the latest and most modern methods known to his profession.

This doctor has merited the wide reputation he has established as a specialist in treating all kinds of animals. Whether it be a case of accident or illness, the owners of animals all over this community call upon this veterinarian. He has taken care of some of the most valuable animals in this section in the most expert professional manner, but at the same time gives the same conscientious service to every case regardless of the breed of animal for whose aid his services are enlisted.

This very well known veterinarian does all small animal work as well as other work in the profession of Veterinary Surgery. He has many friends. He is considered an authority upon the proper feeding of all breeds and kinds of animals.

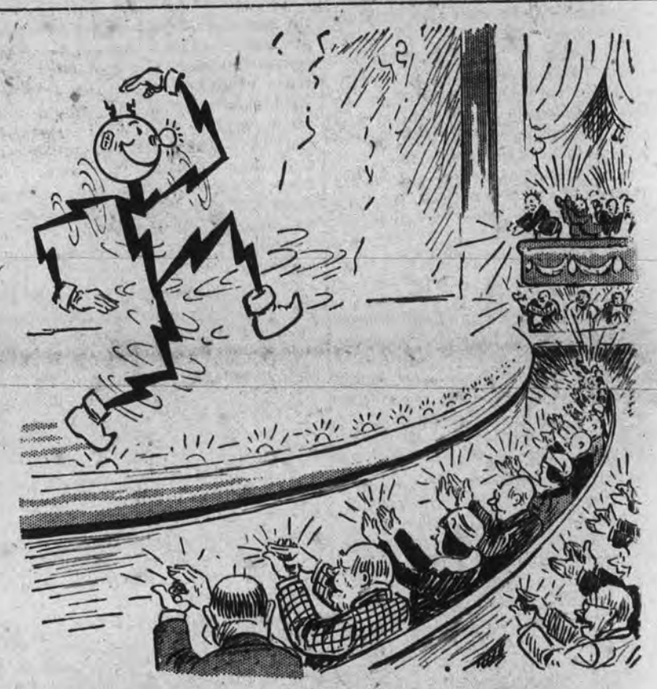
Dr. Piatt keeps abreast of the times in all that is new in this profession and is regarded in this section as a most able veterinarian.

FAULKNER CONSTRUCTION CO.,

CHARLES FAULKNER, Owner.

Located in Birmingham at 2027 11th Avenue North.

Charles Faulkner can furnish you anything from plumbing to roofing. People using the F. H. A., should consult this Company for home supplies.



They are prepared to supply out-of-town orders as well as the local trade. Real estate men, sub-dividers, home builders and farmers should consult them for prices and information.

The growing tendency of our people to build more substantial buildings, ones that will last throughout the years, has come with the more settled condition of the country and the desire to build a place that will be a family estate throughout the years. At first our ancestors had to construct homes out of what they could get, but with the growth of wealth and industry people are now building for all time. This tendency assures the future of such professions as this one.

This reliable firm has much experience in the industry and features high grade building material for factories, homes garages and outbuildings.

They offer the trade the best of service in the way of rapid delivery in this section. All anyone has to do is to call them over the phone and the goods will be on the way and arrive promptly. There is no delay.

While their products are sold all over this part of the state, yet this is but a small part of the business. Here at home the products are very popular and endorsed by discriminating people.

"They Keep Me HOPPING!"

—says Reddy Kilowatt, speaking of the thousands of Alabama women who are using electric ranges, refrigerators, water heaters and other electrical appliances which can now be operated for so little money.

"Nobody pays me much, because I work so cheap! That keeps me busy, and being busy is what I like best of all. I also enjoy getting letters like this one from Mr. C. O. Glass, of Ashland, Alabama, who says:

"In addition to lights, refrigeration and range I am using seven other appliances operated with electricity. Over a period of years my service has been entirely satisfactory, and instead of my bills being increased they have decreased appreciably. I am making this statement on a check up of actual costs and am more than pleased with services rendered; the services being satisfactorily and most efficiently rendered by the company and by your local representative."

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electricity Is CHEAP In Alabama!

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1935 — NUMBER FIFTY

HOWE IS SPEAKER AT TEACHERS' AND P.-T.A. RALLY HERE

A Joint P.-T. A. and Teachers' Rally was held in Columbiana on Saturday, March 23rd, at The Shelby County High School.

The meeting opened by singing "America", led by Miss Bess Rice, of Montevallo, with Roy Mooney at the piano. Bro. Woolley led the devotional after which we divided into groups, Dr. Anderson working with the high school group, Miss Dudley the elementary and Mrs. Hendrick, County Chairman, presided over the P.-T. A. meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. W. T. Taylor, Jr. Mrs. Hendrick then favored us with the Rosary played on the Marimba. The President from each P.-T. A. organization was called on by Mrs. Homer Walton and a report was made on the work of each organization.

Miss Elsie Schneiler and Miss Rice, of Montevallo, kept the groups doing community singing and playing indoor games. Mrs. Peacock favored us at this time with a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Christian.

The meeting was called together again for a general session. Dr. Howe from the University of Alabama was the guest speaker. He made a most interesting and instructive talk on Iceland. Every one felt that they could have spent many more hours listening to Dr. Howe tell of his experiences in Iceland. Mrs. Hendrick again favored us with a marimba solo, with Mrs. Christian at the piano.

Mr. Appleton gave out mimeographed sheets on the minimum program asked for by Dr. Keller. He presented these facts before the group, showing the monies available and the amount needed. The group went on record as favoring a sales tax if such was necessary to run the full term of 7 months.

Mr. Allen, President of the Teachers' organization, called on each committee for a report as this was the last meeting of the year.

VINCENT NEWS

Pauline Self, Helen Sharbutt, Loretta Graham, Virgie Moore, Wallace Denty and Herman Buckelew, represented Vincent High School at the Dramatic tournament held in Auburn last week. They were accompanied by Mr. Taff and Mrs. Horton.

Mrs. Ruth Tucker, of Chelsea, was the week-end guest of Misses Naomi Baker and Alice Harris.

We are glad to see Mrs. Lee home after having been in a Birmingham hospital for several weeks.

Miss Anne Bell, of Alabama College, spent the week-end at home. She had as her guest, her room mate.

Richard Carter and Jimmie Gorman, of Dadeville, spent the week-end at home. Little Troy Johnson, of Dadeville, accompanied them.

Mr. Luther Taff, of the High schoo resigned his school duties to enter school in South Carolina—much to the regret of pupils and friends. Miss Upshaw, of Birmingham, takes his place.

The Better Homes Club met for its regular meeting, March 21st, at the home of Mrs. J. L. Murphy. The house was decorated with spring flowers. The guests were announced in a very cute manner by Little J. L. Murphy.

The meeting opened by singing "Home Sweet Home". The club motto was repeated. Members responded to roll call with their favorite flower. There were seventeen present, and one new member. The minutes were read and approved. The club accepted the resignations of the Secretary and Treasurer, Frances Elliott and the news reporter, Mrs. Wilbur Florey. Mrs. Barto Harris was elected to serve as Secretary and Treasurer and Mrs. Onzelle Florey as news reporter. Mrs. Bates invited the club to meet with her next time.

The meeting was turned over to the chairman of program committee, Mrs. Stokem, who told the club why we should be more interested in a Better Home's Club. Mrs. Barto Harirs gave a beautiful reading in an impressive manner on "What The Children Mean In The Home". Mrs. Bates made a very interesting talk on "Recreation of The Home", and Mrs. J. A. Wade read a beautiful poem, "Looking From My Kitchen."

The meeting adjourned by singing, "Blest Be The Tie". (Signed)

Mrs. Onzelle Florey, Reporter.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
Circuit Court of Shelby County, In Equity. No. 1691.

The State of Alabama, Complainant VS. 1931 Chevrolet Coupe, Motor No. 2574846, and Stanley Harrison, Respondent.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 14th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in or claiming an interest in 1931 Chevrolet Coupe, Motor No. 2574846, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said county, which said Automobile is alleged to have been used at the time of such seizure for the purpose of illegally conveying or transporting prohibited liquors containing alcohol, from one point in this state to another point in this State, contrary to law, to file their claim in this court to the said Automobile on or before the 1st day of April, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this 14th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-21-2t. Register.

DODGE-PLYMOUTH BUSINESS TO OPEN HERE ON APRIL 1

Claudia Wooley, efficient young matron of Columbiana, has accepted the Assistant Managership of the new Service and Sales Station featuring the Dodge-Plymouth line of automobiles.

Al Tennent, well known Alabama salesmen of Birmingham, Alabama, is the General Manager of this newly established acquisition to the business section of Columbiana, and the above mentioned partnership will happily welcome you to their new and attractive show rooms on April 1st.

Call them for a demonstration.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
Circuit Court of Shelby County, In Equity. No. 1693.

The State of Alabama, Complainant, VS. One Slot Machine, No. 18472, R. L. Lynch and A. A. Holman, Respondents.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 18th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in or claiming an interest in One Slot Machine No. 18472, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said county, which said Slot Machine is alleged to have been used as a gambling device, contrary to law, to file their claim in this Court to the said Slot Machine on or before the 1st day of April, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this 18th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-21-2t. Register.

BLUE SPRINGS

Mrs. Carrie Mooney is visiting relatives in Columbiana.

The singing here Sunday afternoon was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Merrell and children, and A. P. Merrell, of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Merrell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miner and children, Aileene and Horace, spent Sunday with Mrs. Mary Stone and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Shaw, of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Richard.

A wedding of interest to many friends in this community was that of Miss Onzelle Vick to Mr. Conwell, of Sylacauga.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET MARCH 29

The Shirley - Holloway Post American Legion Auxiliary will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Court House in Columbiana, Friday, March 29th, at 3 p. m.

CIVIL SERVICE JOBS ARE ANNOUNCED BY COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United Staaes Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Senior stock clerk, $1,800 a year, stock clerk, $1,620, departmental service, Washington, D. C.

Junior graduate nurse, $1,620 a year.

Junior biologist (wildlife research), junior entomologist (man and animals), junior forest ecologist, junior forest pathologist, junior meteorologist, junior nematologist, junior plant physiologist, junior plant quarantine inspector, junior pomologist (fruits), junior pomologist (plant propagation), junior seed botanist, junior soil scientist (erosion), junior soil surveyor, $2,000 a year, Department of Agriculture.

Junior forester, $2,000 to $2,600 a year.

Junior range examiner, $2,000 a year.

Range examiner, $3 800 a year, associate range examiner, $3,200 a year, assistant range examiner, $2,600 a year, Geological Survey.

Local inspector of boilers, $3,200 a year, local inspector of hulls, $3,200 a year, assistant inspector of boilers, $2,900 a year, assistant inspector of hulls, $2,900 a year, Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection.

Full information may be obtained from the Secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city which has a post office of the first or the second class, or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

SATURDAY, MARCH 30, IS LAST DAY TO SELL SYRUP

We will receive sorghum syrup up to Saturday night, March 30, on the order to the Alabama Relief Administration.

This syrup must be good and in buckets free from rust. (Signed)

A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

Miss Charlie Verne Tinney. of Alabama College, spent the week-end at her home here.

MRS. R. W. SMITH IS CALLED BY DEATH TUES., MARCH 12

Mrs. R. W. Smith, age 62, passed away on March 12, 1935, at her home near Bessemer, Alabama. Mrs. Smith was formerly a resident of Shelby County where she was most beloved. She was a member of the Baptist Church of Virginia Mines.

Surviving Mrs. Smith are her husband, R. W. Smith; two sons, Walter and Grady Smith, of Bessemer; five daughters, Beatrice Smith and Mrs. Howard Walton, of Bessemer, Mrs. Robert Payne, of Birmingham, Mrs. Perry Albright, of Columbiana, and Mrs. Paul Jones, of Porter, Alabama.

Funeral services were conducted from her home at Virginia Mines, by the Rev. Gable, Pastor of the Baptist Church. Interment at Valley Creek Cemetery, Jacobs in charge.

(Signed) Mrs. Robina Booth,
Grandaughter.

THE PARSON'S MEDITATIONS
By Henry M. Hurst

When have you been to church, my friend—
O say can you remember?
Was it when a stranger preached in town,
Or was it last September?
The church is here to help the town,
We would not do without it;
Say, are you going to stand by it—
Or what'll you do about it?
Remove the churches from our town,
Then try to sell your patches,
They would not give you fifty cents
For single lots or batches.
So shine your shoes next Saturday night,
And come around to meeting,
We'll shake your hand and set you down
With a cordial Methodist greeting.

DUNNAVANT NEWS

The play, "Constable Jerry From Fulton's Ferry", was given before a nice audience Saturday night.

Mr. Ivy Dorough and family spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Dorough.

Mrs. Roy Holliday and daughter, Sarah, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Holliday the past week.

Kiddies' Kolumn

The Kiddies Kolumn this week is in charge of Chelsea School contributors. We cordially invite every school in the County to send in their letters or Junior articles for this department.

CHELSEA SCHOOL NEWS

The Junior High School boys of Chelsea started out for baseball training, Tuesday, March 19th. They are expecting to play several interesting games this season.

Mrs. Jack Owens, Mrs. L. P. Chesser, and Mrs. W. L. Poe returned to their respective teaching places on March 8th.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Poe gave a party in honor of the nineth grade, March 8th.

The boys enjoyed the Basket Ball tournament, although they lost out in the games.

We are sorry to hear that one of the members of the ninth grade, Floyde Kendrick, was hurt in an automobile accident Sunday, March 10th. The injuries were not serious and we hope he will be able to be back in school soon.

Thelma Blackerby,
Grade Nine.

WHY EVERY BOY AND GIRL SHOULD FINISH HIGH SCHOOL

Every boy and girl should finish high school to make our younger generations stronger. If the boys and girls do not quit stoping out of school our younger generations will be on a lower level. The boys and girls of the younger generations will be ignorant about our government. Some parents will tell their children that they didn't have an education and got through life all right. But there are very few that have done well without an education. Most of the ignorant peopie now have to struggle to make a living. Because some of the parents have had a hard time making a living, so lets try to make their children make a better living. In order to do this we must go to school and learn how to do things better. Most all jobs now call for at least high school graduates. Still better jobs call for college degrees. Let's go to school so we will not be ignorant and do better in life.

Bernell Johnson,
Grade Nine.

INDIAN DOLLS

Indian Dolls of long ago were made from many substances in many ways. The priest of the Hopi Indians cut dolls from soft cottonwood. The figures were painted with designs for their clothes and marks for their eyes, nose, and mouth. The priest said the dolls were images of spirits: They were given to the girls on the last day of long religious festivals.

Florence Hutchins,
Chelsea Junior II.

HARD WORK IN CHINA

The Chinese are the hardest working people in the world, and are most cheerful under their hardships. This is because there has been more people than jobs for many centuries. In their country they do not go around with chips on their shoulders for some one to knock off, but with smiles on their faces. If we were as crowded as the Chinese, we would try to get along as smoothly as possible and not always be quarreling with other people.

Bernice Ray,
Chelsea Junior II.

CHRISTMAS IN HOLLAND

On Christmas Eve night in Holland the little Dutch children go to bed early. They place their wooden shoes in a row on the porch. In each shoe they put a little wisp of hay for St. Nichols' horse to eat. In the morning they find the hay gone and many pretty toys in their shoes.

Dorothy Kendrick,
Chelsea Junior II.

SOME JAPANESE CUSTOMS

A Japanese bedroom looks like a living room in the day time. They sleep on quilts for their beds with a piece of wood for a pillow. They sleep with mosquito nets over them. They think the night air is not good for their health and therefore they sleep with the windows and doors closed. They sleep with the lights burning in the rooms all night. Early in the morning they are awakened by a loud banging and slaming.

Rosa Lee Holcombe,
Chelsea Junior II.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
Circuit Court of Shelby County, In Equity. No. 1692.

The State of Alabama, Complainant, VS. 1 Ford Automobile, Motor No. A-525306, 1929 Model, and George W. Moore, Respondent.

Under and by authority of a decreetal order rendered in the above stated cause by the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on the 18th day of March, 1935.

Notice is hereby given any and all parties interested in, or claiming an interest in 1 Ford Automobile, Motor No. A-525306, which has been heretofore seized by C. H. Fore, Sheriff of Shelby County, Alabama, in said County, which said Automobile is alleged to have been used at the time of such seizure for the purpose of illegally conveying or transporting prohibited liquors containing alcohol, from one point in this State to another point in this State, contrary to law, to file their claim in this Court to the said Automobile, on or before the 1st day of April, 1935, after which time all claims shall be barred.

Witness my hand this the 18th day of March, 1935. C. R. SPARKS,
3-21-2t. Register.

KNOX E. WOOLEY IS NOW FORD AGENT FOR COLUMBIANA

Knox E. Wooley, former Sheriff of Shelby County, and one of the most popular officials who has ever filled this important post in the County, announces the opening of his new business in Columbiana in this issue of the Democrat.

Mr. Wooley is the General Manager of the Ford V-8 Automobile Sales and Service Station located in the Lightcap building on the corner of Main Street. He is at your service day and night with a complete line of the latest designs in motor cars from the Ford factory. He also maintains a complete garage service. Demonstrations gladly given. Call by this new place of business and allow this firm to serve you.

HARPERSVILLE

Rev. E. S. Pate preached at the Baptist Church Sunday. His morning text was "Sin", and his evening text was "The Second Coming". We urge you to come hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cosper, of Arkwright; Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Crosby, of Fourmile, attended service here Sunday.

Mrs. Leila Thomas is visiting in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Strickland and children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Strickland, Sunday.

Mrs. Ruth Barry, of Birmingham, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Brumbaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lovett and children, spent Sunday with Mrs. Tom Spruell.

Miss Annie Lee Borum spent several days in Birmingham last week.

Mrs. R. W. Darby anl Miss Hazel Elliott spent Saturday in Birmingham.

The Baptist Ladies met at the home of Mrs. J. C. Brumbaugh, Moday, for the day to observe the week of prayer.

Leo Atkinson is home from the U. S. Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stone and daughter, Maryln, of Birmingham, spent the week-end with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Baker spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Baker.

FHA EDUCATIONAL CONTEST WILL BE LAUNCHED APRIL 1

The Federal Housing Administration is conducting a national Better Housing Educational contest in connection with its Better Housing Program. This contest is open to all high schools, public, private and parochial, and will be launched April 1st. The basis of the contest is an essay written in speech form which should not take more than six minutes to deliver orally. The subject on which the high school students will speak is "Better Housing and the Home" and its purpose is to focus the attention of "Young America" on its home.

The contest is being sponsored by the Federal Housing Administration in cooperation with Industry, National Educational and Civic Organizations, the Press, and Radio Broadcasting Systems, and is a cooperative effort on the part of schools and communities to create a greater interest in livable homes.

One of the most important features of the contest will be the interscholastic contests in the district. Two students will be selected from each school contest—a boy and a girl—to compete orally in the district contest before a public audience. Outstanding citizens, prominent in civic, welfare and educational affairs, will serve as judges.

Call by the Democrat office for further information.

IN MEMORIUM

CALERA, Ala.—J. E. Gunn, age 56, died at his home in Calera, Monday afternoon, March 18th, following a short illness. He was a native of Calera and had been in the employe of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for 30 years. He was a loyal member of the Methodist Church, quiet and unassuming. Always to be found on the right side of every moral question. He was a veteran of the Spanish American War. Surviving are the widow, two daughters, one son, his mother and one sister. Services were held at the Methodist Church, Tuesday at 4 p. m., with Rev. B. F. Miller officiating, assisted by Rev. Haddock, of the Baptist Church. The choir was composed of the Bible Class, of which he was a member. The active pall bearers were: S. R. Reid, N. A. Graham, of Birmingham; W. B. Blevins; Z. S. Cowart; Dick Martin; and B. F. Jarvis.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family, and pray that God's sustaining grace may be with them in this hour of loneliness and sorrow. A large concourse of friends and many beautiful flowers showed the esteem in which he was held.

CALERA NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Harris spent a few days in Birmingham this week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Norwood and family, of Birmingham, are visiting Mr. Norwood, Mr. David, anl Miss Lucy Norwood, this week.

Miss Geneva Stagner spent Frilay in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. N. K. Blankenship and family, motored to Columbiana, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Murphree and Miss Fannie Pearl Seale motored to Montevallo Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Fate Crim returnel home Thursday from the South Higrland Hospital in Birmingham. Mrs. Crim is reported improving.

Mrs. Jeffie Mothershed, of Birmingham, was the guest of Mrs. Cecil Cowart, this week.

Mr. M. D. Crowson was in Columbiana Monday on business.

Mrs. O. E. Murchison and Miss Inez Wallace spent the week-end in Montgomery with friends.

Mrs. John Booker was in Birmingham Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hill and children spent the week-enl in Childersburg with relatives.

Those on the sick list this week, are: Mr. W. F. Pilgreen, Curtis Seale, Harry Perry, Homer Martin and Mrs. W. Seale.

The Baptist Missionary Society Circle No. 2, met at the home of Mrs. Curtis Lucas, with Mrs. Brown, joint hostess, Wednesday afternoon. Sandwiches, cake and tea were served to 10 members.

Miss Katherine Glass, of Birmingram, is the guest of Mrs. Pat Rudy and other relatives.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Chancellor Hitler's Defiance of Treaty Provisions Alarms Europe; Drouth Threat Causes Wallace to Lift Restrictions on Spring Wheat Planting.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

GERMANY, having recently boldly announced that she was now possessed of a military air force in violation of the Treaty of Versailles, still more boldly declares she is no longer bound by the obligations of that pact and proposes to build up an army of about 480,000 men, comprising 12 corps of three divisions each. This was the decision of the cabinet, which decreed compulsory military training throughout the reich. The exact number of men in the army will be determined by a law to be enacted later.

Chancellor Hitler

This was Chancellor Hitler's reply to the action of France's chamber of deputies in accepting Premier Flandin's plan to increase the term of conscript service in the French army to 18 months and subsequently to two years. Germany considered that France was "dealing the last blow to disarmament," and Hitler, rushing to Berlin from Berchtesgaden, directed the action of the cabinet and issued to the German nation a rousing appeal for full support. He declared that the failure of other nations to reduce armament as called for in the Versailles treaty had released Germany from all treaty obligations, and that while the reich had only peaceful intentions, it must re-arm to protect its territorial integrity and maintain the respect of the world as a co-guarantor of European peace.

France is in no mood to take Hitler's defiance "lying down." An appeal was sent to the League of Nations to convoke an extraordinary council to deal with Germany's violation of the Versailles pact. The note hinted at the possibilities of economic sanctions (penalties) against Germany which might result in a boycott. An attempt is being made to force Britain into an alliance with France, and the mission of Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, to bring Germany back into the comity of European nations is regarded as seriously compromised. France and Italy insist that Simon go to Berlin as spokesman of the three powers, and not as the representative of Britain alone. Premier Mussolini is said to be backing France, and is alleged to be the prime power in a scheme to revive the pre-war policy of encircling Germany with a ring of steel.

President Roosevelt expressed his hope that his "good neighbor" policy might be extended to Europe as a basis for peaceful settlement of the tense situation. Just how the President expects to prevail upon those traditional enemies to become "good neighbors" was not fully explained. He declined to say whether this government will send a note to Germany protesting abrogation of military provisions of the separate treaty with this country. Although the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles pact, the separate peace treaty negotiated with Germany includes the military phases of the Versailles treaty. Many people in this country feel that United States intervention in the European dispute is neither necessary nor advisable.

GOV. MARTIN L. DAVEY of Ohio, charged by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins with "corruption" in Ohio relief, went before the state senate and demanded a thorough investigation. He defied Hopkins to come to Ohio for trial on a warrant he had secured charging Hopkins with criminal libel. Hopkins had alleged in a letter that he has proof of "corruption" of relief administration in Ohio including soliciting of funds for campaign purposes from firms that sold relief materials. Hopkins, through C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, has taken over administration of Ohio relief. Department of Justice attorneys in Washington declare they stand ready to defend Hopkins, but there was no indication that Hopkins would go to Ohio, although he may change his mind. The spectacular blowup is said to have had its inception in the 1934 political campaign. Davey made campaign speeches charging that Ohio relief was mismanaged, and particularly aimed his barbs at Cleveland. This irked Cleveland leaders since relief there had been administered through a non-political group, which later became the official Cuyahoga county relief administration. Hopkins often took note of the fact that Cleveland's relief committee was "one of the best in the country." Later Davey pledged himself not to touch the Cleveland organization, but is said to have ousted several members, and repeated old charges. Cleveland leaders took the fight to Washington.

Ohio Democrats stand firmly behind Davey. The Democratic delegation in the Ohio legislature appealed to President Roosevelt "to right the wrong which has been done our governor" and Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, summoned to appear before the grand jury, delivered a scathing attack on Hopkins. Poulson charged that Republicans in high government offices "have betrayed the President," and named Hopkins as "one who could be expected to tear down the Democratic party."

CLARENCE DARROW, foe of NRA, and author of the famous report which attacked NRA more than a year ago, assailed the administration's economic theories, including the national recovery act, in his testimony before the senate finance committee. The famous lawyer whose sharp speech and fiery courtroom tactics have made him famous, denounced NRA as playing into the hands of big business to the destruction of the "little fellow." He argued that NRA attacked the problem from the wrong angle and that the real trouble lay in faulty distribution, thus assailing the theory of scarcity. Darrow swept aside statements that NRA had helped organized labor, reduced unemployment and abolished child labor, with an assertion that it would have happened anyway. "The panic put an end to child labor," he said. "There wasn't any room for it while fathers and mothers were out of work."

"There is no question that small business has suffered under the NRA," Darrow continued. "It has suffered more than it would have suffered otherwise."

The suffering due to continued concentration of wealth would have gone on anyhow, he said, but added that NRA accelerated it.

"I am not an optimist," he added. "I may be an idiot, but not a cheerful idiot."

RESTRICTIONS on planting spring wheat have been removed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who fears the effect of another widespread drouth. The year's first crop report showing that farmers intend to plant 17,847,000 acres of spring wheat is said to be responsible for Wallace's about face. Last year the acreage was 18,521,000 acres. The administration is convinced that the government and farmers have a duty to protect consumers against a wheat shortage, he said. Farmers will plan an additional 900,000 to 2,300,000 acres as a result of the new order, and will harvest between ten and thirty million bushels more, Wallace estimates. Spring wheat normally constitutes about one-fourth of the nation's crop. He denied that the European situation pointing to a possibility of increased sales had anything to do with the new decision. Farmers under contract who plant their full spring wheat acreage will receive full benefit payments, but in return will be required to agree to reduce production in 1936 by the amount asked in next year's contract plus the amount they would have reduced this year. There is no indication that the corn acreage control program for 1935 will be altered.

Sec'y Wallace

PLANS to reduce American money to a single class—possibly federal reserve notes—are being considered by the administration, thus simplifying the nation's monetary structure and making it easier to control. Before this could be established it is necessary to make widespread changes in existing laws, and this will undoubtedly be undertaken when more immediate stages of the recovery drive are completed. According to a high government official, one class of money must be established in order that the government may effectively control issuance of money. Under this plan treasury notes and United States notes would be retired. The silver certificates backed by bullion now held in the treasury might be withdrawn from circulation and transferred to the federal reserve banks as was done with the gold certificates. Since the reserve banks would be sole holder of gold and silver certificates, a definite ratio of silver certificates could thus be established.

DONALD R. RICHBERG was named by the President to head a reorganized NRA board, taking the place of S. Clay Williams, resigned. At the same time the President increased the group governing the Blue Eagle agency from five to seven. A White House statement emphasized the change was made to accelerate the drive to push extension of the NRA through congress.

BY A vote of 202 to 191, the house voted to substitute the Patman currency expansion bill for payment of the soldiers' bonus for the "sound money" plan of Representative Vinson. A boisterous house thus defied President Roosevelt's warning that he will veto immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates. The administration is counting on the senate sustaining the veto.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is looking ahead to 1936. Authoritative word has reached the Capital that he wants all controversial administration legislation cleared away at this session, so that congress can meet for a short and harmonious session prior to the 1936 Presidential campaign. Besides the relief bill, Mr. Roosevelt is said to be specially anxious to have congress pass his social security program; utility holding company legislation; a bill continuing NRA for two years; transportation regulation co-ordination; banking legislation; ship subsidy and increase in the capital of the Home Owners Loan corporation. If this can be cleared from the calendar, it may prevent any serious party squabbles that might interfere with plans to bring about Roosevelt's re-election. The White House is seriously concerned over rumors that congress may scrap a good part of the administration's controversial legislation.

MUSSOLINI'S answer to the latest note on the Abyssinian situation postpones approval of the proposal that differences be decided by an international commission on conciliations "at least until the futility of direct negotiations has been proved." Il Duce made a counter-proposal suggesting that the Italian minister to Abyssinia and the Ethiopian foreign minister get together for a series of personal conferences, go over all the data, and attempt to settle the dispute without the necessity of conciliation under the direction of the League of Nations. Direct negotiations are said to have the approval of both the French and British

Premier Mussolini

SPRING arrived in the West with a stifling dust storm which shrouded the country from eastern New Mexico to the Great Lakes. Powdered soil whipped up from the drouth-scourged prairies hid the sun, and beat relentlessly upon the senses. A dozen deaths were reported, due to suffocations, dust-induced pneumonia and traffic accidents. Freight trains were rolled to sidings, and passenger trains crept along on slow orders. Schools were closed in a number of communities in western states. Wheat prices jumped from 2 to 3¼ cents a bushel as winds cut into the dry Southwest, and Governor Landon of Kansas appealed to President Roosevelt for aid.

THE government is ready to sell gold to foreign nations that can offer an attractive proposition, Secretary Morgenthau announces. Recent sales to the Bank of Mexico and to Guatemala, Morgenthau points out, have cleared the way to similar negotiations with other countries, although he emphasized that no other transactions are being considered at this time. No conditions were attached to the transactions already consummated. In the dealings with Mexico virtually all her silver sales have been made to this country.

"We've got all the gold we can possibly use," Morgenthau added, indicating that the government would make no further undue efforts to accumulate the metal.

COMPROMISE and White House pressure brought about the defeat of the McCarran "prevailing wage" amendment to the work relief bill in the senate, and administration leaders were confident that the measure would be laid before the President for signature within a few days. The deadlock over the amendment was broken when Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Georgia proposed a substitute which leaves the President free to pay "security wages," officially estimated at $50 a month, provided they do not adversely affect the wage scale in private industry; and providing that the prevailing wage must be paid on all permanent federal building projects. This way out, which had been approved by the White House, was accepted by the senate by a vote of 83 to 2, after the McCarran amendment had been defeated, 50 to 38. The two votes against the compromise were cast by Metcalfe of Rhode Island and Hale of Maine, both Republicans. Before the vote on the McCarran amendment was taken Senator Glass announced he was authorized to say that if it prevailed President Roosevelt would veto the measure.

Senate action finally developed into a race to pass the measure before Huey Long returned from Louisiana. Administration forces defeated three attempts to slash the bill, and overrode protests of old line Democrats that the bill imperils the nation's credit. Senator Glass, chairman of the appropriations committee in charge of the bill, solemnly asserted:

"I stand on my prediction that this tremendous appropriation will impair the credit of the United States."

Senator Tydings of Maryland described the bill as the "grandest pork barrel ever to come before congress."

WILEY POST'S second attempt to fly from Los Angeles to New York through the stratosphere in record-breaking time ended at Cleveland, where he was compelled to come down because his supply of oxygen was running short. He said he would have "passed out" in a few minutes if he had not descended to breathable air. Post is convinced that only this trouble prevented his making the transcontinental flight in seven hours and 40 minutes, and he declared he would soon try again. His unofficial average speed to the Cleveland airport was 279.46 miles an hour.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—It was just a coincidence that Senator Couzens introduced his excess profits tax amendment on the heels of another blast from Father Coughlin, who happens to be one of Couzens' most prominent constituents. Couzens has always believed in high taxes on the rich. He has been attacked many times by those who said that he had his own fortune in tax exempt government bonds, and was therefore not as unselfish as it might appear in wanting the taxes on big incomes and corporation earnings.

Curiously enough, Bernard M. Baruch, so bitterly assailed by Father Coughlin, and apparently with so little information—about the only thing he had right was as to the closeness between Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and Baruch—is also an advocate of high taxes on the rich, and on corporations.

Baruch's motive is slightly different from that of Couzens. The financier is a fanatic on the subject of balancing the budget. He agrees more nearly with the economic and fiscal ideas of Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the budget, than with anyone else in the New Deal. Incidentally, his advice on fiscal affairs has never been taken, though several times asked, by the Roosevelt administration.

Just before inauguration, Baruch, consulted as were many others about the inaugural address, pleaded with the President to stress two points and only two—stand by the gold standard and balance the budget. The President gave a little lip service, for a few months, to the idea of balancing the budget, but he gave the hint that he would not worry about the gold standard in the words "an adequate but sound currency."

Then Went to Europe

Baruch believed in cutting governmental expenses, imposing high enough taxes so that receipts would equal total expenditures, and no "emergency budget." He was pleased when his old friend and lieutenant, Johnson, was appointed at the head of NRA, but had nothing to do with that appointment. As a matter of fact he immediately departed for Europe, so that it could not be said truthfully that Johnson was just a mouthpiece for Baruch, or just acting as his creature.

This is not just supposition. Baruch told friends the chief reason he was getting out of the country for a while was to head off just such talk. And as a matter of fact it is no secret that when he returned to the United States he was not too well pleased with the way things had gone.

Washington correspondents who have been observing the movements of Baruch for these many years are rather intrigued at the amount of misinformation Father Coughlin had acquired about the financier. The two men differ violently on one tremendously important issue—inflation.

Baruch is desperately against it. Coughlin is enthusiastically for it. Roosevelt stands somewhere between the two. Roosevelt is against printing press money. He is for devaluation of the gold content of the dollar. He would like to see some international system for currency worked out—not now, but after commodity prices have reached the level he thinks proper. And the chief merit of the system he would like to see would be that it would tend to hold commodity prices where he thinks they ought to be. So that the purchasing value of the farmer's crops and the wage earner's envelope would be fairly constant.

Coughlin is for taking a short cut to increase commodity prices by printing enough money so that the dollar would no longer be so valuable. Baruch stands firmly by the gold standard, thinking both the Roosevelt and the Coughlin plans fantastic, but Coughlin's worse than Roosevelt's, because the Coughlin plan departs just that much further from what Baruch regards as sound.

Cotton Situation

Concern about the cotton situation continues to mount in administration and New Deal circles. Of all those speaking about it publicly, however, the only high official who really gives anything like the real picture is Daniel C. Roper, secretary of Commerce.

He is one of the few who openly concede that the government has tried to maintain the price of cotton at too high a level—that if held there it is only a question of time until the rest of the world either finds an acceptable substitute, or a new cotton growing area. He is one of the few who has had the temerity to talk openly about the menace of the new development in Brazil, one known result of which already is that certain important English cotton mills have altered their looms—a most expensive operation, hence indicating permanence—so as to handle Brazilian instead of American cotton.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, while denying vigorously that any change in the cotton program is anticipated, did not attempt to predict that the amount of money the government would loan on a bale of cotton in 1935 would be as great as it has been.

The amount the government will loan will be cut. In other words, the government has slowly but surely been driven to what it now knows is the necessity of pegging the price of cotton lower than it has been.

One of the most convincing points in driving the administration to this position—not yet officially announced—is not the fear of a substitute, or of the future development of a new area, though both of these are recognized as being real enough. It is the fact that the rest of the world is not now buying anything like the normal amount of cotton from the United States.

More Trade Treaties

Coming right on the heels of the collapse of the effort to barter half a million bales of cotton in a deal with Germany—mostly for blocked marks which would have had to be expended inside Germany for exports—the falling off in American cotton exports has given a decided boost to the pressure for more reciprocal trade treaties.

Manufacturers of this country have been warned by Secretary Roper that—in this drive to provide exchange in this country for foreign countries which might buy our cotton, and other products—they must stand ready to submit to foreign competition. It is not enough, he warned, to reduce duties on foreign goods, which do not compete with American factories. It is necessary to admit a very large volume of goods, which do compete with ours—or else give up all hope of selling our own goods abroad.

Underneath all this pressure is one particular necessity—to provide a foreign market for American cotton. Other things, too, of course, but cotton is one thing that is causing the most worry.

This does not mean that the government hopes to continue the present price of cotton by obtaining additional foreign buying. It now accepts as a fact that it must reduce the price as part of what is necessary to induce foreign buying; that—and provide in some way for foreign purchasing power. The last, of course, is why the government is now pressing for reciprocal trade agreements looking to American purchases of more foreign goods.

The situation has not been much discussed because it is so unpleasant. Nobody is expected to be happy about it. Not the southern cotton growers, for they must look forward to lower prices for their staple. Not the manufacturers, for they must look forward to keener competition, and to sacrificing part of the American market to their foreign competitors.

Return of prosperity, with greater purchasing power in America, will help the manufacturers. For the cotton planters, however, it would probably spell higher prices for everything they buy.

Business Salvage

Right under the smoke screen provided by Senator Huey Long and Father Coughlin, business has eased into Washington and run off with more salvage than it had thought possible two months ago—or even two weeks ago.

For instance—due to an amazing flood of propaganda—repeal of the pink slip publicity for income taxes provision seems assured.

Also—the death sentence for utility holding companies has been reprieved to life imprisonment—or at least discretion to do so will be reposed in government agencies.

Also—contractors, scheduled to be left high and dry whenever possible in the four-billion-dollar work relief expenditures, now find themselves in such satisfactory shape that the construction league, spokesman for the reconstruction industry, and Michael McDonough, of the building trades unions, join in a statement singing the praises of the Presidential program. While another big group of contractors, the road builders, are giving a good imitation of a cat with cream on its whiskers.

And that would not be all, if a few more industries wake up to the situation and realize what they have to do to be saved. Though so far not many have shown indication of so doing.

For example, the railroads, with an army of security holders almost as large as the utilities, have not thought of making a mass attack on individual senators and representatives for what they really want—regulation of trucks and busses, but especially trucks.

They have been very discreet, stating their case in pompous arguments, and leaning over backward lest they be suspected of speaking in self-interest. If they would get their stockholders writing in to the senators and representatives in whose states and districts the security holders vote, there might be action very quickly.

How to Get Results

What the railroads should learn, and what a good many other lines of business should learn, is a very simple fact about how to get results in Washington. It is a fact that was appreciated to the utmost by the Anti-Saloon league. It is a fact which has been appreciated for the first time this session by the utilities. And a fact spectacularly demonstrated by the forces fighting now for repeal of income tax publicity.

The fact is that the average senator and representative can be affected only by backfires from his own state or district. The average senator, for example, is no more interested in a referendum by the National Chamber of Commerce on some piece of legislation than he is in a treatise on why the ancient Assyrians did not drink whisky instead of wine. Probably not so much.

But he does care, and tremendously, if half a dozen of the very manufacturers who voted in that referendum send him strong personal letters and wires—if the manufacturers in question live in that senator's state. And if they induce a lot of their friends to join the clamor, the senator seeks light, as a rule, very quickly.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

INFORMATION

The first word in the new edition of Webster's Unabridged dictionary is aa and the last word is zyzzogeton. Aa is a kind of lava. The zyzzogeton, in case you didn't know, is a South American leaf hopper of the cicadellidae family having the tuberculato and the front tibiae grooved.

The "liquid test"

...It ENDS bowel worries for many people

This is a test that tells you whether the system needs a cathartic change. If you have constant sluggish spells or bilious attacks, and laxatives seem to make things worse, it would be wise to try this:

Stop all use of any laxative that does not encourage variation from a "fixed dose" (which may be entirely too large a dose for your individual need). Use instead, a liquid laxative that you can measure and regulate as to dose. As necessary to repeat, take smaller doses, less and less often, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

Doctors use liquid laxatives, and a properly prepared liquid laxative, containing natural laxative agents like senna and cascara is a joy and a comfort; a real help in establishing regularity. Ask your doctor about this! (Doctors use liquid laxatives.) You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a most dependable liquid laxative, at any drug store.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Tiny Camera

The smallest camera in the world, recently exhibited in London is about the size of a man's thumb nail, and a watchmaker's jewel was used as a lens.

Every Night YOU NEED GOOD LIGHT

HERE IT IS... A Coleman LANTERN

Coleman Lanterns turn night into day! Give plenty of light for every outdoor job at night in every kind of weather. Up to 300 candlepower brilliance. Pyrex glass globe makes it wind-proof, rain-proof and insect-proof. Can't spill fuel even if tipped over. Fine for night work around barns, feed lots, garage and cellar; for lighting up lodges, clubs and cabins. It's the "Light of a Thousand Uses".

PRICED AS LOW AS $5.05 COMPLETE

See your hardware or housefurnishing dealer. If he doesn't handle, write us.

THE COLEMAN LAMP & STOVE CO.

Dept. WU129, Wichita, Kans.; Chicago, Ill.; Los Angeles, Calif.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Toronto, Ontario, Canada. (5129)

MAGIC SKIN Beautifier

FAMOUS CREAM ENDS FRECKLES, BLACKHEADS—RESTORES CLEAR, LOVELY SKIN

Now you can quickly restore the fresh, lovely skin of youth. Just let wonderful NADINOLA Cream gently smooth away the mask of dull gray skin, freckles, blackheads. All you do is this: (1) At bedtime spread a thin film of Nadinola Cream over your face—no massaging, no rubbing. (2) Leave on while you sleep. (3) Watch daily improvement—usually in 5 to 10 days you will see a marvelous transformation. Freckles, blackheads disappear; dull coarsened skin becomes creamy-white, satin-smooth, adorable! Nadinola Cream is a famous beautifier tested and trusted for nearly two generations. Fine results positively guaranteed. All toilet counters, only 50c. Or write NADINOLA, Box 35, Paris, Tenn.

BABY CHICKS. Blood tested hens, antigen method, reactors removed. A-grade $7.50; assorted $6.50. Prices on AA and AAA matings R. O. P. Cockerels on request. DICKSON HATCHERY, DICKSON, TENN.

Suffered From Tetter on Hands

Relieved by Cuticura

"I suffered for two or three years with tetter on my hands. If I did any work they would bleed and become irritated, and I could not bear to put them in water. They were dirty-looking all the time.

"I tried different remedies, but they failed, so I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I purchased more and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my hands were entirely relieved." (Signed) Miss Mary Pratt, R. 3, New Market, Tenn.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. One sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept R, Malden, Mass."—Adv.

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

—20—

This was too much. Lanny put her arms around him and kissed him on each cheek.

"And that's a seal that'll get by, too." Dan was embarrassed. Lanny was, too—so she took a hasty departure.

The two men stared after her, admiration in their eyes. "A d—d fine woman, that. None finer," said McNamara.

"Why don't you marry her?" The suggestion popped out of Doctor Burt as suddenly as it had occurred to him.

"Now, there's an idea," McNamara mumbled dazedly. "How long have you been mulling it over?"

"Subconsciously, since you entered the office. I caught a gleam in Lanny's eyes—and when she kissed you, the subconscious crystalized into the conscious."

"I'll think it over."

"You'll not think it over, Mac. You'll make up your mind now. And I can rather be a bachelor than a disappointed lover."

"Tell you what to do, Mac," Stephen advised. "Send her a nice photograph of yourself. If she puts it in a silver frame you may proceed with confidence."

"How will I know, my boy?"

"If it's in a silver frame on the dressing table in her bedroom, it'll be a cinch."

"How'll I get into her bedroom, you blockhead?"

"I'll steal her latchkey and have a duplicate made. Then you can investigate."

McNamara rose and held out his hand. "'Tis a pity, Stephen, my boy, you aren't in my detective bureau. Good night."

The annual parade of the police force was but a week distant, and during that week Dan lived entirely on orange juice and spent his nights in a Turkish bath. As a result he dropped eight pounds off his northern elevation. Very erect and martial he sat on a milk-white charger, while a photographer took several exposures of him and his command.

When the prints were delivered to him, he sent them all to Lanny with a note saying:

"Now that we are both in the same crooked conspiracy, I thought you might be interested in having the latest photograph of the biggest crook of them all."

The following day Stephen Burt sent him a key, and the following afternoon McNamara let himself into Lanny's house and discovered one of the photos on her dressing table—and in a gold frame! Another print in a silver frame appeared in her drawing room.

"Holy Moses!" he soliloquized. "I'm in for it now! God help me, there's no escape!"

CHAPTER IX

Upon his return to his office McNamara found in his mail a photograph of Lanny, indorsed: "To dear old Dan—from his partner in crime—Lanny." While he was gazing upon it and telling himself how little justice the portrait did the beloved subject Stephen telephoned, demanding that he come to the office.

Lanny was in tears. "I've just had another visit from Mrs. Merton, Dan," Stephen began. "It seems that after two years of inactivity, during which time she had elected to believe Penelope Gatlin dead, she has developed a crazy notion to prove it. She wants to get Penelope's fortune."

"You questioned her about her daughter?"

"Yes, but she doesn't know it," said Stephen. "I hypnotized her first and spent an hour questioning her, and it appears that this morning she visited your captain of detectives and asked him to throw out a dragnet to locate Penelope Gatlin. She brought him some snapshots of the girl—told him her real name—all about her money—the girl's habits and peculiarities—everything. When I'd discovered that Penelope is an escaped convict. They will immediately deport her and Flynn will meet her at Hoboken."

"But can't you do anything about it, Dan?" Lanny pleaded.

"Nothing! Flynn and Angelloti are on the trail officially now." He stared at Lanny tragically. "I'm out of the picture now and can do nothing but advise you. Send two cables—one to Nance Belden in Paris and the other to Penelope Gatlin at the same address. Say: 'Come at once—Lanny dying—cable name vessel on which leaving,' and sign it 'Steve.'

"I'll meet her at the dock," Stephen decided. "I'm due in New York next week."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," said Dan. "I'll send that convict in my house." He shuddered and grimaced in his distress. "I could handle the wop with money, but Flynn has sworn an oath! And because I've made a monkey out of him he'll keep it. He'd rather make a monkey out of me now than acquire great riches—and if I'm broke, most likely the captain of detectives will step into my shoes, and Flynn will stand a good chance of becoming captain of detectives. Oh, murderation, Lanny darling, have you a little whisky in the house? I'm faint, so I am."

"You're suffering from heart trouble, you egg," Lanny cried savagely. "Yes! A weak heart, a soft heart, a human heart."

"Send that cable," he roared.

"Yes, get busy, Lanny," Stephen urged. "The bird of time has but a little way to flutter—and the wretched fowl is on the way."

After Dan McNamara had left his office, Doctor Stephen Burt gazed with mild disapproval upon Lanny.

"Unlike you and Dan McNamara," he said, "I dislike having the peaceful tenor of my life disturbed."

"This intrigue is myrrh and incense to me, Stevie."

"I know it. You and Dan love a fight for its own sweet sake, but I do not. I have a particular aversion to grand jury indictments, and it is a possibility you and your boy friend have let me in for."

"Fiddlesticks!"

"Lanny, I'll be angry with you in a minute. Now, listen to me, and whatever you do, do not talk back. Dan McNamara has run out on us. I mean you. He's through. Dan's rattled. If he hadn't been he'd never have ordered the sending of such a fool cablegram."

"Dan McNamara knows his way about," Lanny defended. "He's more than nine years old."

"So do I. Lanny, it will be highly dangerous to send that cablegram. How is she to know it isn't a message to decoy her back to the penitentiary? If she receives it while she's Penelope Gatlin, she is extremely liable to cable for confirmation before acting on it. That would mean a delay of not less than twenty-four hours. On the other hand, if she is Nance Belden when she receives it, she will leave Paris openly and walk right into the hands of the New York police. I'm not much of a detective, but tonight I'm a better one than that McNamara idiot."

"He's not an idiot. He's one of the finest men I ever knew."

"Keep quiet," he ordered severely. "You ditch my train of thought."

He drew a sheet of paper toward him and commenced writing, while Lanny glowered at him. Presently he sat up and read:

"Grave danger stop beat it some other country traveling by motor stop upon arrival cable address stop if need funds will cable them stop leave Paris establishment going concern stop go out for walk and disappear stop unless these instructions followed you leave trail for persecutors to follow.

"Mac."

He looked up. "How do those instructions strike you?"

TO BE CONTINUED.

This Was Too Much. Lanny Put Her Arms Around Him and Kissed Him on Each Cheek.

Use the Soft Pedal

"Don't try to make too much noise in de world," said Uncle Eben. "A good ingineer ain' gwinter use up all his steam blowin' de whistle."

Chemists Seek Means of Slowing Down Oxidation

Oxygen, which gives us life, is also man's greatest industrial enemy, notes a writer in the Montreal Herald. The air we breathe contains one-fifth oxygen, and this gas is a highly corrosive substance. When a house burns down it is simply combining with the oxygen in the air. When soap turns brown on a chemist's shelf it is merely another instance of the corrosive quality of oxygen. But it is the motor industry that suffers most from the ravages of oxidation. Its two chief organic essentials, rubber and petrol, are especially susceptible. Thousands of pounds worth of these materials have been utterly wasted owing to the action of air—and now the scientists have struck back. They have been experimenting with the development of substances known as anti-oxidants These compounds when mixed with any product, slow down oxidation to such an extent that its usefulness and life are increased tenfold.

Page Gertrude Stein

I was speaking of the husband of a friend. "He is hard to talk to," I said. "I never can think of anything to say to him."

"Why don't you just say the same things over and over, like you do at home?" piped up little sister.—The Parents' Magazine.

Week's Supply of Postum Free

Read the offer made by the Postum Company in another part of this paper. They will send a full week's supply of health giving Postum free to anyone who writes for it.—Adv.

Snakes Kill Each Other

In a battle between a cobra and a mamba in London both were severely bitten, the mamba being the first to succumb, and the cobra dying while trying to swallow its dead enemy, each falling victim to the other's venom.

"Made My Car Look New Again!"

You'll marvel too, at how beautiful your car looks after you Simoniz it. But Simonizing does more than just bring back the lustre and beauty your car had when new. It makes the finish stay beautiful. Dust and dirt wipe off of a Simonized car with a dry cloth, and the finish sparkles as bright as ever. So always insist on Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener for your car.

Simonizing a car is easy! The new improved Simoniz Kleener quickly restores the lustre. Simoniz gives the finish lasting beauty and protection.

MOTORISTS WISE SIMONIZ

Why Firestone

TIRES CAN HOLD THE DEEP, HEAVY GROUND GRIP TREAD TO THE TIRE BODY, WITHSTANDING TERRIFIC PULLS AND STRAINS AND GIVING MORE TRACTION THAN ANY TIRE EVER MADE

REALIZING the need for better traction on soft ground and country roads, Firestone engineers designed and built a new type of tire with the deepest, heaviest, most rugged tread ever known.

You do not need chains with this remarkable new Ground Grip Tire, because the rugged tread is scientifically designed for self-cleaning and will not clog, even in mud or clay. Firestone can give you a tread like this because of two patented construction features.

One is the two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords placed between the heavy tread and the tire body, binding the tread and body together in one unit of great strength.

The other is Gum-Dipping, by which process every high stretch cord in the tire body is soaked in liquid rubber, preventing friction and giving the cord body extra strength to withstand the extreme flexing at low air pressures.

For your spring and summer plowing and general farm use you cannot afford to be without these new Ground Grip Tires on your cars, trucks, tractors and farm equipment. See your nearest Firestone Service Store, tire dealer or implement dealer today. Easy terms can be arranged. There is a complete line of Firestone tires, tubes and auto supplies for your every farm need.

This heavy traction tread guaranteed not to loosen from the tire body under any conditions and all other parts of the tire are fully guaranteed to give satisfaction in every respect

Firestone GROUND GRIP $10.90 UP 4.50-21

4.40-21 .	$10.90
4.75-19 .	11.75
5.00-19 .	11.75
4.50-20 .	11.50
5.00-20 .	11.50
5.25-17 .	13.90
5.50-17 .	13.90
5.25-18 .	14.15

Other sizes priced proportionately low

©1935, F. T. & R. Co.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Listen to the Voice of Firestone—featuring Richard Crooks, Gladys Swarthout, or Nelson Eddy—every Monday night over N. B. C.—WEAF Network . . . . A Five Star Program

FOR 20% MORE POWER

In farming, quick starts and more power are a big advantage. In the Firestone Extra Power Battery, the new Firestone Allrubber Separator gives you as much as 20% greater power and far longer battery life.

FOR QUICK STARTS AND LONGER MILEAGE

Put a new set of Firestone Spark Plugs in your car—truck and tractor—you'll be surprised how much quicker they will start, and how much fuel you will save.

FOR BETTER BRAKING CONTROL

Firestone Brake Lining is put up in sets, making it convenient for you to reline your own brakes. It is designed and made for smoothest and most efficient braking control.

FEED COTTONSEED MEAL and HULLS TO HORSES, MULES AND OXEN.

The annual feed bill for work stock is an important item of expense. Money can be saved by proper feeding. Your State Extension Service (Auburn) suggests the following rations for daily allowance for Horses and Mules weighing 1000 lbs. In making corrections for an 800-lb. animal decrease the feed one-fifth, 1200-lb. animal add one-fifth.

	Pounds
For idle Horses and Mules:
Corn, Oats or Corn and Cob Meal	5
COTTONSEED MEAL	1
Hay or Bundle Fodder	12
For Horses and Mules—Light Work:
Corn, Oats or Molasses	6
COTTONSEED MEAL	1 1-2 to 2
Hay or Bundle Fodder	10
For Horses and Mules—Heavy Work:
Corn and Oats	12
COTTONSEED MEAL	2
Hay or Bundle Fodder	5
COTTONSEED HULLS	5

Buy A

Crosley Shelvador REFRIGERATOR

AND BEGIN TO SAVE

The Shelves in the Door increase the usable capacity 50 per cent, and also saves time and current.

WHALEY FURNITURE CO.

Montevallo, Alabama.

The Democrat

Published Every Thursday Morning at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter At The Post Office In Columbiana, Alabama, Under Act Of Congress, March 3, 1879.

FRANK HEAD, Editor and Publisher

MILDRED WHITE WALLACE, Associate Editor.

CALERA NEWS

Those who attended the American Legion speaking in Montgomery, Thursday, were: Mrs. Marion Jones, Mrs. Albert Ryan, Mrs. A. E. Norwood, Miss Lucy Norwood and Mrs. Guy Roberts, President of the Ware-Crim Auxiliary No. 56.

The Baptist Missionary Society Circle No. 1, met at the home of Mrs. B. F. Killingsworth, Wednesday, afternoon with Mrs. Susie B. Williams joint hostess. An ice course was served to 12 members.

Mr. T. C. McKibbon was in Birmingham, Saturday, on business.

Miss Eleanor Jeffers, of Birmingham, was the guest of Miss Lucy Bailey Bowdon, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell motored to Haleyville, Wednesday.

Mr. Clayton Wallace spent Wednesday in Birmingham on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Monagan anl daughter, Peggy, have an apartment with Mrs. John Booker.

Mr. Billie Tom Miller, of Birmingram, is spending the week-end with his parents, Rev. B. F. Miller and Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Richard Parker's dinner guests Thursday were Mrs. Walter B. Ozley and son.

Mrs. Norman Brown was at home Saturday afternoon, March 23rd, in honor of her daughter, Leona, 6th birthlay anniversary. Refreshments was served to tre following: Katherine and Julia McDuffey, Willie Nell Seale, Billy Ross, Mary Lou Mitchell, Mary Sue Parker, Vernon Silvia, Gene Bairfield, Earl Erwin, Jeffie Leola Cowart, June Baker, Bettie Joe Baker, Anna Bell Blankenship, Inez Heaton, Leona Brown, Norman Brown, Jr., and Robert and Elba Gunn.

HEADLINERS

IN THE BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL LIFE OF

BIRMINGHAM

This directory is an official guide for the convenience of Shelby County people, who need articles and various kinds of services, they cannot find at home. The headings are indexed so that you may use them rapidly and conveniently. You will find here most any line you are seeking in Birmingham with leading concerns. This directory will save you time and money.

Auto's and Repairs

Notice To Chevrolet Owners.

The next time you are in Birmingham, and you are having trouble with your Chevrolet, it will pay you to drive by

EDWARDS MOTOR COMPANY

16th St., and 3rd Ave. N.,

and have your car checked by our expert mechanics at our reasonable rates now offered.

Beauty Schools

BE A BEAUTICIAN—Earn $20 to $35 per week—Good operators in demand. This school is prepared to give you a most thorough training. Day and night classes.

WOODALL INSTITUTE of Beauty Culture

Marinello Method - 205½ N. 21 St.

Chiropractor

LADY CHIROPRACTOR and PATHOMETRIST

COLONIC IRRIGATION

Men and Women Accepted

Male Attendant — 3-6708

JUANITA JOHNSON

513 North 19th Street

My professional concern is just two things—your Health and My Reputation—Therefore I shall accept only the cases which I beleive I can help.

Dr. A. H. Kessler

CHIROPRACTOR

PATHOMETRIST

200—5 Farley Building

Feeds

Corn And Hay Supply Short

The 1934 Corn crop in the United States is seriously short, and the domestic Hay crop is also short. No better substitute can be had than Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls. You already know they have no equal as cow feed, but did you know that your mules, both idle and work stock, will thrive on Meal and Hulls?

Auburn recommends them. Write for feeding formula for all purposes. Our Green Toy Meal is the best—Try it and see!

Farmers' Ginners Cotton Oil Co.

Furniture

ATTENTION

Engaged Couples and Brides To Be!

Cedar Chest Free

See Us For Details.

SOKOL BROS.

1818 1st Avenue North

Grinding

We grind all edge tools—specializing on razors, clippers and shears. Also sausage plates and knives, bacon slicers and choppers.

BIRMINGHAM GRINDING WORKS

527 N. 18th Street.

Livestock

HERRIN, HORSE AND MULE CO.

2701 2nd Ave. North

Dealers In

HORSES AND MULES.

All animals they sell are guaranteed to be as represented. They deliver Mules by trucks which makes them as close to you as your local dealer.

"WE SELL OR TRADE".

Poultry

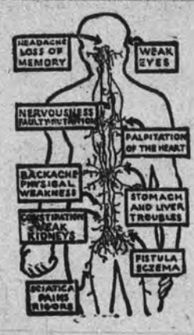
IDEAL BABY CHICKS

are all the word implies. They are pure bred, blood tested and bred to-day, and if given half a chance will grow. Our heavy varieties are $7.95 delivered and our Big English White Leghorns are $9.00. White and black Minorcas, giant size, $9.00. Send us your hatching eggs. Our equipment is all electric, and we will give you a big hatch.

IDEAL HATCHERIES

211 N. 24th Street

Birmingham, Alabama



Long Distance Phone 7-5400

These Birmingham firms are the Leaders in their respective lines, and are always glad to serve you. Give them a trial.

Medical Specialist

Piles Treated Without Surgery

By "Conservative Ambulant Methods"

Many and varied reflex conditions in various parts of the body are due to troubles of the Rectum, as the cut herewith shows.

I have an instructive illustrated copyrighted booklet which I will send free on request if you have piles or other rectal trouble. Write today for a copy and learn about the method by which you may be successfully treated in 90% of rectal trouble without surgery—without the use of chloroform or ether, if treatment is taken in time. This method of treatment has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Don't say it can't be done—that's what they told Edison, Marconi and others. There is no greater blow to progress than CONDEMNATION without INVESTIGATION.

MAIL THIS TODAY

I have rectal trouble. Please send me free copy "Rectal Diseases Cured Without Surgery." This request does not obligate me in any way.

Name.....

Street..... Town.....

DR. M. D. KELLEY

414½ N. 20th St., Birmingham, Alabama

Phone 7-5383 P. O. Box 415

Hours: 9 A. M. to 6 P. M. Sundays: 10 A. M. to 12 Unless By Appointment.

Optometrist

DR. J. H. TINDER

Optometrist

EYES EXAMINED

OPTICAL WORK

627-28 Comer Building

Birmingham, Alabama

Phone 7-2885

I WILL BE GLAD TO SEE MY OLD FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS OF SHELBY COUNTY.

TELL THESE ADVERTISERS THAT YOU SAW THEIR ADVERTISEMENT IN THE SHELBY COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

Roofing

THE FINEST ROOF MADE

Interlocking Steel Shingles

Last 30 to 40 years.
Need no painting.
Easy to nail on.
Fire-proof.
Will not break, crack, nor curl.
Cool in Summer, Warm in Winter.
Cost only $5 per sq.
For the best roof—the life-time roof—use galvanized pressed steel shingles.

Birmingham Fence & Roofing

520 N. 28th St. - Dial 3-8538

Seeds

J. B. Gorman & Sons Seed & Supply Company

ESTABLISHED 1898

SEEDS, PLANTS, BULBS AND FERTILIZER

PHONE 3-7291

2330 SECOND AVE.

Give Us A Trial.

Hernia and Rupture

DR. H. G. BOWDEN

Why be bothered with RUPTURE or HERNIA when it is eliminated without operation. Dr. H. G. BOWDEN, specialist has perfected an appliance which has proven successful in the most stubborn cases even after operations have failed. These are made according to your needs. Consultation void of charge. WE GUARANTEE RESULTS.

517 Chamber of Commerce Building ——— Phone 7-1816

Don't gamble on Tires!

ONLY GOODRICH SILVERTOWNS GIVE YOU GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION

No Extra Cost!

● If you never thought much about blow-outs, just watch the papers—see how often people are killed and injured when tires blow out. But keep your name off the accident list. Get Life-Saver Golden Ply blow-out protection now. Stop and let us show you the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown. Let us show you how it makes you three times safer from high-speed blow-outs—and how its deep-grooved tread, its big, husky cleats protect you from dangerous "tail-spin" skids. Remember, you get months more mileage and real blow-out protection with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns.

I'LL TAKE A CHANCE DEEP SEA DIVING BUT I DON'T WANT ANOTHER Blow-out

Says FRANK CRILLEY, FAMOUS DEEP SEA DIVER

"The worst scare I ever had in my life came right on the Lincoln Highway when my left front tire blew out and sent me careening across the highway—But I'm through taking chances like these—my car is completely equipped with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns."

The NEW Goodrich Safety Silvertown WITH LIFE-SAVER GOLDEN PLY

East Texas Service Station

GUY ROBERTS, Prop. - - - - - - - - CALERA, ALABAMA

PERSONAL MENTION

SPRINGTIME IN DIXIELAND

"When the red bcd blushes to greet the sun,
And the world is fair to see,
And the little green leaves from the whispering trees,
Are whispering soft to me—
And you hear a wonderful note from the mocking bird's throat
As he flits from tree to tree
And the Bluebird sings a tender song
As he calls to you and me"——then my friends you may rest assured that it is SPRINGTIME IN DIXIELAND.

Life then becomes a glorious privilege. It is good to be able to know, to listen, to sing, to love, to work, to look up at the blue sky, to watch the sun sink slowly beyond the Western horizon; to feel the breath of Spring; to watch the unfolding of flowers; to be a vital part of this great universe. Even AGE turns back the leaves of Memory's album gladdened by the promise of another Spring. And what is that old adage about a YOUNG man's fancy lightly turning to "thoughts of love"? Better be careful of that little pagan love god! I understand he is shooting his arrows pretty true around this town, and what HE can't do with that bow and arrow with the help of Old Man Moon these nights—well, take it from ME—it won't be worth considering!

There is always something interesting happening in the newspaper business——Not many minutes during the day but someone drops by with a bit of chatter which is usually NEWS to "yours truly", for "copy pounding" keeps me on the job.

Today, Calvin Weldon, popular Circuit Clerk seized with a spirit of "Spring Cleaning", unearthed an invitation in his office which is exactly 87 years old. It reads like this—"The Managers will be pleased to receive you on Wednesday evening next at a Cotillion Party to be given at Shelby Springs". It is signed: I. B. Goldsby, V. H. Goldun, G. T. Blevins I. A. Strother, R. I. English, J. T. Carter and A. W. Speight. Dated September 8th, 1848. The invitation was sent to Mrs. Dr. Moseley—Anyone remember the occasion?

The Camp Branch-Saginaw Parent Teachers Association held an interesting meeting at the School building on March 7th. "The Development of the Personality of the Child" was the subject for discussion, after which a beautiful musical program was renderel by Misses Payne and Riley. Mrs. Purnie Hendrick, County chairman gave an inspiling talk, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held on March 21st.

Curlee's Cafe was the brilliantly lighted rendezvous for the Exchangites on Friday night, March 22, when the Columbiana Chapter celebrated Ladies Night. A host of distinguished visitors from Tuscaloosa, Montgomery, Birmingham and Montevallo graced the happy event.

The tables artistically arranged by Mildred Curlee were centered with pink snap dragons. Tall pink candelabra were placed at intervals down the U-shaped tables around which were seated 75 guests.

Toastmaster H. M. Hurst provided gay and sparkling entertainment. After the introduction of the members and their guests for the evening, music was furnished by the Rhythm 'Ristocrat's who made their initial bow to the public. This local organization received an ovation as they were presented to the guests.

Dr. Howe, of the University of Alabama, world traveler and guest speaker, captivated his audience with his instructive anl entertaining lecture on Japan. Dr. Howe also remained over and addressed the P.-T. A. and teachers of Shelby County on Saturday morning.

The Banquet was brought to a close with orchestra music, after which an informal reception was held at Curlee's.

Here is a thought for the month! A certain Farmer asks me to pass on to whom it may concern:
"A mule cannot pull
While he is kicking,
And he cannot kick
While he is pulling.
Neither can you".

Is your home suffering from DILAPIDOSIS? If so, why not have its face lifted? See Mrs. Lida Wood, newly appointel Community Worker in the Better Housing project sponsored by the Federal Government. You can remodel NOW and pay LATER.

"What is REAL GOOD? I asked in musing mood. "ORDER", said the Court, "KNOWLEDGE", said the school; "TRUTH", said the wise man; PLEASURE, said the fool; "LOVE", said the maiden; "BEAUTY", said the page; "FREEDOM", said the DREAMER; "HOME", said the sage; "FAME", said the soldier; "EQUITY", said the seer; Spake my heart full sadly, "the answer is not here". Then within my bosom softly this I heard "Each heart holds the secret "KINDNESS," is the word."

Mrs. Robert Miles, former resident of Columbiana, now residing in Columbus, Georgia, is spending a few days in Columbiana with old friends and relatives.

The first dance of the Spring and Summer season was staged at the Municipal Airport in Columbiana on last Saturday night. The music was furnished by the popular Rhythm 'Ristocrats who scored a hit which won for them an engagement through the summer to furnish music for dances twice a month to be given in this recreational center for which Columbiana citizens are so grateful.

There is no amusement which has a more natural foundation for wholesome recreation than the art of Terpsichore. There were over 100 present to enjoy the dance or who were just there to "laugh and be merry." The grand March was led by Mayor Harry Gordon who is largely responsible for the Airport and who covets the distinction of having built the first Airport in the State under the New Deal plan.

The next dance will be held on April 6th.

The personnel of the orchestra inclules: LeRoy Mooney, pianist; L. B. Riddle, Jr., trumpet; Wales W. Wallace, Jr., saxophone and violin; Rux Carter, drums; Jesse Underwood, trumpet; Tom Minor and Joe Atchison, guitars. The most popular requests on last Saturday night's program included the orchestra's original interpretations of "Mood Indigo", "Old Rockin' Chair", and the ever popular waltz numbers: "My Dear" and "The Waltz You Saved For Me."

Cold drinks and sandwiches will be a feature of the next dance which will be given on April 6th.

Eddie Watson, popular Manager of the Strand Theatre in Montevallo, was a distinguished visitor to Columbiana on Monday. "Eddie" tells me that Will Rogers is slated for Montevallo next week in his new picture, "Life Begins at Forty". This picture assures the Strand Theatre of a complete sell-out again. Last week no one who visited this theatre could doubt the fact PROSPERITY was in the New Deal, and that a share of it was in Shelby County. The house was packed every night. Congratulations to Mr. Watson! He deserves it—and here's hoping the popularity of the Cinema never wanes at his theatre which is a credit to the county.

Agreeing with Cheerful Cherub:
"When friends accuse me of my crimes,
I candidly confess they're true,
For this exasperates them more
Than anything that I can do".

Carlos Warren, brilliant young student who won County oratorical honors and who hails from Montevallo High School, will compete in the District Elimination Contest in Marion, Alabama, on April 8th. This contest is sponsored by the Birmingham News-Age-Herald, and the good wishes of the entire County are following Mr. Warren and hoping for the further realization of his ambitious career.

The Shelby County Democrat

(Continued On Page Eight)

If You Want The Best And That Is What You Should Have—You Will Find It Here——

DAVIS DRUG CO.

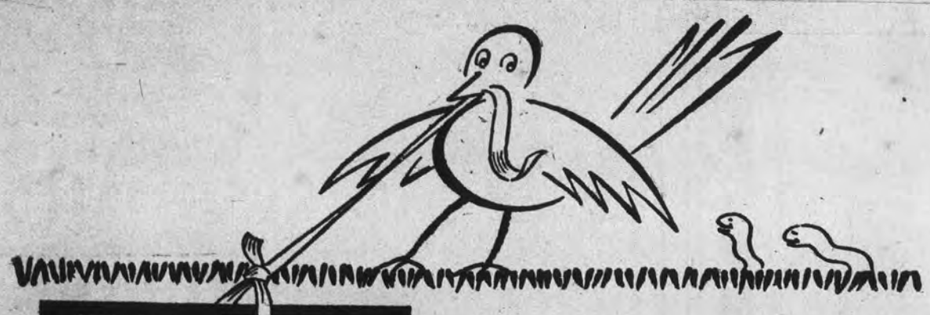
In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.

Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

——Complete——
FUNERAL PROTECTION
——No Age Limit——
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

Make Arrangements Now To
Dine At
Curlee's Cafe
Columbiana, Ala.

Here the food is always delicious and satisfying.. Prices are extremely reasonable and the service is gracious and cordial. Menus are prepared for your convenience—be it a quick luncheonette, a dinner, or a special banquet—Curlee's culinary department is adequately prepared to serve you.



Come in and try one of our Special Sunday Dinners served from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

NOTICE
E. H. Morris (Lish) Is Now With Baker's Cash Store
Columbiana, Alabama.

He solicits your patronage, will meet competition, give honest weights, and guarantee you a square deal.

Bring us your eggs, butter, corn etc., and make this store your headquarters while in town.

Early Bird GETS THE RANGE

ONLY 99 LEFT AT $62.50

TRUE, these aren't the very latest models. True, they're styled a little differently from the new 1935 Westinghouse ranges, but—

When it comes to cooking—swiftly, cleanly, cooly, economically, conveniently—they really do it!

And the price—$62.50 completely installed—is the lowest ever offered on a new electric range in Alabama. These ranges are real values. There are only 99 available in the whole state. That's why we say —come early and get yours.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electricity is CHEAP in Alabama

REDDY KILOWATT

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Your Electrical Servant

"I've never heard
Of such a sale—
So much range,
So LITTLE 'KALE'!"

SPECIALS
--at--
Taylor's Cash Stores

COLUMBIANA CASH STORE
SILURIA CASH STORE
BUCK CREEK CASH STORE
MONTEVALLO CASH STORE
UNDERWOOD CASH STORE
CALERA CASH STORE

1 pound box Edgewood Smacks	17c	Beans, Stokely No. 2 1-2 can, 2 for	25c
Snowdrift, 6 pounds	$1.00	Salad Dressing, 8 oz.	10c
Snowdrift, 3 pounds	50c	Wesson Oil, 1 pint	23c
Sugar, 10 pounds	47c	Crackers, 1 pound	10c
Big Deal Soap, 3 for	10c	Peanut Butter, 16 oz. jar	15c
Octagon Soap, 5 for	21c	Flour, High Score, 48 lb. sack, per bbl.	$7.50
Starch, 3 for	10c	Flour, Water Fall, 48 lb. sack, per bbl.	$7.90
Salt, 5c per box, 3 for	10c	C. S. Meal, 7 percent, per sack	$1.85
Matches, 5 boxes for	19c	Winner Dairy Feed, per sack	$2.35
Tomatoes, 3 for	25c	Seed Potatoes, per peck	30c
Corn, 3 for	25c	Grape Nut Flakes, 2 for (With a Cream Pitcher Free)	21c
Hominy, 5 for	25c	1 lb. can Calumet Baking Powder (With a Baking Pan Free)	21c
Salmon, Chum, 2 for	19c	Post Toasties, 2 for	15c
Salmon, Pink, 2 for	23c
Mackerel, 3 for	25c
Beans, Stokely No. 2 can 3 for	25c

HAS ALL POINTS OF DISTINCTION

PATTERN 9226

You'll have no moment of dark despair if an old friend comes in to see you unexpectedly and you're dressed in this nicely tailored house frock! For it's especially designed to flatter larger figures, and fashioned along lines as chic as a street or sports frock. The sleeves, cut in one with that pretty, double-pointed yoke, have a little inverted pleat to make them jaunty and oh! so comfortable to work in! And the neat panel at the front sweeps all the way from hem to yoke to give you a long, slim line. If you'd be practical as well as attractive, choose a gaily printed cotton fabric, gingham, percale, lawn or seersucker, as they launder so beautifully and wear so well.

Pattern 9226 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards 36 inch fabric.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

Smiles

SOLD!

On a busy Saturday a lady telephoned for three theater seats.

"Very sorry—not a seat left," said the box office attendant, "but we have one private box."

"Oh!" said the lady, "that's no use! I can't see anything from a private box!"

"Perhaps not, madam," retorted the diplomatist, "but everybody can see you!"

The box was sold immediately.

Political Economy

"Did you send your boy Josh to college to learn political economy?"

"Yes," answered Farmer Corntossel. "He got some great political ideas. But as for economy he gets deeper in debt every year."

Of Course

Dub—I'm going to marry a girl who can take a joke.

Kay—Don't worry; that's the only kind of a girl you will get.

OUR COMIC SECTION

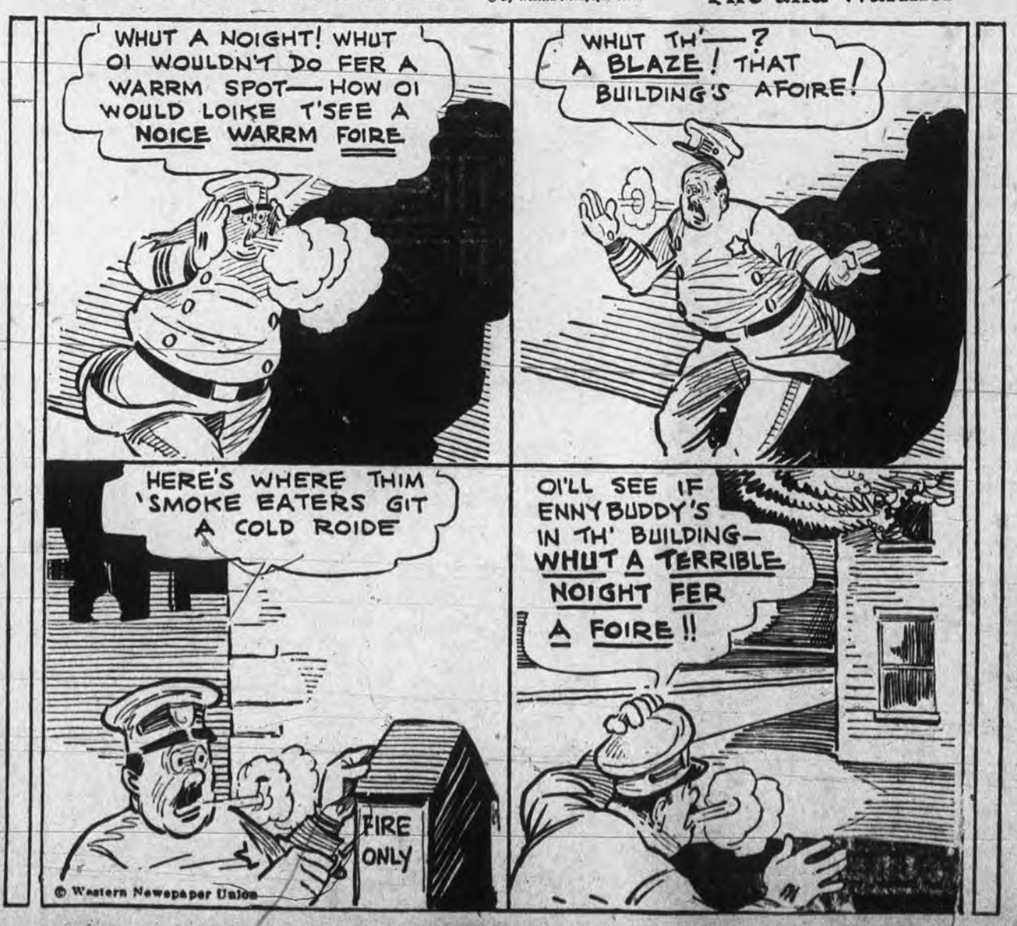
Events in the Lives of Little Men

(Copyright, W. N. U.)

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

Not for Her



© Western Newspaper Union

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Fire and Warmer

© Western Newspaper Union

BRISBANE THIS WEEK

Suddenly Polite
Why? He Is Prepared
Thought for Atheists
Strange Hangings

How politely Germany is treated, suddenly, by the "victorious allies"! Recently Germany was kicked around, all her money taken by the allies, French and English soldiers camping on her territory at her expense, the Versailles treaty sternly enforced.

Arthur Brisbane

What a change now! England sends a clever statesman to talk it over with Hitler the moment he throws the Versailles treaty on to the rubbish heap.

France is almost polite in messages to Germany. No more threats; no more "Do as we say!"

You know what causes this. Hitler lets it be known that he has been preparing for a war in case anybody wants one; that Germany has a well drilled army of half a million men and an enormous fleet of commercial airplanes that could drop explosive bombs and poison gas most conveniently.

In other words, Germany is prepared, willing, ready and able to fight if anybody insists on it.

So nobody insists.

There may be a lesson there for this country, that, if attacked, could only throw a few lumps of gold at the enemy and plead: "Please be nice."

Flying is like human life in this, you do not see what it is that pulls you along through the upper air.

You look at the three engines, sticking out into space ahead of you, and see no sign of power, nothing to explain the speed and climbing power or what it is that keeps you aloft.

The propellers move at a speed that makes them invisible. You know that you move, but do not see what moves you.

A clergyman might find a text for atheists in that. Your atheist, or gentleman from Senegambia, would say: "Do not talk to me of a trinity of propellers that haul me to my destination and my destiny. If there were any such propellers I should see them."

In Austria, Nazis are supposed to have murdered the Austrian chancellor, Dollfuss. Now the government that succeeds Dollfuss will hang 17 Nazis as a start. There is nothing novel in that. Where you have dictatorship you have wholesale killings. They go together.

The interesting thing is the method of hanging in Austria. They have no "drop" which causes the criminal to break his neck by the jerk of his own weight. A noose is put around the criminal's neck, and as he hangs "assistant executioners" pull at his feet until he chokes to death. It must be a disagreeable spectacle, even for the "assistant executioners."

Learned professors tell you the saying "beautiful but dumb" is silly, untrue. On the contrary, beauty and intelligence go together. Also, there is no intelligence that is not beautiful in itself.

Follow intelligence up through the animal kingdom. Your female gorilla is a horribly ugly creature. The chimpanzee, more intelligent, is less ugly. The lowest female savage, horrible to look at, is less atrociously ugly than the female chimpanzee, and so on all the way up.

Convicts at work in a California county road camp, in Elizabeth canyon, rebelled "because they had no hashed-brown potatoes" for breakfast. It was a substantial breakfast—prunes, cereal, griddle cakes, but no hashed-brown potatoes.

Men change. When Parmentier, for whom the excellent potato soup, potage Parmentier, is named, brought the first potatoes to France nobody would eat them.

An intelligent king ordered the nobles at court to wear potato blossoms in their buttonholes in the spring. Immediately the common people said, "Potatoes must be good" and ate them.

The name suggested for a new state, that would be number forty-nine, is "Absaroka," a name and state to be created by putting together western North Dakota, the northern third of Wyoming and one row of counties along the southern border of Montana.

That dreadful name chosen for this forty-ninth state, "Absaroka," is the name of the Crow Indian nation.

As long as it is to be one of the United States, why not select a United States name, Lincoln, Edison, or some other with a meaning?

Two Americans, Mr. and Mrs. Switz from East Orange, N. J., with twenty alleged accomplices, accused of spying for Russia, will be tried in Paris within a few days. The Switzes and others are accused of informing "a foreign power" of French secrets concerning high explosives, planes built to fly through the stratosphere and across the Atlantic in six hours, and "chemical warfare secrets," which means recipes for more deadly gases.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

Do you tire easily?

no appetite? nervous? losing weight? pale? then don't gamble with your body

WHY not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." That's not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low... and this, perhaps, is what makes you feel weak.

If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference S.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

S.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary in blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin up-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition.

© S.S.S. Co.

S.S.S. TONIC

Makes you feel like yourself again

for perfect BAKING RESULTS

CLABBER GIRL Baking Powder

BIG CAN 10¢

ITCHING...

anywhere on the body— also burning irritated skin— soothed and helped by

Resinol

Be Reasonable

Marriage is not a failure if too much is not expected of it.

Constipation Troubles

Thedford's Black-Draught is made of the dried, ground-up leaves and roots of plants that act on the bowels when they are sluggish or constipated. For refreshing relief when you need a laxative, take this dependable, purely vegetable medicine.

"I was almost down; was bloated and had gas pains until I was in a bad fix," writes Mr. J. W. Dillard, of Jonesboro, Ark. "I had heard so much about Black-Draught, I wanted to try it. I began taking small doses after meals. I found it was helping me. I have regulated my bowels."

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

USE CARBOIL for BOILS

Eases throbbing pain; allays inflammation; reduces swelling; lessens tension; quickly heals. Easily applied. Inexpensive. Results guaranteed. Also use for festers, risings, cuts, burns, bites. At druggists, or Spurlock-Neal Co., Nashville, Tenn.

WNU—8 13—35

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (for Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

ALABAMA NEWS

A resume of the more important events of interest gathered from all sections of the State.

Unless the United States attorney general decides to appeal from the recent verdict of the U. S. Court of Appeals at New Orleans invalidating the special $1,000 liquor tax applying to dealers in dry states, more than 20 Alabama persons who paid the tax last Fall will receive a return of the money in the near future.

Using a flying tackle and head lock, C. D. Wallace, Jr., tenderfoot Boy Scout, captured one of two men discovered in the office of the Aliceville High School. The prisoner was held until the boy's father, Prof. C. D. Wallace, came from his nearby residence and summoned the city marshal.

Vacancies in county boards of education may be filled by a majority vote of the remaining members of the board, Atty.-Gen. Albert A. Carmichael declared in an opinion directed to George W. Hulme, DeKalb County superintendent of education.

Thad Holt, Alabama's "biggest landlord" by virtue of his office as director of the Alabama Relief Administration, announced that more than $2,000,000 had been advanced this year to 10,360 Alabama farm families on the rural rehabilitation program.

Approximately 59,000 acres of land, valued at $600,000 in Coffee County, owned by the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans, will be transferred to the Alabama Rehabilitation Corp. for a gigantic rehabilitation project, Governor Graves announced.

Eugene Paige, 19, has been granted a permanent parole from a two to four-year larceny sentence by Gov. Bibb Graves. The youth was sentenced in Jefferson County in 1934 and began serving his sentence on Feb. 14 of that year.

Charging violation of national recovery act's wage and hour provisions, petition for a temporary injunction has been filed in United States District Court at Montgomery against the Hathaway Lumber Co., of Brundridge.

The recess judicial reform committee by a tie vote killed the proposal that it recommend to the Legislature that a law be enacted to give the state and defendant an equal number of strikes in the selection of a jury.

Administration leaders, it was learned, have begun a poll of the Legislature on the Federal child labor amendment, preparatory to launching a determined drive for ratification at the split session opening April 30.

Twenty-four Alabama counties have piled up debts which exceed their constitutional debt limits by approximately $9,000,000, data compiled by the Legislature's recess finance and taxation committee revealed.

John Brandon, state treasurer, announced the state had retired $600,000 in highway bonds due March 1. Those retired were a part of the $25,000,000 highway bonds issued during Gov. Bibb Graves' first term.

A back salary claim of $1863.72 filed by John P. McCoy, former circuit judge, was disallowed by the Jefferson County Commission upon the recommendation of Ernest Matthews, county attorney.

Improved business conditions were reflected all along Alabama's taxation front with income tax collections thus far already totaling $538,777—or $30,777 more than for the entire last fiscal year.

Allocation of $38,000 by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration to the Birmingham self-help organization for the second half of March has been announced by Thad Holt, Alabama director.

Senator Earle Thomas, director of the state's "white collar" reemployment program, announced that positions had been found for 2,495 of the 2,500 workers authorized for the program.

Mrs. Fannie Patrick Stewart, of Cullman, has been appointed tax collector of Cullman County to serve the unexpired term of her late father, George L. Patrick, by Governor Graves.

L. O. Brackeen, director of research and information with the State Department of Agriculture, has gone to Washington to make a study of the federal crop program for 1935.

Awards in the form of ribbons and stars have been made to 593 cadets, making outstanding records in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

April 13-14 have been set as the dates for the annual spring rally of the Department of Alabama, American Legion, to be held at the Wren Memorial Hall, Montgomery.

Citizens of the 15 Alabama counties which voted wet in the February referendum pay 21 per cent more ad valorem taxes than citizens of the 52 counties which voted dry.

The date for graduation exercises at Auburn has been changed from Tuesday, May 28, to Monday, May 27.

What officers termed a "community still" was raided and demolished on Hillabee Creek, five miles northeast of Alexander City.

Gov. Bibb Graves has issued an order releasing $900,000 of state funds to public schools and higher institutions of learning.

Plans are under way to introduce to the Legislature when it reconvenes a bill lifting the toll from 16 bridges in Alabama.

The annual state inter-high school meet, sponsored by Alabama College, will be held at Montevallo April 11-13.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ORDERS ARE ORDERS

SIR FERDINAND GORGES was a colonial promoter and his greedy eyes looked across the sea into the uncharted territory of the New world. His dreams were concerned with colonization. Twice he had sent expeditions, only to meet disaster on the way.

The earl of Warwick agreed to be Sir Ferdinand's partner. Both gentlemen had heard rumors of a group in Leyden who were eager to be sent into America. This group had already purchased and manned the Speedwell and were also buying the large three-masted vessel named the Mayflower. The two titled schemers thought that here was a ready-made colony for the taking. The rewards were worth risking a fortune.

Sir Ferdinand placed his own captain on the Mayflower. The man was one Mr. Jones, an ex-pirate. His patron had rescued him from jail and he was ready to take orders. The Mayflower left London late in July, 1620, with Captain Jones and a rowdy crew of his gathering.

They were to meet the Speedwell, out from Leyden, and then the two boats were to proceed to Virginia—or so their passengers thought. The expirate had other orders from his master. Twice the Speedwell sprung a leak and twice put back for repairs. Members of her crew later confessed that they had deliberately caused the damage because they knew the vessel was headed for the hardships of New England.

Finally, in September, the Mayflower sailed. After a perilous trip land was sighted but it was not the Virginia coast that the passengers' patents had promised. The Pilgrim leaders insisted that Captain Jones take them southward but he refused and headed for the dangerous waters of Cape Cod. Sir Ferdinand's orders were orders!

* * *

TREMENDOUS STOMACH ACHE

FRANCE was passing through a political upheaval after the fall of the Second Empire during the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. The Monarchists were determined to rule, but there was strong sentiment for a republic.

The national assembly which would decide the issue, was almost evenly divided, with a slight edge in favor of the Monarchists. The vote was to be taken on June 30, 1875. As the roll of the assembly was called the whole atmosphere was tense with excitement, for the balloting was very close.

There was no sound in the chamber but the grave voice of the president. He called the name of Monsieur Leurant. There was no answer. Surprised faces turned toward the chair of that deputy. It was vacant.

The absurdities that interfere with politics were operating to prevent his response. Deputy Leurant had a stomachache that morning, a bad one. He managed to sit through the preliminaries, suffering with the griping pains of colic, but finally he could stand it no longer.

The president called his name in vain. Leurant's vote would have been for the Monarchists as he was known to be unswerving in his devotion to this form of government. While he was absent, the assembly was deadlocked, 352 to 352. Finally, as was constitutionally provided for in such emergencies, the president cast his vote . . . in favor of the Republic.

France might still be a monarchy, if it hadn't been for this stomachache.

* * *

LITTLE GADGETS—BIG MONEY

KING GILLETTE, looking at the nicked chins of American men and counting up the millions of hours they spent in stropping their razors, devised a safety razor with replaceable blades. His profits are said to have been $2,500,000 a year for several years.

B. F. Sturtevant devised a wooden shoe peg which was much cheaper and just as satisfactory as nails. It made $6,000,000 for him.

Hyman Lipman made $100,000 out of other persons' mistakes. He put a rubber tip on the end of a lead pencil so they could rub out their errors of spelling, grammar, etc., and start over again.

Samuel Kischbaum, a tailor, had managed to save $120. He invested the whole amount in a new gadget—a hook and eye arrangement for dresses. Within a few years his $120 had grown to $12,000.

Jeremiah Geary, a plumber, sold his shop and invested the proceeds, $600, in a gas mantle. That investment paid big dividends—$500,000, so it is said.

Joseph Glidden, a farmer, may or may not have been the first to think of twisting short pieces of sharply-cut wire at regular intervals around other strands of wire, but he made $1,000,000 out of his barbed wire business. Later he invented a new type of farm gate and within two years it showed a profit of $150,000.

Invent a little gadget that the public wants and make big money out of it—if you're lucky!

© Western Newspaper Union.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 31

REVIEW

Lessons From the Life and Letters of Peter.

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 5:6-11; II Peter 3:14-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever. II Peter 3:18.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Peter Was Old.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Learning With Peter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Peter Became a Great Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Peter Did to Spread Christianity.

The method of review is always determined by the grade and capacity of the class and the genius of the teacher. The suggestions made largely apply to the senior and adult classes. A good method of review will be to cast up to view the following great experiences in Peter's life:

I. Peter's First Meeting With Christ (John 1:40-42).

This involves his conversion and call. As a result of the Baptist's testimony two of John's disciples left him and followed Jesus. Andrew, one of these, when he knew Christ because of having abode with him, brought his brother Peter to Jesus. Andrew desired that Peter should have a knowledge of Jesus, not merely through his testimony, but through personal experience. Andrew did a great piece of work, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church. Later Peter was called with Andrew to become fishers of men (Mark 1:16-18). The first call of Jesus was for salvation. Because he heeded the call to salvation, he now is called to definite service.

II. Peter's Great Confession (Matt. 16:13-28).

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard his wonderful words and witnessed his mighty works. And since Jesus was soon to go to the cross, it was necessary for the disciples to have a true conception of him. In order to help them into the right conception, Christ provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman for the group of disciples. Peter confessed Christ's messiahship and deityship. The burning question then, as well as for the present hour, is, "What think ye of Christ?"

III. Peter's Denial (Mark 14:27-72).

A better statement would be "Peter's Downfall." Peter's confession showed him to occupy a high position. From that lofty eminence to the depth of emphasizing a lie by means of foul oaths is a long way. The steps are clear and should constitute a solemn warning to all today:

1. Over-weening self-confidence (vv. 29-32).
2. Sleeping at the post of duty (vv. 32-37).
3. Neglect of prayer (v. 38).
4. Service in the energy of the flesh (v. 47).
5. Following Jesus afar off (v. 54).
6. Seeking comfort among the Lord's enemies (v. 67).
7. Open denial (vv. 68-72).

Peter's trouble really began when he shrank from the way of the cross.

IV. Peter's Restoration (John 20:1-10; 21:11-19).

As there were seven steps in Peter's downfall, so there were seven steps in his restoration.

1. Christ's prayer for Peter (Luke 22:31, 32).
2. The look of Jesus (Luke 22:61, 62).
3. Christ's message through the women (Mark 16:7).
4. A personal interview with the risen Lord (Luke 24:34).
5. Peter's open confession of love (John 21:11-17).
6. His work given back (John 21:17, 18).
7. Willingness to suffer for Christ (John 21:18, 19).

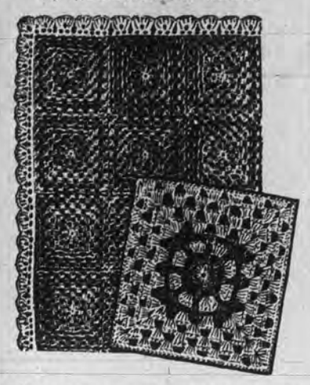
V. Peter at Pentecost (Acts 2:1-42).

Peter, with the rest of the disciples, came into a new experience at Pentecost. They came to know the outpouring of the Holy Spirit as the fulfillment of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2:28-32).

VI. The Conversion of Cornelius (Acts 10:1-48).

While Peter had the definite experience of Pentecost, he had not yet come to know the real meaning of the church. He was ignorant of that which God revealed through Paul (Eph. 3:1-5). He knew that a tremendous change had come. He saw the old order passing. It required the visitation of God to him by means of the sheet let down from heaven to show that the middle wall of partition had now been broken down and that Gentiles who accepted the finished work of Jesus Christ were accepted on high the same as the Jew.

Searcheth Out Perfection



Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place for the gold where they fine it. Iron is taken out of the earth, and brass is molten out of the stone. He setteth an end to darkness, and searcheth out all perfection: the stones of darkness, and the shadow of death.—Job 28, 1-3.

Happiness

Let me but have time to my thoughts, but leisure to think of heaven and grace to my leisure; and I can be happy in spite of the world.—Joseph Hall.

Simple Motif in Bedspread Design

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Some needleworkers hesitate when it comes to crocheting a bedspread, because too much work and time is required to finish it. The design shown above is about the simplest pattern known and works up fast. This model is worked in cream, rose and yellow carpet warp and measures 4¼ inches for each square. Find the size spread you want to make and then figure how many squares it will take. You will be surprised how fast the work progresses if you spend only spare time on making the squares, and the little material required to take with you when not working at home. When the squares are finished slip-stitch together and finish with a simple edging. The squares may be set together point to point, thereby producing a pointed edge instead of straight.

This is one of the thirty motifs shown in book No. 27, all illustrated with instructions, and will be sent to you postpaid upon receipt of 15c.

The use of these motifs is not limited to spreads. By using different sizes of thread many attractive and useful articles can be crocheted.

Address — HOME CRAFT CO.—DEPT. B—Nineteenth and St. Louis Ave.—St. Louis, Mo.

Inclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original little liver pills put up 60 years ago. They regulate liver and bowels.—Adv.

Wise Canine

"My dog is most intelligent."

"I have noticed it. He always gets behind a tree when you shoot."

TREASURE IN KETTLE

A kettle unearthed in a forest near Leningrad, recently, was found to contain 11,000 coins of many countries, all dating from the Eleventh century or earlier.

And That, Gladly

The only thing some people will share with you is trouble.

Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust — MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Now Relieve Your Cold "Quick as You Caught It"

For Amazingly Fast Results Remember Directions in These Simple Pictures

1. Take 2 BAYER Aspirin Tablets. Make sure you get the BAYER Tablets you ask for.

2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat soreness almost instantly.

The simple method pictured here is the way many doctors now treat colds and the aches and pains colds bring with them!

It is recognized as a safe, sure, QUICK way. For it will relieve an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, be sure that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve (disintegrate) almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets disintegrate with speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness.

BAYER Aspirin prices have been decisively reduced on all sizes, so there's no point now in accepting other than the real Bayer article you want.

NOW 15¢

PRICES on Genuine Bayer Aspirin Radically Reduced on All Sizes

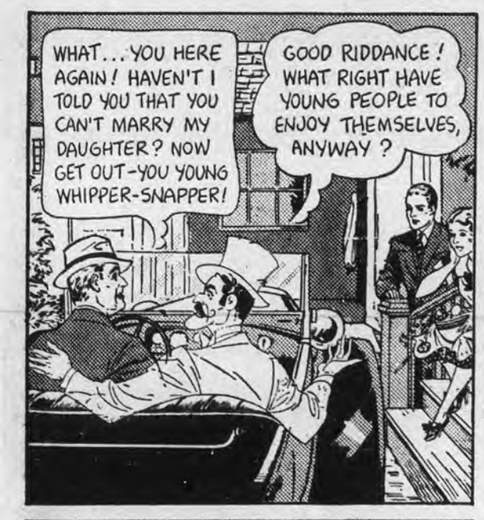
WEAK AND MISERABLE?

Mrs. J. E. Hammock of Plant City, Fla., said: "I was suffering from a weakness that caused me to have a breakdown. I was completely played out but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription made me well and strong. I believe there is nothing like the 'Favorite Prescription' for woman's ills."

New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00. Large size, tabs. or liquid, $1.35. All druggists.

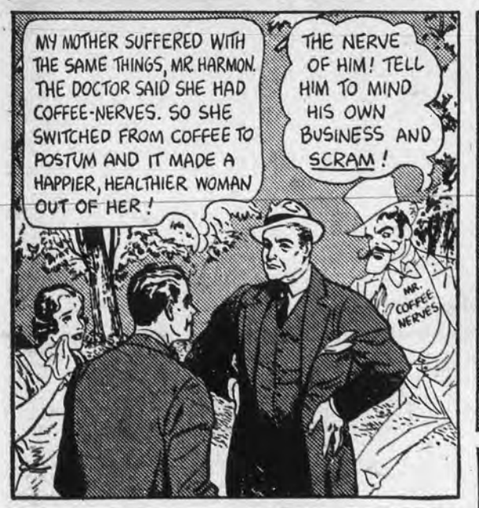
Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

MEN

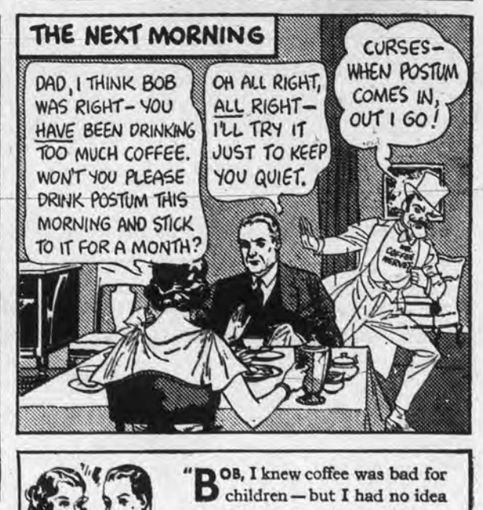


Start Business of your own at home. Big Profits. Send for details. No obligation. Celak Service, 5439 24th Place, Cicero, Ill.

FOR SALE—Good No. 1 grass hay at $11. Good No. 2 at $9. Federal inspected. F.O.B. H. C. IVY, WEST POINT, MISS.



Sericea-Korean and Harbin Lespedeza Seeds. Low prices, samples, information. Write LUCAS FARMS, FRANKLIN, KENTUCKY



I Buy Old Postage Stamps, preferably on envelope. Reference postmaster. Ed. Carpenter, 507 N. Main, Greenville, S. C.

BOB TALKS BACK

"BOB, I knew coffee was bad for children—but I had no idea it could have such an effect on Dad!"

"Certainly—it bothers lots of grown-ups that way, Fran. The caffein in coffee sets their nerves on edge, keeps them from sleeping, gives them headaches or indigestion."

* * *

If you suspect that coffee disagrees with you . . . try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's easy to make, and costs less than one-half cent a cup. It's a delicious drink . . . may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE! Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail the coupon.

GENERAL FOODS, Battle Creek, Mich. W. N. U.—3-28-35

Send me, without obligation, a week's supply of Postum.

Name_____

Street_____

City_____ State_____

Fill in completely—print name and address

This offer expires December 31, 1935

PERSONAL MENTION

(Continued From Page Five)

proudly claims the above mentioned "orator" as its Sports writer. Needless to say, how very much we are wishing for his success.

Rux Carter, formerly connected with Curlee's Cafe, is now associated with Knox E. Wooley in the Ford Automobile Industry.

One of the most delightful little persons we have had the privilege of welcoming into the Democrat offices, is James Curtis Moore, little 1934 mascot of the Democrat. He walked right into our hearts, and was about the dead cutest little specimen we have seen in his tiny blue overalls and mannish cap. He wanted an extra edition of last week's Democrat, and the entire office force rushed to meet his demands. Come back to see us Little One. You made the day seem 100 per cent brighter.

Judge W. W. Wallace is spending the week in Wetumpka, where he is holding a term of the Elmore Circuit Court for Judge Arthur Glover, who is disqualified on account of personal interest in Civil and Criminal cases.

Miss Kate Fulton, former Welfare Director of Shelby County, now residing in Mississippi, came by the Democrat offices last week on a motor trip through Alabama. Miss Fulton will be happily remembered by a host of friends throughout the County.

Jesse Underwood has accepted a position as Camp Director with the CCC forces. Mr. Underwood will be sincerely missed by the citizens and young people of Columbiana. He was an addition to the town musically, civically, and religiously. He possesses a rich baritone voice which is heard frequently at the Methodist Church, and was Trumpet soloist in the Orchestra recently organized which succeeded in "surprising the natives" with their rhythmic interpretations on several recent social occasions.

Here is a personal wish that Mr. Underwood will be stationed near Columbiana so that he may return on short notice, for his place will be hard to fill.

R. E. Simmons, District Manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, of Bessemer, Alabama, spent Monday in Columbiana completing plans for the installation of the Dial System which will be inaugurated in Columbiana within the next two weeks.

Mrs. Dixie Shealy and Miss Agnes Wingard were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilder in Talladega, Sunday.

Luther Shaw, prominent Brick Contractor of Montevallo, will entertain members of the Relief Staff of workers on Friday night at Curlee's Cafe.

An exceptionally pretty table has been designed and decorated by Mildred Curlee who has also planned a delectable menu for the occasion.

Friends of Oliver Miles, Clerk of the Board of Revenue, will regret to learn that he continues seriously ill at his home in Columbiana.

Does your car need re-tiring? Look for the ad in the Democrat this week which Guy Roberts, popular auto supply dealer in Calera is sponsoring. The best part about the GOODRICH tire is, that you do not have to be RICH to own one, and yet you always are assured of having a GOOD one if you buy one. My personal advice—SEE GUY ROBERTS TODAY and buy a GOODRICH TIRE.

We pause right here long enough to acknowledge a personal call from the newly elected License Inspector, W. C. Butler, of Keystone, Alabama. No, he was not checking up on our "licenses"—he was just a friendly, interesting official, who was thoughtful enough to come in for a few minutes chatter which gave us the happy privilege of welcoming him into the official line-up for 1935. We enjoyed meeting this likable fellow and predict a successful record for him in his recently appointed capacity.

Fred Harrison, of Montevallo, is spending a few days in Columbiana, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ed Lovelady.

Editors Note—Several communities sent in news too late for this issue. We regret it, and will use as much as is possible in next week's Democrat. Again we thank you for the interest manifested.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Fancher, charming and popular couple from Selma, Alabama, spent Tuesday in Columbiana, the guests of Judge and Mrs. Cage Head.

UNDERWOOD NEWS

Miss Fannie Mae Harrison spent the week-end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Daviston were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kendrick and children, of Maylene, passed through our community Sunday afternoon.

Miss Doris Osburn has returned home after a visit with her brother.

Messrs Earlie Vernon, Bill Langston and Cheltz Blake, spent the week-end in Birmingham.

Mrs. R. D. Lucas, of Maylene, visited Mrs. J. D. Smith Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Butler, Miss Lee Esther Daviston and Tom Harper were visitors in Clanton Sunday.

Rev. Sam Henderson preached at the Dogwood Grove Baptist Church, Sunday night.

The Free Wills held a three night service at the Ryan Church last week. Rev. Jesse Hughs did part of the preaching.

Miss Loraine Farr and J. D. Hughs were married by the Rev. Lester Fitts at the bride's home last Friday night. We join their many friends in wishing them a long and happy life.

Mrs. Frank Frost attended the Teachers' meeting in Columbiana, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stripling, of Marvel, were visitors here Saturday afternoon.

A large crowd of young people attended the Senior play in Montevallo, Friday night.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the Governor and Board of Pardons for the parole of Sidney M. Bird, who was convictel of embezzlement in the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama, on December 13th, 1933.

3-28-2t. SIDNEY M. BIRD

CLASSIFIED ADS

MAN WANTED for Rawleigh route of 800 families. Write immediately. Rawleigh, Dept. ALC - 46 - SA, Memphis, Tenn.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets

Salve-Nose Drops

SPECIAL!

Colgates Regular 10c TOILET SOAP

5c Each---6 for 29c

——Worth More——

Come To See Us!

COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.

LUQUIRE FUNERAL HOMES INS. CO.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Legal Reserve Funeral and Cash Policy

BURTIS F. HAMRICK

—Representative—

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——

TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

COTTON SEED

For Sale Or Exchange For Corn

——SEE——

A. P. McGHEE

Columbiana, Alabama.

This Cotton Seed is grown by W. P. Addison, Breeder and Grower of Cotton Seed for planting, Blackwells, Georgia.

Automobiles For Sale!

APRIL 1, 1935, IS THE OPENING DATE FOR INSPECTION OF THE LATEST MODELS IN Dodge and Plymouth Cars.

We cordially invite you to attend this opening and let us demonstrate these models before buying. A complete sales and service department is now located in the McGhee Building in Columbiana, Alabama.

AL TENNENT, General Manager.

CLAUDIA WOOLEY, Assistant.

COLD from Oil Heat

YOU can depend on the performance of SUPERFEX, the oil burning refrigerator. It is designed especially for use in your home in the country, and operates without outside power. —Just fill the small reservoir with kerosene, then light and leave it. In about two hours, the burners go out automatically, and you have refrigeration for 24 hours, without bother or worry. A full year of efficient refrigeration for less than $10!

Home Appliance Co.

(MILTON ALLEN — E. E. CRAIG)

Montevallo, Alabama

Announcing the FORD V-8

Opening For April 1, 1935.

Knox Wooley, General Manager of the New Ford V-8 models, extends a cordial invitation to citizens of Shelby County to visit the new Show Rooms and Service Station which opens for business on April 1, 1935, in the Lightcap Building in Columbiana, Alabama. Call for a demonstration. We are here to serve you.

---"Watch The Fords Go By".---

Alabama Power News

(An Advertisement of Alabama Power Company)

March, 1935

UP!

Food, Clothing, Rent and Everything Except Electricity in Alabama

Back in pre-depression days, folks thought a lot about the means of living high. Now they're bothering about the high cost of merely living. And rightly so. Ham and eggs, clothing, rent—in fact most everything in the family budget is going up, UP, UP. And take it from the "powers that be," the end is not yet in sight. Recent press dispatches out of Washington say the high cost of living is actually going to jump considerably more these next few months.

But there's one exception to the general rule of higher prices. That's electricity in Alabama. Almost every home in Alabama is getting electricity today lots cheaper than a year ago. And the end is not in sight. With increased use of electric appliances—ranges, water heaters and refrigerators—average rates in Alabama for electricity—already the cheapest item in the household budget—will keep on going down, DOWN, D O W N. Which is pleasing to a lot of Alabama folks. As for instance these customers, who have been kind enough to write us.

Mrs. A. G. Westbrook, Demopolis, Ala., writes: "I have just learned that a further reduction in your residential rate for electricity is now in effect, and naturally, I am very much pleased, especially since the prices of all other commodities which go into the usual household budget have been steadily rising during the past year or so."

"I have read a lot about low rates in other places, but it seems to me that Alabama is the real place to look for low rates," writes Mrs. Eugene Smith, of Ozark.

Sam D. Daily, Centreville, Ala., wrote: "I wish everybody would start a crusade to make taxes as low as your prices for electricity—maybe the reason some of us don't use any more electricity than we do, cheap as it is, is because we have to save all our spare change to pay taxes with."

"I wish the price of other necessities of life we have to buy were as cheap as electricity," says Mrs. H. O. Hinton, 711 14th Ave., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Wish we had space to print more of the scores of letters we have recently received. We'd surely like to hear from readers of Power News what they think about the cheap electricity they buy from us.

HOGS GO HIGHER

ELECTRICITY STAYS DOWN!

But our low price wins a lot of friends, and we ask you, how many friends has a pig?

IT WONT BE LONG NOW

Hot Weather's on the Way. Is Your New Refrigerator?

Something tells us that it won't be long now before those sizzling summer days are with us once again. It's been an early Spring and that usually means a long, hot summer.

But nowadays summer in the South can be quite livable, in fact enjoyable, provided people are prepared to give hot days the proper greeting. The best imaginable aid to summer comfort is good refrigeration, now within the easy reach of almost any pocketbook. First requirement of good refrigeration is a good refrigerator—ice or electric. This season there are many improved makes and models of both electric and ice refrigerators, which enable you to make those tasty summer treats—frozen salads, and desserts—appetite tempters on hot days and nights. Which reminds us to tell you that our Spring sale of electric refrigerators begins—no fooling—on April 1st. Won't you come by and see them?

Guard Your Eyes Urges Helen Keller

World Famous Blind Woman Makes Eyesight Appeal to Boys and Girls

Miss Keller, who was born in Tuscumbia, Ala., was deaf, dumb and blind when 19 months old. Today she is an authoress famous throughout the world. Recently she wrote, "My message to you, dear boys and girls, is this: Be careful of your eyes, guard them as you would your most loved possession. When you read or study make certain you have plenty of glareless light, so that your eyes will not be subjected to strain. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Surveys show that not one home in ten is well lighted, according to new scientific knowledge. In the majority of homes, children are actually becoming near-sighted because parents don't realize how much light they need for studying. To give you the benefit of this new knowledge about light and eyes, we are offering a new free service. Telephone and our lighting experts will come to your home and measure your lights with a SIGHT METER, the remarkable little instrument that measures light and tells whether there is enough of it.

MARVELS

III

Nero, the Roman Emperor, had slaves bring snow from the mountains to cool his wines. Alexander the Great had trenches dug for storing snow. Sir Walter Scott told how Saladin, leader of the Mohammedan armies, sent a frozen sherbet to Richard the Lion Hearted, much to the amazement of that famous monarch. What a marvel ice was in the "good old days"! But now—it's a necessity. With hot weather just around the corner of the calendar, isn't it about time to think about that new electric or ice refrigerator?

IV

It gets mighty hot in South Africa. But there's going to be at least one place where the weather man will be compelled to behave. Three huge machines have been made by the Carrier Engineering Corporation, Newark, N. J., to cool the air for the world's deepest gold mine, Robinson Deep, in South Africa. Cooled, conditioned air will be sent down to the depths of the mine workings—8,385 feet—over a mile and a half. Down there the temperature is close to 100 degrees, and men work at less than 30% efficiency. In many Alabama plants, and stores and offices, efficiency of workers can be likewise increased by air conditioning. Our engineers will gladly show you how.

V

Fog has always been the greatest enemy of safe transportation on sea, air and land. But modern science bids fair to conquer it. Not long ago near Dayton, Ohio, a cloud seven miles long and almost a half mile thick was banished from the sky in seven minutes! A new and improved electrically operated mechanism, tried out in Buzzard's Bay in one of the year's densest fogs, cut out of that fog a clearing 100 feet wide, 2000 yards long. Some folks are "foggy" about the cost of electricity in Alabama. That kind of fog can also be cleared away—electrically. All such people need is to start using complete electric service—cooking, water heating, refrigeration, etc.—to learn how really cheap electricity is in Alabama, because the more you use the cheaper it is.

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1935 — NUMBER FIFTY-ONE

ALABAMA TO GET ANOTHER CHANCE TO VOTE IN BEER

By HARTWELL HATTON
In The Montgomery Advertiser

In June when throats are parched and anything wet seems desirable, Alabamians who in February voted "no" to all forms of alcohol will be given an opportunity to reconsider, at least insofar as beer is concerned.

In other words Alabama is in for a beer referendum and if the plans of those who are said to be close to the Governor, are carried out, it will be submitted in the heat of Summer when beer labels carry their richest promise.

Information available yesterday was that the Legislature would be asked to submit a referendum on beer alone, soon after it reconvenes on April 30. Whether it would carry a question as to so-called light wines had not been decided but it would be first and last a beer referendum.

It has been estimated by some that beer, properly taxed, would yield an annual revenue of something less than $500 000. The referendum would cost something like $38,000 which is the minimum cost of a statewide election. There are over 2,100 boxes and an election costs $18 a box.

Local Option Advocates

While the present Legislature has been amenable in the extreme to the wishes of the Governor there will undoubtedly be advocates of local option legislation after the recess and it is a matter of conjecture whether they will be satisfied with another canvass of public opinion as to beer.

On the other hand, it has been suggested by members of the Legislation that a referendum more clearly and directly submitted than that of February 26 would produce a different answer.

Their view is that the referendum should have submitted a specific plan of liquor control which would have disabused the public mind of saloon fears. There are some who favor such a referendum.

Preparations are already in motion for advertising a local option bill for Montgomery County. It will be strictly a local bill and will be advertised in accordance with the constitution. It will not be limited to beer but will contemplate the sale of hard liquors as well.

Like Bill From Mobile

In all likelihood a similar bill will be introduced from Mobile County. None can predict what will come out of Jefferson.

In asking for a referendum for beer and possibly light wines, proponents of the idea will present the argument that 15 counties in North Carolina where there is a heavy Republican vote gave a majority of 19,000 against modifying the prohibition laws. The argument will also be used that it is not right for a small minority of Republicans in Alabama to dictate the legislative policies of a Democratic Legislature.

Advocates of a beer referendum will present a claim that if beer, and beer only, had been at stake in the recent referendum, beer would have been ratified by the people. This is in spite of the fact that beer received only a very small percentage vote over hard liquor. Many thought beer would be advocated by at least 15,000 more voters than liquor advocates, were disappointed in the last referendum but beer advocates say that the "drys" drilled their following to fote "no" on all three propositions submitted on the referendum ballot.

Mr. Smith Is Somewhat Wrought Up!

He's just finished trying to cull the worthwhile news out of a dozen dailies, and what is really going on in the world is still somewhat vague. That's the reason for his display of temper. Mr. Smith might have saved himself this emotional outburst if he had read the

Weekly News Review

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

appearing each week in this paper. It covers all the important national and world news, interpreted for you by one of the nation's best known news commentators. Read the WEEKLY NEWS REVIEW each week if you want to keep well informed on current events.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF SUMMER ROUND-UP SCHEDULE IS GIVEN

The following is the "Summer Round-Up" Schedule, conducted by the Health Officer and Nurse, under the supervision of the Parent-Teachers Association.

Monday, April 8th.

Kingdom	8:00
Wilsonville	9:30
Fourmile	11:00
Chelsea	1:00

Tuesday, April 9th

Sterrett	8:30
Vandiver	10:00
Dunnavant	11:30
Highpoint	1:00

Wednesday, April 10th

Columbiana	8:00
Shelby	9:30
Oak Grove	11:00
Pine Flat	1:00

Thursday, April 11th

Mt. Era	8:00
Camp Branch-Saginaw	9:15
Siluria	11:00
Pelham	1:00
Helena	2:00

Friday, April 12th

Calera	8:00
Newala	9:15
Wilton	11:00
Mayberry	1:00

Monday, April 15th

Maylene	8:15
Straven	9:30
Bamford	11:00
Boothton	1:00

BASEBALL MEETING CALLED BY PRES. LUCK FOR APRIL 4

A second meeting of the Board of Directors and Managers of the Shelby County Baseball League has been called by Paul O. Luck, its President, for Thursday night, April 4th, in the Court House, at Columbiana, Alabama.

Montevallo, Siluria and Aldrich have been requested to send representatives to this meeting with the idea of making the league an eight-team league. The league is now composed of teams representing Columbiana, Helena, Wilsonville, Sterrett, Vincent, and Westover.

COLUMBIANA CULTURE CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The Columbiana Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. S. M. Bird, Thursday afternoon. The rooms were decorated with lovely spring flowers. Mrs. N. Y. Horn, President, presided over the business session. Fifteen members answered roll call with their favorite song. Mrs. H. L. Nichols gave an entertaining musical program, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Stone and Mrs. N. Y. Horn. The hostess presented to the club library, "Lives of a Bengal Lancer, by Major F. Yeates Brown. A delicious salad plate with coffee was served.

KEWAHATCHIE SUNDAY SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

Those making the Kewahatchie Sunday School Honor roll for the past month, were as follows:

Beginners—Pauline Lovett, Joe Lovett, Christine Hand, D. Hyde, Ruth Shoemaker, James Shoemaker, Maureen Gardner, Willie Mae Hyde, William Lowery, Mildred Ruth Graves, and Mrs. Forrest Lovett, teacher.

Juniors—Betty Ann Gardner, Minnie B. Bentley, Loyton Gardner, Wilson Moore, and Billie Vick.

Intermediate — Esther Gardner, Opel Smith, Marie Bentley, John Moore and Charles Moore.

Advance—Audrey McCoy, and J. Falkner.

Adult—Mrs. Julia Gardner, Mr. Forrest Lovett, Mrs. John Lovett and Mrs. Quilla Hand.

Heart Drifts

THEE AND ME.

If I had only an hour to live
I'd want to live it with thee,
If the world and all its beauty
Were given me
I'd cherish it only long enough
To give it all to thee.
If only one day to live
Was allotted me,
I would ask the Maker of days and years
To give this my only day, to thee.
—(S. F.)

I CAN FORGIVE.

I can forgive the harsh words you've spoken
I can forgive your frowns and forget my tears,
I can forgive the lonely hours when you left me;
But my illusion of love you've broken
That I can never, never forgive.
—(S. F.)

A MESSAGE.

"No vision and you perish,
No ideal and you're lost,
Your heart must ever cherish
Some faith at any cost.
Some hope, some dream to cling to,
Some rainbow in the sky,
Some melody to sing to,
Some service that is high."

THE LIGHT OF LOVE.

I am glad I've loved you
For no sorrow now can come to me,
No blow cruel enough to crush my joy;
For always the vision of you
Will, be to me,
Like a faithful light
Is to a sailor
On a storm-tossed sea.
—(Contributed)

TO A GOOD FRIEND.

Sometimes I've been almighty tired of din and rush and clatter,
Sometimes I've thought that after all it really didn't matter
If I kept struggling on or not, and then somebody found me
Some good old friend like you, we'll say, and put an arm around me,
And spoke a word of cheer and praise, until the gloom went flying,
And gave me back my grit and hope and made me keep on trying.

Sometimes I've thought this funny world had nothing worth while in it,
Sometimes I've thought I didn't care for it another minute,
And then some good old friend like you would put an arm about me
And make me think the world just couldn't get along without me.
And brought the morning sunshine back so I'd forget it never,
And make me feel all warn inside and want to live forever.

And there were times I didn't have a single spark of spirit,
If there was laughter in the world
I did not seem to hear it,
And then somebody just like you with strength and courage gifted
Got down beneath my tired soul and with a glad word lifted
The weariness that weighted it down and somehow broke the fetter
That I had not the strength to break and made the world seem better.

And all of us so many times upon the rocks are drifting,
And then we need a loving word and just a little lifting,
We need to know that someone cares, someone who would walk near us
With understanding friendliness, and wants to help and cheer us,
And teaches us with sympathy and love rich in the giving
That many things are still worth while and life is still worth living.
—(Contributed)

NEED FOR CONTROL OF STRAY DOGS IS TOLD BY OFFICIALS

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Death of a 10-year old boy in Cullman County from the effects of rabies and outbreaks of the disease in other widely separated sections of the State were pointed to by State Health authorities this week as proof of the immediate need of legislation controlling stray dogs.

Charles Kein, 10, died in Cullman a few days ago from rabies—of the most horrible diseases a human being can have. Following his death approximately 40 school children with whom he had been associated began taking anti-rabies treatments furnishel by the State Health Department.

In Montgomery, three persons began taking anti-rabies treatments last week, one of them a five-year old child who was bitten on the face by a "mad" dog. The dog also bit numerous pets in the vicinity. About the same time a small dog was struck by an automobile and bit its mistress and another person as they were trying to dress its injuries. The pup died and was found to have been suffering from rabies and the two injured persons are being innoculated.

A large rabid dog pulled a man from a horse in Tallassee and was known to have bitten several animals in that town. A cow that died in Wetumpka, at first believed to have been poisoned, was found on examination at the Health Department Laboratories here to have died of rabies. It was the third cow the owner had had to "go mad" in recent months.

"In every instance where an outbreak of rabies occurs we can expect another outbreak, possibly more serious, at the end of the incubation period, which is four to six weeks", said Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer. "Persons who have pets which they suspect of having had contact with rabid animals should keep them up for at least that long, and it would be well to have them innoculated against rabies."

Dr. Baker said an anti-rabies law such as that now pending in the legislature would drive rabies from the State within a few years.

D[illegible] Writer

Register In Chancery 7-5-35

EDWARD W. PICKARD
Famous Commentator Who Writes "Weekly News Review."
Found On Page Two, First Column.

AUBURN ASKS PWA FOR 3 MILLION TO ERECT BUILDINGS

AUBURN, Ala.—A modern auditorium and armory, involving an expenditure of $360,000, is the major item of the 18 projects listed by the Auburn College authorities with the Alabama Public Works Administration.

The proposed program for Auburn, calling for an expenditure of $3,354,000, provides for the construction of 10 new buildings, repairs and additions to old buildings, books for the library, a system of campus walks, and the establishment of an agricultural training camp and experimental fish ponds.

The other major projects and their approximate cost includes:

Stadium and athletic field, $120,000; administration building, $225,000; aeronautical engineering building $200,000; museum and graduate school building, $300,000; dormitory, $250 000; student union building; $250,000; physics building, $200,000; fraternity buildings, $250,000; education building, $200,000; addition to library, $200,000; addition to Smith Hall, $150,000; addition to architecture building, $50,000; system of campus walks, $24,000, and miscellaneous repairs to buildings, $100,000.

CARLOS WARREN IS CONTEST WINNER; GOES TO MARION

Carlos Warren, Shelby County's representative in the News-Age-Herald Oratorical contest, will leave for Marion, Alabama, on April 8th, where he will compete with other County winners in the District Elimination contest to be held in the Perry County High School at 8 o'clock p. m.

The subjects chosen for the twelfth annual contest sponsored by these newspapers, are based on the First Amendment to the Federal Constitution. Mr. Warren's subject is "Freedom of Speech in America". This is the first time he has entered the oratorical contests and he won the right to represent Shelby County in a recent elimination contest held in Columbiana. Hundreds and patrons of schools over Shelby County who heard this brilliant young student from Montevallo High School deliver his oration, are watching with eager interest his appearance in Marion.

The writer, in an attempt to learn some facts about the life of Carlos Warren, finds that he was born in Ashby, Alabama, Bibb County, in 1917. For the past five years he has been a resident of Calera, Alabama. He is now in his second year in High School in Montevallo, where his scholastic record is an enviable one. He is an accomplished musician and plays the piano with the Calera Orchestra. During the time he attended school in Calera, he was President of the Junior II Class and is at the present time, serving as President of the Senior II Class in Montevallo; Vice-President of the B. Y. P. U. organization in Calera and member of the Calera Dramatic Club. He is also a Boy Scout and a member of the 4-H Club. His recent victory in the field of oratory brings to him personal success as well as signal honors for the County he represents.

Immediately after Mr. Warren finishes High School, he plans to enter the University of Alabama to study law. He further states, he would like to be a "radio announcer".

The writer predicts a brilliant career for this ambitious and enthusiastic young student. His pleasing personality and versatile talents should carry him far toward any goal he may seek to attain. Mr. Warren is no stranger to readers of the Democrat, as he has been our capable Sports Editor for the past year.

The entire staff of writers in the office join a host of friends in Shelby County in wishing for him the success he so richly deserves in his chosen field of endeavor.

INTERESTING PERSONALITIES

By
Mildred White Wallace

DR. D. S. LIGHTCAP,
Ex-Mayor of Columbiana.
Chairman of the Board of Education of Shelby County.

Several weeks ago, Dr. D. S. Lightcap, life long friend of ours, dropped by the Democrat office and, with the merriest twinkle in his deep blue eyes, stated he was looking forward with keen anticipation to seeing Connie Mack in Birmingham. Connie Mack, as you know, is the veteran Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Philadelphia claims "Doc" as a former resident.

We immediately sensed a peach of a story behind all this suppressed excitement, but never a word would this neighbor of ours tell us. It remained for Zipp Newman, Mr. Sports Editor of Mr. "SGN" to cop the reminiscent story of the first exciting game between the Athletics and the Cincinnatti Red Sox, as related by Dr. Lightcap in Birmingham, where he attended the dinner honoring Connie Mack, last week—and with the Doctors kind permission, we are passing the story on to you.

Dr. Lightcap needs no introduction to Shelby County, nor to Alabama, for he has been a resident of Columbiana for the past 30 years and, for many years made his home in Talladega where he practiced dentistry. His public spirited interest in all things progressive for Shelby County, especially in an educational way, has made him a vitally important citizen to the town which now so happily claims him as its own.

Although 79 years of age, Dr. Lightcap walks with rapid strides, and without a cane. He possesses a keen intellect and is rated as one of the best informed men on all subjects in Shelby County. A distinguished gentlemen and a dead game "sport" with it.

RECOLLECTIONS OF AN OLD BASEBALL FAN
The First Two Professional Teams—The Philadelphia Athletics and the Cincinnatti Red Sox.

Several weeks ago I read about the Philadelphia Athletics of the American League coming to Birmingham for an exhibition game with the Barons. Also of the testimonial to be given to their manager, Connie Mack, that grand old man of baseball, by the Civitan Club. And naturally my thoughts turned to seeing my first professional game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cincinnatti Red Sox in Philadelphia in 1869.

This game was played on June 21, 1869, and was won by the Cincinnati Red Sox 27 to 18. There were about 15,000 persons at the game. The small grandstand was about 150 feet long and eight seats high, and only held about 500 persons, the balance were behind ropes, stretched along the third and first base lines, and the crowd went away out to the fielders.

(Continued On Page Eight)

ALABAMA POWER CO. SENDS OUT CHECKS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Alabama Power Company placed in the mails Saturday, March 30, checks for the regular quarterly dividends due on its $6 and $7 preferred stock to stockholders of record March 15, 1935.

These dividends aggregate approximately $553,000.

On April 30, checks will be mailed for dividends on the $5 preferred stock aggregating approximately $32,000.

TOM THUMB WEDDING SET FOR APRIL 5, 1935

The P.-T. A. will sponsor a Tom Thumb Wedding in the school auditorium, Friday evening, April 5th, at 8:00 o'clock.

Some of the most attractive children in Columbiana have a part on the program. Distinguished citizens of our town will be impersonated. You can't afford to miss it!

Benefits will go to the Grammar School.

JUNIOR METEOROLOGIST EXAMINATION CANCELED

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that, because of the fact that there are no vacancies at the present time nor any contemplated vacancies in the near future in the position of Junior Meteorologist, the examination recently announced for this position will not be held.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Anglo-German Conversations Disappointing, Simon Reports; Hitler's Demands Include Return of Colonies, Air and Naval Parity, and Minimum Army of 500,000.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

FOREIGN SECRETARY SIMON returned to England from his historic talks with Chancellor Hitler, and reported to the cabinet that Germany is seeking return of the colonies she lost in the war and a greatly increased navy. He said that Hitler admits Germany's air force equals that of Britain. Prime Minister MacDonald then called on King George to whom he gave a preliminary report of Simon's talks, which have been described as "disappointing."

Chancellor Hitler

Hitler made a bold play for Anglo-German understanding, declaring both nations should unite to defend western civilization against Communism and the colored races. Briefly, his demands were:

First—Germany must have an army with a minimum of 36 divisions—500,000 men—as decreed.

Second—Germany wants parity in the air with Britain. Hitler admitted that Germany now possesses equality with Britain. Hitler stressed the danger to which Germany is exposed in the air. He declared that Russia is using Czechoslovakia as a European air base. He demanded return of certain Czechoslovak territory and repatriation of 3,500,000 German residents there.

Third—Hitler wants a navy equal to one-third of the British fleet, which is tantamount to 400,000 tons. The British admiralty is opposed to such a ratio and Germany has been invited to bilateral naval discussions in London.

Fourth—Germany wants return of her former colonies. Little encouragement was given Hitler on this score.

Fifth—Hitler refused to have anything to do with an eastern pact, though he is willing to enter nonaggression pacts with Germany's neighbors, as he did with Poland.

Sixth—Hitler is prepared to sign a pact of noninterference in the affairs of Austria, but only if it means noninterference by all powers.

In Berlin demonstrators howled their resentment at death sentences imposed by Lithuania on four Nazis, and only stout police resistance kept the mob from the Lithuanian delegation itself. The four were convicted when a Lithuanian military court trying 126 Nazis for an asserted plot to start an armed uprising in Memel, former German territory, found them guilty. Eighty-seven others were sent to prison.

As Capt. Anthony Eden, British arms expert, begins his conferences with Soviet officials, observers believe the Russians will marshal every resource to convince Eden that the only safe course for the rest of the world is to bring sufficient pressure on Germany to induce her to accept the eastern security pact. The official press continues to stress that the rearmament of Germany threatens Russia, and that the conflict growing out of any German attack would spread all over Europe and Asia. This is but a confirmation of Litvinoff's contention that "peace is indivisible." League of Nations circles predict that France, Russia and Czechoslovakia will conclude an eastern pact as an answer to Hitler's new conscript army. Whether any effort will be made to bring Great Britain into this, is not known.

CONSIDERABLY mutilated, the administration's $4,880,000,000 work relief bill finally got through the senate by a vote of 68 to 16, and was returned to the house later, to be adjusted in conference. The senators accepted an amendment by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma for a currency expansion of $375,000,000 through the issuance of silver certificates at the $1.29 an ounce monetary value of the treasury's silver stocks instead of the present practice of using the purchase value of the silver.

Later the Thomas amendment was stricken out after congressional conferees had deadlocked for forty-eight hours. Members of the silver bloc asserted they would not stand in the measure's path, although Thomas had declared he would filibuster against any attempts to strike out the amendment. Besides eliminating the silver inflation plan, the conference modified the Russell labor compromise amendment to provide that the President shall pre-determine the rate of wages on public buildings to be constructed, and this rate will be submitted to contractors for bids. An amendment providing that all officers and employees receiving more than $5,000 a year will have to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate was modified. It now provides that any new administrator or member of any central board will be appointed by the President with the consent of the senate.

Among the senate changes approved were the allocation of the fund to eight general types of projects; continuation of the federal relief administration one year; extension of the Civilian Conservation corps two years from March 31; continuation of PWA two years from June 16; the George amendment to make funds available in the discretion of the President to administer the agricultural adjustment act; the Russell amendment to authorize farm loans to share croppers, tenant farmers and farm laborers for land purchase.

One day Harry L. Hopkins was reported lazing in the Florida sun and thinking up ways he would spend billions as administrator of the work relief fund. The next day, rumors were that Rexford G. Tugwell was to be nominated for the "biggest spender in history." Later reports from the national capital were that nobody but the President would be the big boss in the program. You can take your choice, but it seems likely that the latter is true. Senatorial discontent over the methods used by the two others mentioned will probably eliminate them from consideration. This strategy has been successful in the past. When a house group became too highly incensed at Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes, they were quieted with assurance that the President would have complete control of the work relief program, and the furore died out. Mr. Roosevelt will be the nominal head of the program, but he would not be expected to handle every detail. He must delegate authority, and it is highly probable that everyone will not be entirely satisfied.

JAPAN steps out of the League of Nations and flanked by her single avowed ally, Manchukuo, she faces the world as the self-chosen preserver of peace in the Orient. Japan's action is the culmination of a series of events started February 24, 1933, when Yosuke Matsuoka led the entire Japanese delegation in a walkout from the league assembly. Shortly after, Japan gave formal notice of her withdrawal from the league because the assembly had censured Japanese aggression in Manchuria. She has advised other powers that she considers herself guardian of peace in eastern Asia, and that outside assistance is neither desired nor invited. In addition, Japan has embarked on an armament policy marked by denunciation of the Washington naval treaty, demands for naval parity with Great Britain and the United States, and armed forces "sufficient to defend, but inadequate to attack."

Koki Hirota

With considerable ceremony the Soviet government transferred to Japan full ownership of the Chinese Eastern railway and thus ceased to be an opposing factor in the Japanese occupation of Manchuria. In the official residence of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in Tokyo the sale agreement and general protocol were signed and the bargain was clinched by the payment by Japan of 23,333,000 yen to the Soviet ambassador. The yen is currently quoted at about 27.8 cents. Japan's vigorous reply to British protests over the alleged Manchukuoan oil monopoly reflects development of the "Asia for Asiatics" plan announced some time ago. Japan denied that treaty provisions have been violated by the so-called monopoly. With the deal for the Soviet Russia interest in the Chinese Eastern railroad completed and Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations, Japanese penetration of Asia is expected to go forward under the strong leadership of Koki Hirota, foreign minister. Developments during the next few months will be highly important. The tense European situation will keep the western powers busy chasing peace and security in both the east and the west. Japan insists she will act alone, and rumors of a military alliance with Germany were scouted. The Japanese army, the note intimated, is ready to repel Soviet interference at any time.

REPLACEMENT of the AAA's system of crop control is seen as a future potentiality of a new organization established at the Department of Agriculture under Rexford G. Tugwell. The organization consolidates federal agencies dealing with soil erosion, and Tugwell is expected to direct the expenditure of about a billion dollars in public works funds on the public land program. At present plans call for retirement of millions of acres of marginal lands now contributing to surpluses, which experts contend will prove a more effective way of dealing with overproduction than AAA's policy of taxing commodities for acreage slashes. The latter is meeting increased opposition, due to rising living costs and increasing competition from foreign producers. There will probably be little immediate change in crop control plans, since the Tugwell program will require considerable time before it can be operated effectively.

R. G. Tugwell

FEDERAL expenditures are soaring faster than ever before in peace time history. The end of the first nine months of the fiscal year disclosed expenditures of more than $5,000,000,000. Revenue meanwhile has amounted to only $2,827,000,000, or a little more than half of what was spent. New Deal spending, statistical experts say, has been at an average of $13,000 for every minute, day or night, in the nine months since the fiscal year began, and total expenditures are expected to reach nearly $7,500,000,000 by the end of the year. Unemployment relief has required the $820,000,000 appropriated for this purpose and an additional $488,000,000 from the RFC, making a total thus far of $1,308,000,000. PWA is next in line with having poured out $819,000,000 in nine months. Despite these terrific totals government credit has not been impaired. The treasury has been able to refund all bonds with approaching maturities, and when the fourth liberty loan is called for redemption, a move which is expected to be made on April 15, no federal bond will be outstanding with a call date earlier than 1940.

HERBERT HOOVER suddenly projected himself into the political picture, and set wagging the tongues of countless politicians and observers. In a letter addressed to the California Republican assembly, meeting in Sacramento, the former President spoke his mind with utmost freedom concerning the doings of the Roosevelt administration whose theories, he asserted, "are no longer a propagandized millennium; they are self-exposed." The Republican party, said Mr. Hoover, has today the greatest responsibility that has come to it since the days of Abraham Lincoln—to raise the standard in defense of fundamental American principles; and he called for a rejuvenated and vigorous Republican organization.

Herbert Hoover

Here are some of the things Mr. Hoover said in arraigning the present administration:

"The most solemn government obligations have been repudiated.

"The nation is faced with the greatest debt ever known to our country.

"The currency has been rendered uncertain.

"The government has been centralized under an enormous bureaucracy in Washington . . . small business men have been disabled and crushed. Class conflicts have been created and embittered.

"More people are dependent upon the government for relief than ever before.

"Recovery is still delayed."

Leaders of the regular Republicans in Washington were quick to declare their approval of Mr. Hoover's attack on the New Deal. Most of them scouted the idea that he was tentatively looking toward another nomination, but the general impression was that he was in the way of becoming the leader of his party in fact as well as in name.

THE senate finally got around to passing the "pink slip" bill repealing publicity provisions of the 1934 income tax publicity act. An amendment allowing state and local taxing authorities to examine federal tax returns must be ironed out in conference between the house and senate, but both are agreed that the main publicity clause should be repealed. The slips filled out by millions with their March 15 returns must now be secreted in the files of the Internal Revenue department.

MUSSOLINI'S answer to the latest note on the Abyssinian situation postpones approval of the proposal that differences be decided by an international commission on conciliations "at least until the futility of direct negotiations has been proved." Il Duce made a counterproposal suggesting that the Italian minister to Abyssinia and the Ethiopian foreign minister get together for a series of personal conferences, go over all the data, and attempt to settle the dispute without the necessity of conciliation under the direction of the League of Nations. Direct negotiations are said to have the approval of both the French and British.

Premier Mussolini

PAY of railroad union men has been restored to the 1931 level, with a return of the last 5 per cent of a 10 per cent cut in 1932. The increase amounts to approximately $80,000,000. The restoration is in line with an agreement reached a year ago when the unions negotiated for a gradual restoration of the old wage scale.

HOUSE leaders are rushing action on the national defense program. Bills designed to strengthen the national defense are being rushed through the legislative hopper. Four navy bills were passed with little opposition and no record votes. These include authorization for expenditure of $38,000,000 in 1936-37 to build up the navy's shore stations on the Pacific coast, Hawaii and Canal Zone, and an increase of 1,000 in the navy's officer strength and provide a system of aviation cadets to take care of a shortage of naval fliers. Secretary Swanson has ordered concentration of the fleet's three most powerful cruisers in a new cruiser division commanded by Rear Admiral A. P. Fairfield, now assistant chief of the bureau of navigation.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—This is the season for editorial comments and business men's explosions to the broad general effect that the senate should stop talking and act—that it is outrageous that the senate should work under such archaic rules, permitting almost unlimited filibustering—and that congress should attend to its knitting, pack its various bags, and go home.

There is nothing new about this complaint. It is almost as old as the senate itself. The criticisms, every year, are generally preceded by equally violent blasts about the house of representatives rushing through legislation without proper consideration. These come early in each session of congress. Criticisms of the senate for talking too much come later.

Certainly it is very irritating to a man in any particular line of business to be uncertain as to the future of the rules of the game under which he must operate—whether it be a code under NRA as at present, or a tariff schedule on his product, as often happens, or a tax, as happens once every few years. He is apt to grow very impatient indeed when he reads in his newspaper every day that this important—to him—subject is being held up in the senate because a group of senators insist on talking—either about that very question or perhaps something entirely irrelevant.

If the aforesaid business man has watched the wheels go round for any length of time, moreover, he knows perfectly well that speeches change very few votes. That the senate is never stampeded by a silver-tongued orator. So he may reach the conclusion that the whole performance is a silly waste of time.

Now most of this criticism is accurate. What is overlooked in the criticism, however, is that a debate on any measure serves to center the attention of the country on that measure. That it forces into the consciousness of the senators who will vote on it the views—not of their colleagues—but of their constituents back home who will be affected by that legislation.

Filibusters Fail

The late Hoke Smith, of Georgia, in opposing a cloture rule in the senate, was fond of observing that a filibuster had never in history beaten a really good measure. Regardless of the merits of this, it is certainly true, in the opinion of nearly every man who has watched the senate over a long period of years, that few filibusters, if any, have ever succeeded that ran counter to popular sentiment as demonstrated later.

For example, it is generally accepted that at the time Woodrow Wilson sent the Versailles treaty to the senate for ratification, the country as a whole was behind the treaty and behind the League of Nations. Had it been possible to force an immediate vote, the United States would have approved the treaty, and would have been in the League of Nations and the World court immediately.

As a matter of fact, when that fight started, there were only two senators—Borah and Reed of Missouri—who really wanted to kill the treaty. Before the vote was taken there were nearly twenty killers, and only a few who did not want reservations of one kind or another. Without that long-dragged-out fight, the later judgment of the people of this country would not have been served.

This may seem far-fetched at the present moment. But due to the long dragging out of the work relief bill, which has so distressed some commentators, much has been done behind the scenes on other legislation. The utility holding company bill, for example; the old age pensions and unemployment insurance measures; and NRA continuance, which still requires, not voting, but time for crystallization of opinions as to the best thing to do.

Had the senate been operating under rules similar to those in the house, it is quite possible that the whole program would have been passed by now, in its various original forms. Even New Dealers now admit this would be little short of a tragedy.

Work Relief Troubles

President Roosevelt's work relief troubles have only begun. The nearly five-billion-dollar bill was steered safely through the rapids and shoals of congress. Amendments, which would have hamstrung it—boosting it beyond his ideas of what was possible or reducing it below what he thought would be effective, or substituting the dole or adding inflation—were all beaten. But the problem still remains.

Now the question is—how to make it work. How to give every "employable" person—the goal announced by the President—a job?

The difficulties are innumerable. For example:

Total amount: This is not considered sufficient by any expert who has studied the problem. It is no secret that the President himself does not think it large enough. He made the amount what it was, not because that was sufficient, in his judgment, but because it was as large as he dared even consider.

Earmarking and promises: The earmarking was not desired by the President, and his friends in the senate managed to make the language so elastic that, if the President desired, he could virtually disregard it. For instance, the discretion given him to modify any item, up or down, by 20 per cent of the total of the bill—not just the total of that item. But the earmarking was made, and the President has no desire to provoke further troubles with congress later on by disregarding such expressed wishes too flagrantly. The same might be said to apply to all the private promises made to individual senators as to what would be done in their states. As, for example, the agreements calmly announced by the two Vermont senators.

Slow to Borrow

Hesitation of states, counties and cities to borrow: A considerable part of the money, under the general plans as announced before the introduction of the bill by the White House, was to be loaned to states, counties, cities, "authorities," etc. The idea is that these governmental units would borrow money for specifically approved projects, and would sometime not only pay interest but repay the principal.

All the information available here is to the effect that many of these local governmental units are heavily loaded down with debt burden, and would prefer the federal government to take their troubles off their shoulders. Hence there is reported a loathness to borrow which may handicap the working of the whole plan, or at least to make the eventual debt burden of the federal government much greater than the President had estimated.

Discriminations: This is one of the worst problems of all, the point being that states, counties, cities and authorities in many instances have already borrowed enormous sums from PWA, and are not only paying interest, but expect to repay the principal. How are they going to feel if—as many suspect—the federal government is forced virtually to make donations to other states, cities, counties and authorities for the same sort of work? In the one instance the federal government will be loaning money, getting a fair rate of interest, and expecting to get the principal back. In the other the federal government, for precisely the same type of project, will be making an outright gift.

Plenty of political trouble is in sight on this!

Then there is what might be called the time lag. For the truth is and has been for some time that no definite program for the spending of the four billion odd dollars has been worked out. This is not mere supposition. It has been stated again and again by the President in talks with senators and members of the house; it has been stated by virtually every official of the administration testifying before congressional committees. It is only partially true, but there is going to be quite a lot of delay in getting under way.

Finally, there are the difficulties involved in the proposed fee system, awarding jobs without competitive bidding. Imagination runs riot on that!

Japanese Cotton

Tremendous importations of Japanese cotton cloth, with resultant closing down of New England mills, has caused a sudden and peremptory demand on the part of New England senators and members of the house for action to stop it. Among the steps demanded are immediate boosting of the tariff duties, cutting off the Japanese imports on the charge of dumping, and stopping of all processing taxes on cotton products so that American manufacturers and workers will not be penalized.

Figures submitted to Robert Lincoln O'Brien, chairman of the tariff commission, by Senator David I. Walsh show a startling advance in cotton cloth imports from Japan. The Massachusetts senator points out that in 1933 a total of 1,700,000 square yards was imported; in 1934, 7,700,000, but that in January of this year alone importations mounted to 7,000,000 yards in February, to 12,000,000 yards, and that on the first day of March alone the imports were 5,000,000 yards. Which makes a total of 24,000,000 yards brought in from Japan in the first 60 days of this year!

"I am sure," said Senator Walsh in calling the attention of Chairman O'Brien to these facts, "you will agree with me that these figures are startling and that these imports have greatly added to the distressing situation already existing in the cotton cloth industry. Let me add that this industry is in a very desperate condition. I refer to the industry located both in the North and in the South. A leading southern manufacturer, who is a member of the textile code authority and a member of the industrial advisory board of the NRA, approving code Number One (cotton textile code), has recently stated: 'All the best mills, no matter where located, are losing money. Many mills have closed, and others are reducing the pay of employees, in an effort to survive. Possibly a hundred or more have closed during the past two or three months, and more will close shortly.'

"The Rhode Island Telegram, of Providence, R. I., recently stated there were 22 mills closed in that immediate section. A textile mill in another state, employing ten thousand people, is threatened with the necessity of closing. The bishop of Fall River is calling upon members of the New England delegation, pointing out the desperate plight of the cotton cloth industry in Fall River and vicinity."

Senator Walsh then pointed out that the processing tax on cotton should be absorbed by the $4,000,000,000 relief bill, saying that no competing fabrics are subjected to processing taxes.

He also suggested that code authorities be permitted to reduce operations when necessary and conditions justify it.

Copyright.—WNU Service.

CITY STILL SPANISH

Most travelers who have visited both Spain and South America assert that Cartagena, in Colombia, is more Spanish in atmosphere than the cities of old Spain. The oldest living city of South America is as medieval as ever in its narrow cobbled streets winding about between old Moorish-Spanish houses, in its Sixteenth century monasteries, old dungeons and moats, and the same grim fortresses which were attacked by Drake and Morgan and the buccaneers of the Spanish main.

Let Your Light Shine

A life can preach what words cannot.—Rev. Dr. Bernard Iddings Bell of Providence.

Says Cardui Relieved Pain

"For several years, when just a girl, I suffered severe pain and I took Cardui then with beneficial results," writes Mrs. Blanche DeWitt, of Poca, W. Va. "Later in life, I suffered again and sometimes would have to go to bed. I knew that I should take something for this condition. Cardui stopped all this trouble that I had been having. It regulated me and I do not have any pain."

Build up with the help of Cardui to overcome functional menstrual pain. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

HELP KIDNEYS

IF your kidneys function badly and you have a lame, aching back, with attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains . . . use Doan's Pills.

Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. Millions of boxes are used every year. They are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Baby Needs Cuticura for that Rash

Why let him cry when an application of Cuticura Ointment will quickly soothe that irritation. Cuticura Ointment is a helpful friend to millions of babies throughout the world. It is gentle in action and promotes healing.

Sample free.
Address: "Cuticura," Dept. 22S, Malden, Mass.

Beautiful SKIN.. needs more than cosmetics

Beauty of skin comes from within. When constipation clogs the pores with intestinal wastes, CLEANSE INTERNALLY with Garfield Tea. Helps relieve the clogged system promptly, mildly, effectively. At your drug store 25c & 10c

FREE SAMPLE Write to GARFIELD TEA CO. Dept. 19 Brooklyn, N.Y.

GARFIELD TEA

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Imparts Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks., Patchogue, N.Y.

FLORESTON SHAMPOO—Ideal for use in connection with Parker's Hair Balsam. Makes the hair soft and fluffy. 50 cents by mail or at druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N.Y.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Sericea-Korean and Harbin Lespedeza Seeds. Low prices, samples, information. Write LUCAS FARMS, FRANKLIN, KENTUCKY

Deadshot Shooting Secrets Revealed. Short, long range. Stationery, moving objects. Instructions 10c. A. T., Box 802, Salem, Mass.

GINSENG. Chinese wild ginseng wanted. Best prices paid for good roots. Make this your market. Write to JAMES MURRAY, 1306 Bainbridge St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN! Making sparkling glass name and number plates, signs. Write: VAN, BOX 1249, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

ATTENTION LADIES

Scheri's System of Beauty Culture tells how to attain Wealth and Beauty. Full instructions. Beautify Yourself. Complete System $1.00. Free Offer. Send us 5 names of your lady friends within 5 days after you receive this paper, together with your order, and receive a Beautiful Lariat Costume Chain Absolutely Free.
WHITCOMB MAIL ORDER SERVICE
299 CENTRAL ST. GARDNER, MASS.

WNU—S 14—35

ADVICE TO WOMEN

Mrs. Annie M. Cape of 922 B. St., Meridian, Miss., said: "My health failed and I was just about ready to give up. I was too weak to do my housework, suffered with pains in my back and sides and headaches were frequent. I could neither eat nor sleep and my weight went down to 120 pounds. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and was soon in the best of health." All druggists.
Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

GUN-RUNNING PROFITABLE

Gun-running is now one of the largest and most profitable international rackets. This fact is evinced not only by numerous captures and disclosures, but by import and export records that do not balance. Incidentally, the dividends of one leading European armament corporation increased 570 per cent between 1920 and 1930.—Collier's Weekly.

FERRY'S PUREBRED FLOWER SEEDS

make your garden

A SHOW-PLACE

YOU may be sure your garden will be a real show-place if you plant Ferry's Purebred Flower Seeds. Like produces like, and Ferry's Seeds are selected from perfect plants whose forebears, generation after generation, have produced flowers of remarkable size and color. The Ferry Seed Display Box will help you to choose your favorite varieties.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD STORE SELLS THEM IN FRESH DATED PACKETS —MANY ONLY..... 5c

"Shop-Talk" Classed as Self-Forgetfulness

One of the last arts to mature in a young society is the art of conversation. At its best, conversation is a kind of impromptu orchestra, each player improvising in perfect harmony, time and tune, tossing the theme from instrument to instrument, the themes developing and changing, discarded or resumed at the caprice of the players. This of course presupposes that the subject of the conversation be impersonal, that it be free to range pretty much over the whole field of human experience. Such conversation is first met with in the form of shop-talk, and the reason shop-talk among people of the same interests or profession (in which is included school studies) is so popular may be that here, perhaps for the first time, we learn how delightful it can be to exercise our minds in company with others to the total exclusion and forgetfulness of our tiresome selves. That is why students talk so eagerly about their school tasks, why business and professional people so madden innocent by-sitters with technical discussions of the minutiae of their trades; why artists, musicians and scholars persecute the public with their passionate dissertations. But there is a stage beyond this, where human interests are broad enough and deep enough to embrace everybody, where the whole of experience is the subject.

"Clever but undiscriminating," "undiscriminating because the past is not alive to them." "Highbrow? Anything rather than that!"—this is a good-natured appraisal of how our sophisticated New Yorkers make it appear to Europeans. The objection to them is that they do not know enough, either about the past or their own country. But the condition is temporary. A passion for learning has sprung up in our land since the war which, given time, should turn out a crop of men and women able to interpret America to Europe as it really is, and not as a glorified Wisecrackiana. After the fire of the World war, after the whirlwind of the Jazz decade, after the earthquake of the economic depression cometh the still small voice of the spirit.—"Uncle Dudley," in the Boston Globe.

ONCE you taste Grape-Nuts Flakes, you'll cheer too! And it not only has a delicious flavor, but it's nourishing. One dishful, with milk or cream, contains more varied nourishment than many a hearty meal. Try it—your grocer has it! Grape-Nuts Flakes is a product of General Foods.

"PRINTS" ABOUT OLD AS FINGERS

Proofs of Their Wide Use in Old Palestine.

Of course, it is generally known in this day of wide use of fingerprints for purposes of identification that that merry old Missourian, Mark Twain, did not in truth invent the fingerprint for the use he made of it as an interesting point in detailing "The Tragedy of Pudd'nhead Wilson." And less generally known is that the fingerprint sweeps back to its use on official documents in China several centuries ago. But it was known only recently and then by very few persons that the fingerprint was employed in Palestine and possibly with purpose as long ago as six to a dozen centuries before Christ.

Dr. William F. Bade, professor of Semitic literature and languages in the Pacific School of Religion, in his capacity as director of the Palestine Institute of the Tell en-Nasbeh expedition, studying pottery and bits of earthenware recovered by searchers from a 12-acre mound near Jerusalem in the last four years, has recognized a pattern of fingerprints running through many of the specimens that indicates that they were used then almost as we use trademarks in the Twentieth century. Prof. August Vollmer, former police chief in Berkeley, who is now teaching police administration in the Pacific school, aided Doctor Bade in the study, turning his knowledge of fingerprints and their distinctive characteristics to good account in classifying the groups of relics according to their makers.

The knowledge thus gained has a practical value in determining periods. As the specimens were obtained at varying levels of the 300-foot mound it was not illogical to believe that the different levels represented different periods of history, with a spread, possibly, of several centuries. But identification of a number of jars found at different levels of the mound, bearing the same "prints," indicates that the theory of hundreds of years separating the levels must be revised to suit the evidence. Several pottery vases in the collection have been identified as belonging to the period when the Israelites were carried off into exile in Babylonia. On the larger two-handled jars the prints were regularly on the upper parts of the handles and give support to the belief that they were intended to serve as the potter's trademark. The smaller jars are marked indiscriminately and may have been nothing more than chance marks made in shaping the clay when it was soft.

True enough, these fingerprints may not have the clearness and the identification certainty that the records of modern prints bear, but the clay-recorded impressions are sufficient to give new value to archeological research.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Relics of Dwarf Race

The government of Mexico is investigating the ruins of a town built by a race of dwarfs. They are 75 miles from Durango and were discovered recently by M. Gamiz of that city. The site is near El Salto waterfall in the well-known Cerro Blanco, or White Hill. Many remains of dwellings have been found, the highest of which is only six feet, and human skeletons brought to light do not exceed 40 inches in stature, but are otherwise perfectly normal, and are those of adults. It has not been possible to establish the epoch when this pygmy race flourished.

Old Altar Discovered

A carved altar of late Gothic design and genuine Swiss workmanship of 1525 has been discovered in the little church on the Burgenstock, Lake of Lucerne, Switzerland.

FACE CONTOURS SHOULD BE GUIDE IN THE MAKE-UP

Even should there happen to remain a few radicals who still insist on flamboyantly slapping on paint to make them look handsome, a close observer of feminine behavior informs the readers of the Parents' Magazine that flaming youth definitely is subsiding to a soft glow.

What is more, this writer is certain that woman is growing more subtle in her methods of putting on rouge, and infers that facial make-up is not much of a trick once its possessor decides to let her face be her guide.

In the opinion of this authority, the average woman is safe in following the line of the cheekbone out to the temple and in to a point below the pupil of the eye. Round-face or double-chin should take on color high and toward the nose, and always the color should be softened and blended under the cheek bones. Thin-face should stress the outer edges of the cheek bone. Above all, color must be made to keep its distance from puffs and wrinkles.

The face, however, is not alone in its conservatism. The best-groomed finger-tips are no longer blood red—at least not during the daytime. Rose and salmon pink are having their turn at making the hands expressive.

Protecting Cables

Damage to cables laid on the sea bottom by the trawls of deep-sea fishermen has long been a serious and costly problem to cable companies. One such company has been spending an average of $250,000 a year in repairing its cables. Now a "sea-plow" has been perfected which, towed along behind a cable-laying steamer, will bury a cable 18 inches below the ocean bed out of reach of all grappling devices and other fishing equipment. In a recent test 100 miles off the southwest coast of Ireland, the cable steamer, Lord Kelvin, plowed under 20 miles of cable in this way and scores of attempts with grappling hooks dragged over the sea floor failed to reach the cable.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong. No alcohol. Sold by druggists in tablets or liquid.—Adv.

Never Fails

"What cured him of arguing with his wife?" "Arguing with his wife."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

GOOD IDEA

Abandon not your old clothes till you get your new.—Old Proverb.

FRECKLES DISAPPEAR IN 5 TO 10 DAYS

Wonder cream wipes away blackheads—dull, dingy skin

Here is one proven beauty-aid that works the right way in clearing away freckles, blackheads, blemishes, and restoring smooth, clear, lovely skin. It is famous NADINOLA Cream, tested and trusted for nearly two generations. All you do is this: (1) At bedtime spread a thin film of Nadinola Cream over your face—no massaging, no rubbing. (2) Leave on while you sleep. (3) Watch daily improvement—usually in 5 to 10 days you will see a marvelous transformation. Freckles, blackheads disappear; dull coarsened skin becomes creamy-white, satin-smooth, lovely! Fine results positively guaranteed. All toilet counters, only 50c. Or write NADINOLA, Box 36, Paris, Tenn.

COMPLETE LINES OF TRUCK TIRES FOR EVERY TRUCKING SERVICE AT LOWEST PRICES—GIVING LONG MILEAGE AND GREATEST ECONOMY

FIRESTONE pioneered the ship-by-truck movement in 1918, and ever since has consistently led in anticipating every requirement in the design and construction of truck and bus tires for every transportation condition. To accomplish this, Firestone has consistently followed the fundamental principle of its founder and active head, Harvey S. Firestone, "Always to find the way to build tires better than anyone else."

While there are many reasons why Firestone Tires are safer and more economical, there are two reasons that stand out above all others. One is Gum-Dipping; and the other is two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

By Gum-Dipping, every strand in every cord is soaked in liquid rubber, preventing friction—adding extra strength and long mileage. By having two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords placed between the tread and cord body, it is practical to use a tread with higher, more rugged shoulders and a deeper non-skid with flatter contour.

All this provides more rubber on the road, giving longer wear, greater traction and quicker stops. These two extra construction features are patented and used only in Firestone Tires. Take a forward step in maintaining schedules and reducing operating costs. Call on the Firestone Service Store or Firestone Service Dealer today.

Firestone GROUND GRIP TYPE — Super traction tire for unimproved roads.

Firestone OLDFIELD TYPE — The tire that taught thrift to millions.

Firestone SENTINEL TYPE — Volume production tire for light trucks.

Firestone HIGH SPEED TYPE — Greatest tire ever built for all-round service. Unequalled for high speeds and heavy hauling.

★★★★★ Listen to the Voice of Firestone—featuring Richard Crooks, Gladys Swarthout, or Nelson Eddy—every Monday night over N.B.C.—WEAF Network ... A Five Star Program

AUTO SUPPLIES FOR TRUCKS AND BUSES

FIRESTONE TRUCK TYPE BATTERIES

FIRESTONE HEAVY DUTY SPARK PLUGS — For quick starts and longer mileage.

FIRESTONE BRAKE BLOCKS and HEAVY DUTY LINING — For better braking control.

FIRESTONE FAN BELTS

FIRESTONE RADIATOR HOSE

Firestone

© 1935, F. T. & R. Co.

ARM & HAMMER AND COW BRAND BAKING SODA ARE PURE BICARBONATE OF SODA U.S.P. STANDARD

To cleanse milk pails and milk cans use a boiling solution of our Baking Soda ... A warm Soda solution thoroughly cleans jelly glasses, preserve jars ... keeps the baby's nursing bottles wholesome makes your glassware radiantly clean and bright ... Our helpful Soda serves many purposes, keep two packages 2 one in the kitchen, one in the medicine cabinet ... order a supply today from your grocer ... Mail the coupon.

CHURCH & DWIGHT CO., INC.
PLEASE SEND ME FREE BOOK DESCRIBING USES OF BAKING SODA ALSO A SET OF COLORED BIRD CARDS.
(PLEASE PRINT NAME AND ADDRESS)
NAME
STREET
CITY
STATE
70 CEDAR ST. NEW YORK

Business established in the year 1846

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY,
CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

8,000,000 Electric Refrigerators have been sold.
5,000,000 Electric Refrigerators are now in use.

WHAT WENT WITH THE OTHER 3,000,000 Electric Refrigerators???

97% of GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS ever sold are still in use.

Folks, do not be mislead by low price, gadgets, and unimportant things about a refrigerator.

You want
LONG TIME PERFORMANCE AND DEPENDABLE SERVICE
So buy
A GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

Home Appliance Co.

(MILTON ALLEN — E. E. CRAIG)
Montevallo, Alabama
(JOHN CURLEE, local representative)

BOWDON'S SERVICE STATION
R. E. BOWDON, JR., Prop. —— CALERA, ALABAMA

Shelby County Motor Co., Inc.

Columbiana, Alabama

DODGE AND PLYMOUTH DEALERS

You are cordially invited to let us demonstrate these New Models before buying. Located in the City Garage Building on east side of Main street. Phone 82.

G. B. TENNENT, General Sale Manager.
CLAUDIA WOOLEY, President.

Kiddies' Kolumn

Dunnavant, Ala.,
April 1, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

In our language lesson for tomorrow, we are to write you and tell you about the robins which are very interesting birds. The robin is one of the thrush family which includes the blue bird and the wood thrush. Robins make their appearance in the early Spring to guard when insect life is aroused from winter sleep until winter drives them South.

Nearly everyone knows the robin for it likes to nest near the homes of men and is not afraid to be both seen and heard. The male has the better of the female in looks. A large one will measure about ten inches from tip of bill to tip of tail. Its color is brownish with outside feathers white at the inner tips. The wings are also dark brown. The throat feathers are streaked with black and white and the eyelids give another touch of white. Of course the marks of the robin are its breast of bright rusty red. The American bird is much larger than the European Robin.

Yours very truly,
Claude Bryant, Jr.

Dunnavant, Ala.
April 1, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I read a letter from George W. Knight. He was asking about birds. In the summer and spring birds sing sweeter. I am just a little girl 12 years old and my teacher's name is Miss Alice Nolen. I like her so much and I would also like to see my letter in the Kiddies Kolumn.

Lots of love,
Evelyn Isbell.

Dunnavant, Ala.,
April 1, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I saw the robins in the fall and also in the spring. They fly around my trees in the yard. They have yellow bills. I enjoyed reading George Knight's letter in the paper about the robins.
James Grimes.

Dunnavant, Ala.,
April 1, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

This is my second letter to you. My teacher's names are Mr. Blackerby and Miss Nolen. They are very good to us. The birds are all singing so merrily today around our school house. I liked the letter George Knight wrote and I hope to see my letter in the Kiddies Kolumn.

Sincerely,
Eunice Whitfield.

Dunnavant, Ala.,
April 1, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

This is my first time to write to you and I am hoping to see my letter in the Kiddies Kolumn. I am a little girl in the 4th grade. I go to Dunnavant school and Mr. Blackerby is my teacher.

We are studying about birds and we all enjoyed reading the letter George Knight wrote us from Bourbon, Indiana.
With love,
Willie Mae Harris.

Dunnavant, Ala.,
April 1, 1935.

Dear Mildred White Wallace:-

I have read the letter George Knight wrote to the Kiddies Kolumn. He lives in Bourbon, Indiana. He was asking about birds in the South. The robins sing a sweet song and they go South in the winter when it is cold. They travel South for food. We are studying first about the robin in our school work. I like to read about them.
Yours truly,
Sibil Louise Greene.

INTERESTING PERSONALITIES

(Continued From First Page)

I, as a small boy, witnessed this game from under the ropes near the third base. A second game was played between these two teams, this time in Cincinnatti, Ohio, on October 8, 1869 which was won by the Sox 17 to 12.

My interest in baseball and the Athletics in particular was influenced by Mr. A. Reach, who played second base for them, and who came quite often to my old home, Pottstown, Pa., to umpire our ametuer games. He always gave an exhibition of batting which was so wonderful I resolved to see his whole team play. The first time I was privileged to see them was in May, 1869, in Morristown, Pa. Then a few weeks later I read in the papers that they would play the Cincinnati Red Sox in Philadelphia on June 21st. I could not refrain from getting parental permission to visit my sister living in Philadelphia and see this game. I arrived in Philadelphia several days before the game, and with other small boys in the community, spent some time around the Cigar Store of Al Reach's on 2nd Street which was not far from my sister's home until I learned all the players by name.

There is a great difference between the game then and now, no gloves, masks or other protection was used. The catcher stood about 20 feet behind the batter, and the ball was about the same size and construction as used now. The pitcher delivered the ball in an under-handed swing which had to pass below the hips. And the batter could call for the kind of a ball he wished. I distinctly recall the fielding that day of the two Wright Brothers of Cincinnati and Reach of the Athletics. It was nothing short of marvelous, and would do credit to any player of today.

Scores of those days ran high, I recall reading of one game played between the Sox and the Cream City team of Milwaukee, which was won by the Sox 85 to 7. The small score of that year was in a game between the Cincinnati Red Sox and the Mutuals of New York, which the Sox won 4 to 2. During this year the Cincinnati team went through the season without a defeat—playing 57 games. The same year the Athletics won 42 and lost 7.

Another interesting fact to baseball fans in Alabama is the history of the meeting of the National Association of Players held the same year in Boston on December 8, 1869. Delegates were permitted on the basis of one representative for every 10 teams in the State. Only 8 states in the Union were represented, and Alabama, with two delegates was the only state from the entire south who had proxy delegates, representing 11 teams in this old State, which accounts for the high interest in Alabama for baseball.

During the past 49 years I have very seldom failed to read the box scores of the games, which have been published in the Age-Herald, that the Athletics have played.

WORDS OF APPRECIATION

We very much appreciate the privilege of publishing the school news in The Shelby County Democrat. We owe this opportunity to Mrs. Wallace and Mr. Head. We will try to pubilsh interesting articles about the school. We feel sure this will help us in our english and literature work. Let the children see their work in print.
(Signed) Thelma Blackerby.

CHELSEA SCHOOL NEWS

The school bus drivers, Mr. Poe, and some of the school boys fixed the water pump. March 27. We expect to have plenty of water from now on.

Floyd Kendrick returned to school Monday, March 25. We are very glad he has recovered from his injuries and is back in school again. He is ready to start his school work with much interest.

The P.-T. A. sponsored a work-day at the school, March 15. They improved the grounds very much. Some of the P.-T. A. members served lunch for the workmen. We want to thank them for their interest in the school. The pupils are interested in beautifying the school grounds.

FERTILIZER FOR SALE!

When you eat, you want the best.
You should be that way about your FERTILIZER.
Let us tell you about
INTERNATIONAL FERTILIZER.
We guarantee satisfaction at harvest time.
By the sack or by the car.
We deliver right to your barn.
"Come up to see us sometime"

GORMAN BROS.

"Tumpy" and "Jimmy"
VINCENT, ALABAMA

FEED COTTONSEED MEAL and HULLS TO HORSES, MULES AND OXEN.

The Experiment Stations in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas recommend feeding Cottonseed Meal to Horses, Mules, and all kinds of live stock. It will save money and conserve grain. Your (Auburn) Extension Service suggests rations for daily allowance for Horses and Mules weighing 1000 lbs. In making corrections for 800-lb. animal decrease the feed one-fifth, 1200-lb. animal add one-fifth.

For idle Horses and Mules:	Pounds
Corn, Oats or Corn and Cob Meal	5
COTTONSEED MEAL	1
Hay or Bundle Fodder	12
For Horses and Mules—Light Work:
Corn, Oats or Molasses	6
COTTONSEED MEAL	1 1-2 to 2
Hay or Bundle Fodder	10
For Horses and Mules—Heavy Work:
Corn and Oats	12
COTTONSEED MEAL	2
Hay or Bundle Fodder	5
COTTONSEED HULLS	5

YELLOW FRONT STORES
Groceries Dry Goods
Where Quality Prevails at Low Prices

SPECIALS - APRIL 5 AND 6 - SPECIALS

Men Be Sure To Shop The Yellow Front, And Save On Men
——Your Spring And Summer Needs.——

Dress Shirts Made Of Fine Count Broadcloth. Guaranteed Fast Colors Cut Full With Seven Button Front 98c

Pants Summer Weight In Good Quality Materials Both Light And Dark Patterns. Buy A Supply At These Low Prices $1.49 & $1.95

Ties Just Received New Shipment Of Beautiful Neckwear. Let Us Replace That Old Tie —A Bargain— Prices Ranging 15, 25 & 50c

Pajamas In Solid Or Fancy Stripes—Made Of Good Quality Broadcloth—Cut Full. It Will Pay You To Buy Several Pairs At This Low Price——Per Pair $1.50

Straw Sun Hats Complete Line - A Hat To Fit Any Member Of The Family. Be Sure To See Our Assortment Before Buying. A Real Value At ..... 15, 25 & 35c

Ladies Don't Forget We Are Stocking A Beautiful Line Of Silk Dresses, And So Reasonably Priced ..... $1.98 to $4.98

BUY THAT EASTER FROCK NOW!

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME THREE — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1935 — NUMBER FIFTY-TWO

Register In Chancery 7-5-35

VINCENT HI JUNIOR CLASS SPONSORS A TRIP TO MOBILE

The Junior Class of Vincent High School gave the Senior Class a trip to Mobile, instead of a banquet which is the usual custom. After careful consideration the Juniors and the teachers decided that a very educational tour could be made. Plans were made for a week-end trip. Thirty-three pupils and six teachers left Vincent, Friday, to make a visit to the Azalea Trail in Mobile.

A visit to Maxwell Field in Montgomery was very interesting. Many historical facts about our capital were told by a man who ushered the pupils through the pupils through the state capitol.

Pupils enjoyed the scenery on the way and found many interesting things to entertain themselves while riding. One of the prettiest scenes was the Cochran Bridge over Mobile Bay. The city was very pretty and the fifteen miles of Azalea Trail was very beautiful and enjoyed by everyone.

Many pupils went swimming in the bay while others went riding in sail boats. A guide carried us through a ship on the bay. It was all new to us and most interesting.

The Bellingrath Home was very beautiful, also the McKenzie home was interesting because of the history connected with it.

Picture making, picture shows, picnic lunches, swimming, and the nights spent at tourist camps and hotels were enjoyed by everyone.

The behavior of the pupils was complemented by the faculty and other people who were concerned.

Vincent High School is proud of the Juniors and the teachers who made it possible for such a nice trip to be made. We feel that no other school can compare their Junior-Senior entertainment with it.

The following people made the trip: Miss Frances Merrill, Miss Anne Christian, Miss Maxine Dupuy, Miss Geneva Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Horton, Mary Lowe, Virgie Moore, Monteen Embry, Chesta Lee Eastis, Ruby Vick, Pauline Self, Ressie Bentley, Annie Frank Elliott, Bloise Willis, Bennie Bowden, Nolen Hoyle, Otis Fancher, J. D. Flemings, Estes Oakes, Herman Buckelew, Lewis Bradford, Edward Vaughn, Richard Brown, Eugene Looney, Everette Weichman, Charles Beavers, Woodrow Melton, Wallace Denty, Roland Bolton, Barnett Davis, Nellie Nivens, Hazel Elliott, Eva Ruth Brumbaugh, Margerein Blankenship, Magdalene Roberts, Mildred Clinkscales, Oline Nivens and Margaret Murphy.

Option Contractors To Act By April 20

AUBURN, Ala.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has fixed April 20, 1935, as the last date upon which holders of cotton option contracts, which have not been exercised because of the physical or legal incompetence of their holders, may be exercised, and notified authorities here accordingly.

These cotton option contracts were issued to producers as part payment for participation in the 1935 emergency adjustment program. The final date for their exercise was June 30, 1934, but in fixing that date the Secretary indefinitely exempted contracts held by persons physically or legally incompetent to exercise them before that date.

Between now and April 20, 1935, holders of cotton option contracts within the classification of this order may secure the benefits thereof by exercising their option through direct sale or through joining the 1933 cotton producers' pool.

MINOOKA CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. JOHNSON

MINOOKA, Ala.—The Minooka Demonstration Club met with Mrs. W. G. Johnson, March 28, 1935. The President called the meeting to order and each member responded with an Irish joke. The minutes were read by Mrs. Ryan, and the meeting was then turned over to the project leaders. The next meeting will be held with Miss Lillian Busby.

Miss Charlie Verne Tinney and Miss Dorothy Sessions, of Alabama College, were visitors in Columbiana over the week-end.

"I Saw It in the News Review"

is a common expression among those who keep well informed on current events. They know that in the "Weekly News Review," which appears regularly in this paper, they obtain a comprehensive interpretation of world events written by Edward W. Pickard, one of the nation's most widely-known news commentators.

Weekly News Review

deals with the important happenings and their effect upon our country. It is more than news—it is an interpretation of the news, and therefore much more valuable to the person who wants to understand what is going on in the world today.

● Read it carefully from week to week. You will find it interesting and helpful in your discussion of world events with your neighbors and friends.

COLUMBIANA WINS OVER MONTEVALLO IN LEAGUE OPENER

Last Friday, the Shelby County High School opened the County High School Baseball league by defeating Montevallo High School at Montevallo, by score of 3 to 2.

It was a very interesting game and hotly contested. After the first inning when Montevallo scored two runs, D. Wallace, who pitched for Columbiana, was always master of the situation.

Some fast fielding by both teams kept the scoring down. Hartley, of Montevallo, pitched a fine game which would have won in most cases. This was his first loss in two years and broke Montevallo's winning streak of over 20 games.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Columbiana	111 000 0—3	4	3
Montevallo	200 000 0—2	7	1

Batteries: Columbiana—D. Wallace and Hugh Miller; Montevallo—Hartley and Eiland.

LEAGUE STANDING

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Columbiana	1	0	1000
Vincent	1	0	1000
Montevallo	0	1	000
Siluria	0	1	000

DEMOCRAT DRIVE ON FOR MEMBERS

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The Alabama State League of Young Democrats is making plans for an intensive membership campaign, the goal being to have 100 000 members before the general election next year. A meeting of several of the officers of the league was held here recently and membership was the chief discussion, it is understood.

John P. Kohn, Jr., of this city, president of the league, is expected to appoint an organizer within a few weeks whose duty will be to set up one or more active clubs in every county in the State. Approximately 30 of the counties have been organized, but in many of these the membership is still small compared to its possibilities in those places, it is claimed.

PLAY TO BE HELD AT MAYLENE, APRIL 13TH

MAYLENE, Ala.—There will be a play presented at Maylene School House on Saturday night, April 13, 1935. The P.-T. A. will also raffle off a quilt and sell sandwiches. Admission: 5 and 10 cents.

FARMER FINANCES COTTON WITH MILK

ABBEVILLE, Ala.—W. O. Baxter, primarily a cotton farmer, has, in large measure, financed his cotton frop operation through the sale of ream and whole milk, reports hounty agent C. S. Keller.

"By selling cream and feeding the skimmilk to chickens, and in turn selling eggs, I have kept going where many of the other cotton farmers have had to borrow money, or have lost out. This kind of work is very confining, but it is worth the trouble."

PROPOSED STATE SCHOOL PROGRAM TOLD BY APPLETON

For the information of Shelby County citizens, the County Superintendent is releasing a brief outline of the proposed minimum program for Alabama's Public Schools. This proposed program calls for an appropriation of $4,400,000 annually more than the public schools are now receiving from State and local funds. This increase, however, replaces only in part, revenues that are no longer available to the schools. School revenue in Alabama is now approximately $5,100,000 less per year than in 1929 and 1930.

Minimum Program For Schools

1. Salaries of teachers and principals based on State salary schedule, which ranges from $30.00 per month for poorest trained teacher to $135.00 for teachers with 5 years college training and seven or more years experience. For seven months, $9,475,000.

2. Actual amount spent in 1933-34 for transportation for seven months, $1,300,000.

3. Necessary current expenses, other than for teachers and transportation, including the following items: Expenses of Board of Education, salaries and expenses of Superintendent and assistants; instructional supplies; library costs; wages to janitors; fuel; lights; water etc.; repairs to school buildings; attendance service and insurance. Average for depression years, $2,300,000.

4. For additions to buildings and for equipment. Amount requested (less than 1-2 of ten year average), $1,100,000. Aproximate total $14,-100,000.

Estimated receipts from state funds, 2 mills of county tax and 3 mills district tax, $9,700,000.

Additional funds needed, $4,400,000.

This program contemplated the operation of high schools two additional months and payment of interest only on indebtedness, not included in the above items shall be paid from the remaining 2 mills of the county tax. (Signed)

J. L. APPLETON, County Supt.

A LETTER TO THE ASSOCIATE EDITOR

April 5th, 1935

Mildred White Wallace,
Associate Editor,
The Shelby County Democrat,
Columbiana, Alabama.

Dear Mrs. Wallace:

I had already addressed the enlcosed card to your paper when I received a copy of the Democrat. I enjoyed the poems in the issue so much that I cut out one of them and sent it to my good friend Jimmie Jones who is ill at the South Highlands Hospital.

I am always glad to read the Democrat and learn about my friends in Columbiana. Now that I am no longer constantly tied up with the City of Birmingham, I expect to get down to Columbiana before very long and extend greetings to old friends.

Besure and remember me to all my old friends and with best wishes, I am,

Cordially yours,
RALPH E. PARKER.

The above letter is gratefully acknowledged. Many residents in Columbiana will pleasantly remember Mr. Parker who was, at one time, Principal of the Shelby County High School and his record is referred to as the most progressive program ever undertaken in the school. He is at the present time practicing law in Birmingham, having formerly served the Magic City as City Attorney. His offices are located in the Massey Building.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown in the recent death of our beloved husband, father, son and brother, W. Henry Vick, also for the beautiful floral offerings. (Signed)

Mrs. W. H. Vick,
Velton Vick,
Kermit Vick,
Mrs. Aline Bankson,
Mrs. J. C. Vick,
Sam R. Vick,
Mrs. Dora Duncan.

$4,880,000,000 WILL BE SPENT TO MAKE JOBS FOR 7 MILLION PEOPLE

MOVE STARTED TO REDUCE AUTO TAG COSTS IN ALABAMA

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—The legislative sub-committee on highways April 5th was definitely committed to recommend a reduction in automobile license tags in an amount to be determined.

Chairman J. R. Wallace, of Clarke County, said he favored a reduction of about 40 per cent but several committeemen opposed this proposal, contending trucks woull be driven off the highway by excessive fees.

The sub-committee April 5th began consideration of a uniform drivers' license law "with teeth in it." Later a clause against drunken driving will be studied.

The judiciary reform committee continued hearing protests from circuit judges to the proposed bill to reduce judicial circuits from 23 to 21, and reduce the number of judges from 41 to 34.

Judge John Miller of the Fourth District, which would lose a judge under the proposed change, urged that present conditions be continued. He advised against "tearing up" the circuits and said many of the judges in his section were much overworked.

Mine Safety Instructor Exam Is Announced

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that it will accept applications until April 29, 1935, for the position of Junior Safety Instructor in the Bureau of Mines.

The duties are in connection with the instructing and examining of classes in first aid, in methods of rescue and recovery work, and in the use of respiratory apparatus. Instructors may also give assistance following mine fires and explosions and perform related work incidental to the operation of a safety car or station.

Applicants must have had at least 4 years of practical experience in and about mines. Experience in mine safety work or as a mine official involving responsibility for the work of others is highly desirable and additional credit will be given for experience of this kind. Additional credit will also be given for high school education.

The salary is $1,440 a year, less a 3 1-2 percent retirement deduction.

COTTON CONTRACT LIMITS ARE CITED

AUBURN, Ala.—The 1935 contract permits landlords, tenants, and sharecroppers to use the land rented to the government only for (1) soil-improving crops, (2) erosion-preventing crops, (3) food crops for consumption by the producer on his farm, (4) fallowing, or (5) such other uses as may be permitted by the secretary of agriculture.

Secretary Wallace's administrative ruling states that the rented acres shall not be made a source of profit by leasing or otherwise disposing of their use, or by sale or exchange off the farm, directly or indirectly, of products produced on the rented acres, nor can feed crops that would normally be grown on other land for feeding livestock be diverted to the rented acres, thereby releasing acreage for the production of some crop of crops for sale.

2 YEARS OF BEER TAX TOTALS $341,780,420

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Beer during the last two years, has washed away a 15-year legal thirst for many Americans and has rolled $341,780,-420 into the Federal treasury.

This was made known April 6, on the eve of the second anniversary of the legalization of 3.2 beer.

The figures, given by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, are for the 23 months ending with last February.

STATE TO SEEK MILLION FOR ARMORIES, CLAIM

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Adt. Gen. W. A. Gayle, said here Sunday night that Alabama would seek $1,000,000 with which to construct 40 national guard armories under the national work-relief program.

Gen. Gayle said the state would furnish the building sites and would seek federal appropriations for both materials and labor to construct the armories.

SIX CLUBS QUALIFY FOR BERTHS IN CO. BASEBALL LEAGUE

The Shelby County Baseball League has been reorganized for the 1935 season and new clubs have been admitted to the league. The following clubs have organized and will put strong teams on the field on opening day: Aldrich, Boothton, Columbiana, Montevallo, Helena and Siluria.

The President and Board of Directors expect to complete the schedule during this week and fix the date for the opening of the season which will be sometime during the early part of May. Tentative plans call for a split season, the first half ending with the games played on July 4th, and the second half ending with the games played on August 31st.

The election of new offices for the league will be held at the next meeting which will be at an early date.

IN MEMORY

On March 27, 1935, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Peete and claimed for its victim, Mr. Peete's sister, Miss Dixie C. Peete. Miss Peete was born in Limestone County, but for several years had been a resident of Shelby County. At an early age she joined the Episcopal Church and was a very earnest and devout Christian. After moving here, she was an earnest worker in both Methodist and Baptist Churches. Her lovable Christian character, sweet disposition and unselfish consideration for others won for her many friends. She was always interested in any movement for the betterment of the community.

While her death leaves a vacancy in the community as well as the home, we can only bow our heads in humble submission and say, "Thy will be done.".

The funeral service was held at the Underwood Methodist Church and conducted by the Rev. I. T. Carlton, pastor. Interment in the Montevallo cemetery with Rogan in charge.

She leaves one brother, Mr. B. B. Peete, and a host of neices, nephews and friends to mourn her death.

(Signed) Mrs. Frank Frost, and Lucile Daviston.

FEEDING CORN TO HOGS PROFITABLE

AUBURN, Ala.—Surplus corn can be profitably marketed through hogs, says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who says that experimental work shows "that 6 1-2 bushels of corn and 50 pounds of tankage will produce 100 pounds of pork."

"Allowing $40.00 per ton for the tankage we find that hogs will pay $1.00 per bushel for your corn even at the present price of $7.50 per hundred, and present indications are that the market for hogs will continue to advance during the spring and summer," he advises.

SUMMER TERM CIRCUIT COURT TO MEET APRIL 13

Judge W. W. Wallace has called the summer term of the Circuit Court to meet on May 13th, 1935. The first week will be devoted to Civil cases and the second week to the criminal.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS HUGE WORKS BILL MAKING IT LAW

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 work relief fund today started flowing to every section of the country to make jobs for 7,000,000 persons.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered immediate expenditure of $155 000,000 by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps. He signed the appropriation resolution aboard train en route from Florida to New York yesterday.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins was alloted $125,000,000 to feed and clothe the nation's 20,500,000 needy until he receives an additional $755,000,000 provided in the bill for doles.

CCC Director Robert Fechner ordered double-quick enrollment of 110,000 recruits to expand his corps to the 370,000 mark.

Tentative allocation of the remaining billions of dollars in the New Deal's effort to employ 3,500,000 persons directly on Government-financed projects and 3,500,000 more in behind-the-line industries was as follows:

Direct relief money already allocated, $125,000,000.

Direct relief money remaining, $775,000,000.

CCC money already allocated, $30,000,000.

Loan and grants for construction, $900,000,000.

Highways, roads and grade crossing elimination, $800,000,000.

Rural rehabilitation, water conservation, irrigation and reclamation, $500,000,000.

Production Loans Increased In Feb.

The number of loans to farmers by production credit associations in February showed an increase of over 115 per cent compared to January, according to a statement by W. M. Myers, Farm Credit Administration Governor. Loans during the month numbered 24 123 for $16,059,000 compared to 11,218 loans for $13,672,000 during January.

The large increase in the number of loans and in the demand for credit was du eprimarily to the early start in crop financing by farmers in the southern and central states, Mr. Myers said. The largest increase was in the New Orleans district covering Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama, where $2,910,000 was loaned during the month.

Most of '35 Cotton Covered by Contract

AUBURN, Ala. — Approximately 98 per cent of the cotton grown in Alabama this year will be under government contract, according to Walter L. Randolph, executive escretary in cotton adjustment at Auburn.

"Most of the farmers who did not sign the two-year contracts in 1934 have agreed to reduce their acreage this year, and it appears that the number of new contracts will be about 30,000," explainel Mr. Randolph. "The number of signers last year, covering 1934 and 1935, was 117,000, and the total number of contracts is expected this year to closely approach 150,000."

Approximately two million acres will be planted to cotton this year in Alabama, which is 30 to 35 per cent less than the average cotton acreage planted in the state during the period 1928 to 1932.

All farmers participating in the 1934 and 1935 cotton acreage adjustment plan are receiving rental and benefit payments. The program is being administered through the offices of the county agents by county and community committeemen elected in January from among producers who are taking part in the program.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Nye's Committee Offers Drastic War-Profit Bill—Austria Decides to Enlarge Its Army—Progress of European Peace Negotiations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

SENATOR GERALD P. NYE'S munitions committee, which has spent seven months investigating the doings of the manufacturers of arms and armament, reported to the senate its measure designed to take the profits out of war and provide for the conscription of industry in the event of another armed conflict involving the United States. The bill is decidedly drastic, giving to the President in war time powers that are practically dictatorial, permitting him not only to fix prices but also to license all industry and control raw materials. It also has taxation features that will arouse considerable opposition. It would raise individual income taxes to 6 per cent in wartime, levy surtaxes up to 94 per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000, and seize profits of corporations in excess of 6 per cent return on invested capital.

Senator Nye

The Nye bill gives the President very broad powers to fix prices of commodities, to license industry, to enjoin profiteering and to prevent the hoarding of goods. It provides for the drafting of industrial leaders, who would be permitted to remain with their companies, subject to military law and given rank and compensation not exceeding that of a brigadier general.

Meanwhile the house military affairs committee reported the McSwain bill, similar to the senate measure but without the tax features. This lack made the more radical members angry but when they tried to amend the bill they were routed, 258 to 71.

The Nye senate committee, after reporting its bill, continued its inquiry. It heard a rather sensational bit of evidence to the effect that Roger S. McGrath, an insurance company agent who was described as a friend of the President's son James, had sought successfully to obtain two naval building contracts for the Bath Iron Works up in Maine.

FOLLOWING the example set by Hitler, Austria has decided to disregard the limitations on its military strength set by the treaty of St. Germain and to increase its armed forces immediately. The official communique issued by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg did not say how big the army would be or whether conscription would be restored. The annual spring parade of the army at the Ringstrasse in Vienna was revived, and the troops appeared in fine new uniforms.

It is believed Hungary and Bulgaria soon will ask permission to increase their armies and re-introduce conscription.

SOVIET Russia is ready to line up with Great Britain, France and Italy in promoting the general European security pact which is the basis of England's plan for peace. This was brought out by the visit to Moscow of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, and his conferences with Dictator Josef Stalin and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissar. According to the joint communique given the press, these statesmen "were of the opinion that in the present international situation it is more than ever necessary to pursue the endeavor to promote the building up of a system of collective security in Europe as contemplated in the Anglo-French communique of the third of February, and in conformity with the principles of the League of Nations."

M. Litvinov

It was made clear that Germany and Poland would be welcome to enter the arrangement, but that it would go ahead even without them.

Captain Eden then went on to Warsaw to talk things over with the Poles; and even as he was departing from Moscow the Soviet press launched another fierce attack on Germany. Michael Tukhachevsky, vice commissar for defense, in an article in the newspaper Pravda, declared Germany would have an army of 849,000 by the summer, exceeding the French army by 40 per cent and almost equaling the Soviet army in size.

He charged Hitler with "lulling France to sleep" with anti-Soviet war talk in the hope France would not realize her own peril.

Tukhachevsky's view that Germany contemplates attacking France was supported by an authorized article in the weekly Journal de Moscou which asserted the leaders of the reich realized "the exceptional risk to which Germany would subject herself by invasion of the tremendous territories of the U. S. S. R.—a country possessing powerful armaments and unlimited opportunities for improving and increasing these armaments."

"It is almost probable," the Journal said, "that under certain circumstances Hitler will prefer other fields of aggression, and an intensified revision of the map of Europe will be started not in the east but in the west."

PREMIER MUSSOLINI is highly skeptical of the success of efforts to persuade Germany to enter into general peace plans for Europe. In his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, appeared an editorial, probably written by il duce himself, warning his fellow countrymen that no miraculous results may be expected from the conference of foreign ministers in Stresa. It asserted that the western European powers "must stabilize their line of common action against several eventualities which can be foreseen, and they must take definite responsibility."

It then charged that the French and British are impeding Mussolini's wish to take action against Hitler because of their preoccupation about their own internal policy.

Premier Flandin and Foreign Minister Laval of France were reported to have devised a vast, new, flexible plan to organize the peace of the continent within the framework of the League of Nations.

POLAND appears to have decided to play a lone hand in the European embroglio, though she remains friendly to Germany. It is reported that Captain Eden's visit to Warsaw was as disappointing as was that of Sir John Simon to Berlin. The Polish government is determined to sign no pact that would commit the nation to fight for Russia against Germany or for Germany against Russia and France, nor will it permit either German or Russian troops to be transported across Poland. The Polish statesmen say they will sign a series of bilateral pacts, and will go as far as any other nation in parallel disarmament. They assert that they have no alliance with Germany, though their mutual troubles have been settled for the next ten years, and that the alliance with France still holds good.

FROM Tokyo there came a statement indicating that Japan would give at least moral support to the European powers that are seeking agreements to counteract Hitler's move for the re-armament of Germany. It was given out by Eiji Amau, the frequently quoted spokesman for the foreign office. He said Japan will hold aloof from the European crisis and that there would be no far eastern Locarno pact, but that "we cannot think of any alliance with Germany." Tokyo, asserted Amau, is ready to discuss with Russia some degree of demilitarization of the eastern frontiers.

Eiji Amau

FOREIGN nations that discriminate against American imports have been warned by President Roosevelt that they must discontinue that practice under penalty of economic reprisals by the United States. In a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau the President outlined his foreign trade policy and disclosed the fact that the administration is considering denouncing existing trade pacts with Germany, Italy, Portugal and Denmark because of discrimination. He proclaimed the new Belgian-American reciprocal trade agreement, and also decreed that, pending the conclusion of negotiations for new pacts now in progress, the reduced duties and other concessions granted Belgium will be extended to Canada, Spain, The Netherlands, Switzerland and Lichtenstein for six months.

DEBATE on the Copeland-Tugwell food, drug, cosmetic and advertising bill was lively in the senate, and the opposition was led by a Democrat, Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, who urged the retention of the present food and drug law with such amendments as changed conditions require.

"I understand the Department of Agriculture was created to foster agriculture and not to govern advertising," Senator Bailey said. "It is inconceivable to me that it should take charge of medicine, cosmetics, and advertising. There might be an argument that the department has made such great triumphs in agriculture that it is seeking new worlds to conquer. But I believe that if some one should make that boast, I should agree that it had exceeded Samson in the slaughter of pigs, but had fallen far short of doing as good work in the matter of cotton as has the boll weevil."

STANLEY REED, the new solicitor general, obtained from the Supreme court permission to dismiss the government's appeal in the Belcher lumber code case. Therefore there probably will be no decision as to the constitutionality of the national industrial recovery act by the chief tribunal before congress takes action on the bill to extend the recovery law.

WHEN the Illinois legislature, at the behest of Governor Horner and the federal administration, passed a state recovery act the New Dealers hailed this as an example that all states should follow. Now County Judge Homer W. Hall at Bloomington has held that the act is unconstitutional. He also declared the national automobile code inoperative as applied to Illinois.

Under the state recovery act, the judge remarked, an unlawful delegation of the authority of the state legislature has brought about a situation whereby violations of the state act can be prosecuted by the state only through the sanction and by the authority of the federal director of codes.

THROUGH the efforts of Donald Richberg, chairman of the NIRB, an agreement was reached by the bituminous coal operators and the United Mine Workers, whereby the prevailing coal code is extended to June 16 and a threatened strike of about half a million miners averted. The present wages and hours of work are continued. President Lewis of the miners insisted the union had not yielded to the operators; but the fact remained that if it had not consented to the agreement Mr. Richberg could and would have extended the code by executive order.

SCORES of agents of the Department of Justice's division of investigation were carrying on a concentrated search for three men now listed as the worst "public enemies" at large, according to Chief J. Edgar Hoover. The three are: Alvin Karpis, twenty-five, a leader in the notorious Barker-Karpis kidnap and bank robbery gang; Raymond Hamilton, twenty-two, killer who broke jail while awaiting execution, and Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., twenty-eight, kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, wealthy young society matron of Louisville, Ky.

ONE of America's leading sculptors, Augustus Lukeman, died in New York at the age of sixty-four years. After Borglum was ousted by the Confederate memorial committee in 1925, Lukeman took over the work of carving the huge memorial on the face of Stone mountain in Georgia, completing it in 1928. He was chief of sculptors at the World's fair in Chicago.

OBEYING alleged directions from the yacht on which President Roosevelt was fishing in Florida waters, the majority in the house refused to accept the restrictions injected in the work relief bill and sent it back to conference to have these removed.

The restrictions objectionable to the administration were those requiring senate confirmation of administrative officers of the program and that in loans and grants to states at least one-third of the money should be expended for direct labor. The latter requirement, according to Secretary Ickes and others, would result in the exclusion of rural electrification, slum clearance and similar projects.

Defending the move to send the bill back to conference, Buchanan of Georgia said: "The President is assuming responsibility. All we ask is to give him a bill that he can work on in shifting from dole to employment."

In replying to Buchanan, Representative Robert Bacon (Rep., N. Y.) contended that the labor provision was needed in order to "kick out pet local projects" and afford as much direct relief of unemployment as possible.

"Congress has reached a pretty low ebb," declared Minority Leader Bertrand Snell (Rep., N. Y.), "when it can't even pass on a conference report without receiving orders from the Chief Executive."

FOR the second time the United States Supreme court reversed the convictions and death sentences of two of the Scottsboro negroes who were accused of assault on two white girls. The court held that since negroes in Alabama are not permitted to serve on juries, they are denied "equal protection of the laws" in violation of the Fourteenth amendment. It declared the state court erred in not quashing the indictments.

This was a big victory for the colored race, but in another decision by the Supreme court the negroes were the losers. The tribunal ruled that the Democratic party in Texas is a voluntary association, not subject to control by the state legislature, and as such may exclude colored persons from voting in its primaries.

DIRECT negotiations with Italy over the border dispute were broken off by the Ethiopian government, which sent a new note to the League of Nations. Special measures were taken to protect foreigners in Addis Ababa. The Italian government did not take this rupture seriously, still hoping a peaceful arrangement might be reached without the intervention of the league.

NINETEEN cardinals met with Pope Pius in a secret consistory, and to them he delivered an emphatic denunciation of war, which, he said, "would be so enormous a crime, so foolish a manifestation of fury, we believe it absolutely impossible." If, however, there is someone who wishes to commit "this nefarious crime," then, the holy father said, he could do nothing else than pray to God to "destroy those people who desire war."

The consistory approved the canonization of Blessed Thomas More, King Henry VIII's chancellor, and Bishop John Fisher of England, who lost their heads for opposing Henry's marriage to Anne Boleyn.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—During the next few months President Roosevelt will seem to be moving a little toward the right, on every issue of any consequence except the public utilities. Actually there will be very little change, but the appearance will seem very important, and there will be loud cries from the radicals.

In fact, the left fringe of the brain trust is already disturbed. So much so that it is feeding out propaganda intended to have a direct effect on Roosevelt personally. It is certainly not intended for anyone else, for the last thing these particular radicals want to do is to hurt him. The trouble with them is that they have not analyzed the higher politics of the situation. They are worried about an eddy instead of the main course of the river. And their conversation is so free, at all times, that even if the President was concerned about their attitude he would not dare tell them. For in that case they would not be able to rest until they had told their favorite column conductors, just to show they were still in the "inner circle" and knew what was going on.

The present situation starts, not with the President, but inside the Republican camp. Yes—strange as it may seem—there is still such a thing. The Republicans, not all of them but some of their strategists, are simply delighted with the Huey Long-Father Coughlin situation. What they want more than anything else in the world is to see a third party—a very radical third party—with a Presidential ticket in the field next year.

Their theory is, of course, that this radical party will garner a few electoral votes—Wisconsin, the Dakotas, possibly Montana, and maybe Washington and Nebraska; that it will poll a very large vote in some of the big eastern states such as Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois—enough votes in this last group to make sure that the Republican candidate would walk off with the electoral votes. They are not worrying about Connecticut—which stood by Hoover, although the majority was very small, nor Rhode Island, which has suffered so in its textile industry that Republicans feel it is "in the bag."

See California Safe

Nor are they worried about California, whose big electoral vote is now so essential. The Golden Gate state's rejection of Upton Sinclair, and its outraged protests about the reciprocal trade treaties, makes them sure of it.

Altogether, they think, their only problem is to get the right candidate and the right platform!

Of course, in the Roosevelt view, that is just where they fall down hard. Who, Roosevelt's friends inquire, cynically, would the candidate be? And what could the platform say?

But it has never been part of any Roosevelt strategy to underrate an opponent, nor to leave any stone unturned just because it did not seem necessary to move it. As witness the efforts in last fall's election.

So Roosevelt is maneuvering into his favorite middle ground position, between the Tories and the radicals. And to make this more secure, he is going to seem a little conservative for a while. He confidently expects to scare the Republicans to death by this course, for the natural reaction will be just what they have been planning, with one important exception.

Roosevelt plans to have the radicals grow in strength, while he grows in strength with voters who are normally Republican! But who are frightened at the radical menace.

Meanwhile the radical fringe of his own supporters, trying to figure his course out, have come to the conclusion that the trouble is that Louis McHenry Howe has been sick. So they say M. H. McIntyre, the secretary who makes all the President's appointments, will not let anyone except conservatives see him!

"Scotch" Tied Up

Millions of gallons of fine—and perhaps not so good—Scotch whisky, are lying in government warehouses, under the eagle eye of Uncle Sam's customs officers, and with little apparent prospect of being marketed through ordinary channels.

This stock offers a fine chance for bargains, if one could only appraise the quality of the liquor in some fashion. But how to do it? How to tell what is really good liquor, so to speak, and what would have no appeal whatever?

For the trouble is that this whisky is what the trade calls "unknown brands." It is perhaps the best argument in favor of heavy advertising for brands and labels that has ever been presented. For, while this whisky is lying unsolicited and unwanted in the warehouses, running up storage charges and threatening to add freight shipment charges home, the regular brands are moving about as expected.

Normally, such a stock of any commodity hanging over the market, would play hob with everybody in that particular trade. But the owners of this whisky cannot dump it on the market at whatever the market price happens to be, for there is no market price for an unknown brand.

The man who drinks Scotch whisky normally prefers a certain brand. He may like half a dozen brands. But when he is buying whisky he buys what he thinks is one of his favorites. He is not interested in some brand that he never heard of before, except at a great sacrifice in the price. And with an import duty of $5 a gallon, plus an excise duty of $2 a gallon, plus stamp and other taxes, it is not possible to offer these unknown brands at what looks like a real bargain. The tax collectors are not offering to share the loss. They insist on their $7 to $9 tax on each gallon regardless of quality or marketability.

Tried for Clean-up

This big undigested stock of Scotch, much of which is in New York, Boston and Baltimore, is the result of two attempts at speculation when the prohibition ban was first lifted. In the first rush, a great many foreigners saw a good chance to make a clean-up. They knew that Americans had been buying—from bootleggers—all possible sorts of liquor with apparently very little concern as to brands or varieties. And at very high prices. So they thought they could buy up a lot of whisky cheap in Scotland, ship it to this country on consignment, and take their profits.

Meanwhile an equal number of speculatively inclined persons in this country, who had never been in the liquor distributing business and knew little, if anything, about its ramifications, took out importers' permits, and applied for large quotas. Then they proceeded to buy large quantities of liquor, sometimes in bottles and sometimes having it bottled. All went nicely until the liquor arrived in the ports of entry.

Then came the problem of selling it. And there were no offers. The drinkers, who, during prohibition, had taken anything that was wet, inside a good-looking package, were imbued with the idea that they wanted particular brands. The ordinary liquor trade knew how to handle the well-advertised brands, and had no idea of tying up a lot of money in brands that might not move, and at any rate would have to be pushed. The real murder, of course, lies in the fact that so large a percentage of the total cost of a bottle of imported whisky is tax, and therefore not susceptible of being shaved. A severe cut on the part of the price exclusive of tax would not appear to the customer such a big reduction! It would not deter him from taking his favorite brand.

Unpleasant Surprises

President Roosevelt has had a number of unpleasant surprises in his attempt to swat the utilities—particularly on the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill.

It is no secret that one of the surprises has made one of the bill's "authors"—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana—just a little sorry that he sponsored it. Then the local yelps! For instance, Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power company, who expressed the opinion that the bill would "hurt Georgia more than New York."

Perhaps the Senator Wheeler case is the most interesting of the surprises. As soon as the utility crowd realized what was happening, they got very busy, indeed, in Montana. The situation is something like this: The utility interests, alone, are not very important in numbers or influence in Montana, but they are allied with, if not controlled by, the same interests that control Anaconda copper.

Now Anaconda is very influential, indeed, in Montana. In fact, they say that Anaconda generally gets precisely what it wants, even on election day. And it so happens that, as these gentlemen want not only that their utility interests should do well, but their copper interests also, they have seen to it that their utility interests buy all their copper for wires, etc., from Montana copper mines.

Now it happens further that the ramifications of the holding company interests involved stretch to many far distant states. So that on the whole it is a very beneficial thing—to the Montana copper miners—that this holding company situation is as it is.

If the proposed legislation should break up the holding companies, and all the operating companies should be independent, presumably, it has been carefully pointed out to mine workers of Senator Wheeler's state that the operating companies not in Montana would buy their copper in the cheapest market. It is also pointed out with much force that the cheapest copper to be obtained, despite the tariff, is not Montana mined metal, but imported, whether from Africa or Chile.

Brings Many Protests

All of which has brought a remarkable deluge of protests against the holding company bill from Montana, the copper miners joining the shareholders and bondholders. Montana is not a large state in population, though the third largest in the union in area, but enough people became excited about the situation to run an average of about 500 letters of protest a day to the senior Montana senator's office. And not enough letters of approval to be worth considering!

Massachusetts roughly has about seven times as many people as Montana. Presumably it would have an even larger proportionate number of heavy holders of investment securities. But even the Bay state has been giving its senators only a small number in excess of those poured in on the Montana senators.

The number being received by Senator Marcus A. Coolidge of Massachusetts has been running about 600 a day. Whereupon the senator announced that he was for strict regulation, but against the death sentence!

Copyright.—WNU Service.

BLOW TO COUNTERFEITERS

To make paper currency still more difficult to counterfeit, the dollar bills now being turned out by the United States treasury show their denomination in 27 different places on each one. Never before has Uncle Sam's dollar bill been so hard to duplicate.

FERRY'S PUREBRED VEGETABLE SEEDS

LIKE must produce LIKE

THE first step in raising prize-winning stock is the careful selection of parents . . . sires and dams whose characteristics have been determined through many generations of perfect sires and dams. The same law applies in the vegetable kingdom. The Ferry's Purebred Vegetable Seeds you buy this year are the children of generations of perfect plants. They will grow true to firmly established characteristics of size, color, tenderness and flavor.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD STORE SELLS THEM IN FRESH DATED PACKETS FOR ONLY 5c

Hollywood "Breaks"

"So you got a break in Hollywood?"

"Yes, in every promise."—Pearson's Weekly.

Quick, Safe Relief For Eyes Irritated By Exposure To Sun, Wind and Dust — MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Aluminum Plentiful

The most abundant metallic element in the earth's crust is aluminum.

Relieves Sluggish Feeling

Night or day, when you first begin to feel sluggish and need something to straighten out your bowels (to relieve constipation)—take a dose of reliable Thedford's Black-Draught.

"We take Black-Draught for biliousness, constipation and any bad feeling that comes from these conditions," writes Mrs. Luvena Owens, of Springer, Okla. "Black-Draught cleans the system and makes me feel much better after taking it."

Freshen up by taking this purely vegetable laxative, if you have a tendency to constipation or sluggishness.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

NEED BUILDING-UP?

Mrs. T. E. Adams of 1205 No. Franklin St., Plant City, Fla., said: "I was in such a weakened state of health I could scarcely stand on my feet. I suffered from loss of appetite, and I was as miserable as could be—did not feel like lifting my hand to do anything. But Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery soon had me feeling fine—my appetite returned. I gained in weight and strength and was able to attend to my household duties without feeling all worn-out." All druggists.

BOILS Cuts Burns and Bites

CARBOIL eases throbbing pain; allays inflammation; reduces swelling; lessens tension; quickly heals. Relieve these painful, unsightly conditions with powerfully medicated CARBOIL. Results guaranteed. At your druggist, or write Spurlock-Neal Co., Nashville, Tenn.

WNU—8 15—35

FEEL TIRED, ACHY—"ALL WORN OUT?"

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

IS a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous—all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

Golden Dawn

By Peter B. Kyne

Copyright by Bell Syndicate WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that her real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, asleep. Then she disappears, and McNamara learns that she is living in Paris. He also discovers he is in love with Lanny. Stephen warns Penelope by cable to leave Paris, as her whereabouts are known.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

—22—

"Make up your mind now that you will never mention those two names again as long as you live. You promise?"

"Yes, Doctor."

"Now, what is the name of the girl whose photograph you showed me?"

A curious slight spasm of distaste flashed across Flynn's face. He shuddered. "I don't know," he replied.

"What is the name of the girl who escaped from San Quentin?"

"I don't know."

Stephen struck Flynn a smart slap on the top of the head. "Wake up," he commanded.

Flynn came awake instantly and looked extremely foolish. "Well, you didn't stand the test," Stephen assured him. "You were falling asleep, so I awakened you."

"Am I pretty bad, Doc?"

"You're this bad, that if you do not take treatment you will be in a bad way. I'll give you a prescription. Come and see me again."

"Thank you, Doc. You're mighty kind. Good Lord, Doc, am I going crazy? I don't remember why I called on you."

"You asked me to identify this passport photograph," and Stephen held out the little photo to Flynn, who thrust it away.

"That's bad luck, Doc. Never mind. It's a matter of no importance."

He picked up his hat, bade Stephen good night and left.

CHAPTER X

When the cablegram sent to Penelope Gatlin had been delivered for at least three days Dan McNamara telephoned Lanny to ask if the girl had answered. Upon being told she had not, he was so cast down that Lanny felt sorry for him. So, like all women who feel sorry for a man, she decided to feed him, and invited him for dinner that night. She said Stephen would be there.

"That's no inducement," McNamara rumbled, "but I'll come anyhow. Thanks."

McNamara's thoughts kept shuttling back to Penelope Gatlin all that busy day. Finally he telephoned Flynn to report to him.

"How about that Merton case I sent up to the chief of detectives recently?" he asked, when Flynn appeared. (McNamara hadn't sent the case up at all, but he knew Flynn did not know this.)

"Oh, yes," said Flynn, "I did some work on that but didn't get anywhere. I called on the Merton woman and tried to get her to identify the girl's photograph, but she wouldn't or couldn't."

"Did you get a line on the girl?"

"Sure. Traced her to an address in Paris."

"Under what name is she registered with the Paris police?"

"Chief, I can't just recall it."

"It was Penelope Gatlin, wasn't it?"

Flynn flinched a little. "I don't know."

"You're as bad as Mrs. Merton. What's the matter with you?"

"I don't know, Chief. I think we might as well drop the case."

"Very well, then, forget it, Pat. I was mildly curious, that's all." He dismissed Flynn. "By Jupiter, that fellow's getting too deep for me!" he soliloquized. And he telephoned the captain of detectives. "What about that case of the lost Merton heiress?" he demanded.

"We've dropped it on Flynn's advice." McNamara grunted and hung up.

Lanny, wearing a kitchen apron, ceased cooking dinner long enough to let him in that night. Stephen had not yet arrived, so McNamara went out into the kitchen with Lanny, while he related the news regarding the common nuisance.

Lanny gazed upon him very benignly. "You're a good man, Dan McNamara. How come you've never married?"

"If I had, my mother would have lived with us," he declared. "How come you've never been married?"

Lanny sighed. "Nobody ever asked me."

McNamara sighed gustily. "My poor mother's very old and in bad health," he said.

"A man like you should have sons—fine, big, strapping, manly sons."

"How old are you, Lanny?"

"Forty-two."

"I'm forty-six myself." He sighed again. "You're a fine woman, Lanny—devil a finer. We might manage it."

"Manage what?"

"To put up with mother for the little time she has to live. God bless her."

"I never could stand a left-handed proposal, Dan." Lanny shook her head and gazed at him solemnly.

"Then here's my right hand on it, Lanny," and he laid his great right paw in hers. "If it's sons you'd have, you old darlin', 'tis little time we have to waste."

A faint flush came to Lanny's slightly faded cheeks. "What would Stevie do?"

"It's been my observation, Lanny, that a woman without something to occupy her mind is in a poor way. You could continue to look after the doctor's office."

"You've a good theory, Dan, but it lacks one ingredient."

"Name the lack and I'll get it."

"You're not in love with me."

"The h—l I'm not! You're like all the women—forever putting dogs in windows. I'm not used to passing words lightly on such a subject. Give me a yes or no answer."

"You great, lovable idiot!" Lanny yelled. Advancing swiftly upon the chief, she kissed his pompadour. "I'll risk your mother, Dan," she said softly. "All my life I've been looking for a man with a heart in his chest—and the day you first came into the office, with your big, swaggering way and your blarney and your air of owning the world, I—I wondered if you were married. I'm no longer young, Dan. I have peculiar ways and I'm bossy, too—"

McNamara drew her face down and kissed it. "What a blessing I'm used to that, Lanny, and have learned to be kind to the aged. Here, quit pulling my hair, woman."

The door bell began ringing.

"What's wrong with you, Lanny?" Stephen demanded when Lanny admitted him. "I rang half a dozen times."

"Do you good to wait once in a while," she snapped back at him.

"Mac," he declared, "you have a proprietary air about you."

"And well I may," McNamara replied pertly. "I've just popped the question to Lanny and we've agreed to jump over the broomstick together."

"I've been expecting this, Dan. She hasn't been worth a canceled postage stamp to me since she met you."

"But I'm not going to leave you, Stevie darling. Oh, I couldn't leave my boy!"

Stephen held out his arms and Lanny ran into them. And then Stephen warned Dan that if he wasn't good to Lanny he would hypnotize him, as he had hypnotized P. Flynn, and sell him the idea he was a pet poodle, so Lanny could kick him around at will.

"You what?" McNamara yelled. "You put the comether on Flynn?"

"Certainly." And Stephen told him the story.

"Three hundred years ago, in Salem, Massachusetts," said Dan McNamara, "you would have been burned for a witch."

The door bell rang insistently. "Now, who can that be?" Lanny exploded.

Dan rolled out of the kitchen and down the hall. Then Stephen and Lanny heard the door slammed violently; there was a scuffle, and something crashed to the floor.

He came into the kitchen a moment later, leading by her handcuffed wrist none other than Penelope Gatlin. "She wouldn't kiss me first," he announced, "so I put the cuffs on her—the little vixen."

"Oh, Lanny, you darling! And Stevie, you sweetheart!" Penelope cried, and extended her manacled arms. Lanny dodged in under them and folded the girl to her heart. "You next, Stevie," Penelope ordered, and obediently Stephen lowered his head and the looped arms came around his neck and drew his face down. "And now, Dan," the girl cooed, and turned her face upward.

McNamara laughingly uncuffed her. "Why didn't you cable us?" Stephen demanded, a trifle severely.

"I adore surprises, that's why."

"Why did you come back?" McNamara demanded.

"The proper place to hide oneself is in the spot one is supposed to have fled from. Lanny, don't let them stand around staring at me and asking me questions," moaned Penelope. "I'm hungry and so tired. Can I have my same little bed tonight?"

"You can have anything and everything you want, my dear."

"I want Stephen," came the answer, faintly tired, and the girl went to him and leaned her sleek black head against his breast. "I've missed you so, Stephen."

Stephen held her close with his left arm, and his right hand came up and cautiously fingered her poor nose. "God's on our side, Lanny," he told his nurse. "Tomorrow I want you to arrange for a room in St. Dunstan's hospital. We'll get Boyd to operate."

"Please, Stephen, do I have to go away any more?" asked Nance.

"No, not any more, my dear."

"And you'll fix my nose? I wanted to have it done in Paris, but when you sent me that cablegram I couldn't, of course. Can I have just the nose I want, Stephen?"

"Yes, little wanderer. And when that's done you shall have the kind of home you want. You've been lost in the woods, poor babe, but I'll lead you out into the loveliest sunshiny meadow imaginable."

McNamara had, throughout this scene, felt a lump in his throat. He glanced at Lanny and saw the tears of sympathy in her brave, kindly eyes, so to avert a scene he growled huskily: "When do we eat?"

* * * * * * *

For the first time since Penelope Gatlin, alias Nance Belden, had come under his notice, Stephen Burt had a reasonable opportunity to examine the girl, when, following dinner at Lanny's house, Penelope, Lanny, Dan McNamara and Stephen retired to the drawing room. Despite the strain of her record-breaking journey from Europe, Penelope was not so tired that she wished to retire early. She joined in the general conversation, and Stephen noticed that she seemed inclined to be argumentative, but her arguments indicated no cogent thought; frequently she employed the patois of the underworld; her language was racy and idiomatic. He noticed that her laugh was sudden, loud—the laugh of a vulgarian. She was nervous; her hands twined and intertwined continuously, she moved about the room a great deal, and finally came to rest on Stephen's knees. She looked into his eyes searchingly for a long time and then said accusingly:

"You don't care for me."

"Why do you think that, Penelope?"

"Because nobody could love a girl with a nose like mine."

"Did you bring back the sketches that Parisian artist made of you?"

She bounced off his lap and hurried upstairs, to return presently with a portfolio filled with sketches. There was one crayon drawing of her as she was. A half dozen additional sketches were copies of the first, with the exception of the nose. The artist had fitted into her features a nose of his own design, and viewed in profile some of his creations lent to the girl's face an aspect of singular beauty and sweetness.

"I like this one best," Stephen decided. "The patrician nose does you justice. Going to come over tomorrow and give you the most searching physical examination you've ever had," he decided. He drew her over to him and kissed her on the cheek, paternally. "You're a nice, sweet, lovable girl, Penelope," he assured her as if she were a little girl, "and the shape of your nose isn't taken into consideration by the sort of people whose love and approval you desire. And you can get along very well without the love and approval of any other sort. Dan and Lanny and I all love you and we want you to love us. We're your only real friends and you wouldn't do anything to hurt us, would you?"

"I'd rather die, Stephen."

"Fine. You're tired now, so suppose you run upstairs to bed, and tomorrow, when you wake up, you'll be refreshed and happy and we'll be able to discuss the making over of this poor nose. Kiss us all good night."

Lanny Sighed. "Nobody Ever Asked Me."

Penelope dutifully obeyed, and as she was starting up the stairs Stephen said: "And don't forget to say your prayers."

She grimaced disdainfully. "You must think I'm a nut—saying my prayers. I've been prayed to death."

"By whom?"

"I don't know, but by somebody. It makes me ill."

"That was the subconscious revulsion to her adopted mother coming out," Stephen told McNamara. "Mrs. Merton has a strong religious mania. That girl's a mighty healthy specimen," he continued. "I noticed, when I was dressing the wound in her shoulder, that her skin is soft and silky, not rough and dry, as in the case of psychopathic personalities. Everything about her seems to indicate sound ancestry, and I'm more than ever convinced that her mental disturbance is not organic. However, that's a lead we can run down after we've fixed her nose."

TO BE CONTINUED.

Normal Teeth Have Color

Normal teeth have color and the shades vary according to the individual.

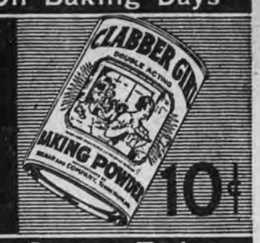
Erroneous Belief That Bees Know Their Owners

"Bees never come to know their owner," says James I. Hambleton, agriculturist in the bureau of entomology, dispelling the belief that beekeepers do not get stung, because their bees know them. "Every person who works with bees will be stung occasionaly. The layman who is stung most often is probably nervous and afraid of bees. Apiarists are well aware that their bees never get to know them. One who understands bees can work as safely in another apiary as in his own."

Bee specialists also point out that the worker bees, which do the stinging, do so only in defense of their hive, and even then only a few assume the responsibility of guards, leaving the others free to go about their work. If all bees rushed at once to the defense of the hive, and were successful in stinging their victim, there would be no workers left, because in stinging, a bee not only loses its sting but also loses its life. Away from the hive, bees are intent upon their work and can scarcely be induced to sting, unless they are caught and crushed.—Boston Transcript.

To keep clean and healthy take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate liver, bowels and stomach.—Adv.

A Short While



Greatest of all bores is naughtiness—after a while.—Exchange.

ANTELOPE SANCTUARY

Since the enclosure of 40 square miles of Petrified Forest national monument to exclude cattle, antelope have begun to return to this area, reports a bulletin from the Department of the Interior. Now these animals are finding sanctuary in a region where they have ranged from time immemorial.

Never Fails On Baking Days

CLABBER GIRL BAKING POWDER

Buy A Can From Your Grocer Today

How Does He Keep His Car So Beautiful!

That's just exactly what your friends are bound to say when you Simoniz your car. The finish will sparkle like new again, and it will stay that way. So always insist on Simoniz and Simoniz Kleener for your car.

MOTORISTS WISE SIMONIZ

DIZZY DEAN warms up

Boys! Girls!... Get Valuable Prizes Free!

Dizzy Dean Winners Membership Pin. Solid bronze, with red enameled lettering. Free for 1 Grape-Nuts package top. Mention Prize No. 301 in ordering.

Dizzy Dean Good-Luck Piece. Just like Dizzy carries—with his good-luck emblem and motto on reverse side. Free for 1 Grape-Nuts package-top. Mention Prize No. 303 in ordering.

Join Dizzy Dean Winners—carry Dizzy's Lucky Piece

Send the top from one full-size Grape-Nuts package, with name and address, to Grape-Nuts, Battle Creek, Mich., for membership pin and copy of club manual—"Win with Dizzy Dean," containing list of swell free prizes. (Offer expires December 31, 1935.)

And for more energy, start eating Grape-Nuts. It has a winning flavor all its own. Economical, too, for two tablespoons, with milk or cream, provide more varied nourishment than many a hearty meal. A product of General Foods.

The Shelby County Democrat

Published every Thursday at Columbiana, Alabama. Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office in Columbiana, Alabama, under Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

FRANK HEAD ..... Editor and Publisher
MILDRED WHITE WALLACE ..... Associate Editor

An Upheaval In Our Jury System

Governor Graves has done only what a conscientious executive sworn to uphold the law could do in the face of a very vexing situation—he has ordered the county jury commissions in the 67 counties to empty their boxes and revise their lists so as to include qualified negroes on the jury panels. The Governor says that it does not matter how distasteful to him the action may be, he has no other course open to him. He further emphasizes that the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court which is based on the Federal Constitution, need not be circumvented by subterfuge or indirection; that it must be complied with in good faith.

All of the legislative devices to "beat" the decision which is the Supreme law of the land, is thus frowned out of consideration. The old axiom says "you cannot do by indirection what you cannot do directly." Another appeal of the Scottsboro cases to the high court at Washington will bring another reversal as certainly as the night follows the day, unless the law is complied with bodly and in good faith.—The Selma Times-Journal.

FRED STOVER DRUGS AND SEED CO.

In Bessemer at 301 North 19th Street.

This modern concern is headquarters for prescription work, drugs, chemicals, toilet and rubber goods and very many specialities.

The cigar and candy departments are very popular.

During the time they have been in business this well known drug store has built up a reputation for being among the reliable business houses of the country. When one visits a drug store he likes to know that he will find a pharmacist in charge who is both efficient and conscientious. At this fine place the people have long since learned they will find one of the most efficient pharmacist.

In the proprietary line they carry all of the leading and well known brands and enjoy a large patronage in this department. In keeping with their progressive, yet reliable policy they carry a complete line of everything one would expect to find in an up-to-late drug store.

HOTEL GARY

At 1828 2nd Avenue North in Bessemer.

A modern hotel of today is becoming more and more a greater necessity in the realms of commercial activity. Men and women in ever increasing numbers are forced because of their business to make the hotel their home away from home. Also people coming from nearby towns and farms find it more convenient to stay over night at this modern hotel, that maintans reasonable rates than to make the trip home and back again to complete their business.

Every community that can boast of such a hotel is sure of much recognition over the surrounding country. The proprietor has realized that to maintain a modern service and receive patrons from every walk of life he must have the prices within the reach of all. To prove that he has attained his object, let us say that whenever a local hotel is mentioned, it is the Gary. This hotel has a modern dining room for the convenience of the guests.

MARY'S BEAUTY SHOPPE

In Bessemer at 1821 3rd Avenue North—formerly the Realty Beauty Shoppe and also the Bessemer Beauty Shoppe. They have now consolidated to make a larger shop for the convenience of their patrons.

They have fitted the shop according to late and modern ideas of science and thus offer the public the best of service. Every electrical device and article of equipment that has been approved by the trade is here installed for the convenience of the public. Here are employed operators who are thoroughly competent. Massage and manicure treatment is featured which gives the customers a full and complete service.

It has many booths and features a comprehensive service in modern, scientific beauty culture. They are all cosmeticians of the most advanced ideas. The styles of the day are understood and no matter whether you desire the coiffure, manicure, massage, marcel, water wave, scalp treatment or permanent waving, they are able to assist you so that all beauty service will conform to your individuality and add to your beauty and charm. All work is performed according to the latest scientific discoveries and the prevailing styles of the day.

When In Montevallo, Visit

Wilson Drug Company

The Rexall Store.

We Carry A Complete Line Of——
TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, CANDY, CIGARS AND CIGARETTES.

Prescriptions promptly and carefully filled.

FERTILIZER FOR SALE!

When you eat, you want the best.
You should be that way about your FERTILIZER.
Let us tell you about
INTERNATIONAL FERTILIZER.
We guarantee satisfaction at harvest time.
By the sack or by the car.
We deliver right to your barn.
"Come up to see us sometime"

GORMAN BROS.

"Tumpy" and "Jimmy"
VINCENT, ALABAMA

Dr. Denny

The discussion throughout Alabama of reports that Dr. George H. Denny, University of Alabama president, soon would retire and of his own statements in connection with them, are reminiscent of the variety of interpretations placed on the celebrated statement of the late Calvin Coolidge that he "did not choose to run."

The present talk, however, is only suggestive of the former, for several important things have been made much clearer than for a time was the intention of the former president of the United States.

For one, it is quite certain that Dr. Denny will not retire precipitately or until his successor has actually been installed. He himself is authority for that assurance.

For another, he will, in any event, continue his intimate association with the university, Tuscaloosa and the state.

And it also begins to appear that however tired, physically and mentally, the popular doctor naturally may be after 30 years of hard work and heavy responsibility at Washington & Lee and the University of Alabama, the alumni and student body of Alabama, the state American Legion and a great host of other admirers and friends are going to make it very difficult for him to lighten his burden, even though he chooses to do so.

It must be a tremendous satisfaction for Dr. Denny to have this impressive evidence of the high esteem in which his labors are so generally held, despite the check it may exercise upon the fulfillment of his wishes.

And it is great reassurance to those who are urging him to continue his active presidency to know that whatever the upshot of the immediate uncertainty, Dr. Denny will always remain bound in spirit and heart to the institution he has served so long and well.—The Birmingham Age-Herald.

HARPERSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wyatt and children, spent Sunday in Sylacauga as the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Heaselett.

Robert Cater visited relatives in Birmingham last week.

Mrs. Snow and little son, of Helena, were the dinner guests, of Mrs. D. G. Kidd, Sunday.

Miss Annie Lee Borum spent Thursday and Friday in Birmingham.

Misses Hazel and Annie Frank Elliott, shopped in Birmingham, Thursday.

Mrs. R. W. Darby and Miss Marjorie Darby shopped in Birmingham, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green, of Oklahoma City, were the guests of Mrs. Annie Baker, Thursday.

Miss Myrtle Baker, of Birmingham, visited her mother, Mrs. Annie Baker, last week.

Mrs. W. H. Smith and Miss Carrie Kimbrough spent Friday in Birmingham.

Mrs. E. M. Kidd had as her guests Thursday, her sisters, Mrs. Luther Rose, of New York, and Mrs. Alice and Lula Robinson, of Birmingham.

Mrs. R. W. Darby, Mrs. R. M. Borum, Mrs. T. J. McCormack and Miss Annie Lee Borum, motored to Birmingham, Sunday, to see Mr. T. E. Darby, who is ill at the Baptist Hospital.

Mr. J. R. Baker came home Monday after a weeks visit with relatives in Anniston.

Mrs. J. R. Baker spent last week in Calera and Columbiana.

KINGDOM NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Perry have gone to Fayette where Mr. Perry has accepted a position.

Mr. Nath Mooney is improving after a critical illness of two weeks.

W. R. Riley, of Scottsboro, spent the week-end here recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Riley.

Leon Perry, of Montevallo, spent the week-end here.

Luther Mooney, of Sylacauga, was here last week to be with his father who was quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Baskin Boaz have announced the birth of a baby daughter.

Mrs. Edwards is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Maud Nolen.

Mrs. E. H. Miles left Tuesday for her home in Columbus, Ga. Mrs. Miles was called there by the illness of her son, Purser, two weeks ago.

VINCENT NEWS

Among those who spent the week-end at home with relatives were: Estelle Phillips of Massey's Business College, James Gorman and Richard Carter of Dadeville, James Sharbutt of Howard College and Annie Bell of Alabama College.

Among those shopping in Birmingham Saturday were: Misses Pauline Gibbons, Alyce Harris, Naomi Baker and Mattie Hunt, Mrs. H. M. Terrell, Mr. R. R. Hunt and P. H. Montgomery.

Miss Fanny May Shoop has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. R. Montgomery, for several days.

Mrs. W. J. Florey is visiting her sister in Longview.

Mrs. O. M. A. Gorman is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Strock, in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Ballenger of Lanett, visited friends here during the week-end.

If You Want The Best And That Is What You Should Have—You Will Find It Here——

DAVIS DRUG CO.

In The Mitchell Building
On The Corner
PHONE 21.
COLUMBIANA, ALA.
Headquarters for ALL School Supplies.

Corn And Hay Supply Short

The 1934 Corn crop in the United States is seriously short, and the domestic Hay crop is also short. No better substitute can be had than Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls. You already know they have no equal as cow feed, but did you know that your mules, both idle and work stock, will thrive on Meal and Hulls?

Auburn recommends them. Write for feeding formula for all purposes. Our Green Tag Meal is the best—Try it and see!

Farmers' Ginners Cotton Oil Co.
Birmingham, Alabama

——Complete——
FUNERAL PROTECTION
——No Age Limit——
BROWN-SERVICE FUNERAL CO., INC.
Homer J. Walton,
Columbiana, Alabama

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT NOTICE

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
SHELBY COUNTY.
PROBATE COURT, APRIL 8, 1935.

This day came Annie L. O'Neal, Executrix of the will of C. L. O'Neal, deceased, the said C. L. O'Neal, having been administrator of the estate of Effie Wagner Bailey, deceased, and files her accounts, vouchers, evidence and statement for final settlement of his said Administration.

It is ordered that the 4th day of May, 1935, be, and the same hereby is appointed as the day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest the said settlement if they think proper.

Witness my hand this 8th day of April, 1935. L. C. WALKER,
4-11-3t. Judge of Probate.

IN MEMORY

In memory of our Mother, Emma Jane Brasher, who died one year ago, March 31, 1934. (Signed)
Evelyn Brasher,
Drucilla Brasher,
James T. Brasher, Jr.,
Charles Harry Brasher,
Siluria, Alabama.

Mack Wyatt, of Clanton, was a visitor in Columbiana Saturday night for the dance.

For That COLD
—use—
COLE'S LAXATIVE QUININE TABLETS
25c the package.
——They Are Good——
COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.
Come To See Us!

"LEND ME YOUR EAR!"

—says Reddy Kilowatt, "and let me tell you some more of the things people are writing my Company about. Here are three letters I've just received, from Mr. P. B. Trent, Jr., of Roanoke; Mrs. Velma Eiland, of Phenix City; and Mr. Douglas C. Harris, of Mobile. Read them!"

Your objective of getting 85 per cent of your customers using more electricity so that everybody can get electricity even cheaper than the astonishingly low rate at which they now buy it marks you as one of the progressive businesses of this State. I have nothing but admiration for any such organization, and you can count on me as a booster for increased use of electricity for cooking, water heating, etc.

Very truly yours,
Roanoke, Ala.

I have just read about the further reduction in your rates. I don't see how you can keep cutting with everything else going up. With electricity as cheap as it is in Alabama, it seems like everybody would use it in abundance.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Velma Eiland
Phenix City, Ala.

It almost seems that every time I pick up a paper, I see where the Alabama Power Company has cut its electric rates again. Surely everybody should be cooking, heating water and refrigerating electrically soon.

Very truly yours,
Douglas C. Harris
Mobile, Ala.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
Electricity Is CHEAP in Alabama!

PERSONAL MENTION

FURTHER EVIDENCES OF SPRINGTIME IN DIXIELAND.

"There's a blackbird whistling on the fence,
And a red throat down the lane,
And a thrasher drowns the fragrant eve,
In a golden throated rain.
And a brown lad halts in the yellow road,
And thrills with the coming Spring,
And catches a bough from an Old Grape Vine
And swings in the "Grape Vine Swing".

There's a skylark climbing the sunbeam drift
To the heart of his leafy thatch,
And a bob white calls to his tardy spouse
From the door of his clover patch.
And the brown lad puckers a thrilling lip,
While gaily he whistles along
And across the cotton fields so white
Comes the plaintive call of an old love song"——

It is Springtime in Dixieland——"

In no part of Alabama is the above sentiment more beautifully portrayed than in the southern part of the state.

Browsing around through Wetumpka and Montgomery recently, and enjoying the panarama of beauty found along the winding roads leading to the Capitol, the above couplet was brought to mind. Never has there been a Spring more beautiful. Dame Nature seems to have invented new shades of vivid green to deck the trees and as far as the eye can see are full blown dogwood trees whose white petals form a striking contrast to the verdant trees that stand such friendly sentinels along the beautiful driveways. Old Man River runs like a silver ribbon thru the heart of one of the towns. Cool, cool river grass clings to the tide, and days seem to drift by on ripples of song. The cotton woods sway in the sunshine, yellow jasmine bends above—and yes, you are right—Old Mammy sits in her cabin door and croons her song of love—in this typically traditional southern town known as WETUMPKA, where for the past week, it has been my happy privilege to visit. Never shall I forget the southern hospitality so graciously extended. The many lovely courtesies so generously shown us—Decidedly the happiest occasion I have known where "business and pleasure" were perfectly combined into one joyous occasion. The memory of our sojourn in this lovely old town will linger, always.

Seeing "yourself as others see you", is an experience not many of you have had the good fortune to enjoy—However, if "others" could only be as charitably inclined to my many "idiosyncracies" as was Sara Nell Carter when she put on an inimitable silhouette of the "Dixie Bluebird"—I should not ever worry about anything. Everyone in town who saw this "Personality Sketch" of "yours truly", presented by Sara Nell Carter at the High School on School Night, tell me my replica was far better than the "original". Sure, this little Miss had the errant "curl on the forehead", the ever present bunch of violets on my coat collar, and the quick, positive pedal extremity way I use in "getting there" in a hurry". All these characteristics of mine were accentuated by this little lady, who did not fail to "take me down". They tell me the Greeks had a name for it—and that Dixie Bluebird Number 2, told 'em what it was in English.

Dashing around in radio circles last week following the ever whimsical muse which invariably leads to Melodyland, I found Bill Young, popular Manager of WBRC whom Shelby County citizens considers their personal friend, on his job behind the mahogony desk attending to about as many different duties as a "centerpied" could well manage—but dispensing all matters with the ease of one long accustomed to Mr. and Mrs. Public and the ever temperamental artists who seek fame and fortune over that silent little dingus known as MIKE. The Dixie Humming Bird, Ila De Marks, who daily hums and plays her way into your homes and hearts was capably directing the programs which you enjoy. She is considered among the best Musical Directors in the South, and Birmingham artists tell me she is the "easiest person known in musical circles to get along with". Thats saying a lot from "one artist to another". Into the attractively arranged studio next sauntered in, my good friend and announcer, "Chuck" Wright, who, along with John Connolly, is largely responsible for WBRC being dubbed the "Choice of Alabama". Two more popular announcers just do not exist. "Chuck" however, is leaving soon to manage a Station all his own in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. His thousands of friends throughout Alabama will happily congratulate him upon his promotion into the "powers that be" who own their own radio stations, but will be genuinely sorry to lose him from Alabama radio circles. His place will be more difficult to fill than any Announcer who has ever left the Magic City for others worlds to conquer.

Have you visited the Columbiana Leader recently? This store has long been the recognized authority for chic and charm for the Ladies, and for the latest modes for the Men and Boys, which reputation Max Lefkovits has held in Shelby County for the past 35 years. A completely remodeled store is now in readiness, and efficient clerks are ready to welcome you into the various departments which are restocked with seasonable merchandise in time for you to join the Easter Parade.

If you are looking for choice cut flowers, we recommend that you take a trip to Nelson Farm and view the riotous colorel tulips now being sold by Noland Barnett. Soon the sweet peas will be available and other seasonable spring and summer flowers. Make your Easter reservations now and "say it with flowers".

Hon. Paul O. Luck was called to Georgia, Saturday, on account of the serious illness of his father.

Judge W. W. Wallace has returned from a two weeks stay in Wetumpka where he has held a term of the Elmore Circuit Court for Judge Arthur Glover, who was disqualified on account of former interests on docketed cases.

C. G. Glass, local Manager of the Yellow Front Store in Columbiana, has added a new department to his complete stock of fresh merchandise, which has long been needed in this community. It is now possible for you to select from a new stock of ready made dresses received each week, a frock for any occasion. These dresses are sent to this popular store every week, and you are allowed inspection. If there is a model you want ordered in your particular size, this accomodating Manager will be glad to get it for you. He has just received a complete assortment of new Easter dresses, and it will pay you to visit the Yellow Front before you join the Easter Parade.

Mrs. "Lou" McGiboney or Mrs. Glass will be delighted to help you in your selection of a modish frock suitable for any occasion.

Dancing to the rhythm of the Rhythm 'Ristocrats, proved a popular diversion on last Saturday night when 30 couples from Columbiana, Montevallo, Clanton and Tallassee were present to enjoy the program arranged by this local orchestra and presented at the airport. Several new instruments have been added to the original collection, and with regular practices scheduled for the coming dances, these boys are really putting over the project of offering to Columbiana and surrounding communities a night of wholesome amusement, and the recreation hall in Columbiana, is serving the purpose for which it was intended. The next dance will be staged Saturday night, April 20th, and sandwiches and cold drinks will be served by the FFA boys of Shelby County High School. As L. B. Riddle, Jr., announced, "We are just a bunch of country boys trying to get along, come out and help us by your presence"——We feel sure this invitation will be heartily accepted by many who are interested in seeing them make good in this program of entertainment they are offering.

Personally speaking, the personnel of this orchestra has youth, pep, personality and an indomitable spirit of stick-to-it tiveness that will not easily be discouraged. We believe they will get whatever they make up their minds to go after—and if we can, in any way, help them to attain it, they have only to call us—We will be there!

There is no gift of thoughtfulness I appreciate more than FLOWERS—especially when they come from friends who have known me long, and are still loyally true and considerate. Right here I want to acknowledge a beautiful collection of TULIPS from the flower garden of Mr. Charles Niven, one of Columbiana's most beloved citizens, and my life long friend. There is another friend in this town who has never missed an opportunity to make my pathway a brighter one. I refer to "Lady" Lightcap. A lovely ebony vase filled with snow white Easter Lillies grace this little desk of mine this morning, and its artistic loveliness is only exceeded by the charming and gracious little lady who gave them to me. I should like to page a regiment of adjectives to tell these two comrades how very deep is my gratitude for this sweet expression from them.

Curlee's Cafe is now serving their Strawberry Custard made famous last summer. Better order that Sunday dinner now—I understand Strawberry Shortcake will be on the menu.

"Mr. and Mrs." is the name—but many friends of both are wondering how the new automobile industry recently opened on Main Street will materialize. Knox E. Wooley, popular Ex-Sheriff, Legionaire, Master Mechanic and what have you, is the newly appointed agent for FORD cars. Just across the street is Claudia Wooley, the "Mrs.", who insists that PLYMOUTH and DODGE cars are the best buy on the market. She can also demonstrate these models in her own charming way. "Knox" advises that you "Watch the Fords Go By". The "Mrs." says, "thats all right—but" the most comfortable way to view them is to RIDE in a PLYMOUTH or a DODGE—So there you are—Take your choice!

Have you seen the new General Motors Electric Refrigerators now on display at Curlee's Cafe? John Curlee has been elected local Manager for T. V. A. products. See him today and allow him to demonstrate these new and modern Frigidaires he has in stock for your inspection.

Miss Annie Lee Borum and Mrs. Dick Darby were visitors to the print shop on Monday. Miss Borum is the capable representative of the Democrat in Harpersville, and will accept your new or renewal subscription to this leading newspaper of Shelby County. See her today!

Dr. H. W. James, of Alabama College, and Coach Hicks, of Montevallo, were extended a cordial welcome to the dance in Columbiana on Saturday night at the airport.

Among the attractive visitors noted dancing to the "rhymic melodies of the 'Ristocrats on Saturday night, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mims Roberts: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt, and Miss Marguerite Melton, all of Tallassee, Alabama. An attractive trio, who will be happily received when they make that promised return visit during the summer.

666 checks COLDS and FEVER first day HEADACHES in 30 minutes

Liquid - Tablets
Salve-Nose Drops

FLOWERS FOR SALE
TULIPS, all colors,
1 dozen, 50c.
Will Soon Have Sweet Peas.
NOLAND BARNETT
Nelson Farm - Columbiana, Ala.

THIS MAY BE Your Car

IF YOU DON'T GET BLOW-OUT PROTECTION

• Maybe you don't think blow-outs are dangerous. You would if you heard what we hear every day—if you heard motorists tell of the blow-outs they've had. They say they're through taking chances. And they're equipping their cars with Goodrich Silvertowns. For Silvertowns are the only tires made with the Life-Saver Golden Ply.

No Extra Cost!

Let us put a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns on your car. You'll have Life-Saver Golden Ply blow-out protection. And you'll be protected from dangerous "tail-spin" skids, too. You'll understand why when you press your hand down on the deep-grooved, extra-thick Safety Silvertown tread—when you feel the grip of the big, husky cleats. And this rugged tread will give you months of extra mileage, too, at no extra cost.

BEAN-BALL PITCHING IS NOTHING COMPARED WITH THE Blow-out I HAD!

Says FRANK FRISCH, MGR. WORLD'S CHAMPION ST. LOUIS CARDS.

Goodrich Safety Silvertowns
WITH LIFE-SAVER GOLDEN PLY

EAST TEXAS SERVICE STATION
GUY ROBERTS, Prop.
CALERA, — — — ALABAMA

—HAVE YOUR—
EYES EXAMINED
Dr. G. E. Brown,
OPTOMETRIST,
will be at the
COLUMBIANA DRUG CO.,
SATURDAY, APRIL 13,
to examine eyes and fit glasses.
—ALL WORK GUARANTEED—

I Can't Sleep

YES -you can

Are you one of these nervous people who lie awake half the night and get up feeling "all in"?

Why don't you do as other light sleepers have been doing for more than two generations—take Dr. Miles Nervine?

One or two pleasant effervescent Nervine Tablets or two or three teaspoonfuls of liquid Nervine will generally assure a night of restful sleep. Perhaps you will have to take Nervine two or three times a day just at first.

Nervous people have been using Dr. Miles Nervine for Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Irritability, Restlessness, Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache, Travel Sickness, for more than fifty years.

Dr. Miles NERVINE
Liquid and Effervescent Tablets

ATTENTION!
IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.
We will exchange Dry Cleaning, Pressing, and Laundry Service for Farm Produce, Syrup, Chickens or Fresh Vegetables. See
J. C. TINNEY
COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA
We deliver promptly————We guarantee satisfaction.

SPECIALS!
From Thursday, April 11th, to Saturday, April 20th, 1935.

Shampoo and Finger Wave	50c
Shampoo and Marcel	75c
Croquignole Wave	$2.50 up
Spiral Wave	$2.50 up

Give your hair an oil shampoo and recondition it for your new spring wave.
Louise's Beauty Shoppe
COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA

NOTICE!
This office will be closed on April 16, 17, and 18, on account of my attending a meeting of the Alabama Dental Association. Kindly make your engagements for dental work accordingly.
DR. E. B. COOPER
Columbiana, Alabama.

FOOD Economy

All over the world thousands of housewives are saving food, time and money with the Superfex Oil Burning Refrigerator. And while they're saving, their meals are better too, with less work and fewer hours in the kitchen. It costs less than $10 a year to achieve these gratifying results, because Superfex derives its power from kerosene, the cheap fuel that is conveniently available everywhere.

Constant food preservation . . . ice cubes when needed . . . the means to make delightful meals from "leftovers" . . . your choice of many delicious frozen desserts, ice cream, cooling drinks . . . all these things are yours with a Superfex.

Superfex is made in five different models. There is one to suit your requirements.

Just call us and we'll arrange a free demonstration.

Home Appliance Co.
MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA
SUPERFEX Oil Burning REFRIGERATOR

FHA LOANS

MAY BE OBTAINED FOR ELECTRIC WATER SYSTEMS IN RURAL HOMES

Robt. Jemison, Jr., F. H. A. State Director, Outlines Method of Securing Money for this Purpose

"Those who live in suburban and rural homes can now enjoy the comforts and conveniences of running water in kitchen, laundry, bath room, barns and outbuildings through loans made under regulations of the Federal Housing Administration," according to Robt. Jemison, Jr., F. H. A. State Director.

By securing such a loan, an Electric Water System may be installed immediately, and paid for over a period of from 1 to 3 years, Mr. Jemison pointed out.

"For many years people living in suburban and rural sections were handicapped by the lack of running water. Obtaining sufficient water for stock, and the ordinary purposes of life, by the old-fashioned well bucket, or by working the handle of a pump was a slow, tedious job. In case of a fire, it was impossible to get enough water by these methods to offer much protection.

"Now—thanks to electricity and loans made under regulations of the Federal Housing Administration — these antiquated ways of obtaining water no longer need be relied upon. F. H. A. loans are making it possible for many thousands of people living in Alabama to install electric pumps, and the necessary plumbing, to give their families every advantage of 'city water.'"

With Alabama's bargain-rate electricity, modern automatic Electric Water Pumps will bring water from any source of supply — lake, stream, spring, cistern, shallow or deep well—and maintain a constant pressure day and night for only a few cents a week.

Wilbur B. Nolen, F. H. A. Associate State Director and Chairman of the Advisory Committee of rural housing program, pointed out that the way to secure an F. H. A. loan is to apply to any bank, banker, building materials or hardware dealer in the city where the person lives who wishes to receive the loan.

Advertisement of the Alabama Power Company

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

By Ted O'Loughlin
© By Western Newspaper Union

Dome Light

THE FEATHERHEADS

By Osborne
© Western Newspaper Union

No Barking Aloud

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

BRISBANE

THIS WEEK

War? Who Knows?
Strange Hanging
How Old Is Graft?
What Are Life and Death?

Lloyd George says there will be no war "this time," but some in Europe do not agree. Mussolini wants France and England to join him in an agreement to suppress any outbreak affecting them.

Arthur Brisbane

France is said to have moved troops for defense to the German frontier, although it is hard to guess what those troops could do. If Germany declared war it would be with planes dropping explosives and poison gas on Paris. No nation at war will sit in trenches for four or five years, now that flying is real.

Britain, going a long way around, wisely, sends a suave statesman, Captain Eden, to Moscow to see Stalin of Russia. The talk, not published, may have been like this:

If England agrees to help you fight Japan, will you help against Germany, in case of need?

A British naval officer cut the throat of a shipmate. In England they hang you for that. When hanging time came, Mrs. Violet Vandereist, prosperous widow, opposed to the death penalty, hired two planes to fly back and forth above the gallows, trailing banners reading, "Stop the death sentence."

While airplanes flew overhead, trucks drove back and forth before the jail, with loud speakers bellowing "Abide With Me."

The man that "killed his comrade sleeping," or however he did it, did not "abide." He went through the trap.

The British believe in discouraging murder, and prompt punishment seems to do it.

Graft and dishonesty are old, as old as human need and cunning. A papyrus written 1,200 years before Christ tells of three men tried for robbing a royal tomb. Egyptian kings were descended from the gods; to rob their tombs was sacrilege, the punishment death.

A dishonest jeweler, putting base metal in a supposedly "pure gold" crown for King Hiero, was exposed by the great Archimedes, who thought out a method in his bath, and started the word "eureka" down through the ages.

Michael Angelo, building St. Peter's at Rome, complained to the pope of the materials furnished by contractors, reminding his holiness that he, Michael Angelo, would make no profit from St. Peter's except "benefit to my soul," and urged the pope to punish the grafters. There is even graft now in this modern, enlightened republic.

What is life? What is death? What are we?

An English gentleman "dies"; doctors pronounce him dead. He returns to life, says he has been in heaven, tells what he saw—a dull account, clothing the same as we wear here. How far, how fast, did his spirit travel while he was "dead"?

What does the soul do while the body is supposedly dead? Does it go away and come back, or just wait around inside the body? What is death? Some say it is only a "belief," and there is no such thing.

In New York's American Museum of Natural History is shown a drawing of the largest land mammal that ever lived, named Baluchiterium. This huge animal, which vanished from earth 25,000,000 years ago, stood 17 feet 9 inches high at the shoulder, was as big as two big elephants, weighed 20,000 pounds or more. It was not as big as a dinosaur, but the dinosaur laid eggs and was no mammal. A food problem might be solved if the "biggest mammal" could be brought back and raised by cattlemen. It ate 500 pounds of food a day; that must be considered. In America it might be necessary to drown the mammal Baluchiterium, with her unborn babies.

Sir John Simon, returning from an unsatisfactory talk with Hitler, reports "certain divergencies" of opinion. That is going pretty far for a British statesman. There is a bigger fly than that in the ointment: Sir John learns from Hitler that Germany "already has a larger air force than that of Great Britain." Britain thought Germany had only half as many planes. A wise statesman gets his fighting airplanes ready before he starts to fight.

In France three persons "sterilized" at their own request by "a mysterious Austrian doctor" because they did not want to have children have been arrested.

France, striving for more population, believes that "sterilization" can be overdone.

The mysterious Austrian performed 15 operations on men and women before disappearing.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc.
WNU Service.

TREMENDOUS TRIFLES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

WILD STEER, ANCIENT CITY

IN 1911, an Irishman named Pat Lynch roped a wild steer in northwestern Colorado. The animal, crazed by the lasso that was tied to the cowboy's saddle horn, dragged horse and rider over the rim of a great chasm. A sturdy pinon tree grew on the edge of the cliff and the rope caught around this long enough for Lynch to throw himself clear. His horse hung on one end of the lasso and the steer on the other. There they swung, like lead toys on a stick. Then, as the rope broke under their combined weights, they plunged into the canon far below.

Lynch, miraculously enough, landed on a narrow ledge. There was no way for him to escape from the smooth walls that rose steep above him, and below was the chasm. There was no room to turn around, but he slowly worked his way along the shelf until at last, dropping a boulder, he realized from the sound that just beneath him there must be another ledge.

Slowly, he slid down and fell into soft sand. All about him were the ruins of ancient cliff houses that no white man had ever seen. The remains of a man-made trail led around a corner of the rock wall and Lynch climbed to safety.

He told his story, but at that time the cattlemen were not interested in the crumbling bits of an ancient civilization. In 1933, however, a small exploring party went into the region to trace the rumors of the years. The government has now reserved this area as the Yampa Canyon national monument and scientists declare that the cliff houses will yield important developments in the history of this continent.

After all, Pat Lynch might have missed his throw, and a slumbering canon might still be waiting for the white men to discover.

• • •

SPEEDOMETER

"STEP on it, boy!" And the needle on the speedometer climbs up—up—up—fifty—sixty—seventy—eighty miles an hour!

It wasn't thus back in 1846 when Brigham Young was leading his Mormon colony across the Great Plains to their "Promised Land" in Utah. Then the wagon trains crawled painfully along and eighty miles was a journey of several days instead of an hour.

Somewhere in Nebraska the Mormon leader pushed on to find the best route, leaving the slower-moving wagons behind to follow along the trail which he would mark out for them. One of these parties was in charge of a young fellow named William Clayton.

A long road and weary road it was for the westward-faring homeseekers. Their goal seemed so far distant and their progress so slow that they probably pestered young William Clayton a great deal with their questions of "How far have we come today? How much farther is it?"

So, being an ingenious young man, he devised a way to answer. He measured a mile on the trail that they traversed one day, then marked a wagon wheel at a certain point on its circumference. Keeping his eye on the marked spoke he counted its revolutions to the mile. Next he devised a ratchet that moved a cogwheel, which in turn moved another cogwheel that registered accurately the distance the caravan traveled daily. And that same principle is used in speedometers today.

• • •

SLOGANS

IF YOU want to be elected President, get a slogan! Make it short. And if you can include in it the lilt of alliteration—fine!

"Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too!" reminded the nation that Gen. William Henry Harrison had won an important Indian battle at the beginning of a war which was none too well-filled with land victories for the American arms. So the Indiana frontiersman went to the White House.

In "Fifty-four Forty or Fight!" was crystallized the dissatisfaction of Americans over a proposed treaty with England, establishing a boundary line in the Oregon country. True, we later compromised on the forty-ninth parallel of latitude, far south of fifty-four forty, but the slogan had already sent James K. Polk to Washington.

Grant's "Let us have peace" has been called "the minimum in expressiveness" but it helped elect him President and during the next eight years that phrase had an ironical sound to the South, suffering under the Reconstruction regime. "He kept us out of war" helped re-elect Woodrow Wilson in 1916 but within one month after he was inaugurated we were in the war.

"The full dinner pail" appealed to enough Americans to make them elect William McKinley. Later they and their sons wanted to "get back to normalcy" with Warren G. Harding and soon thereafter they were willing to "Keep cool with Coolidge."

So . . . "See America First." Find out what phrases will tickle the fancy of its people. Then get a slogan and go to Washington as President!

© Western Newspaper Union.

Smart for School or Work in Office

PATTERN 2085

When a girl leaves the house before nine every morning, whether she's off to school or to work, she needs at least one well-tailored frock in her wardrobe, one that will take her smartly through long busy hours and bring her home at night looking as freshly dressed as when she started. Designed along tailored lines, this frock adds a becoming "little boy" collar to its youthful yoke and tops its smart front bodice pleats with buttoned-down tabs that look for all the world like two perky little pockets. The skirt boasts a panel in front which ends in two inverted pleats, and there is another inverted pleat at the back. The full back gathered to the yoke is the last word in chic.

Pattern 2085 is available only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 takes 2⅞ yards 54 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS 15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

Smiles

HIS VIEW

Blinks—What do you think of this home loan plan?

Jinks—Not needed. Why bother about having a home any more when you can't keep any of the family in it as long as there is gas enough in the tank of the car to get away from it?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Saving Idea

Robert, eight, had prayed long and ardently for a baby sister but without results. One night he added:

"If you have a baby almost finished don't wait to put in the tonsils and adenoids, 'cause they'll cut 'em out anyway."

Explained

"You say you have driven a car ten years and never had any trouble with a back seat driver?"

"That's right. You see I drive a hearse."

It's a Season of Plaids and Checks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

GOES madly on the rage for checks and plaids. Where fashions are at their smartest these animated patternings are flourishing with all their might, both for day and evening wear.

The new plaids and checks are as apt to be "all wool and a yard wide" (more likely fifty-four inches) as they are apt to be of washable synthetics, linens or cottons. In fact among the swankiest weaves going you will find linens done in garish, racy plaids which make up too swagger for words—ever so effective for sports wear.

Then, too, topcoats of gorgeous plaids are going places where they never went before, for women are wearing them during the daytime hours about town and for travel as well as sports. Some have fur collars and some haven't, but they are that good looking with or without you will be envying the fortunates who possess them. The girl seated to the right in the picture is wearing a model which is styled with latest details, such as the handcut fringe of self material which trims the wide scarf ends and the wide turnover collar. The predominating colors in the plaid for this coat are brown and beige with a streak of orange in its makeup. The same plaid is striking in tones of reds or greens.

Her companion is wearing a check suit and if you are wanting to get into something decidedly stylish for spring here's your cue and no mistake about it. This one is black and white but if you happen to be in some other color mood, there is a check to satisfy, such as green with gray, navy with white, brown with tiger yellow. Then, too, there are tweed checks galore out on the field of action. They are smart, to be sure, but we must say there is a regular landslide in the direction of the simple little checks as pictured.

It is ever so good style to wear a tweed wool check skirt with a jacket of plain or the reverse. It is smart, too, to top a plaid or check skirt with a colorful suede jacket.

Plaid taffetas for daytime frocks, either synthetic or pure silk are making a grand success of it this season. A shirtwaist dress of plaid taffeta is in the height of fashion. Likewise a one-piece taffeta frock topped with a redingote of wool in navy or black makes an ideal spring costume.

Myriads of simple little morning and informal afternoon frocks choose plaid for their media. The model on the standing figure plays up bias-to-straight effectively. Novel touches such as buttons in alternate colors and little pockets set in on the bias add zest to this mode.

The other dress is interesting, too, in that it is made of a star print—little stars instead of the dotted theme and you can get this material with white stars on navy or red and other combinations. A deep pointed collar of white pique and large white buttons tune into the scheme of things most cleverly.

©, Western Newspaper Union.

NAVY AND YELLOW

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is good-looking, this girlish frock and hat to match, is it not? It is a film-folk fashion and you know it is smart and advance if it originates in Hollywood, as it has. Ruby Keeler wears it. Attention is especially called to it because of its navy and canary color scheme. Navy for the foundational color with either white, yellow or pink is the talk o' town this season. The smart set are carrying out the idea by wearing accessories made of natural toned chamois skin. The dress pictured is of navy wool with accents of canary colored rough-textured crepe.

Turquoise Preferred

The turquoise has the preference among evening jewels, appearing effectively with white crepes and satins and especially with black velvet. Big turquoise buttons trim a black velvet dress cut away in front to show a fan-pleated underskirt of black tulle.

"SKIMMER" NEWEST WHIM OF HATTERS

The "skimmer" is the newest whim of the hatters, with madness its chief distinguishing charm.

The skimmer is the 1935 version of the pancake sailor which has been with us, off and on, in recent months. Only now it is flatter and crazier and generally more exhilarating than ever.

You clap it on the side of your head at whatever angle best suits your current mood, batten it down with a band around the back or even a hatpin, and then go out and join in a sporting battle with the spring breezes.

There is one redeeming feature about the new skimmers. They have done away with the unsightly elastic bands that decorated last springs's version of this particular style of headgear, and have substituted bands of ribbon or felt or straw to match the hat.

New Silhouette Featured by Alix and Schiaparelli

There is much discussion and some difference of opinion expressed concerning the new draped lines which had their most prominent exponents in Alix and Schiaparelli dresses. These influences, variously related to the Hindu, the Persian and the Ihran, are best known in the sari-draped togas familiar in Near East photographs.

The draping is in a soft, statuesque line, swirled round the body in a continuous movement from ankles to head. Several arrivals consider it a significant new silhouette trend, promising more for later season development. Others are inclined to disregard draping, considering it too extreme.

Spring Accessories Matter of Importance to Fashion

Accessories are going to be matters of prime fashion importance this spring for there are "ginger and snap" in the way they are put together. Here is the way one chic Parisian accents a black and white check suit: Yellow straw hat with black band, yellow blouse and yellow chamois gloves, blue cornflower in the buttonhole, black suede bag and gloves.

Lace With Tweeds

Bows of soft lace are being worn with tweed costumes

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for April 14

CHRIST THE SAVIOUR

LESSON TEXT—John 3:14-17; Romans 5:6-10; Philippians 2:5-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John 3:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Jesus Came.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Saviour.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Be Saved.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Christ Saves Us.

It is not feasible to consider all the texts proposed by the lesson committee, but it is desirable to select the three suggested to be printed and to introduce several others.

I. The Saviour Predicted (Gen. 3:15; Isa. 9:6, 7).

In connection with the fall of man and consequent pronouncement of judgment upon the woman, the man and the serpent, and the announcement of the undying enmity which was to exist between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent, ultimate victory was predicted of the woman's seed. On the cross of Calvary the stroke was made which imposed the death sentence (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14). In due time the unlawful ruler of the world will be displayed by the coming of the king and the establishment of a universal and everlasting kingdom.

II. The Saviour Born (Luke 2:11, 30, 32).

That which had been predicted was historically fulfilled in the birth of Jesus Christ in Bethlehem. When Jesus was brought to the temple as a child the Holy Ghost revealed to Simeon that Jesus was the Messiah.

III. The Saviour Described.

1. A seeker of the lost (Luke 15:3-7). This seeking of the lost is illustrated by the man leaving the ninety and nine sheep and going after the one which was lost, and his rejoicing over his success in finding it. Great, indeed, is the joy in heaven over the salvation of a lost soul.

2. He died for the lost (John 3:14-17). God gave Jesus Christ to die to make an atonement for the sins of the world. As the brazen serpent was lifted up in the wilderness by Moses, so Jesus Christ was lifted up on the cross. As the Israelites only needed to look at the uplifted serpent, so the lost soul needs only to look to the crucified Christ for salvation. All who believe on him as their Saviour receive eternal life and, therefore, escape condemnation.

3. He knows his own (John 10:14). The good Shepherd has a definite knowledge of the lost ones. He therefore seeks them out and gives his life for them.

4. He keeps his own (John 10:27-29). Believers are Christ's sheep, and because they are his sheep, they hear his voice and follow him. He not only knows them personally, but they, in turn, know him. He not only gives unto them eternal life, but holds them in his omnipotent hands.

IV. Some Blessings Received Through the Saviour.

1. Justification (Rom. 5:1-11). The one who receives Jesus Christ is by the living God declared righteous. His guilt is removed and he is given the same standing as Jesus Christ himself. Because of this, the very peace of God settles down upon his soul. He has the assurance of God's love and is able, therefore, to have joy in God himself.

2. Freedom from the power of sin (Rom. 6:1-7). It is not enough to be freed from the guilt of sin, there must be a dynamic which will enable the believer to live a life of victory over sin. Being vitally united to Jesus Christ in the power of his resurrection life, the dynamic is provided which enables the believer to triumph over sin.

3. He is free from the law as a means of sanctification (Rom. 7:1-6). Christ's death nailed the law to the tree. The one who has been vitally united to Jesus Christ by faith died with Christ. The law, therefore, has no more dominion over him.

4. Victory over the flesh through the indwelling Holy Spirit (Rom. 8:2-6). The introduction of the law of the spirit of the life in Christ Jesus enables the believer to free himself from the dominion of the flesh.

5. Christ is the supreme example to the believer (Phil. 2:5-11). Because the Saviour became incorporated with the race through the incarnation he is able to impart life to those with whom he is identified. Furthermore, because he thus imparts life, the believer is able to make the Saviour his grand exemplar.

The World's Three Evils

The three great evils of the world are impurity, inequality, and hopelessness. The world doesn't know the character of God, therefore it is unclean. The world does not know the love of God and therefore men are not brothers. The world does not know the life of God, therefore men despair alike of the present and the future.

Goes Deeper

Religion doth not prescribe nor is satisfied with such courtesy as goes no deeper than words and gestures.

SHOT OF THYROID TO RESTORE PEP OF BUSINESS MAN

Business men are advised to get a dose of "brain oil" when they begin to slow down and lose their grip. They can get it from horses, pigs, lambs or other animals, and it will do just as much good as though it came from their own thyroid gland, Dr. George Crile, head of the famous Cleveland clinic explained.

Doctor Crile, in Kansas City for a regional meeting of the American College of Surgeons, gave the advice at a chamber of commerce luncheon.

The decrease in chemical and physical activity sets in at birth, Doctor Crile explained, and the activity of the brain depends on activity of the thyroid gland.

"When a deficient amount of this glandular product is secreted, and this is common in the second half of a business man's life, his brain begins to slow up and his associates notice a letting down in his work," Doctor Crile said. "He feels drowsy and dull in the afternoon. His business fails to hold its dominance among competitors. The activity of his essential organs is letting down.

"Then the man can take thyroid extract and his brain will be sharpened, just as it formerly was sharpened by his own thyroid hormone. It doesn't matter whose thyroid gland makes the extract given to him; it is exactly the same whether it comes from a pig, a lamb, a sheep, a horse, an ox or another man. Thus the lagging individual can be placed back in the saddle again."

BOYS! GIRLS!

Read the Grape Nuts ad in another column of this paper and learn how to join the Dizzy Dean Winners and win valuable free prizes.—Adv.

His, but How?

Composer—My tunes are the children of my brain.

Pianist—Yes, by adoption.—Pearson's Weekly.

RUSSIAN INEFFICIENCY

The Russian army was so poorly equipped in 1915-16 that unarmed men had to be sent into the trenches to wait until their comrades were killed or wounded and their rifles become available.

Be Done WITH Unsightly Skin

Wonder cream gives complete facial transformation in ten days

Look young again—beautiful! Remove that mask of dull gray cuticle that hides your natural loveliness. Now amazing NADINOLA Cream ends sallowness, freckles, blackheads. Just do this: (1) At bedtime spread a thin film of Nadinola Cream over your face—no massaging, no rubbing. (2) Leave on while you sleep. (3) Watch daily improvement—usually in 5 to 10 days you will see a marvelous transformation. Freckles, blackheads disappear; dull coarsened skin becomes creamy-white, satin-smooth, lovely! Nadinola Cream is a famous beautifier tested and trusted for nearly two generations. Fine results positively guaranteed. All toilet counters, only 50c. Or write NADINOLA, Box 37, Paris, Tenn.

RELIEF FROM PYORRHEA or Money Back!

Save your teeth! If you suffer from Pyorrhea, Trench Mouth, Sore or Bleeding Gums, PYROLAC will bring guaranteed relief. Used and praised by thousands. Write NOW for full free details of this painless, sure remedy.

THE PYROLAC CO.
Main Office
427 Union Bank Bldg., Little Rock, Ark.

Skin Torment

Itching, roughness, cracking, easily relieved and improved with soothing-

Resinol

BRAIDED and HOOKED RUG MATERIAL FREE INSTRUCTIONS FOR MAKING RUGS with every order. NEW WOOLEN MILL CLOTH PIECES. Variety of colors. Average lengths 54 inches; widths, 4 to 10 inches. Send $1.00 for 4 pounds. Write Dept. W. THE M. C. FIELD CO., CHELSEA, MASS.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Agents 35% Commission. Lingerie, hosiery, lowest prices, free samples, bonuses. National Ready-to-Wear, 1123 Broadway, New York

Distributor in Each County, table sauce route, sell cafes, hotels, others. Joseph Brennan, 147 Stonewall St., Memphis, Tenn.

Sericea-Korean and Harbin Lespedeza Seeds. Low prices, samples, information. Write LUCAS FARMS, FRANKLIN, KENTUCKY.

The Magic Indicator locates buried money and mineral deposits. Guaranteed. Price $15.00. C. W. HORTON, Belle Rive, Ill.

BLACKMAN

STOCK and POULTRY Medicines are Reliable

- Blackman's Medicated Lick-A-Brik
- Blackman's Stock Powder
- Blackman's Cow Tonic
- Blackman's Char-Med-Sal (For Hogs)
- Blackman's Poultry Tablets
- Blackman's Poultry Powder

Highest Quality — Lowest Price

Satisfaction Guaranteed or your money back.

BUY FROM YOUR DEALER

BLACKMAN STOCK MEDICINE CO.
Chattanooga, Tenn.

★ DEEP-CUT HEAVY TREAD—MORE TRACTION . . .

★ SELF CLEANING . .

★ DOES NOT BUMP ON PAVED ROADS . . .

★ NO CHAINS NEEDED

★ A SIZE AND TYPE FOR YOUR CAR, TRUCK and TRACTOR . . . . .

THE New GROUND GRIP TIRE FOR EVERY FARM NEED

IF you have ever been stranded with your car, truck or tractor in mud or soft ground, you will welcome this new line of Firestone Ground Grip Tires. This big, heavy, extra rugged, specially designed tread that cleans itself, required 54% more rubber to give you traction without chains.

It will pull you through any muddy road or soft ground. This heavy traction tread is securely held to the Gum-Dipped cord body by the patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

See your nearest Firestone Service Store, Firestone Tire Dealer or Implement Dealer today! Equip your car, truck and tractor with these new, Super-Traction tires for more economical year-round service.

Remember! This heavy, Super-Traction tread is guaranteed not to loosen from the tire body under any conditions, and all other parts of the tire are fully guaranteed to give satisfaction in every respect.

Firestone EXTRA POWER BATTERY FOR 20% MORE POWER

Firestone SPARK PLUGS

For Quick Starts and Longer Mileage

Firestone AQUAPRUF BRAKE LINING

For Better and Safer Braking Control

Firestone FAN BELTS • Firestone RADIATOR HOSE

★★★★★ Listen to the Voice of Firestone—featuring Richard Crooks, Gladys Swarthout, or Nelson Eddy—every Monday night over N. B. C.—WEAF Network . . . . A Five Star Program

Firestone

© 1935, F. T. & R. Co

ERLICK'S

In Bessemer at 1914 2nd Avenue North.

This is a merchandising center which is offering the highest quality in ladies and childrens wearing apparel and notions of all kinds at reasonable prices and thus aiding all in this community by enabling them to keep well and fashionably attired in distinctive clothes at prices they can afford to pay. Truly a valued and reliable store.

When a store is able to satisfy the most exacting demands of all classes of people, then it must be acknowledged that it has reached an enviable position in its trade. Such is the case with this store, operated by one of the prominent firms of this section of the state. People of every class have found that clothes from this store are satisfactory in every particular, and made of the best materials. The most exclusive patterns and mixtures can be found in the complete lines. and if you prefer the most moderate priced of the tasteful and approved designs of the season they can be had at very reasonable prices.

BENNETT AND CARNES TIN SHOP

In Bessemer at 1925 3rd Avenue North.

No matter what problems you may have in these lines, all you have to do is to consult with them and they will be able to solve them for you to an advantage.

One feature of their services is the sheet metal work. Heating and ventilating installations, Skylights, Gutters, Tanks and Roofing. It will be well worth your time to consult them before deciding what you want.

They carry a stock at all times of everything used in the line, and you can go there and pick out what you want and see it before buying.

All of the other features of the trade are equally as well handled and every detail is given the most painstaking care. Honest and straightforward in business they are prominent in the commercial world of this scetion and we wish to recommend them to all of our readers who may be in need o fanything in this line.

The roofing department commands your attention at the present time as they have a complete line of the best in general roofing work.

EDWARD A. LING, Attorney

In Bessemer at 1813 1-2 3rd Avenue North.

In the hurly-burly of business. education and politics, represented by countless mercantile and manufacturing interests, by the city governors and by the schools, there is bound to be both friction and salve. The tempests are called forth and allayed. The part the lawyer plays in this drama is really of a soothing nature, although most people take the contrary view.

They insist that lawyers create contention. The constructive ability of such a legal light as one of the helpful influences which tend to make any city great. He is a lawyer in broad sympathy with the community's business development. That is what makes up the character of the builder, and a man does not need bricks and mortar to build well if he is willing to give the best that is in others. It is instructive and necessary to contemplate the activity of the leading business builders of the city of the quiet men who never carry a hod but who carry ideas in their head and strength of purpose in their hearts, and thus help to build a citadel which will withstand that which bricks and mortar never would.

Next Time You Come to Birmingham Stop at the HOTEL MOLTON

You'll Enjoy your Meals at the NEW MOLTON GRILL

YOU'LL like it here—the spacious, comfortable rooms—the considerate, attentive service—the quiet and restful atmosphere—the convenient location, just two blocks from the shopping district.

$1.50 a Day Up

W. J. SKELTON, Mgr.

The MOLTON BIRMINGHAM

Cement Bound Macadam

BUILT WITH LOCAL LABOR AND SIMPLE EQUIPMENT

● Now you can have low-cost paving on secondary roads built by local men who need work and with equipment already on hand. More road building dollars go into the actual job of building permanent roads.

Cement Bound Macadam is ideal for secondary roads. It gives taxpayers the most for their money:

In Motoring Comfort
Durability
Low Maintenance Costs

Cement Bound Macadam means permanent roads at their lowest cost per year!

Write the Cement Service Man for further information.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION
Hurt Building Atlanta, Ga.

85% to 90% of the money spent on Concrete Construction goes to Labor!

CALERA NEWS

The Unique Club held a business meeting, Thursday afternoon, April 4th from 3 to 5, at the home of Mrs. Peterson, with Mrs. Guy Roberts, as joint hostess. After the business session, "America" was sung. Mrs. Arthur Seale was in charge of the social hour. Mrs. R. B. Luther gave an interesting reading on the life of Miss Ann Earl Wheeler. Miss Lucy Norwood gave a reading on the life of Helen Keller which was enjoyed very much. The home was decorated in white and blue Iris. Easter motives was used in the plate luncheon. Nineteen members were present.

Misses Marie and Lurline Benson were the week-end guests of relatives in Jemison.

Miss Kathleen Blackerby, of Dargin, spent the week-end with Miss Mary Thomas.

Mrs. Mary Burnell, of Ensley, visited Mr. and Mrs. Arch Maynard last week.

Mrs. Dora Boley is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Boley in Boothton, this week.

Mrs. Guy Roberts and Mrs. Cecil Cowart motored to Birmingham, Wednesday.

Mrs. Ira Mitchell and children, were the dinner guests of Mrs. Richard Parker, Wednesday.

Mr. Clayton Wallace spent Monday in Selma, Alabama. Mr. Wallace was elected Secretary and Treasurer of the Star Route Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake announce the arrival of a son April 1, 1935, whom they have named Charles Edward Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parker and family, spent the week-end in Talladega County.

Mrs. B. F. Jarvis spent a few days in Shelby this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Warren and son, are visiting in Sixmile.

Mrs. W. A. Reynolds and Mrs. Percy Pitts, of Clanton; Mrs. Sam Bock, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Guy Roberts, of Calera, motored to Atlanta, Tuesday.

Mrs. Sidney Dubose and Mrs. McClanahan, spent Friday in Birmingham, Alabama.

Mrs. Marion Jones, Marion Jr., and Martha Jones, were the guests of Mrs. Jap Ingram, in Spring Creek, Sunday.

Mrs. Len Cochran and son are in Selma for a few days.

Miss Mary Lou Pilgreen and Miss Ann George, spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fishburn and family, of College Grove, Tenn., have moved into the McKibbon apartments.

Miss Bertie Scott spent Saturday with relatives in Dargin.

Mr. J. O. Phillips and daughter, Louise, of Selma, were the guests of relatives here this week-end.

Miss Lula Killingsworth spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. John Doyle was in Birmingham, Thursday, on business.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bowdon, Sr., Misses Margaret Kate and Lucy Bailey Bowdon, spent Saturday in Birmingham.

We want to thank our many friends for their kindness during our sorrow. Little Jewel budded on earth to bloom in heaven. (Signed)
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin.

Miss Nora Marshall is visiting relatives in Birmingham this week.

Mrs. Charlie O'Neal motored to Birmingham, Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Haddock entertained the deacons and their wives of his church with a dinner, Monday evening, April 1st. A neatly wrapped package at each plate was opened and the surprise was April Fool.

Mr. F. Shoemaker and Mr. Edgar Rickard have returned from a visit in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Holcombe and daughter, Lucy Gene, motored to Birmingham, Wednesday.

Mr. J. E. Wallace is visiting in Sixmile this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boley and son, of Gardendale, spent the week-end with Mrs. C. B. Gardner.

Mrs. Joe Jeffers, of Birmingham, is visiting Mrs. Zollie Cowart this week.

Mrs. R. B. Luther was the guest of relatives in Birmingham this week.

Mr. Chester Crim was in Birmingham, Sunday, visiting friends and relatives.

Make Arrangements Now To Dine At

Curlee's Cafe

Columbiana, Ala.

Here the food is always delicious and satisfying.. Prices are extremely reasonable and the service is gracious and cordial. Menus are prepared for your convenience—be it a quick luncheonette, a dinner, or a special banquet—Curlee's culinary department is adequately prepared to serve you.

Come in and try one of our Special Sunday Dinners served from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

We Appreciate Your Patronage.

BESSEMER GENERAL HOSPITAL

In Bessemer at 1710 3rd Avenue North.

The very finest of equipment, careful nursing and the most able professional service is a feature of this hospital, featuring a general service. They are also prepared to take care of emergency cases.

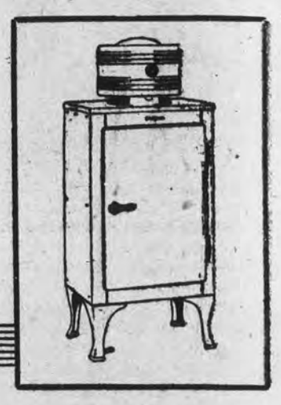
There is nothing more important to the onward progress of our community than a service of this kind presided over by those who have made a special study of the needs of the afflicted—those who are unfortunate because of physical defects. They give most patient service here.

The management is to be commended upon devoting their lives to the work which is so much needed to make everyone fit to be a Spartan. The change in the methods from the olden times is well illustrated in the work of this hospital which typifies modern civilization.

This well known hospital, occupies commodious quarters, is excellently appointed and most modernly equipped.

The rooms are well furnished and pleasant in every way. Cheerfulness and an air of hope are inspired by the furnishings which have been selected by the decorators with this idea in view.

They give all patients a thorough examination and during treatment they are cared for by nurses who are able, painstaking and follow the direction of the advisory departments.



Electricity Is CHEAP In Alabama!

YOU bet your Household Budget will reach lots further when you get that Electric Refrigerator!

Why? Because you can buy a whole week's food supply at bargain-day prices, and save left-overs for another meal.

Spring Sale Now In Progress!

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Electricity Is CHEAP In Alabama!

Get Ready For The Easter Parade At The LEADER!

We are getting ready to serve your needs better by a complete remodeling of our store. The painters and carpenters are at work making your store a better and brighter place to trade. For the next ten days we are offering you our best merchandise at greatly reduced prices. Come in and get acquainted with our new store.

Piece Goods SPECIALS

1000 yards Pure Dye Everfast Gingham - formerly sold for 50c per yard--Special price---Per Yard 15c

Fast Color Pique---All colors---Per yard 25c

Permanent Finished Organdy---pastel and solid colors, yd. 35c

Silk Dresses

Beautiful New Silk Crepe Dresses just arrived for Easter Wear---at .... $3.95 to $6.95

Cotton Dresses

New washable Summer Dresses for hot weather wear---in all materials---priced ..... 49c up

Easter Shoes

ALL WHITE IS ALL RIGHT.

It's going to be a white season. Thats why we bought stunning models in white shoes that we are now ready to show you-----

$1.95 - $2.45 - $2.95

HOSE! HOSE! HOSE!

Humming Bird Ringless Hose to match your new Spring Shoes---per pair $1.00

SPECIAL for men --- NEW EASTER HATS---we guarantee to match your suit in our new line of Hats for only 69c

Easter Hats

The most important part of your Easter outfit is your Easter Hat. Rough Straws are leading. Colors: Navy, Brown, Black, White and Pastels. Off face and sailors. Priced $1.00 to $1.95

Men! Men!

Don't forget your Easter outfit. New Spring Suits, belted back and all new Easter features. Priced $7.45 - $8.45 - $12.95 and $16.50.

Columbiana Leader

THE BUSY CORNER MAX LEFKOVITS

Alabama's Most Distinctive Weekly

The Shelby County Democrat

Single Copy Five Cents — "THE VOICE OF DEMOCRACY" — Subscription: $1.00 Per Year

Shelby County's Leading Newspaper

VOLUME FOUR — COLUMBIANA, ALABAMA, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1935 — NUMBER ONE

HARDWARE STORE IS NEW BUSINESS IN COLUMBIANA

Columbiana business section is constantly growing, and better business conditions in this section warrant new enterprises to locate in Shelby County. The latest acquisition to the down town section of the up-to-the-minute stores, is Columbiana Hardware Company.

Today, Thursday, April 18, 1935, citizens of Shelby County are invited to visit the latest, modernly constructed and lighted hardware store in Columbiana. They will be cordially welcomed by the popular and efficient Manager, J. R. Jones, formerly of Clanton, Alabama. Mr. Jones has had 15 years experience in the Hardware business, and his stock of goods is complete with shelf hardware and all the latest improved farming implements.

To many interested patrons of the Better Housing projects now in progress in Shelby County, the writer states that all building materials needed for remodeling your homes can be bought from this enterprising firm.

The owner of this new store is Luther E. Little, County Superintendent of Education of Chilton County. If you have not met J. W. Jones, Manager, pay him a visit in his store today. You will find him to be a good business man with an eagerness to please his patrons that is refreshing.

The Democrat extends to Manager Jones a hearty welcome to Columbiana. His new store is a credit to the entire county, and adequately fills a long felt need in this community.

Rulings Given By Attorney General

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Atty. Gen. Albert Carmichael has ruled that a County Board of Education may pay part of the salary of the farm demonstration agent in its county.

The opinion was addressed to Dr. J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, who stated that the Marion County Board of Education planned to make an appropriation to pay part of the county agent's salary if the step was legal.

The attorney general held that the county board could spend funds to "best promote the cause of education".

"The fact that the farm demonstration agent is a part of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute indicates clearly that his work is looked upon in this state as being 'educational,'" the attorney general said, "and in fact that he might well be considered part of our educational system."

In a second decision, Carmichael ruled that claims against a county must be presented for payment within 12 months after their accrual except claims of minors and persons of unsound mind. These two classes of persons have 12 months to present their claims after the removal of their disability to present claims.

Bill To Control Cost of Gasoline Is Drawn

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Representative A. L. Hanks, of Talladega, has drawn a bill designed to stabilize the price of gasoline and keep it at a uniform rate over the state.

Under Hanks' bill a basic price would be set, including the present 6-cent tax per gallon, and for each cent prices were increased over the base a cent of tax would be added.

The Talladega legislator contends the additional tax would absorb the increase in prices and would have a tendency to keep any companies from going above the base price.

"When prices rise above the basis fixed in the bill," Hanks explained, "a 1-cent per gallon tax will automatically go in effect on each 1-cent rise above the basis."

COMMUNITY NIGHT AT PELHAM, APRIL 20TH

PELHAM, Ala.—The Pelham P.-T. A. is sponsoring Community Night at the Pelham school on April 20th. Interesting speakers will speak on "Equal Opportunities For All Children". Music by local talent.

(Signed) Program Committee.

Montevallo, Bessemer After New Highway

BESSEMER, Ala.—The Bessemer Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution at its meeting last week "favoring the most direct and feasible route connecting Bessemer with Montevallo and the Bee Line Highway, and also agreed to cooperate with the Montevallo committee in asking the highway department to take steps at once looking toward the construction of this highway."

Bessemer service clubs also endorsed the resolution, and committees from each will join with the city and Chamber of Commerce in promoting the movement for the highway.

SILURIA BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY 3 GAMES THIS WEEK

SILURIA, Ala.—Shelby County Baseball fans will find plenty of entertainment this week on the beautiful Siluria diamond when the Buck Creek Cotton Mills team meets Birmingham Southern College on Thursday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock—on Saturday afternoon, the Troy State Teacher's College aggregation will try their luck with the Buck Creek Cotton Mill Baseball nine, and on Sunday afternoon, the fast team from Oneonta will attempt to top score against the Siluria aggregation.

All games will be played at 3:00 P. M., and 10, 15, and 25 cents will be the admission charge.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

GIRLS CAMP DATE IS ANNOUNCED BY DIRECTOR STECKEL

MONTEVALLO, Ala.—The Annual Camp for Girls at Alabama will be held from July 22 to August 17, according to announcement of Dr. Minnie L. Steckel, director, and indications are that an unusually large group of girls from all sections of the State will attend this year.

Three camp scholarships are to be awarded to outstanding girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years. The scholarships cover camp expenses for two weeks except transportation and personal expenses. The winners will be selected by a special scholarship committee, and applications and references should be forwarded to the Camp for Girls, Alabama College, Montevallo, Alabama.

Winners in the past have been Misses Marie Stover, Morgan County; Elizabeth Taylor, Shelby County; Martha Witt Burleson, Morgan County; Edith Mann, Calhoun County; Irene Reid, Jefferson County; Myrtis Jenkins, Chambers County; and Mary Martin, Calhoun County.

SILURIA WINS OVER COLUMBIANA 8 TO 4

On Thursday, April 11th, in a game marked by ragged playing in the first two innings on the part of Columbiana, Siluria won 8 to 4.

Blankenship, who finished the last seven innings for Columbiana, pitched a very fine game, giving up only two hits and one run.

Score by innings:		R.	H.	E.
Siluria	304 001 000	8	4	3
Columbiana	200 000 011	4	7	3

Batteries: Siluria—Davidson and Mullins; Columbiana—Hill, Blankenship and Lowery.

COUNTY SINGERS MEET AT BETHEL

BETHEL, Ala.—The regular meeting of the Shelby County Singers will meet at Bethel church next Sunday p. m. at 1:30 and sing throughout the afternoon. Some good leaders are expected, and a good quartette. A meeting of the representatives of the singing school fund will meet immediately after the singing to close some business unattended. Everyone is invited. L. M. Lyon.

Norman Lefkovits, L. B. Riddle, Jr., Mr. Beakner and George Richardson, attended the Isham Jones dance in Birmingham, Monday night.

8 LOCAL GIRLS WIN PRIZES AT MEETING IN MONTEVALLO

At a recent Inter-State High School meeting held in Montevallo, Alabama, Shelby County High School representatives came through with flying colors. The following students won laurels for themselves and for the school:

From the Music Department, Miss Beatrice Looney won a $50.00 scholarship in Voice.

From the Home Economics Department, capably directed by Miss Mildred Meroney, the following students were awarded prizes:

Vinnie Mae Lyon, Home Project; Lanace Curlee, School Costume; Kathleen Mooney, Personal account Book and Budget; Marene Edmondson, Child Care and Training; Helen Ray, Personal Account Book; Avis Payne and Mary Nell Gardner, Home Care of the Sick.

The department as a whole was awarded second place in the State in group B.

UNDERSIGNED WILL CLOSE AT NOON ON EVERY THURSDAY

The following merchants and business men of Columbiana have agreed to take a half-holiday each Thursday beginning Thursday, May 2, and ending Thursday, August 29:

Columbiana Savings Bank, A. P. McGhee, City Market, Grady's 5 and 10c Store, Gulf Service Station, Columbiana Produce Company, Sumter Farm & Stock Company, Baker's Service Station, Homer J. Walton, O. K. Barber Shop, J. C. Tinney Pressing Shop, Sanitary Barber Shop, Alabama Power Company, J. L. Brand Shoe Shop, Gordon & White Real Estate & Insurance Company, Columbiana Cash Store, Columbiana Hardware Company, Knox Wooley Motor Co., Inc., T. R. Walton, Horn Chevrolet Company, The Shelby County Democrat, Baker's Cash Store, Columbiana Leader and L. P. Dycus Service Station.

FARM AGENTS FOR STATE SALES TAX

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—A general sales tax for Alabama was unanimously endorsed at a meeting of county farm agents, representatives of the Alabama Farm Bureau, and officials of the farm extension service at a meeting here April 12th.

The endorsement was given at a meeting in the Exchange Hotel where the farm agents and farm extension service officials met to outline their needs for the coming year to the recess finance and taxation and agricultural committees.

During the hearing, at which $220,000 a year for four years was asked for farm work, Rep. John C. Coleman, of Marshall County, asked, "How many of you are for a sales tax?"

Milk Producers Vote On Legislative Act

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—More than 100 Alabama milk producers last Friday unanimously voted to call on the Legislature for the enactment of a state milk control board act to regulate price and production of milk.

A bill to carry the plan into action was read before the producers last Friday as they assembled in the House of Representatives Hall at the call of R. J. Goode, state commissioner of agriculture.

"The board will fix the price of fluid milk paid to the producer," Goode said, "and the price charged by the distributor to the ultimate consumer. It also will regulate production by creation of a system of milksheds over the state."

The producers named a committee of five to present the measure to the Legislature when it reconvenes April 30, and sponsor its passage through House and Senate.

Members of the committee are Kenneth Harper, Selma, chairman; C. E. Massey, Anniston; J. Frank Baker, Montevallo; W. E. Regan, Mobile, and H. H. Bailey, Morris.

MRS. M. W. DURDEN DIES AT HER HOME, FRIDAY, APRIL 12

LONGVIEW, Ala.—Mrs. Mary Wilson Durden, age 71, died at her home near Longview early Friday morning, April 12th, after only a brief illness.

Mrs. Durden was born and reared in Shelby County and was a life long member of Camp Branch Methodist Church. Her loyal and sacrificial service characterized her love of her church and community. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sevien Wilson, who were pioneer citizens of Shelby County.

Funeral services were conducted from the residence Saturday afternoon, by the Rev. W. L. Thompson, T. M. Wynn, and B. F. Miller. Interment in the Nabors Cemetery in Longview.

Surviving are her husband, W. M. Durden; one son, Wilson Durden; two sisters, Mrs. Mattie Dean, of Birmingham, and Mrs. W. J. Florey, of Vincent, Ala., and a number of nieces and nephews.

Pall Bearers were: Walter Wilson, George L. Scott, Jr., Dewey Dean, Wallace Cox, J. L. Teele, John Durden, Rufus Durden and John Kroell.

NEGRO MINISTREL SET FOR APRIL 20, MT. ERA

MT. ERA, Ala.—There will be a Negro Ministrel at Mt. Era School house on next Saturday night, April 20th, 1935. Come along and get a face full of fun. Admission 10 and 15 cents. Proceeds for Piano and Baseball Club. (Signed) Clyde Moore.

MARKETS CAN USE 5 MILLION BUSHELS OF ALABAMA CORN

AUBURN, Ala.—By growing the proper kind of corn, Alabama farmers can find an annual market within the state and in nearby cities of the southeast for 5,000,000 bushels of Alabama-grown corn, reports J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

"Birmingham manufacturers of meal, grits, and feeds will use around 2,000,000 bushels of corn of the proper grade," he says. "White corn constitutes 1,500,000 and yellow 500,000 bushels of this requirement. Mobile and other cities and towns will use a considerable quantity.

"Those farmers expecting to sell corn on these markets should endeavor to prevent crossing of white varieties with yellow varieties. Manufacturers are finding it impossible in many instances to use Alabama-grown corn in the manufacture of meal and grits because of mixed colors.

"White corn and yellow corn should be planted at widely different dates so that there will be no danger of cross-pollination, or farmers should grow only corn of one color.

"A little care in planting and in selection of varieties will prevent mixing of colors, permit the grower to comply with U. S. Standards for corn, and further develop a market for Alabama-grown corn. Those farmers expecting to grow corn for sale will find it desirable to discuss varieties with their county agent."

RECORDS ARE KEPT BY ALA. FARMERS

AUBURN, Ala. — Farm record books are now being furnished by county agents to all signers of cotton, corn-hog, and peanut reduction throughout the State.

The books furnish a convenient means by which farmers record all items of income and expense and keep an accurate check on the profit or loss of various crops.

The accurate information kept in these books provides the farmer with essential and valuable information for transactions with local banks and with the federal farm credit agencies.

Keeping of the AAA farm record books, a standard 4-H project in Alabama, has been adopted already by boys and girls in several counties. About 300 club members in Calhoun County, according to County Agent S. R. Doughty, have enrolled in the project and are assisting their fathers in keeping the farm records.

STATE SCHOOLS GIVEN $11,900,000 IN COMPROMISE

Registered Jan Chandler 7-6-85

AN EASTER CANTATA TO BE HELD HERE SUNDAY

An Easter Cantata, "Life Eternal" will be presented at the Methodist Church on next Sunday night at 7:30, to which the public is cordially invited. Mrs. J. L. Davis is Director, and in addition to the Cantata, several Marimba and Violin solos will be played by Mrs. Purnie Hendricks, Mrs. Sam Lokey and Mrs. Tom Taylor.

MARTHA A. MINER CALLED BY DEATH TUESDAY, APRIL 9

BLUE SPRINGS, Ala.—On Tuesday, April 9th, Mrs. Martha Miner's beautiful spirit left its earthly dwelling place and passed into the land beyond. She had been an invalid for several years but was uncomplaining and bore her suffering with fortitude and unsurpassed courage.

She was born March 15, 1847, and was converted and joined the Methodist Church at an early age. We are made sad to part from her, but our loss is her heavenly gain. Her death leaves a vacancy in the community as well as the home that cannot be filled. Her lovable Christian character, sweet disposition and unselfish consideration for others, won for her many friends.

The influence of her life will linger in our hearts through the years and we will cherish her memory and strive to emulate the beauty and purity of her character.

The funeral service was held at the Blue Springs Church and conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Doyce Mitchell, assisted by the Rev. B. F. Dykes. Interment was made in the Fourmile Cemetery, with Walton in charge.

She leaves seven children, four boys and three girls—W. H., W. N., and S. S. Miner, of Wilsonville, and B. Miner, of Montgomery; Mrs. A. Lyon, Mrs. Oma Merrell and Mrs. Alma Reynolds, of Wilsonville; Eighteen grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends. (Signed)

Irene Reynolds, her grandaughter.

COTTONSEED MEAL GAINING IN FAVOR

AUBURN, Ala. — With county agents arranging and conducting feeding demonstrations in cooperation with farmers, cottonseed meal is gaining in favor among Alabama farmers as a feed for work animals, both horses and mules. They are following instructions given by Prof. J. C. Grimes, of the animal husbandry division of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Three good reasons are named by Mr. Grimes as to why this should be done. They are:

1. Cottonseed meal, up to two pounds per day, is a good feed for horses and mules. Experiments and many feeding tests have proven this to be true.

2. Cottonseed meal is an Alabama product. It is a southern product; and the South is an area which does not produce enough feed if cottonseed meal is not included.

3. Most southern farmers can save money by feeding a limited amount of cottonseed meal to their work animals. They also gain by consuming a product which they produce.

SUMMER THINNINGS DAMAGES WOODLANDS

AUBURN, Ala. — Thinning of woodlands should discontinue at this season of the year as there is danger of an insect infestation in the freshly cut material, advises D. J. Weddell, assistant professor of forestry of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"The only improvement cutting recommended for the summer months is the removal of injured or storm-lamaged trees," he says.

APPROPRIATION IS $1,869,853 INCREASE OVER '34-35 FIGURE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 18.—Alabama's elementary and high schools will get an additional appropriation of $1,869,853 next year under an agreement between educational leaders and members of the legislative finance committee which had been approved April 12 by Governor Graves.

The long deadlock between educational forces and the committee was ended April 11 just before the governor left for Washington to seek prompt release of Alabama's share of the Federal Government's $4,880,000,000 work-relief fund.

Present when the compromise was reached were the governor, J. A. Keller, superintendent of education, and Rep. Clint Harrison of Marengo, vice-chairman of the fiscal committee.

To Offer Solid Front

Governor Graves declared a "solid front" would be presented when the compromise is laid before the Legislature for approval early next month.

Dr. Keller said the agreement was "definite and satisfactory," and Chairman Shelby Fletcher and other members of the recess committee promptly announced approval of the compromise.

While no figures were announced by any of the conferees it was definitely established that the increase agreed on was $1,869,853. This will bring the total appropriation for public schools to approximately $11,900,000, as compared to the $14,149,589 sought in the "minimum" program of the educational department.

Governor Graves expressed belief that the program agreed on would carry out his pledge to provide a minimum school term of seven months in every county.

Bans Sales Tax Threat

Educational leaders declared their campaign for the "minimum program,, would go on, but the April 12 agreement definitely removed the threat of a general sales tax at the coming legislative session.

The educational forces, emphasizing that the appropriation fixed in the compromise is for next year only, plan to drive for additional school funds at the special session expected to be held next year.

Under the terms of the compromise the schools will receive $8,600,000 a year for teachers' salaries and $1 253,300 for transportation expense. These are substantially the amounts asked under the educational department's "minimum" program.

Annual expenditures for capital outlay are fixed at $402,000—$6000 for each of the 67 counties. The educational department had requested $1,100,246.

For operating expenses, general control, supplies and fixed charges an appropriation of $1,410,470 is provided for next year—a reduction of $907,427 from the $2,317 897 sought by the educational department.

To Pay In Full

Members of the recess committee emphasized that revenue will be provided to pay the compromise appropriations in full, whereas during the last few years the schools have been receiving only a part of the appropriations voted by the Legislature.

The appropriation agreed on is $369,853 more than the $1,500,000 originally offered the schools by the recess committee. Approximately $230,000 of the increase will go for vocational education.

Predictions were freely made that the Legislature would ratify the compromise without delay when it reconvenes. However, Rep. J. E. Hendley, of the recess educational group, declared the fight for the entire "minimum" program would be waged vigorously at the "expected special session."

The general appropriation bill will be revised by the fiscal committee early next week in accordance with the agreement reached as a result of the April 12 conference.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Prime Ministers of Three Nations Confer at Stresa—President Roosevelt, Busy With Work Relief Program, Prods Congress.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

©, Western Newspaper Union.

SIX of Europe's foremost statesmen, with experts and secretaries, solemnly considered peace plans and security pacts on Isola Bella, a lovely little island in Lake Maggiore off Stresa, Italy. The conference was momentous, but it was of an "exploratory" nature, and no definite results were expected. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, representing Great Britain, were willing to carry out that nation's military obligations under the Locarno treaty but balked at further commitment in continental affairs.

Premier Flandin

Anyhow, they had promised to enter into no new agreements without the consent of parliament, which cannot be consulted until after the Easter holidays. Premier Flandin and Foreign Minister Laval of France sought to persuade England to line up with France and Russia rather than with Germany, and they presented as one argument a new mutual assistance pact they had just signed with Russia. Premier Mussolini, solemn and pessimistic, handled matters for Italy with the help of Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary of foreign affairs. He had already warned the world that the issue of war or peace probably could not be settled at Stresa.

Of course, the chief question was the attitude of other nations toward the constantly growing Pan-Germanism of the reich under Hitler, and the first concrete problem taken up was France's appeal to the League of Nations against Germany's repudiation of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty. Mussolini and MacDonald were inclined to accept Hitler's rearmament if there could be an agreement against further military expansion, but Flandin stood in opposition. The Italians urged a three-power alliance for protection against Germany, but England objected and France was uncertain. All three nations rather favored the rearmament of Austria, Bulgaria and Hungary, and the Danube pact which Italy especially has been promoting.

MUSSOLINI'S pessimistic frame of mind was illustrated by an announcement in his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, that Italy would keep 600,000 men under arms "until the horizon is well cleared, and give them all modern weapons." Both the Italians and the French are convinced that Germany is maliciously stirring up the troubles that confront them in northern Africa with the purpose of weakening their position in Europe. This matter was discussed privately by some of the participants in the Stresa meeting.

THE new mutual assistance agreement reached by France and Russia was at first supposed to be merely an agreement on sanctions to be taken against an aggressor once the latter has been determined by the League of Nations. But Paris correspondents assert that it is in effect a military alliance such as Russia had been urging on France and that in certain cases the signatories will determine for themselves who is the aggressor, without waiting for word from Geneva. The agreement is, of course, directed primarily against Germany. It is believed in Paris that Russia will soon conclude similar alliance with Czechoslovakia and the Baltic states, thus completing a steel ring around Germany's land frontiers. This agreement is still subject to alteration and final approval.

That Russia still seeks "to maintain and strengthen the general peace" was shown by the signing of a Russo-German trade treaty which it is believed will greatly increase the volume of Russia's orders in the reich. Under this accord the Soviet will increase purchases in Germany by 200,000,000 marks (about $80,000,000), a banking consortium headed by the Deutsche Bank and Discount Gesellschaft and the Dresdner bank to grant import credits for an average term of five years. The credits will bear interest at the discount rate of the reichsbank plus 2 per cent. The Russian trade delegation is thereby enabled to pay cash for orders placed with German firms.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made by the government that it had uncovered extensive frauds in the immigration and naturalization service from 1923 to 1933, and steps were taken for the ousting of a number of employees and for criminal prosecutions. It was estimated that a ring of bribe takers and fixers had received as much as a million dollars from persons illegally entering the country.

"Revelations so startling in character have come to light that investigators believe the actual extent of corruption and fraud has been but partially disclosed," said a statement issued by the Labor department after a secret investigation of alleged frauds in the New York district.

"Sums ranging up to $100 are alleged to have been paid in cases involving false witnesses or passing of an applicant who had failed in his test of knowledge of the government or his ability to speak English.

"It is alleged that fees ranging from $300 to $1,200 were levied in cases involving fraudulent or altered manifest records, where it was desirable to obtain a record that would safeguard an alien from deportation or procure citizenship status by showing his legal admission at the port of New York for permanent residence."

NEW dust storms, the worst of the destructive series, swept over Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas, completing the virtual ruin of the wheat crop and causing great losses and suffering among live stock. Schools and shops were closed, airplanes grounded and train and bus schedules disrupted. Some regions were being abandoned by all inhabitants.

A delegation of senators and representatives from four of the stricken states called on President Roosevelt and asked him to earmark $150,000,000 for a land program for the next two years. He did not indicate what amount would be allocated, but was said by the delegation to have given assurance that he would permit the expenditure of all the money that was necessary.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, deeply tanned and in good physical condition, was landed at Jacksonville, Fla., by the destroyer Farragut and started immediately for New York, to attend the funeral of his cousin, Warren Delano Robbins, after which he returned to Washington. Aboard his special train the President read through the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill as it was finally passed by both houses of congress, called for pen and ink and appended his signature to the largest appropriation measure ever enacted by congress. There were some features of it, agreed upon in the senate and house conference, which he did not like, but he said those who had studied it recommended its approval.

Harry Hopkins

The President at once signed two allocations from the amount appropriated. The first was $125,000,000 to the administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief administratoin, in order that relief might not stop. The second was $30,000,000 for continuation of the emergency conservation work.

In Washington the Republicans and some others discussed with dissatisfaction the probability that Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, would be the President's chief assistant in carrying out the vast work relief program.

"It is extremely fortunate for Mr. Hopkins that, if he is going to be the lord high distributor of the money, the bill is so drawn that he won't have to be confirmed by the senate," said Senator Vandenberg of Michigan.

Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader in the house, declared it was "a sad commentary that a man like Hopkins," who had termed critics of work-relief methods "d—n dumb," should "appear to be in line to be clothed with extraordinary grants of power over the greatest sum of money ever appropriated."

IN HIS first post-vacation conference with congressional leaders, President Roosevelt disregarded their fears of a prolonged session and insisted on enactment of his legislative program. Especially he wants legislation dealing with extension of the NRA, social security, utilities holding companies, extension of federal authority over banking, ship subsidy readjustment and extension of $416,000,000 in nuisance taxes.

Later the President conferred with Senator Joe Robinson, who said both of them felt that very satisfactory progress is being made. To the correspondent Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped to have the work relief program at its peak by the middle of November, at which time 3,500,000 unemployed should be at work under its terms. He indicated this program would be carried out as far as possible by existing governmental agencies. He will seek to avoid moving workers from one area to another, and will take care of as many "white collar" workers as possible.

The social security bill finally was produced on the floor of the house of representatives. There were several blocs against it in its form as reported. These included representatives who want higher unemployment and old age payments; members from the poorer states, who want the federal government to bear the entire cost of the program, with the states relieved of any contribution, and the conservatives, who are opposed to the "government going into the insurance business" and exacting a pay roll tax during the depression.

SEEN and HEARD around the National Capital

By CARTER FIELD

Washington.—Holding back a threatened epidemic of strikes until union labor leaders can get what they want in Washington in the way of legislation is proving a difficult task for William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and his lieutenants. In Akron the rubber company employees are chafing at the bit. So it is in a hundred other lines.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, had less difficulty with his union. He wants, as Green does, to hold back the strikes, but he set the obvious goal of June 16, which is the date the law creating NRA expires.

Green, Lewis, and all their friends here have the same object. If the administration proves too lukewarm on the things they want, they can lay the pending strike situation on the White House doorstep. President Roosevelt will then be faced with the apparent alternative of giving in, or of precipitating so many strikes that a terrific blow will be dealt returning prosperity.

The importance of this to the President can be realized only by examining the political prospects. Next year the President, all of the house, and a third of the senate come up for re-election. In short, the New Deal goes on trial before the country. Already there is the serious threat of a third party, growing out of the doctrines being preached over the radio by Huey Long, Father Coughlin, etc. The President is perfectly familiar with this, but relies on attracting enough conservatives to his own support to win, and win easily.

